berries, $1.80 to $2.45, according to brand; blackberries, $1.90 to $2.20; cherries, $2.40 to $2.45; apples, 3's, 90c to $1, gallons, $2.25 to 2.40, and preserved fancy quarters at $1.35 to $1.40; salmon, new pack, $1.35 to $1.40, in tall tins; cohoes, $1.15 to $1.20; canned mac-kel, $1 to $1.10; new lobsters, $1.80 to $1.85 for tall tins; flats, $2.35 to $2.40; half tins, $1.35. Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.65 to $1.75; 2's, $2.65 to $2.75; 6's, $8 to $8.25; 14's, $18 to $19. Chicago canned beef, 1's, $1.75 per dozen; 2's, $2.85. Australian mutton, boiled, 2 lb. cans, $3.40; ditto, corned and roast, $3.75.

COFFEE.

A fairly active trade is reported in green coffees at former quotations. We quote green in bags as follows: Rio (new season), 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22½c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracaibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

RICE.

Business continues to be of a moderate character at unchanged prices. We quote: "B," 3½ to 3¾c.; extra Japan, 5¼ to 5¾c.; imported Japan, 5¼ to 6¼c.; tapioca, pearl, 3½ to 5½c.

SPICES.

Cream of tartar is higher by about 4c. per lb. in the primary markets. Local spice trade continues fairly good. We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, 22 to 25c. per lb.

NUTS.

Trade remains much as before. We quote: Brazil nuts, 11 to 11½c.; Sicily shelled almonds, 25 to 26c.; Tarragona almonds, 14 to 14½c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted, and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack;

Grenoble walnuts, 14 to 15c.; Marbot walnuts, 10 to 12c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 12 to 13c.; Sicily filberts, 9 to 10c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; pecans, 10½ to 11c.

SUGAR.

The outside markets are decidedly firmer. In London on Monday beets advanced 3d., and in New York raws advanced 1-16 to ¼c., and granulated was firmer. Locally there is a better feeling in sympathy, and more enquiries are being made by wholesalers, who in turn are experiencing a little better demand. They report some enquiry for carload lots. There are indications that buyers' stocks are at a low ebb. Prices are unchanged locally. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, 4 to 4½c.; do., No. 2, 3¾c.; yellows, 3½ to 3¾c.

SYRUPS.

Nothing new has developed, business still being quiet and prices unchanged. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.; bright, 40 to 42c.

MOLASSES.

Business in syrups is still light. We quote: New Orleans, barrels, 30 to 32c.; half-bbls., 33½ to 35c.; Barbadoes, barrels, 31 to 35c.; half-barrels, 33 to 37c.

TEAS.

The movement in teas is a little better than it was. This remark applies to teas generally. There has been a somewhat unlooked for advance of about one farthing in low grade Ceylon teas on the London market, and all grades of this growth of teas are firmer. Both Japan and China teas remain firm. We quote ruling prices to retailers: Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 35 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 16 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades.

DRIED FRUITS.

Second shipments of new season's Valencias arrived this week, and there is a fairly good demand for them. We quote slightly lower prices. New fruit, fine off-stalk, 5½ to 6c.; old fruit, off-stalk, 3 to 3¼c.; layers, 4 to 5c.

Currants continue fairly active. New season's fruit is expected to arrive here about the end of the month. We quote as before: Filatras, half-bbbs., 4 to 4½c., bbbs., 4¼c.; fine Filatras, half-bbbs., 4¾c., bbbs., 4¾c.; Patras, 5½c., in cases; Casalinas, 4½ to 5¾c.; Vostizzas, 6½ to 7c. in cases and half-cases.

Prunes are quiet and unchanged. We quote: Bosnias at 6 to 7c., and Bordeaux at 4½ to 6½c.; California prunes, 9c.

California dried fruits are steady, but there is no demand. We quote: Apricots and peaches, 12½ to 13½c. per lb., new apricots, 15c.; nectarines, 13½c.; pitted plums, 12½ to 13c.

Sultana raisins are quiet and unchanged at 5½ to 8c.

Figs are dull and nominally unchanged. We quote: 14 oz., 8 to 9c.; 10 lb., 8 to 10c.; 18 lb., 12c.; 28 lb., 15c.; taps, 3½ to 4c.; naturals, 4½ to 5c.

Dates are dull and unchanged at 4¼c. up.

GREEN FRUIT.

An extensive trade continues to be done, but there is no very marked feature of the market to be noted. Lemons are higher than last week, and bananas firmer at old quotations. Sorrento oranges are plentiful enough to supply the demand, but there are few California seedlings to be had, and all other lines are altogether off the market.

California pears and plums are over for the season, and California peaches are also just about done. The few Canadian Crawfords grown this fall are already nearly done, and Michigan peaches are coming in in large quantities to fill the resulting vacuum, no Delawares being offered any more. Apples, grapes and tomatoes are a little cheaper. Apples will be cheaper yet. We quote prices: Lemons—Sorrento, Palermo and Verdilla, $8 per case. Oranges—California seedlings, $3.50 to $4; Sorrento, $3.75 to $4. Bananas, $1 to $1.50; cocoanuts, $3.50 to $4 a sack; cucumbers, Canadian, 15c. per basket; new cabbage, 75c. to $1 per bbl.; Canadian tomatoes, 15 to 25c. per basket. Green California fruit—Peaches, $1.40 to $1.75 in boxes; green apples, $1 to $1.75 a barrel; watermelons, 15 to 20c. each; muskmelons, 35 to 40c. per basket; grapes, 3½ to 4¼c. per pound; Canadian Crawford peaches, $1.25 to $1.65 per basket; Michigan peaches, 45 to 50c. in 10 lb. baskets, and $1.50 to $2 in bushel baskets; Canadian Bartlett pears, 75 to 90c. per basket; other grades, 30 to 60c.; Spanish onions, $1 per small crate; Portugal onions, $3 per large crate.

BUTTER, CHEESE AND EGGS.

BUTTER—The demand for first qualities of butter continues good, but inferior and medium grades are accumulating on the market. Last week's prices ruled good still. We quote: Old summer dairy and store packed, 7 to 9c.; fresh prints, 16 to 17c.; fresh tubs, 15 to 16c. Fresh creamery—Tubs, 18 to 19c.; pound prints, 21 to 22c.

CHEESE—The attack on Canadian cheese in England has as yet had little effect, and the situation is unchanged, no export trade of any account being done. Buyers have been offering 7½c. for August Canadian makes, and 8c. for the balance of the season. Last August and September makes bring 10 to 10½c.

EGGS—Are firmer still at 12 to 12½c. per doz.

COUNTRY PRODUCE

BEANS—Still quoted at $1.50 to $1.60.

DRIED APPLES—Still quoted by jobbers at 6 to 6½c.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Quoted at 7 to 7½c. by jobbers.

POTATOES—Can be bought for 25c. per bag.

HONEY—Strained in bulk is unchanged at 8 to 9c. Honey still sells at $1.50 to $1.80 in the comb

HOPS—Canadian, 6½ to 7½c.; Pacifics, 14c.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

For dressed hogs the price is $6.25 to $6.75. Products are unchanged in price. We quote:

SMOKED MEATS—Breakfast bacon, 11 to 11½c.; rolls, 8 to 8½c.; hams, large, 22 lbs. and over, 10½ to 11c.; medium, 15 to 20 lbs., 11½c.; small hams, 12c.; pickled, 10 to 10½c.; backs, 10 to 10½c.; picnic hams, 7½ to 8c.

LARD—Pure Canadian, tierces, 8¼c.; tubs, 8¾c.; pails, 9c.

BARREL PORK—Canadian heavy mess, $15.75; Canadian short-cut, $16 to $16.50; clear shoulder mess, $13.75 to $14; shoulder mess, $13.50 to $13.75.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Sept. 19, 1895.
GROCERIES.

THIS is the first week of the Exhibition here, and at this writing it cannot be said that the jobbing houses have derived any material benefit from the fact. Their travelers are not doing anything in the districts adjacent to the city, and though quite a number of country people have come into town they have not done much beyond paying a visit to their wholesale friends. So far the French wholesale houses have had the most visitors, the English houses remarking that they have had few or no calls. In a business sense the chief feature of the week has been the greater activity of tea in a wholesale way, several round lots changing hands. The possibility of a scarcity of low grade Japans accounts for this. In sugars, values are still more or less unsettled, but a fair trade is doing. Import offers on dried fruit ex ship to arrive are very conflicting and the fact prevents buyers taking hold seriously. In canned goods some round lots of vegetables have been moved, notably peas, corn and tomatoes. Other lines are featureless.

SUGAR.

There has been more doing in sugar in a wholesale way since last week, but values are still to a certain extent unsettled both on yellows and granulated. In fact, in many instances no difference exists between what jobbers can buy at and their own selling prices. This is notably the case with yellow sugars, for which the refiners' range is 3 to 3½c., but jobbers offer lower than that. The quality of the goods that are offered below the above range, however, accounts to a great extent for the difference in prices. For regular jobbing business a fair range on yellows is 3¼ to 3½c., as to quality. Refiners note a fairly good demand for granulated, for which their price is 4c., but in a jobbing way the market range is 4½ to 4¾c., as to quantity.

SYRUPS.

There has been no change in the position of syrups. Refiners have placed one or two 50 half-bbl. lots during the week, but as a rule demand is quiet. The distributive business is fair on the whole at a range of 1¾ to 2½c., as to quality and quantity.

MOLASSES.

Dulness still rules the molasses market, but prices are firmly held under light supplies. Round lots of Barbadoes have left first hands at 35c., and Porto Rico at 32c. In a distributive way a fair business is doing and this is apt to increase as the lumbermen increase their purchases. We quote: Barbadoes, 37c., and Porto Rico, 35 to 36c.

RICE.

The rice market is quiet and firm, and values show no change. Jobbing enquiry is moderately good at the following range. We quote: Japan, $4.30 to $4.50; crystal Japan, $4.80 to $5; standard B, $3.45; C.C. style, $3.20; Patna, $4.37½ to $5; and Carolina, $7 to $7.50.

SPICES.

There is only a limited business doing in spices in a wholesale way at present. Job-

Wholesale Grocers

bers and roasters as a rule are well supplied and are not on the market to any extent. The jobbing demand is of a fairly satisfactory character. In fact, quite a number of good orders in this connection have been booked during the week. We quote: Penang black pepper, 8 to 10c.; white pepper, 13 to 15c.; cloves, whole, 10 to 20c.; cassia, whole, 10 to 20c.; nutmegs, 40 to 90c.; Jamaica ginger, 20 to 25c., as to grade.

COFFEE.

There has been no change in the position of the coffee market since last week. Business generally is quiet and prices are steady. We quote green bean coffee: Maracaibo, 20 to 22c.; Rio, 19 to 20c.; Java, 24 to 28c.; Jamaica, 19 to 21c.; and Mocha, 27 to 31c.

TEA.

There has been more activity in tea since last week and values have a firmer tendency, especially on low grade and medium Japan goods. Present prospects are for light stocks of these grades, and jobbers in consequence are gathering in all the lots they can lay their hands on. Quite a large quantity of goods has changed hands between the trade as a consequence of this at values ranging from 14 to 18c., according to grade. Advices from primary markets state that lots cannot be duplicated except at an advance of 1 to 1½c. per lb. The distributive demand is quiet as retailers are not showing any marked desire to stock up ahead. Still the orders that are coming in mean a fair volume of business.

DRIED FRUIT.

Nothing new is to report in regard to Valencia raisins since a week ago. The fact of the matter is that quotations made by sales agents here vary so greatly that buyers are uncertain what to do, and as a result are placing few orders until offers become more settled. On the whole, the indications point to fairly steady, though not high, prices on leading brands of fruit this fall. We quote: Off-stalk, 4 to 4¼c., and layers, 4½ to 5¼c.

California raisins rule steady, and prices are unchanged for spot trading at 6½c. for 4-crown layers and 5½c. for 3-crown. Several good sized contracts for new fruit to arrive have been put through this week. They were equivalent to 6c. for 3-crown and 7 for 4-crown here.

There is no change in the currant market, which we quote at 3¼c. in barrels, 3½c. in half-barrels, and 3¾ to 4½c. in cases.

There is a firmer feeling in prunes, though no quotable change is yet to note. Based on offers made this week, however, it would cost an advance to lay down new shipments here. We quote: 4¾ to 5c. for French, and California, 6¼ to 6½c.

There is no change in dates, which rule quiet at 4½ to 5c., as to grade.

Figs continue quiet and steady at 9 to 12c. per lb.

Evaporated fruits are much as they were a week ago. We quote: Apricots, 14 to 17c.; peaches, 9 to 10c.; pears, 9 to 10c.; plums, 9 to 9½c., and apples, 9 to 10c.

NUTS.

These continue quiet and unchanged. We quote: Brazils, 8 to 9c.; shelled almonds, 18 to 25c.; Tarragona, 12 to 13c.; Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; shelled ditto, 24 to 25c.; filberts, 6½ to 7½c.; and pecans, 8 to 10c.

CANNED GOODS.

A fair demand has been experienced for canned goods in a wholesale way, and a larger volume of business is noted. Sales of several large lots of corn, tomatoes and peas have been made, including one lot of 500 cases of corn at about 75c., one lot of 500 cases tomatoes at 72½c., and one lot of 250 cases choice peas at 82½c. We quote: Lobsters, $6.50 to $9 per case; sardines, $8.50 to $10.50; salmon, $5.20 to $5.50; mackerel, $5; tomatoes, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peaches, $1.90 to $3 per doz.; corn, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peas, 85 to 90c. per doz.; strawberries, $2.25 to $2.50; raspberries, $2; green gages, $2 to $2.25; blue plums or damsons, $1.50 to $1.75; pineapples, $2.25 to $2.50, and 3-lb. apples, 90c. to $1.10.

GREEN FRUIT.

Receipts of nearly all lines of green fruit have been heavy, but trade has been good. Prices in some lines, notably apples, have been very low, but little stock has been carried over the week.

APPLES—Fancy red fruit sells high, but the bulk of fall apples range between $1.25 to $1.75 per bbl. Receipts have been mainly culverts, jettings and pippins, and the bulk of these have sold from $1.40 to $1.60.

PEARS—It has been a very heavy week with this fruit and as receipts were not in choice condition results were unsatisfactory. Good Flemish beauties bring $2.50 to $3.50, and bartletts, $6 to $8. Higher prices are looked for in pears from now on as there will hardly be enough for the market.

PLUMS—Very few coming in and they readily bring 90c. to $1.75 per basket.

GRAPES—Receipts have been moderate, but much of the stock is undesirable. Twenty pound baskets have sold best. Concord brings 3 to 3½c. per lb.; whites and reds, 3 to 5c., and champions are hard to sell at 2c. per lb.

LEMONS—The market has been scantily supplied. A few small lots came in, but they were immediately taken at $8 to $9 per box.

ORANGES—A few pale Jamaicas have been selling at $5.50 to $6 per bbl.

BANANAS—Have sold slowly, being mostly over ripe, poor stock; but good fruit will bring $1 per bunch.

SWEET POTATOES—A few small shipments come in from day to day. They are taken fairly well at $3.50 to $4 per bbl.

SPANISH ONIONS—The first new onions are now on the market. They are selling at 70 to 80c. per crate.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT—Only a few cars of this fruit have been received this week. They were chiefly peaches, which sold at $1.40 to $1.60 per box.

FISH.

The cool weather has led to a better demand for fresh fish this week, and quite a good business has been transacted. Salmon are unchanged at 12½ to 13c. per lb. Fresh haddock and cod are more plentiful, and prices rule lower at 3½ to 4c. per lb.

In pickled fish no great enquiry is looked for until the middle of October. Car lots of large No. 1 herrings are offered at $4.25 per bbl. here, and are jobbing at $4.75. Cape Breton are held at $5 to $5.25. New pickled Labrador salmon have sold at $13 and B.C. at $10.50. No. 1 green cod are offering at $4.50 to $4.75 and dry cod at $4.50 to $5.

In prepared fish, haddies have been the chief feature. They are coming in pretty freely, but meet with a ready sale at 7 to 7½c. per lb.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The egg market rules steady, and prices are unchanged at 9 to 11½c., as to quality.

BEANS—Business is dull and prices have ruled lower under larger receipts. Car lots of new crop hand-picked have sold at $1.15 to $1.25 per bushel.

POTATOES—There is only a slow demand for potatoes, but prices are not quotably changed, the range being 35 to 45c. per bag.

HOPS—These rule quiet and about steady at 8 to 10c. per lb. for new and 3 to 6c. for old.

TALLOW—There is no change in tallow, which we quote at 6 to 6½c. for refined and 5 to 5½c. for lower grades.

MAPLE PRODUCTS—Business is dull and values are nominally the same. We quote: Sugar, 6½ to 7½c. for new and 4c. for old; maple syrup in wood, 4 to 5c. per lb. and 50 to 60c. per tin.

HAY—Since our last report the hay market has exhibited a weaker feeling and prices show a decline of 50c. to $1 per ton, which is just about what it advanced last week. This change is attributed to largely increased receipts and a falling off in the demand from western Ontario and the United States. Consequently, the market on the whole has been quiet and very little business has been transacted. Some sales of No. 1 have taken place at $10, and No. 2 at $9 per ton. At country points purchases of No. 1 have been made at $9 to $9.25, and No. 2 at $8 to $8.25 per ton f.o.b. Cable advices report the markets dull, with no material change in values to note.

PROVISIONS.

Since our last a weaker feeling has ruled on pork, and there have been two drops in Canadian mess and short cut pork amounting to $1 per bbl. Lard and smoked meats are unchanged. We quote: Canadian short cut, clear, $14.50 to $15; Canadian short cut, mess, $16 to $16.50; hams, city cured, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 9¾ to 10¼c.; bacon, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, com. refined, per lb., 7¼ to 7¾c.

FLOUR, MEAL AND FEED.

There has been a good active trade in Manitoba flour both for export and on local account since our last. Ontario grades, however, have ruled very dull. We quote: Winter wheat, $4 to $4.25; spring wheat, patents, $4.15; straight roller, $3.65 to $3.75; straight roller, bags, $1.65 to $1.80; extra, bags, $1.50 to $1.60; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.90 to $4.

The demand for oatmeal continues to be of a limited character, and the market rules quiet and steady. We quote: Standard, bbls., $3.70 to $3.80; granulated, bbls., $3.80 to $3.90; rolled oats, bbls., $3.80 to $3.90.

The feed market has ruled weak during the past eight days under gradually increasing receipts, and prices of bran and shorts are lower than they were, as follows: Bran, $15.50 to $16; shorts, $16.50 to $17; mouillie, $20.50 to $21.50.

BUTTER.

The butter market remains unchanged. There is some enquiry from shippers for August creamery, but buyers could not get the kind of packages to suit. They would have paid 17½c. or thereabouts for the kind of goods wanted. We quote: Finest creamery, 17½c.; finest Townships dairy, 14 to 14½c.; finest Western dairy, 12 to 13½c.

CHEESE.

The cheese market does not exhibit appreciable change, but an undertone of steadiness is apparent this week. Of late it has been difficult to secure any replies to cable offers, but shippers lately have been asked for quotations on August and September makes. It is true that the conditions stipulated in many cases were not very feasible, but still the fact that buyers on the other side want offers at all is a welcome change from the absolute unresponsiveness that they have shown previously. No business was noted in Ontario cheese, but it is likely that an offer of a nice choice bunch of finest Ontario August at 7½c. would lead to business. In Quebec cheese the market is quoted at 7½ to 7¾c., as some 3,500 half August and half September were sold on the wharf at that basis Monday. The presence of September make no doubt had something to do with the payment of these prices, which show a slight improvement on previous Monday's basis. The position in the country is much the same. In Ontario the factorymen still have their August makes and an occasional lot of July goods to market. In Quebec the French-Canadian districts are sold well up to date, but in the Townships the last half of August is still in first hands. We quote: Finest Ontario makes, 7¾ to 7½c.; Townships' makes, 7¼c.; other Quebec makes, 7½ to 7¼c.

ASHES.

There is no change in ashes. We quote: First pots, $4.05 to $4.15; seconds, $3.80 to $3.85, and pearls, $4.80 to $4.85.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Indications point to a light stock of low grade Japan teas on this market.

Cables from France on prunes this week are 5s. per cwt. higher than they were last week.

The receipt of apples on the market during the past eight days have been fully 4,000 bbls.

Rose & Laflamme landed a shipment of Huntley & Palmers' biscuits from the Brazilian this week.

The first receipts of Spanish onions here, amounting to 250 crates, were landed on Saturday last.

There are about 1,000 kegs of pears in cold storage here, and receipts during the week were 1,500 bbls. This is quite a heavy stock.

No shipments of new California dried fruit have yet been made from the Coast as the cold weather that has prevailed has delayed packing.

Mr. Geoffrion, of L. Chaput, Sons & Co., returned this week from a short holiday. He is in the warehouse to meet his friends again this week.

Some 1,250 cases of new pack canned peas, corn and tomatoes were turned over here from first hands this week at a range of 72½ to 82½c.

Vipond, McBride & Co. and the Earl Fruit Co. each received a car of California peaches. They were auctioned on Monday, both lots amounting to 1,232 boxes.

Vipond, McBride & Co. landed ex Vancouver 63 seventy-dozen chests and 150 half-cases of fancy new Malaga lemons. These are the first lot and are offered at moderate terms.

"We look for a large fall and holiday trade in confectionery," said Mr. Greig, of Robert Greig & Co. "Our orders to our English manufacturers by last mail amounted to nearly 25 tons."

The reference to Robert Greig & Co.'s new price list in last week's CANADIAN GROCER brought them a number of inquiries which have already led to the opening of several new accounts.

Referring to the note in last issue stating that California raisins were due here at the end of the week it should have been stated that the lot in question were old fruit. It may be remarked that old 3 crown fruit are held firm in New York at 3½ to 3¾c. f.o.b. there.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Sept. 19, 1895.

THE Exhibition is a matter of interest here at present, and everything points to one of the most successful shows ever held here. A number have already got their exhibits well under way. The mere fact that an outside firm make an exhibit gives them a standing with local business houses, while if they do business here and do not make a show it has an opposite tendency. In business the week has been rather uneventful. The rapid decline in beans and the firmness of Manitoba flour have been prominent features. Other changes are an easier feeling in dry cod and Ontario flours, and also in oats, oatmeal and cornmeal. Sugar is rather steadier, as is butter. Cheese is dull. In tea special efforts are still being put forth by our local dealers to push their blends, and in some cases most satisfactory results are reported. There are quantities of green fruit coming in, but prices are low.

OIL — There is no change in local prices. The demand in burning oil is improving and a good many fall orders have been placed. As the market is firm at quotation those who bought earlier are well pleased. In lubricating demand is lighter. We quote: Best American, 22¼c.; best Canadian, 21¼c.; prime white, 18c., no charge for barrels.

SALT — The cargo spoken of did not arrive as expected, but it will likely be to hand by the time this is in the readers' hands. Of coarse the stock is light with a fair local demand. With fine the market is well supplied. About 45c. net cash from ship's side in large lots will be the price of the coarse now due. We quote, ex store: Coarse, 50 to 55c.; fine factory filled, $1.10; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.80 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10-lb. boxes, 12c.; cartoons, $2 per doz.; cheese salt, bulk, $2.70 per bbl.

CANNED GOODS — The movement is lighter than at this season last year, and fall orders are also not as large. As often happens, the markets look this season as if large orders would be safer than last, but that is very often the way — one orders the year he ought not to, and not the best year. New salmon are more freely offered by dealers, but stocks are light. These and peas are the only new goods yet received. The demand for canned apples is light. Beef continues light, with the demand and price easy. It is understood some corn and tomatoes have been bought rather under market prices. We quote: Corn, 90c.; peas, 95c.; tomatoes, $1; gallon apples, $2.25; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.65 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.60 to $1.65; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $3 to $3.15; 2's, $2 to $2.10; salmon, $1.50; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.40; clams, $5.50 for 4 doz.; chowder, $3 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1.

DRIED FRUIT — Dealers have bought more freely in the Denia market during the past week, and most of the orders are placed. The quantity bought is not large. Some few feel they will this season buy in New York. One Denia merchant is feeling the effect of some shipments which last year were not up to the standard. In cleaned currants it looks as if a number of our wholesale houses would put up their own private brands. Already two are doing so. Orders for new currants for direct shipment are about all given. The price shows little change from last season. We quote: Currants, 1-lb. cartoons, 7½c.; bulk, 6½c.; dried apples, 5½ to 6c.; evaporated apples, 7½ to 8c.; Sultana raisins, 7 to 8c.; Valencia, 4c.; layers, 5c.; London layers, $2.25; loose muscatels, 5½ to 6c.; currants, bbls., 3¾ to 3½c.; half-cases, 3¾ to 4c.; dates, 4 to 4½c.; prunes, 4½ to 5½c.; figs, 11 to 18c.; California evaporated peaches, 12 to 13c.; do. apricots, 12 to 14c.; do. pears, 12 to 13c.; onions, $2.50 to $2.75 per bbl.

GREEN FRUIT — During the past week business has been quieter. In N.S. apples the market is dull and prices are low except in Gravensteins, which, when good, find ready sale. New Brunswick seem to be preferred. Their being in flour barrels is a point in their favor. Plums are being received freely and have met with good sale, but at low prices. Canadian grapes continue high. Pears, particularly Nova Scotia, are plentiful. The American are, however, preferred. Lemons are so high few are moving. In oranges, the West Indian offered are hardly ripe yet, and other grades are poor. Bananas are not active. Receipts of California goods continue light. In peaches receipts are small. Peanuts are rather lower. Some shippers have withdrawn from the Virginia Association and those still in it are offering their own brands as well as those of the association. We quote: Oranges, $5.50 to $6; Bartlett pears, $5 to $7 per bbl.; grapes, 50 to 60c. per basket; apples, $1 to $2; N.S. plums, 50 to 70c.; lemons, $10; bananas, $1 to $2; peaches, $2.25 to $2.50; cocoanuts, $3 to $3.75; N.S. pears, half bbl., $1.50 to $2.

DAIRY PRODUCE—The cheese market still continues very unsatisfactory for shippers, people only buying from hand to mouth. There are considerable stocks in first hands, some being early-made cheese. In butter, there is a firmer feeling and a better demand for creamery, though price moves up slowly. Extra dairy is not easy to get. In eggs, sales are very slow, and there are fair quantities coming forward. We quote: Common dairy butter, 14 to 15c.; dairy, 16 to 18c.; new creamery prints, 22c.; cheese, new, 8½ to 9c.; creamery, tubs, 20c.; eggs, 12 to 12c.

MOLASSES—There is nothing to be said. Demand is still light, and prices, as a rule, are easy, though holders of best qualities are firm. A beautiful sample of Demerara was shown this week. It is too bad our retail trade could not get it, but the price is too high for a large enough quantity to be used to encourage importers to bring it here.

SUGAR—Fair quantities are moving and prices continue rather firmer. Stocks are becoming lighter, but there is still quite a quantity of granulated bought and to arrive at the old price. We quote: Granulated, 4½ to 4¾c.; yellow, 3½ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5¼ to 5½c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

FISH—A fair business is doing. Quite large quantities of dry cod are arriving, and though stocks are not very large the price keeps dropping off in the face of reports that the catch is light. Some very nice fish are shown. Some so-called Shelburne pickled herring are offered. There is a good movement in pickled fish at quotations. There were a few dry cod here from Quebec. They were large and very dry. They were in splendid condition for West India trade. Fresh shad are a fair catch, but the fish are in splendid condition. Pickled shad in half-bbls. are being freely offered. In smoked herring there is nothing new, market is very dull. We quote: Fresh haddock, 2 to 2½c. per lb.; dry, $1.50; large cod, $3.75 to $3.80; medium, $3.50 to $3.60; pollock, $1.40; bay herring, $1.25 to $1.30 per half-bbl.; Rippings, $1.75; Wolves, $1.85 to $2; smoked herring, 5½ to 6c.; Digby chicken, 10c.; shad, half-bbl., $5 to $5.50; fresh, 10c.; Grand Manan herring, half bbl., $1.40 to $1.45; Shelburne, $3.25 bbl., $2.70 half-bbl.

PROVISIONS—Stocks are not heavy and prices are easy. There is a fair movement. We quote: Clear pork, $16.25 to $16.50; mess, $15.50; beef, $13.50 to $14.50; pure lard, 9½ to 10c.; compound lard, 7½ to 8c.;

hams, 11 to 12c.; rolls, 9c.; cottolene, 9¼ to 9¾c.

HIDES, SKINS, WOOL AND TALLOW—In these lines business is not active. In hides there are light stocks, and prices are not active. Sheepskins are dull, while in calf-skins there is not enough doing to make a market. In tallow, buyers are quoting rough, 3c.; rendered, 6c. In wool there is no change.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour the stock of Manitoba is very light, buyers having held off for lower prices which did not arrive, and which millers say will not, as much of the wheat in Manitoba will not make the best grade flour. Owing to the low price of Ontario grade, present profits on Manitoba are very small. Ontario continues to be quoted lower. Stocks in the city are light and buyers backward. Oatmeal is lower and oats are easy. Some very nice new Ontario have been here. People do not care to feed new oats, particularly in this province. In beans a great drop has taken place and most dealers find themselves though not with large stocks with more than they would wish, the drop being about 50 cents per bushel. Feed is easier and cornmeal is expected to be lower. We quote: Manitoba, $4.65 to $4.75; best Ontario, $3.90 to $4; medium, $3.80 to $3.90; oatmeal, $3.90 to $4.05; cornmeal, $2.60 to $2.75; middlings, $23 to $23.50 on track; bran, $21 to $22; N. S. beans, $1.60; prime, $1.50; oats, Ontario, 35 to 40c.; hay, $12 to $12.50; pot barley, $4 to $4.15; round peas, $3.75 to $3.90; split peas, $3.70 to $3.90; P.E.I. oats, 34c. on track, by the car.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

C. & E. Macmichael have received their new canned salmon.

John Seely is in receipt of some fresh shad, and has some extra half-bbls. of pickled to offer.

The codfish now arriving are particularly good, the fish being well cured and thick through.

The deposits in the N. B. savings banks exceeded the withdrawals during August by almost $33,000, being $117,607.44.

The visitors to the Toronto Fair are home. They were greatly pleased. The ground particularly pleased them, and the exhibits were above their expectations.

Local candy manufacturers report business very active. One firm said to THE CANADIAN GROCER that for some time they had been running a night gang five hours.

Montreal tried to buy cream of tartar in this market during the past week, but merchants felt in view of the advance and firmness their stocks were not too heavy.

There are those who think Ontario is the only oat country, but a farmer at McDonald's Corner in New Brunswick had on one acre with a sowing of less than four bushels seventy-two and one-half.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., quotes produce as follows: Hay, 35 to 40c.; straw, 20 to 25c.; beef, 5 to 7c.; hides, lower (6 to 7c. per lb.), and lambskins 30 to 40c. each; potatoes, 18 to 20c.; eggs, 10c.; butter, 16 to 20c.; oats, 29 to 30c. In eggs and butter the market is dull, and but little butter is offering. Oats are coming in more freely.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

HALIFAX, Sept. 19, 1895.

BUSINESS throughout Nova Scotia remains quiet. The big fire at Liverpool, on the south shore, has demoralized business in that section. The loss is about $135,000, with insurance of only $55,000. Several grocers and general dealers were burned out, among them being G. E. Snadden, A. McNutt, W. A. Kennedy, I. V. Dexter, A. Hutchins, N. D. Hammett, I. Wilde, H. B. Hammett, Colin Campbell, D. C. Mulhall, Joseph Winters, J. A. Rathbun, H. R. Putman, George Schwartz, D. Buchanan, J. E. Smith, N. S. Wetmore and Edward McGuire.

A meeting in connection with a central creamery and cold storage was held in Charlottetown last week. It was decided to canvass for stock for the erection of a central creamery and cold storage at Charlottetown. Speaking of this The Examiner in an editorial says:

"It is hoped that the appeal of the canvassers will meet with a prompt response. If not it will be necessary next year, as this, to pay the cost of the freight of our cheese output to Montreal and of cold storage there, besides losing for a year the advantage to be gained from a central creamery. The central creamery and cold storage warehousing will be, essentially, year after year a money saving institution. But, at the outset, money is required with which to establish it. As the interests of the province are more or less involved, there ought to be a prompt and liberal response on the part of those who have property, money and a stake in the province."

The cheese industry of P. E. Island has assumed large proportions. About 3,000 cases of cheese were shipped from there to Montreal from cold storage last week.

FLOUR—The flour market is unsettled, but it is generally thought prices will go no lower. Quotations are: Hungarian patent, Manitoban, $4.75 to $5; Manitoba strong bakers, $4.60 to $4.75; Canadian pastry, $4.70 to $4.85; 75 per cent. roller patents, $4.25 to $4.35; 80 per cent. do., $4.10 to $4.20; 90 per cent. do., $3.90 to $4; straight, $3.70 to $3.80; extra, $3.50 to $3.60.

OATMEAL AND CORNMEAL—The tendency of oatmeal and cornmeal is for lower prices. The market is easy. American K. D. is quoted at $2.75; Halifax ground, $2.60 to $2.70; standard oatmeal, $4 to $4.10.

GREEN FRUIT.

APPLES—The market is not overstocked with choice fruit. The demand is fair. Late fall fruit is arriving in fine condition. Prices range from $1 to $2.50 per bbl.

ORANGES—Jamaicas are to hand. The season is practically over for Messinas and other varieties. Jamaicas are worth $7.50 per bbl. repacked.

LEMONS—Lemons are exceptionally high, ranging from $8.50 to $10 per box.

GRAPES—Ontario grapes are arriving regularly and the prices are not so low as last season. Quotations are from 50 to 70c. per basket.

BANANAS—Owing to the large variety of other fruit, the demand for bananas is somewhat limited. They are quoted at from $1 to $2 per bunch.

TORONTO.

PEARS—Native pears are arriving freely and in excellent condition. The price per half-bbl. ranges from $1.75 to $2.25.

PEACHES AND PLUMS—The season is about over for peaches and plums and there are very few of either in the market.

New figs and Almeida grapes will arrive shortly.

ONIONS—Spanish American and Canadian onions are to hand and show excellent keeping qualities. Prices are low, the quotations being from 1½ to 2c. per lb. by the bbl.

PROVISIONS.

BEEF—The beef market shows an improvement, a first class article being worth $8.75 to $9. Small beef is worth $6. There is a lot of poor cattle offering, but no buyers. The Texas fly, together with poor pasturage, have a great deal to do with there being so much poor cattle in the country.

LAMB—7 to 8c. is the quotation to-day for lamb, sinking pelts.

PORK—Carcass pork is worth 7½c.

MUTTON—The demand for mutton is fairly good. The quotation to-day is 6c.

POULTRY—Chickens are worth 40 to 50c.; fowls, 50c. per pair, and turkeys 15 to 16c. per lb.

FISHSTUFFS.

HERRINGS—Trade in pickled herrings is very quiet. Some jobbers still have last year's catch on hand, and will not buy at any price. The catch is reported fair. Prices, if anything, are easier.

CODFISH—Codfish are scarce in Cape Breton, as well as Nova Scotia, as far as the shore fishing is concerned. The bank and bay catch is fully up to the average; in fact, second trips average 20 per cent. better than last year. Newfoundland shore fish are coming along freely, but the bulk of this is badly cured, owing to the bad weather. The fish are heavily salted and rough.

SALMON—Salmon remain scarce.

ALEWIVES—Alewives are also very scarce

GROCERY COD—There is no grocery cod on the market.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PRODUCE—Potatoes are worth 40c. per bushel. Turnips are selling to-day at 85c. per bbl. in lots of 10 bbls. Oats are slow at 38c. in 100 bushel lots.

Partridges were on the market to-day.

EGGS—There is very little doing in eggs. The quotation to day is 13c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE—There is nothing doing in butter and cheese to speak of. Quotations remain unchanged.

SUGAR—There is nothing new in sugar. The Woodside refinery at Dartmouth, which has been closed down, is to resume operations. Quotations remain unchanged.

MOLASSES—The molasses market is quiet but firm. There is no Cienfuegos or Demerara N on the market. Prices remain unchanged.

ON A CASH BASIS.

Morton & Co., general merchants, of Fort William, Ont., who have for eight years carried on business on the credit system, have adopted a cash basis of trade. In the centre of their store they have placed a long box built to resemble a coffin and draped in black. Within this sombre receptacle they have placed the account books that accumulated while they were under the credit system. They use a cut of the coffin in their "ad.," which is the talk of the twin towns, Fort William and Port Arthur. Morton & Co. write: "We're in the cash business to stay, and of course take THE GROCER and The Dry Goods Review."

MAKE THEM CARRY CONVICTION.

An ad. full of big display type has about as much to do with gaining business as a torchlight parade has to do with gaining votes, remarks an exchange. Both are useful channels through which to get rid of surplus enthusiasm, but sagacious men find cheaper ways. Advertising space is valuable property. Make your ads. carry conviction. Even if you convince most people that a particular bargain is not for them, by having convinced them you have made them feel your power and they will read your ads again.

Ever notice how a friend will mix up your children's ages and names? He doesn't see 'em often, doesn't think about 'em much. If a friend cannot remember about your children, do you expect a stranger to remember the names and virtues of your goods—unless you make them?

THE SALMON PACK.

THE fishing season for sockeye salmon having closed on August 31, it is possible to arrive at a fairly accurate estimate of the pack in British Columbia. For an "off year"—as it is called—the result of the season's operations must be considered as satisfactory. The pack has certainly reached, if, indeed, it has not exceeded, the expectations of the cannery-men. It might, indeed, have been larger had they been prepared for the two "rushes" of fish which occurred and which found some of the canneries short of tins. The result of this season must, we think, lead to the conclusion that the Fraser River hatchery has had considerable effect on the quantity of fish. This being so, it is to be hoped that the Department of Fisheries will adopt the suggestions made, that either a new location be selected for the hatchery or that another hatchery be established. From the results of the fishery on the Skeena River, during the last few years, it would also seem that it is desirable that a hatchery be established on that stream as well.

The following is a list of the season's pack, which, we think, will be found accurate:

The total pack last year was 494,371 cases, so that this year's pack is larger by 17,826 cases.

While the season has been an unusually profitable one for the fishermen, it has not been as good for the canners, the price of fish having ruled higher than usual. This was the case on the Fraser River—with, perhaps, one or two days' exception, when the big "rush" of fish demoralised the business for a short time—throughout the season. The canners commenced buying at 20 cents per fish, expecting only a very moderate run and, therefore, being anxious to get as large a supply as possible. Some canners on one or two days, in their anxiety to be assured of a supply sufficient to fill the cans provided, are reported to have paid as high as 25 and 30 cents per fish. The run of fish commenced earlier than last year, continued fairly good, and more even than usual, with two very strong "rushes" about a week apart.

It is estimated that something like $600,000 to $700,000 has been paid out to the fishermen, which will show how important the canning interest is among the industries of the province, especially when the fact that the season only extends over a few weeks is remembered. The number of fishermen this year was larger than ever before, 2,100 licenses having been issued. The number of canneries in operation was also greater than in any previous year.—Statistic News Advertiser, Vancouver.

EUROPE'S BEET CROP.

French sugar-beet crop, though less bulky than last year, is reported, according to London Grocer, to be rich in saccharine matter. This is also the case in Germany and Austria, in which countries, as in France, the area under beet has this year been reduced. With a continuance of favorable weather up to harvest this season's beet crop promises to yield a high percentage of sugar. There are rumors that the coming crops of raw beet on the continent will fully equal, even if they do not largely exceed, those for 1894-95, but no particulars are yet published, and it remains to be seen what effect would be produced if it should turn out correctly, as represented by some authorities, that one material increase in the total yield for the season just expired should be closely succeeded by another for the year 1895-96.

PERSONAL MENTION.

R. M. Corrie has been appointed traveling representative in Toronto for Mazawattee tea.

Mrs. A. White, of Winnipeg, is in Toronto, the guest of her brother, R. M. Corrie.

Major A. J. Campbell, representing the Maclean Publishing Co., Toronto, is in the city. This firm publishes THE CANADIAN GROCER, Hardware and Metal, Dry Goods Review, Bookseller and Stationer and Printer and Publisher.—Chronicle, Halifax.

Angus Price, a Swansea, Ont., market gardener, fell backwards off the rear end of a moving trolley car at Dundas street and Dovercourt road, Toronto, Saturday afternoon. He alighted on his head and sustained injuries of a serious nature. The police ambulance removed him to his home.

Mr. Page, of Page & Desrosiers, general merchants, Sandwich, Ont., was in Toronto the other day. He was accompanied by his newly-made bride.

C. E. Marquis, of Marquis Bros., Ripley, Ont., visited Toronto this week. He moved to Ripley from Pickering a year ago, and is reported to be doing a big business.

RE KING, LEAKEY & CO.

A. C. King, assignee, Calgary, N.W.T., has sent out a statement to the effect that in re King, Leakey & Co., Mr. Leakey's assignment has been declared valid, and that the assets of the estate will be sold by tender, all tenders to be sent in by Sept. 23. The inspectors have notified Mr. and Mrs. Leakey, the parents of the insolvent, that their claim of $16,502 will not be permitted to rank upon the estate.

LUCKY MR. BOOMER.

Mr. Charles Boomer, of Warren Bros. & Boomer, Toronto, left for England a few days ago. His mission is one upon which many another wholesale grocer would not object to go. Through the death of an aunt in the Old Country, he has fallen heir to a fortune of $475,000, and he has just crossed the Atlantic to claim it. THE CANADIAN GROCER congratulates Mr. Boomer in his good fortune.

Railway earnings are gradually getting back to their normal condition. The earnings of the C. P. R. the first week in September were $397,000, against $381,000 the same time a year ago.

Australasia sent three million carcasses of frozen mutton, besides beef, to the London market last year, as against 500,000 in 1894. Australasia evidently intends to go up and possess the land.

CANNED TOMATOES IN THE STATES.

ACCORDING to some reports from Baltimore this morning, jobbers are beginning to take more interest in the canned tomato market than they have displayed at any time since the present season opened. One statement made is specifically that buyers are beginning to feel that "the present basis is a good enough one upon which to make purchases, and the increase in orders the past week is the best evidence of it." On the other hand, an equally good authority states that packing is progressing slowly, and that the outlook is very uncertain. "In fact, the problem is the hardest one to solve we have known for some time. Under ordinary conditions, the man who prophesied a sharp advance would have to be a wise prophet, but the present conditions are not ordinary; they are really abnormal. The retailer is buying only what he absolutely needs and the jobber is following in his footsteps; this necessitates the packer carrying his goods, and everybody knows what that means."

In that paragraph the key to the situation is brought forward. The indifference of the retailer and the jobber alike to conditions that have had no counterpart in many years prevents the packers from getting the advantage of an undeniably short crop. But this indifference has a real foundation. The tomato pack last year was the largest on record, amounting to over five and a half million cases. When the season opened the comparatively low prices quoted induced buyers to purchase heavily, and in some cases far in excess of what they would otherwise have bought. But from the beginning of the season onward prices gradually eased off, and those who had placed forward orders in August at 72½c., Baltimore, found that when the goods were delivered they had a 75c. market to meet here, and that eventually they had to meet 70c., New York, and even less.

The carry-over of tomatoes by jobbers this year was probably one of the heaviest on record, and at the present time it is estimated that there is unsold in the hands of jobbers 300,000 cases or more, some of which, it is said, cost the present holders $1, though the bulk of it may not have cost over 70c.

With the experience of 1894 before them the jobbers do not seem disposed to speculate in tomatoes. Rather, they are inclined to let the packers do the carrying, until such time as the consuming demand warrants them in renewing their supplies. Possibly if the reports of a short crop and a light pack in all parts of the country should receive undoubtable confirmation there may be a change in their attitude, but at present tomatoes, so far as the jobbing trade is concerned, seem to be one of the least interesting articles in the line of canned goods.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

EXPOSING GOODS FOR SALE.

The Toronto News had this item on Sept. 18: Municipalities have power to impose licenses of $10 per day upon commercial travelers who expose samples of their goods in store windows for the purpose of trade.

The first case on record in Ontario where the municipality has assumed this right occurred at London this week. The authorities made a bid for the license fee upon Thomas Fleming and Mr. Gray, travelers for Gowans, Kent & Co., Toronto. These gentlemen were exhibiting their wares in a shop window, but they refused to pay up when ordered. To a reporter Mr. Gray said:

"I know the Act as well as I know my alphabet, and no fee will they get out of us. We are not transient traders. We sell to no one but merchants. We are commercial travelers displaying our wares, and gold would not induce us to make a retail sale. We are not competing with city retailers—we are selling to them and to retail trade generally throughout this section. Pay a license? I guess not, eh, Fleming?" To this Mr. Fleming replied: "Well, we are not like men who could not pay a license if we had to, but we don't have to. If we are liable, so is every traveler who opens his samples in the city."

And there the matter stands.

FRENCH VS. AMERICAN PRUNES.

The probability is that French prunes will be virtually crowded out of American markets this year, unless the French growers make some concessions, which are hardly expected. The California prunes have opened just a shade lower than the French, and even though this difference is very slight, it is still enough to exclude the more expensive fruit.

The California prunes have opened low this year—4½c. on the Coast, or about 6.14c. to lay down in Philadelphia. They were half a cent higher last year. The French prunes last year were half a cent lower than the American, and this gave them a decided advantage over the latter, which they displaced to a considerable extent. The opening price this year will be 6¼c.

Prices on the new French prunes are expected in September, but are practically known now. It is stated that the growers have refused to reduce their price, no matter what the American price is, and this fact will operate greatly in the latter's favor. The domestic grocery trade, while really preferring the American prunes, are still willing to take whichever is lower in price.—Grocery World.

PEAS FROM SEED 3,000 YEARS OLD

Gardeners will be interested to learn that J. Davis, of Wood Close, Bromley Common, Kent, has growing at the present time peas which are the product of sound peas found in Upper Egypt in a mummy case about three years ago. The sarcophagus which contained the mummy and case in which the parent of these peas was found was discovered in a cave tomb situated in the Valley of the Kings at Asseseef, which is about an hour's ride west from the Nile at Thebes. The discovery was made by a party of five gentlemen, consisting of two Americans, two Cambridge students and the cousin of the lady from whom the specimen peas now growing at Bromley were obtained.

The inscription went to show that the person entombed was Memptah, a younger son of User-Khepara-Ra-Seti II.—son of Rameses II., founder of the 18th dynasty. Prince Memptah existed about 1270 B.C. The valley in which this tomb was discovered is the old burying place of the Theban kings of the 17th and 18th dynasties, and most of the tombs are remarkable, not so much for their size as for their exquisite beauty. All of these two races of kings were buried in this valley, but only about one-half the number buried—about 40 in all—have been discovered. The peas are much smaller than those of the present day, a fact which is possibly evidence of the improvement which has taken place in the cultivation in the modest interval of 3 000 years.—London Letter.

CONCERNING RETAILERS.

PETER ANDERSON, of the "Marvelous Tea Store," Guelph, was in Toronto during the Exhibition.

James McCrae, of the "Noted Tea Store," Guelph, "did" the Toronto Exhibition and the warehouses.

M. Duncan, with W. A. McClean, of Owen Sound, was in Toronto last week doing the Fair and the "street."

C. A. Nairn, of Goderich, was one of Toronto's visitors last week. He did some business, I understand, but it was the Fair and other attractions that he came primarily to see. Mr. Nairn reports trade improving and prospects good.

W. G. Murphy, of Mitchell, is making a change in his business and is marking his goods down to a cash basis.

T. S. Ford, of Mitchell, reports business improving and he is looking for a good fall and winter trade.

A. Young, of Seaforth, was in Toronto last week. When asked how trade was he remarked laconically: "Good goods, cheap, tell every time."

Ed. Walsh, of Walsh Bros., Stratford, was in Toronto last week. I understand he made some extensive purchases as well as visit the Exhibition.

F. J. Gillespie, general merchant, Uptergrove, and Reform candidate for North Ontario for the House of Commons, was in Toronto last week. He was in good spirits over trade prospects.

J. W. McCulloch, grocer, Church street, Toronto, is removing to the store in Spadina avenue formerly occupied by Mr. Ringer.

It was the retail branch of their business only that Rees Bros., of Kingston, sold recently. The wholesale branch they still carry on.

About a year ago Mr. Geo. P. Hart left Wilfrid to start in business for himself. He chose for his calling the general store, and his field Carnarvon, a settlement in the wilds of Haliburton. He teams his stock sixteen miles to the store. To-day he is one of the leading merchants in that section. He runs a strictly cash or trade business, and is well liked in the community. He has now taken in an assistant (THE CANADIAN GROCER), which he finds a great help in buying.

J. J. Darkes, general merchant, Williamsford, was in Toronto last week.

Since moving into their new store, R. Scott & Co., Mt. Forest, are doing a splendid business. They now have one of the largest stores in their town, having a frontage of 48 feet, with a depth of 100 feet, and three stories high. The building is built of brick, and lighted with incandescent light throughout. They carry a large stock of clothing, dry goods, groceries, boots and shoes, and glassware and crockery, each department being kept separate. THE CANADIAN GROCER wishes them continued success.

THE PEANUT CROP.

M. Levy, the head of the firm of M. Levy & Co., peanut growers, of Petersburg, Va., gives his opinion of the coming crop of peanuts as follows: The new crop is fully one month late. Usually it is planted from the 10th to the 15th of May, but this year the planting did not take place until the 4th to the 10th of June.

In addition to its lateness, the crop looks very poor, and will be much smaller than usual, no matter how favorable are the weather conditions. If there is an early fall, only half a crop is expected, and in this event prices will very sharply advance. Even if the best of weather prevails, the crop will be but three-fourths of its usual size, so that higher prices are inevitable in any event. Peanuts have sold lower this year than was ever known before in the trade, but the advance occasioned by the short crop will carry them far beyond the normal price.

LATE BUSINESS CHANGES.

Andrew Forrest, of A. Forrest & Son, flour and feed, Dundas, Ont., is dead.—Z. Bernier, general store, L'Islet, Que., has assigned.—The stock of L. M. Piche, grocer, Montreal, has been sold at 82c. on the dollar. J. B. Tremblay's flour and sawmills at Point Aux Trembles (Pt. Neuf Co.), Que., were burned.—Henri Larochelle, general store, St. Henry, Levis Co., Que., has assigned.—Augustin Le May, general store, Warwick, Que., has assigned.—J. H. Cavanagh, general store, Calgary, N.W.T., has assigned.—P. Kane, fruits, Winnipeg, Man., has been succeeded by M. Henry.—Dussault & Barry, cigar makers, Quebec, have dissolved.—The International Ice and Storage Co., Vancouver, B.C., have sold out.—H. E. Keat, grocer, Vancouver, B.C., is selling out.—The Misses Izen, fruits, Vancouver, B.C., are out of business.

Many grocers would change from credit to cash if they had some easy medium of making the change.

TRADE CHAT.

THE hopyards of Ontario present an animated appearance just now. The pickers are at work.

John L. Charles, merchant, Acton, Ont., last week completed the purchase of a 50 acre fruit farm in the Grimsby district, near Beamsville. He takes possession in February next, and in the meantime will dispose of his stock of groceries, dry goods, etc.

Clinton, Ont., will only pay 20c. a light per night for its electric lighting in future.

There is considerable speculation now being carried on in cloves. The bear element seems to be the stronger just now, and, in consequence, prices have gone down a trifle.

Geo. D. Ferguson, one of Ferguson's old residents, is dead in his 74th year. Mr. Ferguson was for many years agent for the Bank of Montreal during the time they had an agency in the town.

An editorial in The London Post upon the opening of the new St. Mary's canal says: "Both the resolution and its accomplishment reflect infinite credit upon the spirit and resource of Canada. Although the commercial importance of Lake Superior is now overshadowed by Lake Erie and Lake Michigan, its potentialities are so enormous as to place the future volume of its trade beyond all question. In that future Canada must claim a great if not a preponderating share. Although Duluth is now the busiest place upon the lakes, Port Arthur is rapidly rising in importance, and it would seem suicidal for Canada to permit the possibility of a great trade route from Lake Superior outward being at any moment closed against her."

A NEW FAD.

"Er, that is a funny looking button you are wearing," said the man with the account. "I never saw an 'N. C.' button before. Do you belong to the Sons of North Carolina, or what?"

"Sons of nothing," replied the grocer. "That means 'No Credit.'"

The man walked out without swelling the account.

NOVA SCOTIA FIBRED CODFISH

REPRESENTS the highest achievement in the art of curing and preparing Codfish ready for cooking.

NOTHING is used in this product but the finest of shore Codfish especially cured and dried for it.

THE disagreeable odor usually considered to be a necessary evil to be endured while cooking Codfish will be found to be entirely lacking in this.

EVERY particle of skin and bone being removed and the water evaporated, there is absolutely no waste. The contents of each package, therefore, is worth to the housekeeper about three times its weight in Codfish as ordinarily sold.

PUT UP in half-pound cartons, 3 doz. cartons to the case, and sold by the wholesale and retail grocers throughout Canada.

THE ADVANCE IN CINNAMON.

A LONDON trade paper has this to say regarding the recent sharp advance in cinnamon: "What is familiarly known in commercial circles as a 'boom' has come over the market for cinnamon, and that little corner of Mincing-lane trade, usually so quiet and unobtrusive, is now agitated with a sudden and rapid upward move in quotations. Whether it arises from a legitimate trade demand, or is only a temporary outburst of speculation, we will not commit ourselves by positively saying one way or the other, but there can be no doubt of its reality, as for days past there has been a brisk inquiry by private treaty, and at the periodical sales held on Monday last unwonted spirit was observable in the biddings, so that a very considerable rise in prices was established. Although the quantity offered was undeniably light—say 670 bales Ceylon—it was not so small as in August, 1894, when only 520 bales of the same description were put up by auction, yet the rush to secure lots was so eager that the cinnamon was bought almost regardless of cost, and the lower qualities, which fetched relatively the greatest advance, appeared extravagantly dear after having been exceedingly cheap so many years in succession. As compared with those quoted in May last the rates obtained were from 2d. to 4d. per pound better for the finer sorts, and no less than 6d. to 10d. higher for the medium and inferior kinds—the general range being from 1s. 2d. to 1s. 7d. for firsts, worked and unworked; 11d. to 1s. 7d. for seconds; 101. to 1s. 4d. for thirds; 9½d. to 1s. 4d. for fourths, and 10d. to 10½d. for broken (in two boxes); besides nine bags clippings of cinnamon chips at 9½d. per pound. This extraordinary rebound in the value of cinnamon can be accounted for on no other grounds than those of extreme urgency in the wants of home buyers and exporters, who cannot wait for supplies to arrive here in their ordinary course but must execute their orders on the instant. Otherwise there would seem to be no special reason for the display of buoyancy and excitement, for the imports of the article into London up to the date of the latest return have been 3,210 bales, or nearly 300 bales more than in the first thirty-four weeks of last year; and though the deliveries for all purposes have reached 4,455 bales, in contrast with 4,170 bales in 1894, the total stock on August 24 was 2,400 bales, in comparison with 2,075 bales in the previous year. Here evidently are no signs of a severe dearth in the available supply, which, moreover, does not include the 650 bales per Ben Lomond just arrived from Colombo and now landing in the West India docks; and it is open to question whether so remarkable a reaction as that above described can be long maintained." We also hear that an extensive speculative business, equal to about 5,000 bales, has been done in Ceylon in cinnamon for shipment until the following October, at 7½d. to 8½d. per pound c.i.f. to arrive at this port; but bearing in mind that the island named can easily produce as much or more of this spice than is required for the world's consumption, present prices, showing a high average for recent years, are sure to act as a strong inducement to ship as largely as possible to this side in time for the next quarterly sales on November 25, when the desire to operate may not be so rampant as it has been of late.

CAPITAL AND INTEREST.

Speaking of the phenomenon of accumulating capital and low returns on investments, which has been recently the subject of serious discussion in Austria, The United States Investor says:

"Low rates of interest benefit the entire community in a multitude of ways. The fact that such accumulations of capital exist is proof of the saving power of the world at the present day, and of the increased aggregate of products available for distribution. It must reduce the price of the necessities of life, other things being equal, because capital can be borrowed for industrial enterprises with greater economy, and smaller profits will be expected on capital already invested in such enterprises. The fall in the rate of interest on money implies the fall in the margin of profit on manufacturing and transportation, and any attempt to maintain profits will simply invite new competition. The world is not rich enough to boast of a real surplus of savings beyond her necessities, and ample use can be found in the long run for all the capital which is saved. The seeming glut and the fall in the rate of interest are only steps in the process of a more even distribution, towards which society seems sometimes to grope a little blindly, but nevertheless advances under the operation of fixed economic laws."

THE PRACTICAL MAN.

EVER again, by some striking proof of its truth, the superiority of the practical man over the man merely theoretical is brought home to our understandings. It is to him we turn in our difficulties; it is he who sometimes in ignorance, sometimes wilfully transgressing the precepts of the theorists, accomplishes the work of the world, says The Michigan Tradesman. What trade, business or profession, what department of learning, does not teem with examples? The sciences which have been monopolized by men who by education, their profession and other circumstances, are notably impractical; what a web of useless, not to say childish, theories and metaphysical speculation has been woven around them. In recent years there is evident everywhere, even in our schools of higher education, a tendency toward the simplifying and making practical all knowledge and science. The most frequent and, indeed, the strongest objection urged against the trade school is that it lays too much importance on theoretical knowledge.

Theory, while a valuable adjunct to the practical mechanic, does not atone for a lack of acquired skill. In the decadence of the apprenticeship system, theory can never take the place of years of toil and self-denial in gaining practice. It is positively painful to contemplate how some man is almost useless to himself and to the world, who has an abundance of latent useful knowledge, which, if generously parceled out among his practical neighbors, would be of the greatest value. The successful man of to-day is the intensely practical man. His every suggestion has worth; the speculative knowledge of the theorist is not brought down from the clouds to the earth. The theorist may for a time dazzle and bewilder the unwary with his airy speculations, but he soon comes to grief with all his glittering generalities. Less to be pitied is the bore who finds his theoretical knowledge invaluable for conversational purposes. The practical man needs no encomiums. Now and always he stands pre-eminent.

MANITOBA'S FLAX CROP.

The Toronto Mail and Empire says: The money received for Manitoba's flax produce this year will form a more important item in the revenue of the farmers than ever before in the history of the province. In the course of a conversation with a gentleman interested in the flax trade, he stated that the quantity exported would amount to fully one million and a quarter bushels. Of this nearly one million bushels would be taken by Mr. Livingston, of Baden, Ont., who turns it into oil cake for the European markets. Besides this, there will be a local consumption of from 6,000 to 9,000 bushels.

SUGGESTS A GROCERS' BUILDING.

A correspondent writes: Would it not be nice for the Grocers' Association to have a building which they could call their own? They could have it built so that the upper part could be let for offices and the lower part be arranged for a gymnasium, library, swimming baths, drawing room, reading room, fitted up with all the latest modern conveniences for the benefit of grocers and grocers' clerks and other desirable persons who may wish to join. They could also have a concert hall in connection; also rooms for classes for the education of the clerks along a practical mercantile line. There could be a class devoted to the history and growth, peculiarities and characteristics of all kinds of teas and coffees. Bookkeeping, banking, etc., should also be taught.

Suppose they put up a building to cost $50,000; the interest on that at 6 per cent. would be $3,000 per annum; suppose they had a membership of 500 grocers of $5, that would mean.....	$2,500
Seven hundred clerks and others at $3.....	2,100
Proceeds from concerts and socials, say.....	2,000
From rents of offices.....	2,000
Total.....	$8,600
Less interest.....	3,000
Five thousand six hundred dollars ahead.....	$5,600

Suppose it was $5,000 ahead, in ten years the place would be their own.

A SERIOUS MATTER.

While excitement runs high in Toronto through the danger to public health by impure water, through a break in the conduit, there is still a more hydra-headed monster to be dreaded; that is, the danger to the public health by impure articles of food. There are some bottled pickles to be seen in nearly every grocery store, which are selling at from nine to ten cents a bottle. Now it is impossible to put them up in pure vinegar and sell them at any such price. It is said by men who claim to know, that they are put up in what they call acid vinegar, a barrel of which can be made for about 50c., whereas pure vinegar would cost about $7 or $8 a barrel. This is serious when you think that this acid vinegar will burn the inside lining of the stomach. A lot of the so-called fruit vinegar is, I am told, made with this acid vinegar and extract of apples. There has hardly been 100 pounds of strawberries bought by any one manufacturer in Toronto this season, and yet I will wager a new hat you will see lots of strawberry; and this is how it will be made: Apple pulp flavoring extract and a kind of grass seed, one pound of which will show up well in 40 pounds of jam. A little while ago there was a beautiful lot of pure lemon jam placed on the market, into the manufacture of which no less than 30 tons of turnips were used. Then there are catsups on the market which are dangerous. To get pure thick catsup you have to boil down 40 gallons to 20 gallons, but instead of boiling it down some of them put about 3 lbs. of corn starch into it to thicken it, and color it with cochineal and sometimes carmine, which requires to be cut with ammonia to bring out its color. To keep it from fermenting they stuff it with salicylic acid. It seems to me that the inspectors of food should look into this matter. To the trade I would say: Deal with reputable houses only.

R. M. C.

It is not stated whether the canned horse now on the shelves of some grocers in the United States is Clydesdale, Percheron, hackney or ex-street car. The matter is probably too delicate; more delicate than the meat, at any rate.

THE EXPORT APPLE PACKAGE.

IN the following letter to the editor of The Glasgow (Scot.) Evening Herald will be found some pointers to apple growers and shippers worthy of attention :

SIR,—There is a railway race for a record attracting attention at present, but there is a far more stupendous and important race for a record going on amongst the soil producing nations of the world to ledgerize Britain as their special customer for their respective products, and Britain is the best customer for many of their products—in many cases the only one—to whichever of them can monopolize her orders. Her import for her pantry use figures up to about £180,000,000 annually, of which sum about £6,000,000 is for fruit, and this sum might be doubled by care against waste and by a methodical dietary application of it to the expressed wishes and wants of the people here who consume it, and are both able and willing to pay for it.

Now, in the item of apples Canadians have the mile-a-minute of the race for record on their hands if they would judiciously and honestly use it. Dishonesty in the packing of these barbarous barrels is stupid ; because right down honesty would serve all purposes better for the financial profits of the growers and shippers in Canada, and with much less trouble if backed with fraternal admonitions by their consignees in Scotland. Moreover, the empty barrel, costing in Canada about half a dollar each, is only firewood here ; whereas the cheap square wicker hamper, holding upwards of a bushel of apples, when empty would find ready purchasers in grocers and other shopkeepers for catering parcels to their customers, and cost primarily less money than the barrel.

And the intelligent fruit growers and shippers of apples in Canada know all that, but they are handicapped by the barrel custom. Mr. Sheppard, Montreal, of long standing and reputation, who makes apples in season one of his specialties in his home trade, refuses to make consignments to Britain on his own risk of return. He has done so to Liverpool and Edinburgh in 50-lb. packages, but always with irritably unsatisfactory results. His recent consignments, he says, of select fruit in such packages to commission merchants in the latter city were realized by the hammer in the characteristic rough-and-tumble, adjective, and hilarious form to an appreciative audience, no doubt, but regardless of quality, merit, avoidupois poundage, or careful packages ; with results pleasing to all but Mr. Sheppard. He would consign no more for sale in that manner.

The result of the desirable reform in the classification and package of the Canadian fruit trade would be all round productive of fair remuneration—profit to the grower, shipper, consignee, and their subsidiary dealers ; and not less so to the family man purchaser in Glasgow, who might thereby have a reasonably sized hamper of apples in the corner of his kitchen at a reasonable price, for handy family use, and the empty hamper to the bargain for the housewife's clothes-holding purposes on the washing green. A barrel of apples is too much for a small house, and is often simply a barrel of irritation and disappointment.

I am, etc., JOHN MCLEAN.

THAT EGG PROBLEM.

THESE additional answers have been received to the egg problem published a few weeks ago in THE CANADIAN GROCER :

Lui Doeringer, Brantford—Re egg problem. Friend Laughton's answer, 721 eggs, makes 60 dozen. Did he ever see a woman carry such a weight of eggs in a basket ? I think 301 eggs is nearer correct.

301	divided by 2	equals	150	and 1	remainder.
301	"	3	"	100	" 1 "
301	"	4	"	75	" 1 "
301	"	5	"	60	" 1 "
301	"	6	"	50	" 1 "
301	"	7	"	43	"

No number under 301 is divisible in the above manner. Therefore, beyond doubt, a woman would be less apt to carry 60 dozen eggs (about 80 lbs.) than she would to take in 25 dozen, or say 35 to 40 lbs.

Kind regards to Friend Laughton.

E. Ashley, clerk with William Patterson & Son, Belleville—How many eggs had she ?

Mr. Laughton's answer of 721 eggs may be correct, but to my mind it is too many for any ordinary woman to handle in one basket unless she were a giantess. Seven hundred and twenty-one eggs is equal to 60 dozen and 1 over ; that amount is rather large. Below will be found a more reasonable answer, and in all probabilities the correct one.

301 eggs, or 25 dozen and 1 over.

Does this not look more reasonable ? To my mind it does.

LONDON, Sept. 21st, 1895.

F. Smith, of P. M. Lawrason, London—How many eggs had she ? Seeing answer to egg problem in your last issue by J. H. Laughton, Parkhill, the writer would suggest 301 as being much easier carried. Friend Laughton always did believe in big baskets.

J. H. Hager, Hagersville—The old lady rather got the start of Mr. Laughton last week, as the basket contained but 301 eggs. Mr. L is out 420 eggs.

John Fryke, Hamilton—Regarding egg question appearing in issue of 13th inst., Mr. J. H. Laughton, grocer, Parkhill, has found time to figure out at 721 eggs ; but I think I have come to better conclusions by making the number of eggs that she had at 301. Being a smaller number it would be nearer the mark.

PROBLEM FOR MATHEMATICIANS.

EDITOR GROCER,—If you would like to give out a simple problem with a startling answer, then the following will answer the purpose :

If a man hires to a farmer for 52 weeks, for the remuneration of 1 grain of barley for first week, and double the pay each succeeding week, thus :

First week's pay	1 grain.
Second " "	2 grains.
Third " "	4 " "
Fourth " "	8 " "
Fifth " "	16 " "
Sixth " "	32 " "
And so on till 52nd week,

How many bushels will he receive for the 52nd week ?

LATE STRAWBERRIES.

Mr. Charles White, of St. Norbert, brought to the city yesterday a fine basket of strawberries freshly plucked from his garden. They were of a variety known as the "Oregon Ever Bearing." Mr. White, who lately moved here from the Puget Sound, is an enthusiast in the culture of this fruit. He brought with him from the Coast a thousand plants, including several different varieties. Mr. White is confident he can grow strawberries successfully here and declares that next year he will have a good supply for the local market during the latter part of August and early in September. The berries he brought in yesterday were of a good size and of a delicious flavor.—Winnipeg Free Press of Sept. 17.

A GROCER FLIM-FLAMMED.

According to a London, Ont., despatch, a confidence-man, who has escaped arrest, succeeded in flim-flamming a small grocer out of $5 in the often-worked way. With his arm in a sling he entered the store, and, having asked for something not on sale, requested the lady in charge, Miss O'Donnel, to give him a $5 bill for that amount of silver. The silver proved to be ten cents short, and the sharper, expressing surprise because he had "just got the money at the place near by, gathered up the silver, and, giving the lady the bill, as she supposed (he had apparently sealed it up in an envelope) to keep till he returned, he started out to hunt up the lacking ten cents. Of course he never returned, and the envelope contained not the bill but a worthless piece of paper.

REASONS FOR RAISINS.

A RAISIN vineyard is in full bearing in three years, but the grape has not reached its perfection until the vine from which it springs is six or seven years old, says Harper's Weekly.

The Muscat and Thompson seedless are the best variety of raisin grape cultivated, the latter having only been introduced within the last few years, but the Zinfandel and Sultan have also large claims upon popularity.

Standing before one of these vines, upon which inverted cones of countless perfect spheres are hanging—each cluster weighing several pounds—a vision of the Hebrew spies, with their magnificent grapes of Eschol, borne "on a staff between the two," rises before us, and involuntarily we exclaim, "Is not this the Promised Land?"

About September 1, the long sunny days, the dewless nights and percolated soil have perfected their marvelous work, and the first crop is ready to be gathered. By this time the laterals have run riot, and the vineyardist can scarcely see over the top of his vines.

The process of grape-gathering for raisins requires the most delicate handling and cleanliness. Hundreds of shallow wooden trays, about five feet square, are distributed among dozens of trained pickers. The bunches are carefully cut from the vine, and as carefully laid upon the base of the tray to avoid bruising them. There they remain untouched for ten days and nights. One-half of the grape is by this time cured: but instead of turning them with the hand, an empty tray is placed over them, the lower one is inverted, and the turning and transfer have been made. In twelve more days the curing is completed. The trays and contents are then stacked about twenty trays high, where they remain for five days sweating, when they are ready to be graded and packed in boxes of five, ten, twenty and fifty pounds for the eastern market.

Vines six years old yield one and a half tons of raisins per acre, giving a net income of $200 per acre. While the supply of raisins is as unfailling as the growing demand, there is an esthetic as well as economic side. A few women have not only found raisin vineyards a source of comfortable revenue, but their cultivation a most elegant and healthful pastime.

The approach to some of their homes, with the vineyard in the rear of the dwelling house, is through avenues of palm and magnolia trees, and if they lie, as many do, against the foot-hills of the Sierras, a ride through the columnar glories of giant redwoods is a fitting introduction to the beauty and utility which is sure to be beyond.

THE "SKIN" GROCER.

The New York World relates the following story. "There is a grocer in the ninth ward whose one aim is underselling the trade. That he does this in many instances is made plain by a comparison of his prices with those of other grocers in the vicinity. His stock is not nice to look at and much of it appears to be shopworn. It is said that he buys up job lots from fire sales, goods damaged in transit and consignments that fail to come up to expectation.

"However that may be, a woman bought a can of tomatoes from him and when she took it home and opened it the contents were unfit for use. She brought it right back and requested that it be exchanged. The grocer refused to listen to this proposition and when the woman's husband came home she told him all about it. The next day the grocer was surprised by a visit from the food inspectors. They made a raid on his canned goods and after their departure the grocer could not have given the woman a similar can in exchange, even had he been willing to do so.

"The news of the raid attracted quite a crowd, but no one enjoyed it so much as the woman's husband, who arrived early on the scene and was last to leave. When the inspector's wagon drove off the man entered the store and addressing the grocer, rubbed it in after this fashion:

"My wife bought a can of tomatoes here yesterday. They were bad and when she asked you to exchange them you refused. When I came home and heard about it I notified the authorities. I see they have just been here and cleaned out all your bad stock; so whatever you have left must be fit to eat. Let me have a can of tomatoes, please."

BRITAIN'S CROPS.

The London Times publishes the third of its special crop reports for this season. The result of its investigations shows that during the past month the cereal crops of Great Britain have not in any way improved, but, on the other hand, that their condition has further deteriorated, wheat being 1.5 worse, barley 0.9 lower and oats 1.0 down. The following table gives the condition of the different crops in Great Britain on Sept. 1, with comparisons, 100 representing the condition of perfect healthfulness:

Crop.	Sept. 1895.	Aug. 1895.	Sept. 1894.	Sept. 1893.

SCARCITY IN CERTAIN COFFEES.

The Rio News of August 19th has the following: "So far as we have been able to learn, the purchases have been, in great proportion, of good coffees and destined to north of Europe markets, and the quietness of American buyers is supposed to result from a determination to allow the buyers of the better qualities to 'fill up,' when a possible modification in dealers' views as to the value of the lower qualities may occur. The opinion among the dealers is, however, quite general that during the present crop there is to be a scarcity of grades from No. 8 down, and as it is a common report that considerable sums of exchange have been sold for future delivery, holders of coffee show no nervousness as yet, although there has been some business, for future delivery, spoken of in the coffee market at prices under quotations."

HALIFAX, N. S.

THE TRAVELER AT HOME.

MANY people who observe the C. T. on the road with his jolly ways and light heart may suppose he cares not for home or its sacred ties, or at least is indifferent to its pleasures, says a writer in Ohio Merchant. Such is not the case by a large majority. A careful analysis of their character, based on years of experience, leads to the conclusion that the C. T. loves his home as few men do, and it is the Mecca towards which his daily thoughts are directed, and to which he gladly returns at the first opportunity consistent with his business. The mere fact that he is away for a longer or shorter period from the home only adds zest to the idea of a return, and a better preparation for its fullest enjoyment. I once met a traveler who, by reason of extent of territory, could reach his home but once a year, and that a vacation of but a few days. When asked if it paid to keep up so great an expense for such a brief stay, his answer only emphasizes the foregoing, "that as the weary days rolled around he constantly kept in communication with his family, and looked forward with pleasant anticipation to even a remote return, that he knew if taken sick he had a place to go where loving hands would minister to his wants, and a haven to which he could at last retire and pass his declining years when worn out by the routine work of his calling."

Yes, the C.T.'s are seen in the hotel writing room each evening busily writing, and the early morning mail trains are freighted with messages to the ones at home, saying "I will be in Saturday night," and the faithful wife and eager little ones count the hours that intervene until papa appears.

What a well-earned rest it is to relax from the weekly grind of business and in the home circle once again forget cares, to renew social life for even a brief period, and "rest up over Sunday."

DECLINE OF THE GROCERY TRADE.

A correspondent in your last issue seemed to think that the grocery business is on the decline. I beg to differ with him on this question. As long as I live I have heard this complaint of poor business and hard times, but I think there was not much in it at any time. I think the world is growing better and richer instead of poorer. Of course, we are never satisfied, and the more we have the more we want. We all have more comfort and enjoyment than our forefathers did 50 or 100 years ago—the storekeeper as well as the laborer. The more money we make the more we spend, and we can never get enough. How could there be so many inventions and labor-saving machinery without cheapening the products of labor and enabling us to buy more of them? Many of us now take trips to summer resorts during the hot season, go to the theatre in winter, and occasionally some of us go to Europe. We give our children a good education; our wives wear silk, or at least good dresses, and we ourselves wear gold watches, diamond pins, etc. What did our forefathers do 50 years ago? True, some of them got rich, but were there as many grocers then wearing gold watches, or going to the theatres, as there are now? I think not. The grocers at that time worked harder, kept their stores open longer and got up earlier in the morning. Their stores, as a rule, were much smaller. I think there are just as many people getting rich in the business to day as ever. The only trouble is that we don't want to live on as little money as our forefathers did. — Progress, in The Advocate.

DELIVERY WAGON ADVERTISING.

A great many enterprising retail grocers, not only in the larger cities but in small country towns as well, are utilizing their delivery wagons profitably as advertising mediums, says Grocery World. The grocery wagon goes everywhere in delivering orders, and conspicuously placarded with muslin or canvas signs, displaying some special bargain or general advertising, they are sure to attract attention.

The majority of grocers simply display their firm name and address, with the word "grocer" on their delivery wagons. This is a mistake. In the grocery business everything which can yield advertising should be made to do it. It is not like a profession where advertising is restricted. One of the most progressive grocers the writer ever knew does business in a small inland New Jersey town. Notwithstanding the insignificance of the place, however, this man's methods are novel, unique and strictly up to date, and he is making money hand over fist. The grocer uses his delivery wagon for advertising, and his opinion is that he derives great benefit from it.

His plan is a simple, but very effective one, and any grocer who desires can adopt it. He had two light metal frames made, which are destined to be attached to each side of the wagon. Over these frames are tightly stretched some cheap, light material on which is stenciled various advertising matter. The grocer in question provides variety by showing a different color for each day. On Monday, for instance, he will have orange; Tuesday, crimson; and so on. He devises various bargains to be displayed on them, and declares that he has traced a great deal of business to those signs alone.

One important requirement is that these signs should be arranged neatly and that the printed advertising matter should be nicely done. Owing to the conspicuous coloring, anything but good taste and neatness in the lettering would give an effect of shoddy cheapness, which will kill the whole thing immediately.

HALIFAX NOTES.

R. J. Mathison has purchased the cornmeal milling plant erected at Windsor some time ago by Coolfleet & Co., and will set it up in Dartmouth.

Nearly all the city bakers have reduced the price of bread, 2 lb. loaves, to 4c. Moir & Co. made the cut last fall and kept it up while flour was high. The cut by the other bakers is to meet this, as Moir & Co. were taking all the trade.

Blackwell & Co., pork packers, Montreal, will open a branch house in this city, with B. Rautenburg as manager.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Z. Limoges, produce merchant, Montreal, was killed by a street railway car on September 22.

The first initial to Mr. H. C. Boomer's name was omitted in our last issue, making it read C. Boomer, instead of as above.

Mr. Thos. Dickson, jr., Lebanon Group, Madulkelle, Ceylon, was introduced to the trade in Toronto last week by Mr. Geo. Stanway.

John Walker, one of the leading grocers of Paris, has removed into a large corner store. He now has one of the finest retail stores in the country.

Mr. J. H. Magor, of Frank Magor & Co., Montreal, will visit Toronto and Hamilton early next week. There are still some fall orders to be taken. Mr. Magor expects to secure them in time for shipments to be made before close of navigation.

H. J. Bourne, of Bourne Bros, general merchants, Revelstoke, B. C., was in Toronto this week with his bride. Trade, he says, has improved a great deal lately. THE CANADIAN GROCER congratulates and hopes the newly-wedded couple will spend many happy and prosperous years in their Rocky Mountain home.

EARLY CLOSING IN LONDON.

A London, Ont., despatch says: An influential delegation from the Grocers' Organization attended the last meeting of the Early-Closing Association with a view to secure the shutting up of stores at a more seasonable hour Saturday evenings. It is claimed that the customers, and not the merchants, are to blame in the matter, and special efforts will be made to have employers pay their hands some day other than Saturday, and also to urge purchasers to do their buying earlier in the day.

Herr P. Erbach, of the Grasserzögthum, Baden, is at the Manitoba on his annual trip to this country for the purpose of buying and shipping flax seed to Germany. There is at present no flax offering, but the market is expected to move shortly.—Free Press, Winnipeg.

FILLED CHEESE A BOOMERANG.

THE practice in the United States of making filled cheese has become an abomination which threatens to destroy the home as well as the foreign trade. Oleomargarine and lard appear to be the principal "filling" ingredients.

The evil has become so threatening that press and people are united in demanding that steps be taken to remedy it. Referring to this demand The Utica Herald says:

This year "filled cheese" seems destined to knock out even the home trade unless dairymen, dealers and everybody interested in the genuine product of the cow, unite together firmly and contribute liberally to compel the sale of this fraud for just what it is. This can surely be done if a sufficient fund can be raised to bear the expense. It would take but a small sum from each individual if the whole dairy community would unite, and it is believed that the majority of the dairymen can see and appreciate the necessity of it. The trouble is that lard cheese is sold as full cream, or an imitation sold as the genuine product, and there is no question that this can be stopped if a sufficient amount of funds can be raised. The movement started by the Utica Board of Trade is being pushed as rapidly as possible, and the patrons of all factories are earnestly requested to respond immediately to the circular issued, in order that there may be no delay. In another week September cheese will begin to be marketed, and it is hoped to make a part of the September and October stock worth more money than cheese is now bringing. But it can't be done by holding back and depending on your neighbors to carry on the movement. Everybody must join in and do what he can to save the dairy industry from any further disaster.

INCREASED EXPORTS.

The trade returns for the past two months indicate a gratifying increase in the trade of the country. Exports are valued at $24,876,199, as against $22,559,419, or an increase of two millions and a quarter. The duty collected for the same period shows an increase of $318,000. Imports for the two months manifest a falling off of exactly two million dollars.

AFTER THE HUCKSTERS.

At the second general meeting of the stockholders of the Cleveland Retail Grocers' Association, according to The Ohio Merchant, an ordinance was framed for presentation to the City Council providing that hucksters shall pay license fees as follows:

For horse and wagon license with one man, $150; for each additional man accompanying same, $40; for two-wheeled cart and man, $50; for foot peddler, $25.

At present a foot peddler is charged $1, and a man with a horse and wagon, $25.

B. C. LUMBER FOR AFRICA.

The very large increase in shipments of lumber to South Africa from the mills of British Columbia and Puget Sound must indeed be gratifying to lumbermen. This new field for fir lumber promises to equal, if indeed it does not soon surpass, the demand for it in Australia. Within the last two or three months five large steamships and four sailing vessels have sailed for South Africa with cargoes of lumber, amounting in the aggregate to some 15,000,000 feet. Another steamship, the Yanariva, which recently arrived from the Orient, is now loading for South Africa. It is claimed that the steamships can carry lumber as cheaply as sailing vessels and make reasonable profits. The increasing demand for Douglas fir lumber in South Africa marks a new era in the trade, as it is an entirely new and promising field, which has formerly been supplied with lumber from the Baltic. Now that Douglas fir lumber has secured a firm hold in South Africa, there is every reason to believe that the demand will rapidly increase, and South Africa eventually will be one of the best markets for Douglas fir, as it is far superior to Baltic pine or any other lumber where size, strength and durability are required.—B. C. Commercial Journal.

Of talk so far, about the Salmon pack this year, but as a matter of importance quality takes precedence over quantity.

Quality is the first consideration in our case. Flag-ship Salmon will never be anything else than first-class.

ADVANCE IN WOODENWARE.

AN ADVANCE of 5 per cent. has been announced by the Canadian manufacturers in the price of woodenware. The change was decided upon at a meeting held on Thursday last in Ottawa.

The manufacture of woodenware has not been a profitable industry for some time. Not only were values influenced by the quietness of trade at home, but the manufacturers were compelled to put prices down still further in order to meet the slaughter prices on the United States product which was being shipped into the country in considerable quantities in spite of a duty of 20 per cent., the manufacturers on the other side being anxious to accept almost any price while the depression obtained.

When the raw material, wages, etc., were cheap the conditions were onerous enough, but they became more so when the raw material and wages both appreciated. To such a situation had affairs arrived that one of the manufacturers, and the largest, seriously contemplated shutting down his factory until better prices obtained.

In view of this the surprise is not that prices have advanced 5 per cent., but that they did not advance more: An increase of from 10 to 15 per cent. would have only brought prices to where they were before the decline. There is, therefore, some reason for the assertion that a further advance before long is probable.

There are at present only two manufacturers of woodenware in the country. More there were at one time, but, through senseless cutting, the number has been reduced to two. It is to be hoped that these will live and let live.

That all underhand work is not yet numbered with the past is evident from an incident of the day on which the recent advance took place. At the morning session, while it was practically agreed that there should be an advance, an adjournment was made for lunch before the agreement was formally consummated. In the meantime, however, the representatives of one concern in the different parts of the country became in some mysterious manner acquainted with the fact that an increase was practically certain; and they put their information to such good account that before they had been officially notified of the advance they had booked a number of orders at the old figure.

Stocks of woodenware in first and second hands appear to be light. At all events orders are already coming in to the manufacturers with increasing momentum.

"CUTTING" IN CANNED GOODS.

MANY rumors are afloat regarding packers' prices on canned tomatoes and corn. From what THE CANADIAN GROCER can gather there is more smoke than fire, but where there is some smoke there naturally must be some fire.

The canners' supposed price for tomatoes and corn is 75c., but this figure is being cut. There is no question about it. And it is not confined to what in trade parlance are termed "off goods." It is true that very little business is passing as between packer and wholesaler, but little as it may be, some of it is passing at figures lower than those that are supposed to rule.

The fact that stocks in second and third hands, are, as a rule, sufficient for present requirements, and, furthermore, that the pack of corn and tomatoes promises to be large, may fairly be set down as the cause of the cutting.

That the practice is a senseless one is evident from the fact that it costs as a rule about 72c. to put these goods up ready for shipping, besides which there is the additional cost of making delivery.

The representative of one leading packer spoken to regarding the matter, while acknowledging that prices were being cut, declared that the cutting was chiefly on goods sold on Northwest account.

While upon the canned goods situation, it might not be without some interest to note the outlook for canned tomatoes in the United States. From all accounts the pick there is likely to be the smallest for some years, the poor results of the season of 1894 having discouraged many of the growers. A New Jersey packer of tomatoes, whose average annual product is 25,000 cases, does not expect to get out more than 7,000 cases, although he has made contracts for some 11,000 cases. In spite of this, however, we are assured that buyers in the United States are taking little or no interest in the market. This, however, is perhaps largely due to the fact that jobbers still have a great deal of 1894 stock in their warehouses.

The situation in the United States should tend to strengthen the Canadian market for canned tomatoes, notwithstanding a duty of 30 per cent.

WE SHOULD GUARD OUR CHEESE.

IT is an ill wind that blows nobody good. And although Canada warmly resented the statement that cheese filled with oleomargarine was being shipped from this country to the United Kingdom, yet good results will flow therefrom if Canadians so will.

The charge in question was not only refuted, but the editor of The North British Agriculturist has explained that what he meant to say was that filled cheese from the United States was being placed on the home market. But there is no knowing when a similar charge may be again levied.

We know that filled cheese is being made in the United States and exported. We are equally well aware that our cousins to the south have not hesitated to, in the English market, trade on Canada's good name: many a cheese made in the United States, and shipped via a Canadian port, has been sold on the other side of the Atlantic as a Dominion-made article. Uncle Sam is never adverse to donning other people's clothes if he can make a dollar by so doing.

And if our respected cousins have not hesitated to sell ordinary cheese as Canadian, it is scarcely probable they have any pricks of conscience about selling the extraordinary or spurious as Canadian.

Wisconsin is one of the chief centres of the filled cheese industry; and with the cheese from that state, which crosses into Canada at the Soo en route for the Atlantic ports and Europe, it is likely there may be some of the filled article. Whether this fact had anything to do with the recent charge THE CANADIAN GROCER has no opinion to express. But upon this we have a decided opinion: Canada should take some steps to protect her own interests. We have nothing to say about the cheese makers on the other side transshipping their product, either good or spurious, through Canada or sending it out from our ports. Let them send it, and the more the better for our railway and steamship companies. Neither is it of any use to plead with our cousins to be honest in the matter. They will be honest when it pays them best to be so. But we can guard ourselves. We can pass a law compelling all cheese to be branded. At the last session of Parliament a bill having this end in view was introduced, and it is expected that the next session will see its adoption. It provided that every cheese box and every cheese should be branded with the word "Canada," the date of manufacture, the registered number of the factory and the initial letters of the province.

Of this the people of the United Kingdom may be assured: Canada has no oleomargarine filled cheese. We make no oleomargarine in the country, and the law prohibits our importation of it. But assurance on the part of Canadians is not enough; we must take means to ensure a continuance of the high favor which Canadian cheese occupies on the British market, and from which there are those on both sides of the Atlantic who would fain depose us.

If The North British Agriculturist's charges accelerate us in securing the desideratum, it will be an example of where ill wind does sometimes blow good.

WILL BE MANY POOR RAISINS.

What THE CANADIAN GROCER said a week or two ago regarding damages to the Valencia raisin crop by rains has been confirmed by advices just to hand.

The bad weather, it appears, was of some four days' duration, with the result that a great deal of inferior fruit will be on the market this season, and at low figures.

As a matter of fact, low prices are already being quoted by cable. THE CANADIAN GROCER knows of at least one packer who is putting a special line on the market at 2s. per cwt. less than his regular brand. This special line does not contain the packer's name.

The advices referred to intimate that there will be a great deal of poor fruit on the market this season. In the meantime, however, there does not appear to be any appreciable depreciation in the value of the ordinary first-class brands.

SMALLER-SIZED PRUNES SCARCE.

Cable advices received this week in Toronto from Trieste indicate increased strength in the primary prune market.

The advices in question state that the smaller sizes are very scarce, being practically out of the market.

This is all the more interesting to Canadians from the fact that what are known as the smaller sizes are the standard fruit on this market, being cheaper goods.

In consequence of the scarcity of the smaller sizes their price to the larger sizes is relatively much higher than usual. As a rule the difference between each grade is 2s., or 8s. from the smallest to the largest size, but at the moment the difference between the highest and the lowest grade is only 2s., or one-fourth the usual figure.

Regarding the quantity, the latest advices say that it is "very, very short."

MATCHES LIKELY TO BE DEARER.

Matches, THE CANADIAN GROCER learns on pretty good authority, are likely to be advanced in price before long.

Some time ago, it will be remembered, a reduction was made, and the talk is now that not only may the old figures be replaced, but that an advance even exceeding these will be made.

"CHEAP" TUTTI FRUTTI.

Tutti Frutti—Another shame. You've been paying 5c. for Tutti Frutti, but don't do it any longer. John Eaton Co. sells it 2 for 5c.

The above is an extract from an advertisement which was inserted in the Toronto daily press on Saturday last by the John Eaton Co., one of the "Queen City's" department stores.

It is frequently charged against department stores that they sometimes advertise at a great reduction in price an article which they have not in stock.

Be that as it may, there is ground for suspecting that Tutti Frutti was not in the John Eaton Co.'s store on Saturday last, as advertised.

When Adams & Sons Co., manufacturers of Tutti Frutti, saw the advertisement, they, early on Saturday morning, deputed five persons to visit the John Eaton Co.'s store to purchase the article. Each was told that the firm did not keep Tutti Frutti, but mentioned another kind it did keep. THE CANADIAN GROCER also deputed one of its staff to purchase Tutti Frutti, and he too received a like reply. What he was given as a substitute for Tutti Frutti was decidedly inferior in every respect to the article made by the Adams Co.

THE CANADIAN GROCER does not charge the John Eaton Co. with deliberate falsifying. What was done may have been the result of a misunderstanding. The fact, however, remains that an article was advertised which would-be purchasers could not get, and demands that the firm make some explanation, if explanation is possible.

Whether studied or not, the advertisement in question will not tend to entrench the John Eaton Co. in public favor, and the continuance of such practices will kill any business. It is difficult to understand how the Thomas Thompson family, who are practically the owners of the John Eaton Co., could have, with their half century of experience, made such a blunder.

BETTER FEELING IN SUGAR.

The sugar market gives indications of a more settled feeling in regard to values.

Last week the refiners in Montreal were shading prices on both granulated and yellows. This week, however, THE CANADIAN GROCER learns that they have arrived at a tacit agreement not to shade 4c. on granulated and 3c. on yellows at the refineries.

It is explained as a reason for this change of temper that stocks on hand have been well worked down, that the demand from jobbers is of larger volume, and that the marked activity in refined sugars in New York has exerted a sympathetic influence.

ADVANCE IN BAKING POWDER.

Cream of tartar continues to have an upward tendency in price.

To lay the commodity down here to day would cost something like 25 to 26c., an advance of 9c. per pound from the lowest point.

The original cause of the advance is the decreased output in France owing to the falling off in the manufacture of wine. But all of the advance can scarcely be attributed to natural causes. A syndicate is in evidence on the market, and it has naturally manipulated prices.

Compared with what they have been, prices are not, however, abnormally high at present, whatever they may be in the future. Less than five years ago the wholesale price was 33 to 35c., and when it ruled at 28c. it was considered a pretty low figure.

It is the general opinion that the end is not yet, and some at least of the makers of baking powder in Canada have advanced prices materially.

MONTREAL BOARD OF TRADE.

At the meeting of the Montreal Board of Trade held on Tuesday, the new Italian Consul addressed the Board in reference to trade between Canada and Italy.

He explained that up to the present there had been no practical means of bringing to the knowledge of Italians what the resources of Canada were. It would be his duty to do so in order to induce an expansion of trade between the two countries; and he would be exceedingly glad if any of the mercantile community would favor him with suggestions as to how this could be done. He referred to the treaty which had been arranged between Canada and France, which had facilitated trade between the two countries in wines and fruits from France and produce from Canada. Italy desired closer business relations also and hoped that the result could be arrived at to the mutual advantage of both nations.

The Board some time ago wrote the Controller of Customs asking why duty had been collected on the tins, cans or packages in which canned fish were imported, pointing out that no such duties had been collected in the past. A reply was read from the Commissioner of Customs stating that Item No. 334 of the new tariff provided for a duty on packages made of tin or other material, and that the department had no option in the matter.

The secretary was instructed to reply, stating that the clause was practically a dead letter until very recently, and urging strongly that the practice of admitting such packages free be continued.

He was also instructed to forward the petition recently adopted by the Board in favor of free canals to Ottawa.

NEW DRIED FRUIT.

THERE have been further unusually low offers on new crop Valencia raisins at Montreal during the present week. In fact, the prospects point to a lower ruling price for the opening business in new fruit this fall than the lowest touched last season.

Sales agents have offered to contract freely at a price which is equivalent to a cost, laid down on the wharf, of 3c. There is a disposition to treat these low offers with extreme caution, but the fact that they are being made has its effect.

It is understood that sales have been made as low as 9s. 6d. to 10s. for ordinary off-stalk and 12s. for fine off-stalk, cost and freight, by the direct steamers.

Figuring on these sales, exporters expect prices to open on the first direct arrivals of new raisins at a range of about $3\frac{3}{4}$ to 4c.

The feeling in currants is much steadier, and, based on sales that have been made so far, prices on first arrivals in Montreal will open about the same level as they did last fall, viz., $3\frac{3}{4}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c. in bbls. and 4 to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c. in cases.

The first direct steamer, the Escalona, passed Gibraltar on the 20th September, and her agents expect her in Montreal by the 10th October. They have no definite intelligence of her cargo, but expect that her lot of fruit will consist of 40,000 boxes and half-boxes of fruit. The second steamer, the Fremona, was cabled as leaving Patras on Tuesday, the 24th.

PRIVATE POSTCARDS "CATCHING."

The notice in THE GROCER of W. H. Gillard & Co.'s private postal card, which is one of the most attractive yet sent out, has stirred up many other wholesale merchants and manufacturers, who have called at THE GROCER office to see it. We have no doubt that Gillard & Co. will be glad to send a sample to anyone who may write them for it.

Robt. Greig & Co., Montreal, send one printed in two colors. The back is divided into three spaces. In the centre they say that "Mr. ——— will have the pleasure of calling on you, etc." On the right is a list of grocery articles for which they are sole agents, and on the left the articles which they manufacture. The weak point in the card is on the face, which bears only the words "Private Postcard." Why not their name also!

WANT CHEESE BRANDED.

Produce dealers and cheese exporters in Montreal are commencing to agitate for the enactment of the law proposed last session for the branding of all cheese.

They contend that the chief influence against the bill last session was the opinion of Professor Robertson, who held that its compulsory enforcement was not practical. Leading members of the Butter and Cheese Association contend that it is entirely practical, and hold that the Professor is not consistent in the action he has taken. He has had all the cheese made in Prince Edward Island branded with the date, section and month, as inspection in the warehouse at Montreal proves. This being so, the shippers and traders cannot understand why he should work against it elsewhere. They point out that there has been legislation to compel the farmers to furnish good milk to the factories, and why should not people who put the manufactured article upon the market in a fraudulent way be prevented from doing so. Why should the former be punished if he supplies impure milk and the latter be allowed to misrepresent the goods he sells?

The position taken certainly seems to be a sound one.

TWO-COLORED ADVERTISEMENTS.

In the last ten years there has been a most wonderful development in printing machinery of every kind and in engraving and designing. Advertisers and publishers have not been slow in taking advantage of the opportunities thus afforded them, as many readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER can testify. We believe that in the very near future all advertisements will be run in colors in all the first-class journals at a fraction above the present rate. Experiments are now being made with printing presses that will print two and three colors at one impression. We can assure the advertisers of THE CANADIAN GROCER that the moment a press of this kind is found to work satisfactorily it will be ours. We have led, and propose to lead, in this procession; as good as yesterday won't do us.

In the Fall Trade Number, now in press, more than half the advertising pages will be in colors. This means great additional cost to the publishers and a slight additional cost to the advertiser. We find any number of advertisers quite anxious for two colors, and we are not disappointing them.

THE CLERKS' ENTERTAINMENT.

THE entertainment given by the Grocers' Clerks' Association, Montreal, on Tuesday evening was a great success. They had the largest gathering but one ever held in the fine Monument National, which has a seating capacity of fully 1,500.

The members of the committee deserve the greatest praise for the perfect way in which everything was carried out. Of course the bulk of the work fell upon the shoulders of president J. B. E. Poirier and the secretary, J. A. Laughran, but the others were equally energetic in pushing the sale of tickets and making the preliminary arrangements. A portion of the proceeds will go to the "poor fund," but there should be a nice balance to deposit to the credit of the association.

Two or three rows in front were reserved for the guests. Among them were Hon. James McShane and Mrs. McShane, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Fortier, Ald. Renault. The Wholesale Guild was represented by the president, Mr. Charles Chaput, and the Commercial Travellers' Association by President Massicotte, and THE CANADIAN GROCER by John Bayne MacLean. Where, however, was the Mayor of Montreal, Mr. Villeneuve, himself a grocer, and a good one, too, and where was Mr. Johnston, the big, warm-hearted president of the Retail Grocers' Association, who should have been on hand to encourage the Clerks. Lieut.-Governor Chapeau allowed the entertainment to be given under his auspices, and the Governor-General's secretary sent the following very nice letter:

DEAR SIR,—I am authorized to acknowledge with thanks the receipt this morning of your courteous letter inviting their Excellencies to a soiree of the Union des Commis Epiciers at the Monument National on the 17th inst.

As their Excellencies are at present in British Columbia, and will not be able to return before the date named, I fear that it will not be possible for them to accept the invitation so kindly proffered, but I am authorized to express to you their sincere good wishes for the success of the gathering. I remain, yours faithfully,

W. T. S. HEWETT.

Mr. J. A. LAUGHRAN.

The play was the well-known "Monte-Christo," which was very cleverly presented by a company of amateurs under the direction of Mr. Pettjean.

At the conclusion of the play the guests were invited to partake of light refreshments, when Mr. McShane took the opportunity of congratulating the Clerks on the great success of the affair.

The committee, who had charge of the arrangements was composed of the officers of the association, Messrs. J. B. Poirier, J. P. Beauvais, O. Bergeron, J. A. Laughran, Arthur Desrochers, O. Legendre, W. A. Archambault, J. N. Robert, Viateur Laforest, Paul Ethier, E. Migneron, H. E. Thibautier, and Ed. Labrecque.

THEY TOOK IN $400.

Montreal Grocers' Clerks' Association met this week to receive reports of the recent entertainment. The total receipts were over $400. After paying expenses $70 was donated to the fund for free Christmas gifts to poor children of the city and the balance went to swell the funds of the association. A cheque was received from Mr. Chas. Chaput, president of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, for $10, who wrote congratulating the association on the good work they are doing, and said he was glad to encourage them.

Arrangements were made for holding a general meeting of all the clerks in the city to further the early-closing movement.

It was proposed to celebrate in some way St. Nicholas day, who is the patron saint of the association.

United States Consul-General Mason, at Frankfort, Germany, in a report to the Department of State, says the beet sugar product for all European countries for this year is estimated at 3,015,000 tons, against 4,730,000 tons for the previous year, which was an abnormal yield.

The St. Johns News learns that negotiations are being conducted by Count de Bouthillier in Paris to effect a sale to a wealthy French syndicate of the St. Johns Stone Chinaware potteries, and are approaching a satisfactory conclusion. A representative of the syndicate is expected at an early date. The News says the booming of the pottery industry in St. Johns would be a big thing for the town. It would stand a little booming just now, for undoubtedly trade is very unsatisfactory, and many families are striking out for pastures new. This dullness of trade is, no doubt, due to many causes, but is chiefly attributable to the hard times which have been everywhere prevalent during the past two years, but accentuated recently by the collapse of the Banque du Peuple.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

GROCERIES.

THE feature of the wholesale trade this week is the firmness in sugar, the refiners having advanced prices from 1-16 to 1/8c. per pound. General trade continues to improve, although the volume of business is not as heavy as wholesalers would like to see it. Canned goods, while quiet, are in little better demand than they were. New season's Sultana raisins arrived on the market this week. Malaga raisins are arriving. Some small shipments of new season's soft-shelled almonds have also been received. The movement in syrups is improving, but the turn-over is only small as yet. The tea market is fairly active and strong. Demand continues good for small parcels of Valencia raisins. Currants are still active.

CANNED GOODS.

The demand for canned vegetables is a little larger than it was, but still the volume of business passing is not large, the price of tomatoes and corn being unsettled. Canned salmon is in moderate request. In fruits there is scarcely anything doing. We quote: Tomatoes, 80 to 85c.; corn, 80 to 85c.; peas, 85 to 90c.; for ordinary; sifted, 95c. to $1; extra sifted, $1.40; peaches, $2.90 to $3 for 3's, $1.90 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.40 to $2.20; strawberries, $1.80 to $2.45, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.90 to $2.20; cherries, $2.40 to $2.45; apples, 3's, 90c to $1, gallons, $2.25 to 2.40; salmon, new pack, $1.35 to $1.40, in tall tins; cohoes, $1.15 to $1.20; canned mackerel, $1 to $1.10; lobsters, $1.80 to $1.85 for tall tins; flats, $2.35 to $2.40; half tins, $1.35. Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.65 to $1.75; 2's, $2.65 to $2.75; 6's, $8 to $8.25; 14's, $18 to $19. Chicago canned beef, 1's, $1.75 per dozen; 2's, $2.85.

COFFEE.

The situation is much as before. We quote green in bags as follows: Rio (new season), 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22 1/2c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracaibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

RICE.

Business is moderate. We quote: "B," 3 1/2 to 3 3/4c.; extra Japan, 5 1/4 to 5 3/4c.; imported Japan, 5 3/4 to 6 1/4c.; tapioca, pearl, 3 1/2 to 5 1/2c.

SPICES.

Further advances have taken place in cream of tartar, and manufacturers of baking powder are beginning to quote higher prices. We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, 25 to 30c. per lb.

NUTS.

New season's Fermegetta soft-shelled almonds have arrived on this market, and they are being quoted at 12 1/2c. per pound. We quote: wheat, 22.15 in 100 lb. barrels; scornmeal, $3.15; split peas, $3.35; pot barley, $3.50.

BALED HAY—The price given is $12.50 to $13.00, cocoanuts, 34.50 to $5 per sack, Grenoble walnuts, 14 to 15c.; Marbot walnuts, 10 to 12c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 12 to 13c.; Sicily filberts, 9 to 10c. for sacks and 10 1/2 to 11c. for small lots; pecans, 10 1/2 to 11c.

SUGAR.

There has been a sharp advance in raws, with considerable buying. In Canada there has been a great deal more buying, with the result that the refineries have advanced prices 1-16 to 1/8c. per pound. At the advanced prices the refiners are disinclined to push business, professing to believe that values will go still higher. At the time of writing they are asking 1/4c. more in New York for centrifugals. Sales were made at 3 1/4c. for the basis of 90 degrees. Since that 3 3/4c. has been bid and refused, and holders are asking 3 3/4c. All grades are correspondingly higher. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, 4 1-16 to 4 1/4c.; do., No. 2, 3 3/4c.; yellows, 3 1/8 to 3 3/4c.

SYRUPS.

The enquiry for syrups is gradually developing, but there is not much doing yet. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.; bright, 40 to 42c.

MOLASSES.

There is a limited demand only. We quote: New Orleans, barrels, 30 to 32c.; half-bbls., 33 1/2 to 35c.; Barbadoes, barrels, 31 to 35c.; half-barrels, 33 to 37c.

TEA.

The retail demand is a little better than it was. Ceylons, Assams and Japans are the kinds mostly wanted. There is a fair enquiry for China teas, particularly new season's Young Hysons. Local representative of foreign tea houses report some fair transactions in low and medium grade Japan and China blacks. China green teas have been coming forward very slowly, and they have been bought up on sight. Indian and Ceylon teas have advanced 1/2d. in London during the past week or ten days, and the tendency is reported to be still upward. We quote ruling prices to retailers: Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 35 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 16 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades.

DRIED FRUITS.

Shipments of new season's Valencia raisins are on the market. As to quality, they show the same satisfactory conditions as did the samples. They range in value from $5\frac{1}{2}$ to $8\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb. There is a fair demand for them.

New season's Malaga raisins are arriving as we go to press, but as the cost has not yet been made up, we cannot give reliable quotations this week.

Small lots of Valencia raisins are still in good demand, the trade only buying for present requirements. We quote slightly lower prices. New fruit, fine off-stalk, $5\frac{1}{2}$ to 6c.; old fruit, off-stalk, 3 to $3\frac{1}{4}$ c.; layers, 4 to 5c.

Smyrna figs, new season's growth, are to hand, and there is a fair enquiry for them at 13c. for 10-lb. boxes and 15c. for 28-lb. boxes.

Currants continue in active demand at steady prices. We quote as before: Filhatras, half-bbls, 4 to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c., bbls., $4\frac{1}{4}$ c.; fine Filhatras, half-bbls., $4\frac{3}{4}$ c., bbls., $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.; Patras, $5\frac{1}{4}$ c., in cases; Casalinas, $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $5\frac{1}{4}$ c.; Vostizzas, $6\frac{1}{2}$ to 7c. in cases and half-cases.

Prunes of California and French growth are in stock in limited quantities, but there are not many wanted. We quote: Bosnias at 6 to 7c., and Bordeaux at $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $6\frac{1}{4}$ c.; California prunes, 6 to 9c. per lb. The quality of California prunes is exceptionally fine this year.

In California evaporated prunes the situation remains much as before. We quote: Apricots and peaches, $12\frac{1}{2}$ to $13\frac{1}{4}$ c. per lb.,

GREEN FRUIT.

The boom in lemons continues, and \$10 per case is now the local quotation. The market is likely to continue in the same condition for a few weeks yet. Sorrento, Palermo and Verdilla are the lines now offered, and a few green Malagas are coming in, but even they are held at big prices. In oranges, California seedlings are out of the market, leaving Sorrentos and some Jamaicas in barrels offering. Sweet potatoes are growing plentiful and they are of good quality. The supply of apples is good and prospects for prices are not bright, foreign yields being also up to the mark. We quote: Lemons—Sorrento, Palermo, Verdilla and Malaga, \$10 per case. Oranges—Sorrento, \$4 to \$4.50 per case; Jamaicas in barrels, \$10. Bananas, \$1 to \$1.50; cocoanuts, \$3.50 to \$4 a sack; cabbage, 75c. to \$1 per bbl.; Canadian tomatoes, 15 to 25c. per basket. Green California fruit—Peaches, \$1.25 to \$1.50 in boxes; Tokay grapes, \$2 per box; green apples, \$1.25 to \$1.75 a barrel; watermelons, 15 to 20c. each; muskmelons, 40c. per basket, \$1.50 per bbl.; grapes, $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 5c. per pound; Canadian Crawford peaches, 75c. to \$1.50 per basket; Michigan peaches, \$2.75 in bushel baskets; Canadian Bartlett pears, 90c. to \$1 per basket; other grades, 30 to 60c.; Spanish onions, 90c. per small crate; Portugal onions, \$2.50 per large crate; sweet potatoes, \$3.25 per bbl.

BUTTER, CHEESE AND EGGS.

BUTTER—Offerings from the country have been much larger recently, and from present indications it would appear that large quantities are still held in country towns and villages. This means that in all likelihood lower prices will prevail. Country merchants are still trying to obtain costs out of their stocks, but it is feared that theirs is a losing game—in fact, the market points to a repetition of last season's losses. This will be largely due to the quality of the butter held, for good butter is still in good demand, while the quantity of good butter coming forward is small. Prices remain unchanged. We quote: Old summer dairy and store packed, 7 to 9c.; fresh prints, 16 to 17c.; fresh tubs, 15 to 16c. Fresh creamery—Tubs, 18 to 19c.; pound prints, 21 to 22c.

CHEESE—Many of the large exporters have been buying freely of late makes of cheese at prices ranging from 8 to $8\frac{1}{4}$ c. This would seem to indicate that the local market for cheese will soon improve, although no change is yet noticeable here. Local buyers have been offering $7\frac{1}{2}$ c. for August Canadian makes, and 8c. for the balance of the season. Last August and September makes bring 10 to $10\frac{1}{2}$ c.

EGGS—A year ago at this time eggs were bringing 15c. a dozen, but now, although there seems to be no cause for it, 12 to $12\frac{1}{2}$ c. is the quotation, and the market is easy at that.

COUNTRY PRODUCE

BEANS—Have declined to $1.40 to $1.50.

DRIED APPLES—Jobbers quote at $5\frac{1}{2}$ c.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Jobbers quote at 7c.

POTATOES—Slightly improved, 30c. per bag being paid.

HONEY—Strained in bulk is unchanged at 8 to 9c. Honey still sells at $1.50 to $1.80 in the comb.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Sept. 26, 1895.

GROCERIES.

THE grocery market has presented more activity in many lines during the past week, and it looks as though the fall movement had started in earnest. A steadier feeling in sugar has been a leading feature of the week, and it looks as though prices had touched bottom. In tea demand has continued active, the jobbing houses being free buyers. Canned goods have met with a fair demand also in the same connection, especially peas and tomatoes. In dried fruit, low offers continue to be made on Valencia raisins, but buyers have started in with more freedom. Currants are expected to open up about steady, and the firm feeling in French prunes noted two weeks ago is accentuated, prices being fully ½c. higher than they were then. Taken on the whole the week has been an active one.

SUGAR.

The sugar market presents a much improved tone this week. Prices look as though they had touched bottom, and a large volume of trade has been passing at steadier rates than were prevalent a week ago. Granulated this week is held firm at the refineries at 4c. and yellows at 3 to 3½c., as to quality. The jobbing demand has shown more life also for the first time for several weeks, and more business is also doing on this account. In a jobbing way we quote granulated firm at 4½ to 4¾c., and yellows at 3¾ to 3½c. The news from all the outside markets has been very firm.

SYRUPS.

There has been a good enquiry for syrups in a wholesale way. Stocks here are not large and the feeling is firm at 1¾ to 2¼c. per lb., at the factory, the jobbing range being ½ to ¾c. per lb. advance on that range.

MOLASSES.

More business in a round way has been doing in molasses also, and several round lots of Porto Rico have changed hands at 33c. In a jobbing way values show no change, but orders are rather better than they were. We quote: Barbadoes in puncheons, 37c., and barrels, 40c., and Porto Rico, 36c. in puncheons.

RISE.

The rice market rules firm and a fair business has been transacted. We quote: Japan, $4.30 to $4.50; crystal Japan, $4.80 to $5; standard B, $3.45; C.C. style, $3.20; Patna, $4.37½ to $5; and Carolina, $7 to $7.50.

SPICES.

There is little change in the situation of the spice market. With colder weather more enquiry is looked for. Prices are steady and unchanged. We quote: Penang black pepper, 8 to 10c.; white pepper, 13 to 15c.; cloves, whole, 10 to 20c.; cassia, whole, 10 to 20c.; nutmegs, 40 to 90c.; Jamaica ginger, 20 to 25c., as to grade.

COFFEE.

There has been little change in coffee, which rules quiet. A few sales of Rio and Maracaibo in straight lots have been made at 20c. and 21½c., respectively. In a jobbing way we quote green bean coffee: Maracaibo, 21 to 22c.; Rio, 19 to 20c.; Java, 24 to 28c.; Jamaica, 19 to 21c.; and Mocha, 27 to 31c.

TEAS.

Demand for tea steadily improves, though the distributive movement has not as yet exhibited appreciable change. Still there is more enquiry this week in this connection. Enquiry is still confined chiefly to medium and low grade Japan and some further good sized parcels have been put through since last week at a range of 14 to 18c. We quote: Japans, low grades, 14c., medium, 16 to 18c., fine, 19 to 22c., and finest, 25 to 31c.

DRIED FRUIT.

There has been more business doing in Valencia raisins since last report, but the tendency of values on the whole is easy. New off-stalk are offering this week on the market, and business has been transacted in them at 5 to 5½c., as to grade. No new layers are as yet offering. In old fruit prices still range from 3½ to 4¾c., as to grade, but stocks are well worked down on the whole. Old layers are available at 4½c.

New Sultana raisins are offering this week, a few small lots having arrived. They are selling at 6c.

There is no change in California fruit. The lots received from New York the other week did not prove very acceptable as to quality and have met a slow sale. For good brands of 4 crown the prices are steady at 6½c., and 3 crown at 5½c.

No new currants are expected before the second week of October. For old stock a moderate demand is experienced at steady prices as follows: Barrels, 3¾c.; half-barrels, 3¾c., and cases, 4c.

The firm feeling noted last week on French prunes is fully maintained, and values are ¼ to ½c. per lb. firmer than they were, a good demand being noted at 5 to 5½c. as to grade. California prunes are nominally quoted at 6¼ to 6½c.

The market is practically bare of old stock in both figs and dates, and no quotations are possible.

Evaporated fruits are quiet and steady as follows: Apricots, 14 to 17c.; peaches and pears, 9 to 10c.; plums, 9 to 9½c., and apples, 9 to 10c.

NUTS.

Nuts are without special feature. Stocks are light, and there will be little on hand when the first fall shipments of new stock commence to arrive. We quote: Brazils, 8 to 9c.; shelled almonds, 18 to 25c.; Tarragona, 12 to 13c.; Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; shelled ditto, 24 to 25c.; filberts, 6½ to 7½c.; and pecans, 8 to 10c.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been a fairly active business in canned goods since our last. Jobbers have been fair purchasers of tomatoes and peas, and the advance noted in lobsters and salmon is well maintained. We quote: Lobsters, $6.50 to $9 per case; sardines, $8.50 to $10.50; salmon, $5.20 to $5.50; mackerel, $5; tomatoes, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peaches, $1.90 to $3 per doz.; corn, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peas, 85 to 90c. per doz.; strawberries, $2.25 to $2.50; raspberries, $2; green gages, $2 to $2.25; blue plums or damsons, $1.50 to $1.75; pineapples, $2.25 to $2.50, and 3-lb. apples, 90c. to $1.10.

GREEN FRUIT.

Trade has been decidedly brisk in nearly every line of fruit, and prices as a general rule are on an advanced basis. Receipts have been heavy in peaches and California goods, but moderate in all others. Despite this fact the market has been well cleaned up.

APPLES—Prices have shown improvement on apples, a good trade being transacted at $1.25 to $2.25 for fall sorts, good 20-oz. St. Lawrence and snows bringing $1.60 to $2.50, and culverts, pippins, etc., $1.25 to $1.65.

PEARS—Receipts are small and the market has advanced steadily. Flemish beauties sell readily at $4.25 per bbl.

PEACHES—Arrivals have been heavy, but prices have ruled fairly steady at 35 to 60c. for Michigan fifths and $1.25 to $1.40 per box for Californias.

PLUMS—Are nearly gone. Prices range from 90c. to $1 per basket.

GRAPES—Receipts have been light and meet a ready sale, Concords at 3½c. and Delawares and Niagaras at 4 to 5c. per lb.

BANANAS—Have sold higher, sales of car-load lots transpiring at 70 to 90c. per bunch.

LEMONS—Very scarce, in fact, until Monday there were none on the market. Prices range from $8 per box.

FISH.

The market was very lightly supplied with fresh fish during the past week, owing to the storms on the Coast. New arrivals of haddock and cod are looked for during the week and are offering at 4c. Fresh salmon continues to arrive in small quantities and sells at 13c.

Pickled fish are only arriving in a small way. No. 1 large bright herring range from $4.50 to $5, and No. 1 Labrador salmon $13 to $13.50. B. C. salmon are offering at $10.50. Sales of No. 2 large mackerel are made at $17 to $17.50 per bbl.

Prepared fish move along quietly at steady prices. Dry cod held at $4.75; boneless, 6c. Haddies range from 7 to 7½c. Kipper herring sell at $2.25 per box, and smoked herring at 9 to 10c.

Shell oysters are now arriving freely, and sell at a range of $3 to $5 per bbl.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The egg market early this week developed a stronger tone, and prices advanced ¾ to 1c. per doz. Fine stock are now held at 12 to 12¼c., and ordinary, 10 to 10½c.

BEANS—Business continues slow and sellers are free for new hand-picked stock at $1.10 to $1.25 in car lots.

HOPS—Demand continues of a limited character at 8 to 10c. for choice and 3 to 6c. for old.

POTATOES—Market continues dull at 35 to 45c. per bag.

MAPLE PRODUCTS—No change to report. We quote: Sugar, 6½ to 7½c. for new and 4 to 6c. for old; maple syrup in wood, 4 to 5c. per lb. and 50 to 60c. per tin.

TALLOW—Featureless and unchanged at 6 to 6½c. for refined and 5 to 5½c. for lower grades.

HAY—There has been no change in hay since last week. Business rules quiet at the decline. We quote: No. 1, $10, and No. 2, $9.

PROVISIONS.

Business is very dull in pork, but prices are unchanged at the recent decline. Smoked meats are in fair enquiry. We quote: Canadian short cut, clear, $14.50 to $15; Canadian short cut, mess, $16 to $16.50; hams, city cured, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 9¾ to 10¼c.; bacon, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, com. refined, per lb., 7¾ to 7½c.

FLOUR, MEAL AND FEED.

There is a good demand for Manitoba grades of flour, and the market is active and steady. There is also an improved enquiry for Ontario grades. We quote: Winter wheat, $4.10 to $4.25; spring wheat, patents, $4.15; straight roller, $3.65 to $3.75;

A fair business is transacted in feed at quotations: Bran, $15; shorts, $16.50 to $17; mouillie, $20.50 to $21.50.

BUTTER.

There has been little change in the butter market. Factorymen were in town this week, offering first week's make of September creamery, and the best bid from exporters was 17½c. We quote: Finest creamery, 17 to 17¼c.; finest Townships dairy, 14c.; finest Western dairy, 12 to 13c.

CHEESE.

The improved feeling noted in cheese last week is maintained, though the demand is as yet of a quiet character. Prices, however, are fully ½ to ¾c. per lb. higher than they were a week ago. Sales of 4,000 French make were made at 7¾ to 7⅞c., which makes a quotation on these goods, and a lot of 1,000 Ontarios were taken by a shipper at 8c. A lot from the same factories sold a fortnight ago at 7c.

ASHES.

The ashes market is quiet and unchanged. We quote: Firsts, $4.05 to $4.15; seconds, $3.80 to $3.85; pearls, $4.80 to $4.85.

Receipts of peaches during five days of the week aggregated 10,000 baskets and boxes, but the market has been cleaned up well.

Prices on canned goods are being shaded here, and Laporte, Martin & Cie., who have just received their winter stock, are prepared to give a very low figure. They have a splendid assortment of the best known brands of canned goods. It will pay buyers to ask them for quotations.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER

ST. JOHN, N.B., Sept. 26, 1895.

WE are not as fortunate as Toronto and a number of other western towns, and do not have an exhibition every year, so when we do have one it is a matter of perhaps more moment. We are much pleased at the success so far of our Show. Our friends of the grocery trade are to the fore. There are Messrs. Dearborn & Co. with a splendid exhibit of spice, James Patterson and John Sealy with fish, Geo. S. Deforest and W. Frank Hatheway with tea. Then the candy and soap exhibit of our province are a feature of the show. We have been much pleased to welcome so many of our friends from different parts of our three maritime provinces as well as a fair representation from other parts of Canada, and a few of our American neighbors. To all who have in any way aided in making our Exhibition the success it is, we extend our most hearty thanks and assure them they will not be losers. In markets there are not many important changes. The tendencies are as last week. Cream of tartar continues excited, and as high as 96s. was quoted last week, but there will be no buyers until matters are more settled. Holders are very firm.

SALT—The expected cargo is not yet here, though hourly expected. The market is getting quite bare, but, as yet, prices have not advanced, as the supply is so near to hand. One of the exhibits at the Show drawing general attention is that of the Windsor Salt Co. There is a good stock of English factory-filled here. We quote: Coarse, 50 to 55c.; fine factory-filled, 95c. to $1.10; 5-lb. bags, $3 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.80 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10-lb. boxes, 12c.; cartoons, $2 per doz.; bulk dairy, $2.80 per bbl.; bulk cheese, $2.70.

CANNED GOODS—New corn is now here, and all new goods are expected within a few weeks. There is a fair demand from the larger centres. Through these provinces, where our merchants used to sell a carload divided among the different merchants, there are now carloads sold direct by packers, which cuts down the amount to be supplied from here. Salmon continue firm, with light stocks, for the season. Some Singapore pineapple was received during the week. Prices are: Corn, 95c. to $1; peas, 95c. to $1; tomatoes, $1 to $1.05; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.50 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.30 to $1.50; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $3; 2's, $2; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.40; salmon, $1.50; flat, $1.75; clams, $5.50 for 4 doz.; chowder, $3 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1; pineapples, $2.75.

DRIED FRUIT—Prices at Denia continue easy with rather lower prices quoted for 4 crown layers. Stocks ordered are not large, though all importers have ordered some. There begins to be an inquiry for dried apples, but no new stock is to hand, and stocks held of old are light. On account of high prices on the Coast no California loose muscatels have been ordered. It is understood a number of merchants are ordering their Valencias from New York. As the season for dried apples is about here, it would be well for packers to remember what THE GROCER has so often said, and pack the apples firmer in barrels, without strings, and bulked so that quality will run even. They will find they will get much better prices. We quote: Sultana raisins, 7 to 8c.; Valencia, 4c.; layers, 5c.; London layers, $2 to $2.25; California loose muscatels, 5 to 5½c.; currants, bbls., 3¼c.; half-cases, 4c.; evaporated apples, 7½ to 8c.; dried apples, 5½ to 5¾c.; dates, 4 to 4½c.; prunes, 4 to 5c.; figs, 11 to 18c.; California evaporated peaches, 12 to 13c.; do. apricots, 12 to 14c.; do. pears, 12 to 13c.; clean currants, bulk, 6½c.; 1-lb. cartoons, 7½c.; American onions, $2.50 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $4 per 100.

GREEN FRUIT—The market has continued active during the week though apples in large quantities do not find ready buyers. One carload of good Gravensteins coming on this market this week was offered at $1.50, but found no taker and was shipped to Boston. One buyer told THE GROCER he had 1,000 barrels to come forward, but at present the market was not satisfactory. In plums, receipts are lighter and prices range rather higher than last week. Some very fine American peaches were in the market last week and found ready sales. Lemons are very high. Banana season is about over. The largest quantity of Canadian grapes yet to hand was on the market this week. We quote: Peaches, $2.50; pears, $5 to $7; California pears, $3.50; apples, $1 to $2 per bbl.; lemons, $6.50 to $7; bananas, $1 to $2.50; California plums, $2.50; grapes, 45 to 60c.; West India oranges, $5.50 per bbl.; Nova Scotia pears, Clapp's favorite and Bartlett, $2 to $2.50 per half-bbl.; plums, basket, 50 to 55c.; plums, boxes, pecks, 55 to 60c.

DAIRY PRODUCE—There has been but little change during the week. Cheese is still inactive. Holders of cheese are becoming anxious to sell, and there is no doubt it is time early cheese were sold. Eggs are in very light demand, case eggs being slow at 12c., grocers preferring to buy small lots of fresh in country markets, at higher prices. In butter there is a better demand at rather firmer prices, and the market looks better than for some time. The creameries are doing better than the cheese factories. We quote: New cheese, 8½ to 9c.; new butter, 18c.; eggs, 12 to 12½c.; fresh creamery prints, 22 to 23c.; tubs, 20 to 21c.

MOLASSES—There is a rather better demand during the week, and a better movement is expected. Prices show no change. There are rather larger stocks than were expected at this season. We quote: Barbadoes, 32 to 34c.; St. Croix, 32 to 33c.; Porto Rico, 34 to 36c.; syrup, 35c.; Trinidad, 32 to 33c.; New Orleans, bbls., 34 to 35c.

SUGAR—The market appears hardly as firm as was expected when last report was made. Movement continues fair, with local prices even lower (particularly in granulated) than market warrants. We quote: Granulated, $4\frac{1}{8}$ to $4\frac{1}{4}$ c.; yellow, $3\frac{1}{8}$ to $3\frac{3}{8}$ c.; Paris lump, $5\frac{1}{4}$ to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c.; powdered, $5\frac{1}{4}$ to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c.

FISH—In dry, prices are fully as low as when last quoted. Stocks arriving are not large. There is a good movement reported. In pickled, prices show no change. Some nice Shelburne are offered. There was a report that the alewives shipped to New York were not giving satisfaction. As this is a matter of some importance, THE GROCER saw some of the shippers, but they had heard nothing except the report, and had written for information. This year some 14,000 bbls. were shipped, while last year there were 21,000. By those whom THE GROCER saw it was thought the report was circulated for local purposes. The shad catch is over. The pack of pickled shad has not been large but good. We quote: Medium cod, $3.50; large, $3.70; small, $2.90; pollock, $1.40; bay herring, $1.25 to $1.30; Grand Manan, $1.40; rippings, $1.65 to $1.70; wolves, $1.90 to $2; Quoddy River, $2.50 to 2.60; smoked, 5 to 6c.; shad, half-bbl., pickled, $5.50.

PROVISIONS—The market shows a better demand, with prices rather easy. There is a better movement expected during the coming month. We quote: Clear pork, \$16.50 to \$17.50; mess, \$16 to \$16.50; plate beef, \$13.25 to \$14; pure lard, 10c.; compound lard, 8c.; cottolene, $9\frac{1}{4}$ to $9\frac{3}{4}$ c.; rolls, 9 to $9\frac{1}{2}$ c.; beef, half bbls., \$7.

FLOUR, MEAL AND FEED—Now the profits of the summer are being cut down, and sellers are working on a falling market. Beans have dropped off very suddenly, till dealers will not offer over $1, while those which they have in stock cost in most cases at least $1.70.

In flour stocks are light. Manitoba is rather firmer, as quotations dropped off rather too quickly. Ontario, however, is still weak and quoted rather lower. In cornmeal prices have also dropped more quickly than the stocks. There were, however, no heavy stocks. Feed is in less demand. The movement in hay and oats is light. Hay is steady, but oats are easy, and oatmeal is moving downward. In flour old wheat product is held higher than the new, which affects quotations. We quote: Manitoba, $4.70; best Ontario $4 to $4.10; medium, $3.75 to $3.80; oatmeal, $4.50 to $4.75; cornmeal, $2.55 to $2.60; middlings, $25 on track; bran, $22.50 to $23; hand-picked beans, $1.55 to $1.60; prime, $1.25 to $1.30; split peas, $3.70; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.25; hay, $11.50 to $12; oats, 35 to 40c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

New Prince Edward Island oysters are now being received.

During the week a cargo of salt was landed at Richibucto for H. O'Leary.

Felix Taussig, of N. W. Taussig & Co., New York, was in the city during the past week.

A shipment was this week made from

Nova Scotia to Boston of bushel boxes of Gravenstein apples, packed in layers with paper between and excelsior on top and bottom.

The annual fair of the Campobello Fishery Association will be held at Welsh Pool October 16-17.

Springhill merchants are rapidly building since the late fire. A great improvement will be noted. The town is a live one.

The Gypsum Shipping Co., Hants county, N.S., are shipping from their quarries at Wentworth about 600 tons of plaster daily.

The movement in apples to the English market is now large. In one day eleven cars were handled by the D.A.R. Co. The crop this year is estimated at 200,000 barrels.

Some unfavorable crop reports have been received lately. Potatoes are said to be rotting badly, and in Nova Scotia hundreds of bushels of tomatoes have been destroyed by frost; also some corn.

Sussex, King's County, reports a successful venture in onion growing. One farmer raised 50 barrels, for which the price obtained was most satisfactory. As very large quantities of onions are imported, our farmers should take note of this.

Northrup & Co. have an exhibit at the Fair which attracts more than passing attention. The particular feature is Golden Finnan Haddies. Since their last exhibit of these goods their sales have increased very largely. It has become a staple with the best dealers.

Merchants should beware of burglars, who appear to be numerous. Not only in the smaller towns do they appear, but in the last few days an attempt was made to blow open the safe of G. & G. Flewelling, Hampton, which but for an electric burglar alarm would have been successful. A. C. Smith & Co.'s safe at Carleton was blown open.

The following is from Carleton County: Some ten cheese factories have been running during the season. The output has not been as large as was expected, being only about the same as last year, i.e., about 150 tons. Prices have not been nearly as satisfactory. Some direct shipments have been made to England and the result is anxiously awaited. The freight from Woodstock to St. John is found to be more than from St. John to London. Our Mr. Tilley, who won a medal at the World's Fair, is still without even a prospect of getting it, but it was through his exhibit there that he received orders from the English market.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

HALIFAX, Sept. 26, 1895.

TRADE remains nominally the same as last week. Remittances are good.

Cold storage is becoming a live question in the province, and also in New Brunswick and P.E.I. An English company, represented by Major William Clarke, has been experimenting for some months in the preservation and export of perishable food products in cold storage. Last May Major Clarke secured a portion of space in the Furness line steamer Halifax City, and fitted it up in the most approved fashion. He made trial shipments with satisfactory results. A cold storage warehouse (or a warehouse arranged for that purpose) has been arranged for on one of the wharves of this city. The Halifax City on her last trip took some 500 packages of apples, pears, plums and tomatoes, from sundry growers and shippers. The result of this shipment will be watched with interest.

The apple crop in the Annapolis Valley is not so large as last year. That could hardly be expected, as last year's crop was exceptionally large. The quality is good. Gravensteins are very fine. Nonpareils are a fine crop. Last year the apple growers of the valley netted $453,000 in the London market alone. About 6,000 barrels have already been sent to the United States this season. This year's shipments to the London market will be under 200,000 barrels.

FLOUR—A leading flour merchant sums up the situation as follows: The breadstuffs market seems to be in a more settled condition. At least, they have not only touched bottom for the present, but have reacted, and some mills have advanced their prices 10c., others 15c., and others as high as 20c. Wheat has advanced in Chicago and throughout the United States. Farmers' deliveries in Ontario are very light, in fact, farmers have been attending to their fall work and provincial exhibitions. Opinions are divided as to whether the advance can be maintained or not—that depends largely upon the measure of confidence that is established. There was no more reason for flour advancing from $2.85, the lowest point last winter, to $5.50, the highest point this summer, than there has been for the sudden decline to $3.15 or $3.20. Confidence and speculation did the one. Want of confidence, and determination of bears, joined by the bulls to break down the market, did the other. No man can foretell the future of the markets. However, flour is higher, and it looks as though we would have a few weeks of better prices, at any rate.

CORNMEAL—The market in cornmeal is steady, but prices are lower.

OATS AND OATMEAL—Oats and oatmeal are steady at the decline. Oats promise to be a little lower when deliveries become more plentiful.

CHEESE—Cutting prices is the order of the day. Most of the dealers have tried to keep the price up to 9c., but $8\frac{3}{4}$ and $8\frac{1}{2}$ c. have been quoted by Ontario dealers for August.

EGGS—Stocks are adequate and prices well maintained. The quotation is about 13c.

BUTTER—The demand for dairy is fair, with small stock offering at 15 to 18c. Local dealers are quoting Ontario creamery at 20c.

FISHSTUFFS—There is no change in the market locally. I. L. V. Lewis, of the firm of S. W. Lewis & Co., New York, is here. He will purchase a cargo of alewives and codfish which he will send to Hayti on a steamer especially chartered for that purpose.

PROVISIONS—The provision market is quiet. There is not much doing and prices remain unchanged.

MOLASSES—In molasses a few lots have passed from first hands. A brisk demand is soon looked for, but at present the market is quiet.

SUGAR—The refinery is doing a fair business. Prices remain unchanged.

GREEN FRUITS—The market is abundantly supplied with green fruits of all kinds, and a brisk business is being done. Prices show little or no change from last week's quotations.

Now is the Time to Buy . .

Nine Months Ago

Pure Cream of Tartar had reached a very low market value, and we reduced the price of "Pure Gold" Baking Powder accordingly, so as to give our customers and the public the benefit of the best baking powder in the world at the lowest possible price. The public appreciated this, and our sales increased immensely and are now greater than ever before.

During the past two months Cream of Tartar has advanced in price about 50 per cent., and the price is still upward. This advance does not affect the prices of the common Alum and Alum-Phosphate Powders ; but it does affect a high-grade Cream of Tartar Powder, such as "Pure Gold," and makes it quite impossible for us to maintain the quality without advancing the price. We have still a few casks of Pure Cream Tartar on hand which were bought before the last advance in price, and any orders which we receive by mail or otherwise for "Pure Gold" Baking Powder up to First October will be filled at the old reduced prices, after which an advance in price must take place.

A GROCER'S DELIGHTFUL TRIP.

EDITOR GROCER,—Agreeable to your request that I should write a short account for you of my trip through our Canadian Northwest, California and the Western States, it affords me great pleasure to do so, and I trust it may be of some interest to your readers.

On the 27th July, armed with guide books innumerable, I left Hamilton for Windsor and thence via C. P. R. boat to Fort William. The trip through the Detroit river, through the lakes, and especially at the Soo, is most interesting, but it has been so often described by other and more skilful writers that I will pass it over. From Fort William to Winnipeg the country is very rocky and of little interest to the traveler, excepting the large flour mill of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co. at Keewatin.

Winnipeg is a busy, thriving place, its citizens strong believers in their destiny and that of their city.

After leaving Portage la Prairie the traveler is in the midst of the wheat country, and a beautiful sight it is to see the miles and miles of level country covered with golden grain. When I was there, great was the apprehension of the frost, but happily, except in isolated cases, the fear has been unfounded.

Brandon, Moosomin and Calgary and other thriving towns are passed and the mountains are at hand, and here I will have to refer your readers to the Canadian Pacific guide books for their description. It is not over-rated.

At Revelstoke I left the C.P.R. and took steamer down the Columbia river en route for the Kootenay mining country. This was a most interesting experience. I took the steamer to Nakusp, thence to Three Forks by railroad, rode over the mountain to Kaslo, boat to Nelson, rail to Robson, boat to Trail Creek, horseback to Rossland, thence back to Trail Creek and up the Columbia river to Revelstoke, eight days after leaving there.

The conclusion I arrived at was that Canada has, in the Kootenay country, an exceedingly rich mining section. It has passed, to a great extent, the day of "prospecting," and has gone into that of actual mining and shipping the ore. The general opinion of the mine owners and miners and everyone I met in the district was most sanguine, and, judging by the expenditure being incurred by the C.P.R. and Great Northern railways in building lines through the country, they evidently share that feeling.

One generally associates a mining country with a good deal of lawlessness, and I was surprised at the absence of it.

Rossland, which a few months ago was a wilderness, and where there is now a population of 3,000 people of all shades and descriptions, is as orderly as any Ontario town. The B.C. Government is entitled to much praise in this respect. It was a most instructive experience to visit the mines and see the great work of development going on there.

From Revelstoke to Vancouver is a pleasant run of a night and part of a day, and here one is at the Pacific. One cannot realize that Vancouver is only nine years old; it is so well built and has all the conveniences of a modern city. Its business men are far-sighted, and it evidently has a great future before it.

The salmon fishery was in full swing and I visited several canneries, and watched with great interest their operations. The boats in the Fraser river catching the fish are a sight long to be remembered.

Thence across to Victoria on Vancouver Island, a quaint place, unlike our other Canadian cities in many respects, but solid and well built, and beautifully situated.

From Victoria to San Francisco by boat (3 days), then down to San Jose, the capital of the celebrated Santa Clara Valley (the garden of California). Through the kindness of the Griffin & Skelley Co., of San Francisco, one of the largest fruit firms on the Pacific Coast, I was enabled to see this valley to great advantage. Their manager at San Jose met me at the railway station there and we drove for six hours through this fertile and beautiful valley. It was most interesting to see the prunes, apricots, nectarines, etc., growing on the trees, then go to the packing houses and watch their preparation through all the stages until ready for the market. I was too early for the raisin district and was correspondingly disappointed. It seems to me that it will not be long before the European fruit will have a strong competitor in California in our market, especially in prunes and raisins.

From San Francisco I returned home via Salt Lake, Leadville, Colorado Springs and Chicago, and reached Hamilton after an absence of nearly six weeks. It was a most instructive and enjoyable trip, and strengthened my convictions that in the western provinces we have a great country, one to be proud of, and with enormous possibilities, being developed by a resolute and hopeful people, and that all the sacrifices we have made for it will yet be repaid us.

After having visited at different times every province of the Dominion, I am also convinced that Ontario is the best, and that the city of Hamilton is the choice spot in that province.

Yours, etc.,
G. E. BRISTOL.

AN INTERESTING JOURNEY TO THE PACIFIC COAST.

AS requested when leaving Toronto by your representative, I will try to write you anon another of my yearly trips to the Coast. I went by way of Owen Sound per C. P. R. s.s. Athabaska to the "Soo." We were delayed somewhat by fog, and when we reached there we found over 150 vessels ahead of us waiting to be locked through, delaying us some 17 hours. The new American canal was not then finished, nor was our own opened to the public. Our own canal has since been opened, thus giving us Canadians through traffic from Lake Superior to the ocean; and Mr. Yankee can put on his retaliation scheme as soon as he likes. We are independent of them. Our canal is working splendidly. The gates are worked by electricity, developed by the immense water-power. We pass on to the greatest fresh-water ocean in the world, some 400 miles to Fort William. Old Superior did its best to upset us, the winds being contrary, but our C.P.R. steamer was too much for them. The C.P.R. steamers are well officered, and the cuisine of the boats is excellent. Courteous waiters look after your wants. The boat trip breaks the long monotony of the long rail travel, and a very enjoyable two days is generally spent reaching Fort William: The twenty-four hour time service commences and a.m. and p.m. is done away and watches are put back one hour: Once on the train we start for Winnipeg, passing through over 400 miles of what was formerly called the old Dawson route, over which the new Commander of the British Forces, then Gen. Wolseley, took the Canadian forces through in the first Red River Rebellion. Very little farming land is passed. The country is rough.

Next day we reach Winnipeg, the Chicago of the Canadian Northwest. We soon feel we are among a wide-awake, go-ahead people, who take great pride in the rapid development of their city; and well may they, for a more buoyant, pushing and energetic people do not exist.

The wholesale grocery trade is well represented by live, energetic business men, with magnificent warehouses, capable of doing the business of their vast country. Their travelers seek out every nook and corner with that zeal now necessary to keep ahead on business. From my own personal experience nowhere in Canada could I find any business run more "up to date," confident, hopeful in the vast recourses of this great home for millions to come. We eastern men can even take a "cue" from them.

The wonderful crop of wheat which now has been safely shocked and stacked is the talk of everybody. From all the information I could gain in different sections, the crop of 1895 will be the finest ever grown, and if a fair price is realized, which we all sincerely hope may, Manitoba will relieve herself of the liabilities her people have incurred in the past. Her name as the greatest A1 wheat-growing centre will go out to the wide world, and will, I hope, result in a great influx of immigrants.

The present price of wheat started at about 42 cents; and the Winnipeg papers complain the grain men have combined to keep prices down. But they claim the price "at home" will not warrant any more being paid. However, on my return from the Coast, on the 18th, the large mill owners, anxious to secure a good supply of No. 1 hard, jumped price to 50c. The grain buyers say they are out of the race, but we hope it may go to 60c.; if so, farmers will no doubt sell, as none of them realized anything of the advance in prices in the past. The threshing machines are now in full blast and fabulous reports come in of enormous yields—from 30 to 60 bushels, and over, one reporting 70 per acre. I saw one thresher working near Brandon that threshed out 5,000 bushels of wheat in two days, ordinary time of work. I was astounded, seeing the big stream of wheat running out, ten teams drawing sheaves, four men pitching from wagons, two men feeding machine, and three men fast as they could work setting and tying the bags of beautiful clean wheat, so hard I could hardly crack the kernels with natural teeth; with artificial ones it could not be done. But one has to see the crops to realize their magnitude. If fair weather continues for two months, the crop, I am satisfied, will surprise even the most optimistic, but so many accounts have been forwarded east, possibly it has become monotonous, so for the present we will wait, hoping for the best.

I must on to the Coast. Passing Portage la Prairie, the garden, as it were, of the west, lit up beautifully at night by electricity, and with fires all around by the burning of the vast piles of straw from the threshers, making one feel somewhat nervous, fearing it might reach stacked grain. But so far we have heard of none. Recollect, eastern men, straw must be burned. It cannot be ploughed in the ground as with us. It would spoil the land, leaving it too loose to grow grain successfully. We reach Calgary, passing miles and miles of wheat, oats, barley and flax, for mixed farming is now being carried on, arriving there on Saturday morning, 7th. They had heavy frost and snow, with ice thick enough to bear one's weight. The grain crop of this section yet uncut was destroyed. We fear this section will not be successful in grain-growing, owing to the difficulties in the way of getting grain started early enough to dry in spring. They are trying irrigation, and possibly may succeed. But this is the centre of the great ranching country of the west. Hundreds of fine steers are now being shipped east. We met train loads. Cattle can be found weighing from 1,200 to 1,800 pounds each at three and four years old, fatted on the rich grasses between here and the Rockies, the ranchers' paradise. The winters being mild, scarcely any feed is required in winter. We understand yearlings and others formerly sent over to England and Scotland to fatten are brought up here, turned out and successfully fattened. We hope this will prove remunerative, making a market for our young cattle east. But I must pass on. Reaching the Rockies, we pass the great coal mines at Anthracite, situated in the charming valley of the Cascade Creek, at an elevation of 5,000 feet above the level of the sea. Here is the headquarters of the H. W. McNeil Co., pushing, energetic miners. The first year about 5,000 tons were produced; second year about 12,000 tons; third year, 22,000 tons; last year over 36,000 tons was mined of A1 anthracite coal. They also have bituminous mines at Canmore, 10 miles east, and supply the great mogul engines of the C.P.R. This region is full of coal. Passing the great national reserve, Banff, the resort of so many troubled with rheumatism, etc., we arrive at the great Castle Mountains, where gold has been discovered and in paying quantities. But as my letter is for business men I do not want to inflate our grocers to leave off weighing out tea, sugar, etc., for this eldorado of wealth. Time will work wonders. The road is continuously passing mines of coal, gold and silver. At Moberly is the 1,000 mile post west of Winnipeg. Arriving at Donald our watches are put back another hour, making the third, the second having been put back at Brandon. This is a pushing town. But on we go, rising 116 feet to the mile.

Passing Ravelstoke, another pushing town, we reach the Okanagan valley, where Lord Aberdeen is trying to outdo Ontario in raising fruits, etc. Passing Kamloops, an important centre, we finally reach Vancouver, which has become so important a centre, the terminus of the great C. P. R. and the end of the long ocean journeys of the trio of steamships from China. We board the steamer for Victoria, passing the beautiful steamship Empress of China, now nearly ready for sea. Reaching the beautiful city of Victoria, we find the wholesale grocery men hopeful of the great future of their province, so rich in minerals and fish. The canneries have had a fairly successful season, the pack being fairly well disposed of, bringing from the east and Old World large sums to be circulated here.

British Columbia is fast coming to the front as a good fruit district in certain lines, strawberries, raspberries, cherries, plums, pears, being now successfully grown, but I do not think they will ever successfully grow any well flavored winter apples. And our eastern men can count on a market now if the codling moth and fungous diseases are not prevalent, as they are very strict here, not admitting any showing any of above diseases, some carloads last year from the east having been destroyed on arrival. Shippers therefore need to be careful.

Business generally, as in the east, is improving, and the outlook is hopeful. A spirit of solidity maintains itself. We feel satisfied in doing business here. Obligations are, as a rule, promptly met.

The big dry dock is at Esquimalt, called "Squimo," where the largest ships can be repaired. The harbor is one of the finest in the world. The Royal Arthur is at present here. We pack trunks, bid good-bye, and off to Vancouver again. We visited the steamship Empress of China, and were much pleased with her general fittings, comparing favorably with our ocean greyhounds. The steamship Miowera is just in from her long journey from Australia, and with her sister ship, the Warrimoo, connection is made monthly to the Antipodes. The business is improving between these far-away sister colonies of ours. The steamers are well fitted up for passenger and freight business.

It is wonderful now to consider what in so short a time has been accomplished. It is just forty years since stages ran from Montreal to Toronto, 300 miles, and a trip then occupied a week. Now you step in a Pullman car at Montreal and in six days you are at Vancouver, 2,906 miles. You can then step aboard a steamship and go to Hong Kong, 5,936 miles, making nearly 9,000 miles. You can go from Montreal east to St. John, N.B., by same line.

Now, in conclusion, what about THE CANADIAN GROCER? Well, gentlemen, I found it wherever I went, from Charlotte-town, P.E. Island, east to Victoria, west, with nearly every grocery man I met. It is read by the solid business men, and looked upon as a reliable, newsy paper, up to date in every issue. I feel satisfied that it pays to advertise in it. I found this out. We found our advertisement had been read, for in three weeks and four days from the time I left Toronto I brought home orders for over 20 carloads or over 208 tons or 7,410 cases canned goods from Victoria alone, selling every jobber there where I had sent the first carload in 1886; from Winnipeg over 8 carloads or 3,160 cases—was practically sold out in several lines, or could have sold far more. Add two dozen to each case gives you the idea of quantity sold. And this in the face of the keenest competition from California goods, for Victoria is only three days' sail from San Francisco, with a low ocean freight.

I ask any manufacturer east who does not advertise to report if a more favorable three weeks and four days' trip has been made. Thanking you, gentlemen, for space, and craving your readers' apology for so long a letter, I am, yours truly,

W. BOULTER

LEAMINGTON AND ITS NATURAL GAS.

EDITOR GROCER,—I noticed your article in last week's issue on "Ontario Natural Gas," in which you say that "Detroit, Kingsville, Leamington and Walkerville" are being supplied by the wells in Essex. This is quite true, indeed, but the town of Windsor (the largest place in this neighborhood) is now also fully supplied from the same source, as well as one or two smaller towns. Leamington's contract with the Ontario Natural Gas Company terminates on 30th inst., after which date they will be supplied from their own well.

By the enterprise and push of a few of the citizens this well was sunk, and a strong flow of gas secured in the neighborhood of 1,000 feet in depth, and to-day is one of the strongest wells in Essex (400 lbs. to the square inch.)

The well was then passed over to the town, who now own it entirely, the stockholders being paid back for the money they risked in the first place to put down a test well.

In due course of time the town purchased the pipes as laid in the streets, and all other plant owned previously by the Ontario Natural Gas Company; laid down also extra piping where needed, and are now ready to connect with the town well, and supply the citizens direct themselves.

Apart from the advantages to be offered to factories to locate here, Leamington will become a very cheap place to live in, as we secure our gas at a reduced rate on former price, and all the money received goes into our town treasury, and after running expenses are paid, and our plant also paid for, it will considerably reduce taxation.

We have also a magnificent system of waterworks, supplying water of the purest quality, and being in the midst of the finest peach-growing district in Canada, and having first-class facilities for shipping by two railways, Leamington's future is as good, if not better, than any town in western Canada.

Yours, etc.,

LEAMINGTON.

HALIFAX CASH STORE.

J. A. Gass & Sons, proprietors of the large and well-equipped "Halifax Cash Store," Halifax, N.S., have issued an illustrated catalogue of their wares. Their establishment has completed its fifteenth year of life, and it is unnecessary to say that it is thriving.

THE SECRET.

Careful buying accounts for the ability of some grocers to undersell competitors. One of the largest retail grocers in a neighboring city is noted for his keen nose for discounts, and he rarely fails to underbuy his nearest rivals, yet he is frequently denounced as a "cutter," when the fact is his profits are larger than some of the more conservative dealers.—Review.

CHEQUES FOR SEVEN CENTS.

Of the many schemes employed by advertisers to attract and retain the attention of the public, the one employed by a prominent down-town haberdasher is certainly as novel as any conceived, says a Chicago paper. He got up an elaborate envelope with a crest upon it and inclosed a short and well-worded note, asking the attention of the reader for two minutes to his notice of his goods, and inclosed also a cheque regularly signed, for seven cents, as the value of the time requested.

The advertisement was sent to Board of Trade men, bankers and the better class of business men throughout the city.

The haberdasher hardly thought that any one would take the trouble to cash the cheques, but some bright and kind-hearted wit conceived the idea of collecting these cheques and using them for a worthy object. Accordingly the cheques were gradually gathered in, all properly endorsed, and sent to the children's fresh air fund, and aggregated quite a comfortable sum.

While the advertiser was rather surprised at the novel use to which his advertising cheques were put, he is quite pleased to contribute thus indirectly, as it were, to such a worthy cause.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Reasons

Metal is a conductor of heat.

Consequently, a safe which is meant to form protection against heat must not have an unnecessary quantity of metal in its construction.

The double tongue-and-groove flanges on our fire-proof safe doors are built of light, strong galvanized homogeneous steel, which is less than half the weight of the cast iron used for the same purpose by other makers.

This is one of the numerous reasons why the TAYLOR SAFE is so successful in preserving its contents through all fires, no matter how severe.

CANADIAN CHEESE IN ENGLAND.

It is undoubted that within the last year or so our cousins in the Dominion of Canada have been making very vigorous efforts to increase the favor in which their cheese is held. From other quarters also there has been a very large growth in the supply of this article, and, in addition to all that, it must be remembered that canned and frozen meats are being placed upon the market in a form and at a cost which must have considerable attraction for the public. Superadded to these considerations is the possibility hinted at, not vaguely, but quite broadly, by some of the persons whose opinion has been sought, that Cheshire cheese farmers themselves may have to a material degree aided in bringing about the state of things of which they now make sore complaint. They may not have kept their product up to a point of excellence which would lead to its remaining a premier article in the market; they may not have taken all the trouble which they might have done to improve their methods of production in a ratio which would keep them on a level footing with people who were turning out other makes. Judging from our own knowledge of the matter, we should be inclined to think that there is considerable force in this latter argument, although it must, in all candor, be admitted that of late years prominent agriculturists in the country have made most vigorous efforts to awaken their fellows to a sense of what it was desirable they should do. For ourselves, without pretending to be expert judges in this particular matter, we should very seriously doubt whether holders of Cheshire cheese will see any very substantial rally in the price which dealers are prepared to offer them. All the circumstances of the time seem to point as strongly as ever to low-priced articles of consumption, and it will, therefore, not be surprising to us if Cheshire cheese, unless some great fillip is given to its estimation in the public eye, should fail to rise to any high level in price. —Grocers' Review, Manchester.

B.C. FLAX SEED.

The Canadian Linseed Oil Mill Co., of British Columbia, which was recently incorporated, expect to have their mill erected at Mission City and ready for crushing in January next, so says The Commercial Bulletin. The necessary seed will be imported until a supply can be procured from local farmers.

The company will be in a position to enter into contracts by the 1st January for the product of 3,000 to 5,000 acres, for which 80c. a bushel of 60 lbs. will be paid for clean, well-matured seed, delivered at the mill. It is estimated that the crop will be greater in British Columbia than has been obtained in Manitoba, where the yield is from 20 to 30 bushels to the acre, when grown for seed only. In Ontario, when the flax is grown for fibre, the yield of seed is only 15 to 20 bushels and from 2 to 3 tons of fibre, which sells from $10 to $12 per ton for clean stock.

The company are now preparing a pamphlet to be distributed shortly, which will fully demonstrate the cultivation of flax both for seed and fibre, and at the same time show the great value of the linseed oil cake for feeding stock.

STAGGERING UNDER SUGAR.

Europe has been staggering along under an enormous surplus weight of sugar, until such time as smaller crops of beet and cane should come to her relief. This relief is now near at hand. America cannot avoid heavy purchases of beet-root sugars, and is only trying to wait until first receipts of new crop are added to surplus of old crop, in the hope that such accumulation will give a more favorable opportunity for buying. As it is now, Europe is constantly above the parity of our market in prices, and any attempt to purchase largely would cause a quick commotion and necessitate a complete readjustment of values on this side for both raws and refined.—Willett & Gray.

CANADIAN FLOUR IN THE WEST INDIES.

Since the abrogation of the reciprocity treaty with the United States there has been a difference of about 75c. per barrel on import duties in favor of Canadian flour, and some trial shipments are being made to introduce it here. About 1,000 bags and barrels have been imported at this port from Halifax. The flour is suitable for this market as regards color, but it lacks strength when compared with American flour, and does not keep as well in this warm climate. If some attention were paid to this in Canada a good market might be secured, as the importations at this port amount, on an average, to over 60,000 bags per annum.—British Vice-Consul at Ponce.

SMALL PROFITS.

BELIEVING as we do in the great law of cause and effect and having been taught in early youth to take nothing for granted but to investigate and to think over every proposition that may present itself, it is but natural that we look around and endeavor to find out why it is that the complaint of "small profits" is so general among the grocers of the land. Almost every line of business has its staples and in every line of goods we find some that are used as leaders and sold at or below cost. The difference between those lines of goods and groceries is that in the former they make up on some articles what they give away on others, while in the latter, i.e., in the grocery line, there is no such thing as making up. Notwithstanding that we have any number of articles which ought to pay a living profit and which if sold at a good stiff price would not inconvenience or hurt either the retailer or the consumer, we have not the talent among us or among our salesmen that could take in the situation and get a reasonable price for goods even when it might be done without any trouble.

As an illustration we might point to some of the price lists going out of this city. In one instance a leading house here advertises concessions on slate pencils; in another instance, one of our oldest houses reduces the price of toilet paper. What an immense amount of trade can be influenced by a cut in the price of slate pencils may be easily figured out by those who have any understanding of our business. In another instance, we are told by one of the largest manufacturers of goods largely handled by the grocers, that a grocer salesman sold an article at 6 cents per pound for which his house paid $5\frac{3}{4}$ cents and for which the regular price among the manufacturers was from 12 to 14 cents per pound. How is it possible for a business to be profitable which is either controlled by those who make a leader of such goods as slate pencils, or whose goods are sold by salesmen willing to sell a fancy article at 6 cents for which the house paid $5\frac{3}{4}$ cents.

Truly there must be something wrong in a business which tolerates gross incompetency and which engages people not for what they can earn for their employers, but simply because they work for starvation wages. Talent cannot be had at $40 per month, and, on the other hand, high wages cannot be paid unless the money is earned by the employee. Our profits are small because we have not sense enough in our ranks to make our business profitable, and we employ incompetent, irresponsible salesmen because our profits are too small to engage the services of competent men.

The suggestion of the evil should carry within itself the remedy, and yet even those that preach the doctrine of reform plod along in the same channel of incompetency, and while pointing out the mote in the eyes of their neighbors, overlook the beam in their own eyes.

Any number of smart, experienced and well-to-do jobbers understand the situation and admit the troubles that are daily pointed out, and yet in their own business, in their own establishments they continue to employ incompetent people and to do their business in a way that they know to be antiquated and obsolete. They advocate liberal ideas and liberal thought and liberal action, and yet they continue to engage men that are foul-mouthed, untruthful, venomous and full of prejudice. On every side we hear extolled the doctrine of religious freedom, tolerance and forbearance, and yet in daily practice we find men hounded for their nationality, for their religion and for their politics. The inconsistencies are glaring, the faults are grievous and the penalty that is paid for them is enormous. Small profits are the result of incompetency, illiberality, vindictiveness and narrowness. To obviate the trouble we must begin reforming ourselves, and we must divest ourselves of prejudice, get rid of barnacles and shake our inexperienced and incompetent employees, and, starting out with goodwill to others, we may look for a responsive echo in them and expect their co-operation in the great aim and effort of advancing the interests of the business in which we are engaged.—Jacob Furth, in Inter-State Grocer.

TRAVELERS NOW AND THEN.

"DID you ever notice what a difference there is between the conduct of the commercial traveler of to-day and that of the one of twenty years ago?" was asked of the writer a few evenings since. Then the querist, who was comfortably seated in an arm chair in front of the Boody, went on: "Twenty years ago the drummer—it was not the commercial traveler then—was generally a young or youngish man, who talked loud and talked shop on the cars or in the stage coach. He had more or less swagger in his manner, was flippant in speech, and had a very high opinion of his own importance, which he was not chary of exhibiting. To a large number of his fellow travelers—unless they happened to be drummers also—his conduct was offensive. But he did not appear to care. He was not always a boor, but very many were the cases where the term was applicable to him. On arriving at his destination he was wont to hurry through with his business, and spend what time he had left over in visiting places of shady reputation, or playing cards in a saloon, filling up with 'budge' and telling 'risque' stories. Now it is entirely different. The 'commercial traveler' of to-day who is not gentle, manly in his conduct, and strictly attentive to business, is rare. If you will take a look at the crowd present you will find that the men with grey hairs are in the majority, that they are ever on the alert and ready for the business of the hour, that they waste no time, are not patrons of the bar to any extent, though most of them smoke; that, as a rule, they are careful about their expenses, though not penurious, that they are well informed on general subjects, but not given to talk, though they have a fund of anecdote, and can be particularly entertaining on proper occasion. In the main, they are of excellent reputation, thorough business men, with broad views and large experience, and are an important factor in the mercantile world. It will be hard to find a finer body of men in any calling, and the success of many a prosperous house is due in a great measure to the effort of its traveling men." —Business World.

JAPAN TEA CULTURE.

With reference to the extension of the tea trade in Japan, we are informed, says an English exchange, that there seems little probability of machinery being used. The cultivation at present is entirely in the hands of native farmers, each having only a small garden, and the individual output is so moderate that it can be easily manipulated by hand. The tea is sent down in bulk to the treaty ports, and there it is possible that machinery could be used for the finishing process, and we understand that a large consignment of apparatus for this purpose has recently been despatched to Japan.

A NEW FOOD DISCOVERED.

A discovery is reported to have been made in South Carolina which may give to the world another important article of food, says Trade. The common cane grown in that section bears a seed resembling rice, and almost as rich in starch. Cattle are fond of it, preferring it to oats. A quantity of it was recently ground and made into bread. The result of this experiment is not yet known. There are thousands of the seed, of which, up to this time, no special use has been made.

This discovery, if expectations be realized, will prove of great economic value in cheapening the "staff of life." Bread, which is a prime necessary, should cost far less than it does. It should be so cheap as to be had almost for the asking. Eight cents for a loaf scarcely large enough for a single meal for an average size family is a heavy tax on the poor.

All the cereals in use have been known for thousands of years. Nothing new has been added within the historic period. It is reasonable to assume there are other grains of equal value for food, of which nothing is known. Caneseed may be one of them.

DROPS FROM THE EDITOR'S PEN.

Merchants in giving credit lose their own credit.

* * *

Clerks are usually a reflection of their employers.

* * *

People, literate and illiterate alike, demand culture in their butter.

* * *

Hard it is for a merchant to be a successful business man and a sport.

* * *

A criterion of what is its maker is the package which the clerk puts up.

* * *

The sugar market appears to be getting much sand in its bottom these days.

* * *

Indian and Ceylon tea is, like Manitoba wheat, feeling big over its prospects.

* * *

Every duty shirked is a turn to the brake that retards a clerk's progress toward success.

* * *

A handsome clerk is a good thing, but much more to be desired is a handsome store.

* * *

The merchant who closely follows the seasons will not come out behind when the year closes.

* * *

He that advertiseth well and judiciously shall not be forgotten by the multitudes that consume his products.

* * *

There is one thing the "dead beat" has much to be thankful for: the law is full of tender mercy toward him.

* * *

A store window should be something more than a glass in which passers-by can see themselves: It should be something in which passers-by can see what they want for themselves.

* * *

A canner does business on his reputation, and the best way to get reputation is to put up a good article and advertise it.

* * *

A day in a store no more makes a young man a merchant than does being born in a church constitute a man a priest.

* * *

A mistake, indeed, is it for a merchant to sacrifice the quality of an article either to undersell or meet a competitor.

* * *

A contemporary declaims upon frauds in soap. It probably refers to grease, which is inherently a "slippery customer."

* * *

The daily paper is not a trade paper it is a news paper. This is a distinction that some merchants appear to overlook.

* * *

The merchant with ambition and an appreciation of advertising is the possessor of the two "A's" which head the alphabet of success.

* * *

The measure of a store's cleanliness is the gauge by which people estimate the cleanliness of the commodities the merchant has for sale.

* * *

Jury men in Toronto appear to be affected with the same maudlin sympathy for burglars as some women in the United States are for murderers.

* * *

If the law courts of Toronto have no terrors for the burglar, the merchants should devise ways and means of doing the terrorizing themselves.

* * *

A wise merchant will not look for business in the bar or billiard room any more than would a miner go up in a balloon in search of gold, or a sportsman descend into the bowels of the earth to shoot birds.

* * *

Secretary of Agriculture Morton, of the United States, has decreed that canned horse meat must be marked. It is already marked—for its death.

* * *

It is better to hoist a small sail than a large one which is safe only in light breezes. The moral to the merchant who is anxious to crowd on sail is obvious.

* * *

The narrow margin of to-day's profits demands merchants with broader grasp of business principles than in the days of long ago when margins were broad.

* * *

When Toronto's water pipes came up Toronto's citizens began to put down "soft drinks," much to the satisfaction of the manufacturers of these liquids.

* * *

Carefully ground between the upper and nether millstones of thought should ideas be before they are put into practice. Ideas that won't stand grinding won't stand practice.

* * *

Experience must be bought before it can be obtained, but the most of us pay more for our experience than we would have had we exercised as much common sense as we did nonsense.

* * *

Prospects for the winter's trade may be bright, but their realization will only be enjoyed by the merchant who carpets the way to his store. Good Times only enters where he is welcome.

* * *

One man says you should not drink tea, another proscribes coffee, a third declares water will kill you, a fourth that whisky or beer will kill you. What, then, is a fellow with a thirst to drink, anyhow.

CHEAP JOHN SALESMEN.

WE have time and again referred to the practice of some salesmen of appearing before the trade as a Cheap John, and have as frequently claimed that such practice is of incalculable injury to the salesman who indulges in it, writes Jacob Furth in Interstate Grocer. There are some who believe that every time they make a trip and call on their trade they must have some one article to use as a club with which to break the heads of rival salesmen. They believe that they must offer a snap of some kind to catch the attention of their customer and that the money which they sacrifice by thus selling some goods cheap comes back to them manifold by the increase of their business. We have contended and still contend that this practice, when extensively indulged in, ruins every salesman, and, for that matter, every house that may so indulge in it. We have yet to hear the first successful contradiction of our statement.

After an experience of more than a quarter of a century in this line of business, and after having watched the career of many salesmen and many houses, we have come to the conclusion that the practice above described is not conducive to prosperity or commercial longevity. We have seen salesmen go out bristling with enthusiasm, full of life and vigor, handling their snap shots with great dexterity, and dealing, as they thought, telling blows to their competitors. We have seen them grow in their own estimation until they thought but a little time would elapse when they would be masters of the situation: when they would command the trade of the section in which they traveled; when their customers would wait for them with outstretched arms and offer long and profitable orders to them on silver platters. The legitimate, hard-working, every-day, common-sense salesman was not in it with these bright luminaries. No one cared for any but the snap salesman. People watched his coming and his going, and listened with interest bordering on rapture to all the tales he told and all the wisdom that he constantly spouted. This lasted until the reputation of the snap salesman was thoroughly established as such. Whenever he came around people were accustomed to look for something new, something startling, something cheap, something being slaughtered. The novelty wore off when, after weeks and months, the predictions of large trade, that he was making to his employers, failed to materialize. Hope deferred made the heart of his employers sick, when, after seeing their goods slaughtered day after day, the returns which their salesman kept on promising to them did not show up.

Eventually the lines began to tighten on him; snaps, bargains, sacrifices were not so freely offered, and the courage of the salesman began to fail. His customers, too, began to notice that he was endeavoring to make up for lost time and lost money; they looked for snaps and would not buy goods at regular prices. It did not take long for the trade to fall back on the salesman who had treated them honestly and legitimately, and the snap salesman who had come on a mission of destruction soon found his career on the wane, his vocation unprofitable and his position in the mercantile community unenviable. Incalculable loss has been inflicted in every section covered by the snap salesman. Demoralization had taken the place of legitimate and intimate trade relations, but in the end the fittest would always survive, and the steady, sensible, competent and diligent salesman with his legitimate methods survived the windy, erratic and incompetent snap salesman.

WILL INCREASE THE CANNERIES.

The B.C. Commercial Journal, in an article on the recent salmon pack, says: "The results of this year are likely to still further stimulate the industry and cause additional canneries to be erected before the commencement of the next season. It may, however, be well for a little caution to be exercised in this matter, as although the European market appears at present to be able to absorb all the fish that will be offered, the experience of the past shows that the article is one of which, under ordinary conditions, it is difficult to force the consumption beyond a certain point. At the same time there does not appear to be any prospect of such reductions in the cost of production being possible as would so cheapen the price as to stimulate the demand."

COTTONSEED-FED HOG LARD.

From recent investigations carried on by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, it appears that hogs and bees fed on cottonseed products will yield a fat, presenting all the chemical properties of cottonseed oil. The lard of hogs fed on cottonseed meal instantly reduced nitrate of silver, which, in Bachi's modification, is considered a distinctive test for cottonseed oil. Our own chemist has found the same result in butter obtained from cotton-fed cows. Such lard as suet, even if avowedly perfectly free from adulteration, is likely to be condemned by the average analyst. While this goes to prove that cottonseed oil cannot be considered as an inferior fat-product, and while its formation in the system of the animal justifies its use in compounding legitimate fat-products, it, on the other hand, shows the risk of perfunctory chemical investigation. Strange to say, the iodine-absorption and the saponification equivalent in the case of lard and mutton-suet was decidedly lowered against all expectations and but slightly heightened in butter, while the Reichl figure was out of all proportion, amounting to only 12 in volatile acids, instead of 26 as in normal butter. We hope, remarks The National Provisioner, that the chemical laboratory of the Agricultural Department will further study this important question, which proves once more that no reliance can be placed on a conclusion reached by but one so-called distinctive test. Only by scientifically combining the results of all tests of all the chemical properties of the fat in question is it possible to arrive at the true nature of the product under examination.

OIL FROM CORN.

One of the latest of the products which modern science every now and then throws upon the world is corn oil. The maize, which is now grown in the United States at the rate of some 2,000,000,000 bushels per year, has been experimented with and found capable of yielding 3½ per cent. of its weight in oil, the germ of the kernel being the part from which the oil is extracted. The new material, explains a Minneapolis paper, is of a pale yellow color, somewhat thicker than either the olive or cotton-seed oil, and does not seem to be readily available as a substitute for them, but it is well adapted for lubricating purposes, and may be used as a salad dressing, while it seems to be desirable for liniments.

CREDIT MEN ORGANIZE.

On Thursday one hundred business men met at the Broadway Central Hotel, New York, and formed a New York Credit Men's Association. The constitution adopted states that the association is organized for protective and educational purposes; to promote and combine the intelligence and influence of members for protection against imposition, injustice and fraud, to agitate and effect changes in the collection and bankruptcy laws of the various States and the protection of creditors against abuses now prevalent; to bring about mutual improvements, greater similarity and certainty in business customs and usages of trade, and to establish closer ties of business association to the end that the welfare of all may be the more highly conserved.

The membership of the association is to consist of credit men, representing firms, corporations or individuals engaged in any legitimate line of business where credits are given. The annual dues are placed at $15.

Remember, there is a school for business as well as for learning the three "R's," which he must pass through who would be something better than a know-nothing merchant. Its name is Experience.

ANOTHER CUSTOMS MATTER.

AT the weekly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in Montreal, an interesting document to grocers generally from the Wholesale Grocers' Section of the Board of Trade was read. It was as follows :

Wholesale Grocers' Association of the Montreal Board of Trade, 24 St. Sacramento street, Montreal, September 24, 1895.

S. Cote, Esq., Secretary La Chambre de Commerce du District de Montreal ;

DEAR SIR,—At a recent meeting of this association several members complained to the president of having received notice from the Collector of Customs at this port that they must either export or pay duty on goods which have been in bond for more than two years, in order to comply with section 90 of the Customs Act, which reads as follows :

"All warehoused goods shall be finally cleared, either for exportation or home consumption within two years from the date of the first entry and warehousing thereof ; and in default thereof the collector or other proper officer may sell such goods for the payment, first, of the duties, and, secondly, of the warehouse rent and other charges, and the surplus, if any, shall be paid to the owner or his lawful agent, and the collector or other proper officer may charge or authorize the occupier of the warehouse to charge a fair warehouse rent, subject to any regulation made by the Governor-in-Council in that behalf."

This section of the Customs Act, while having been law for some years past, has not been put into operation, and its enforcement at the present time is felt to be a serious hardship to exporters, particularly those of groceries, wines and liquors, the limit of two years being at times much too short to meet the requirements of the trade ; and I am therefore to express the desire of this association that your chambre will use its influence with the Government to have the time limit extended from two to four years.

At the same time I am to call your attention to sub-section 2 of clause 81 of the Customs Act, which provides that "No such transfer of less than a whole package shall be valid, and no more than three transfers of the same goods shall be allowed before entry thereof for duty or exportation," and to ask that steps be taken to have the said sub-section so altered as to permit of the transfer of goods while in bond as many times as may be desired ; the limit at present prescribed by law often affecting prejudicially the trade in groceries, wines, liquors and so forth.

(Signed), G. A. IRWIN, Secretary.

A resolution was unanimously adopted, praying the Honorable the Controller of Customs to extend to four years the action of section 90 of the Customs Act, and praying also that the trade be allowed to make all the necessary transfers of goods in bond for four years.

The secretary read a letter from the Consul-General of France, informing the members that he had received and transmitted the general bulletin of the French Mercantile Marine for 1895, together with a table of railroad rates of France and a railroad map of the same country.

The Council then proceeded to discuss and adopt a series of new by-laws for the internal government of the Chambre de Commerce.

Among those present at the meeting were H. Laporte, the president, in the chair, and J. D. Rolland, L. E. Morin, Jr., C. P. Chagnon, O. Foucher, U. Gorand, Jas. Contant, A. Racine and J. X. Perrault.

COLLECTORS IN UNIFORM.

A New England judge has rendered a decision that is of interest to grocers who have been tempted to place bills for settlement in the hands of collectors who wear uniforms when calling upon delinquents, thereby making the nature of their mission evident. Two of these professional men recently bothered a Somerville (Mass.) man by calling upon him dressed in a green outfit. He had them arrested and they were placed on trial. After evidence was taken, the judge found that there was probably cause for believing that the men complained of were guilty of conspiring to annoy, disgrace and to injure the character of the plaintiff by appearing at his residence at sundry times in conspicuous uniform and publicly dunning him for the payment of a bill of goods. He therefore held them in the sum of $300 for trial. There are various ways of collecting money, but it would seem that the green-coated way is hardly likely to result favorably in every case, adds Commercial Enquirer.

ORIGIN OF PUMICE-STONE.

PUMICE-STONE is the theme of Mr. Norman Douglas' report transmitted to the Foreign Office by our ambassador in Rome, and this important item in the Italian exports furnishes some interesting details, says The London Daily News. Pumice, as is well known, is of volcanic origin, being a trachytic lava which has been rendered light by the escape of gases when in a molten state. It is found on most of the shores of the Tyrrhenian Sea and elsewhere, but is at present almost exclusively obtained from the little island of Lipari. Most of the volcanoes of Lipari have ejected pumaceous rocks, but the best stone is all the product of one mountain, Monte Chirica, nearly 2,000 feet in height, with its two accessory craters. The district in which the pumice is excavated covers an area of three square miles. It has been calculated that about 1,000 hands are engaged in this industry, 600 of whom are employed in extracting the mineral. Pumice is brought to the surface in large blocks or in baskets, and is carried thus either to the neighboring village, or to the seashore, to be taken there in boats. The supply is said to be practically inexhaustible.

Pumice is used not merely for scouring and cleaning purposes, but also for polishing in numerous trades, hence the fact that the powdered pumice exported exceeds in weight the block pumice. Between twenty and thirty merchants are engaged in the pumice trade in the island. Prices rose considerably about seven years ago, when a syndicate with a capital of 500,000 lire (£20,000) rented the municipal pumice lands for an annual sum of 92,000 lire. The syndicate, however, failed through mismanagement, and since then, though the good qualities always command a high figure, the general tendency of prices has been to fall.

MAKING CLAY PIPES.

A FOREIGN newspaper thus describes the process of manufacturing clay pipes:

The clay is first cut into small pieces, and milled and softened and cleansed until it is of the consistency of putty, and very like putty, too, in appearance. That is the first stage. The next process is the fashioning of the rough outline of the clay pipe. A woman, sitting at a table with a sort of pasteboard in front of her, and a heap of the soft clay at her side, takes a handful of the stuff and deftly with her fingers rolls it out until the pipe stem and bowl are roughly shaped. The skill of these workers is very notable. The dexterity with which they work out even the largest shapes merely by the quick motions of the hand is something to be seen. When the shape is partly obtained, hard rolling under a board gives consistency to the clay, and the pipes are then passed on in dozens to the molders. These, again, are women. They take a pipe in one hand and pierce the narrow stem with a needle so skilfully that they rarely force the point outside the thin strip of clay. Then the pipe is laid in an iron mold of proper shape, and pressed; a punch descends into the ball of clay and forms the hollow of the bowl, and a knife trims the rough edges of the bowl away. The press being unscrewed, then ejects a perfectly-shaped pipe, whether alderman or cutty, transformed in a few minutes from the rough heap of clay which left the mill.

After being dried awhile it passes to another girl, who trims it, makes sure that the bore in the stem is perfect and that it is a smokable pipe. The next process is the firing. In the early days twenty-four gross of pipes was the largest number fired in one kiln, and then there were 20 per cent. of breakages. Now 1,100 gross short pipes are fired in one kiln and the breakages amount to a small few per cent. indeed. The pipes are fired in "saggers," round dishes made of the local clay, and they are kept at a great heat for a number of hours before they are fit to be smoked.

Then they are taken to the factory again to be tipped, if tipping is included in their evolution. The stems are dipped in a glaze and are thrust into a strong fire for a few minutes till it is thoroughly burnt on. The pipes are then almost complete and after being sorted and packed in boxes they are ready for distribution to the clay-lovers awaiting them outside.

JAPAN RICE.

Mail advices to middle of August from Nagasaki have the following on rice: Prices have been in favor of the sellers, but the market is easily fluctuated by the changes of the weather. In spite of predictions to the contrary, it seems probable, however, that the crop will be well above the usual average. Stocks on hand amount to 11,000 bales Higo and 14,000 bales Hizen, quotations being from $3.90 to $4, and $3.80 to $3.90 respectively.

BRIMSTONE MINES SHUT DOWN.

The low prices that have for the past while ruled have caused nearly all the Sicilian brimstone mines to shut down. During the past month the best unmixed seconds sold as low as $14.75 per ton and the best unmixed thirds as low as $14.40 per ton.

Now, on account of the sudden large demand on the part of France and Italy, Sicilian stocks have been materially decreased, and, as a result, quotations have risen to $15.75 and $15.40. The recovery seems to have come too late, however, for the latest advices say that Sicilian mine owners have been already so badly bit, that they will have to let their mines stand idle, although prices have advanced.

To relieve the situation an effort is being made to have the Italian export duty on brimstone removed, and to have warehouses built on the coast where owners of the far-inland mines can store their output and receive funds on the strength of these deposits to carry on operations.

To show how prices have declined it need only be stated that several years ago brimstone brought $35 a ton. Until recently $18 to $21 was the quotation, but now the bottom has fallen out of the market.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. D. Roberts, manager of the Pure Gold Manufacturing Co. of Toronto, left on Tuesday last for a trip through the Maritime Provinces. He will go as far east as Halifax, calling upon the firm's representatives in the different cities en route.

Morgan Hatch, grocer, St. Thomas, Ont., was married on September 25 at Waterford, to Miss Yateman.

The friends of Mr. W. H. Ferguson, formerly proprietor of the "Queen's Grocery Store," London, will be pleased to know that he is gradually building up a successful dairy business in Detroit. He has recently received patents from Ottawa and Washington for his vacuum milk can. This can, it might be explained, does away with the use of ice or cold storage.

Mr. J. A. Steele, of the Steele-Briggs Seed Company, met with an accident from a gun at Saltcoats on Wednesday week. He is progressing favorably.

C. J. Silsworth, book-keeper for Williams & Higgins, wholesale fruiterers, Toronto, broke his left collar bone on Wednesday by falling from a bicycle at St. Lawrence market.

LATE BUSINESS CHANGES.

G. F. Williamson, produce and lumber merchant, Princeton, Ont.; has been succeeded by Fred. Vickert.—The Canadian Oil Co., Toronto, has assigned to Chas. Mackenzie.—The creditors of Hickman & Co., grocers, Toronto, have been called together.—W. G. Collins, grocer, etc., Watford, Ont., has assigned to John Thomas.—The North Star tannery, Joliette, Que., has been burned out.—Onesime Dubois, cheese maker, Lefavre, Que., wants to compromise at 50c. on the dollar.—The creditors of J. E. Burroughs, manufacturer soda waters, Shawville, Que., have been called together.—B. Loisel, trader, St. Angele De Monnois, Que., wants to compromise at 40c.—The assets of J. N. Graveline, general store, St. Francois Du Lac, Que., are to be sold by auction on Oct. 9.—H. E. Hallett has started a grocery store at Winnipeg.—The St. Jean Baptiste Grist Mill and Elevator Co., St. Jean Baptiste, Man., seek incorporation.

NOTES.

A new oatmeal mill is to be erected at Edmonton, N.W.T., by Brack & Ker, who also operate a mill at Victoria, B.C.

A new mill is being built at Wawanesa, Man., on the Brandon branch of the Northern Pacific Railway. Russell & Snider are the proprietors, and the machinery is being supplied by Nordyke & Morman Co., of Indianapolis. The mill will have a capacity of about 100 barrels per day, and will be completed in about a month.

On the private post cards now being sent out by W. H. Gillard & Co., of Hamilton, announcing when their travelers may be expected, are the trade marks of their special brands of currants, "Hay Castle" and "Paradise," and also a reference to certain teas they have in stock. The idea is a good one.

ADVANCE IN SUGAR.

The refineries advanced the price of sugar yesterday morning $\frac{1}{8}$ of a cent per pound, making it $4\frac{1}{8}$ c. on granulated, and $3\frac{1}{8}$ to $3\frac{3}{8}$ c. on yellows in Montreal. Toronto houses $\frac{1}{8}$ of a cent advance on these figures. Market very strong.

"ENGLISH AS SHE IS WROTE."

The following, says The Boston Commercial Bulletin, is culled from the regular Fibre Report, published by the Chambers of Commerce of Bologna, Ferrara and Naples, Italy, and sent out as a part of a trade circular for foreign information:

"Old hemp is always very asked; this encourage the few detainers to resistance and pretences which put into irons the business; and the negotiations d'ont want us want often the conclusion. That which result from the sales made, is that the article is in favor; that of the good hemp one will and one shall obtain the it. Lire 88, 50, that the rest of middle goods had Lire 85, and the offer of Lire 80 is easy and current for the hemp salutary of hail.

"Naples market has not been of great moment the last week, that truly one is turn in an ambient saturated of other efficacy, that not that commercial. One begins to open the heart at the hope, forseeing perhaps none atmospheric perturbation will have to deteriorate his good nature.

"These news, perhaps have not knowed to advise the foreing to purchaseds readies, as had made the last time; and of this the deplored fault of business of the last week, in which the prices they are seen a little feeble, and with tendency to the deduction."

THAT CHEAP TUTTI FRUTTI.

The following is a copy of a letter which has been sent to The News for publication:

EDITOR NEWS,—In your issue of Saturday last, under an article clipped from THE CANADIAN GROCER arraigning the John Eaton Co. for advertising our Tutti Frutti at 2 for 5c., appears an "explanation" from the said John Eaton Co.

The "explanation" in question is no explanation at all. The John Eaton Co. evidently believe that a bad excuse is better than none at all; and, in order to bolster up an excuse, resort to a tissue of falsehoods. We deny most emphatically that we sent boys to the Eaton store. We did send five of our employes (adults) for the purpose of ascertaining whether the company was really selling Tutti Frutti; and in doing so we were actuated by a desire to protect the regular retailer. The statement of the Eaton people that they had run out of Tutti Frutti "as the demand was great" is untrue. They did not have Tutti Frutti in their store on the day they advertised 2 bars for 5c.; neither did they have it for several days after. And, what is more, the girls at the gum counter, when asked for Tutti Frutti, declared on the morning of September 21 they did not keep it in stock, at the same time trying to persuade customers to take the make of another firm, which the John Eaton Co. in their "explanation" say "that we regard as better than Adams'."

There are instances where comparisons are odious. The comparison between Tutti Frutti and the substitute is one of them; and it was particularly so to the palate of those who were induced to buy the substitute. But, then, if the substitute was better why was the John Eaton Co. so anxious to get Tutti Frutti? People do not accept the counterfeit, particularly when they can get the genuine; and the action of the John Eaton Co. proves that they practise this doctrine if they do not preach it.

The statement that the Adams Co. had boycotted the John Eaton Co. is another false allegation, made, no doubt, as were the others, in a "moment of weakness." We never made any attempt to boycott the firm. Department stores are classified by us as retail stores, and we only sell to wholesale houses and in large quantities.

Yours, etc.,

THE ADAMS & SONS CO.

TWO TORONTO FAILURES.

J. A. Killackey, grocer, Toronto, has assigned to Hy. Barber & Co. The assets and liabilities are both nominally in the neighborhood of $1,000. At a meeting of creditors an offer of 30c. on the dollar—15c. in cash, and 7½c. in 30 days and 7½c. in 60 days in promissory notes—was made. The creditors represented accepted the offer, but others have to be heard from yet.

E. A. Lawson, dealer in teas, coffees and cocoa, Toronto, has assigned to E. R. C. Clarkson. The liabilities total $1,200, and the assets only $400. The original proprietor of the business was Edward Lawson, who was one of the oldest and best known tea men in Toronto. Mr. Lawson, Sen., failed over a year ago, but secured a settlement with his creditors. Some months ago he died, and his son, the present insolvent, came into the business. A meeting of creditors has been called. Some surprise is occasioned by the smallness of the assets, as the house once did a big trade.

FLAX CULTURE.

It is authoritatively announced that the promoters of the townsite of Mission City have closed arrangements with Mr. Verbeist and his associates whereby a linseed mill of 20 tons daily capacity will be placed on their property, manufacturing linseed oil and oil cake, by the beginning of the year. It seems that the first cargo of linseed, amounting in value to about $50,000, will be brought up from South America, a return cargo of lumber being sent out from the Hastings saw mill. The factory will, it is estimated, consume the product of some 6,000 acres of land, which will mean considerable from an agricultural standpoint.

The company will, moreover, it is said, establish an experimental farm at Matsqui to show farmers how to sow and cultivate flax and also how to use oil cake in the feeding of stock. It is estimated that the linseed crop will give to the farmer something like $27 per acre, and that the pay roll of the mill will be about $25,000 per annum. It is also said that the company have already secured contracts to take all the oil they can make, without taking into account inquiries from Australia and elsewhere for both oil and cake.—B.C. Commercial Journal.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES.

SOMEWHAT unique at the moment is the situation of the market for evaporated and dried apples.

Under ordinary conditions, with a crop of apples one-third shorter than usual, the outlook would be accounted bright. And the factor which creates a situation other than what would obtain under ordinary circumstances is the fact that where Canada's apple crop this season is meagre, that of other countries, importing as well as exporting, have been blessed with an abundant yield. The United States, our chief competitor in the consuming markets, has an abnormally large crop.

Early dried and evaporated fruit is practically not a factor on the market in its general sense. The demand for it is for local consumption. The export trade on this side of the Atlantic is monopolized by the South American fruit. Not that it is better, but by reason of the fact that the southern article is placed on the market at a lower price than the Canadian. Under ordinary circumstances Canada is well able to compete with the United States in the late or winter varieties of dried and evaporated apples. But this season it is yet an enigma what she will be able to do even with regard to this late fruit.

In the first place, much depends upon the result of our own export trade in green apples. As a rule, England begins to take our winter variety of apples just before the Christmas holidays. But the question is: Will we be able to compete with the United States on that market, in view of the enormous quantity of apples which that country will have for export. If so, then so much the better for the dried and evaporated fruit market. If not, then so much the worse.

A factor in the situation which must not be overlooked is this: The total failure of the apple crop in some of the chief apple-growing centres has led to the closing down of a large number of the evaporators in these sections. A gentleman who is in close touch with the evaporators declares to THE CANADIAN GROCER that 50 per cent. of them are closed down this season. As far as this goes, it certainly favors the market. But then, again, will the export price be so low in the United States as to deter evaporation in Canada? And, furthermore, with the United States market filled to overflowing, what are the possibilities for export to Canada?

With a duty of 25 per cent. in the way Canada during the fiscal year of 1894 imported 147,329 pounds of dried apples, valued at $11,824, paying a duty of $2,990.49, and of the quantity brought in 146,630 pounds were from the United States. It should, however, be stated that of the 147,329 pounds imported 146,484 was entered at British Columbia ports.

So wrapped in uncertainty is the situation that exporters of dried and evaporated fruits are at their wits' end.

In the United States the situation does not afford the trade there much consolation. No speculative interest is being manifested, and jobbers are holding off with the expectation that prices have not yet reached the bottom.

SOME SPECIAL ADVERTISING.

It is now beyond a doubt that the Fall Trade Number of THE CANADIAN GROCER of 1895 will be the most interesting and the most striking ever issued. Our regular advertisers are making it so. In two-color effects E. D. Tillson, of Tilsonburg, has the star advertisement so far received, but his originality is being pushed very closely by Messrs. W. H. Gillard & Co., of Hamilton. The Snow Drift Co., of Brantford, are also making a good show. In the one color ads. great originality is shown, much more than in previous years. A. P. Tippet & Co. have some splendid advertisements, as have also the wholesale houses. Before next Friday, which is the last day we can take copy, we expect to be pages and pages ahead of last year.

ONTARIO'S EGGS.

Large quantities of eggs are going to England via Montreal, most of them from Ontario. The price now being paid in Liverpool, viz., 7s. c.i.f., allows of a nice profit to the Canadian shipper, hence the large export trade. Eggs in Toronto are firm at 12½c. per doz., but one would have expected a better quotation than that. The reason that the prices do not rule higher at this time of the year is that most of the fine large eggs placed on the outside Ontario markets are sent to Montreal for shipment to England, leaving the culls to be disposed of in the Queen City.

ARE SALMON OFF-YEARS GONE?

OFF-YEARS in the salmon industry of British Columbia have, heretofore, been just about as regular as the course of the seasons. But 1895 will be remembered as a year in which the off or short season was due but did not materialize. And the question has no doubt arisen in the minds of a great many: are the off-seasons a thing of the past?

Were the salmon left to themselves it is probable the lean and the fat years would continue to make their appearance with their accustomed regularity. But the fish are not left to themselves.

Science, through the artificial means which it has created, is now a factor in salmon production as well as the parent fish. And due in part at least to this is the fact that the anticipated small run of 1895 turned out to be a large run, and one which would have resulted in a larger pack of salmon had the canners the tins at their disposal.

Turning to the report of the officer in charge of the Fraser river hatchery, Fisheries Report, 1894, we find that in March and April of that year, to use the officer's words, "6,300,000 lively young sockeye" were distributed in Harrison river, Pit lake and Stave river. In 1893 the fry distributed numbered 5,764,000, or 536,000 less than in 1894. More than 50 per cent. of the fry is distributed in the Harrison river, a tributary to the Fraser.

To some people it may be news to know that the Fraser river hatchery is on the banks of that stream about two miles above New Westminster. It has, according to the Government returns, a hatching capacity of 10,000,000 salmon eggs. The supplies of eggs are collected from the parent fish netted in a small branch of the Harrison river forty miles above the hatchery.

In glancing over the two last annual reports it is to be noted that the officer in charge has repeatedly urged the necessity of putting the hatchery in repair. If it has not already done so, it is to be hoped that the Government will without delay put in an efficient condition an institution which has assisted materially in increasing the salmon productiveness of the Fraser river and maintaining a more uniform run of fish than would otherwise be the case.

GOOD APPLES SCARCE.

The quality of the receipts of apples in Montreal during the present week has not averaged high, and, as a result, prices of choice stock are firm.

Winter apples are commencing to arrive, and have sold to the local trade at $2 to $2.50.

Cables to shippers in Montreal from Liverpool do not show any margin on the small shipments that have so far arrived at that port. This has not disappointed them, as the stock was of a rather poor grade. The same cables stated that good stock was much needed in England.

In the country, Montreal exporters have to date contracted for possibly 50,000 barrels of apples at $1, picked, or about $1.55 to $1.65 f.o.b. on the cars.

This week, in consequence of the scarcity and good demand for good to choice stock, sellers at the orchard are asking an advance of 25c.

CALIFORNIA VS. EUROPEAN FRUIT.

THE competition between European dried fruit and goods from California promises to be keener than ever this fall.

Some time ago THE CANADIAN GROCER referred to the fact that California houses were offering fine table raisins this fall. These offers have been duplicated several times since, and though no business has as yet resulted, it is believed that a good trade can be done owing to the price at which Malaga fruit is offering this fall. Offers on the latter have been rather high so far, and buyers are holding back to see if they will be modified. If they are not, the chances are that the Californian offers will be accepted.

Among the Pacific Coast firms who have made offers of table raisins are Griffin & Skelley and Forsythe & Co. But it is not only in Malaga and other raisins that the present conditions offer a footing to California fruit. In prunes the respective cost at present of French vs. California gives them a first-class chance.

Recent limits cabled to Montreal brokers on French prunes for the four sizes are equivalent to a first cost in France of 8 to 8½c., which means laid down in Montreal from 9½ to 10c.

Compared with these prices California prunes are much the cheapest. The first cost on the Coast for the four sizes is wired at 5 to 5½c., so that it would cost to lay the goods down in Montreal about 7½c., or a difference in favor of California prunes of 2 to 2½c. per lb. If the quality is right, therefore, the logical conclusion is that they will get the preference from the consumer.

It will be interesting to see whether this position will prevail throughout the season.

ADVANCE IN WOODBOARD.

Woodboard is advancing and the E. B. Eddy Co. have advised their agents that the following quotations now obtain:

$40 less 10 per cent. discount in full carloads, freight paid or allowed.

$40 less 5 per cent. in ton and up lots, l.c.l. freight paid or allowed.

$40 no discount in less than ton lots, no freight allowed.

SHARP ADVANCE IN CURRANTS.

CABLES received this week announce an advance of equal to ¼c. per lb. in currants in the primary markets. The advance was not unexpected, the general opinion having been that the market has been lower than the circumstances warranted.

The recent weakness in the market was, in view of the short crop and the Retention Act passed by the Greek Chamber, unexplainable, at least to those outside the primary market. Mail advices to hand, however, give a reason for this weakness. They say that it was caused by holders being compelled to force sales. "As soon, however, as this pressure is removed a material advance is thought to be more than possible," they add. And the pressure evidently has been removed. At any rate an advance has materialized.

A report under date of Patras, Sept. 3 says: "Our last report was in date of 6th ultimo, since when 2,620 tons of 1894 crop have been shipped, bringing the total shipments for the year up to 147,630 tons. About 5,000 tons of old fruit remain for shipment, but these will in future appear among the shipments of new fruit. We now bid adieu without regret to the currant season of 1894, for it has been one of the worst on record for all interested and dealing in the article. The new campaign opened very flatly on August 28; about 5,000 tons of provincial offered for sale, but barely 500 tons changed hands."

The new crop was safely housed about Sept. 1. Some authorities estimate the crop to be about 145,000 tons, about the same as last year, while the Greek Government's official estimate places the figures at 15 per cent. less. It is estimated that out of the total crop 15,000 tons will be handed over to the Government in compliance with Retention Bill, which would bring the quantity down to 130,000 tons, or about equal to the consumptive demand. The object of the Retention Bill referred to is, it will be remembered, to reduce the quantity of currants available for export, and provide for a retention of 15 per cent. in kind or cash on all currants declared for exportation. With the cash thus received the Government must purchase currants, whenever it can do so, at equivalent to 7s. f. o. b. cases, while all the currants deposited in Government stores by exporters, or purchased by the Government, must be sold locally for wine or spirit making.

The quality of the new crop currants is, it appears, turning out better than anticipated.

MONTREAL BOARD OF TRADE.

The Montreal Board of Trade at the meeting this week considered, among other matters, a communication from the Grocers'

Guild, urging that the Customs Act should be amended with regard to the length of time that goods should remain in bond, and as to the number of transfers allowed in bond. The secretary forwarded the communication to the Controller of Customs.

A communication was also received from the Secretary of State stating that the Government had received the petition of the board urging the advisability of free canals, and that it would receive their consideration.

The board, in considering the recent disasters in the Straits of Belle Isle, decided to urge upon the Government the necessity of extending their telegraphic signal service to the Straits, so that prompter notice of wrecks could be received, and the necessary assistance rendered.

EARLY CLOSING.

Over a hundred clerks assembled in St. Joseph Hall, Montreal, Sunday afternoon at the annual meeting of the Early-Closing Association. P. Macdonald, the president, was in the chair. Ald. Connaughton, who is an old time grocer, and very popular with the clerks, was on the platform, so was Ald. Brunet. Both are supporters of the early-closing movement, and the boys will not forget the assistance they are giving them in their fight. Speeches were made by Messrs. Gendron, of Gendron, Pigeon & Cie.; the two aldermen; Huot, dry goods merchant, St. Lawrence street, Havard and Poirier protesting against the way in which a few members of the City Council were blocking the progress of the movement by leaving the meetings and breaking up the quorum.

It was decided to appoint committees in each ward to organize the friends of early closing so as to re-elect aldermen in favor of the movement and defeat those who are now opposing it.

The following officers were then elected: President, J. B. E. Poirier; vice-president, A. Macbeth; treasurer, O. Legendre; secretary, M. Havard; assistant secretary, J. A. Laughran; committee, D. Seguin, L. C. Langevin, A. Roy, L. P. Collette, P. Macdonald, G. N. Robert, J. P. Beauvais, J. A. E. Del'ausse, P. Ethier, E. Viau.

The association is composed chiefly of the dry goods and grocers' clerks, though there are representatives of the hardware and other businesses.

DEFINITION OF FINEST CHEESE.

A good deal has been said during the past week about Canadian cheese. This is how a Montreal merchant defines "finest cheese," and the definition should satisfy even The North British Agriculturist: "Clean in flavor, close in make, true in color, full-bodied and silky in texture, neat in finish, Cheddar shapes, uniform in size, and packed in good, well-fitting boxes."—Canadian Gazette.

SUGAR POINTING HIGHER.

IT is a notable fact that the Montreal market has been for over twelve months past one of the cheapest, if not the cheapest market for refined sugar, and that even since the change in the sugar tariff the Canadian consumer has been getting his sugar cheaper than consumers elsewhere.

In fact, it has surprised a good many shrewd dealers that the sugar market in Canada did not advance long before this. That it did not do so the cutting that THE CANADIAN GROCER had to refer to from time to time amply proves.

Within the past fortnight, however, the excitement in New York, and the strength of the raw sugar market, has led the Montreal refiners to cease shading prices. As noted last week, they were firm at 4c. for granulated and 3 to 3½c. for yellows at the refineries, and at this writing the prospects point to an advance on this basis very shortly, possibly before the week is out.

In connection with the stronger disposition of the raw market The N. Y. Commercial Bulletin says: "The supplies are simply held with the previously noted vise-like grip and generally expected to bring more money, the only regret among importers being that they were so free in parting with a portion of their holdings this week. We understand a local house has sold a cargo of Java to be shipped to Europe and that is the only report of business that could be obtained. The quietness, however, was attributed to the fact that no bids could be obtained above former quotations and on that plane sellers are not to be found. Exactly what would be accepted is not clear, but current quotations are nominal, having no other basis than last sales. All foreign advices are very strong, including a report that the Trust has purchased centrifugals in Cuba on a parity of 3¾c., or even a small fraction better here. It is also believed that the story in regard to the European surplus of old crop beet being bought up is correct, the reports and quotations from abroad to day coming very strong, and in regard to new crop Licht cables 'weather unfavorable, grinding unsatisfactory.' The entire temper of the market seems very bullish."

CRANBERRIES HAVE ARRIVED.

The first shipment of cranberries for the season has arrived in the Toronto market this week. It consists of a small consignment of Cape Cod berries, rather small in size but of good quality.

Cranberries are reported very firm in New York, and the prospect is that for the meantime the quotation of $9 per barrel in Toronto will be maintained.

It will be difficult to estimate what figures will rule for the season until the cold weather sets in and the winter consumption of turkeys commences.

POSITION GOING BEGGING.

OTTAWA, Oct. 3, 1895.—Mr. Kilvert is Acting Commissioner of Customs, but he will not retain the position. He prefers to live at Hamilton and a smaller salary to the worries of this high office. S. W. McMichael, of Toronto, the financial inspector of the Department, has been strongly urged to take the position. In fact, he was asked to go there before Mr. Kilvert, but he has private means, and the increased salary will not tempt him to accept a promotion. Meantime, Mr. Wallace has his weather eye open for a capable man. Some Montreal business men have been putting forward the name of a Mr. Douglass, who, I understand, is the hardware appraiser, but Mr. Wallace will not consider him. It appears he is too independent, and refuses to be made a tool of for political purposes. When the trouble arose on the over-valuation of scythes, and the question was being agitated in HARDWARE AND METAL, the Department insisted that Mr. Douglass should swear that he believed the prices, as prepared by Mr. Hawthorne, of the Welland Vale Manufacturing Co., were correct. Mr. Douglass refused, and said that the inquiries he made satisfied him that the valuations in the list sent out by the Department were very much higher than the actual values. The Department, therefore, after a long fight, and after using every effort to induce him to swear to their valuations, had to back down. It is said that had Mr. Douglass become a party to these over-valuations the Department would have allowed the case to go into court. They dared not do so with their most important witness against them. Mr. Wallace has not forgiven Mr. Douglass. I am even informed that Mr. Chaplin, the proprietor of the Canadian Scythe Combination, was present at the time influence was being brought to bear on Mr. Douglass.

* * *

I am not aware that your readers ever understood the real pull Mr. Hawthorne had with the Customs Department. Personally, he seems to be a friend and chum of Mr. Wallace. The real power was Mr. Chaplin himself. I was told by a man in the inner circle that Mr. Chaplin told the Government that unless they placed his valuations on imported scythes he would make all his employees—and they number 300 or 400 distributed among five factories—vote against the Government. They knew he meant it, and Mr. Wallace was told he must fix up things to suit him. Having failed in this I am told he has been promised a higher tariff when Parliament meets.

The appointment of Mr. Girouard, Q.C., M.P., to be a Judge of the Supreme Court of Canada, meets with general approval among business men. All through his parliamentary career he was recognized as not only a very able but as a just man, who would never stoop to anything unfair to make capital for his party. No man was more highly respected by his opponents. He has a good knowledge of business and will be able to deal intelligently with questions requiring an acquaintance with business as well as with law. The importance of appointing men to the Bench who have had some practical business as well as legal training has been urged on the Government on more than one occasion. Litigants with a good case have sometimes suffered from lack of such men. This is why so many questions are now submitted to arbitration committees by members of Boards of Trade.

R. M.

BUTTER 60 CENTS PER POUND.

Mr. Jas. R. Craddon, of Kingston, Jamaica, who is in Ottawa, says regarding the prospect of Canadian trade with the island: "If you had a cold storage system at Montreal, St. John or Halifax, in which you could carry meat, there is a fortune in it. We cannot get really good fresh meat, nor can we get good butter. We pay 60 cents a pound for very inferior butter. Your best butter is sold there at, say, the outside price of 25 cents per pound. Why, don't you see that if you had an entrance with us in beef and dairy produce, you would easily gain our confidence in other things? You can take our sugar, our spices, our rum, our fruit. We, in Jamaica, will take all the flour Canada can send along. It has been reported to the British Colonial Agents that we prefer to deal with Canada instead of the United States, but at present we are taking all our flour from the United States."

LONDONERS DEAD.

Two of London's old residents are dead—Mr. William Plewes, proprietor of the Meadow Lily Mills, aged 67 years, and Mr. Gaius Welford, aged 73, interested in the Glebe Street Rope Works. Mr. Plewes was one of the best-known millers in Western Ontario, having owned the Meadow Lily Mills for a quarter of a century. He was born in Yorkshire, Eng., and after coming to Canada engaged in the milling business in Dereham township, but subsequently settled in London. He leaves a family of ten children. Mr. Welford, who was born in Buckinghamshire, Eng., came to Canada in 1847. He lived in Paris for a time, then in Buffalo, but had been a resident of London ever since 1867, being engaged with his son in the rope-making business. Deceased was a regular attendant of Adelaide street Baptist church. He leaves a widow and five children, the latter being: Ex-Ald. Jesse Welford, James, Gaius and Mrs. Charles Gould, in this city, and Mrs. Wm. Bunting, of Ann Arbor, Mich.

TEA AND TWADDLE.

THERE will soon be a difficulty in knowing what to eat or drink if the scientific or other faddists are permitted to continue their sensational revelations. We are told, for instance, that alcohol is poison, and also that there is death in the teacup ! In reference to this last point, it is curious to find that certain writers in the daily press have been commenting this week on one or two fatal cases which are said to be "more or less connected with tea drinking." The facts appear to be as follows:

An inquest was held in London on Thursday on a laborer who drowned himself in the Lea. It came out in the evidence that the poor fellow, who had been troubled about an accident to a fellow workman, was in the habit of drinking twenty cups of tea a day! He was a teetotaler. The other case was that of a woman at Dudley, who was also in the habit of drinking large quantities of tea. Eventually this, it is said, interfered with the action of a weak heart, and resulted in sudden death. The doctor's opinion was that any liquid taken in the same quantity would have caused her death.

It is obviously ridiculous for ill-informed writers to argue, from such abnormal and exceptional cases as those under notice, that tea-drinking is injurious. Of course, as may be said of other things, it is only injurious when carried to excess, and sensible people are careful not to err in that direction.

We notice that The Daily Chronicle, in dealing with this subject, says: "The abuse of tea, however, with its special perils for the nervous or the dyspeptic, is a small modern vice, as to which we fancy doctors might have a good deal to say."

It would be satisfactory if there were no larger "modern vices" than that referred to by our contemporary. We do not believe that tea is drunk to the point of injurious excess by any section of the community, or that in its general effects it is anything but beneficial. If writers of a certain stamp were as moderate in the use of twaddle as the majority of mankind are in the use of tea, readers would appreciate the boon.—

CANADIAN BARLEY.

The Department of Agriculture has been informed by Sir Charles Tupper, High Commissioner in England, that Canadian barley is attracting considerable attention in Great Britain in connection with distilling, and that a leading Scotch distiller, whose experience with the Canadian article had been of the most satisfactory character, believes that Scotland would prove a good market for the article for whiskey distillation. This distiller says the Canadian barley purchased by him gave entire satisfaction, that he would be very willing to buy it by the shipload, and is, moreover, surprised that Canadian barley is not offered in Scotland in the ordinary way of business.

FRUIT VS. BEER.

Brewers say that the plentiful supply of peaches and other fruits makes a great difference in their trade. One man in this city says it diminishes his sale 400 barrels daily, chiefly among families with whom what is called the "pint trade" is principally done.

Fruit is one of the best antidotes for the liquor habit. A certain man, who had tried every means of resisting temptation without success, was induced to eat but little at his regular meals, but to keep on hand a supply of the best and freshest fruit, and whenever he felt the appetite he would eat a peach, an apple, a pear, cherries or strawberries, according to the season. Vegetarians take the ground that a vegetable diet is seldom accompanied by intemperate habits, and some cures have been based entirely upon that, and have been very successful. The dealers in beer say it is the effects of fruit in slaking the thirst of women that causes them not to send out for their beer. It is quite probable there are other reasons. The acids in some fruits, operating upon many constitutions, would tend to diminish thirst, though in certain states of the system they would increase it.—The Christian Advocate.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Aug. 3, 1895.

GROCERIES.

SUGAR continues to be the centre of attraction in the grocery trade. Since our last review the refiners have been asking and getting a further advance of 1-16c. per lb., and the market continues strong both at home and abroad. Trade generally is fairly active. The cooler weather has stimulated slightly the demand for canned vegetables, although the volume of business passing is still light. Salmon, too, is in little better demand. Most of the houses have now their first shipment of new season's currants to hand, and the demand is moderate. Currants are higher in the primary markets. So are Sultana raisins. Further improvement is to be noted in the demand for teas. In other lines appertaining to the grocery trade the conditions are much as before. Payments continue to be fairly satisfactory.

CANNED GOODS.

A slightly improved demand is to be noted for tomatoes, peas and corn; presumably as a result of the cooler weather. This applies more particularly to tomatoes. One or two of the packers have withdrawn quotations on tomatoes, but the trade does not think it has much signification. Canned fruits continue dull. In canned salmon a slightly improved demand is to be noted. Realizing that there is no probability of any immediate change in price on the standard brands, retailers are replenishing their stocks. There is no heavy buying, however. We quote: Tomatoes, 80 to 85c.; corn, 80 to 85c.; peas, 85 to 90c.; for ordinary; sifted, 95c. to $1; extra sifted, $1.40; peaches, $2.90 to $3 for 3's, $1.90 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.40 to $2.20; strawberries, $1.80 to $2.45, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.90 to $2.20; cherries, $2.40 to $2.45; apples, 3's, 90c to $1, gallons, $2.25 to 2.40; salmon, "Horseshoe," "Maple Leaf," "Lion," $1.35; Lowe Inlet, $1.27 to $1.30, in tall tins; cohoes, $1.15 to $1.20; canned mackerel, $1 to $1.10; lobsters, $1.80 to $1.85 for tall tins; flats, $2.35 to $2.40; half tins, $1.35. Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.65 to $1.75; 2's, $2.65 to $2.75; 6's, $8 to $8.25; 14's, $18 to $19. Chicago canned beef, 1's, $1.75 per dozen; 2's, $2.85.

COFFEE.

Trade is brisk, there being a good demand for all kinds, including green, roasted and ground coffees. We quote green in bags as follows: Rio (new season), 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22½c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracaibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

RICE.

Business is moderate. We quote: "B," 3½ to 3¾c.; extra Japan, 5¼ to 5¾c.; imported Japan, 5¼ to 6¼c.; tapioca, pearl, 3½ to 5½c.

SPICES.

The demand is chiefly for pickling spices, although the season for these is drawing to a close. The demand for cream of tartar has fallen off since the advance. There is no change in prices. We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.

NUTS.

The market remains quiet and unchanged. We quote: Brazil nuts, 11 to 11½c.; Sicily shelled almonds, 25 to 26c.; Tarragona almonds, 14 to 14½c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted, and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 14 to 15c.; Marbot walnuts, 10 to 12c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 12 to 13c.; Sicily filberts, 9 to 10c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; pecans, 10½ to 11c.

SUGAR.

The market is active, with the refineries asking and getting 1-16c. more than a week ago for granulated. During the past week there has been a good business doing, a better demand being experienced both by refiners and wholesalers. Quite a number of carload lots have gone out on country account. The raw market again advanced on Tuesday, and the prospects are altogether in favor of a further appreciation. The price of granulated sugar in Canada is still below the parity of that in the United States. Considerable strength has been given to the market by Lich's revised estimate of the beet root crop, given publicity on Tuesday. This estimate places the deficit at 1,160,000 tons. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, 4½ to 4¾c.; do., No. 2, 3¾c.; yellows, 3½ to 3¾c.

SYRUPS.

There are not many syrups offering, and there are not many wanted. Some of the refineries have none apparently to offer. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.; bright, 40 to 42c.

MOLASSES.

The demand for molasses is still limited. We quote: New Orleans, barrels, 30 to 32c.; half-bbls., 33½ to 35c.; Barbadoes, barrels, 31 to 35c.; half-barrels, 33 to 37c.

TEA.

A cable to hand on Tuesday quoted Ceylon tea ½d. dearer in London. China black teas are slightly neglected, but there are some enquiries for medium and low grades.

China green teas have not yet come forward in sufficient quantities to make any feature. Locally there is a good demand from the retailers for low and medium grade Japans, Assams and Ceylons. We quote ruling prices to retailers: Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 35 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 16 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades.

DRIED FRUITS.

Most of the wholesale houses have in stock their first season's shipment of new currants. The quality is fairly good, and better than anticipated. The ruling prices for the new fruit are: Barrels, 3½c.; half-barrels, 3¾c.; half-cases, 3¾c. There is very little old stock to be had, and for the better grades still on hand the demand is good, but poor goods are rejected. We quote old fruit as follows: Filatras, half-bbls., 4 to 4½c., bbls., 4½c.; fine Filatras, half-bbls., 4¾c., bbls., 4¾c.; Patras, 5½c., in cases; Casalinas, 4½ to 5¾c.; Vostizzas, 6½ to 7c. in cases and half-cases. As will be noticed in our editorial columns, there has been an advance of ¼ to ¾c. per lb. in the primary markets.

Valencia raisins continue in good demand for small lots at 5½ to 6c. for fine off-stalk. A cablegram to P. L. Mason & Co. from Denia states that the crop is proving decidedly short and that prices are firmer.

A cable from Trieste corroborates what was said in THE CANADIAN GROCER last week regarding the scarcity of the smaller sized prunes, difficulty being experienced in filling orders. On the local market there is no change in the situation to note. We quote: Bosnias at 6 to 7c., and Bordeaux at 4½ to 6½c.; California prunes, 6 to 9c. per lb.

Fresh shipments of California evaporated fruit are on the way, but the demand for this class of goods is still light, with quotations nominal. We quote: Apricots and peaches, 12½ to 13½c. per lb.; new apricots, 15c.; nectarines, 13½c.; pitted plums, 12½ to 13c.

Dates are dull and unchanged at 4¼c. up.

New season's Smyrna figs are quiet and unchanged at 13c. for 10-lb. boxes and 15c. for 28-lb. boxes.

GREEN FRUIT.

The feature of the market is the continued advance in lemons, which are still scarce, much of the stock on the market being very green. Oranges are perhaps a little firmer in price than last week. Watermelons are nearly over for the season, and musk melons are scarce. Fall and winter apples begin to move more freely. Michigan peaches are out of the market, and about the last Californias will be received this week. Canadian Crawford's are done, but a few late varieties are still coming in. The first cranberries of the season are now seen on the market in small quantities. These are Cape Cod, of very good quality, though small. These are quoted at $9 per bbl., and the New York market is reported very firm. We quote: Lemons—Sorrento, Palermo, Verdilla and Malaga, $10 to $12 per case. Oranges—Sorrento, $4.25 to $4.75 per case; Jamaicas in barrels, $10. Bananas, $1 to $1.50; cocoanuts, $3.50 to $4 a sack; cabbage, 75c. to $1 per bbl.; Canadian tomatoes, 10 to 20c. per basket. Green California fruit—Peaches, $1.25 to $1.50 in boxes; Tokay grapes, $2 per box; green apples, $1.25 to $1.50 a barrel; water-melons, 15 to 20c. each; muskmelons, 40c. per basket, $1.50 per bbl.; grapes, 3½ to 5c. per pound; Canadian peaches, 75c. to $1.25 per basket; Bartlett pears, $1 to $1.25 per basket; other grades, 30 to 60c.; Spanish onions, 75 to 85c. per small crate; Portugal onions, $2 per large crate; sweet potatoes, $3.25 per bbl.; cranberries, $9 per bbl.

BUTTER, CHEESE AND EGGS.

BUTTER—The position is not any more hopeful than it has been for weeks past. While choice butter is in demand, large stocks of medium and inferior qualities are being held all over the country without any prospect of selling for enough to pay the cost. A lot of Manitoba butter, of fair quality, is said to be going a-begging on the market, and we know of one local house which received 100 tubs from Winnipeg, with instructions to sell for 6c. per lb. No takers have been found. Prices are about the same as last week. We quote: Old summer dairy and store packed, 5 to 9c.; fresh prints, 16 to 17c.; fresh tubs, 15 to 16c. Fresh creamery—Tubs, 18 to 19c.; pound prints, 21 to 22c.

CHEESE—Local buyers have been offering 7½c. for August Canadian makes, and 8c. for the balance of the season. Last August and September makes bring 10 to 10½c.

EGGS—Are firm at 12½c, but considering the large export to England, should rule higher.

COUNTRY PRODUCE

BEANS—Easy at $1.40 to $1.50.

HIDES—There is a decided weakness in the price of hides. A decline of $\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb. is noted, and another fall of the same extent is looked for. Dealers are now asking $8\frac{1}{4}$ to $8\frac{1}{2}$ c.; for green $7\frac{1}{2}$ and $6\frac{1}{2}$ c. for Nos. 1 and 2 is paid.

Wholesale Grocers

TORONTO - - ONTARIO

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Oct. 3, 1895.

GROCERIES.

THE week has furnished a large volume of business in general groceries, though some lines have been exceptions. In sugar, the firmer tendency of values has led to an expansion in business both from first and second hands. Teas are increasing their activity in a wholesale sense, and retailers need not hope to profit by holding back. Low grade Japans are the feature, but some attention has been devoted to blacks as well. In dried fruit buyers are holding back a trifle on Valencia raisins which are expected to rule low. Currants, on the other hand, promise to be steady, while French prunes give indications of still further advances. Canned goods are much the same, with the exception of lobsters and mackerel, which, under light supplies, have advanced in price. Other lines furnish no new feature.

SUGAR.

The better feeling noted in this market last week is fully maintained, and prices are now firmly held at the refineries. As a result of this upward tendency buyers have been operating with more freedom, and a good active trade has been done both from the refineries and in a distributive way. It is noticeable as a change in the temper of the market that refiners are not urging business. We quote the jobbing range at $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{3}{4}$ c. for granulated, and $3\frac{1}{4}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c. for yellows.

SYRUPS.

The demand for syrups from first hands has fallen off a trifle, as jobbers are pretty well supplied. Distributive trade also is of a quiet kind. We quote $1\frac{3}{4}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb., as to quality.

MOLASSES.

Business in molasses was quiet on the whole this week, but the tone is fairly steady. Round lots of Porto Rico have been offered at 32c., but there are holders who refuse to sell at that price. Barbadoes is steady, and we quote in a jobbing way: Barbadoes, 37c. in puncheons, and 40c. in barrels; Porto Rico, 36c. in puncheons.

RICE.

There is no change in the rice market, demand continuing fairly good, with prices steady. We quote: Japan, $4.30 to $4.50; crystal Japan, $4.80 to $5; standard B, $3.45; C.C. style, $3.20; Patna, $4.37½ to $5; and Carolina, $7 to $7.50.

SPICES.

In spices the strength of cream of tartar is a feature. It is in active demand and selling firm at $22\frac{1}{4}$ to $22\frac{1}{2}$ as to grade. Other spices are steady. We quote: Penang black pepper, 8 to 10c.; white pepper, 13 to 15c.; cloves, whole, 10 to 20c.; cassia, whole, 10 to 20c.; nutmegs, 40 to 90c.; Jamaica ginger, 20 to 25c., as to grade.

COFFEE.

The market remains much as it was. A few straight lines of Maracaibo and Rio have changed hands between the trade at 19 to 21c., while the jobbing demand is quiet. We quote green bean coffee: Maracaibo, 21 to 22c.; Rio, 19 to 20c.; Java, 24 to 28c.; Jamaica, 19 to 21c.; and Mocha, 27 to 31c.

TEAS.

The volume of trade in Japan teas, ranging from medium down, continues to expand. In fact, there has been an active week's business between houses in teas ranging from 14 to 18c., and but for the reluctance of buyers to part with desirable lots of these goods, business would be even greater than it is. Blacks also ranging from 14 to 18c. have received quite a lot of attention, and some Ceylon and India goods at 20c. have easily found buyers. In a word, the tea market is an active one with a strong upward tendency. The movement to both urban and country retailers is on the increase. From present appearances the sooner the latter place their orders the better bargains they will get. We quote: Japans, low grades, 14c., medium, 16 to 18c., fine, 19 to 22c., and finest, 25 to 31c.

DRIED FRUIT.

Uncertainty actuates buyers in regard to Valencia raisins, owing to the various offers that are being made here. These offers have been referred to by THE GROCER before, and they are still being made. As a result of this and the belief that prices will not go higher, the majority of buyers are not contracting for future delivery, but seem determined to await the arrival of the direct steamers. New off-stalk is offering in small quantities in a jobbing way at 5 to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c., as to grade. The first new layers, consisting of a few small shipments, arrived this week. They are selling at \$2.75 per box for ordinary, and \$3.65 for extra per box.

New Sultanias are moving quietly at the figure quoted last week, 6c.

The first shipment of California raisins are expected here by the end of next or the beginning of the following week. At the figures they cost they will probably open out at 6 to $6\frac{1}{4}$ c. for 3-crown, and 7 to $7\frac{1}{4}$ c. for 4-crown loose muscatels. A small quantity of old California, are still held here and are jobbing out at firmer figures, $5\frac{1}{2}$ c. for 3-crown, and $6\frac{1}{2}$ c. for 4-crown.

Currants are quiet and no new features are to note. We quote: Barrels, $3\frac{1}{4}$ c.; half-barrels, $3\frac{3}{4}$ c., and cases, 4c.

French prunes continue firm in tone and values are held with a distinct upward tendency. We quote values firm at the advance noted last week, viz.: 5 to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c. for ordinary, and 9 to $9\frac{1}{2}$ c. for better grades.

Several large shipments of new figs arrived on Monday ex ss. Austrian and have met a good enquiry. For 14 oz. prices are held at 10c., and for 10 lb. layers the quotation is 13c.

Evaporated fruits are as they were a week ago. We quote: Apricots, 14 to 17c.; peaches and pears, 9 to 10c.; plums, 9 to $9\frac{1}{2}$ c., and apples, 9 to 10c.

NUTS.

Nuts are quiet and unchanged. We quote: Brazils, 8 to 9c.; shelled almonds, 18 to 25c.; Tarragona, 12 to 13c.; Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; shelled ditto, 24 to 25c.; filberts, $6\frac{1}{2}$ to $7\frac{1}{2}$ c.; and pecans, 8 to 10c.

CANNED GOODS.

The volume of trade is not large this week, in fact business is smaller than a week ago. Vegetables and fruit are unchanged as a rule, but lobsters and mackerel, which are in small supply, are firmer, lobsters at $7 to $9 and mackerel, $5 to $5.25. We quote: Lobsters, $6.50 to $9 per case; sardines, $8.50 to $10.50; salmon, $5.20 to $5.50; mackerel, $5; tomatoes, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peaches, $1.90 to $3 per doz.; corn, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peas, 85 to 90c. per doz.; strawberries, $2.25 to $2.50; raspberries, $2; green gages, $2 to $2.25; blue plums or damsons, $1.50 to $1.75; pineapples, $2.25 to $2.50, and 3-lb. apples, 90c. to $1.10.

GREEN FRUIT.

Trade has been active and prices are mostly steady or higher than they were a week ago.

ORANGES—A few Jamaicas are the only kind offering. They were cleaned up at $7 per bbl.

APPLES—Prices on apples have advanced slightly; fancy fruits as St. Lawrences and snows, bring up to $3 per bbl. The range is mostly St. Lawrence and snows, $2 to $3 per bbl.; 20-oz. Blenheims, $1.50 to $1.75; culverts, jenettings and pippins, $1.35 to $1.60.

PEACHES—Only Michigan and California peaches to be had; they have sold well. Michigan fifths, 30 to 50c. per basket; California boxes, $1.10 to $1.35 per box.

GRAPES—Receipts have slightly increased, but sold well. 10-lb. baskets Concord, mostly 35c.; 20-lb. baskets, $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c. Demand is good.

PEARS—Are quite scarce, and anything good brings $4 to $6 per bbl. We think they will be scarce and dear all the fall.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT—Four cars have sold this week. Prices have been well sustained. Plums sold $1.25 to $2.50, and peaches, 90c. to $1.25; grapes, $1.25 to $2 for half cases. Only 3 cars are expected next week.

LEMONS—Have sold very high; $15 per chest and $8 per box.

CRANBERRIES—Some good lots Cape Cod berries now due; $7 to $8 per bbl., as to quality.

NEW FIGS—In 8-lb. boxes, 13 to 14c. per lb.

SPANISH ONIONS—70 to 75c. per crate.

FANCY SWEET POTATOES—$3.50 to $4 per bbl.

FISH.

Arrivals of fresh fish, such as haddock and cod, continue small, and prices are firm at 4 to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c. Salmon sell at 13c. We note large arrivals of Lake Superior trout and whitefish at 6 to 7c. per lb.

Full lines of smoked fish are arriving by express. Haddies sell at 7 to $7\frac{1}{2}$ c., kippered herring at \$1.75 per box, Yarmouth bloaters at \$1.25 per box of 60 fish, and smoked herring at 10c. Boneless cod sell at 6c.

Pickled fish continue much the same. No. 1 herrings are arriving in large lots and selling as follows: No. 1 C.B., $5; No. 1 large N.S., $4.50 to $4.75. No. 1 Labrador salmon are scarce and firm at $13.50 to $14. B.C. salmon are quiet at $10.50 to $11.50. No. 1 green cod sells at $4.50 to $4.75. No. 2 large mackerel at $17 to $17.50. Dried codfish is in good supply, while demand is light at $4.50 to $4.75 per 100 lbs.

Shell oysters are coming in in large lots and selling slowly. The demand, in fact, is behind last season, while the quality of the offerings is inferior. Malpeques sell at $3 to $3.50 per bbl., hand-picked Buctouche $4.50, and Miramichi, $2.50 to $3.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The egg market is firm. The demand was fair, and sales of choice candled stock were made at 12 to 12½c., and ordinary at 10 to 10½c. per dozen. There have been some contracts made of limed stock with confectioneries at 14 to 14½c. per dozen for No. 2 for future delivery. Recent advices from abroad reporting sales of Canadian stock have been very satisfactory to shippers here.

BEANS—The market for beans is quiet and about steady at $1.10 to $1.25 per bushel for choice hand picked in car lots.

POTATOES—In potatoes the feeling is steady, and now that the cool weather is coming on, an improved demand is anticipated. Prices are unchanged at 35 to 45c. per bag.

HOPS—The market for hops continues quiet, sales being principally in small lots at 8 to 10c. for new and 3 to 6c. for old per lb. as to quality.

TALLOW—A fair jobbing trade is doing in tallow at 6 to 6½c. for prime refined, and 5 to 5½c. for lower grades.

HAY—The hay market is quiet and steady. We quote: No. 1, $10, and No. 2, $9 on spot, but sales have been made at country points at $9 to $9.25, f.o.b. car, for No. 1, and $8 to $8.25 for No. 2 for shipment to Ontario points.

PROVISIONS.

There is no important change in the situation of the local provision market. The demand for pork is limited and prices about steady. We quote: Canadian short cut, clear, $14.50 to $15; Canadian short cut mess, $16 to $16.50; hams, city cured, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 9¾ to 10¼c.; bacon, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, com. refined, per lb., 7¼ to 7¾c.

BUTTER.

The butter market continues much the same. As we have noted from time to time information leaks out of quite a lot of fall creamery being picked up by exporters at rather full figures on the whole. The business, however, is not active. For dairy stock there is little or no demand, but we heard of sales of western to-day at 13c. and Manitoba at 12½c. We quote: Finest September creamery, 17½ to 17¾c.; finest August creamery, 17¼c.; earlier makes, 16½ to 16¾c.; Townships dairy, 14c.; finest Western dairy, 12 to 13c.

CHEESE.

The cheese market does not exhibit the snap of a week ago, but it can hardly be said that any decline has been established on fine late made Septembers. Buyers, it is true, are bidding a fraction less money than they did six or eight days ago, but it must be borne in mind that, what with contracting and other transactions, quite a nice lot of fall cheese have been taken out of first hands at 8c., or very close to that figure. The lull, therefore, is not unnatural, and though exporters generally complain that there is little encouragement in their cables, they do not go so far as to state that the present dull feeling is the beginning of a radical decline. The demand has been and is chiefly for last half of August and balance of the season. Indications point to a smaller supply of fall cheese this season than usual, and as the quality of the majority of the offerings made here so far was not of the best, it would appear that a fine sweet September cheese at 8c. was not a bad purchase. With regard to spot quotations they are difficult to give on anything except eastern makes. Buyers' ideas on western Septembers are around 8c., but sellers want more money, and there is little or no business on which to base a reliable quotation. The case of spot as regards finest makes of Townships cheese is much the same. On other Quebec goods prices have a wide range, owing to variation in quality. We know of transactions in some undergrade stuff at 7c., but at the wharf Monday morning 3,500 boxes were offered. A good percentage of them were sold to arrive on private terms and the balance brought all the way from 7¼ to 7½c. Anything fine realized the outside figure. Complaints about quality are still prevalent. We quote: Finest Ontario, September, 8c.; Finest Ontario, August, 7½ to 7¾c.; Finest Townships, 7¾c.; finest Quebec, September, 7¼ to 7½c.

ASHES.

Ashes continue quiet and unchanged. We quote: Firsts, $4.05 to $4.15; and seconds $3.80 to $3.85 for pots; pearls, $4.80 to $4.85.

MONTREAL NOTES.

The first lot of new Almeria grapes this fall was landed on Tuesday by Vipond, Mc-Bride & Co.

Hudon, Hebert & Co. landed a shipment of pepper on Monday from London ex s.s. Austrian.

The first shipments of new California raisins are expected here at the end of next week.

There were some fair arrivals of dried fruit ex Angloman from Liverpool. Among the lots for various importers were 800 cases of figs, 400 packages Sultana raisins and 300 boxes of currants. The latter went through to Ontario.

Shipments of starch for Laporte, Martin & Co., Caverhill, Hughes & Co. and G. Childs & Co. were landed on Monday from London ex Austrian.

There have been offers of Porto Rico molasses here for less than 32c., but buyers feel nervous about its quality.

A large shipment of Rowatree's chocolate and confectionery is arriving this week for Robert Greig & Co.

Cables to Rose & Laflamme this week quote Imperial plums 110, 2s. lower, at 16s. Bosnia cables also are 9d. lower on future shipments of Austrian prunes at 17s. 3d.

Robert Greig & Co. have been appointed sole agents in Canada for the Albany Caramel Co., whose goods have had such a large sale during the past six months.

A. P. Tippet & Co. are sending out to their friends a neat post card giving a few of Lazenby & Co.'s leaders, such as table jellies, chow-chow, pickles, Lucca cream, olive oil, soup squares, Harvey's sauce, etc. By the way, the fall orders for Lazenby's goods are much larger than last season.

Owing to increasing business and for the convenience of their customers, Robert Greig & Co. have opened an office on Yonge street, Toronto. They have also an office in the Ryan block, Main street, Winnipeg.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 3, 1895.

ANOTHER month has gone and merchants are well pleased with the demand in trade, though they expect to do a much larger business in October. Our Exhibition was in every way a success. The attendance was very large. The merchants and farmers throughout the three provinces took advantage of the low fares in very large numbers and merchants through the city report a good business with them. Many who had exhibits have taken very satisfactory orders. One merchant who has been in business about twenty years, told THE CANADIAN GROCER he saw one of his customers for the first time, during the past week, though he had been doing business with him ever since he first opened. Prices are rather firmer than last week. Values, however, continue low. Cream of tartar is still at the high range.

OIL—The merchants are very busy, particularly handling burning oil. Prime white Canadian is ½c. per gallon lower. The demand for this brand has largely increased during the past two years. In lubricating, the demand for Canadian oil is also growing. We quote: Best American, 22¼c.; best Canadian, 21¼c.; prime white, 17½c. No charge for barrels.

SALT—One cargo of 7,000 sacks is to hand, and two others are expected. The one just arrived sold freely, and the market is well supplied. The amount arriving via Boston is increasing, not only here, but at the islands where fish are cured and at bay ports, and it is thought it will continue. We quote: Coarse, 50 to 55c.; fine factory-filled, $1.10; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.80 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10-lb. boxes, 12c.; cartoons, $2 per doz.; cheese salt, bulk, $2.70 per bbl.

CANNED GOODS—The demand is but fair. Prices are firm, without heavy stocks. Old tomatoes are well sold up, and new sell freely to arrive. Now that fresh oysters are coming in freely the call for canned is light. In fruit demand is light, as so much green is in the market. Salmon are very firm at quotations. We quote: Corn, 85 to 90c.; peas, 90 to 95c.; tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; gallon apples, $2.25; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.65 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.60 to $1.65; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $2.85 to $3; 2's, $1.90 to $2; salmon, $1.50; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.40; clams, $5.50 for 4 doz.; chowder, $3 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1.

DRIED FRUIT—New Valencia raisins are the only new fruit yet to hand. They come via New York, and find a fair demand. Old currants are quoted higher in New York. Our wholesale cleaners are feeling happy over the report that the duty question in the States has been so settled that all currants pay duty. There begins to be enquiry for dried apples. The stocks here are light and holders are firm at rather advanced prices. It is understood some raisins have been bought direct from Denia draft against bill of lading in place of letter of credit, as has been the rule. This is as it should be. We quote: Currants, 1-lb. cartoons, 7½c.; bulk, 6½c.; dried apples, 5½ to 6c.; evaporated apples, 7½ to 8c.; Sultana raisins, 7 to 8c.; Valencia, 4c.; layers, 5c.; London layers, $2.25; loose muscatels, 5½ to 6c.; currants, bbls., 3¼ to 3½c.; half-cases, 3¼ to 4c.; dates, 4 to 4½c.; prunes, 4½ to 5½c.; figs, 11 to 18c.; California evaporated peaches, 12 to 13c.; do. apricots, 12 to 14c.; do. pears, 12 to 13c.; onions, $2.15 to $2.25 per bbl.

GREEN FRUIT—The amount moving continues large. The market in Boston is reported lower owing to large arrivals. There is a rather firmer feeling here, though demand is not heavy. Pears are not coming in so freely. Kegs of grapes are beginning to arrive, and though not in large quantities are fully equal to demand. The sales of Ontario grapes are far below last season, prices being higher. Peaches are in limited supply and sell freely. Lemons are lower. The display of fruit at the Exhibition was excellent, the apples particularly being admired by all. There was also something extra in pears from Nova Scotia. We quote: Oranges, $5.50 to $6; Bartlett pears, $2 to $2.50 per basket; grapes, 45 to 60c. per basket; apples, $1 to $2; N.S. plums, 50 to 70c.; lemons, $8; bananas, $1 to $2; peaches, $2.50; cocoanuts, $3 to $3.75; N.S. pears, half bbl., $2; keg grapes, $5 to $5.50.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Said a factory man to THE GROCER this week: "We shall lose $700 on cheese this season." Another said: "Last year I was offered by Montreal men 10c. for all I could make. This year the price is almost 3c. less with no demand." One factory reported having closed out the balance of their output this week at 8c. Factories are anxious to sell at this price. There are still heavy stocks, for this province, at many factories, even of June make. Butter continues in better demand and firm. Factories have largely stopped making cheese, and are either making butter or closing down. Eggs in cases are dull, and some were shipped back to Prince Edward Island, where a better demand is noted. We quote: Common dairy butter, 14 to 15c.; dairy, 17 to 18c.; new creamery prints, 22c.; cheese, new, 8½ to 9c.; creamery, tubs, 20c.; eggs, 12c.

MOLASSES—The demand is better, with stocks, though larger than was expected, still of best quality and none too large for the coming demand. Even now enquiries are being made regarding points outside. The reports from Montreal, Quebec and Halifax all speak of light stocks, while Newfoundlanders, who use large quantities, are now buyers, as on account of their fire and financial troubles they were not able to buy largely at the islands where they, as a rule, got the first crop and made the prices. This refers to Barbadoes. We quote: Barbadoes, 32 to 33c.; Trinidad, 33 to 34c.; Porto Rico, 34 to 36c., bbls.; New Orleans, 32 to 34c.; St. Croix, 29 to 30c.

SUGAR—There is a fair movement, with a firmer feeling, though local markets are still low, and speculators who bought are still holding. We quote: Granulated, 4½ to 4¾c.; yellow, 3¾ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5¼ to 5½c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

FISH—Owing to rather large arrivals, prices are rather lower. Exhibitors at the Show report fair sales from samples shown. In oysters, P. E. I. receipts are light and of different qualities. Some hold they are all poor this season, but THE GROCER saw some that were extra good. No new smoked herring are yet to hand. The market continues very dull. Some new Canso arrived this week, and are being sold at $5. We quote: Fresh haddock, 2 to 2½c. per lb.; dry, $1.50; large cod, $3.75; medium, $3.25 to $3.50; pollock, $1.40; bay herring, $1.25 to $1.30 per half-bbl.; Ripplings, $1.75; Wolves, $1.85 to $2; smoked herring, 5½ to 6c.; Digby chicken, 10c.; shad, half-bbl., $5 to $5.50; fresh, 10c.; Grand Manan herring, half-bbl., $1.40 to $1.45; Shelburne, $3.25 bbl., $2.70 half-bbl.; oysters, $3 per bbl.

PROVISIONS—Demand is rather better, and it is expected will continue to improve during the present month. We quote: Clear pork, $16.50 to $17.50; mess, $15.50 to $16; beef, $12.50 to $14.50; pure lard, 9½ to 10c.; compound lard, 7½ to 8c.

FLOUR, MEAL AND FEED—In flour there is a rather firmer feeling, with a fair demand. The schooner Marguerite, with some 500 barrels, struck a rock coming up the bay and stove in a bad hole, so that she wet all her flour. It was mostly insured, and sold freely at $2.25 to $2.50. In oatmeal, cornmeal and beans prices are lower and easy. Hay is firm. Oats are in light demand on a weak market, P.E.I. not caring to sell at present figures. We quote: Manitoba, $4.65 to $4.75; best Ontario $3.85 to $3.90; medium, $3.50 to $3.60; oatmeal, $3.85 to $3.90; cornmeal, $2.50 to $2.55; middlings, $2.3 to $2.35 on track; bran, $21 to $22; hand-picked beans, $1.50; prime, $1.60; oats, Ontario, 35 to 40c.; hay, $12 to $12.50; pot barley, $4 to $4.15; round peas $3.75 to $3.90; split peas, $3.70 to $3.90; P.E.I. oats, 34c. on track, by the car.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

N. H. Worden, grocer, Orange, is also reported in difficulties.

E. T. Sturdee reports large sales of "De Lano's" brand Valencia raisins.

The steamer to Boston on one trip this week had 339 bbls. of mackerel.

At Bathurst, N.B., Mr. Harris has a large hop farm. At present there are some 200 girls and 50 men picking. There are 175 acres, it being far the largest farm of the kind in the province. The hops are shipped largely to England. This season he will have about four cars of 85 bales each of 175 lbs. weight.

Hoegg's canning factories in New Brunswick have so far this year packed 150,000 tins.

H. W. Baxter & Co.'s stock has been sold to Fred. Godard. It is not yet known what the estate will pay.

C. & E. Macmichael have new Valencias, the first to arrive here. Layers will not arrive for some time.

John Sealy's exhibit of cured fish at the Show was much admired, particularly the samples of boneless shown.

On one day last week 1,000 cheese were shipped from Charlottetown to the Dairy Commissioner, Montreal.

On one day this week the steamer Monticello brought over about 600 bbls. of apples, largely for the Boston market.

On entering the Exhibition the pyramid of Surprise soap is seen to the left. To see it is like meeting an old friend to many.

J. Macauley, of Lower Millstream, is in financial trouble. Efforts are being made to upset two judgments which are against him.

Northrup & Co.'s exhibit of golden finnan haddies continues to be a centre of interest. They also show a splendid line of boneless fish.

Among the many fine exhibits, that of the Windsor salt people is much admired. Samples of the salt in very neat boxes are given away.

Sussex, Kings County, is to have two local pork packers this winter. A large building is now being put up for the use of the new concern.

The following companies are asking for incorporation: G. F. Baird, James Manchester, R. C. Elkin, Joseph Allison, J. D. Hagen, and Eben Perkins, as the Maritime Nail Co., Ltd., capital $50,000, factory at St. John; Gifford, Edmund, Robt. and Samuel Flewelling, and Geo. H. White, as the G. and G. Flewelling Manufacturing Co., Ltd., $150,000 capital, and mills at Hampton; Thomas A. Kinnear, Bedford B. Teed, William C. Milner, Napoleon LeBlanc, and Foster Richards, as the Northumberland Stove Co., capital $10,000, place of business, Sackville.

HALIFAX, Oct. 3, 1895.

THIS is the Exhibition season, and Exhibitions of more or less importance are being held throughout the province. There is no Exhibition in this city this year, but New Glasgow is taking care of the east and Yarmouth the west end of the province, while Kentville is looking after the Annapolis Valley.

Trade is looking up somewhat, and better times are expected in a few weeks, when the general fall business will set in. The Prince Edward Island produce fleet has not yet started to arrive.

It is understood that several New York fish merchants have formed a combine in regards to the Hayti trade. For the past two years Mr. Louis Butler, a New York gentleman, has been exporting fish to Hayti direct from here. The staple import to that country is alewives. Mr. Butler is expected in a day or two to look up another cargo, but he will get no alewives, as they have all been bought up, both in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, by the combine. A representative of the combine was in Halifax recently, and complained, in a published interview, about the poor quality of the fish sent to Hayti. That was in reference to cod. It now transpires that the combine had purchased a lot of fish in Newfoundland at what they thought a very low price. Mr. Butler, at the same time, purchased another lot at Lunenburg, at a still lower price and was able to undersell the combine in the Haytian market. To get even with him they have bought all the alewives in sight. Mr. Butler's next move is looked forward to with considerable interest. He is a shrewd business man, but may be forced into the combine.

FLOUR—Local dealers announced on Monday a rise of 25c. per bbl. That brought the demand almost to a standstill. There is little or no business being done at the new figures, as consumers do not look upon the rise as warranted.

FISHSTUFFS—Mackerel are as scarce as ever. The bulk of the catch at the Magdalen Islands has been sold uncured in Boston, and not one-tenth of the quantity usually handled by Halifax merchants has come this way. It is only in seasons of unusual scarcity this can be done, for as a general rule prices obtainable here average better than net results in Boston. The Irish catch is arriving in large quantities, particularly in Philadelphia. That catch will be fully up to the average season, say 50,000 bbls. Dry cod are in fairly good supply, and although 50 cents per quintal less than this time last year, no advance is looked for, as more dry fish will in all likelihood come here than our merchants can conveniently handle.

SUGAR—The market has advanced in proportion with Montreal. The movement is light. All the Maritime refineries are now working, the Moncton refinery has started.

GREEN FRUIT—A fairly good business is being done in green fruit. The market is well supplied with everything except good apples. The market is cleaned out of Gravensteins, and very few are coming this way on account of the shipments from the Annapolis Valley to Boston. A break, however, is looked for in the latter market, which has never been a stable one for our apples. A card received to-day from a leading Boston commission merchant says: "Receipts of Gravensteins lighter; our market ruling mostly at $2.50 for good No. 1 fruit, yet for something really fancy, large and well colored, we are confident we can obtain better prices." In our own markets fancy No. 1 stock is worth from $2 to $2.25, and No. 2 stock $1.50. There are plenty of other varieties of fall apples, the prices ranging from $1.25 to $1.75. Some Jamaica oranges have arrived via Boston, and are worth $7 per bbl. Lemons continue high and scarce, today's quotations being $8 to $10 per case. New Messina grapes were received to-day by Hessian & Devine. Native pears and plums are done for the season. Onions are lower, the finest Canadian and American stock being purchasable here at 1½c.

PRODUCE—The produce market is flat. Stewiacke potatoes are offered at 30 cents, landed here. The best stock can be had for 35c. in small lots.

EGGS—Eggs are not in demand. Good stock can be had for 12c., while fresh laid only bring 13c.

PROVISIONS—The provision market has been bad all the week, on account of the unsettled weather. A lot of stuff arrived in very poor order, and some slaughtered hogs sold as low as 5c. per lb. Hogs are worth 7c. to-day. Beef is quoted at $6 to $8 for large and medium, and small Antigonish and Cape Breton, $5. The market is glutted with lambs, which are selling from $1 to $1.75 each. Sheep are worth from $2 to $2.50 each.

GAME—Game is coming in more plentifully. Ducks are scarce. Partridges sell at 30c. per pair, and rabbits at 15c.

BUTTER AND CHEESE—The usual depression hangs over the butter and cheese market. Butter can be had from 13 to 18c., and cheese from 9½ to 10½c.

HALIFAX NOTES.

W. N. Murphy has opened a general provision store at 208 Argyle street.

A good many people seemed puzzled over the fact that dealers can sell 2-lb. loaves of bread at 4c.; St. John charges 6c. A citizen weighed two loaves this week and found them to be only 1½ lbs.

I. B. Shaffner has been awarded the contract to supply the city horses with fodder for one year.

SHUBENACADIE NOTES.

The firm of J. Gass & Sons, Shubenacadie, has been dissolved. Mr. John Gass has gone into business for himself, his store being in the Sherman House Block.

P. E. ISLAND NOTES.

Twenty-two hundred barrels of oysters were shipped from Summerside last week for the St. John and Halifax markets. They are worth from $2.50 to $2.75 per barrel.

TRADE CHAT.

THE reports of the crops of grain raised at Stony Mountain Penitentiary farm and the Indian Head Experimental farm are of the most satisfactory character.

Messrs. Lally & Cavanagh, of Cornwall, Ont., have opened a restaurant in connection with their fruit and confectionery store.

The Vanessa, Ont., cheese factory has been totally destroyed by fire.

Charles Ead has bought Berry's grocery store, and is about to move to Port Stanley.

Wm. Laurie, superintendent of the Canada Oil Company's refinery, has moved his family to Petrolea.

Mr. Burgess, of Woodstock, has shipped 75 tons of apples from Port Stanley for evaporating purposes.

The town of Paris is having a new pork packing establishment put up, which will soon be in operation.

The Essex Union cheese factory, Amherstburg, owing to the small supply of milk being received, has closed down.

Wm. Rutherford, of Medicine Hat, and Geo. H. Johnston, of Calgary, have left with a shipment of 1,000 head of sheep for Scotland.

Mr. S. Laing, grocer, St. Thomas, has sold his stock to Mr. Geo. Drinkwater, who has removed the stock to his present store on Talbot street.

A. D. Aikenhead, who has managed T. A. Garland's store at Nelson, B.C., since it was first opened, is to be succeeded as manager by F. W. Swannell, of Portage la Prairie, Man.

A Perry, Pa., grocer advertises that any man who takes two drinks of whiskey a day for a year, at 10 cents each, can have for the same money at his store 30 sacks of flour, 229 pounds of granulated sugar, 72 pounds of good coffee and save $2.50 as a premium for the exchange.

Kirkwood Bros., grocers, Brampton, are making extensive alterations to their store, by adding a larger office and putting in a very pretty design of woodwork on both walls and ceiling of interior, and it has a very fine appearance. They have been doing a large trade so far this year, and are looking for a good fall season.

C. E. Sontum, Canadian Commercial Agent in Ottawa for Norway, Sweden and Denmark, reports to the Department of Trade and Commerce that the shipments of Canadian flour recently received have given good satisfaction, and that the prospects are excellent for a large trade being done in that commodity.

The post-office authorities have been informed by the Postmaster-General that it has been decided to fix half a pound as a maximum weight of a package of tea which will be entitled to pass as a sample. Only bona fide commercial samples will be allowed to pass at sample rate, and the postmaster may at any time demand evidence that a package posted at that rate is a sample in the strict sense.

CALIFORNIA PRUNES.

RUMOR has been busy for some time past with reference to the California prune situation, and many reports have been circulated with a view to showing that the holders on the Coast are exceedingly weak-kneed and are anxious to make sales to eastern buyers at almost any price that may be offered. It has been asserted and reasserted that 3¾c. and even 3½c. has been accepted in some instances for the four sizes f.o.b. California; and although these reports could not be positively confirmed, their effect has been to cause buyers who were about to come into the market to hold off and await further developments.

It would appear, according to the best information obtainable, that none of the sellers of Santa Clara or equally good fruit have at any time expressed a willingness to accept the extremely low figures at which it is asserted sales have been made. Some few outside lots, chiefly old or mixed goods, it is said, have been offered at such figures, but no strictly prime goods were at any time to be had at anything like those prices. The nearest approach to them, on the part of sellers of Santa Clara or similar quality prunes, has been a 4c. price, but so far as we can learn there have been few sellers at that figure; while most holders have demanded 4¼c. f.o.b., and in some cases bids of less than 4½c. f.o.b. have not been considered.

At a recent mass meeting of prune-growers in San Jose, California, at which most of the prominent men in the business were represented, the situation was thoroughly discussed, and it was positively denied by representative growers that any Santa Clara prunes had been sold at 3¾c. for four sizes, and scarcely any at 4c., though it was admitted that if it was found necessary sales would be made at 4c. Most of the speakers, however, intimated that they did not believe it would be necessary to accept less than 4½c., and some stated that they had already sold considerable quantities at that figure. The growers on the Coast, accepting the reports of a short crop in France, and the statements that already sales of California fruit, for export to that country, have been made in eastern markets, are disposed to believe that they will have the field on this side of the Atlantic to themselves this year, and that while buyers have to the present time been backward in placing their orders, there can be no doubt that a good business at good prices will be done when the consuming season actually opens.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

AUSTRALIAN LEMONS.

A Covent Garden sale of lemons just received from Australia has attracted particular attention to the scarcity of this fruit, and to the capabilities of the irrigation colonies of Mildura and Renmark as lemon-growing districts, says an English paper. That these settlements are capable of a much higher range of production than they have hitherto been credited with, and are destined to become a great fruit-bearing centre, there can be little doubt. The lemons referred to—the first-consignment received from the irrigation settlements—have a thin, smooth skin, of pure pale color, and a very juicy pulp with but few pips. Their great peculiarity is thinness of the skin, whilst they are much more juicy than those commonly sold in England. This is attributed to the fact that they are grown in districts where there is no lack of water at the proper time, and are scientifically cultivated. Lemon-growing in the irrigation colonies is a new enterprise, but it is one which there is every intention to push forward in view of the satisfactory conditions under which it can be carried out. It opens up a wide field for labor, and it is anticipated that when the irrigation settlements are properly cultivated it will form one of the staple branches of industry there. The recent consignment consisted of 500 cases, which were disposed of at prices ranging from 9s. 6d. to 14s. 6d. per case. This is regarded as an exceptionally good price at auction, although it does not fully represent the value of the fruit, and higher prices are confidently expected when the quality becomes known.

VALUE OF THE TOMATO AS FOOD.

IF it were necessary to prove the evolution of fruits from vegetables, the tomato might be called the "missing link." According to The New York Herald it may be cooked and served in every way in which other vegetables are prepared. It may be roasted, fried, boiled, broiled and baked; in soups and salads it stands unequalled; like fruit it may be eaten with sugar and cream as a prelude to breakfast, and it may be made into delicious and delicate conserves.

Physicians tell you that its nutritive properties are minus, but no one will deny its value as a relish, and but for relishes nutritive foods would be less largely partaken of. No article of food, however, is more susceptible to good cooking. A careless cook can more easily spoil tomatoes than almost any other product of the garden. Violent heat, for instance, destroys its flavor.

I am told by one who has traveled extensively that you never know the capabilities of raw tomatoes until you have been in Spain, or stuffed tomatoes until you have eaten them in Avignon.

The saucepan in France is of copper and the fire of charcoal, smothered with ashes, which insures a slow even heat. Gas is a more civilized substitute for the charcoal, and even in New York, if your pocketbook is large enough, or rather, full enough, you may have copper saucepans, or at less expense, what is equally as good, a granite saucepan, with a copper bottom interlined with abestos. Let the pan be wide and rather shallow, and lay in it as many tomatoes of medium and equal size as will fit in closely. Having ascertained this number, cut off the top from each and lay them upside down on an earthen dish, lightly sprinkled with salt. After several hours of standing on their heads in this way, a quantity of acid juice will have run out, and with it all the unwholesome properties of the tomato.

Prepare a forcement of two hard boiled eggs and one onion, chopped very fine, with tarragon, parsley and chervil to taste and bread crumbs and gravy to make the stuffing of the right consistency; add grated Gruyere or other cheese and seasonings, also to taste; put a tablespoonful of oil or butter into the saucepan, lay the tomatoes in, this time right side up, and cover with this forcement, pressing a little of it into the fruit and leaving the rest to form a sort of crust. Cover and stew slowly for two hours, watching carefully, and adding a few drops of oil or a little butter now and then if it gets too dry. Transfer the contents to a hot flat dish and brown in a quick oven before sending to table.

Peel, by immersion in boiling water, a quart of solid, ripe tomatoes; slice and drop them into a saucepan; mince fine two Bermuda onions, spread them over the tomatoes, put on the cover of the saucepan and cook slowly for twenty minutes; add a pint of good brown gravy and continue the cooking for ten minutes; then add a cupful of steamed rice, mix with the tomatoes and send to the table with a tureen of thickened gravy.

A very pretty American adaptation of this dish is made by stewing whole not overripe and unpeeled tomatoes in brown gravy, enough to half cover. When they are done put a mound of steamed rice in the centre of a dish, lay the tomatoes around and pour over all the thickened gravy.

Au gratin is an English way of serving tomatoes. Melt an ounce of butter in a saucepan and stir in slowly an ounce of flour, using a wooden paddle and stirring for at least two minutes until the flour is cooked; add gradually a cup and a half of good stock, and when reduced to a cupful add a tablespoonful of finely mixed onion and two of parsley; season with pepper and salt and cook for ten minutes; slice the tops from eight good-sized tomatoes, make a hole in the top of each about the size of a walnut, scooping out the seeds and filling the place with this sauce; sprinkle thick with crumbs, dot with butter, and bake for ten minutes.

In fact a great many persons like them baked when the preparatory processes have been conducted with culinary skill. To bake them plain, lay nice whole tomatoes side by side in a granite baking pan and cook for forty minutes; lift carefully without breaking the skins, lay each on a nice piece of buttered toast, season and serve. The seasoning for baked, broiled, fried or boiled, tomatoes always consists of sugar, salt and plenty of butter.

More epicurean baked tomatoes require a stuffing of one kind or another. Cut a slice off the stem end and with a small wooden mustard spoon press out all the seeds and fill with a dressing made of equal parts of cold chopped chicken, beef or lamb, and bread crumbs, seasoned with minced parsley, pepper, salt and a soupcon of sugar; bake forty minutes and serve with the sauce which gathers around them. At the south they are stuffed with minced green peppers and cooked rice and served with a brown gravy or a tomato sauce.

If a friend drops in to lunch before the butcher has made his appearance boiled tomatoes will avert a culinary crisis of the sort that sends cold chills down the spinal column of a woman. They are as easily boiled as potatoes, and, like that vegetable, to be properly boiled must have their jackets left on. Cover even-sized tomatoes with salted boiling water and cook until a steel fork will pierce them easily; lift them out into oatmeal saucers in which have been placed squares of buttered toast, and with a sharp knife cut a Greek cross on the top of each; season with salt, pepper, sugar and plenty of butter, and no more appetizing or wholesome lunch can be suggested.

THE OPENING-UP OF AFRICA.

NO MORE important announcement, from a commercial point of view, has been made for many years than that made to the House of Commons on Friday, August 30, by Mr. Curzon in relation to the Uganda Railway. Thus speaks Ironmonger: The Government have substantially adopted the recommendations of the Departmental Committee (including such experienced authorities on African matters as Sir John Kirk, Col. Colville, Sir Alexander Rendel, Sir Montagu Ommaney and Sir Percy Anderson), and have decided to construct a line of railway from the coast at Mombasa to Uganda, on the great Victoria Nyanza Lake. The line will be about 650 miles in length, and will cost something like £2,000,000 sterling. It was suggested that the line should be made up to a place called Kikuyu, a distance of about 300 miles from the coast, but the Government have wisely, as we think, decided to go right through to the lake, thus opening up to commerce an enormous area of East Central Africa, from the upper waters of the Nile, through the lakes, and for hundreds of miles around them. The exact gauge of the railway has not yet been settled, but it will probably be one of 3 feet 6 inches, similar to that of many thousands of miles in India. The Government have decided not to employ contractors, but will construct the line themselves, partly for the sake of economy, but chiefly in order to avoid friction and trouble with the natives during the period of construction. There is reason for believing that the general principles of construction will be on Indian lines, and it is probable that steel sleepers will be used on part, at all events, of the track. It is estimated that the line will speedily be on a paying basis, and, as Mr. Curzon thinks it can afford to carry for £17 a ton, goods which now cost £180 a ton by native porters, there should be the best prospects of success—indeed the estimate is that only 68 tons a week, or 3,500 tons a year, will give the £60,000 a year set down for the working expenses. The probability is that the receipts will greatly exceed the estimate, seeing that steamers will be placed upon the lake, and will be almost certain to create a big trade with the natives. Moreover, as part of the railway will pass over lands some 7,000 or 8,000 feet above sea-level, there is every likelihood of European or Hindoo settlers taking up such lands for tea, coffee, etc., growing purposes. The natives are said to be born traders on many parts of the route, and it is quite likely that the passenger traffic may become of considerable proportions. In any case, the opening of this line of railway through a district with a population of many millions, and influencing directly and indirectly an area with a population of some 40,000,000 to 60,000,000, must be of the highest possible importance to British trade. The construction of the line will be watched with the utmost interest, and the openings for trade given by it will need to be zealously and carefully cultivated by our manufacturers and merchants.

PACIFIC PROVINCE PLUMS.

PROF. SAUNDERS, Dominion director of experimental farms, after a careful and personal inspection of the situation has this to report about B. C. as a fruit region.

The fruit-growing industry of British Columbia, Prof. Saunders states, is developing rapidly. The cultivation of plums has extended, perhaps more than any other kind of fruit. The returns from plums are much quicker than apples, though these are being planted largely. The fruit growers of British Columbia have yet much to learn in regard to packing, the professor observed, but during the recent meeting of their association held at Agassiz, the matter was discussed, and it is expected that rapid improvement will be made in this particular and defects remedied as soon as possible. The crop of plums this year is unusually large. A small orchard on the Experimental Farm, planted five years ago, yielded over two tons last year, while the present crop is estimated to exceed four tons. The experiments being conducted on the Experimental Farm at Agassiz, serve to show that the higher bench lands on the sides of the mountains are admirably adapted for fruit growing. The low lands are not only subjected to damage by floods, but the areas are limited, so that the use of the higher bench lands will render available large tracts for small fruit, and will give a great impetus to the industry. The apple crop is good this year, especially on the young trees, but pears have not yielded so well. Cherries and all other varieties of small fruit have borne heavily. Prof. Saunders sees no reason why in a very short time British Columbia should not produce all the fruit required between the Pacific Coast and the Red River. The quality of British Columbia plums is superior to those of California, and the quality of the apples is very much superior to the produce of the States to the South. This superiority is attributed to the cooler air and the fact that irrigation is not used in cultivation.

EFFECT OF GREEK CURRANT LAW.

Mail advices are to the effect that since August 28th has been fixed by the Hellenic Government as an opening date for the shipment of currants that day is made the occasion of considerable demonstration at the ports of shipment. Apart, however, from the interest which attaches to the first shipments on this account, the effect of the Government decree is admitted to have been very appreciable on the quality of the fruit. Prior to the restriction it was largely the practice among shippers, in their anxiety to catch the first markets, to pack their fruit in a more or less immature condition, with the result that heavy losses were frequently sustained. This risk may now be said to be entirely obviated. A further measure of perhaps greater stringency has also been sanctioned by the Greek Government, and will probably be in early operation. This provides for the reclamation by the Government of 15 per cent. of the entire annual crop for the purpose of destruction. The excessively low prices which have recently ruled are responsible for this enactment, and it is hoped that under its operation the curtailed supply will materially strengthen the market.

BANANA PORT DESTROYED.

As we get quantities of bananas from Cuba some incidents of the energetic rebellion now in progress are worth recording. A Philadelphia despatch says: After an unsuccessful search for Yumuri, a Cuban seaport, the British steamship Culmore, a fruit carrier, which was sent there to load bananas for Philadelphia, returned to this port last night and reported that the entire town had been devastated by the insurgents' torch on Sept. 18 and destroyed, not a home having escaped the ravages of the flames. Several of the refugees were picked up along the coast of the former town and brought to Philadelphia on board the Culmore. Among the number were Col. Miguel Arru, a prominent fruit exporter, with his wife and family, and J. Rodriguez and several women and children, who formerly lived in comfortable circumstances at Yumuri. They were, for the most part, engaged in shipping bananas and cocoanuts to Philadelphia and New York, and they lost all their property. Citizens of Yumuri were sympathizers with Spain, and the insurgents determined that in order to render such sympathy ineffectual they would destroy the town. Hundreds of persons, many of them from the poorer classes, were left homeless. A mountain railway and fruit elevator, used to carry the bananas from the mountains, where they grow, to the seashore, was also totally destroyed. This road was owned by a Philadelphia syndicate, and they propose to hold the Spanish Government responsible for damage to their property.

Used in the manufacture of salt whether the production is of the highest grade or not. The "Vacuum" process of making salt is the modern improvement on the old "open pan" system. It makes a finer and purer salt, more readily dissolved and very even in crystal. That's why we adopted it. We wanted to drive the imported salts, which the "open pan" system had let in, out of Canada. Not one-twentieth of the amount of imported salt is sold here now, that was eighteen months ago, and in six months more it will be a thing of the past. THE B.C. HOP CROP.

Picking is now about completed, and, on the whole, the results of the crop appear to be satisfactory. In the Agassiz district rainy weather has somewhat interfered with the picking, while there has been unexpected trouble with the pickers. Many of the Indians employed had been engaged in the salmon fishery, and had made such large wages in that as to cause them to be very independent. Scarcely, therefore, had the picking commenced, when they struck for higher wages, and the growers were compelled to pay $1 per box, or about 30c. more than the rate agreed upon. As the area under hops increases, it is probable that the question of labor to pick the crop will be one that will require some consideration.

Reports received by us from some of the yards state the quality of the hops is excellent. Particularly does this appear to be the case with the East Kent Golding variety. In some of the hops produced by vines imported from Washington, the injury caused by rains appears to have greatly depreciated the quality; in some fields, indeed, the hops were completely spoiled. It is to be hoped, however, that the growers will not ship any damaged hops and thereby injure the reputation of the provincial product. Careful cultivation and proper care of the ground are also very essential to complete success, and while, on an average of years the crop is undoubtedly a profitable one, its character requires much closer attention than is necessary for cereals or other crops.

TALKING RAILWAY AT NOBLETON.

Mr. J. W. Larkin, of Nobleton, paid Toronto a business visit last week. "The only thing new around Nob'eton," he said in reply to a question, "is that they are talking railway there now. No railway touches there, you know, and so some people are agitating for a line from Kleinburg to Schomberg, touching at Nobleton. But, to tell you the truth, we do not want it. We take this view: A railway at a place so near to a large city as we are to Toronto would do more harm than good, as has been demonstrated in many instances. As long as we are without a railway the farmers will bring their produce to our store and make their purchases there. On the other hand, if there was a railway many of them would take their produce and business to Toronto."

"How did crops turn out in your neighborhood?"

"Well, we have one of the best wheat-growing districts in Canada," he replied. "From Nobleton south to Toronto, a distance of 28 miles, the straw was light. North of our village the yield in both straw and head was good. In the immediate vicinity of Nobleton both the cereal and fruit crops were light. But still," he concluded jocularly, "we are getting our porridge every morning."

A WONDERFUL MACHINE.

From out the west come many wondrous tales, and most wonderful of all is the last we hear. The crops they grow in Manitoba are remarkable, but not more so than the machines they use to garner the grain. According to The Winnipeg Free Press, on the Lowe farm, fifty miles from Winnipeg on the Morris-Brandon branch of the N.P.R., there is seen at work a traction engine which sails jauntily through any field to which it is introduced, ploughing the land for the fall sowing, and at the same time threshing the grain as it stands in stacks in its path. This marvelous machine picks up the stubble and thus supplies itself with fuel as it goes along. The ground is nicely ploughed and the grain as it comes out of the separator is bagged and thrown to the ground to be picked up by wagons and carted off to market.

It is said that by means of this machine, wheat is threshed at a cost of 1½c. per bushel, and the ground ploughed at about 10c. an acre.

A number of machines to thrash flax and plough too are now being prepared.

RECOMMEND YOUR WARES.

Some grocers are very poor salesmen. They hand, remarks Merchants' Review, their customers exactly what they ask for, and never think of recommending other articles. A lady comes in to buy goods amounting to a dollar or two, and she gets exactly what she wants. The skilful salesman often sells her much more than she intended to buy at first. He sells her also articles with a fair profit instead of those on which he makes but little. The grocer who is a good salesman has a good influence upon his clerks by his example, and by thus making his clerks good salesmen he makes his store as profitable as possible. The grocer who is an inferior salesman has a bad influence upon his clerks by his bad example, and thus these clerks, when in business for themselves, will be models for their clerks.

THE OUTLOOK FOR TRADE.

FROM THE DRY GOODS REVIEW.

MANY readers have sent to THE REVIEW brief but interesting reports on present trade prospects throughout Canada. From these the following have been selected as coming from representative and important centres :

ONTARIO.

STRATFORD.—The crops in this section have been very good. All classes of grain have averaged well, the hay crop about half and roots of all kinds excellent, the potatoes being unusually productive. The outlook is good and the tone hopeful. The G.T.R. shops are an important factor in the business of our city, and the staff at present is quite full, some 600; besides, a large force of train men centring here adds to the pay roll, which runs as high as some $45,000 per month.—W. J. FERGUSON.

TARA.—The hay crop was a failure and it does not average half a crop. Fall wheat was harvested in good condition and farmers do not murmur at the return. Spring wheat, oats, barley and peas, while thin on the ground, the grain is as a rule plump and of a good quality. The yield is variable, but taken altogether will be about an average one. There is no fruit of any kind, and it will need to be imported to supply the demand. The outlook for a good fall and winter trade is not very promising. The butter and egg trade this summer was very much smaller than usual, and cheese being so low not much money is being obtained by the farmers' wives from this source, and we believe collections will be hard to make. Last season thousands of dollars was left through this section from the sale of fruit alone. The money obtained from the sale of grain, cattle, etc., usually goes to pay taxes, rent or interest.—H. A. VANDUSEN.

OAK LAKE.—Seventy-five per cent. of the wheat was frozen here, and there is very little No. 1 wheat in this section. Crops are threshing out well; wheat, 25 to 35 to the acre, and oats as high as 100 bushels to the acre. Fall trade up to date is very slow. On account of small prices not much grain is being sold. Farmers are building granaries and storing wheat for higher prices. This will have a tendency to have a more evenly distributed business during fall and winter. Prices to-day run from 20 to 45c. for wheat. Collections up to date are nil.—A. CAMERON.

WOODSTOCK.—In parts of our county the crops are exceptionally good, while in other parts they are quite the reverse. Our farming community seems to be depending more upon the raising of stock and of dairy products. The prospects at present for these interests are not of the brightest character. So far there are little of what we might class as actual or winter purchases taking place. Our town trade is moving steadily among the moneyed class, but, as ours is a manufacturing centre, the general stagnation has affected our interests in this respect with a large portion of the community—the mechanic class. Houses which do a credit business will be better able to speak of collections and how they are being made.—T. A. FORMAN.

LINDSAY.—Crops in our county are generally a good average, with very short straw and very little hay. Cattle, hogs and cheese, with peas and oats, are now the staple articles in our county. Trade outlook is fair. Our own business so far this fall is ahead of the past two years, but we doubt if this is general in our town. It is too soon to speak of collections, as they seldom come before October and November.—DUNDAS & FLAVELLE BROS.

WINDSOR.—Crops in the county of Essex have never been better; 70 to 80 bushels of oats and 100 bushels of corn to the acre; wheat and fruits good; hay only a light crop. Other matters that effect trade are in good condition. The dry goods business is slightly better than a year ago, notwithstanding the unusually warm weather for September. From the prosperity of the farmer the outlook for trade is good. Collections are fairly good and up to the average.—BARTLET & MACDONALD.

CHATHAM.—Wheat turned out well. Oats, a magnificent crop. Corn never was such a good crop in Kent county. Beans, a good crop, and mostly all harvested in good condition. Apples, none. Peaches, scarce. The outlook is good and not so much grumbling among the farmers. Collections are slow. The weather is too warm for business, farmers all busy seeding and cutting corn. Not much grain selling since the drop in price.—H. K. RIDLEY.

BARRIE.—This is a purely agricultural district, well adapted and given to mixed farming and stock raising. The crops this season are well in advance of the average. The transactions in grain so far are limited, and collections are consequently slow. A strong feeling of expectation of a good fall and winter trade prevails among our local tradespeople. A healthy feeling of careflessness is at the same time observable, awaiting the establishment of prices of farm products.—FRAWLEY & DEVLIN.

ALMONTE.—Crop returns in this immediate vicinity are good—ahead of last year—though on the high and hilly lands of Lanark township and a few other localities the drouth affected farmers, whose yield in some cases is much smaller than last year. This being a manufacturing town, the condition of the market for tweeds, flannels, knitted goods, files, etc., affects the prosperity of Almonte, which, however, has come through the depression wonderfully well. Farmers are greatly helped by the score or more cheese factories that are established within the county, which have been the means of circulating a large amount of cash at a time when the agriculturists need it most. Mixed farming is the rule here, but many farmers make a specialty of stock raising, and are making a success of that branch of farm work. Judging from present indications, the outlook for fall and winter trade is much better than it has been for years, as our factories are running steadily, which they have not been doing for some time; and this alone has the tendency to create confidence, and the working classes will in consequence buy more freely. We think we are quite safe in saying that the farmers will do more buying this fall and winter, as they have been purchasing very sparingly during the past two years. Re collections: we cannot say for ourselves, as we virtually do a cash business; but we were speaking to a business man here a short time since, and he said that he had some accounts that he would have accepted 10c. on the dollar for, and they were all paid recently. Generally speaking, we understand collections are good. Almonte being a manufacturing town, merchants who do a credit business find it necessary to do it on a 30-days basis, and do not lose a great deal in consequence.—WILSON & WILSON.

CORNWALL.—Crops of all kinds are good. Not much for export, except oats. The principal product through this section of country is cheese, price of which has ruled low so far, averaging about 7 to 7½c. As there is a large quantity held in cold storage prospects are not bright for much higher price for balance of season. The outlook for fall and winter trade is brighter, and we look for slow but steady improvement. The sharp advance in nearly all raw material we consider one of the best signs of better times.—MCINTYRE & CAMPBELL.

OWEN SOUND.—The present outlook favors the belief that, with the exception of hay, the crops in this immediate vicinity are, perhaps, the finest for years. Fall wheat, peas and oats show an abundant yield, the latter in some instances reaching 60 bushels per acre. More particularly in the south of the county the continued drouth ruined pastures and reduced the hay crop to about 25 per cent. of an average; on this account much young stock was sold at a sacrifice. Late corn, planted to supply the deficiency in fodder, is doing well, and there is now an abundance of after grass. Root crops are abundant; apples, pears and plums, almost nil. The outlook is not cheering. Any business doing is forced, partaking largely of the discount sale order, cut rates on even the staple lines being the rule rather than the exception. The public, as a body, are buying with extreme caution; while admitting that goods were never so cheap, they aver, with oft-recurring frequency, that never was money so scarce nor so unusually hard to get. THE OUTLOOK FOR TRADE.

FROM THE DRY GOODS REVIEW.

MANY readers have sent to THE REVIEW brief but interesting reports on present trade prospects throughout Canada. From these the following have been selected as coming from representative and important centres :

ONTARIO.

STRATFORD.—The crops in this section have been very good. All classes of grain have averaged well, the hay crop about half and roots of all kinds excellent, the potatoes being unusually productive. The outlook is good and the tone hopeful. The G.T.R. shops are an important factor in the business of our city, and the staff at present is quite full, some 600; besides, a large force of train men centring here adds to the pay roll, which runs as high as some $45,000 per month.—W. J. FERGUSON.

TARA.—The hay crop was a failure and it does not average half a crop. Fall wheat was harvested in good condition and farmers do not murmur at the return. Spring wheat, oats, barley and peas, while thin on the ground, the grain is as a rule plump and of a good quality. The yield is variable, but taken altogether will be about an average one. There is no fruit of any kind, and it will need to be imported to supply the demand. The outlook for a good fall and winter trade is not very promising. The butter and egg trade this summer was very much smaller than usual, and cheese being so low not much money is being obtained by the farmers' wives from this source, and we believe collections will be hard to make. Last season thousands of dollars was left through this section from the sale of fruit alone. The money obtained from the sale of grain, cattle, etc., usually goes to pay taxes, rent or interest.—H. are watching stocks closely, and sailing with a little more than the usual caution. Few claim sales quite up to last year; those doing credit trades report collections difficult. In no line is there yet any activity in new fall stock at remunerative prices; exceptionally warm weather, the Toronto Exhibition, coupled with county and township fairs, tend to unsettle trade and retard fall buying. With cooler, seasonable weather we anticipate a fair business.—MCCOLL & LEE.

RENFREW.—The crops in this section are a good average, the principal of which are peas, wheat and oats; the hay crop is also very good. It is impossible to gauge the future correctly by the actual transactions in business in this section so far, because there has been very little threshing and practically no marketing done here yet, and owing to the unfavorable results of their operations for the past two years farmers are, as a rule, more careful than they would be under ordinary circumstances, considering that they have had good crops, yielding above their expectations, and the prospect of better prices than they have had for some time past. The prospects are bright, and a good fall and winter trade is looked for and expected. Collecting is a branch of business that I know practically nothing of, but in conversation with those of experience in that branch of the trade I find that these have been very satisfactory, which is attributed principally to the large amount of cash paid out monthly by the Renfrew Creamery Co., Limited (a new industry organized this year), for the milk received from their patrons. The high price (10 to 12c. above the ordinary dairy butter) realized by the company for their butter, the demand for which is far in excess of their output, enables them to pay an extra price for the milk.—ISAAC E. PEDLOW.

BRANTFORD.—The aggregate yield of all crops is considerably below average in this section. The net money value to farmers, based upon present prices, is also considerably below average. The outlook for the fall, so far as country trade is concerned, is not bright, and collections will probably be unsatisfactory. As the productions of Brantford factories find a market in all sections of the country as well as abroad, city trade may reasonably be expected to be relatively better than country trade. On the whole, only a moderate business should be looked for, not in excess of last year. Prosperity, to be strong and permanent in this country, must begin with the farmer.—FRANK COCKSHUTT & CO.

BRIDGEBURG (formerly International Bridge).—Hay was quite short, and is selling at $10 to $12. It is one of the principal crops, being marketed generally in Buffalo, N.Y. Wheat was average. Oats, extraordinarily good; 40 to 75 bush. to acre; 20 to 25c. Potatoes, very good. Corn, extra good; large acreage. Apples, very good close to water; also grapes; away from water nil. The outlook here is not gauged very strongly by crops, this being a frontier border village, and more essentially a railroad town. The outlook, however, is just fair, through freights not having assumed very large proportions. Payments are principally monthly, and are about as usual.—JOHN T. JAMES.

WALKERTON.—Harvest home; threshing, pretty general; yield, nearly an average, with not more than one-third the crop of hay; no fruit in this locality; dairy revenue, reduced one-third on account of drouth. All the above affects our local trade, and must reduce the general volume of business accordingly. Up to this date all are practising caution. Farmers are buying with great care, and town purchases show the effects of smaller earnings during the past summer, and while our own trade is larger than last year, we attribute it to the cash system and extra pushing of trade. But there is nothing to hope for from collections except renewals for a larger percentage than usual.—T. WHITEHEAD.

GODERICH.—Crops throughout the country are a fair average, less hay and apples, which are a complete failure. The prospect for fall and winter trade is fair. Collections will be slow, as products are being held back very largely from sale on account of the present low prices.—W. ACHESON & SON.

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC.

QUEBEC.—The crops in this section are slightly over the average, and have been well harvested. Principal products are hay, oats, butter and vegetables. The outlook for fall and winter trade is so far only moderate. Collections are slow, and merchants have bought carefully. So far low prices prevail for agricultural products, and the result of the fall trade will much depend on the manner in which farmers can realize.

SHERBROOKE.—The crops in this section are excellent without any exception, hay and oats being the principal products. The outlook for trade is very encouraging just now, and collections are fairly good.—H. SAMUEL.

NEW BRUNSWICK.

ST. STEPHEN.—Crops are only fair in this county. Potatoes are poor. Hay, only an average crop. Rain is very much needed here for fall feed for cattle. The outlook for trade is, on the whole, fair. So far trade has been equal to last year. We do not anticipate any great volume of business, but fully expect it to be as good as last year. The lumber market is very quiet, which will not help us any. Collections are only fair.

ST. JOHN.—From our experience so far this season, there is an easier feeling among buyers, and cash is being spent more freely than last year. Country buyers have the same old complaint, "hard times," but we notice they get about all they want, and in some cases are buying a better class of goods than formerly. Crops are excellent, but prices, of course, low, and the farmers' profits of the season will probably be an average. The lumber business (our principal source of distributing the dollars), is about as usual, with a firmer feeling, some new mills being erected in this vicinity, which means a larger employment of labor. Collections, a shade easier than last season.—DANIEL & ROBERTSON.

NOVA SCOTIA.

AMHERST.—The crop prospects are good. Local products cover hay, butter (potatoes

Have the reputation of being the best milch cows, and are noted for the richness and excellence of their products. "Jersey Brand" Condensed Milk is put up fresh every day from the milk of the Forrest Canning Co.'s herd of Jerseys on their farm in Nova Scotia. Jersey milk is worth from three to eight cents a quart more than ordinary milk, while "Jersey Brand" sells for no more than other brands.

and other roots only a small quantity), cattle, and quite an output of lumber. Trade is fair; collections not what they might be.

LIVERPOOL.—Hay, grain and vegetables are rather above the average. Apples and other fruit in our section are fair, but not up to the average. Lumber and fish are our staple exports, with production about an average, but both rule rather low at present, though we hope for an improvement. The outlook for fall and winter trade is very good, as owing to the late disastrous fire there will be quite a lot of building going on, which will put money in circulation and give employment to all who are able and willing to work. Trade generally, thus far, has been very good. Collections are rather slow, owing chiefly to the fact that our season's catch of fish has not yet been realized upon.—N. S. WETMORE.

PORT HOOD.—Crops are good in this section of country, grain and potatoes particularly. Hay is somewhat lighter than usual. The principal products that affect local trade are butter, cattle and sheep. Butter is low, but cattle and sheep bring fair prices. The outlook for fall and winter trade is very fair, fully up to the average. The prospects of making collections are about as usual, I would say as good as any time during the past five years.—D. F. MCLEAN.

TRURO.—The crops all round are good. Hay, potatoes and lumber, chief factors in local trade. Prospects for fall and winter trade are fairly good. Collections, fully up to the average, and the advancing prices on all kinds of staples seem to have been anticipated by the purchasing public.

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

CHARLOTTETOWN.—The outlook for the fall season is regarded as fairly good. Hay, wheat and oat crops have been secured in good condition and are above the general average. The root crop is fast maturing, and will prove an exceedingly heavy and valuable one; with fair prices for export, trade should receive a marked impetus.—W. A. WEEKS & Co.

SUMMERSIDE.—The crops are good in this part of the island, but prices are poor. The products which affect the trade are oats, potatoes, hay and eggs. They are all plentiful, but prices are very low. The outlook for trade during the coming winter is poor. The price of farm produce rules the trade, as this is purely an agricultural country, except for a little fishing, and that was not very good, either, last year. Collections have been poor.

PACKING APPLES TO FILL ORDERS

Apples are so plentiful in many parts of the world that prices bid fair to rule low this year. Some jobbers have their buyers out in the country purchasing and packing to fill orders, but very few of them are speculating. One Toronto firm is barrelling apples to fill orders in Ireland. The shipments are entered at Cork.

LONDON TRADE GOSSIP.

LONDON, like most places, is enjoying a fairly good trade at the moment. Payments are fair and the outlook is reassuring.

Until within the last week or so, business in sugar has been decidedly unsatisfactory. But now there is a nice trade doing in this line, the advancing markets having stimulated the demand. The idea as to price is $4\frac{3}{8}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c. for granulated.

Dried fruits are on the whole receiving a fair share of attention for the season. Currants and Valencia raisins are of course the lines that are receiving the most attention. New season's figs are being offered as follows: Naturals, in 28-lb. boxes, $6\frac{1}{2}$ c.; layers, in 10-lb. boxes, $11\frac{1}{2}$ c.; 7-crown, in 28-lb. boxes, 15c. New Sultana raisins are quoted at $6\frac{1}{2}$ to 7c. for good bright fruit.

The attention canned vegetables are receiving is small—there being more or less uncertainty regarding prices. The idea for tomatoes and corn is 75 to 80c., and peas 85c. There is not a great deal doing in canned salmon, but prices are steady. Prices range all the way from $1.25 to $1.40 for red fish, according to brand.

Quite a few canned apples have changed hands on this market, the apple crop in this neighborhood being nil. The idea for gallon apples is $2.20 to $2.25.

In teas, those of Indian and Ceylon growth are experiencing a good demand, although the chief enquiry is for cheap Japans at from 16 to 18c. per pound.

Speaking to a wholesaler the other day regarding the influx of customers during the Fair, he said: "From the north we had a large number of customers, but from the west there were not nearly as many. They appear to have gone to Toronto. The people from the north came in great shape," he concluded, with an air of satisfaction.

A London woman, who has recently returned from a visit to New York, stated to a friend of mine that she noticed in some of the grocery stores there that an order for sugar alone was refused. If they wanted sugar, they also had to purchase something besides. "I think the idea is a good one," remarked my friend.

The movement to close the retail stores of the city at 9 o'clock on Saturday evenings is growing apace. A peculiar feature of the movement is that it began with the workmen's organizations. Then the churches took it up, local preachers waxing eloquent over it. "You know," said a friend of mine, "the congregations in our churches on Sunday mornings are small. The preachers when calling on their flock have found that one of the causes was that merchants and clerks worked so late on Saturday nights that they were not in a condition to attend church the following morning, hence their interest in the movement. Among the retailers the grocers are the most active in agitating for a shorter day on Saturday, but the others are gradually wheeling into line.

"This has been a most peculiar season for blueberries," remarked a wholesaler to me the other day. "This year they sold on the local market at 15c. per quart. To-day we are selling the canned article at 85c. per dozen, so that they can be retailed at 10c. per tin, and one tin is equal to about a quart of berries. Canned blueberries are selling better than I ever knew them before."

Guatemala coffee is being offered on this market. This, I understand, is its first appearance here. "A peculiarity about this coffee," said Mr. T. B. Escott, who has it in stock, "is that it only loses about 10 per cent. in weight in roasting, which is about 5 per cent. less than other kinds. It has great body and flavor."

California figs were offered on this market the other day. The fruit was fine and of good quality, but was not pressed flat, as are the Eleme figs. I understand they can be laid down in London at about $8\frac{1}{2}$ c.

Spanish onions are arriving on this market. M. Masuret & Co. received a carload a few days ago.

T. B. Escott & Co. are in receipt of their last shipment of "White Bear" brands of Japan tea. The shipment consisted of about 1,000 packages. "In order to keep the standard up," explained Mr. Escott, "We had to advance the limit about $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 2c. per pound over last year's prices. The shipment just to hand is the sixth for the season and we are now in a position to fill all orders promptly." T. B. Escott & Co. also have several carloads of Arguimbau's Valencia raisins on the way. W. L. E.

Secretary Morton, of the United States, has issued an order to the effect that all canned beef offered for exportation must be accompanied by a certificate of an inspector of the Department of Agriculture, showing that the cattle from which it was produced were free from disease. Poor inspector. Poor fools, who will be deluded by the efficacy of any such inspection.

THE coal output at the Lethbridge mines for this month promises to exceed the record for many months past.

The Dominion Cold Storage Co. has been incorporated by letters patent.

Hiram Walker spent $250,000 trying to raise cranberries in Essex, but failed.

The matter of a "commercial form" is being discussed by Brantford's School Board.

Hiram Walker & Sons are building a new tank warehouse with 30 tanks of about 12,000 gallons capacity each.

Four carloads of grapes from Pelee Island and the Niagara district were conveyed to Winnipeg last week.

Miss Emma Ross, general store, Batteau, has sold out to Miss Susan M. Jackson, who will continue the business in the old stand.

Permission has been granted the Ontario People's Salt Manufacturing Co. to change the corporate name to The Ontario People's Salt and Soda Co., Ltd.

A crop of sugar beets in Southern California this season averaged 12 tons of beets per acre, worth $7 per ton, or three tons of sugar, worth $300, when refined.

The Retail Clerks' Association is not as strong as it should be. No doubt the early-closing movement may be the means of adding new life to the organization.—London Advertiser.

M. Klinkhammer, grocer, Dublin, Ont., has in his possession a potato that weighs 2 lbs. 14 oz., and six that total over 11 lbs. They were grown within two miles of his store, and are the largest that have been seen in that section for some time.

W. G. Murphy & Co., grocers, Mitchell, have introduced the cash system into their business. They have already found a very satisfactory increase in their business, which they did not expect so soon, as they made the change only at the beginning of last month. This makes another firm that has said farewell to the credit system.

The crops in the neighborhood of Seaforth were away above the average this year, and retailers are looking for a good fall trade. They have had a large increase during September over August, and the amount of business done in many cases surpasses that of same month in 1894.

The T. H. & B. are rushing the construction of the line between Welland and Hamilton, which is to be operated by the M. C. R. on completion. Three new engines from the Baldwin Locomotive Works arrived at Welland last week. Train loads of ties and rails arrive daily. It is expected that the road will be ready for use about Christmas.

Another incendiary fire was started on Wednesday at Regina. The store owned by G. F. & J. Galt, the wholesale grocers, of Winnipeg, adjoining the Donahue block, was burned down. The place was unoccupied. A German boy, who gave the alarm, reports seeing a man coming away from the building immediately before the fire broke out. The brigade did good service.

Madill Bros.' general store at Lakefield, Ont., was entered by burglars on Thursday night, who carried off several overcoats, a number of suits of clothing, silk handkerchiefs, neckties, about half a dozen pairs of boots and about $3 in cash. They then broke open the Grand Trunk tool house and took the pumper to Peterboro', where it was found to-day by the section men.

The Newfoundland Government admits that the revenue for three months ending September 30 is very disappointing. The receipts for the month of September were considerably below last year. Calculations on the basis of the quarter just ended indicate that the revenue for the fiscal year will fall 30 per cent. below the estimate, which will result in the colony being in financial difficulties again in December, or in June next at the farthest.

PERSONAL MENTION.

H. D. Disney, general store, Oxbow, Man., has returned home after an Ontario trip.

Hon. Edward Davis, a retired tea merchant from China, arrived in Winnipeg from the west, accompanied by his family. Mr. Davis has been very much impressed by his previous visits to the city, and has decided to take up his residence in Fort Rouge and make Winnipeg his home.

BETTER OUTLOOK FOR SUGAR CANE.

The New Orleans Sugar Planters' Journal says: The change of temperature, which of course was expected, will cause a number of planters to start sugar-making about the 15th of this month. The bulk of them will, however, not start until after November 1st. The outlook for a fair yield has greatly improved during the past month, and we do not believe it will fall more than 20 per cent. below last year's yield, and the prospects are that, with the improvement in price, the crop will bring more money than did that of 1894. Another favorable feature about this crop is the cheapness by which it was made. It was particularly fortunate that the autumn weather set in without a local storm. Crops of cane and rice still stand erect.

ADA REHAN COMING.

Ada Rehan, one of the greatest of living actresses, will appear at the Princess theatre in Toronto shortly. She plays in Shakespearean roles chiefly, and her coming engagement is regarded with little less interest than was that of Henry Irving and Ellen Terry. She is bound to be greeted with bumper houses while in the "Queen City."

THE TRADE SITUATION.

TRADE so far this fall has not been up to the expectations of a good many people; probably the majority of the people. There is no question about this.

A careful analysis of the situation, however, fails to reveal a good and sufficient reason for this.

Trade is infinitely better than it was a year ago at this time: There is a greater volume of business passing, and money is circulating more freely.

What, then, is the trouble? The fact of the matter is that a great many people expected trade would immediately assume enormous proportions when they desisted better times peeping above the clouds of depression. It is those who are in the main disappointed.

Those who looked at the situation in the natural light are in the main satisfied. They expected a gradual improvement, and they have not been disappointed.

Oceans do not assume their normal condition immediately on the subsidence of a prolonged storm; neither does trade and commerce after passing through a financial storm of some years.

Trade in Canada has improved materially. Let any one who is inclined to take a pessimistic view glance back to the opening of the year and compare the conditions then obtaining with those of to day, and he must be pessimist indeed if he fails to discover a satisfying portion in the comparison.

What are termed trade barometers indicate favorable conditions: Two of them, the railway and clearing house returns, show steady improvement. Turning to the foreign trade of the country, here, too, more satisfactory conditions are in evidence. For the nine months of the year the total number of failures in the Dominion aggregated 175 less than for the same time a year ago and the liabilities $9,928,203, against $13,109,716 or over $3,000,000 less. Mining operations are attracting and receiving more attention than ever before, especially in the Kootenay district. And although in the east the lumber trade is quiet, there have been some large exports from British Columbia, which province has also been blessed with a good salmon pack. Regarding the crops nothing need be said, other than that the deliveries of wheat in Manitoba are, so far, larger than a year ago, and that notwithstanding that the maximum is usually reached about this time, such is not the case in the present instance, clearly indicating that, although the farmers have sold more wheat than a year ago, there is still more to follow. Then, not only has Manitoba more wheat to sell, but she has more cattle, more cheese, more butter, more flax, in fact, more of everything to turn into cash.

There is not much in the situation for the pessimist to feed upon, but there is enough and to spare for the fattening of the optimist.

MERCHANTS AND THE MUNICIPALITY.

IF merchants only had more time to devote to municipal affairs there would be less debt, less extravagance and less dishonesty in the administration of all our urban communities. Just as the cash system is infinitely preferable to credit in business, so is avoidance of debt a far wiser course for a municipality than a career of big loans and profuse expenditures.

Governor Macintosh, in his recent speech to the newly-assembled Legislature of the Western Territories, laid stress upon this. He pointed out that a new district like our Territories, which are trying to secure new settlers, is more attractive to an incoming population if its debt is small and its taxes light. "The Canadian Northwest Territories," he said, "should be made a cheap country to live in." This is equally true of older Canada. Merchants naturally favor a town being made attractive by well-paved streets and good drains, because it promotes growth and increases their trade. But let them take care that the municipal policy is conducted on the same lines as they apply in their own business. See that the town's debt does not run ahead of the people's ability to pay. Be sure that no local work is scamped or that ratepayers' money is not leaking into contractors' pockets. In other words, it pays the merchant to keep a watchful eye on the municipal finances, and to have someone in the Council who holds a brief for the business men.

A clean street and a good sidewalk may contribute to increased sales, but, in the long run, a municipality that lives beyond its means is on the down grade, and all the new fangled luxuries of asphalt, telephone or electric light will not put the local trade on a better basis.

DOMINION INSOLVENCY LAW.

THE main reason advanced why the Senate, at its last session, should not adopt the Bankruptcy bill introduced by the Premier was that there was no memorial before the House asking for the passage of such a measure.

Everybody knows that the argument in question was a mere subterfuge which the opponents of the measure had taken refuge behind in order to hide the real cause of their opposition.

Lame as the argument was, it was made to do successful service. The burden is now upon the business men and boards of trade of the country to take steps to deprive the opponents of an insolvency measure of the opportunity of trotting out the cripple to again do duty.

The advocates of an insolvency measure for the Dominion are no doubt discouraged by the dilly dallying which has so characterized our Parliamentarians in their relation therewith. But faint heart never induced reforms any more than it ever won fair lady.

This country needs a bankruptcy law that will apply to British Columbia as well as to Prince Edward Island, and it will get it if the business men of the country will only keep agitating for it.

If anything is to be done at the next session it is time the agitation was begun. There are only about three months to prepare; soon it will be too late.

WHO WILL HAVE THE MOST STRIKING ADVERTISEMENT?

WE referred last week to some special advertising that would appear in the Fall Trade Number of this journal. Since then we have received several beautiful and striking advertisements, and we now stop and ask the above question. We cannot answer the question; we will leave it to our readers to do so. We were inclined last week to name the star ad., but we now throw up our job as judge. Two color advertisements still come in. A page from J. F. Ramsay & Co., enlarging on the merits of "Ram Say" Tea, is very attractive and original; the Truro Condensed Milk Co. have also something striking and original as usual; H. P. Eckardt & Co. are again on hand with new ideas, as are also Turner, Mackeand & Co., of Winnipeg; James Turner & Co., Hamilton; Balfour & Co., Hamilton; Lucas, Steele & Bristol, Hamilton; T. B. Escott & Co., London, etc., etc. W. Boulter & Sons show "that train of twenty cars" on the way to the Pacific Coast in a clever sketch. A host of other advertisers, with equally bright ideas, show the increased interest taken in modern advertising.

We have extended the date for receiving copy till noon, Tuesday, October 15. After this date we will not take any for a kingdom.

ANOTHER ADVANCE IN SUGAR.

THE Canadian sugar market has been an excited one during the past eight days, and buyers who took THE CANADIAN GROCER'S tip about higher prices made money.

Since last Thursday there have been three separate and distinct advances in price at the refineries in Montreal of $\frac{1}{8}$ c. at a time, making $\frac{3}{8}$ c. in all, granulated selling at $4\frac{1}{4}$ c. and yellows at $3\frac{1}{4}$ to 4c. at the refineries on Tuesday last.

At this writing the indications point to a further advance before the week is out.

Naturally, as a result of this strength, the demand has picked up sharply, and an active business has been done. The volume of business is checked, however, to a certain extent by the fact that refiners won't book forward contracts at ruling prices.

This development in the staple has not surprised traders who make any claim to be students of the situation.

All along when the Canadian refiners were engaged in cutting prices the influences elsewhere were working in the opposite direction.

The wonder is, not that the advance came so suddenly, but that, with other centres advancing rates, Montreal held back as long as it did.

Two reasons that contributed to the low prices were: large stocks both in retailers' and jobbers' hands during the summer, and a somewhat lighter supply of preserving fruits. As a consequence, the demand shrunk at the refineries, and stocks accumulated in a similar ratio.

Then the cutting was entered into to induce demand, and the recent low prices resulted.

Cables on both cane and beet stocks are strong, especially the latter, an estimate, as stated in last week's issue, placing the European crop at a decrease of 1,160,000 tons, as compared with last season.

THE ESCALONA'S FRUIT.

THE arrival of the first direct fruit steamer, the ss. Escalona, from the Mediterranean at Montreal this week and the change in the tenor of advices from Denia have imparted a changed tone to the fruit market, but more especially Valencia raisins.

The expectation all along this fall has been for a moderate range of values in these, and so far as the cost of the fruit ex Escalona is concerned it will be realized.

Up to last Thursday wholesalers in Montreal were independent buyers. This was evidenced by the fact that on that day a leading sales agent had not placed more than 2,000 boxes to arrive by the first steamer, whereas at the same date last fall he had sold over 40,000 packages.

Buyers were convinced of the fact that they would get all the fruit they wanted after the steamer arrived. On Saturday morning last, however, cables stated that the Denia market had advanced 2s. This fact, although it did not lead to sellers asking more on the goods ex Escalona, put more life into the demand.

Western buyers were free operators, and, as a consequence of their activity, a much smaller quantity of the Escalona's fruit will be offered in Montreal than dealers there expected.

The vessel's cargo in detail is as follows: 29,000 half-boxes of raisins, 1,200 quarter do., and 1,200 eighths do., making 31,400 packages in all, of which it is expected not more than 10,000 packages will be available to Montreal buyers. The vessel has also 620 barrels, 1,275 half-barrels, 3,690 cases, and 3,830 half-cases of currants from Patras, and 20,000 crates of Spanish onions.

The basis on the raisins to arrive is $3\frac{1}{4}$ to $4\frac{1}{4}$ c. net cash Montreal; on the currants, $3\frac{1}{4}$ to 4c. for barrels, and 4 to $4\frac{1}{4}$ c. for cases; Spanish onions, 65c per crate.

A DROP IN SUGAR.

The above heading is misleading. There has been no drop in sugar. We simply use this to get the ear of the wholesale grocer who has not sent in a full page advertisement for our Fall Trade Number. We want that page ad., and we see no reason under the sun why we should not have it. Delays are dangerous. We might go to press without the advertisement.

VISIBLE COFFEE.

The N. Y. Exchange has just completed the compilation of world's visible supply of coffee on October 1st, showing 3,346,404 bags, against 3,162,962 bags September 1st, showing an increase of 183,442 bags for month, compared with 2,927,544 bags October 1st last year.

VALENCIAS AGAIN ADVANCE.

Valencia raisins are still tending upward, the cable announcing a further general advance of 1s., and a gain of 2s. per cwt. in selected fruit.

This has not been the first of these sharp advances.

As THE CANADIAN GROCER has already intimated, there is much rain-damaged fruit in the primary market this season, while the crop generally is short. The cable just referred to says it will be very much shorter than at first supposed.

In spite of the sharp advances, however, the market is slightly lower than a year ago. The explanation of this is probably found in the quantity of damaged, and consequently cheap, fruit that is on the market. In view of the present firm conditions, there is no telling where values may be before long.

TRANSMISSION OF TEA SAMPLES.

The Canadian post office authorities have been in the habit of allowing packets of tea weighing a pound and a half transmission through the mails as samples.

It transpires that this is a contravention of the post office regulations, and the postmasters at Montreal and Toronto were instructed last week to stop the privilege.

In future the maximum quantity that will be allowed transmission as a sample through the mail is eight ounces, or half a pound.

Tea men who have been spoken to state that the allowance is quite sufficient. No one ever sent out samples weighing a pound and a half, and the privilege was abused by some firms.

The sample rate is 1c. per 4 oz., or 2c. for the maximum packet allowed, and this they think is cheap enough for anyone.

MONTREAL BOARD OF TRADE.

AT the meeting of the Montreal Board of Trade on Tuesday, the Board was informed that H. Labelle was appointed hay inspector for the Montreal district.

The Calgary Board of Trade acknowledged the Council's letter regarding careless handling of cattle and the injury resulting to hides from the practice, stating that the matter was receiving consideration.

Regarding the contemplated petition to the Government for an extension of the Gulf telegraphic service to the Straits of Belle Isle, two proposed routes were discussed. One was from Esquimalt Point by a series of cables along the north shore, with landings thirty miles apart, an aggregate distance of 350 miles. The other was the present line via Anticosti, thence via cables to Cap Whittle, to Cap Macadina islands; Point Amour, etc., to Belle Isle light, a distance of 280 miles. It was decided that it was inexpedient to advise any particular route, and that the Board confine itself to strongly urging the Government to make the desired connection as it thought fit.

Attention was called to the fact that no mails leave Winnipeg on Fridays for Montreal, nor were any sent from Montreal on Tuesdays, whereas letters were mailed and received from Toronto every day by the Great Northern Railway. It was decided to communicate with the post office authorities and ascertain whether mails could not be handled from Montreal on the days in question via the same route.

It was decided to communicate with the Provincial Government, asking for power for the Board to appoint Boards of Arbitration similar to those enjoyed by Boards of Trade in Ontario.

MONTREAL RETAIL GROCERS.

THE Montreal Retail Grocers' Association held its annual meeting last week in the Monument National, President Johnston in the chair. The secretary's report was the first business. It referred to the very successful picnic held this summer and to other matters already well known. After this the balloting on the recent nominations resulted as follows:

President—S. D. Vallieres.

Vice-President—John Scanlan.

Second Vice-President—J. O. Levesque.

Hon. Secretary—John Johnston.

Secretary—Peter Gannon.

Treasurer—V. Raby.

Directors—Aus. Labrecque, A. D. Fraser, J. P. Dixon, S. Demers, P. B. Mesnard and B. Taylor.

The sum of $25 was donated to the Montreal General and Notre Dame hospitals, and a vote of thanks accorded to the retiring officers.

TORONTO IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

THE imports for the port of Toronto during the month of September just past totalled in value $1,979,224, and the exports $375,596. The figures for the corresponding month last year were $1,437,381 and $286,972. Thus it will be seen that the imports increased more than 25 per cent., and the exports about 33½ per cent., in September, 1895. This state of affairs is very encouraging, as it certainly indicates a growing activity in trade circles.

Marked increases are noticed in the imports of brass, earthen and stone ware, iron and steel, lead, metals, oils, drugs and fruits, while in breadstuffs and glass the receipts have fallen off considerably. Following is a comparative statement of the imports during September, 1894, and September, 1895, particularly affecting grocers and general merchants:

	Sept., 1895.	Sept., 1895.
Breadstuffs	$ 6,178	$65,883
Drugs, etc.	18,359	14,816

Other fruits, dutiable	15,749	1,933
Fruits undutiable, including bananas, pineapples, olives, etc.	11,029	7,115
Pickles, sauces, capers, etc.	931	1,063
Provisions, lard, meats, fresh and salt	1,161	1,474
Butter and cheese	39	195
Soap	9,752	5,322

Coffee	4,473	11,684
Dyes, chemicals, etc.	18,961	19,297
Tea	61,097	64,150

The increases in the exports were found in the products of the mine and forest, and particularly in those of the factory, while a falling off in the exports of agricultural products and animals and their produce is to be noted. We subjoin a comparative list for 1894 and 1895:

	Sept., 1895.	Sept., 1894.
The mine	$ 4,730	$ 304
Fisheries
Forest	31,602	24,934
Animals and their produce	141,018	151,514
Agricultural products	28,930	42,339
Manufactures	168,525	66,052
Miscellaneous	91	1,829
Totals	$375,596	$286,972

A STRANGE CONTRAST.

ONE striking feature of the past quarter is that it has witnessed, about the first of September, the worst general range of prices ever known in this country, in spite of remarkable advances in cotton and cotton goods, great advances in iron and steel products, and in boots and shoes, leather and hides. So great was the fall in many other articles, including some of much greater relative importance, that prices of breadstuffs declined over 20 per cent. from the end of May to the end of August, prices of meats 10 per cent., prices of dairy products, fruit and vegetables, 23 per cent., and other food, including sugar, tea and coffee, liquors, fish and spices, only about 2 per cent. Meanwhile all clothing rose over to per cent., including boots and shoes over 10 per cent., and iron and steel products about 32 per cent. Very rarely has there occurred within a few months so great and so unequally balanced a change in the prices of products. In breadstuffs, meats, dairy and garden products, vegetables and fruits taken together, there has been a surprising decline, which may best be represented by percentages, treating the aggregate for October, 1890, in each class as 100, and representing the aggregate of quotations at succeeding dates by proportions to the figures of that period.

There is more history in these few figures than may be found in many big volumes. Space may be found for some explanations and comments at another time, but it suffices here to call especial attention to the general advance in prices of the manufactured products at a time when farm products as a whole are remarkably declining. Exceptions are to be found, of course, in the prices of raw cotton and raw wool, and as well in a few other products of the farm.

But, on the whole, the prices of such articles range lower than at any other period for many years.—Dun's Review.

CAMPHOR STILL ADVANCING.

ADVANCES received in New York by cable from London announce a sharp advance in the price of crude camphor the past few days. In one instance as high as 235 shillings per hundred weight was quoted, making in all a rise of about 70 shillings during the past six months. This movement was due chiefly to the manipulations of the London syndicate of speculators that has had control of the available supply for some time. The stock of crude camphor in London at the present time is about 7,500 packages, an unusually large amount. This is owned mostly by the syndicate, and, according to some authorities, is sufficient to supply the requirements of the world for a year at the present rate of consumption, the latter having fallen off steadily as prices for the refined camphor advanced and substitutes employed to an unusual extent for many purposes. The contraction of consumption and the very heavy supply in London will, in the opinion of many merchants in the drug trade, lead to ultimate disaster to the syndicate. Late advices from Kobe, Japan, would, however, seem to give a different aspect to the probabilities of the future. In this connection the following extract, from an extensive review of the situation, published in The Kobe Chronicle, is referred to as being significant:

"Naturally the high prices which now rule have given rise to a good deal of speculation in trade circles. What would appear to be a reasonable belief has been entertained that the high prices would stimulate production. Under ordinary circumstances that would doubtless be the case, but it has been far from realized as regards Japan, for the reason that camphor woods or plantations in private ownership are almost exhausted. We learn that numbers of the small distillers without capital have been obliged to relinquish the business because of their inability to purchase the necessary wood. The London syndicate, therefore, appears to have made a masterly stroke of business in establishing a ring in camphor, and their position is stronger than ever."

Quite as interesting is a statement to the effect that the position of operators in Formosa is very precarious as a result of the Japan-China conflict. This arises from the fact that all title-deeds must be examined and proved to the satisfaction of the Japanese authorities before permission can be granted for the felling of trees. The belief is expressed also that the Japanese are not likely to be in any haste over this matter, but will make the most of the products of the island, and particular camphor, the production of which they virtually have a monopoly, to recoup their expenditures in the conflict with China.

A SCARCITY OF OYSTERS.

SEVERAL weeks ago The Chicago Times Herald published an article in which it was claimed that the 1895-96 oyster crop would be unusually large, and that low prices on the bivalve would naturally follow. The article was, in part, as follows :

The crop is the largest and best for years. On account of the dullness of trade last year, there was a comparatively small demand made upon the beds. During the past four months without the "R" the spawning has multiplied a millionfold, and in consequence the output will be the largest for many seasons. "It will be a banner year," said a local dealer yesterday. "We have hardly ever had an outlook more favorable, and not only will the quantity and quality be superior, but the prices will range as low as they have ever been in the history of the business."

This, according to a reliable Norfolk, Va., shipper, is entirely erroneous, and oysters in the Chesapeake bay and its tributaries, instead of being as plentiful as mosquitoes in Jersey, will be as scarce as hen teeth. According to this authority, the crop in that vicinity was never known to be as short and inferior as it is at the present time. In vindication of this statement the following was recently published by a correspondent from Crisfield, Md.:

A number of boats loaded with oysters were in Crisfield to-day. The tongs report that the oysters are scarce on Woman's Marsh and Hurley's Rock. One of the tongs said he could catch one hundred bushels three years ago as easily as he could catch twenty-five bushels now. He said he intended to stop work in Tangier sound and go to the Rapahannock. There has not been a young growth in the sound for a long time, and the best rocks are very much depleted. A boat carrying a crew of four men only caught fifteen bushels to-day. The oysters sold for 35 cents per bushel, which brought the captain $5.25. Such work will not pay expenses. Some of the boats are using patent tongs which will hold as much as two bushels.

YARNS SCARCE.

Importers find it difficult to get delivery of yarns as wanted. The manufacturers are overrun with orders, and in many instances refuse to accept any for prompt shipment. The rapid rise in prices has made the active demand. In some cases there is an advance of 150 per cent. Mohairs which could be bought at 1s. three months ago are now 2s. 6d.—Dry Goods Review.

A GROCER'S "HIT."

A big Brooklyn grocer who does much credit business has hit upon the idea of obtaining promissory notes from his customers who desire credit. These notes he places in the bank, and it is presumed he gets credit for the same, but the scheme, although unique, is not calculated to work well unless the debtor takes his paper up at maturity,—something, by the way, which we are not disposed to think he would have any more conscience about than neglecting to pay his bill in the ordinary way. There is only one advantage in it, if the customer has any property, and that is, that the note obviates all disputes, being an acknowledgment of the debt that cannot be disputed in the courts.

90 PER CENT. CROP OF RICE.

Latest advices to a New York house about the Japan rice crop are to the effect that the crop is now expected to yield about 90 per cent., although in consequence of the unprecedentedly cool July a crop of 50 to 70 per cent. was anticipated at the time. With very good harvest weather even the present estimate may be slightly improved, but in either case rice is not likely to be cheap in Japan this coming season, as it would not be surprising to see imports from Saigon and Burmah side by side with exports from Japan. The cause of this is the change in the economic conditions of Japan as a result of the recent war; "higher prices and higher wages is the order of the day."

GROCERIES.

SUGAR is still the cynosure on the local market. The opening of this week saw another advance of $\frac{1}{8}$ c., making a total gain of $\frac{3}{8}$ to 7-16c. from the lowest point. This last advance has temporarily checked the demand, but there is still a good deal of sugar moving. Canned vegetables, on the other hand, continue inactive, with the feeling rather easier. The cables announce a further advance of 1s. to 2s. in the price of Valencia raisins in the primary market. Locally there is a fair demand. In currants, the movement continues brisk at unchanged prices. The tea market continues fairly active with prices strong. In spices, about the only notable change is a sharp advance in the price of nutmegs. Syrups are quiet with offerings still limited. Shipments of new season's figs arrived on the market this week; also new filberts. Payments continue fair.

CANNED GOODS.

A rather easier feeling has developed in canned tomatoes and corn, owing to a recognition of the fact that the pack in these goods is heavy, while the wholesalers are well stocked and are not disposed to buy. Whatever easiness however there is is practically confined to the not so well known brands, for which an outlet is difficult to find. The salmon situation remains much as before. There are a few cohoes being offered at $3.75 on the Coast, but this figure is rather too high to suit the idea of eastern buyers. The local demand for salmon continued good for the season. Canned fruits are dull and unchanged. We quote: Tomatoes, 75 to 80c.; corn, 75 to 80c.; peas, 85c.; for ordinary; sifted, 95c. to $1; extra sifted, $1.40; peaches, $2.90 to $3 for 3's, $1.90 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.40 to $2.20; strawberries, $1.80 to $2.45, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.90 to $2.20; cherries, $2.40 to $2.45; apples, 3's, 90c to $1, gallons, $2.25 to 2.40; salmon, "Horseshoe," "Maple Leaf," "Lion," $1.35; Lowe Inlet, $1.27 to $1.30, in tall tins; cohoes, $1.15 to $1.20; canned mackerel, $1 to $1.10; lobsters, $1.80 to $1.85 for tall tins; flats, $2.35 to $2.40; half tins, $1.35. Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.65 to $1.75; 2's, $2.65 to $2.75; 6's, $8 to $8.25; 14's, $18 to $19. Chicago canned beef, 1's, $1.75 per dozen; 2's, $2.85.

COFFEE.

There is a active demand locally for green Rio coffee at former quotations. The supply is moderate only. We quote green in bags as follows: Rio (new season), 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracaibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

RICE.

The local market is quiet and unchanged. We quote: "B," 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 3 $\frac{3}{8}$ c.; extra Japan, 5 $\frac{1}{4}$ to 5 $\frac{3}{8}$ c.; imported Japan, 5 $\frac{1}{4}$ to 6 $\frac{1}{4}$ c.; tapioca, pearl, 3 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.

SPICES.

Nutmegs are 1d. per lb. dearer. This is the only change to be noted in spices. We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.

NUTS.

New season's filberts are on the market this week. We quote: Brazil nuts, 11 to 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.; Sicily shelled almonds, 25 to 26c.; Tarragona almonds, 14 to 14 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted, and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, \$4.50 to \$5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 14 to 15c.; Marbot walnuts, 12 to 13c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 10 to 12c.; Sicily filberts, 9 to 10c. for sacks and 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 11c. for small lots; pecans, 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 11c.

SUGAR.

Further strength has developed during the week. Just after we went to press last week there was an advance of $\frac{1}{8}$ c., and on Monday this was repeated, putting prices up from $\frac{3}{8}$ to 7-16c. above the lowest point. The effect of this latter advance has been to temporarily slightly check the demand, although the market is still, on the whole, active. The tendency is still towards higher prices. A feature of the situation is the practical sameness in the estimates of the beet shortage by the two statisticians, Licht and Geiseker. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, 4 $\frac{3}{8}$ to 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.; do., No. 2, 4 $\frac{1}{4}$ c.; yellows, 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ c. to 3.85c.

SYRUPS.

The refineries have little or no syrups to offer. Business is much as before. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.; bright, 40 to 42c.

MOLASSES.

There is not much doing, but an improvement is naturally looked for as the cold weather appears. We quote: New Orleans, barrels, 30 to 32c.; half-bbls., 33 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 35c.; Barbadoes, barrels, 31 to 35c.; half-barrels, 33 to 37c.

TEA.

Indian teas are stronger in Calcutta. Since June there has been an advance of equal to about 2 to 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb. This applies to Ceylon as well as to Indian teas. There is a demand for all teas of good quality, and there is no prospect of a decline in values. There is not likely to be many common teas of Japan growth on the Canadian market this year, as prices are stiff on such teas in the primary markets. The market generally for the better grades of Japan teas is in a better position at firm figures. The local demand for Japan teas is fair. Foo-chow teas have been strong all through the season owing to the short crop and the active demand from Australasia. Prices in this particular line are about 10 per cent. higher than a year ago. China green teas are still scarce. We quote ruling prices to retailers: Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 35 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 16 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades.

DRIED FRUITS.

Valencia raisins are cabled 1s. to 2s. per cwt. dearer, and the market is strong at the advance. The demand locally continues good for small quantities. The idea as to price is 5 to 5½c. for fine off-stalk new fruit. Old off-stalk is quoted at 3 to 3¼c., and selected at 4½ to 5c.

New season's Malaga raisins are quoted as follows: London layers, $2.20 to $2.25; extra dessert, $3.75 to $4; connoisseur clusters, $3 to $3.25. This fruit is not receiving much attention as yet. The direct steamer which carries the bulk of the Malaga fruit for Canada was due at Malaga on Wednesday last.

Currants are still selling freely, especially the better kinds. The ruling prices for the new fruit are: Barrels, 3½c.; half-barrels, 3¾c.; half-cases, 3¾c. We quote old fruit as follows: Filatras, half-bbls., 4 to 4½c., bbls., 4¼c.; fine Filatras, half-bbls., 4¾c., bbls., 4¾c.; Patras, 5½c., in cases; Casalinas, 4½ to 5½c.; Vostizzas, 6½ to 7c. in cases and half-cases. The shipment per Escalona are due here in a few days.

There is nothing new to be said regarding prunes, and quotations are nominal. Bosnias at 6 to 7c., and Bordeaux at 4½ to 6½c.; California prunes, 6 to 9c. per lb.

California dried fruits are neglected. We quote: Apricots and peaches, 12½ to 13½c. per lb.; new apricots, 15c.; nectarines, 13½c.; pitted plums, 12½ to 13c.

Dates are dull and unchanged at 4¼c. up.

Fresh shipments of new season's figs are to hand this week. The demand is fair. We quote: 14 oz., 10½c.; 10 lb., 10½c. for 5-rowed, and 12½c. for 4-rowed; 14 lb., 11c.; 28 lb., 16c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The Toronto fruit market, which has been the scene of an immense amount of business during the past summer, has been closed for the season. With the arrival of cold weather the receipts have dropped off greatly, and what is coming in is carried directly to the jobbers' warehouses. Domestic peaches are almost over for the season, but grapes continue to arrive in quantities, and some pears are received yet also. California peaches have ceased to arrive, and the last car of Michigans is said now to be in the city. Apples are very plentiful, and very little buying for speculation is being done. Watermelons are done, and muskmelons must soon follow suit. Lemons are easier, as the receipts are larger, and by the first of the week Malagas may be had at from $6 to $7 a box, although quotations to-day are yet $9 to $10. Cape Cod cranberries are coming in rather freely, and it is said the domestic berry is to be scarce this year owing to early spring frosts. Prices are: Lemons—Sorrento, Palermo, Verdilla and Malaga, $10 to $12 per case. Oranges—Sorrento, $4.25 to $4.75 per case; Jamaicas in barrels, $10. Bananas, $1 to $1.50; cocoanuts, $3.50 to $4 a sack; cabbage, 75c. to $1 per bbl.; Canadian tomatoes, 10 to 20c. per basket. Green California fruit—Peaches, $1.25 to $1.50 in boxes; green apples, $1 to $1.75 a barrel; muskmelons, $1.75 per bbl.; grapes, 4 to 5c. per pound; Canadian peaches, 75c. to $1.25 per basket; Bartlett pears, $1.25 per basket, other grades, 60c.; Spanish onions, 75 to 80c. per small crate; Portugal onions, $2 per large crate; sweet potatoes, $3.50 per bbl.; cranberries, $8 to $9 per bbl.

BUTTER, CHEESE AND EGGS.

BUTTER—Inferior grades are still plentiful and a drug on the market, while good lines are in good demand. Prices are the same as last week, viz.: Old summer dairy and store packed, 5 to 9c.; fresh prints, 16 to 17c.; fresh tubs, 15 to 16c. Fresh creamery—Tubs, 18 to 19c.; pound prints, 21 to 22c.

CHEESE—Local buyers have been offering 7½c. for August Canadian makes, and 8c. for the balance of the season. Last August and September makes bring 10 to 10½c.

EGGS—The cold weather has stopped the supply, and eggs are firm at from 14 to 15c. per doz. Pickled will soon be in demand.

W. H. Gillard & Co. have another carload of Rio coffee, due about the end of October, bought before the recent advance, and upon arrival will offer same to the trade at special prices.

G. J. Hamilton & Sons, Pictou, N.S., who are doing one of the most live trades in Canada in biscuits and confectionery, in the course of a letter to THE CANADIAN GROCER, say: "Our tablets are having an immense run, and are taking the place of the English goods. We have to-day started on a small square tablet, about half the usual size, and anticipate a large sale."

The special feature of the week in the grocery trade was the placing by the jobbers of large orders for new season's pack of canned goods, comprising assorted table and pie fruits, and tomatoes, corn, peas, beans and pumpkin. W. Boulter & Sons have secured the bulk of the trade of the province for this season. Most of the goods were sold at prices delivered. There are plenty of all lines to go around except peas. Boulters are using a new label this season, which is much appreciated by the trade.—B.C. Commercial Journal, Sept. 24.

The grocery catalogue sent out last month by Lucas, Steele & Bristol, of Hamilton, has been much appreciated by their friends. In distributing the same, on account of the large number called for, some may have been missed. Where such is the case, the firm will forward the catalogue on application. Merchants who cannot visit the markets regularly will find this a most useful book of reference. This is a necessity nowadays, and Lucas, Steele & Bristol justly pride themselves on their ability to send out orders same day as received. Their freight time-table in their catalogue gives the time goods must be at the stations to catch the freight trains leaving for the various sections of country. By consulting this table the merchant can tell almost to the hour when he should receive his goods.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Oct. 10, 1895.

GROCERIES.

THE past week has been a decidedly interesting one in general groceries, and with values on many leading staples showing a stronger turn, the natural tendency of buyers is more accommodating. The chief excitement has centered in sugar, which has advanced sharply, and led to marked activity. Its strength has led to sympathetic firmness in syrups. In teas the active demand that has been noted all along continues, and stocks of low grade Japans in first hands here are almost exhausted. In dried fruit the new feature has been a rather steadier feeling on Valencia raisins. Canned goods have not exhibited anything very striking, but both lobsters and mackerel maintain their strong tone. Trade in fish has been affected to a certain extent by the warm weather, and there is nothing else of moment. Payments are not as good as they might be.

SUGAR.

The local sugar market since our last report has been an excited one, and the prediction that the close of last week would see an advance in prices has been more than verified. In fact, there have been two advances in the past eight days, and it is not at all certain that another will not be established before the close of the present week. Present prices for granulated are $\frac{3}{8}$ c. higher than they were ten days ago, jobbers now being firm at $4\frac{3}{8}$ c. on granulated and $3\frac{1}{4}$ to $4\frac{1}{4}$ c. on yellows. It is no longer a question of them selling at cost price, for the demand they are experiencing is a very active one.

SYRUPS.

A fair business has been done in syrups, and the market has a firmer tone in sympathy with the strong sugar market. In fact, refiners are asking a fraction more money for bright syrups, and dark grades are also held firmer. We quote $1\frac{3}{4}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb. as to grade.

MOLASSES.

The molasses market is moderately active, and prices have a rather firmer tone, in fact, may advance very shortly. Porto Rico has changed hands at 32c. in round lots, and 36c. in a jobbing way. Barbadoes is held firm at 37c.

RICE.

A steady business is reported in rice, and the market if anything shows more activity. We quote: Japan, $4.30 to $4.50; crystal Japan, $4.80 to $5; standard B, $3.45; C.C. style, $3.20; Patna, $4.37½ to $5; and Carolina, $7 to $7.50.

SPICES.

The strength in cream of tartar is maintained, and there has been an improved demand for other spices as well. We quote: Cream of tartar, $22\frac{1}{4}$ to $22\frac{1}{2}$ c.; Penang black pepper, 8 to 10c.; white pepper, 13 to 15c.; cloves, whole, 10 to 20c.; cassia, whole, 10 to 20c.; nutmegs, 40 to 90c.; Jamaica ginger, 20 to 25c., as to grade.

COFFEE.

The only large business has been in Maracaibo, which has changed hands in straight lots at quotations. The distribution of Rio and other descriptions has been of a fair jobbing character. We quote green bean coffee: Maracaibo, 21 to 22c.; Rio, 19 to 20c.; Java, 24 to 28c.; Jamaica, 19 to 21c.; and Mocha, 27 to 31c.

TEAS.

This market rules steady and the demand that has been noted of late has been well maintained, while enquiry from country traders is on the increase. Medium and low grade Japan stock ranging from 14 to 16c. continue the prime favorites, in fact, the stock here in first hands is said to be almost exhausted, so that it would be difficult to fill an order for a round lot to-day. We quote: Japans, low grades, 14c., medium, 16 to 18c., fine, 19 to 22c., and finest, 25 to 31c.

DRIED FRUIT.

The new feature in Valencia raisins has been a rather firmer feeling on goods to arrive. Up till the present week buyers maintained an indifferent attitude, but lately cables from Spain have shown a firmer tone and we do not hear of any more offers to sell on a basis of a net cost of 3c. laid down. In fact, this week Montreal wholesalers were freer buyers at a net cost of $3\frac{1}{4}$ to $3\frac{1}{2}$ c. for ordinary and 4 to $4\frac{1}{4}$ c. for fine off-stalk fruit by the first direct boat, which will be here shortly. Actual spot business is light. The few lots of new received via Liverpool have been pretty well absorbed, and are held by jobbers for their own wants at 5 to $5\frac{1}{4}$ c. for off-stalk.

A few new sultanias are offering from second hands at $5\frac{3}{4}$ to 6c.

The first shipments of new California raisins are offering from jobbers' hands this week. They are selling ex store and to arrive at 6c. for 3-crown and 7c. for 4-crown loose muscatels.

Currants are quiet and unchanged. We quote: Barrels, $3\frac{1}{4}$ c.; half-barrels, $3\frac{3}{4}$ c., and cases, 4c.

French prunes continue firm and unchanged this week. We quote: Ordinary, 5 to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c., and fine to choice, $8\frac{1}{2}$ to $9\frac{1}{2}$ c.

Figs are offering in a small way for some select goods at 10 to 13c.

NUTS.

Nuts continue much as they were. We quote: Brazils, 8 to 9c.; shelled almonds, 18 to 25c.; Tarragona, 12 to 13c.; Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; shelled ditto, 24 to 25c.; filberts, $6\frac{1}{2}$ to $7\frac{1}{2}$ c.; and pecans, 8 to 10c.

CANNED GOODS.

The market is quiet and steady. Lobsters and mackerel are strong and prices have a further upward tendency, as already noted last week, owing to the small pack and light stocks here. Other lines are the same. We quote: Lobsters, $6.50 to $9 per case; sardines, $8.50 to $10.50; salmon, $5.20 to $5.50; mackerel, $5; tomatoes, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peaches, $1.90 to $3 per doz.; corn, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peas, 85 to 90c. per doz.; strawberries, $2.25 to $2.50; raspberries, $2; green gages, $2 to $2.25; blue plums or damsons, $1.50 to $1.75; pineapples, $2.25 to $2.50, and 3-lb. apples, 90c. to $1.10.

WINES AND SPIRITS.

There has been a good steady enquiry for wines and spirits during the week, both for domestic and foreign sorts. The first direct steamer from Charente and other Italian, French, and Spanish ports, is expected here by the last week of the month. Nothing definite is known of her lot, but it is expected that she will bring out about the usual quantity.

GREEN FRUIT.

A good active trade continues in green fruit and prices are fairly steady.

ORANGES—Jamaica oranges have sold rather easier at $6.50 per bbl.

APPLES—Receipts of apples have been heavy this week and the market slow. We quote: Fancy fall, $1.25 to $2; Snows and Fameuse, $2 to $2.50.

LEMONS—These are selling well in view of high cost, which is fully maintained. We quote $12 to $15 per case.

BANANAS—Receipts are heavy and demand slow at 75c. to $1.25 per bunch.

GRAPES—There have been fair arrivals and prices are steady, and we quote $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 5c. per lb. as to grade.

PEACHES—The only kind offering is Californian, which sell at $1.25 to $1.50 per box.

SPANISH ONIONS—A few more small lots have been received, and are selling at 70 to 80c. per crate.

SWEET POTATOES—Sell quietly at $3.25 per barrel.

FISH.

The warm weather has been the reverse of beneficial to trade in fresh fish. Demand has been small for all lines, and, with the exception of fresh haddock, for which enquiry has been good, arrivals have been in excess of the demand. The arrivals of the latter have been light, and prices have ruled firm at 4 to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb. Fresh B.C. salmon have moved slowly at 12 to 13c. Trout and whitefish are quiet at 6 to 7c., and halibut 11 to 12c.

In pickled fish, large medium herrings are in large supply, and prices are easier, No. 1 large selling at $4.50 to $4.75, and No. 1 N.S. $4.25 to $4.50. No. 2 Labrador salmon are quoted from $13 to $13.50, and B.C. salmon $10.50 to $11. No. 2 mackerel are held at $17 to $17.50, and No. 1 green cod $4.50 to $4.75.

In prepared fish, the demand for dried cod is small at $4.50 to $4.75. Boneless cod, 6c. Smoked fish are arriving by express, and, for the season, the enquiry is fair. Canadian haddies sell at 7c. and Portland at 8c. Yarmouth bloaters are quoted at $1, and kippered herring at $1.75 per box. Smoked herring are selling lower at 8 to 10c.

Shell oysters are a free arrival, and the average quality is poor. Miramichi oysters are selling at $2.25 to $2.50, and hand-picked $2.75 to $3. Malpeques range from $3.25 to $5; Buctouche, hand-picked, $4.50, and Carouquets, $4.50 to $4.75.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The tone of the egg market is strong to-day, and prices advanced $\frac{1}{2}$ c. per dozen. The demand is fair and a moderately active business done at $12\frac{1}{2}$ to 13c. for choice candled stock, and at 11 to $11\frac{1}{2}$ c. for ordinary per dozen.

BEANS—The demand for beans continues slow, and the market is quiet at $1.10 to $1.25 per bushel for choice hand-picked in car lots.

POTATOES—The market for potatoes was steady. A fair business was transacted at 35 to 40c. per bag in car lots.

HOPS—There was no change in hops. Business was slow at 8 to 10c. for new and 3 to 6c. for old per lb., as to quality.

TALLOW—A fair jobbing trade is reported in tallow at 6 to $6\frac{1}{2}$ c. for prime refined, and at 5 to $5\frac{1}{4}$ c. for lower grades.

HAY—The hay market is quiet and firm. We quote: No. 1, $10, and No. 2, $9.

PROVISIONS.

There is no improvement in the local provision market to note. The demand for pork and lard is slow and prices rule about steady. We quote: Canadian short cut, clear, $14.50 to $15; Canadian short cut mess, $16 to $16.50; hams, city cured, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 9 3/4 to 10 1/4 c.; bacon, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, com. refined, per lb., 7 1/4 to 7 3/4 c.

FLOUR, MEAL AND FEED.

A fair amount of business is transacted in flour and the market is moderately active at firm prices. We quote: Winter wheat, $4 to $4.25; spring wheat, patents, $4.15; straight roller, $3.50 to $3.75; straight roller, bags, $1.65 to $1.80; extra, bags, $1.50 to $1.60; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.90 to $4.

There is no change in oatmeal, the demand being slow at steady prices. We quote: Standard, bbls., $3.60 to $3.70; granulated, bbls., $3.70 to $3.80; rolled oats, bbls., $3.70 to $3.80.

In feed a fairly active business is doing and values are unchanged. We quote: Bran, $14.50 to $15; shorts, $16.50 to $17; mouillie, $20.50 to $21.50.

BUTTER.

Active export buying has resulted in a sharp advance in the price of fall creamery butter of over 1 1/2 c. per lb. during the week. Business was done Monday at 19c., and it is claimed that this figure has been advanced up. The chief buying is for account of exporters, who have been free operators on the market. This strength of creamery has imparted a firmer tone to other butter, but there is little or nothing to note in dairy stock. We quote: Finest September creamery, 19c.; finest August creamery, 18 1/2 c.; Townships dairy, 14c.; finest Western dairy, 12 to 13c.

CHEESE.

The cheese market maintains its firm tone, and trading is being done steadily in fall makes at full figures. We quote: Finest Ontario, September, 8 to 8 3/4 c.; Finest Ontario, August, 7 3/4 c.; Finest Townships, 7 3/4 to 8c.; finest Quebec, September, 7 1/2 to 7 3/4 c.

ASHES.

There is a fair trade in ashes. Prices are steady. We quote: Firsts, $4.05 to $4.15; and seconds $3.80 to $3.85 for pots; pearls, $4.80 to $4.85.

A shipment of Griffin & Skelly's California raisins was turned into stock this week by Ransom, Forbes & Co.

L. Chaput, Sons & Co. are offering this week good brands of Valencia raisins, ex Escalona, at very moderate prices.

D. Hatton & Co. landed several shipments of smoked fish, such as haddies, Yarmouth bloaters and kippered herrings by express this week.

R. Greig & Co. sent out this week some good shipments of their Crown Brand Extracts to St. John, Halifax and other lower province points.

A carload of mixed Santa Clara plums and choice apricots is expected in the course of a fortnight by A. P. Tippet & Co. Enquiry for the latter is very good.

A. P. Tippet & Co. have advices of several carloads of new crop California raisins on the way. They are near at hand and the quality is said to be excellent.

Cables to Gillespie & Co. on Tuesday from Denia noted an advance of 1s. to 2s. in the value of raisins. Spot prices have not yet been influenced, but are apt to be.

R. Greig & Co. received the first word this week of their early shipments of Christmas confectionery specialties in cocoa and chocolate. They are expected to arrive ex ss. Grecian next week.

A large quantity of raw sugar arrived in port this afternoon on the barque Honolulu, from the East Indies. The cargo amounts to upwards of 3,000 tons, and is consigned to the St. Lawrence Sugar Refinery.

A. P. Tippet & Co. expect the arrival of a large shipment of Fry's cocoa and chocolates ex Memphis this week. This is the first of the Christmas lots. They also note liberal orders this week for Lazenby's tablet jellies.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 10, 1895.

THE Exhibition is a thing of the past. In every way it was a success, and not only those who attended, but those who made exhibits, are well pleased. Our retail stores have done a large business and the wholesale stores have at least seen a great many of their customers. Now there is excitement over the elections for the Provincial House, and for a week or so, particularly in certain parts of the province, it will affect business disadvantageously, but not generally.

In the markets there are some changes. Flour is held firmer, as is sugar. Beans continue to move off in price, while oatmeal and cornmeal are much lower. Raisins after a continual dropping have taken a turn and are quoted higher. There is little change in spices. Cream of tartar is still at high water mark. In dairy produce the feeling is firmer, particularly in butter.

OIL—Prices show no change. Prime Canadian continues to be sold at the reduction noted last week. An increasing business is reported. We quote: Best American, 22¼c.; best Canadian, 21¼c.; prime, 17½c. No charge for barrels.

SALT—Another cargo of 6,000 sacks is to hand, which makes 12,000 landed here in the last three weeks, and another cargo is expected. Market is well supplied, however. A large part of the first cargo arriving was badly damaged. It is said some two hundred bags were empty and a larger number partly so. We quote: Coarse, 50 to 55c.; fine factory-filled, 95c. to $1.10; 5-lb. bags, $3 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.80 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10-lb. boxes, 12c.; cartoons, $2 per doz.; bulk dairy, $2.80 per bbl.; bulk cheese, $2.70.

CANNED GOODS—Two more cars of salmon are to hand from the Coast. About 4 cars will be the stock received here. Some small lots of canned New Brunswick salmon are also to hand. Peaches are being offered rather lower, at least by some packers. Stocks are, however, light and the value is good. Many packers have withdrawn oysters, awaiting new pack. The packers have withdrawn peas and tomatoes. In all lines, except perhaps corned beef, prices are held firm. It is hoped the light stocks will lead to better profits. Prices are: Corn, 85 to 90c.; peas, 90 to 95c.; tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.60 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.50 to $1.60; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $2.85 to $3; 2's, $1.90 to $2; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.40; salmon, $1.50; flat, $1.75; clams, $5.50 for 4 doz.; chowder, $3 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1; pineapples, $2.75.

DRIED FRUIT—Currants are scarce and some few old ones have been bought in New York to tide over stocks till new arrive, which will be in a few weeks, as invoices are now to hand. Raisins are reported up two shillings, but buyers have bought their stocks, and at low prices. It is yet to be seen what the quality will be. There is light enquiry for dried apples. Stocks are small, with no new to hand. Onions are rather lower with fair stocks here. Peanuts are quoted higher. Cleaned currants will be in larger demand this season than ever. We quote: Sultana raisins, 7 to 8c.; Valencia, 4c.; layers, 5c.; London layers, $2 to $2.25; California loose muscatels, 5 to 5½c.; currants, bbls., 3¼c.; half-cases, 4c.; evaporated apples, 7½ to 8c.; dried apples, 5¼ to 6c.; dates, 4 to 4½c.; prunes, 4 to 5c.; figs, 11 to 18c.; California evaporated peaches, 12 to 13c.; do. apricots, 12 to 14c.; do. pears, 12 to 13c.; clean currants, bulk, 6½c.; 1-lb. cartoons, 7½c.; Canadian onions, $2.25 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $4 per 100.

GREEN FRUIT—Large quantities of apples continue to arrive, and though auction sales are not numerous prices continue slow with light demand. If shippers would consign their apples to commission men in place of the schooner captains, making a warehouse of their vessels and selling from them, the apple market would be in a much better condition. It would work to the advantage of all parties concerned. In oranges those from the West Indies still have the market about to themselves. Lemons are more plentiful at the lower quotations. Malaga grapes are being received freely but the demand is light. Stocks of Canadian are light. Very few peaches arrived this week. Pears are also coming forward in smaller numbers. Quince, both Nova Scotia and American, are in the market. Cape Cod cranberries are opening cheaper than last season. Plums are out of the market. We quote: Peaches, $2.50; pears, $5 to $7; California pears, $3.50; apples, $1 to $2 per bbl.; lemons, $7.50 to $8; bananas, $1 to $2.50; grapes, 50 to 60c.; West India oranges, $5.50 to $6 per bbl.; Malaga grapes, $5 to $6; quince, American, $6; Cape Cod cranberries, $7.

DAIRY PRODUCE—The feeling all around is rather better. Eggs advance rather slowly, and prices here are low compared with outside points. In butter there is a good demand at better prices, though high prices are not looked for at once. Creamery butter shows a better demand, particularly prints. In cheese, while the price for early is still very low, holders of later makes are rather firmer. Some Upper Canadian are on the market, in spite of the fact that so many were made in this province. It is reported that some sent from here to Montreal, and sold, brought very low figures. The West India market is rather better, but fully all it will take are being shipped; 8c. seems to be outside price from first hands, and a quantity could be bought at that figure. There is little prospect of higher figures. We quote: New cheese, 8½ to 9c.; new butter, 18c.; eggs, 12 to 12½c.; fresh creamery prints, 22 to 23c.; tubs, 20 to 21c.

MOLASSES—There is a fair movement, and the demand for barrels is particularly good. A splendid New Orleans, in 40-gallon packages, is being sold here. Holders of all grades are firm. Syrup is in very light demand in this market. Some samples of fancy New Orleans were shown here this week, costing, 10 land, 36 to 37c., but the trade here is for cheaper values. We quote: Barbadoes, 32 to 34c.; St. Croix, 32 to 33c.; Porto Rico, 34 to 36c.; syrup, 35c.; Trinidad, 32 to 33c.; New Orleans, bbls., 34 to 35c.

SUGAR—There was a good demand during the week, and though prices have shown little or no change, there is a decidedly firmer feeling, and prices must go higher, but, as is always the case, our market is very slow to respond. We quote: Granulated, 4½ to 4¾c.; yellow, 3½ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5¼ to 5½c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

FISH—There has been a good business done during the week, and the feeling is that prices have reached low water mark. There is a fairly large stock of shad here at low figures and extra quality. Canso herring are also good and very low. Smoked, however, still continue with but fair sale and low price. In boneless fish, though there is a good demand, it is hardly what is looked for at this season. In shredded codfish, the Nova Scotia goods are taking the place of the American and giving good satisfaction. We quote: Medium cod, $3.35 to $3.50; large, $3.70 to $3.75; small, $2.50 to $2.75; pollock, $1.40; bay herring, $1.25 to $1.30; Grand Manan, $1.40; ripplings, $1.65 to $1.70; wolves, $1.90 to $2; Quoddy River, $2.50 to $2.60; smoked, 5 to 6c.; shad, half-bbl., pickled, $4.75 to $5; Canso, $4.50 to $5.

PROVISIONS—There is a fair quantity moving, the demand for pork being better than for beef. In lard we mark prices lower. A good business is looked for during the month. We quote: Clear pork, $16.50 to $17.50; mess, $15.50 to $16.50; plate beef, $13 to $14; pure lard, 9 to 9½c.; compound lard, 8c.; cotolene, 9¼ to 9½c.; rolls, 9 to 9½c.; beef, half bbls., $7.

FLOUR, MEAL AND FEED—In flour the feeling is firmer, and though prices show no change, at least the downward movement is stopped and the tendency is the other way. Oatmeal has gone off very quickly, the decline being about $1. Beans, owing to stocks held when prices declined, have not yet settled to where they should, but the lower priced ones will likely arrive during the week. Cornmeal is also lower and easy, but the low price of oats is affecting the full demand the prices would seem to point to. Hay is firm and country holders are rather above the market. Feed is easier. We quote: Manitoba, $4.70; best Ontario, $4 to $4.10; medium, $3.75 to $3.80; oatmeal, $3.70 to $3.75; cornmeal, $2.40 to $2.50; middlings, $24 on track; bran, $22 to $23; hand-picked beans, $1.55 to $1.60; prime, $1.25 to $1.30; split peas, $3.70; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.25; hay, $11.50 to $12; oats, 33 to 35c.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Cheese factory men attending the Exhibition all report having lost money. The make of September has been much shortened owing to the market. Factories when possible, are making butter.

THE CANADIAN GROCER acknowledges a very suggestive card received from Theo. Estabrooks, advertising their Red Rose blend. It is in the shape of a monkey and reads: "Don't monkey with the drink question. Use Red Rose blend."

Thos. Gorman has this week received a splendid lot of Canso herring.

Northrup & Co. are in receipt of a number of repeat orders for their golden finnan haddie. It is a seller.

In the Agricultural building at the Exhibition this week D. A. McPherson, of Lancaster, and Wm. Johnston, of Montreal, gave addresses on the advantages of cold storage. Our merchants and farmers begin to feel their need along this line very much, and a cold storage warehouse is not far in the future.

James Patterson has in stock some extra rippling and wolves herring. They are much better quality than bay, and are well worth the difference in price.

The following is from Charlottetown, P.E.I.: In produce the demand is light and prospects are not such as to gladden holders, particularly in some lines, as oats and potatoes. Hides are off to 5 to 6c. Butter, in good demand, 17 to 19c.; eggs, 9 to 11c.; beef, 5 to 7c.; mutton, 6 to 8c.; hay, 35c.; oats, 28c.; potatoes, 16 to 18c.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

HALIFAX, Oct. 10, 1895.

THE general tone of trade is not at all discouraging, except on the island of Cap Breton, where the Dominion Coal Company have a monopoly. Several merchants have been driven out of business there on account of the company owning and operating its own stores, the miners having no other option than to deal with the company. Reports from Prince Edward Island are very good, while an excellent trade is being done on the western shore.

A central creamery is to be erected at Charlottetown. At a meeting recently held it was decided to form a joint stock company for that purpose. The cold storage agitation at Charlottetown has apparently cooled down for the present.

BREADSTUFFS—There is a decided tone of improvement in flour. The advance here runs from 20 to 40c. per bbl.

OATS—Oats are a little stronger. P. E. Island stock is beginning to come in, about 1,000 bags being received this week.

GREEN FRUIT—Receipts of good apples continue light and prices are good. Fall fruit is coming in freely and selling low. Repacked sweet Jamaica oranges are worth $8 to $9 per barrel. Bananas have advanced 25c. per bunch. Some green Almeria grapes have arrived in good order. Lemons continue high and of poor quality.

BUTTER—There is a medium enquiry for factory at 20c. Dairy is in small supply, with limited demand, at 15 to 18c. in small tubs.

EGGS—Stiffer prices are looked for in eggs. Considerable business is being done here at 13c.

PRODUCE—P. E. Island oats are worth 37 to 38c. with fair demand. Potatoes are selling at 30 to 35c. No cargos have arrived from P. E. Island as yet.

CANNED GOODS—Cutting is reported in both fruit and vegetables. New peas are $1; corn, 90 to 95c. and tomatoes, $1 for standard packs. Pears are lower and peaches higher.

PROVISIONS—There is no change in the provision market. Lard is jobbing at 10 to 10½c. for pure in pails.

DRIED FRUITS—Quotations in dry fruits are a little lower. Jobbers are placing their orders to arrive.

CHEESE—The local cheese market shows no change for the better. Considerable business has been done at 9c.

FISHSTUFFS—There is very little change in the fish market. West India herrings are still going down. A large amount of dried and pickled was shipped to Boston last Saturday.

MOLASSES—The stock of molasses on hand at this port is equal to that of last year, and it looks as if there will be no surplus stock. The advance in sugar is calculated to help molasses out considerably. The demand is good.

SUGAR—The advance reported from Montreal this week has stiffened the market somewhat. There is an advance of an eighth and it may go higher before another week. There is a fairly good demand, and jobbers' stocks are reported small.

WHAT IS A LETTER ?

MOST people have supposed that anything sealed against inspection and delivered to the post office constituted in effect a "letter," which, at the regulation rate of two-cent postage per ounce the mail service would be obliged to forward to its destination. So far as the domestic service is concerned, this supposition may be correct, and would seem to be implied by the wording of official decisions, which declare that "all matter, sealed or otherwise, closed against inspection is also of the first class." But with the foreign mail service, at least, the condition is different. A provision in the postal treaty specifies that letters "in their usual and ordinary form" are to be forwarded at a given rate. Just what constituted the "usual and ordinary form" has not till now been defined and officially declared, and this is the way in which the definition was brought out :

A Boston architect offered at the postoffice in that city a sealed roll addressed to the Commissioner of Patents at Ottawa, Canada, on which the proper amount of postage, at letter rates, had been paid. The clerk in charge of the window declined to receive the roll as a letter, and, on the matter being referred to him, Postmaster Coveney decided that the term letter is to be construed to mean and embrace sealed packages consisting of an envelope of any size, but flat, as is the usual letter. The objector did not think that this ruling and definition of a letter was correct, and gave his opinion that a letter "was a package containing personal matter of no saleable value."

The matter being referred to the authorities at Washington for decision, the Superintendent of Foreign Mails, in due time, forwarded a decision embodying the joint opinions of Canadian and American postal authorities, to the effect that "the term letter, in its usual and ordinary form, is to be construed to embrace sealed packages consisting of an envelope of any size, but of the usual letter shape, and its contents ; but that rolls or a package not enclosed in an 'envelope,' as the word envelope is generally used, cannot be considered to be 'a letter in its usual and ordinary form.' A sealed package in the form of a roll is, therefore, not entitled to transmission in the mails, exchanged between the United States and Canada, and your office was correct in declining to receive the sealed roll mentioned." This would seem to settle the matter as to what constitutes a letter within the meaning of our postal treaties.—Paper World.

GRENOBLE WALNUT CROP.

Late advices from the Grenoble district state that the walnut crop will be retarded by the long-continued drouth, so that buyers who had expected deliveries by steamer sailing about the first of November will have to wait, as there will be no shipments made from Genoa before November 21. The crop will be considerably less than the original estimates, this letter says ; will be small in size, but of good quality.

HAMILTON TRADE GOSSIP.

SEPTEMBER'S trade has come and gone, and while it was not up to expectations, yet it was on the whole fairly good. Probably the most unsatisfactory feature about it was the measure of the demand for sugar, it being much smaller than for the corresponding month last year. There does not appear to be much reason for complaint on the score of payments, they having been fairly good, and the same may still be said regarding them.

During the past week or ten days an accelerated movement is to be noted in sugars, presumably in part owing to the appreciation in values. "Most of the merchants," remarked a wholesaler, "are evidently beginning to get it into their heads that sugar is really going up at last. You will see larger stocks carried from this out." I am informed that there is still a little cutting going on among the wholesalers, but I fancy it does not now amount to much. Ruling quotations now are $4\frac{3}{8}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c. for granulated and 3c. up for yellows. The higher prices now obtaining will, it is thought, tend to increase the consumptive demand for bright yellows.

Wholesalers tell me that all the early shipments of new season's Valencia raisins sold out freely and at full prices. Ruling prices to-day are $5\frac{1}{2}$ c. for fine off-stalk and $6\frac{1}{2}$ c. for selected fruit, but when further shipments arrive in a day or two, these figures will be reduced a cent. At the moment there is a brisk demand for future delivery at $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c. for fine off-stalk and selected, respectively. Some consigned lots of California prunes and raisins are near at hand; also new season's currants.

Canned goods still fail to exhibit much life. Some of the packers are offering rather freely, but at much about former prices. If anything, jobbers are experiencing a little better demand at 75 to 80c. for tomatoes and corn, and 85 to 90c. for peas. There is a moderate trade doing in canned salmon, but the volume of business, so far this season, is behind that of last year. "There is no question about it," remarked a wholesaler to me, "the price is interfering materially with the demand." The idea as to wholesale price is: "Horseshoe," "Maple Leaf," "Flagship," etc., $1.35 to $1.40. Some of the less-known grades are quoted at $1.25, and cohoes at $1.10 to $1.15.

Tea of all descriptions continues firm. Low grade Japans, such as were last year sold at 12 and 13c., are, to use a slang term, "not in it" this season. The fact is, there are none to be had. "What you advised the trade some time ago as to buying good values in old teas," said a jobber to me, "was advice well given, for what you then predicted has come to pass." Few if any "snaps," I understand, are now obtainable in either Indian or Ceylon teas. Consequently any "cuts" that may be offered should be taken advantage of by the retail trade. There are some China black teas on the way to this market which are said to be showing better quality than the same class of teas did last year, while the prices are about the same. In green teas the Young Hyson market is almost bare. There are very few offerings, and those that are appear to be poor value. "The liquor is all right," remarked one wholesaler, "but they are away off in style."

"There is increased discontent," said a business man to me the other day, "at the neglect of the T. H. & B. railway people to carry out the promises made at Ottawa to pay the indebtedness of their contractors. In the meantime there are merchants in Dundas and other near-by towns who are really in need of the money that is due them. I think it is a shame that people should be thus compelled to wait for their money."

A certain wholesale house in the city has, for some months, had a sample of German granulated sugar in an air-tight tin. The other day when I was in the sample room the manager pulled off the cover and asked me to take a sniff. I did, to my sorrow.

"Smells like a pig pen, doesn't it?" said the manager, with a laugh at my expense.

"It does, and a bad one at that," I replied.

"Well, I have just kept that sugar to see how it would turn out, and you see the result. A canner who was in here to-day told me that he had used German granulated in making some jam, with the result that all the jam had turned bad." W. L. E.

SHORT WEIGHTS IN YARNS.

Complaint is again being made of some of this season's fingering and factory yarns being put up in light weight spindles. For the regular 6-lb. spindle one of $4\frac{1}{2}$ lbs. is sometimes sold to the trade, the term "spindle" being employed without any notification of short weight. The Review inquired of a man in the trade: "Is it not a fact that Berlin wools are sometimes put up 14 ounces to the pound?" "Yes, often, though I know a case where an English maker refused to take an order where the weight was to be less than the standard. But then there is this difference: the box wools are sold by the box, and nothing is said about weight, and the retailer sells not by the pound but by the skein. In the case of fingering yarns the short weight tells."—Dry Goods Review.

DEPARTMENT STORES AND PRINTS.

THERE has been a strong feeling amongst the retail trade generally because certain large departmental stores, like Eaton's, of Toronto, and Carsley's, of Montreal, were to be put on the list to buy Canadian prints at the same prices as the wholesale trade. There were a few other houses so favored also, but they are not known as price cutters, and being large buyers their competitors raised no objection.

It now appears as if the departmental stores would not take advantage of their position which enables them to buy at wholesale prices. It has its drawbacks. In return for this privilege the selling agents of the mills require them to sign an agreement not to sell below the prices fixed for jobbers to sell to retailers. They do not want to be bound not to cut. They would, no doubt, be quite willing to sign such an arrangement in so far as it applies to the better grades of goods, for prices of these are not usually cut, but they are not prepared to make any agreement on the cheaper qualities. They will, therefore, not be able to buy prints at any better prices than other retailers. If they cut prices they will lose money. Some of the favored retailers—those who are not price cutters—have already signed the agreement.

Samples will be put on the market this week and buyers will begin placing orders for next spring's trade.

CALIFORNIA RAISINS.

Now that the new crop of California raisins is beginning to come into this market, buyers will do well to be on their guard against inferior goods. Certain of our American friends are none too scrupulous as to keeping up the grade and standard of goods shipped, as no doubt some of our readers have already learned, and except in the case of absolutely reliable firms, the brand 3-crown and 4-crown may mean anything at all. A little difference in the size of the sieves may make fully 10 per cent. difference in the size of the raisins graded under both heads.

In view of the favorable way in which California raisins have been received in Canada, it would certainly be a most deplorable thing to see a similar course followed as has been done in the case of Valencia fruit, of which the most vile quality has been shipped to this market simply because buyers would insist upon getting low prices. You cannot have the best goods simply at the cost of production, and whenever exceptionally low offers are made buyers may well look out.

There is but little danger in ordering standard brands, such as those packed by the Griffin & Skelly Co., and other high class firms, and we strongly recommend our readers to keep this in mind.

TWO NEW STARCHES.

The Edwardsburg Starch Co., Ltd., are placing two new lines of starch on the market. One is Silver Gloss, in 6-lb. tin canisters, and the other is named Benson's Enamel Starch. The former is put up in tins handsomely labeled. The labels are assorted, they being in four different colors. There are eight tins to a case. The tins are fitted with a sliding top. Benson's Enamel Starch is a cold water starch, and it is put up in boxes of 40 packages. The package of this starch is embossed and is very handsome, and a fac simile of the front of this package serves as the back cover of the new price list which the firm has just issued. The Silver Gloss Starch sells to the retailer at 7c. per lb., and the cold water starch at $3 per box.

ADVANCE IN COTTONS AND WOOLENS.

The Canadian Colored Cotton Mills on Monday advanced all shirtings, cottonades, and the heavy numbers of denims, and most lines of tickings, flannelettes, ginghams, carpet warp, and cottonade fents, 5 per cent.

In all yarns and twines prices have gone up 5 per cent.

All Campbellford and most other grey flannels have been put up 1½c. a yard, and leading manufacturers of tweeds are asking 2½c. a yard advance.

CHEAP "JOHNS."

DEAR GROCER,—I was much pleased to note your remarks in reference to the above "article," and am quite sure an incalculable injury has been done to the trade by the class of men referred to, and their style in too many cases is endorsed by the houses they represent. Demoralization has certainly taken the place of legitimate trade, but I do honestly believe that this style of doing business is on the wane, and that soon the Snap Salesman will be a "thing" of the past.

Experience has taught us that the houses and travelers who grow so much in their own estimation that no one else is "in it" have but one ending—the sacrifices they make cannot be made up, and ruin follows. This is an age of the "survival of the fittest." The steady, reliable and competent must win in the race with the incompetent and windy ones.

OLD TRAVELER.

THE CREDIT SYSTEM.

A daily paper has the following pertinent remarks about the credit system: "The bane of the grocery business is the credit system. This seems to be a necessary evil, and it hits every retail grocer, and through him every wholesale grocer, and it hits every man who pays his grocery bills. A man who is working on a salary and gets his pay once a week, asks his grocer to trust him. If the grocer should refuse, he knows that another man in the business on the next corner would get the fellow's trade. After a while there comes a pay day when the customer does not pay his bill. Perhaps he pays part of it and leaves a balance. The next week the debt grows bigger. The grocer also trusts the man who gets his pay once a month. He doesn't dare discriminate against him. After a while there is such a number of delinquents that he is unable to meet his bills, and the wholesale dealer has to carry him along. His debt to the wholesale dealer grows to $300 or $400 or $500 before he realizes it. Of course, if a grocer must trust, he must add something to his prices to account for what he loses through bad accounts, and every customer who pays cash necessarily, if unwillingly, contributes to the support of the deadbeats. In the natural course of business this burden distributes itself quite widely."

FORMING CHARACTERS.

No one can detach himself from his connection. There is no sequestered spot in the universe, no dark niche along the disk of non-existence, to which he can retreat from his relations to others, where he can withdraw the influence of his existence upon the moral destiny of the world; everywhere his presence or his absence will be felt, everywhere he will have companions, who will be better or worse for his influence. It is an old saying, and one of fearful and fathomless import, that we are forming characters for eternity. Forming characters! Whose? Our own or others? Both—and in that momentous fact lies the peril and responsibility of our existence. Who is sufficient for the thought? Thousands of my fellow-beings will yearly enter eternity, with characters differing from those they would have carried thither had I never lived. The sunlight of that world will reveal my finger-marks in their primary formations, and in their successive strata of thought and life.—Elihu Burritt.

POINTS FOR CLERKS.

JUSEPE RIBERA, a celebrated painter of the seventeenth century, was an example of genius which succeeds through infinite perseverance and tireless industry, remarks an exchange. When he was at the height of his success and popularity he never gave up his habits of close application.

Ribera gave brilliant social entertainments, which were attended by the aristocracy of Naples. He was present at these parties, but he seldom did the honors. He would walk about by himself, or sit looking on for hours, and no one ventured to disturb his meditations.

It often happened that, struck by the face of some guest, he would sketch it then and there, and no one thought of resenting this somewhat eccentric proceeding for a host.

The story of his experience with two amateur alchemists is more or less familiar, but will bear repetition. Two Spanish officers called upon him, and, as his compatriots, he welcomed them cordially. The men tried to engage him in a speculation.

They told him that for years they had been studying alchemy, that costly experiments had exhausted their funds, and that to utilize their wonderful discoveries they were now in need of a large loan of money to buy apparatus.

"Then, gentlemen, you have discovered the famous philosopher's stone? You possess the secret of making gold?" asked Ribera.

"We will prove it to you," they replied. "If you will assist us we shall all be rich."

"I thank you," said the artist, "but I, too, have the secret of making gold. I will show you. But first allow me to finish the picture I was at work on when you came."

The men waited, much mystified, and Ribera finished his picture and sent it away to a dealer. Presently the messenger returned and handed him the price of the picture, 400 ducats. "What did I tell you, gentlemen? Here is the kind of gold that I can make. Isn't it the best kind?"

There was nothing more to say to a man who was willing to work for his money, and could show such tangible proof of the excellence of his methods.

DEATH OF JAMES SCOTT.

James Scott, one of Halifax's best known and most highly esteemed citizens, died on Oct. 4. The news, though not unexpected, will be heard with deep regret. In 1846 Mr. Scott succeeded to the business of his former employer, Hugh Campbell, and, for half a century, has carried on the high class grocery and liquor business known as the Army and Navy Depot, doing the principal retail business in that line in the city. For the whole of that time the firm enjoyed the patronage of the military and naval commanders, the regimental messes, the ships of war, etc., as well as the Governors of the province; and in the old days this was not only one of the largest, but also one of the most prosperous establishments in the city; and Mr. Scott was one of the most successful business men of the place. He built the palatial residence on Pleasant street, now owned by Judge Townsend. Even to-day there is no finer house in Halifax. After disposing of his residence to Judge Townsend, Mr. Scott removed to Queen street, where he has since resided. Mr. Scott was a merchant "of the old school," and enjoyed the respect and esteem, not only of the large circle of people with whom he did business, but of everyone who knew him, and his death will be very much regretted.

THE SMYRNA FIG INDUSTRY.

A COMMUNICATION has been received at the Foreign Office from Mr. G. H. Fitzmaurice, Acting Consul-General for Great Britain at Smyrna, enclosing a special report on the Smyrna fig industry, drawn up in answer to a request from the Foreign Office, and printed in The London Grocer. In the report Mr. Fitzmaurice states that the Smyrna fig of commerce, properly so called, grows only in the extensive valleys or plains watered by the Meander and Cayster rivers. Other inferior varieties from the neighboring provinces of Asia Minor are, however, also dried and exported for the consumption of the lower classes in England and America, or to be used on the Continent in the adulteration of coffee. This latter class is known as "Hordas." The real Smyrna fig of the Meander or Cayster districts is of three varieties, of which the native names are "Bardajik," "Lop" and "Sheker." Of these the "Bardajik" is the most highly esteemed, being the thinnest-skinned and sweetest.

The flower is not inoculated artificially, but fig-growers deem it necessary to hang the caprificus or wild fig in strings on each of the fruiting trees. A string consists of about twenty-five wild figs, and between May 15 and 30 from one to three strings, according to the size of the tree, are hung on each fig tree. It is believed that the cynip fly, which is to be found in large numbers in the caprificus, is thus let loose, and helps materially towards the impregnation and fertilization of the fruiting fig, and experience has shown that trees not subjected to this process, or not growing in the immediate vicinity of the wild tree, do not give the same yield and often remain to a great extent sterile. The wild fig begins to turn yellow and drop just as the fruiting fig begins flowering. The natives attach so much importance to these strings of wild figs that in times of scarcity they often procure them from districts hundreds of miles distant and pay high prices for them. Young fruit trees begin fruiting the third year, and the fruit is at once firm enough for drying purposes. No trees give good crops in very poor dry soil, a deep sandy light yellow loam being the best.

The Smyrniotes plough the soil four times a year—three times during winter and once in April, the ploughshare reaching a depth of six inches. Watering is not resorted to except in dry soils, and that only once during the dry months of June and July. In some cases the fig gardens are flooded by the winter rains, which bring down with them from the hillsides a rich deposit of detritus, and the trees are found to benefit very much by such inundations. The fruit commences to ripen about the end of July, and is allowed to drop from the trees as it matures; the drying season is nearly over by the end of September, and the fruit which ripens last is, as a rule, of inferior quality. When collected from under the trees, the fruit is placed on thick dry grass or rushes, to complete its desiccation, no solution being used in the drying process. After some three days' exposure to the sun, it is stacked under cover, whence, as soon as a sufficient quantity has been collected, it is packed in sacks and sent to the market in the town of Smyrna. The fruit is not covered at night while drying, as there are no heavy dews in Smyrna during the months of August and September. Any damp weather, especially rain, is found to be most prejudicial, often souring the fruit and rendering it unfit for eating. During the ripening on the tree the moist west wind during the day and the cool land breeze during the night are highly beneficial, while, on the other hand, the dry north wind is harmful. The north wind, however, is very good for the fruit when ripe on the tree or drying on the ground.

The figs are packed into boxes as soon as they reach the market, sometimes only a day or two after drying. Before being packed each fruit is dipped in sea-water, if procurable, or if not, into salted water. This quickens the sugaring, which is considered so essential in the consuming markets, but is in no way necessary for the preservation of the fruit, which keeps well in the primary state until the following hot season. The pressing, which is always applied by hand only, is done separately as each fig is placed in the box or drum in which they are conveyed to Europe, and the shape is given according to the requirements of the special markets for which they are intended. An average crop is about 75 pounds of dry figs per tree (about 4 pounds of ripe green figs give 1 pound of dry), but the yield varies, according to the tree, from 20 pounds to 120 pounds. The rainfall for the Smyrna district shows very marked variations from year to year, but an average of 20 years gives from 20 to 30 inches, according to the district. The effect of these variations on the fig trees is most marked, dry years giving a yield of small, undeveloped fruit, while rainy seasons give souring and bad-keeping figs.

GUATEMALA COFFEE.

An official report upon coffee in Guatemala says that it "constitutes almost the sole article of export from Guatemala. Thus, in 1894, out of a total value of 20,325,000 piastres of goods exported, the value of coffee alone reached 19,406,000 piastres. The export trade is carried on through the ports of Champerico, San Jose, Ocos and Livingston, and the principal countries of destination are Germany (342,000 quintals in 1894), United States (130,000 quintals), and England (108,000 quintals). Coffee pays an export duty of two piastres, one of which is to be paid in gold (gold paistre equals 5 francs); in 1894 a sum of 1,141,533 piastres was thus raised, plus 594,910 piastres in addition on the exchange on that part payable in gold—making altogether a total of 1,736,443 piastres. The exportation of coffee from Guatemala has not increased much during the past five years. Want of labor is the principal reason of this. The Indian only works when he is obliged, and the experiments with Kanaka and Japanese labor have not yielded good results."

WHERE ARE WE AT?

Under the above caption, The Petroleum Advertiser has this to say:

"Our oil producers are drifting back into the same old rut which has so often proved disastrous to their best interests in the past. We refer to the direct delivery system.

"The tanking companies were formed, with an investment of over $100,000, for the purpose of protecting the producer from any undue advantage which the refiner might take as occasion arose; to promote an exchange where a healthy speculative market would ensure good prices for the raw material; and to gain a fair remuneration for capital invested and brains and labor expended. These companies had a right to expect that their enterprise would be liberally patronized and their object appreciated. Has this been done? What are the producers doing to-day? Have they not already suffered enough from the insane system of direct delivery? It would seem not, for the exchange is practically dead, and direct delivery is once more the order of the day. Do they expect the refiners to pose as philanthropists? As a matter of fact, are they not rather playing with fire? Prices are all right now, and crude is as high as it is advisable to put it, but the time will come when there will be a surplus, and with the exchange abolished, may we not reasonably suppose that the refiners will put down the price to whatever figure they like? The tanking companies and the exchange are the only true safeguards for the producers, and they will some day bitterly regret having so ruthlessly thrown them away."

THAT "FILLED" CHEESE CHARGE.

The North British Agriculturist has made amends, as we anticipated it would, for its baseless charge against Canadian cheese. It says at the close of an explanatory editorial:

There can be absolutely no question whatever as to Canadian cheese being altogether "above suspicion" so far as the use of adulterants is concerned. We again express our regret at having through inadvertence made a grave but wholly unfounded charge—which charge, however, has resulted in emphasising the facts as to the rigorous measures adopted by the Dominion Government, at the instance of the Canadian cheese industry, to preclude the possibility of the adulterated article being manufactured in the Dominion.

The Times, which quoted the charge, also welcomes the refutation. It says:

The hope which we expressed when the statement was first circulated that it would prove unfounded is thus fulfilled, and the prompt action of the Dominion Government in contradicting an erroneous assertion which could not have been other than inimical to the interests of an honestly conducted industry will be welcomed by all who have watched the steady growth of the Cheddar cheese trade of Canada.

Those who wish to see Canadian products take a second place on British markets must beat them in fair and open market. Hitting below the belt does not pay in these days of the telegraph.—Canadian Gazette, London, Eng.

WINNIPEG

WAR PRICES.

Interesting figures as to the high prices charged for the necessities of life at the close of the war of the rebellion are afforded by several old account books recently found hidden away in the attic of his store by grocerman James H. Stivers, Stonington, Ct., according to a contemporary. They are the books of the old Union Association, which was formed in 1858, and conducted the business at the store which ever since that time has been known as the Union store. The business was conducted in the building now occupied by Mr. Stivers.

The first directors of the association were B. F. States, Gurdon B. Smith, Billings Burch, Daniel P. Collins, Gurdon Pendleton and Horace W. Vail. John Moore was the first secretary, and Hiram Shaw was clerk and storekeeper. These officers were elected at a meeting held Feb. 1, 1858.

According to the books just pulled out of the attic, flour was selling at $16 per barrel, kerosene oil at $1 per gallon, molasses at $1.60 per gallon, tea at $1.40 per pound, sugar of the finer grade at 4¼ pounds for $1, lemons 5c. each, and other goods at correspondingly high prices. The books are peculiarly interesting at this time, and a perusal of them leaves upon the mind of the reader a notion that we are not badly off at the present time after all, notwithstanding a year or two of business depression.

It depends on the process . .

Used in the manufacture of salt whether the production is of the highest grade or not. The "Vacuum" process of making salt is the modern improvement on the old "open pan" system. It makes a finer and purer salt, more readily dissolved and very even in crystal. That's why we adopted it. We wanted to drive the imported salts, which the "open pan" system had let in, out of Canada. Not one-twentieth of the amount of imported salt is sold here now, that was eighteen months ago, and in six months more it will be a thing of the past. We can give you a better article, put up in all the ordinary packages for Dairy and Table use. Any traveler can take your order for

J. W. MOORE DEAD.

J. W. Moore, the well-known grocer and dairyman, of Peterboro', Ont., is dead. The deceased was 45 years of age, and was a native of Smith township, where he was born in 1850, being a son of the late Archie Moore. As a young man the deceased learned cheese-making, and, in 1877, foreseeing the future of the cheese industry, he organized the North Smith cheese factory. He operated this factory for two years, and then sold out his interests and removed to Lakefield, where he started the Lakefield factory, which proved a success, and which he continued to manage until he removed to Peterboro' in 1891, and embarked in the grocery business, in connection with which he carried a large stock of supplies. In 1893 Mr. Moore took in C. H. Moore as partner in the business, and the firm have had a successful record. Ten years ago Mr. Moore was the moving spirit in the organization of the Cheese Makers' Association in Peterboro' and Victoria counties, and was its president for several years. As a citizen Mr. Moore was respected and esteemed among a large circle of friends, who will sympathise with the sorrowing wife and six small children who are left to mourn his demise.

THE BEET SUGAR CROP.

Willet & Gray's Statistical: "This week the first estimate of any value has been made of the maturing beet crop. Mr. Geiseker, of Brussels, last year at this early date estimated the crops at 5,070,000 tons, which have finally resulted in 4,846,000 tons, only 224,000 tons out of the way. This close estimate has established for him a reputation as a beet sugar crop expert, which he will no doubt try to maintain this year. Therefore, his first estimate of the present season, 3,687,000 tons, is accepted as of controlling interest to market conditions, inasmuch as it indicates a remarkable deficiency of 1,160,000 tons in the sugar crops of Europe. Such a deficiency, if realized, means a much larger rise in the price of sugar next year than hardly anyone now dreams of. It is only the large visible stocks on hand now which makes the improvement start off at so slow a pace. It will gain momentum enough later on to satisfy the most rampant bull operator."

BUYING, HANDLING AND SELLING OF TEAS.

By W. J. FORMAN, INGERSOLL.

THE buying, handling and selling of teas constitutes trade, and the object of trade should be, and generally is, profit. There is profit in trade to some traders, and with wise methods employed there ought to be profit to all traders. Money has been made, and we believe can be made, by trading in teas; and the difference between the trader who makes money out of tea, and the one who does not, is for the most part a difference of methods rather than a difference of men, although difference in men does count to some considerable extent. We therefore strongly urge, for an assured success, the use of the wisest methods in the buying, handling and selling of teas.

It is an old saying that goods well bought are half sold. We think this is particularly applicable to teas, and believe that a large responsibility for the success of a tea trade depends on the buying. Much care, thought and attention must be devoted here. The buyer should make a study of the different kinds and grades of tea, knowing the colors, forms, flavors, strength and weight of each respective kind. The man who buys his teas by simply chewing a small portion of one and then of another, or by breathing through a portion held in his hand, and then testing the strength and flavor by holding it to his nose, may sometimes buy well, but he is bound to be beaten in competition with the man who carefully draws and compares his tea.

SAMPLING.

In selecting teas, he will have samples from the best of the different sources from which they can be obtained. He should carefully weigh each sample, placing in clean vessels, having each marked to designate the different samples. He should then pour on each the same quantity of freshly-boiled water, noticing how each sample draws, and with a clean spoon test the flavor of the leaves by smell, and the flavor and strength of the liquid by taste. Although we think strength an important point in the value of tea, we believe flavor to be still more important, and think the buyer will wisely be ready to sacrifice a certain amount of strength if he can thereby secure a finer, sweeter or richer flavor. Having found a tea to suit him in flavor, weight, strength and price, the buyer should buy in quantities proportionate to the amount of his trade. Care should be taken to guard against over-buying, preferring rather to take the risk of being able to repeat, equal, or even better it, for it costs money and lessens profits to carry too much stock, whereas a light stock costs less to carry and will allow the buyer to take advantage of some of the many special offerings which are from time to time on the market. It will also allow him, as far as possible, to pay cash, gaining thereby not only the discount for cash, but other advantages in the way of prices, terms, quantities, etc. On receipt of teas, all weights and tares should be checked by invoice, and also by weighing each package separately, making claim for all shortages and allowing for all overweights. Teas should be carefully stored in a dry place, and care taken to keep them free from all dampness, as they lose flavor and become musty when thus exposed. They should be kept in their original packages until required to be brought forward and opened for sale. When thus brought forward for sale they should be kept as much as possible free from exposure, and a good, tight, well-made tin box or chest, with a tight-fitting cover, is far preferable to the wooden chest with the cover removed and loosely put on, thereby allowing deterioration in flavor. Consumers should also be encouraged to keep their tea in tight-covered tin or lead-lined caddies until safely placed in the pot, thereby conserving, as far as possible, all those properties which go to make a cup of good tea.

BLENDING.

Blending of teas is one of the most critical, if not the most critical, parts of the whole trade. It has generally either one of two objects, or perhaps a combination of both: That is, to increase the profit or to join two or more qualities or flavors in one which shall be an improvement on either or any of its constituent parts. A good knowledge of teas with their respective properties, and great care and experience, is required to do this wisely and well. When you have found a blend of teas which suits your trade and customers well, be wise and stick to it as long as your customers are pleased. Do not be continually experimenting with your customers' tastes, or you may, like some good men before you, with best intentions to improve their teas and keep their trade, experiment their trade away. If your customers have any fault to find or suggestion to make, wisely listen to what they have to say, and try to please their individual taste in the way they indicate. It will pay you to know and remember from time to time what that individual taste is.

CLEANLINESS.

It is an old saying that cleanliness is next to godliness; and it is assuredly a fact that cleanliness is a great point in a successful tea trade. Have your store neat and clean. Have your samples shown always fresh and clean. Have your counters scrupulously clean; your scales and weights bright and shining; your paper and bags something different from what you would have for sugar or salt fish, and, if possible, have a tea-mixer; or if you tea must be mixed by hand let the hands be the cleanest of the clean. Be careful in delivering your teas to have them put up in neat tidy parcels, and, if need be, in a box or basket by itself away from coal oil, cheese, butter, lard or fish. Let your customers see that you care for their trade and that you desire to do it in a suitable and proper way, and the probability is you will get it and keep it.

FIXING THE PRICE.

Then as to fixing the prices of your teas: Do not imagine that all the stories you hear about the exorbitant profits on tea are true, and that it is a regular thing for dealers to add a straight one hundred per cent. profit on the cost price, and that if you only add 75 per cent. profit you will be sure to be below all competitors and capture all the trade. No, no; there are some dealers satisfied with 50 per cent. profit. I have actually heard of dealers who have been satisfied with even less than 33⅓ per cent., and they have done a good trade and made money. Many consumers are poor judges of the value of teas, and might be easily deceived, but some consumers are excellent judges of the value, and it is wise to fix the prices of your teas so as to be able to gain the trade of those who know, or think they know, their value. It is well also to have a stated reduction in price for larger quantities, in lots of, say, five, ten or twenty pounds, and to make the saving in price an argument in inducing your customers to buy the larger quantities.

SELLING.

Having your teas well bought, properly cared for, and the prices wisely fixed, the work which means success to the dealer is half done; the selling of them—so as to continue the selling of them from time to time to the same person, and so as to add from time to time new customers and retain them, so as to build up and maintain a successful trade—is the remaining part of the work which requires much care and wisdom. Having put yourself in the position that you believe you are offering the people such good value for their money that you can afford to talk about it, do not fail to talk about it; that is, advertise. Write bright, crisp advertisements. Catch the eye in some way; in many ways. Then talk to them about tea—your tea. Reason with them kindly. Invite them to come and see you—to see and try your teas. Change your advertisement often as to matter, and keep at it until you have them all trying and buying your teas. Then keep at it to keep them buying your teas. Let them be bright and well written. Keep a supply distributed through your store, and when a customer buys a can of salmon or a bottle of pickles slip inside of your paper wrapper one of your dodgers telling about your teas. Keep displayed prominently in your store attractive signs; such as: "We Sell Teas," "Try Our Teas," "The Cup that Cheers," "New Season's Teas," etc., and others which might be suggested. Have in places where they will be sure to be seen and where they can be reached and tasted samples of some leading lines with the prices attached. In your window displays keep your teas prominently before the public in an attractive way. Have done up in neat small packages samples of leading lines with prices marked. Find out from customers who do not buy tea from you what kind they use and price they pay, and enclose with their parcels a sample of your best at same price, calling their attention to it at the time, remembering to enquire at their next call how they liked it. If any fault is found try and rectify it in another tea, and give another sample, counting not the trouble if you can make a customer. Keep yourself well informed by subscribing for and reading the best trade journals, and there is no good reason why you should not make a success of buying, handling, and selling of teas.

CHANGES IN THE FISH TRADE.

By W. A. R.

Evolution and the transaction of trade under new conditions is the rule in the business world at present. There is no branch to which this applies more emphatically than the interior Canadian fish trade.

Ten or twelve years ago it was the usual thing for Montreal fish dealers to handle from 30,000 to 40,000 barrels of pickled fish in a season. This condition of affairs has been so entirely altered that when there are 3,000 barrels of pickled fish on the Montreal market it is considered a glut.

In those days a big percentage of the entries at the Montreal Custom House came from the fleets of fishing schooners that came direct from the barreling establishments with their cargoes of pickled fish. Improved communications and a more fastidious palate educated to a taste for fresh fish, or fish specially prepared, refuses to be satisfied with the coarse, pickled herring, etc., of our grandfathers' days. Nowadays fish just freshly caught, with the ocean taste almost on it, can be delivered on tables hundreds of miles inland eighteen or twenty hours after being caught. This great fact, assisted by the many different kinds of prepared fish, smoked, boned and otherwise, that are offered to the consumer, has almost killed the trade in pickled fish.

In Quebec and Eastern Canada the consumption is largely supplied with fresh salt-water fish; which are shipped from St. John, St. Andrews and other points at 4 p. m., and delivered at Montreal, Sherbrooke, Quebec, and some points in Eastern Ontario also, early the following morning. These fish come through by express in iced cars from the seaboard during the summer months, one icing being found sufficient to land them fresh and sweet at their destination.

In the winter season the demand in Quebec is largely supplied with frozen fish, herring and mackerel principally, which is sent forward by freight. This supply of fresh fish naturally gets the preference in Quebec, but there is quite a demand also for finnan haddies, boneless cod, Yarmouth bloaters and kippered herring.

For their fresh fish supplies fish eaters in Ontario largely depend on the yield of the fresh-water lakes, such as trout, whitefish, bass, pickerel and sturgeon. Very little of these fish go east during the summer season, but in winter they supply a portion of the Quebec demand. They are exported to the States also quite largely.

Another source of supply for fresh fish, both for Ontario and Quebec, is British Columbia. Salmon from that province is sent across the continent, kept constantly iced, by express and delivered in the east in six days. The carrying charge alone is 7c. per lb., but despite this fact there is a fairly large demand for these Pacific Coast salmon. The great bulk of them not required by the canneries, however, are taken by American buyers.

If Canadian capitalists were enterprising we would have a ship like this in a fast Atlantic service out of Montreal.

THE SCIENCE OF ADVERTISING.

By W. L. E.

BY NO means monopolized by medicine, geology, botany, astronomy, biology, ethnology, physiology, etc., is the use of the word science: Accessories to business have become prefixed with it. We hear of the science of buying, the science of selling, the science of bookkeeping, and last, but not least, the science of advertising. It is this last-named science that I propose briefly to deal with.

To term advertising a science is not a misnomer. It is a science. It was not always considered important enough to be styled such; but the greatest of our sciences were not deemed important enough at one time to be classed in the field of science. It was as men, and generations of men, investigated them that they became thus classified. With advertising it is the same thing. Advertising followed in the wake of the art of printing. But the science of advertising has not kept pace with the art of printing. And it was because the eyes of the people were holden that they could not see the advantages that accrued therefrom. Advertising was a thing not to be encouraged. It was merely throwing money away—and allow me to remark that, judging from much of the advertising of days of yore, much money was thrown away. This was, in substance, the way the majority of people argued. And I am free to confess that there are still some of this species extant; but where they were once the majority they have become the minority, and a small minority at that.

Much of this marked change has come over the commercial world during the last twenty-five years. During the last ten years the evolution has been particularly marked. In the large mercantile houses, retail as well as wholesale, there are men employed whose special duty it is to write the advertisements, while there are experts in the large commercial centres who earn their livelihood by designing and preparing for the press the advertisements of a series of firms.

With the recognition of advertising as a science is the further realization that it is one of the essentials to success in business, just as is bookkeeping, etc. And by and-by it will be one of the subjects taught in the commercial colleges, as is the science of keeping books now.

The first essential to successful advertising is to make the announcement as attractive as possible. An advertisement something after this style may have some value if Jones & Co. happens to be a new firm:

JONES & CO.

GROCERS, ETC.

49 Plank St. BLANKVILLE

We keep in stock sugar, tea, raisins, currants, coffee, canned goods, etc., etc.

Call before going elsewhere.

Whether the firm advertising in this style is new or old the advertisement is of little or no value. Every grocer has sugar, tea, etc., in his store. The consumer does not need to be told where he can buy these things. What he is looking for is a place where he can get an article of particular quality or price, or variety. But granted that Jones & Co. is a new firm, it is obvious that it is of little value to them or anyone else. Supposing the firm is a new one, would not an announcement something like this have more effect?

Announcement

Dear Madam,

We beg to advise that we have opened up a new Grocery Establishment in the Vaughn Block, next door to Stirrett & Co.'s dry goods store, and respectfully solicit your esteemed patronage.

THE NEW GROCERY

We trust that by keeping a good, clean stock of superior goods, and conscientiously employing our best efforts to establish a sound and satisfactory business, we may merit your valued support.

We purpose conducting our business on a strictly cash basis, as we feel that in doing so we can better serve the interests of our customers and maintain a better stock.

Obediently yours,

The Ewing Bros.

As the character of a man is known by his works, so the measure of a merchant's brightness can often be gauged by the character of an advertisement. The firm of Ewing Bros. is evidently composed of bright men. The arrangement of their "ad." is excellent and the subject matter terse and to the point.

Before a man can be really termed an adept at advertising he must know how to construct his announcements. And this means more than the mere putting of words together. In a word, he should know how the advertisement should be "set up" by the compositor in order that the best results may be obtained. Therefore, in writing an "ad." he should endeavor as far as possible to convey to the compositor the character of the advertisement he wants: how it should be displayed, and what parts should be particularly emphasised. Many a good advertisement has been killed at its birth because of incompetence in bringing it forth.

An advertisement to be attractive must be interesting. Here are a couple of samples which may serve as ideas for ad-smithing:

HOW SPICES ARE ADULTERATED.

GOVERNMENTAL inspection and the cheapness of the pure article have done much of late years towards decreasing the practice of adulterating food products. Still, as everyone knows, adulteration is still practised to some extent.

A few days ago I fell into conversation with a well-known spice manufacturer regarding this very subject. Coffee, baking powder and pepper were the particular articles treated upon.

"In Boston, he said, in reply to a query of mine, "there is a concern which manufactures coffee beans. It is a large concern. The way in which it makes the artificial bean is, briefly, this: Cereals, such as peas and rye, are first roasted to the color of coffee. This done, they are reduced to powder by a milling process. The powder thus obtained is mixed with a small percentage of plaster of paris. The decoction formed from the union of the cereal and plaster of paris is next put through a machine, which molds it into beautifully regular roasted coffee beans, even the little white mark which is in the centre of the natural bean being faithfully reproduced. This manufactured bean sells in the United States at 3c. per pound. When mixed with the genuine roasted coffee the spurious bean cannot be detected until you happen to try one between your teeth. You will detect it then soon enough."

"The use of this bean makes easy, then, the reduction in the price of coffee," I ventured.

"Well, yes. The genuine whole roasted coffee, say at 30c. per pound, can be brought down to a pretty low figure when the manufactured bean is used."

"Is the spurious bean used much?"

"In the United States lately, on account of the higher prices obtaining for Rio coffee, there has been, I understand, an increased consumption of the made bean. These Boston made beans are brought into Canada occasionally, but the duty of 2c. per lb. and 10 per cent. ad valorem does not encourage its importation. Coffee is, of course, adulterated with other foreign substances besides the made bean. Acorns are used sometimes when the coffee is being ground. Acorns for this purpose come largely from Germany, and they can be laid down on this side of the Atlantic at about 4c. per pound. In the Southern States bullock's liver is used a great deal in the adulteration of coffee, the liver being first dried and then worked into the coffee as it is being passed through the mill. Oh, no; there is no liver-adulterated coffee in Canada."

Speaking of baking powder, my informant said: "Terra alba is probably more used than anything else in the adulteration of baking powder. There is any amount of stuff sold as cream of tartar that contains 10 per cent. cream of tartar, 50 per cent. terra alba and 40 per cent. alum. The cost of terra alba is about 1c. per pound. There, that is terra alba," added my informant, as he pointed to a glassy-looking clay pipe lying on a near-by desk. "What is known as commercial pure cream of tartar often contains 10 or 12 per cent. of lime. There is, however, really pure cream of tartar on the market, and this can be got from first-class and reputable houses."

"What about pepper?" I queried.

"One way of adulterating pepper is with cocoanut shells. The cocoanut shells are first roasted; to what extent is determined by the proportion of the darkness which is to be imported to the pepper. Buckwheat middlings and pea hulls are also sometimes used. A great deal of the adulterated pepper that is used in this country is brought in from the United States. The adulteration of pepper is, however, not carried on to the extent it formerly was: where ten barrels of adulterants were formerly used, there is probably not more than one now, genuine pepper now being so cheap, while manufacturers are now watching each other so closely that it is more risky to adulterate. And this may be said of not only pepper, but of spices generally."

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS' GRIEVANCE.

"YOU may talk about a Kentuckian not knowing what water is, but I'll be blessed if a stranger traveling in certain parts of Ontario would not come to the conclusion that some of the people there did not."

These somewhat strong words were addressed to me the other day by a commercial traveler of fifteen years' experience. He is well known, and while he takes a little "something" for his stomach's sake occasionally, he likes a tumbler of water without a stick in it better than he does when the stick is in it.

"I am not joking," he continued. "I am speaking the truth. In country hotels north of Toronto you can seldom get water for any purpose. I declare you cannot in 75 per cent. of them. And this applies to hotels in towns of 6,000 as well as those in hamlets. Ask the girl waiting on the table for a glass of water, and she will look at you with as much surprise as would a waiter in a Kentucky hotel. 'Water?' she'll repeat. And if she does go to the pump and get it for you, you'll be a sorry man, nine times out of ten, that you ever asked for water before she gets through with you: for the rest of the meal she'll throw things at you as if you were a wild animal. Some of the girls do not know better: The onus is upon the proprietors. Now I like my porridge, but I'll tell you I would rather forego my porridge than a tumbler of pure water before breakfast. In the bar water is as scarce as it is in the dining room. A traveler coming in from a long drive naturally wants a glass of water, but you'll look for it in vain in the bar-room. Why, do you know there are lots of hotels where you can't get water for your whisky. The bartender will tell you he has soda water or ginger ale if you ask for water. The rule I have adopted is this: If I want a glass of gin or whisky on retiring I first ask, 'Have you any water?' If the bartender says 'No' I take nothing; if he says 'Yes,' I take the whisky or gin just as the case may be. This is of course when I am sick. Then you go to your bedroom, and the chances are you'll find the water jug empty. Complain about it, and you'll be told that it was 'full this morning.' And should you happen to have caught a cold, as the result of a long drive, and wanted a pail of hot water, you'd have to wait: You couldn't get it to save your soul. I often get hot; that is, my temper does."

"Goodness knows, there is plenty of water in the country," I interposed.

"Yes, there is, but it is not in the hotels; and when it does occasionally get in, it is seldom fit to drink, either because of a dirty well or a foul vessel. Why, my dear fellow, the little water that you do get in a country hotel has 'bead' enough to say your prayers on. You don't appreciate the joke," he added; "we Catholics use beads in saying our prayers."

A TALE OF SIX CITIES:

MONTREAL, TORONTO,

HAMILTON, LONDON,

HALIFAX, ST. JOHN.

MONTREAL, THE COMMERCIAL METROPOLIS.

By W. A. R.

FEW branches of commerce bear so striking testimony to the advance in business methods as the grocery trade. The evolution in the past half century would startle the old grocery men of fifty years ago. One of the most noticeable and commendable advances has been in the direction of beautifying business premises. The day of the old-fashioned dingy warehouse is gone by and now offices and sample rooms are resplendent in plate glass and polished brass, so that the eye as well as the taste of a customer is appealed to. The premises of the leading houses in the trade in Montreal bear striking evidence to this fact. At the present time there are some thirty firms engaged in the business, either in staple and heavy groceries, groceries and liquors or grocers' sundries. These firms have from $3,500,000 to $4,000,000 invested in the business, and their individual turnover ranges from the million-dollar point down to $100,000 per year. A good idea of the aggregate quantity of groceries turned over may be gathered from the Custom House figures. These show that the total value of groceries, etc., entered for consumption at Montreal in 1894 was $9,000,000. This means that the Montreal grocery houses handled these goods. They were not doing very badly therefore on their investment of $4,000,000, especially as the goods of domestic manufacture handled, which must have amounted to nearly as much more, are not counted in the above amount.

During the past fifty years there have been many changes in business methods and practices. In the old days most of the wholesale houses in Montreal dealt in wines and liquors as well as groceries. Nowadays the houses that carry on a wine and liquor as well as grocery trade are the exception to the rule. In fact, if the French wholesale firms are left out of consideration, all the Old Country firms confine their attention to groceries alone. With the French firms, however, wines and liquors is an extensive and important branch of their trade. Forty or fifty years ago, in the golden days of "good, solid profits," as a member of one of the oldest established firms put it, wines and liquors was an important branch with almost every house in the trade. Importers then got all their supplies from Great Britain, and confined their attention to staples, such as sugars, teas, spices, etc. Many articles that are considered common necessities now were absolutely unheard of then. There was no canned goods, etc., to be sold on "close margins"; in fact the old leaders in the trade did not believe in doing business for the fun of the thing.

Many firms doing a large and profitable business in the forties have long since ceased to be known as active members of the trade. Perhaps two of the most prominent of these old firms in the years from 1845 to 1875 were Gillespie, Moffatt & Co. and John Torrance & Co. Both had their warehouses on St. Paul street near Custom House square. Other well known firms who flourished about the same period were Buchanan & Harris, Jos. Tiffin, Hutchins & Proctor (afterwards C. D. Proctor alone), and Robertson, Hutchins & Co. This latter firm, through its descendants, was practically in business until a year ago. It was the predecessor and founder of the business afterwards carried on by Robertson & Beattie; Robertson, Lightbound & Co., and, finally, Lightbound, Ralston & Co., who very recently wound up their affairs.

A few of the houses now in existence can trace back an experience of fifty years, and between the time that the "old guard" already referred to fell out of the ranks and the present day quite a number of firms had a brief but unsuccessful existence. Of the firms at present actively engaged in trade, that of J. A. Mathewson & Co. has the honor of being the oldest. It was founded away back in 1834 by Mr. Samuel Mathewson, Sr., and in 1841 Mr. J. A. Mathewson, Sr., the present leading partner, assumed the chief direction. He now has his three sons associated with him. Next in point of age is the business now conducted by the firm of Hudon, Hebert & Co. The founders of this firm were E. and V. Hudon, who started in business in the year 1837. Kinloch, Lindsay & Co. take rank as the third oldest house in the trade. Mr. Kingan and the present senior partner, Mr. Kinloch, founded the business in 1843. Mr. J. A. Mathewson, therefore, and Mr. Kinloch are the two patriarchs of the trade, but Mr. W. B. Lindsay, the latter's junior partner, can remember how groceries were sold in the fifties and early sixties. Lockerby Bros. is another house that can date its life back over forty years. D. Masson & Co. and L. Chaput, Sons & Co. are also qualified to be numbered with the "old guard." Geo. Childs & Co. date back 31 years.

It is interesting to contrast the methods of buying goods in the old days, as described by the old-timers, with those in vogue now. Forty years ago a buyer had to stock up twice a year. Retailers came to town in the spring and fall, and placed their orders themselves. There were no railways or the indefatigable drummer to see that wants were supplied as required. It was the same with the jobber. He had to provide supplies for his business on the spring and fall fleets, and, naturally, those two periods meant lively times in the old days. Payments were largely by a system of barter.

Potash was the great equivalent for money in the forties and fifties. A country merchant came to town, bought his supply of stock, and then sent his jobber a lot of potash in return. The jobber sent this to the public store. It was graded there as firsts or seconds, as the case might be, sold at the ruling prices, and the amount realized either discharged the country merchant's debt, or if not sufficient to do so was placed to his credit. The volume of this potash business, when the country was more wooded than it is now, may be gathered from the fact that in a single week the receipts frequently amounted to 5,000 barrels.

There was no great hurry about collecting either in the good old days. Firms like Gillespie, Moffatt & Co. and John Torrance & Co. sent a collector around twice a year. Each firm had its own particular circle of customers, and as there appeared to be enough to go round, there was none of the cut-throat tactics frequently resorted to nowadays.

TORONTO, THE QUEEN CITY.

By W. L. E.

NO need to be ashamed of its history has the wholesale grocery trade of Toronto. Of purely wholesale grocery houses in the "Queen City" there are eleven. This does not include, of course, the large number of grocery brokers, some of whom carry stock; nor does it include the jobbing houses that sell to small storekeepers, farmers, etc. The aggregate capital of these eleven houses is nearly $1,500,000, or an average of $136,363 each. And there is not a weak house among them.

The position to which the grocery trade of Toronto has attained is of comparatively modern development. There are men alive to-day who can remember when it was in its swaddling clothes.

Thirty-five or forty years is not a long time, and yet it is practically during that period that the wholesale grocery trade of Toronto has developed to what it is to-day.

Forty years ago the wholesale grocery trade of Toronto was in the hands of a couple of firms. These firms were: F. & G. Perkins (now Perkins, Ince & Co.) and Howland & Fitch. Commercial travelers there were none in those days. What a void there would be were we to again suddenly lapse back into that condition of affairs! I doubt that there is a merchant in the broad Dominion that would welcome it, nuisance and all as he may consider the drummer. His worst wish, probably, is that there were fewer of them. Country merchants in that day came to the city in person and bought their supplies. And I cannot refrain from remarking parenthetically that it is a pity they have now gone so much to the other extreme. In most instances, especially in the winter, purchasers took their goods away with them by teams. "Frequently, in fact nearly always," remarked an old-timer to me some time since, "the storekeeper would come into the city with his load of farm and dairy produce, which he had obtained in trade with his customers. His load disposed of, he would then visit the wholesale house, make his purchases, load them on his wagon or sleigh, and wend his way homeward." There was no attempt at secrecy in those days, and there is no need of it to-day: the principal beverage these early storekeepers carried home was not that which cheers but does not inebriate, the chief beverage to-day: It was whiskey. And some of my old friends have repeatedly assured me that it was better than the whiskey of to-day. "A man could drink a gallon of it and get up in the morning with a head as clear as a bell." I am not speaking from experience. It is what I have been told.

The difference in values then and now is by no means the least of the interesting features of the grocery trade. Sugars that sell wholesale to-day at about $3\frac{1}{4}$ c. per pound were then worth 8 to 9c., and sometimes even 10c. White sugars worth $4\frac{1}{4}$ c. to-day sold at from 12 to 15c. per pound.

In regard to teas. The aim of the retailer in those days, I am informed, was to get a tea that he could sell at 50c. per pound. "That tea," said my informant, "was of about the same quality that now retails at 30c. But about the time of the rebellion in the United States," he added, "teas doubled in value.

In fact, I have sold Young Hysons at $1.10 per pound and Gunpowders at $1.30 per pound."

Seated under a shady tree one day, I was relating this particular conversation to an old friend of mine, when he remarked:

"I can remember when tea retailed at $1 per pound in country places, and yet people, especially the Irish, would have it. And I can tell you this: there were no bad teas in those days. Coffee beans then we used to brown in the fry-pan."

Foreign dried fruits 40 years ago were also much higher than they are to-day. Currants ran up to 25c. per pound, and it was difficult to get them at that price. The nice handy packages in which currants now come to hand were unknown in those days. The package then was what is known as the caroteel; and it held nearly half a ton of currants. Bulky as these caroteels were, they kept the currants in good condition. During years of scarcity currants that were three and four years old were sold on this market, which, except for two or three inches around the outer edges, were in excellent condition. Currants were in these pre-railway days brought by vessels to the city and unloaded at the old market wharf.

Valencia raisins were a scarce commodity on the Toronto market four and five decades ago. The Sultana was the principal raisin then used for cooking. When Valencia raisins began to come into general consumption they ranged in price, I am told, from 9 to 12c. per pound. Forty years ago prunes, both Bosnia and French, were but little seen on this market.

The wholesale grocer of half a century ago carried such a diversity of stock that he was in reality scarcely entitled to be termed a wholesale grocer. Wholesale general merchant, it seems to me, is a more appropriate term. Besides groceries, he handled spades, shovels, powder, shot, chain, nails, spikes, glass, putty, paints, oils and numerous other articles that are to-day foreign to a wholesale grocer's stock.

But great as was the diversity of the wholesale grocer's business then, in volume to-day it is much larger, although less diversified. There is one thing, however: the profits were much greater and the expenses infinitely less.

"You made a great deal more money then?" I ventured one day in conversation with an old-time wholesaler.

"Yes," he replied slowly, "we made much more money. But there were failures then just as now."

"A great deal of business was done on credit those days, was there not," I further queried.

"O, yes; a great deal. The bulk of the sales we made were on credit. Why, it was considered nothing unreasonable or unusual for a man to pay 25 to 50 per cent. of his note when it fell due and get a renewal for the remaining 75 or 50 per cent. of his indebtedness. Present profits, I can tell you, would never stand such custom. I do not think that more than from 5 to 10 per cent. of our sales were for cash, while at present 70 to 80 per cent. are cash. Failures in those days were I think relatively as numerous as they are now. And then, as now, complaints were common that there were too many in business."

Speaking to an old shipper regarding freights he said: "Before the railways most of our carrying was done by teams, and the cost of carriage was not really so very much greater than it is to-day: The regular rate for 30 to 40 miles was 25c. per 100 lbs. I remember that well."

ST. JOHN, THE LUMBER CITY.

By J. H. W.

IN a short article on the grocery trade of a city covering the changes of forty to fifty years it is hard to know where to begin. The faces to be met are almost all new. Perhaps Mr. Hall, of Hall & Fairweather, is the man longest and still actively connected with this business in St. John. From year to year the faces change. Besides the house already named, those of Gilbert Bent and Geo. S. De Forest & Son are the oldest. Many large firms have passed away, and many have started and dropped out. The following are well remembered by the older ones: William Hammond, L. H. DeVeber & Sons, A. W. Masters, W. D. & H. A. Austin, James Donville & Co., C. & T. Robinson, J. & W. F. Harrison, White Bros., Turnbull & Co., and others.

Then the manner of doing business has so changed. Fifty years ago takes us back to the time when all goods came here by water, and by sailing vessels at that. For the business of our city in general these were, however, good days, as our money was made, and in many cases made fast, in lumber and wooden ships, both building and sailing the latter. Then there were no telegraph, railroad, telephone, commercial traveler or broker. Business came to the merchant, the competition not being as keen as now. Profits were better, and larger quantities changed hands in single transactions. In fact, there was what is to-day termed wholesale trade, with the opportunity of getting goods daily. Liquor was never as much kept by general dealers in St. John as elsewhere. And in later years, when, in many cities, the wholesale liquor and grocery business were combined, no large wholesale grocer in St. John was found carrying on the two. The larger part of our goods came from the United States, although we brought in a great quantity of merchandise from England.

The first oil used in St. John was of Canadian origin, and was to some extent manufactured here. Cheese is largely a new line. Match manufacturing, too, is of recent origin. Perhaps nothing is more noticeable than the fact that the bulk of the goods now bought are Canadian, and in many cases manufactured in our own province. The goods of to-day are much better and cheaper. Perhaps no new line is so widely known in the market as canned goods, business in which has developed wonderfully. Let us look at some other goods. Take flour. First, it was such American brands as "Reindeer" and "Napier." Then came such Canadian brands as "Howland's Choice" and "Tea Rose." The quality of flour has much improved, while prices are lower, though at all times prices have varied a great deal. Our best flour (Manitoba) is one of the new lines. In the old days almost equal quantities of rye and wheat flour were sold. Going back, say, twenty-five years, one of the largest flour dealers at that time, talking to me, said for three years they sold over 100,000 barrels each year, and sales of 500 to 1,000 were more frequently made than now, while in all lines it was much more easy to unload goods quickly. The terms were three months' note, with interest. In cornmeal, it was all American, while to-day the importations are very light. The prices do not show much change. In sugar, the price is not one-third what it was. Much larger quantities of West India sugar were then used. Quantities were brought from the United States and England, while a large proportion of the granulated, or white, sugar was Dutch. Now it is all Canadian, and very largely the output of our own province. In tobacco, the line has all changed. At first it was American, while now it is Canadian. An odd feature in the tobacco business is that one dealer for years had almost a monopoly, but, of late, others are working in. Vinegar was also early imported from the States, while now it is all Canadian, with a fair proportion manufactured in St. John. Prices now average about 10 cents per gallon lower than forty or fifty years ago. In fish the quantity handled is not nearly as large as, say, thirty years ago. And then a great many more fish were cured here. The fact that less fish are now handled is accounted for when one remembers that St. John is not the distributing centre that is was then. There are many reasons why it is not. In the first place the many railroads take goods direct to the stores of the merchant through the province from first hands; and then there are now other wholesale centres, as St. Stephen, Fredericton and Moncton. These not only cause the volume of business here to be smaller, but many goods sold by merchants never come here, going direct from the mill or other first hands to the buyer. In apples the quantity handled is also less. One merchant told me he had seen as many as nine thousand barrels in the market-slip on schooners from Nova Scotia at one time. Now, such a thing is practically unheard of.

A SCENE NEAR ST. JOHN.

In the wholesale grocery trade the capital invested here would be somewhere about $500,000. It is very hard to make a close statement. Many merchants have made money, though it is a regrettable fact that many of the older and larger houses failed. But in most cases the cause was the placing of money in other ventures. Our own province is now supplying our market with cheese; and more this year is being made than the local market will be able to take care of. Matches is another article of which the demand is supplied by local manufacture. Domestic packed pork and smoked meats are very largely used, and the quality, except heavy packed pork, is fully equal to anything we import. A goodly quantity was imported in the past, which is now largely supplanted by the home article and it gives as good satisfaction. The best quality of ground spice sold here is all, as a rule, the output of either Nova Scotia or New Brunswick mills.

We boast here of possessing, relatively, a greater number of fine grocery stores than any other city in the Dominion. In business methods we are well up to date. And in all movements in the Maritime Provinces for the organization of business men's associations, having in view the obliteration of out-of-date systems and the inauguration of those newer and better, St. John, N.B., has not taken second place.

THE GROCER'S MECHANICAL DEPARTMENT MANAGERS.

LONDON, THE FOREST CITY.

BY AN EX-GROCER.

THAT little book of Bellamy's has been called by critics a beautiful dream, and, like all such dreams, a vain anticipation of the future. Were I to review the past, noting the wondrous changes, even during the last half century, and then reflect that every century, or part of a century, is but one of preparation for the following one, and those changes are but forecasts of what is yet to come, I am almost tempted to think that Bellamy's picture of a New Era may not be so shadowy after all.

Let me take you back fifty years and review a few of the improvements in the grocery line of London and its neighborhood. At that time, in Western Ontario, the old log cabin store was still doing duty, though it was being superseded by the more pretentious frame structure. The log cabin store was a unique affair, built of logs hewn on the outside, the gables being clap-boarded, seldom lined or plastered on the inside. There was no lack of ventilation. The store fittings and equipments were primitive in the extreme, and like the store itself entirely devoid of paint. The shelving was made of rough lumber and supported by pegs driven into the wall. The counter was also roughly but strongly built and was generally used as a seat by the customers and loungers who frequented the store. Here they sat and discussed the topics of the day, many of them either smoking or chewing tobacco; and when the crowd was unusually large, a soap box or a barrel of salt was pressed into service. The box stove occupied a central position and served the double purpose of heater and spittoon.

Groceries then only formed a part of a general stock, and the grocery stock consisted of tea, sugar, rice, raisins, currants, unground spices, salt, tobacco, snuff, indigo, madder, chalk, matches and whisky (the latter being a staple). The merchant, when engaging a clerk, did not inquire as to his activity as a grocery salesman, for if he could handle the other lines carried, the groceries would take care of themselves.

Such was the older brother of the departmental store of to-day, but the old chap was a business fellow, and kept his departments well in hand, securing a profit from each, while his younger brother runs one department to advertise another.

When we compare the stores and stocks of fifty years ago with those of to-day we find that the improvement has been very marked. The old log or frame buildings have been replaced by beautiful, commodious structures, and the old 7 by 9 window by a handsome plate-glass front, while the interior fittings and equipments are not only convenient but, in many cases, very costly; so much so, that the habitual lounge of old, finding the surroundings so changed, has transferred his allegiance and his presence to humbler quarters.

The London of to-day has good reason to be proud of her grocery houses. To my mind she has the finest all-round retail grocery stores in the Dominion. Toronto and Montreal have undoubtedly a few stores which surpass anything we have in London; but, taking it on the whole, I do not hesitate to claim for the "Forest City" the premiership in this respect. London's grocery stores look like grocery stores, and modern ones at that. Around the centre of the city you see few, if any, of those dirty, one-horse affairs that are to be met with in other cities. The London grocer knows his business. This fact is exhibited by the manner in which he conducts his business and arranges his store. But while London's grocers have made the stores, the country has made the grocers. What I mean is that London is the centre of one of the best agricultural districts of Canada, and it is to it that the farmers from a radius of twenty-five miles come for the bulk of their groceries. The "Forest City," on its principal market days, is a scene not soon to be forgotten.

But great as has been the change in the grocery stores of London, the revolution in prices is not less marked. To establish proof of this it is not necessary for me to glance back more than thirty years. Here are the comparisons:

GROWING FIGS IN CANADA.

By F. D. L. S.

Y MANY Canadians, but more especially by those outsiders who are accustomed to look upon British North America as a land of perpetual ice and snow, the statement that in some parts of the Dominion fruits and vegetables indigenous to tropical or semi-tropical countries can be grown in the open air will be considered surprising. Such, nevertheless, is the case; for figs, exotic grapes, peanuts and yams or sweet potatoes have been for years, and are still, grown within our borders. Up to date these articles have been cultivated only for fancy's sake by an enthusiastic horticulturist or two here and there, but, taking the experience of these as a basis for the assertion, it is safe to say that all four can be grown here at a commercial advantage.

When, hereafter, fig culture becomes an acknowledged thing in Canada there is one gentleman who will always be looked upon as the father of the industry—namely, Mr. Henry Paffard, of Niagara-on-the-Lake. Mr. Paffard is an ardent gardener, and finds time outside of the hours he devotes to mercantile and official duties—for he is the chief druggist in the Niagara peninsula and Mayor of his town—to give considerable attention to one of the prettiest and best kept little fruit areas to be seen anywhere. Into this garden, the fame of which has led such men as Lord Lansdowne and the late Senator Plumb to visit it, the writer the other day had a peep.

The first thing to attract my attention on entering was a row of beautiful dark-foliaged trees, varying from 10 to 14 feet in height, and spreading out their branches like banyan trees. When Mr. Paffard informed me that these were fig trees, and called my attention to the green and half-ripe fruit with which they were laden, I became interested indeed, and asked for more information, which he very kindly gave, and which I here produce in part for the benefit of my readers.

About 25 years ago a citizen of Niagara by the name of Nash had some fig plants in tubs in his hot-house, which during the warm weather he stood in the open air. Mr. Paffard, who even then had developed a penchant for fruit culture, seeing these plants cramped in tubs and never coming to anything, determined to try the experiment of growing figs in the open air. He got some roots from Mr. Nash and planted them. The roots sprouted, the sprouts grew into trees, and in a couple of years the trees bore their first fruits. The species he chose were the hardiest, and the earliest to ripen, viz., the White Ischia, and the Brown Turkey, and every summer for 22 years the trees have all borne a full crop. Each tree I should estimate bears two or three bushels a year, and a peculiarity about the fruit is that it comes to maturity and ripens continually from July until October, so that all summer long one can have delicious ripe figs hanging from the branches ready to be plucked.

Mr. Paffard considers the fig tree the surest and most prolific producer he knows. It never misses a year, and it seems to be affected by no disease or insect of any kind. The only measure of precaution he takes is to bend down the ends of the branches every winter, and cover them with earth for fear of some particularly heavy frost. To facilitate this he each year cuts out the bigger wood of the tree, leaving the younger branches to be fruitful and multiply, which scriptural injunction they faithfully obey, by the way. The fruit grows to the size of an ordinary pear, and may be used raw, stewed or preserved in sugar. To show how hardy the fig plant is it need only be said that a small piece of the root of an uprooted tree, which was accidentally left in the ground, sprouted and became a tree itself, and now bears good fruit every year. A piece of wood cut from any part of the tree, in fact, if stuck in the earth, will grow, after the manner of the Canadian willow.

Mr. Paffard has received diplomas and awards of merit for his figs from the Philadelphia World's Fair and the Imperial Institute at London, and some of his fruit also attracted considerable attention at the Chicago Exposition. He is of the opinion that figs can be successfully cultivated on a large scale in any district where peaches can be grown, such as the Niagara peninsula, the counties of Essex and Kent and the Lake Huron peach belt.

In this same garden I saw some splendid specimens of exotic grapes, of which Mr. Paffard is a successful cultivator. His finest exotics are the Black Hamburgs, the Bowood Muscats, the Golden Chassilas, and the Chassilas de Fontainebleau. Some single bunches of these measure ten inches in length, and weigh from 3 to 3½ lbs. The only pains he takes with these vines is to cover them with earth during the cold weather.

It is in this same Niagara peninsula that sweet potatoes and peanuts are successfully grown. The possibilities of this and other sections of Canada in this direction may be enormous, and we hope that some enterprising men will try their hand at raising at least one or two of the four articles of commerce we have mentioned.

IS YOUR STORE CLEAN?

Few stores, remarks American Grocer, are kept scrupulously clean. Is yours? Is the floor as bright as soft soap, water and elbow grease can make it? A clean floor adds to the tone of the entire store. It is the best paying sort of an advertisement, an index to the stock, and indicative of a high-class service. Have you noticed that heavy, damp, overpowering, musty odor that characterizes many stores when the door is first opened of a summer morning? The stock has been shut up with a dirty floor for ten or twelve hours; the warm temperature and lack of circulation has made the atmosphere heavy and disagreeable. A clean floor and a current of fresh air at night will avoid that trouble and keep the stock in perfect condition. It follows that the grocer who keeps his store bright also keeps scales, counters and fixtures as bright as a new dollar. Try scrupulous cleanliness as a trade winner.

It's Not So Much

How Much You Pay

But It's What You Get For What You Pay

Ask the energetic grocer the cause of his steadily increasing tea trade, and there is but one answer—"We sell Ram Lal's Pure Indian Tea, no other brand will please our customers." These goods require no comment from us. The public have long sat in judgment upon this brand. The verdict is universal—"They outclass all competitors; they are never used only to be appreciated."

For years the question has been asked, "Is it not possible to procure a higher grade of coffee than any of the brands now offering?" That question we answered three months ago by placing on the market the celebrated MECCA Brand, a selection of earth's choicest productions.

At that time we had some doubts as to the accuracy of that answer; to-day it is accepted as a universal fact. Every mail brings us, from all points of the Dominion, duplicate orders, attesting to the excellence of these goods. The popularity of the MECCA Coffee has surprised us in excess of all anticipations. We want every reader of THE GROCER to order one tin of these goods as a sample and be convinced. By handling this brand you will have a distinct advertising advantage over your competitors, who are committing business suicide by endeavoring to palm off inferior goods. These goods are carefully packed in 25-lb. tins. Sample sent by express, charges prepaid.

We are also controllers of the very popular brand of coffee, DAMASCUS, which is meeting with considerable favor and is of very fine quality. Ask for prices.

SCOTLAND'S GREAT INDUSTRY.

HAVE any of the readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER ever heard of the fishing village of Fraserburgh, in Scotland, founded in the sixteenth century by Sir Alexander Fraser, of Philorth, from whom it takes its present name? Its old name was Faithlie; it is a thriving seaport and the centre of an extensive fishing district, and contains a handsome Town Hall, of 1855, in front of which is the market cross, the Dalrymple Hall and Cafe, containing a library, news-room, public halls, an hospital, an academy, and several fine churches, and a floating population of 14,000.

The Town Hall is ornamented by a statue of Lieutenant-General Lord Saltoun, a Peninsula hero, who commanded a battalion of Guards at Waterloo. The harbor is one of the most magnificent on the east coast, and has cost nearly three million dollars, and at present is being considerably enlarged.

The inhabitants are supported entirely by the fishing industry. A large fleet of 820 boats are sent out every day, and the writer saw more herrings in one day in this little village than he had seen in the whole course of his life. The fish, after being cured in the most complete and exacting system in the world, are packed in barrels and shipped all over the civilized world.

The most extensive and best equipped factory in Fraserburgh is owned by the Maconochie Bros., whose advertisement our readers will notice on page 6. The two brothers, James and Archibald, commenced life, like so many of our successful business men in Canada, on railroad work; but they were ambitious to make a name in the world, and twenty-six years ago Mr. James founded the business in Fraserburgh, which has grown to be one of the largest fish-curing businesses on earth; but, unfortunately, this gentleman, after traveling 400,000 miles establishing agencies in Africa, Australia, America, and many other important countries, became a victim to over-work and pneumonia, and died this spring universally regretted and respected by his intimate friends and his 1,300 workpeople at Fraserburgh and Lowestoft.

The business is now carried on by Mr. Archibald Maconochie, who joined his brother some years since and at whose invitation I had the very great pleasure of going over the whole of the factory at Fraserburgh. As our readers may be aware, fish curing and cleaning is not the cleanest of work, but I was much impressed with the wonderful cleanliness of the whole building after the curing process had been gone over. The whole of the floors are of polished concrete. The buildings cover over 2½ acres of ground. I declare to you I could have eaten my dinner off these floors; and I am about as particular as most people.

The average quantity caught during the fishing season of ten weeks is 75,000 tons. Of this quantity about 7,000 tons is used by Maconochie Bros., who, while they have never exceeded 100,000, have the capacity of turning out 140,000 tins of fish per day. To Germany and Russia alone the firm ships on an average one million of barrel herrings. Among other places in the world which take large quantities of Maconochie's goods are Australasia and Africa. Canada, too, is now being numbered among the nations which show a liking for the product of the Kinnaird Head Works.

There is not the slightest doubt that Fraserburgh to a very great extent owes its prosperity and gradual rise to a very important fishing town, to the energy, time and money given to it by Maconochie Bros., who have shown the greatest interest in all the people's welfare.

Judging by the laughter and high spirits I heard in the town on the Saturday night, I should say this kindness was fully appreciated by a happy and contented people.

The herrings caught and cured in Fraserburgh are very much superior to those caught south. I believe this is result of the former place being on a point where the tides are stronger.

If any of our readers at any time are visiting Scotland it would well repay them to visit this, what is considered the most magnificent fishing depot in the world. Fraserburgh is about 45 miles north of Aberdeen. By obtaining a tourist ticket from London you can return by Inverness. The scenery from there to Perth and Carlisle equals anything to be seen in any country in the world.

CHICORY AND ITS USE IN THE GROCERY STORE.

By W. L. E.

PREJUDICE has frequently deferred for years the general use of an article beneficial in its properties. Chicory is an example of this. In itself chicory is a health-giving herb; but in spite of the fact that it has been a mercantile commodity for many generations, yet it is doubtful whether the average man and woman consider it anything but a thing to be viewed with suspicion. All the blame for this misconception does not lie with the people who are laboring under it. On the contrary, the onus is rather upon the early coffee manufacturers who adulterated their product with chicory, selling the same as pure. And as with the greater proportion of the masses the word "adulteration" is synonymous with "deleterious," chicory has obtained a signification with a good many the very opposite to what it should be.

I do not know when chicory first attracted attention as a food product. This, however, I do know from history: that its cultivation was introduced in England away back in 1780, and that its importation into that country began in 1832, the duty levied on it being the same as on colonial coffee. In those days the law stipulated that chicory and coffee must be sold separately. But in 1840 the admixture of the two was allowed, the compound to be sold at a moderate price. And by the year 1850 it was estimated that 18,000,000 pounds of chicory was sold annually in England as a surreptitious substitute for coffee, while the total consumption was placed at 28,000,000 pounds. In 1852 the mixture of chicory with coffee was again prohibited, but this prohibition does not appear to have been long-lived.

The chicory plant is indigenous to Europe. As a chicory-producing and chicory-using country, Belgium occupies the first position. There, chicory alone is used largely as a staple drink by the poorer class of citizens. Germany is also an extensive producer, and the Netherlands occupies a place among the chicory-exporting countries.

The chicory plant is cultivated in Canada, and while not nearly to the extent it is in Europe, yet there is probably more raised in this country than most people are aware of. The other day I had a conversation with a man who both raises and grinds chicory. He ventured the opinion that Canada consumed about 400 tons of dried chicory per annum. If his estimate be correct something like three-fourths of this quantity is produced in Canada. I am inclined to think, however, that he overestimated the quantity consumed in this country, and that what the Dominion does produce is about 50 per cent. of our requirements.

As far as I have been able to ascertain, chicory growing in Canada is largely confined to the Province of Ontario. There is a large chicory farm at Scarboro, five or six miles east of Toronto; and a friend of mine, a well-known naturalist, informs me that a few years ago a good deal of chicory was grown in Toronto and suburbs. "Around some of the old fence corners you can see the evidences of it in the little blue flowers that poke their heads up there," he explained. Besides in York County, chicory-producing centres are to be found in Peel and Huron Counties. Its cultivation has been attempted in the North-west territories, but the results do not appear to have been satisfactory. The trouble appears to be that it grows too rank and strong. Lately chicory cultivation has been undertaken in the vicinity of Montreal, but with what result I cannot say.

In Europe the chicory plant must be more productive than it is in this country. There, from what I can learn, the yield of roots ranges from eleven to fourteen tons per acre. In Canada, on the other hand, about eight tons per acre appears to be the average yield. This, when dried and roasted, shrinks down to about one and a half tons.

In Canada the planting appears to be done much about the same time as in Europe, the seed being sown in May. In order to the proper cultivation of the plant a great deal of attention is demanded from the grower. In its early stages care must be taken to keep the plant free from weeds, to accomplish which requires a great deal of labor.

"I can grow five acres of wheat cheaper than I can one acre of chicory," remarked a farmer to me some time ago who cultivated chicory in western Ontario. "When you get a good crop of chicory it pays well; but it is an uncertain crop: We have had two tons to the acre and we have had but half a ton to the acre. It is a rare thing to get two tons to the acre. I would rather have a mixed farm than a chicory farm. Chicory, however, is more profitable than wheat."

Chicory seed is sown in drills after the manner of turnips. The harvesting takes place about October, when the roots are taken out of the ground with a plow made for this special purpose. Sandy loam is the soil best adapted for chicory. During the process of growth care is taken to cut the flowers of the chicory plant before they run to seed. There are two reasons for doing this. The one is to give the root all the substance possible, and the other is to prevent the seed from scattering, for chicory growing wild is more to be dreaded than mustard.

Chicory is rich in saccharine matter, but before being roasted it produces a bitter white milk, similar to that of the dandelion.

After being gathered the chicory roots are run through a cutting machine, which slices them up into small pieces. Then they are taken to the kiln and dried. It takes about four days for one kiln to dry a ton of roots. The dried product is sold to the coffee mills, where it is ground to a powder.

The cost of erecting a good chicory mill is about $3,000. "Of course," said a chicory grower to me, "you can do it for less, but you cannot do it for much less and have it right." The kiln building must be of brick and fireproof, with wire netting floors. The temperature of the drying room requires to be about 180 degrees.

In spite of what all former beliefs may have been, it is now generally accepted that chicory, mixed in proper proportions, improves the quality of coffee. The grocery trade has long recognized this, and the consuming public are gradually awakening to the fact as well. And a great many more would also be of this way of thinking if the proportion of chicory they have been getting, unknown to themselves, in their coffee was to be suddenly cut off, they, of course, being acquainted with the fact.

I remember reading some time ago of a man who was always complaining to his wife that the coffee she made was not as good as he got at the club. It was not as pure. His wife bought pure coffee here and pure coffee there, but to no purpose. It was still not as good as he got at the club. In desperation, his

MONTREAL, September 9th, 1887.

To the Canada Sugar Refining Co., Montreal :

GENTLEMEN,—I have personally taken samples from a large stock of your Granulated Sugar, "REDPATH" brand, and carefully tested them by the Polariscope, and I find these samples to be as near to absolute purity as can be obtained by any process of Sugar-Refining.

The test by the Polariscope showed in yesterday's yield 99.90 per cent. of Pure Cane Sugar, which may be considered commercially as ABSOLUTELY PURE SUGAR.

wife one day went to the cook at the club and explained her position. The cook revealed the formula of his "pure" coffee. In this formula was a percentage of chicory. After that the good wife had no more trouble in suiting her husband's taste as to coffee.

In a work on the "Food of London," an instance is cited where a coffee dealer objected, on conscientious grounds, to mix chicory with the coffee sold by him. Gradually he found his coffee sales diminishing. He was for some time unable to account for the decline; but one day a lady saluted him with the remark: "You do not sell as good coffee as your neighbor." The dealer examined his neighbor's coffee, and found that it contained chicory. With the next coffee he sold the lady in question he mixed chicory. "Now your coffee is good," she said. Then he experimented with his own family and again the verdict was favorable.

I have been informed that the much-admired coffee that is to be found in the French capital contains about one-third of the finest chicory. And I am told that certain Toronto restaurants, whose fame is known far and wide for the excellence of the coffee they dispense, use a proportion of chicory.

The question of mixing chicory with coffee is a nice one. The better way is, of course, to label the mixture what it really is. And yet by this means it is quite probable that a great many people, while not at all partial to pure coffee, would not buy the mixed article, and who, on the other hand, could be secured as regular customers if, unknown to themselves, they drank coffee in which a little chicory had been put.

It seems to me that what should govern the dealer in the matter of mixing chicory with coffee is motive: If he puts in a small percentage with the object of improving the flavor of the coffee, it is legitimate. If a large quantity, with the object of enhancing his profits, it is illgitimate. I am strongly of the opinion that the grocer, actuated by the former motive, who mixes a little choice chicory with his coffee will tend to popularize his coffee with his customers, and furthermore, build up, in the long run, a more profitable trade than he who adulterates to make money.

RARE HAVANA CIGARS.

ONE of the prettiest and most tastefully arranged exhibits in the Main building of the Montreal Exhibition this year was made by Villeneuve & Co., manufacturers of some of the most celebrated brands of pure Havana cigars. The general design of the exhibit was that of a square tent rising to a point in the centre of the ridge pole. This was elegantly draped in different shades of blue. In the centre a handsome silk banneret bore the escutcheon of Lord Aberdeen. The corners were decorated with prettily designed trophies of flags, and in the centre of the stall hung a fine shield consisting of a head of Lord Aberdeen, surrounded by a glory of the celebrated cigars bearing his name. The exhibit consisted of specimens of twenty-three brands of choice cigars, manufactured by the firm, including the widely known and popular brands, Aberdeen, Melrose, Blackstone and Little Buck. These cigars have justly achieved a widespread renown and are most popular amongst all lovers of a really good Havana cigar. This enterprising firm was established about two years ago, and has already, by means of supplying none but the best goods made from choice selected tobacco, steadily progressed until they have attained a prominent place in the front rank of Canadian and American cigar manufacturers. All the tobacco used in the production of these cigars is purchased by the firm in Havana from the best selected stocks of each year's growth, and is imported direct by themselves. In their factory the greatest care is exercised in the stripping and manipulation of the tobacco, whilst a hundred and fifty skilled union cigar-makers are employed in rolling and packing. None but first-class skilled labor is employed in any department, and the greatest care is exercised in the packing of the goods. The progress made by Villeneuve & Co. is phenomenal; in the short space of two years they have increased their output from a few thousand, comparatively speaking, to the immense number of four million and a half, and in all this quantity they can make the proud boast that not one inferior cigar can be found. The tasteful display of Messrs. Villeneuve & Co. was the largest and finest exhibit of cigars ever yet made in the Dominion of Canada, and is significant not only of what they have achieved in the past, but of what, by means of giving a first-class article for a fair price, they will do in the future.

For this exhibit and the cigars they were awarded the highest prize medal. Recently they began the manufacture of cigar-ettes, which they are putting out under the brand "Aberdeen," to sell at 10c., and "Little Buck," to sell at 5c.

G. Hector Clemes will open an office in Toronto, from which he will superintend the sales to the trade in northern and western Ontario.

NEW TEA-PACKING MACHINE.

Mr. Larkin, of P. C. Larkin & Co., packers of Salada tea, has invented and patented a new machine for putting up package tea. It was put into commission the other day. Last week I had the pleasure of seeing it work, and an ingenious machine it is, while it is at the same time simple and easily manipulated. With this machine two boys can, it has been ascertained, put up a little over two thousand packages of tea in nine hours. One boy wraps a sheet of tinfoil around a funnel-shaped instrument, which the operator takes and thrusts into a cavity immediately beneath the machine. Into this he quickly pours the stipulated quantity of tea, pulls one lever with his hand, which sends an iron press into the cavity where the tea has vanished; simultaneously he presses another lever with his foot, when out comes a package of tea complete in everything but the label. Davidson & Hay, the Eby Blain Co., and James Lumbers, of Toronto, and Hubert Galt, of Chicago, have ordered one each of these machines.

ROBERT GREIG & CO.

. . . MONTREAL . . .

A BISCUIT FACTORY THAT MADE A TOWN.

EVERY civilized man and woman has heard of Huntley & Palmers' biscuits: They are in the industrial world, especially as applied to food products, what the Pyramids of Egypt are in the list of the world's seven wonders, one of the most prominent. But conversant as people are with Huntley & Palmers' products, their acquaintanceship with the history of the firm itself and the extent of its business is limited. Therefore a brief article dealing with the firm's history, etc., will not be without interest to some of our readers.

The industry was founded by Mr. Huntley in 1837, but Mr. Palmer, the present head of the firm, became associated with him in 1841, four years later. Mr. Huntley died in 1857, when the business was carried on by Mr. Palmer and his two brothers, both of whom he at this time took into partnership with him. To day Mr. Palmer has associated with him in the business three sons and three nephews.

When the original factory was built in Reading some 58 years ago, it was with a view to its employing 50 hands. To-day the biscuit works, with such accessories as carpenters' shops and engineers' foundries, occupy more space than the eye can take in from any available point of view. The works are situated on either side of the River Kennet, which is spanned by bridges in order to facilitate access to the different buildings. Branch lines of railway connect the several works, and over these there go out every day many tons of biscuits to all parts of the globe.

The different varieties of biscuits made by the firm aggregate more than 400, while in addition to these there are more than fifty different varieties of cakes. Some of these varieties are simple enough, though not less dainty for all that; and others are elaborate achievements of the pastrycook's art, unsurpassed for richness and delicacy. Among these may be named the firm's wedding cakes, which are famous the world over. One of the firm's latest novelties is the "Dinner Biscuit." This biscuit is similar in character to the Breakfast Biscuit introduced about three years ago. It can be used with soup, coffee, tea, cheese, or butter, without having to be broken. It is most attractive in appearance, delicious in flavor, and, we think, will be found exactly to meet a want in the matter of biscuits. The "Dinner Biscuit" is the greatest novelty in this line that has appeared on the market for a long time. It has been welcomed with much satisfaction, and already has taken a position of favor from which it is not likely to be displaced; and, if we are not mistaken, it will become one of the most popular of the firm's productions.

Mr. George Palmer, the head of the firm, may be said to have succeeded in building up not only an enormous business but a town as well: Reading largely owes its dimensions to his industry and liberality. One-twelfth of its 60,000 population is employed in his works. When Mr. Palmer set foot there the people numbered but 16,000. But Mr. Palmer has done more than build up the population: His liberality has contributed more than any other influence to build up and beautify the town. And Reading is certainly one of the best advertised towns in the world, for besides Huntley & Palmers' regular advertisements that are to be met with everywhere, every biscuit sent out is an "ad."

The fifty-acre park which Reading possesses is the gift of Mr. Palmer. The handsome municipal buildings possessed by the town are largely the fruits of his munificence, and that of his brother, W. I. Palmer. The historic grammar school partly owes its present improved and enlarged condition to Mr. George Palmer's efforts. The history of Reading is the history of Mr. Palmer. In him it has during the last fifty years practically "lived, moved and had its being." He has served the town as school trustee, mayor, member of Parliament, etc., and is still solicitous for its welfare. That his efforts have not been unappreciated may be gathered from the fact that on the celebration of his business jubilee, in 1891, the citizens presented him with the honorary freedom of the borough and unveiled a statue of him in Broad street.

We attract hearts by the qualities we display; we retain them by the qualities we possess. Study to acquire the desideratum,

MEN IN THE SAMPLE ROOM.

THE man in the sample room is by no means a sinecure. Among the many factors necessary to the conduct of a successful wholesale grocery business the sample room man is one of the most important. He must, above all things, be a master of detail. A man may be a good salesman, and as genial as a seraph, but if he is lacking in the matter of detail he comes short of the qualifying essential for the managership or head clerkship in a sample room. A train despatcher must have system and a cool head, but he needs not these qualifications more than does the man who has to know the whereabouts of every traveler every day and practically every hour of every day. To the city grocer he is, of course, fairly well known, but to the country merchant he is little known, notwithstanding that indirectly he has had a great deal to do with him. On realization of this fact THE CANADIAN GROCER decided to present, in the Fall Number, the photographs of the men in the sample rooms. And our decision has been put into practice. The pictures in the gallery are not as complete as we would have desired. But it is not our fault: The onus is upon the sample room men themselves. Their excuses for not furnishing us with a photograph were various. One had married a wife and could not find time to "sit." Another was so good-looking that his better-half was jealous of country grocers' daughters feasting their eyes upon him. Native modesty precluded another. And thus were excuses advanced. Those who came to our assistance have our thanks. Those who did not have our sympathy. We are sorry to miss their good-looking faces from our gallery.

We present Captain James Adams, of Smith & Keighley, Toronto, in kilts. Not because he looks better in regimentals than in civilian's garb, but because very few of those who have gazed upon his genial countenance have done so when his uniform covered his trunk and left bare his extremities. Mr. Adams first saw the light of day on a farm in Aberdeen, Scotland. And, tell it not in Gath, the date of this event was September 6, 1842. His connection with the grocery trade began in 1856, when in the employ of an Aberdeen firm as an apprentice. Ten years later he removed to London, England, where he remained till 1870, in the May of which year he came to Canada, entering the old firm of Wm. Ramsay & Co. as clerk. When that firm went out of business he transferred his allegiance to Smith & Keighley. That was twelve years ago, and it is to be hoped he will be there for a few dozen more.

Fred Lumsden, who manages the sample room and offices of Lumsden Bros., Hamilton, commenced his career in the grocery trade by assisting his brothers to get out goods after school hours. That was when he was ten years of age, and when his brothers were in the retail trade nearly 25 years ago. Mr. Lumsden has been well grounded in the grocery trade. He worked his way through the warehouse to shipper, eventually graduating into the position he holds to-day. Like all the Lumsden family, the subject of our sketch is a hard worker. He is popular with the trade, and, perhaps, it is largely owing to him the Lumsden Bros. do such a large business in their sample room. Ninety per cent. of their city sales are made in the sample room, and out of their total trade of 1894, no less than $120,000 was made therefrom.

Charles Crozier is sample-room man for T. B. Escott & Co., London, Ont. He entered the firm's employ about three years ago. Previous to that he was with Park, Davis & Co., Detroit. He began with Escott & Co. at the foot of the ladder, but he is now at the head, having rapidly worked himself up through the various grades. "His ambition," said a member of the firm, "is to know every part of the grocery business thoroughly, and he is not afraid of work. As a salesman he is unexcelled."

William Duckworth, who is the chief city salesman for Caverhill, Hughes & Co., Montreal, has had eleven years' experience of the grocery business. He knows the city from one end to the other, having served his apprenticeship with the original firm of Turner, Rose & Co., who were the predecessors of Caverhill, Rose, Hughes & Co. and Caverhill, Hughes & Co. Previous to his initiation he was in the railway business, in the general offices of the Grand Trunk, but he thought that selling groceries was better. Mr. Duckworth is vice-president of the Montreal Grocery Travelers' Association.

The chief city salesman for Laporte, Martin & Co. is S. Rousseau. Mr. Rousseau has only been with the firm for about six months. He is a graduate from the retail trade, however, and is personally acquainted with the great bulk of the city retailers. The lower west end of the city is a favorite stamping ground of his, and he gets lots of trade for his principals in that district.

The firm of Lucas, Steele & Bristol, Hamilton, have always prided themselves on the promptness with which all orders are filled. In these days, when the retail merchants buy more frequently than formerly, this is a most important point. The man who has contributed greatly to the firm's success in this respect is the subject of this sketch. W. T. Hall is a native Hamiltonian. He received his early grocery training in the store of Mr. G. Young, of Chatham, in whose employ he was for seven years. After spending three years with Mr. Heyward, of that town, he came to Hamilton and joined the staff of the firm in September, 1881. He has charge of the stock and warehouse, and it goes without saying that a man, to fill a responsible position of this kind, must be prompt, accurate, and possessed of good executive ability. Highly esteemed by the firm, both as a man and a prominent member of their staff, and by his fellow-workers as an all-round good fellow, may he long continue to prosper.

One of the youngest sample room men in Toronto is Frank M. Sloan, with John Sloan & Co. After going through the Model School three years ago, he entered the employ of the late firm of Sloan & Crowther as a junior, and by steadiness and industry qualified himself for the position he now occupies since the change in the firm at the end of March last. He performs the multitudinous duties devolving on a sample room man with great credit for one so young, being only eighteen. By continuing in his present course a bright and prosperous future should await him.

The photograph given herewith is that of A. G. Fleming, of the sample room staff of H. P. Eckardt & Co., Toronto. Mr. Fleming is one of our brightest and most industrious young men. Thirty-three years have elapsed since he started on his earthly career, and for more than half that time he has been identified with the wholesale grocery business. In 1877, at the age of fifteen, he entered the establishment of Smith & Keighley, Toronto, where he remained nine years, leaving the employ of that firm in 1886, after having represented them for a period as city traveler and also on the road. The next seven years he traveled throughout Western Ontario for Lucas, Park & Co., now Lucas, Steele & Bristol, of Hamilton, Ont. In 1893 he returned to Toronto and became city traveler for H. P. Eckardt & Co. Just a year ago he assumed his present responsible position in that firm's sample room.

Alfred Childs looks after the city retail trade for Geo. Childs & Co. Mr. Childs comes of a family of grocers, and has practically been brought up from a boy in the business. He is a son of the late Geo. Childs, who was one of the pioneers in the wholesale grocery trade of Montreal. He is a member of the Montreal Grocery Salesmen's Association and one of the popular young men in the trade.

W. H. Seyler, born in New Hamburg, County of Waterloo, June 17th, 1858, of German parentage, commenced the study of the English language at the remarkably early age of six years, and became proficient enough in that complex conglomeration of every language under the sun to enter the classic halls of Upper Canada College at the age of fourteen. A four years' course at that honored seat of learning eminently fitted the subject of our sketch to face the world "sans peur et sans reproche." Two firsts and a third prize attest to his diligence at that institution. After a six months' graduating course at the British America Business College he entered the wholesale grocery establishment of Alexander Harvey & Co., Hamilton, remaining with that concern three and a half years. Having studied shorthand while with Harvey & Co. and desiring to enter a larger sphere of action, he left for New York in August, 1880; and entered the employ of Francis H. Leggett & Co., one of the largest wholesale grocery houses of the metropolis. Here he remained but six months, having received a better offer from the foreign freight agent of the Erie Railway, in the city of Boston. Mr. Seyler remained with the Erie about six months and engaged with the freight department of the Pennsylvania Railroad in that city. Here, from stenographer he worked his way up in three years to the position of chief clerk, which he held for three years, when he was forced to retire through ill health, followed by a severe attack of typhoid fever. ing his health he engaged with Eby, Blain & Co., of Toronto. This was in December, 1886, and he is still to be found in the sample room of the Eby, Blain Co., Ltd., of which joint stock company Mr. Seyler is a member. Mr. Seyler has not only a reputation as a salesman, but as a doctor of advertising as well, having, in addition to his duties as sample-room man, for some years written the Eby, Blain Co.'s advertisements.

Elzear Masecotte, who occupies the position of chief salesman for N. Quintal & Sons, has been with the firm since 1891. Previous to that period he occupied a position of trust with M. Lefebvre & Co., the well-known vinegar manufacturers, and while in their employ worked up a connection among the retail trade that has been of value to his present employers. Mr. Masecotte was this year elected president of the Montreal Grocery Travelers' Association.

A. Fleming, with J. W. Lang & Co., of Toronto, is another of the men in the sample-room who is conversant with the grocery trade from its "A, B, C's" to its complicated intricacies. He was born, bred and educated in Toronto. He is 31 years of age. When he took his initiatory step in the grocery trade he was 16, and his first employers were Eby, Blain & Co. He was with that firm for seven years, and during that time he had a thorough drilling in every branch of the grocery trade, beginning as an office boy and passing through the shipping room, onward and upward. Then he had some experience in the United States, eventually entering the employ of J. W. Lang. This was four years ago. His present position he has only been filling for the past few months. Mr. Fleming is attentive to business as well as genial.

A. Cardinal, who sells in the city for Hudon, Hebert & Co., has had an experience of 17 years in the grocery business. In 1878, when quite a youngster, he learned all about groceries in the retail trade with P. Vanier. He worked there nine years, and then secured a position with N. Quintal & Sons, putting in three years with that firm. Five years ago he accepted an offer from his present employers, and has been selling to Montreal retailers for them ever since.

Twenty-five years ago Mr. J. M. Dillon began with W. S. Smith, who then carried on a general wholesale and retail grocery business in London. In January, 1872, Mr. Dillon went on the road as salesman for Mr. Smith, and remained in that position until November, 1893. In 1879 Mr. A. M. Smith succeeded his father, and until 1881 was alone, then Mr. Dillon became a partner. He still traveled for the new firm; and the success of the firm in Western Ontario is largely due to the untiring efforts on his part to make the business grow. The firm have been in their present commodious quarters for ten years, and have enjoyed uninterruptedly a large and steadily increasing connection. Mr. Dillon is president of the Commercial Travelers' Association for the present year.

GROCERS' INSURANCE PREFERRED.

BY AN UNDERWRITER.

PROBABLY of all the retail stocks, groceries are most acceptable to fire insurance companies, and this for two reasons: First, because they burn less frequently than others; and, secondly, when they do catch fire the salvage is likely to be larger. There is no physical reason why fires should occur less frequently in groceries than in other stocks. Matches are one of the commodities furnished by every grocer, and many fires are caused by rats or mice getting at matches. A quantity of coal oil is also a requisite of every grocery store. Yet there is nothing so inflammable as these two articles in a stock of dry goods. But there is a moral reason. Grocers succeed better than dealers in other lines, for the necessities of life, such as flour, tea, cheese and butter, are what they handle. A late manager of one of our largest banks preferred grocery accounts to any other class of business. And as from 20 to 25 per cent. of the fire loss in Canada and the United States is caused by incendiarism, it is obvious that the most successful business financially is the most desirable from a fire insurance point of view.

The second reason for the fire insurance companies' preference is more patent. A large portion of the stock consists of canned goods, and neither smoke nor water actually hurt the contents of them. Their commercial value is certainly somewhat decreased. On flour in barrels there is also a large salvage, if only wet—and nowadays in towns a large percentage of the damage is water damage—for the flour next the wood at once forms a paste and protects the rest. Barrels, after floating in the sea, have been picked up and good bread made of their contents. Cheese and bacon also, if not actually burned, show some value.

On dry goods it is quite the contrary; the smoke damages claimed for are startling; dry goods men have no hesitation in making exaggerated claims, for the reason that most of them have no idea of the value of their stocks in a damaged condition, and at once jump to the conclusion that no woman wants a bonnet or a dress of slightly smoked material.

But even grocers, with all their advantages over other trades, can vastly improve their fire insurance record. Companies in France and England can make a bigger profit for their shareholders on a much lower percentage of premium to liability than they can on this continent. In France the law is very severe with regard to arson, and a man has to prove that he has not set fire to his premises—not the authorities to prove that he has. The consequence is that every man is very careful. Matches are not left lying round, and rubbish is carefully cleaned up. Let every man in Canada be as careful, and let the authorities have a sharp look-out for incendiaries, for when fires are less frequent the companies will gladly lower their rates.

GREATEST RED-LETTER EVENT OF ALL.

EVERY autumn for the last five years THE CANADIAN GROCER has issued a special number. Each of these special issues has been a red-letter event to the trade. And this red-lettering has become more pronounced with each year. It is scarcely necessary to remind the trade that this characteristic is in the present instance more marked than ever before.

If there is one particular in which the current issue is an improvement over its predecessors it is in regard to its advertisements.

In glancing over these pages the first thing that strikes one is that the manufacturers and merchants in this country, and the manufacturers and merchants in the United Kingdom and in the United States that are cultivating trade in Canada, are recognizing more fully than ever before that THE CANADIAN GROCER is the medium through which they can best reach those whose trade they court.

Another thing that must strike the reader is the high degree of efficiency our advertisers have attained in the art of advertising: They not only know what an advertisement should be, but they possess the ability to write it in order that it may be such.

As the advertisers did their part well, so did our mechanical department. It put into effect with an artistic hand the ideas that advertisers desired to convey. Made them speak, as it were. The one was dependent on the other. But this fact we cannot ignore: To the advertisers belong the honor of providing the material for our "ad." experts to work upon, and which has so enhanced the beauty of the paper.

Some defects there may be. And for these we must apologize, although the fault is scarcely our own: We had calculated upon issuing a 75-page paper, but at the time of writing the folios number over one-fourth more than that number, and how much more it will be we cannot tell. This has naturally resulted in an enormously increased tax upon every department. Our presses have been running night and day; and still, at the moment, the end is not in sight. In order to bring the end in sight we have been compelled, we are sorry to say, to refuse several good advertisements within the last few days.

But, aside altogether from either the number of the advertisements, their appearance or their subject matter, there is one thing they indicate, and that unconsciously: They indicate the existence of better times, and that the men who have goods to sell are taking off their coats and making a "big push" to find customers for them. This is the most gratifying of all.

TRADE RECOVERY IN CANADA AND THE STATES.

IT IS a common thing these days to hear people complain that there has not been that marked recovery in trade in Canada that there has been in the United States during the last three months.

This contention is not without reason: There has not been that marked recovery.

But those who take the pessimistic view overlook the fact that trade in Canada had not so much to recover.

During the recent period of depression, trade in Canada, at its worst, was not at as low an ebb as it was in the United States.

At no time was there anything ever approaching a panic. There was perfect confidence in our banks; at no time did the people take their money out of the banks and put it for safe keeping in their stockings. There was perfect confidence in our currency. At no time was there any difficulty experienced in getting money from the banks to cash drafts, cheques, etc. No artificial means did we have to devise in order to keep our heads above water. Neither did our foreign trade show a marked decline. Nor did one of our railways pass into the hands of receivers.

How different in all these particulars it was in the United States is known to all men.

And, notwithstanding that the recovery in trade across the borders has been so marked as to elicit the admiration of the world, still to materialize have the normal conditions obtaining before the period of depression set in.

A substance that has shrunk abnormally will naturally have to expand more in order that the normal condition may again obtain than will that which has shrunk but little. And what is true of substances is equally true of trade.

ABSORBED CANADIAN CIGARETTE FACTORIES.

THE absorption of the Canadian cigarette factories by the Tobacco Trust of the United States has been consummated. Practically all the cigarettes turned out in this country have been made by two factories, namely, Ritchie & Co. and the American Tobacco Co., both situated in Montreal. There is a third factory, but it is small, and of comparatively recent venture. For some time one of the factories in question has been working under a royalty.

Negotiations, having in view the final absorption of the two factories in question, have been going on for some time, but it was not until last week that the invoices sent out indicated that the deal had been finally consummated, and that the two Canadian firms in question had lost their identity and become united under one name, the American Tobacco Co. of Canada.

As a result of this absorption by the American Tobacco Trust there has so far been no change in either the system of dealing with the trade or in prices. And as to whether there will be yet remains to be seen.

Since November last the jobbers have been working under a rebate system, and as it appears to have given satisfaction to at least the wholesalers, they are hoping that it will be continued, or at any rate only discontinued when something better is substituted. Meanwhile, the trade can only wait and see.

What is known as the American Tobacco Trust is one of the most powerful organizations in the United States. For an independent manufacturer to start up and deign to compete with it as to price is to court commercial death.

Men who yesterday had the temerity to start up and quote at a figure below that of the organization in question, have today found agents of the Trust swarming the ground quoting still lower figures.

In order to kill a competitor in St. Louis, the Trust, not long since, sent up a balloon daily, which, as it floated over the city, distributed millions of cigarettes, no doubt to the delight of the cigarette smoker, but to the consternation of the offending independent manufacturer.

As a result of the absorption of the Canadian factories all the manufacturing will hereafter be done under one roof.

DEPARTMENT STORES AND COUNTRY DEALERS.

THE Toronto World of a recent issue advanced the plea that department stores were a good thing for the "Queen City", in that they induced people from outlying country villages and towns to come there and buy their goods.

This is a narrow and metropolitan way of looking at the matter. Two devils do not make an angel. The department store has probably come to stay, but it is an evil nevertheless. It would doubtless be a good thing for the farmer in the night to enlarge his own fields by removing his fences back a few rods into his neighbor's farm. But what about the farmer who has lost a portion of his property?

There is only a certain amount of trade to be done in the country. You cannot lengthen a blanket by cutting a piece off the bottom and stitching it on the top.

Every customer brought from Blankville to Toronto means a loss to the storekeepers of Blankville, and the ultimate bankruptcy of at least some of them. Can this be a good thing?

Scarcely. And if The World would only go a little deeper into the question it would doubtless come to the conclusion that it was not even a good thing for Toronto itself. Toronto is one of the leading wholesale centres in Canada, and the greater the number of failures there are among the country customers the smaller and weaker must necessarily be her wholesale houses. And our contemporary, for its own sake, is zealous for the preservation of a branch of trade which brings grist to its own mill.

Toronto is not the Dominion. It is not even the county of York. It is a city. And the welfare of the country merchants is her welfare.

The department store is an evil: It has bled to death many an urban merchant; it is now sapping the vital fluid of merchants in towns within a radius of many miles. And impolitic is it for The World to laud the cause of which this is the effect.

SUMS SPENT IN ADVERTISING.

While canvassing a man the other day for an advertisement our representative was told to "get out," and as he was getting out the man said: "You fellows are daylight robbers and you can't work me. Why, over a year ago I gave the ——— an advertisement for which they charged $10, and I never sold a dollar's worth of goods through that advertisement. If I remember rightly, two men dropped in and asked to see the goods I advertised, but they did not buy; they said the goods were too dear."

Printers' Ink, just to hand, says: "Buffalo Lithia Water will spend $60,000 next winter. Their advertising in the past has been extremely profitable." This is better: "The advertising of Hoff's Malt Extract has been remarkably successful. The appropriation is to be largely increased this year—as much as $150,000 it is said."

These amounts are nothing in comparison to the sums spent by Pears' and hundreds of other successful advertisers.

A COMPUTING SCALE AND A DISHONEST GROCER.

The expose of a "crooked" grocer in an eastern Ontario town has demonstrated both that a good article can be used for illegitimate purposes and that its manufacturer can be made to suffer as a consequence.

In the town in question is a grocer who was recently selling so much sugar for a dollar that his competitors were out-distanced in the race for business.

Suspicion was aroused, and it was by some means ascertained that a dollar's worth of sugar was no less than five pounds short of the requisite quantity.

The authorities were made cognizant of the fact, and then it was found that the grocer, by manipulating one of the computing beams, could give five pounds short weight and the scale still be apparently in balance.

This led to the Government seizing all the scales there happened to be in the Customs Houses, and forbidding the further entry of the scale into Canada when equipped with the particular offending computing beam.

And so it has come to pass through the dishonesty of a merchant that a certain scale cannot come into Canada unless in what is practically a maimed condition.

ARE TOMATOES BEING CORNERED?

IT IS mooted that a corner is being formed on canned tomatoes. How far this is true it is at the moment difficult to ascertain.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has been investigating the rumor, but as the rumor is confined to a limited circle, and as those within that circle are reticent, it has been difficult to ascertain how far the cornering idea has developed. Unless we are greatly deceived, our opinion is that it has not yet advanced beyond the theoretical stage.

But this we have discovered: An effort is being made to find the men and the means to engineer and put into practice a corner on canned tomatoes.

Who originated the idea is being kept a profound secret. All THE CANADIAN GROCER can learn in this particular is that he is someone outside Toronto, but whether packer or jobber, not an inkling can be obtained.

The wholesalers we have sounded regarding the matter are only praying that what is now a rumor may become a reality.

It is the consensus of opinion that the conditions are favorable to the formation of a corner. The pack of tomatoes is undoubtedly of good proportions, but it must not be forgotten that it came upon a bare market. But probably the most favorable condition of all for a corner is the fact that the pack in the United States is beyond peradventure short.

Whether as a consequence of the rumor in question or not, there is more confidence in prices than there was a week or ten days ago.

DOMESTIC NUTS SCARCE.

It looks as if, in Ontario at least, home-grown nuts, like small fruits, were not very plentiful this year. Usually, before this late in the fall, considerable quantities of Canadian chestnuts, hickory nuts, walnuts and butternuts are offered for sale, but practically none have appeared in Toronto this October. In fact, we think that a few small baskets of chestnuts comprise the total importations into that city. As a criterion of the state of things in the country, one outside shipper writes saying that whereas in former years he had on hand large quantities of nuts for shipment, he this season so far has got together only about half a bushel. The apparent scarcity keeps prices up, and just now quotations run from $6 to $7 per bushel. Such a price can not be relied on, however, as large receipts for one day would bring the figures down with a rush.

DESIRES EXTENDED TRADE WITH CANADA.

THE commercial treaty entered into between Canada and the French Republic has created a desire on the part of at least one other country to negotiate a similar treaty with the Dominion. That country is Italy.

At present our aggregate trade with Italy only amounts to a little over half a million dollars per annum. According to the Trade and Navigation Returns of 1894 we exported $109,188 worth of goods to Italy, and imported therefrom $402,443 worth.

What we take from Italy is principally oranges, of which we brought in last year to the value of $330,810. Among other articles brought in were: Macaroni, $1,226; gloves, $2,214. The duty we collected on Italian goods aggregated $49,073.

Our exports to Italy consisted nearly altogether of products of the fisheries, out of the total $101,682 being thereof. Products of the forests we sold them to the value of $7,506. Of products of the mine or field we sold Italy nothing. And the same is to be said of animals and their products and manufactured articles.

If there is any mutual advantage to be gained by a commercial treaty between Canada and Italy, by all means let it be negotiated. Let us grasp every opportunity of extending our foreign trade. But it is to be hoped that if such a treaty is negotiated it will not require nearly three years to ratify and put it into operation, as it was in the case of the French treaty.

Italy's desire to negotiate a treaty with the Dominion probably had its origin in the fact that that country has not a favored nation treaty with Great Britain, and consequently cannot share with those countries that have the benefits that may be derived from trading with Canada under it.

SCARCITY OF LOW-GRADE JAPANS.

IT was predicted about a month ago by THE CANADIAN GROCER that there was a strong possibility of a famine in low grade Japan teas. As time passes this fact becomes more and more probable.

Cables this week to a Montreal firm of importers, who are as heavily interested in Japan teas as any other house in Canada, stated that the total settlements were 21,000 piculs in excess of these of last season, but that the settlements of teas costing from $14 down were 15,000 piculs less than last year.

All the increase, therefore, is in higher grade teas running from $15 upwards. In fact, everything points to the necessity of more expenditure this year by the consumer of low-grade Japan stock.

As already noted, the stock at primary points is away below last year, while the active demand for everything low-priced that is offering, both in Montreal and Toronto, shows that dealers generally are scantily supplied. Houses in Montreal, for instance, that had hundreds of boxes of low-grade Japans last season, have not a box this year. The great scarcity is made evident by the higher prices asked.

There is nothing to be had in Montreal from first hands at 12c., the sole house that is known to have any of this class of tea demanding 13 to 13½c., and the stock they have is light.

Shrewd jobbers state that before the middle of January not a box of Japan tea will be available around 14c., and that the consumer will have to turn his attention to teas costing from 15c. upward. The supply of these is proportionately larger than last year, and no stiffening in their price is looked for.

GROCERY WINDOW SIGNS.

Only a few retail grocers use window signs. Many consider them too much trouble. This is a mistake. The attention of a hurrying passer-by can be secured quicker by an attractive window sign than by any other factor, provided the sign is placed well toward the front of the window and says something. We don't, says a contemporary, regard signs which mildly remark, "Prunes, 10 cents," as window signs at all. They are imitations. Try a few real ones, and see how they work.

LOOK OUT FOR INFERIOR COHOES.

MERCHANTS who this season purchase coho canned salmon will need to exercise much caution if what is alleged in mail advices from the Coast be true.

It is alleged by well-known and reputable men in British Columbia, that a great deal of the coho pack will be of very inferior quality.

One of the correspondents declares that some of the canners—and he furnishes names—are even putting up “spent” sockeye salmon.

This latter allegation may be true, but one knowing what “spent” sockeye salmon are can scarcely conceive that even the most mercenary and unprincipled would dare venture to can them.

A gentleman who for some years had an active acquaintance with the canning industry in British Columbia, informs THE CANADIAN GROCER that “spent” sockeyes are fish which have got into the small streams and become thrown up on the banks to die. He, therefore, expresses his doubt regarding these fish being canned as alleged, but then, again, it must not be forgotten that the firm which prefers this particular charge is one of the most reputable on the Coast.

Aside altogether from the quality of the fish put up, it appears that the tins used in some instances are those which have been held over for several years and brought down from the northern canneries to be used for the coho pack. Empty tins, it must be remembered, are generally accounted useless after being kept in stock a couple or more years.

As these charges regarding inferior quality of fish came from more than one source it is obvious that there is some basis for them. And it behooves the Government, in the interest of the canners, in the interest of the public, to investigate the matter. The salmon canning industry of British Columbia is much too important to be allowed to be killed, even if those who threaten to destroy it are among those who should be the most concerned in its preservation.

OPPORTUNITY FOR EXTENDING COMMERCE.

NOW that the treaty between Canada and the French Republic has at last become operative, it is to be hoped that manufacturers and merchants in this country will not be as long in trying to reap advantages therefrom as has been the case with the legislators in setting the treaty in motion.

The delays have been vexatious, and, in many instances, quite unnecessary. Nearly three years have passed since the instrument first received the attention of the Canadian Parliament, and even with the delays that may be termed necessary, the treaty should have been in operation at least eighteen months ago. But the trouble is that both in the Cabinet and in the House there is wanting not only statesmanship but ordinary business common sense. If a merchant were to carry on his business after the same fashion as our legislators have this French treaty, he would be bankrupt in a short time.

Let us for goodness sake show the French people that the business acumen in Parliament is not representative of the business acumen of the merchants and manufacturers of the country.

The goods of Canadian manufacture which have access to the French market under the minimum tariff are: Canned meats, condensed milk, fresh water fish, eels, fish preserved in their natural form, lobsters, apples and pears, fresh, dried or pressed; preserved fruit, building timber, rough or sawn; wood pavement, staves, wood pulp, machine-made common paper, prepared skins, boots and shoes, furniture of common wood, flooring in pine or soft wood, wooden sea-going ships.

Not only are several of these lines among our staple manufactures, but France is an importer of them. Here, for instance, are France's imports in some of the lines enumerated in the treaty: Timber, $40,000,000; furniture and staves, $4,000,000; lobsters, $1,000,000; salmon and other canned fish, $1,000,000; canned meats, $2,000,000 to $4,000,000; apples, $1,000,000; condensed milk, $400,000; wood pulp, $4,000,000; paper, $1,000,000.

To France and her colonies we last year sent about $125,000 worth of timber and lumber. St. Pierre and the French West Indies took $4,216 worth of Canadian staves. Of canned lobsters France took 1,032,850 pounds, valued at $200,062, and St. Pierre, 11,788 pounds, valued at $1,054. Practically no canned salmon went from this country to France. Dried apples we sent to the value of $3,662; but of green apples the returns show we only sent three barrels valued at $7. St. Pierre, however, was a better customer than the parent state in this respect, taking 282 barrels valued at $782. Wood pulp we do not appear to have shipped a dollar's worth of to France.

Under the new order of things, with a minimum instead of a maximum tariff applying to the Canadian goods stipulated in the treaty, an enlarged trade should be possible in the articles we already send to France, while an entrance into that country ought to be effected for some of the articles we do not now send there.

NEW BRUNSWICK FRUIT.

THE past season has not been a successful one to fruit growers in New Brunswick owing to the drouth, which has been the worst known for very many years. In fact, the St. John River has been lower during the past few weeks than ever before.

This had a particularly bad effect upon plums, which were almost a failure.

In apples, though they were short, the shortage was not so much felt. The apples which seem best adapted to this climate are New Brunswick and Wealthy, but being soft fruits they are not fit for shipment. To be sure, where they have arrived in England in good condition they have brought good prices; but the risks of keeping, with the present facilities for shipment, are too great to encourage shipments.

The tariff shuts them largely out of the American market, and even now the supply is greater than the local demand. The surplus is in many cases used in the making of vinegar. When proper cold storage is to be found in St. John and on the steamers, it will be a great benefit to our fruit growers.

Some few Gravensteins are grown in New Brunswick, and they are a nice, hard apple. No attempt was made to grow winter fruit till within a few years. It is now shown that many kinds can be grown successfully, and this fall one grower shows splendid samples of Yellow Bellfours, New York Pippins, Haas, Mackintoshes, Reds and Alexanders. One orchard of two acres shows an average yield of 150 barrels to the acre.

THE TRADE REVIVAL'S FESTIVAL.

SALT IN CANADA.

By F. D. L. S.

WHEN it is considered that about 300,000 barrels of salt are annually consumed in the Dominion of Canada, the importance of the industry may be realized. The production of Canadian wells totals each year in the neighborhood of 423,000 barrels, and every twelve months something like 43,000 barrels are imported from abroad. Thus 466,000 barrels are placed upon our markets between January and January. It is therefore easily seen that 166,000 barrels must be exported every year or left unsold.

Salt is obtained in various ways. It is derived from sea water, from natural brine, from artificial brine formed by dissolving salt rock and also directly from salt rock by crushing and grinding.

The method of obtaining salt from sea water is simple. The "briny," as a yachtsman would say, is allowed to flow through a series of tanks. In the first tanks all foreign solids settle, and the purified brine is carried into the succeeding reservoirs where evaporation takes place, and the commercial commodity is left in an encrusted form on the bottom. In France, Spain, Italy, Austria, and other countries this manner of solar evaporation is followed.

The separation of salt from sea water by the substitution of artificial for solar heat is carried on in some portions of Northern Europe and the United States. Still another plan sometimes adopted in taking salt from the sea is to reduce sea water to one degree below the freezing point. By a repetition of this process the congealed liquid is removed, and the unfreezable deposit which remains is the preservative substance so generally in use throughout civilized lands.

In this country as well as in other parts of the world salt is obtained from a rock formation usually found many feet below the level of the earth. Sometimes the rock salt is mined and brought to the surface in huge cakes, which are crushed and ground.

A process more generally in use, however, includes the sinking of wells to a considerable depth into the ground and the pumping of the brine covering the rocks to the surface. In other wells which are found to be dry a double tube is sunk. Water is then pumped down one pipe into the shaft, forcing the brine formed by the contact of water and rock up the other pipe into reservoirs fitted up for the purpose.

The brines thus obtained show different degrees of purity. These may be divided into two classes: Those which contain, besides common salt, chloride of magnesium, chloride of calcium, sulphate of magnesia and sulphate of soda, and those which have in them chloride of calcium, chloride of magnesium and sulphate of calcium. The former are considered the purer, or, at least, the more easily purified.

After the brine leaves the wells the three processes most generally employed in heating it are: (1) evaporation by fire; (2) evaporation by steam, and (3) evaporation by means of the vacuum pan. The last named process is considered the best. By means of it all lime, magnesium and other foreign substances are removed, and the salt is left pure. The brine, after remaining one to two days in the settling tanks, is pumped into large vacuum evaporating pans, where it is subject to a moderate heat, which precipitates the salt to the bottom. Thence the salt is carried to dripping bins, and thence again to sorting bins, when it is ready for barrelling and bagging for shipment.

The human race seems always to have used salt, and therefore the earliest methods of manufacture and sources of supply are not defined. Instruments discovered in the old mines of the Caucasus indicate that these were worked by man in the remote "stone" age, and mines are known to have been in existence in England at the time of the Roman occupation. The Indians of New York State obtained a supply from the salt springs which a hundred years ago furnished the inhabitants of Lower Canada with what they wanted.

The first salt well was sunk in Canada as late as 1865. In that year the late Samuel Platt, when boring at Goderich for oil, struck brine some hundreds of feet below the earth. This discovery resulted in the sinking of many wells throughout Western Ontario and the establishment of the salt industry in that part of the country. Within a few years Goderich had about a dozen wells going, and there were one or more in operation at Clinton, Seaforth, Parkhill, Hensall, Sarnia, Mooretown, Kincardine, Blyth, Brussels, Wingham and Windsor.

Many of these have shut down now, however, some because of the falling off in quality of the brine owing to animal deposits in the beds, and some because of the decrease in demand consequent on over supply. Wells in Canada now in operation are located as follows: Goderich, Windsor, Seaforth, Clinton, Parkhill, Kincardine, Blyth, Wingham and Brussels.

The wells at Sarnia and Mooretown have been shut down. A well was once sunk at Teeswater, but owing to the inferior quality of the brine it was never operated. A farmer at Highland Creek, in Pickering township, a few miles east of Toronto, also once thought he would make a fortune as a salt manufacturer. He made the experiment 18 years ago, but abandoned it after boring 1,800 feet into the earth. The owner still claims there is salt on his farm, and hopes to see a company operate it yet.

MARVELLOUS VICISSITUDES OF AN ISLAND.

AWAY to the south of Asia, and almost attached to the great Empire of Hindustan, lies the ancient Isle of Lanka.

Thousands of years ago, aye, thousands of years, perhaps, before our British ancestors, in paints and hides attired, unsuccessfully resisted the Roman invaders, this island had intercourse with the Chinese in the far east, and the Arabians in the west. 'Tis hard to name a date so far remote that some of the arts, say pottery and architecture, were unknown to its people.

The Americans or Canadians, who are the heirs of the ages, are not really the inventors of many things which their skill and intelligence have greatly improved, cheapened and utilized. The Chinese, who may have been as advanced 5,000 years before the beginning of history as they are to-day, and if left to themselves would be 5,000 years hence, were acquainted with the compass and the cantilever, with powder and printing, centuries before Columbus was born.

The ancient capital of Lanka, whose gigantic ruins are now being uncovered in almost impenetrable jungle, was founded, and with it the Buddhist religion in the island, some 500 years before our Christian era. The ruins of its vast temples attest the skill of its ancient builders.

A sacred tree, brought over there from India when a small plant, is still growing, and its history has been regularly recorded for nearly 2,500 years, by the devoted priests of a temple dedicated to it. It is now the oldest historical tree in the world.

But Lanka was known, and its products utilized, at an earlier age, when a still more famous temple was built. I mean that of Solomon.

"That uxorious king
Who, beguiled by fair idolatresses, Fell to idols foul."

If in the recently discovered African mines we have found the source of Solomon's immense stores of gold, in Lanka we recognize the source of his ivory. So skilful, too, were the dentists of those early years, that the ivory trunks were extracted from the live elephant, and so effectually were the molar roots drawn, that, unlike the elephant of Africa and India, Lanka's greatest beast has never since developed a large trunk, but has to be content with a small protruding stump, which, like Monboddos tail in man, merely indicates the what-has-been.

Passing over two thousand years or so—a short time in the life of those eastern countries—during which Lanka was ruled by its native king, or by invaders from the adjacent continent, and while its Titanic irrigation works, now mere monuments, were being constructed, we find the Portuguese ruling the islands during the 16th and 17th centuries. Then came the Dutch; until, about the beginning of the 19th century, the English gained possession. The descendants of the Portuguese and Dutch are still numerous in the land.

About 1825, while Lanka had few Englishmen besides its civil and military servants, an enterprising soldier introduced the cultivation of coffee. His example was soon followed by his brother officers, and within the next ten years a large tract of land carried the fragrant bean.

The success of the young Englishman attracted capital to the island, and hundreds of coffee gardens were planted during the following thirty years. The island's seaport became a place of great importance, and the planters a numerous and influential body. Roads were opened up, branching between ranges of lofty mountains into all the lovely and fertile valleys, on whose slopes the grand primeval jungle gave way to the coffee tree.

Soon the railroad took the place of the road, with its thousands of bullock carts.

Between 1865 and 1875 the exports of coffee ran from 750,000 to 1,000,000 cwts.; giving employment to a quarter of a million of coolies—as the native laborers are called—or, with their families, perhaps finding sustenance for seven hundred thousand people.

About '68 to '70 a curious, rusty-looking powder was observed on the leaves of the coffee plant in many parts of the island. At first little notice was taken of it; then it became a curiosity; and in time the attention of a famous scientific authority—the conservator of the island's beautiful botanical garden—was attracted to the phenomenon. After close observation the oracle spoke, and his utterances were a grave warning: The stranger was pronounced to be a dangerous and insinuating parasite, which penetrated into the cells of the leaves, and prematurely destroyed them, while their functions in assisting the trees to mature their fruit were still unperformed.

At first little heed was given to the sage's opinion. Manuring was resorted to, and under the influence of good prices, hope and faith, with an occasional note of distrust, which, when expressed, was immediately hooted down, ruled until about 1876-78. By this time it was evident to many that the weaker portions of their garden were succumbing to the attacks of the parasite. Manuring no longer produced its old results; crops estimated to be good in their early stage gradually dwindled during the months while the berries should have been maturing, until the actual out-turn grievously disappointed the poor planter.

Years before this, one gentleman of a botanical turn and a rare gift of foresight, had introduced the Cinchona and Another Tree into Lanka. He planted fields of those, and soon found they were well adapted to the soil and climate, and could be cultivated most profitably.

His example was generally followed, so far as Cinchona was concerned. Hundreds of millions of those trees were put out between 1870 and 1880. Those who planted them first reaped a splendid harvest, as the bark from which quinine was extracted sold readily at from three to ten shillings per pound. Great fortunes were anticipated by hundreds of planters—single trees of the best qualities being valued at thousands of pounds as seed bearers. The exports of bark went up by leaps and bounds; until supply exceeded demand, when prices fell rapidly. Quinine fell from eighteen shillings per ounce to two shillings, and even to ten pence; bark from a five-shilling average per pound to five pence, and soon after became almost unsalable. Thus, another grievous disappointment befell the poor struggling planter. With household bills unsettled, and laborers' wages in arrear, the interest of an ever-swelling mortgage became due with ruthless regularity every six months. Ruin and sequestration were the fate of many, while others strove bravely by hard work and strictest economy to stave off the evil day.

Meantime, attention was directed to that Other Plant which our far-seeing friend had introduced. Experimentally by many, and boldly and extensively by a few, its cultivation was attempted. Early in the eighties it was recognized as a useful friend, which might help many whose properties lay in the zone to which alone it was then thought to be adapted. Gradually, with fear and trembling rather than faith, it was tried higher up the mountains and further down the valleys, and still its capabilities did not fail.

In 1885 it was known that those who had planted it during the seventies were surprised at their success, and it gradually dawned upon all that, from sea level near the equator to winter snow about 30 degrees north, and 7,500 feet elevation, one variety or another of this Heaven-sent plant would grow, flourish and pay handsomely. The moist climate of Lanka was found to be peculiarly suited for it. Cheap labor helped greatly, and rapidly falling exchange was a godsend to a country with a silver currency.

Other countries slow to grasp improvements, wedded to old customs and not over cleanly habits, had been growing this plant, and exporting its products for centuries. Among them it was a family industry, as weaving of woolen and linen garments was last century in England and Ireland. The children plucked the leaves. The elders rolled them by hand and dried them over charcoal when other household matters permitted.

In Lanka it was speedily recognized that machinery supplied the most economical and only cleanly way of manufacturing the article. It was universally adopted, both for rolling the leaf and firing the product.

In 1883 Lanka exported 1,000,000 pounds, and in 1895 it will export 94,000,000 pounds of this useful, refreshing and grateful household need.

Great Britain now uses the machine-made product of Lanka and the adjoining continent of India almost exclusively; whereas, a few years ago the hand-made article had complete possession of every household. Other countries, chiefly Australia, Russia, the United States and Canada, which took only four and one-half million pounds from Lanka in 1891, will this year take seventeen, perhaps eighteen, million pounds.

Cleanliness is a factor in favor of the machine-made product, as is also economy in time and money. A cup can be made in half the time, and with half the quantity of the raw material required when the hand-made article is used.

Lanka is the ancient name of Ceylon, and the "other plant" of the far-seeing planter is the Tea Tree, from the young and succulent leaves of which the now famous and almost universally drunk Ceylon tea is manufactured. Medical men are now prescribing a soothing cup of its extract to all whose brains are wearied by business troubles and to those whose digestion has been weakened by the stimulating extract of coffee's fragrant bean.

This is our canvasser. He refuses to use a bicycle—too slow for him, he says.

THE OYSTER INDUSTRY.

CONSIDERABLE activity in the oyster industry is being manifested in the Maritime Provinces, and the fact that the Malpeques, which dispute with the Jersey Blue Points for first place among the oysters of this continent, are grown in Canadian waters would seem to warrant this activity.

Mr. Kemp, oyster expert of the Dominion Fisheries Department, is at present engaged in examining the coasts of our lower provinces with a view to ascertaining their suitability for the extension of the oyster beds. He has spent some time in Prince Edward Island, and is at present looking over the coast of Annapolis County, Nova Scotia.

An evidence of the practical nature of the present movement is the fact that one of the largest oyster farms in the world is being established at Carleton, in the Baie des Chaleurs, by a newly-formed Quebec company. The bay contains 470 acres, or sufficient to permit of the breeding and fattening of 20,000,000 oysters a year. The use of the bay at Carleton had been accorded to the company by the Government, and at its mouth a dam containing a number of sluice gates is being erected.

Although a very large percentage of the oysters consumed in Canada come from Baltimore and Delaware, the Canadian salt oysters, the Malpeques, are in great demand in this country, and not only here, but also in England and the United States.

The utter lack of protection for the oyster fisheries has resulted in a great diminution in the yield and a large increase in the price of these succulent bivalves. A rapid increase in the number of these Canadian oyster farms is looked for.

WHAT HAS CIRCULATION TO DO WITH IT?

A newspaper either pays an advertiser or it doesn't, says Brains. You can find out easily enough whether the papers in which you advertise pay you, and which one pays you best. When you have ascertained these facts, there is nothing more to learn. Many merchants mouse around with a microscope and a search warrant trying to find out the exact circulation of a newspaper, when, as a matter of fact, that isn't at all what they want to know. A newspaper of 20,000 circulation may be of little use to you, while another of half that circulation may be just what you want.

Whether a paper will pay you or not depends very largely on the class of people who read it, and your business should be advertised most in the paper which goes to the most likely to patronize you. Your ads. should be written in a manner which will appeal to the constituency of the paper in which they are printed; the same ad. ought not, in most cases, to be printed in any two papers.

CHEAP "JOHNS."

EDITOR GROCER,—Your editorial on the above and "Old Traveler's" remarks last week are pointers for the trade. At this time of the year a good many currants, raisins, peels, etc., are bought ahead by retailers, and you should have included the class of travelers who find this out by fair or foul means, and then offer similar goods at cost, or sometimes below.

A RISING YOUNG POET.

THE Toronto Board of Trade has a poet of no mean order in Thomas McLaughlin as well as a chaplain in the person of John D. Laidlaw. Mr. Laidlaw has stores in Northern Ontario which frequently call him away from the city for days at a time. He disappears and reappears without any warning. The grain men and commercial reporters only know that he is out of town by finding his door locked for several days in succession. Some weeks ago the following effusion was found pinned on the door of Mr. Laidlaw's vacant office by THE GROCER representative in making his daily round among business men. Through pressure of other matter it has lain on his desk since:

Old Deacon Laidlaw, good old man!
 Why don't you stay at home?
 The market is going to the dogs
 While thus you sporting roam.
 We tried our best to keep wheat up
 Since you meandered hence,
 But all in vain—in shine and rain,
 It's nearing fifty cents.
 Give Barrie, Stayner, Shelburne too,
 A last and final shake,
 Come back and keep the market up,
 For your dear country's sake.
 It's not alone the markets dull
 That's needing your support,
 The conduit's burst—we've got a thirst—
 And water must import.
 So make a break from Simcoe Lake,
 And fill your canteen well,
 We'll meet you at the station here.
 For we're as dry as ———

SOMETHING ABOUT "OPEN PAN" SALT.

IN 1869 the old and well-tried "Open Pan" process of manufacturing salt was begun by T. T. Coleman at Seaforth, Ontario. Many and apparently impassable difficulties were encountered before the operations were successful. To day the Estate of T. T. Coleman owns the "Merchants" Salt Works, Seaforth; "International" Salt Works, Goderich; the "Kidd" Salt Works, Dublin; the "Enterprise" Salt Works, Brussels, and the "Coleman" Works, Seaforth; a representation not surpassed by any operator in Canada. This result has been gained only by careful and diligent attention to the details of business. They make now a number of grades of salt, ranging from the finest flour salt to that about the size of pea coal for use by meat packers, etc.

The wells run down to rock salt to a depth of from 800 to 2,000 feet, and the brine is pumped through the tubes to the surface, where it is first allowed to settle to rid it of the natural impurities of the earth. Afterwards it is drawn off into open flat pans which are built over furnaces, and there by heat it is evaporated, forming a pure crystal salt. The finest salt is most carefully taken from the pan, selected with great care, and put aside to make those brands that are used on the table and for the manufacture of butter and cheese. This salt is put through a drying kiln, and comes out looking like pure white sand. It is then carefully sifted into different grades, each grade having crystals of almost exactly the same size.

The "Open Pan" process enables the firm to supply a large coarse salt, much sought after for the purpose of curing meats, freezing ice cream and salting cattle, etc., and in this salt they have an especially merited trade.

A VISITOR FROM CEYLON.

J. H. RENTON, of Bosanquet & Co., London, Eng., and Colombo, Ceylon, has been calling on a few of the leading tea houses in Canada, and dropped in to shake hands with THE CANADIAN GROCER when in Montreal. He is ex-chairman of the Ceylon Chamber of Commerce, and, having extensive investments in that island, takes a deep interest in its trade.

He was much pleased with the progress Ceylon teas are making in Canada. From what he saw he was quite convinced that in a few years Ceylons would be used everywhere in place of China blacks. He also found in the States and Canada a growing preference for blacks instead of green, which meant that eventually Japans would have to give way to Ceylons.

In the States they were advertising extensively to introduce their teas and get people to use them instead of the inferior teas of other countries, as well as instead of coffee. It was becoming fashionable over there to have afternoon teas, and Ceylons were being used. In Canada it was not necessary to spend as much money.

Mr. Mackenzie and the committee sent out by the Government, after making careful inquiries, reported that THE CANADIAN GROCER covered the entire Dominion thoroughly, and the advertising to the trade would be done through that medium only. Mr. Mackenzie, who was recently in New York, is anxious to return to Ceylon, if he has not gone already. He hoped, however, he could be induced to remain a year or two, as he was a very able man, and was doing a great deal of good work for the Planters' Association in Canada and the United States.

Ceylon has not done much in coffee with Canada, simply because they produce only a limited quantity, and that of the finest. James Turner & Co., Hamilton, got most of what came to this country, and Mr. Mewburn had told him they could use ten times as much if Ceylon would only send it to them.

Mr. Renton sailed Saturday for Europe. He goes to Moscow and St. Petersburg before returning, to look over that country, which has recently become an important buyer of Ceylon teas in preference to Chinas and Japans.

FIRST PRIZE FOR FINNAN HADDIE.

D. & O. Sproul, who do an extensive fishing and canning business at Digby, N.S., were awarded the first prize at the Exhibition held there last month for their "Star" brand finnan haddies. They pay particular attention to handling, smoking and otherwise preparing them for the market, and make a special feature of this brand, staking their reputation on the quality. Nearly all the wholesale dealers now handle the "Star." Buyers who cannot get their pack should write them direct.

WHERE TABLE DELICACIES ARE MADE.

PEOPLE who take jam, and the like of it, for granted as common items of everyday dietary, and even grocers and factors, to whom a good line in such commodities means business, can at best possess but a comparatively inadequate idea of the enormous resources and energies nowadays brought to bear in this particular branch of manufacture. Years ago, what may be termed commercial jam, as opposed to the home-made article, was considered a somewhat doubtful production. With the progress of science and enterprise, and the organisation of factories on more intelligent lines however, vast improvements have been effected, and it is very much open to question whether the most capable, cleanly and deft-handed of housewives can at present produce jams which, taken on their merits, will bear all round comparison with those turned out by our leading manufacturers. Without claiming too much for the firm of Charles Southwell & Co. in this connection, we may reasonably observe that from the outset of their career they have consistently identified themselves with the most progressive aspects of the interest, and are well known as having been pioneers in the adoption of a system and methods which have lifted it to its latter-day position of efficiency. The founder of the house, Mr. Charles Southwell, sen., is probably one of the oldest representatives of the wholesale confectionery trade at present associated with the Metropolis. Leaving his native place (King's Lynn, Norfolk) in 1844, he was initially apprenticed in London to his uncle, Mr. John Castell, a manufacturing confectioner of considerable standing in his day. Ultimately, this gentleman's business became known under the style of Castell & Brown, and in 1863 (Mr. Castell having meanwhile died), Mr. Southwell was able to enter into partnership with Mr. Benjamin Brown, the twain continuing to trade conjointly up to the time of Mr. Brown's decease, which took place about a year later. For the next twenty-one years Mr. Southwell had sole control of the concern, finally severing his connection with it in 1885, when it passed into the hands of a limited liability company, formed for the purpose of carrying it on. Mr. Southwell thereupon elected to start a factory of his own, and, with this object, entered into agreements with his second son, C. Elmer Southwell, and with G. J. Langton and A. J. Timms, thus forming the existing firm of Charles Southwell & Co. Extensive premises were acquired at Dockhead, together with a large amount of adjoining wharfrage and warehouse accommodation, constituting what is known as Springall's Wharf; and here operations were commenced on January 1, 1885. The factory consists of sixteen distinct buildings, ranging up to six floors high, and in consequence of the rapid growth of the firm's transactions, every foot of space is now a consideration of moment, so much so, indeed, that numerous ingenious arrangements and expedients have had to be resorted to in order to put available facilities to the best possible advantage. Located on the first floor of what is known as Block A, is a capital plant of steam jacketted coppers, used for the boiling of Scotch marmalade. This article is one of Messrs. Southwell's great specialties, and is a beautifully clear, well-flavored preserve, produced from the pulp and rind of the best Spanish oranges. In making it, the pulp and sugar are boiled separately, the shredded peel being added afterwards, by which means an exceptionally clear golden color is obtained. On the same floor is the drop boiling room, equipped with several furnaces, which, by the way, are the only open fires about the place, all other boiling operations being effected by steam. Adjoining, is the spacious room, devoted to the manufacture of Southwell's celebrated "Excelsior" table jellies and blancmanges. The ingredients employed are of the most wholesome kind. On the third floor of Block B two commodious rooms have been set apart for covering and tying purpose; whilst in another section of the works there is a third room used exclusively for the tying up of jams for export. This is a somewhat important feature, and one to which Messrs. Southwell have always extended special attention, each jar being carefully covered with parchment (tied down so as to be practically air-tight), wrapped in buff paper, labelled and then sent to the packing department. The fruit is not touched by hand from first to last.

The orange, lemon and citron peel departments, are among the largest in the kingdom. The fruits here requisitioned are imported direct from Spain, Sicily and Corsica, as the case may be, the firm having been instrumental in breaking up the Leghorn monopoly of the Corsican fruit, and being thus in a position to procure the finest flavored citrons at first hand from the actual growers. Their resources in this respect are further buttressed by the circumstance that Mr. Southwell's eldest son, Mr. Arthur C. Southwell, holds the offices of British Vice-Consul and L'oyd's agent in Bastia, and is engaged largely in the exportation of citrons, and other Corsican products, to the English, German and American markets. There is a capitally equipped bakery, in which ratafias, biscuits, sponge cakes, etc., are produced, together with large sugar grinding, peel cutting, almond blanching and grinding, and ginger and pine-apple preserving departments, over and above which there are innumerable stock-rooms, for jars, glasses, labels, parchment, twine and other material, besides engineers', joiners', tin box makers', and packing shops. Messrs. Southwell manufacture every description of the highest class jams, jellies, marmalades, candied peels, boiled sugars, lozenges, comfits, gelatine goods, sherbet, "mixtures," baking powders, flavoring essences, cakes, biscuits and candy. They also bottle and crystallise pretty well every kind of fruit that grows, and are the sole makers of Southwell's Lime Juice Cordial, Lime Juice Cordialette, Lemon and Orange Squash, Effervescent Saline, Citro-Tartrate, and a variety of other well-known specialties. Their trade extends to every part of the United Kingdom, the colonies, and the United States, and numerous other distant centres, and for local delivery purposes alone they find it necessary to keep a considerable number of horses and vans, and a large staff of drivers and attendants.

Quite recently Mr. Charles Southwell completed his fiftieth year in business as a wholesale confectioner, and, in commemoration of the event, a number of his oldest employes presented him with a handsome silver bowl, bearing a suitable inscription, together with the names of the subscribers, and the date when they first entered Mr. Southwell's employ.

INSTANTANEOUS TAPIOGA.

Howe, McIntyre & Co., Montreal, have been doing well with a line of tapioca called "Instantaneous," for which they have the sole agency. It has the advantage over ordinary tapioca in that it requires no soaking and very little cooking. One package will make a pudding for thirty. It makes a delicious combination with fruits, jellies, etc. It is pure and in quality the very best tapioca.

THE ART OF WINDOW DRESSING.

PERHAPS it is because their facilities are limited, perhaps because their artistic taste is undeveloped, but whatever the reason, there are too many grocers who fail to make the entrances to their stores attractive. In the matter of window dressing they are surpassed by almost any other class of tradesmen in the country. Hardwaremen, dry goods merchants, booksellers, as a rule, contrive to give their shop-fronts a seductive appearance to the passer by, while the large proportion of grocers generally fail so to do. And yet they of all lines of trade should make their windows inviting.

Although all is not gold that glitters, the general public is inclined to follow the glitter and to judge of a store by its exterior aspect. And no wonder! Who is there that does not prefer a neatly arranged shop to an untidy one? Who is there that, given a choice between a smart-looking establishment, and one whose window recesses constitute a necropolis for flies, beetles and other dead insects, does not choose the former? Who would not rather travel blocks out of his way to buy food for his table at a clean looking place than purchase provisions at a dirty-faced shop round the corner? Who, in short, is not attracted by an attractive window, and repulsed by a repulsive looking one? Unattractive windows are, as a rule, the result of carelessness and lack of appreciation of the importance of window dressing on the part of grocers. And there seem to be several distinct classes of these untidy merchants. Some pile their window spaces and darken their stores with ugly big tea chests or flour bags; others litter these recesses with heterogeneous masses of samples, and still others treat their windows like Old Mother Hubbard did her cupboard—let them go bare.

Instead of following any one of these courses they should put neither too much nor too little in their windows, and see that what they do exhibit is tastefully displayed. All displays should be seasonable, like advertisements in newspapers, and, above all, they should be neat and striking. If a grocer would attain success, let him have his premises bright and inviting; let the street door open upon a clean, well-ordered interior, but, first of all, let him look to his windows. As a man's face is generally an index to his character, so is the front of a shop, as a rule, in keeping with what is to be seen within. A walk through one or two of Toronto's chief retail thoroughfares, the other day, called forth these observations. Most of the grocery shops encountered presented a very unattractive appearance, but, we are glad to say, there were some exceptions to the rule.

On King street west, Michie & Co. have a window which has the advantage, anyway, of being neat and simple. A nicely-built pyramid of small green-colored packets of tea form the display.

Two very good windows are to be seen at MacWillie's Yonge street emporium. One contains long bars of paper-covered soap piled in the fashion of cordwood, while the other is arranged in a more elaborate fashion. The display in this one is very seasonable, consisting as it does of ingredients for pickling purposes. In the centre of the window in the foreground appears a cone-shaped pile of mixed spices, relieved by a red pepper or two resting on its summit. Round this central monument to the housewife's art are ranged concentric semi-circles of bottled vinegar, spices, pickles, etc. The background is filled with a number of neat cider barrels.

One of F. S. Roberts' windows has an attractive feature in the shape of a row of neat, clean pails, heaped respectively with dates, figs, currants, raisins, sugars, tapiocas, and other such articles.

R. Donald, King street east, has a display of brooms in one of his windows, which is unique and striking. By fastening three brooms together a rude fan was made; and a dozen or more of these fans were arranged—horizontally, perpendicularly and on an incline—close against the plate glass window.

W. McBryen, of Parliament street, has had a couple of attractive but simple window displays lately. One was a terrace of the different kinds of soaps he handles, with a background of the pictures issued by various soap manufacturers. The other was neatly arranged in little piles of canned goods and other seasonable condiments on a bed of white sawdust.

An east-end grocer had an attraction in his window the other day, which, while it drew attention, rather drove away than induced custom. The blind was sufficiently drawn to expose a row of open chests of tea in the window. And curled up in one of these chests was a cat quietly enjoying a sun bath.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Oct. 17th, 1895.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been an active volume of trade passing in general groceries on this market during the past week. Business has not been checked by the advance in sugar, for trading was active. Syrups are scarce and firm, while a good demand from country points is noted for molasses. Porto Rico are rather easier under fresh supplies. Coffees and spices are firm. Teas are very firm in tone. There is an absolute scarcity in low grade Japans, and to replace stocks of it means an advance of 1 or 2c. per lb. Demand for China and Ceylon teas has also been satisfactory. In dried fruit steadiness is noted, the cargo of the Escalona being promptly absorbed at steady prices. Prunes also rule firm in tone. Green fruit is active and generally steady, and in canned goods firmness in lobsters and mackerel is the dominant feature. Payments are rather better than last week.

SUGAR—The rise in price has been firmly maintained, and a good active trade, both from refiners' and jobbers' hands' is being done at the advance. There has been a good movement for prompt delivery, but refiners refuse to contract ahead at current rates. Prices in a jobbing way are firmly held at $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c. for yellows and $4\frac{1}{2}$ c. for granulated. Prices at the refineries are $\frac{1}{2}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ c. below this price, but only for straight wholesale lots. All advices from outside markets tend to a continuation of the firm feeling.

SYRUPS—These are scarce and firm in sympathy with the strong tone of sugar. Prices at the refineries are very firmly held; in fact, a large order would be handled with difficulty. We quote $1\frac{1}{4}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb. as to grade.

MOLASSES—There is a good trade from jobbers' hands in molasses, and quite a few orders are being received from the lumbering regions. The feeling is rather easier on Porto Rico and No. 2 Barbadoes stock, but prime No. 1 grade of the latter is held firm. Porto Rico is quoted now at 34c. in car lots, and 35c. in smaller quantities, while No. 2 Barbadoes, received via New York, is offering at 33c. in car lots and 34c. in a smaller way. Prime No. 1 Barbadoes goods are held firm at 37c.

RICE—There is no change in rice, for which there is a fairly good demand. We quote: Japan, $4.30 to $4.50; crystal Japan, $4.80 to $5; standard B, $3.45; C.C. style, $3.20; Patna, $4.37½ to $5, and Carolina, $7 to $7.50.

SPICES—The market is firm on the whole with little change to note, except a rather firmer feeling in nutmegs. We quote: Cream of tartar, 22¼ to 22½c.; Penang black pepper, 8 to 10c.; white pepper, 13 to 15c.; cloves, whole, 10 to 20c.; cassia, whole, 10 to 20c.; nutmegs, 60 to 90c.; Jamaica ginger, 18 to 25c., as to grade.

COFFEE—There is little activity in this market, the only sales of importance being a few 200-bag lots of Rio and Maracaibo at 18 to 20c. We quote green bean coffee: Maracaibo, 20 to 22c.; Rio, 19 to 20c.; Java, 24 to 28c.; Jamaica, 18½ to 20c.; and 1 Mocha, 27½ to 31c.

TEAS—The dominant feature of the tea market is the complete scarcity of low-grade Japan teas, which are exhausted here and cannot be replaced except at an advance of 1 to 2c. per lb. This development bears out the prediction made in THE CANADIAN GROCER over a month ago. Higher grades of Japan are in better supply and the demand for them is not so brisk. China teas have met a fair demand at prices ranging from 15 to 18c. Western houses have been free buyers of Indian and Ceylon teas here during the past few weeks, and as they are scarce holders are disposed to ask more money. We quote: Japans, low grades, 14c.; medium, 16 to 18c.; fine, 19 to 22c., and finest, 25 to 31c.

DRIED FRUIT—As anticipated, Valencia raisins have exhibited a much firmer tone during the week, and for really good medium to fine brands prices are, if anything, a trifle firmer. The Escalona's cargo was promptly absorbed. Western buyers got most of the stock, having bought it to arrive, and not more than 10,000 packages were placed in Montreal. These cost jobbers all the way from $3\frac{1}{4}$ c. for ordinary off-stalk to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c. for fine off-stalk, $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{3}{4}$ c. for selected, and 5 to $5\frac{1}{4}$ c. for layers. Jobbing prices on Valencias are now based on these purchases and are quoted firm, as further cables from Denia speak of a strong market. We quote: Ordinary off-stalk, $3\frac{1}{2}$ c.; fine ditto, 4c.; selected, 5c., and layers, $5\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb.

There are only a few Sultanas on the market and are all held in jobbers' hands. Business is doing in them at 6c., as cable advices note an advance of 3s. in prices at primary markets. No further receipts of new California stock have been noted since those last reported. Advices from the Coast are very firm in tone and jobbing prices here are steady at 6c. for 3-crown, and 7c. for 4-crown loose muscatels. Currants are firm and higher, if anything, on the basis of cost of the receipts ex Escalona. We quote: $3\frac{1}{2}$ c. in barrels, 4c. in half barrels, and $4\frac{1}{2}$ c. in cases and half cases. Prunes maintain their firm feeling, advices from France ruling strong as ever. We quote: Ordinary, 5 to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c., and fine to choice, $8\frac{1}{2}$ to $9\frac{1}{2}$ c. Figs have been received in a small way during the week, and a somewhat lower range has been established on box figs, which we quote at 9 to 15c., and bag figs, $4\frac{1}{2}$ to 5c.

NUTS.—The nut market is quiet. Advices from Spain are firm on Spanish nuts and walnuts. We quote: Brazils, 8 to 9c.; shelled almonds, 18 to 25c.; Tarragona, 12 to 13c.; Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; shelled ditto, 24 to 25c.; filberts, $6\frac{1}{2}$ to $7\frac{1}{2}$ c.; and pecans, 8 to 10c.

CANNED GOODS.—Strength in canned mackerel and lobsters is the chief feature of this market. A small pack and light stocks are the visible causes. As to actual movement the market is quiet, the volume of business passing being small. We quote: Lobsters, $6.50 to $9 per case; sardines, $8.50 to $10.50; salmon, $5.20 to $5.50; mackerel, $5; tomatoes, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peaches, $1.90 to $3 per doz.; corn, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peas, 85 to 90c. per doz.; strawberries, $2.25 to $2.50; raspberries, $2; greengages, $2 to $2.25; blue plums or damsons, $1.50 to $1.75; pineapples, $2.25 to $2.50, and 3-lb. apples, 90c. to $1.10.

WINES AND SPIRITS.—Trade in wines and spirits has been of the usual character during the week, a good volume of orders being noted, while some round lots of wines and Scotch and Irish whiskeys were placed for future delivery. The next direct steamer from Spain is expected to sail from Cadiz this week. The two Glasgow boats that arrived this week brought shipments of whisky to many firms both here and in the west.

GREEN FRUIT.—There has been a good active trade doing in all kinds of green fruit, and values are pretty well maintained on the whole. Oranges—Jamaica oranges are in light supply, and prices rule firmer at \$7 per bbl. Apples—Receipts of winter apples are heavy, but the market is well cleaned up. Fancy fall apples sell at \$1.40 to \$1.75, snows \$3, and winter apples \$1.90 to \$2.50, as to quality. Lemons—Stocks have been replenished during the week, and the strain of the previous high prices relieved. Business is doing today at \$7 to \$9 per case. Bananas—Furnish no change, ranging from 75c. to \$1.25 per bunch. Grapes—Grapes are in large supply, but prices rule steady at $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 5c. per lb., as to grade. Peaches—California peaches range from \$1.25 to \$1.50 per box. Spanish onions—Some good crates of the Escalona's cargo were put up at auction, and only realized 17 to 30c. per crate. Naturally, this sale has changed the jobbing basis, which we now quote at 35 to 75c., as to grade. Sweet potatoes—Sell steadily at \$3.50 to \$4 per bbl.

FISH.—There is no improvement to note in the line of fresh fish. Haddock is still in light supply and held firm at $4\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb. Fresh B. C. salmon are in over supply and difficult to move at 10c. A few cases have been salted but it has not relieved the glut. Whitefish and trout range from 6 to 7c. and halibut 10 to 12c. In pickled fish, No. 1 Cape Breton herring and Nova Scotia large, which are in ample supply, meet a slow sale and prices are easier at \$4.75 for No. 1 C. B., and \$4.25 to \$4.50 for U. S. large. No. 2 Labrador salmon range from 13 to $13\frac{1}{2}$ c., and No. 2 B. C. do, $10\frac{1}{2}$ c. No. 2 large mackerel have sold at \$17.50, but enquiry is small. No. 1 green cod are lifeless at \$4.50 to \$4.75. There is little to say either in regard to prepared fish. Dried codfish are in small enquiry at \$4.50 to \$4.75 per 100 lbs., and boneless cod at 6c. per lb. Arrivals of smoked fish are considerable. Haddies are selling at $6\frac{1}{2}$ to 7c.; Yarmouth bloaters, \$1 per box; kippered herring, \$1.75, and smoked herring 8 to 10c. Shell oysters of ordinary grades are arriving freely and selling very low at \$1.90 to \$2.50 per bbl. For hand-picked stock we quote: Malpeque, \$4.50 to \$5; Caroquette, \$2.25 to \$2.50; Buctouche, \$4.50, and Miramichi, \$2.50.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.—The egg market has continued firm in its tone, and prices are fully $\frac{1}{2}$ c. per dozen firmer than they were. We quote 13 to $13\frac{1}{4}$ c. for choice candled stock and 11 to $11\frac{1}{4}$ c. for ordinary stock. Potatoes are easy, large receipts having caused a regular glut, and prices have declined 5 to 10c. per bag to 30 to 35c., as to quality. Beans—The demand for beans was slow, \$1.10 to \$1.20 per bushel for hand-picked in car lots, and \$1.30 to \$1.40 in smaller quantities. Hops—In hops business was dull at 5 to 9c. per lb. for new, as to quality. Tallow was unchanged at 6 to $6\frac{1}{2}$ c. for prime refined and at 5 to $5\frac{1}{4}$ c. for lower grades. Hay—The hay market at the opening of the present week developed a stronger tone, and prices have advanced sharply, sales of No. 2 being made on Monday at \$10 and No. 1 at \$12 per ton.

PROVISIONS.—There is no improvement in the local provision market, business being quiet and of a jobbing character. Sales of compound lard in round lots have taken place at \$1.27 $\frac{1}{2}$. We quote: Canadian short cut, clear, \$14.50 to \$15; Canadian short cut, mess, \$16 to \$16.50; hams, city cured, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, $9\frac{1}{4}$ to $10\frac{1}{4}$ c.; bacon, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, com. refined, per lb., $6\frac{1}{4}$ to $6\frac{1}{2}$ c.

FLOUR AND MEAL.—The flour business is active, there being a good demand from local and country buyers at firm prices. We quote: Winter wheat, $3.75 to $4.15; spring wheat, patents, $4.15; straight roller, $3.35 to $3.50; straight roller, bags, $1.55 to $1.70; extra, bags, $1.40 to $1.50; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.90 to $4. Business in oatmeal continues quiet and of a small jobbing character, at steady prices. We quote: Standard, bbls, $3.60 to $3.70; granulated, bbls., $3.70 to $3.80; rolled oats, bbls., $3.70 to $3.80. The demand for feed was good, and the market rules active and steady. We quote: Bran, $14.50 to $15; shorts, $16.50 to $17; mouillie, $20.50 to $21.50.

BUTTER—The butter market is strong, all stock in first hands being firmly held. Most of the September make, however, has been gathered in and, as a good October make is anticipated, buyers are disposed to hold back. At 19½c. they are free operators, but sellers want 20c., and as some lots have realized that price, in fact, a little better, the latter are not in a hurry to sell. The Renfrew creamery has sold to Brice. The value of the purchase was about $7,000. A firm in British Columbia asked for quotations for three carloads of butter, but the company could not quote figures because it had not that amount in cold storage. We quote: Finest September creamery, 19½ to 20c.; Finest August creamery, 18 to 18¼c.; Township dairy, 16 to 17c.; Western dairy, 13 to 14c.

CHEESE—Is firm and, if anything, a shade higher this week. As usual, buying on this side is leading the advance, for English offers are still below a parity with values here. Cables which came to hand Tuesday gave better limits by 1s. 6d. to 2s. than eight or ten days ago, and there were some best terms orders also, but on the whole prices here are too high for the bulk of the offers. Still, the fact that they have been received is an indication that September cheese is wanted, and this fact in itself is an encouraging sign. The total contracts last week in the Brockville section were 40,000 to 50,000, which means that very little of the last part of the season remains in first hands there. The same is the case at Belleville and Peterboro' to a great extent, and the inference to be drawn from the fact is that prices are more apt to advance than decline. At the wharf 4,000 Quebec cheese were offered on Monday. All were promptly taken, the ruling price being 8c., though a fraction more may have been paid for some lots. This is an advance of ¼ to ¾c. on last Monday's price, so that no more need be said of the disposition of the market. We quote: Finest Ontario, Septembers, 8½ to 8¾c.; finest townships, Septembers, 8½ to 8¾c.; finest Quebec, Septembers, 8½ to 8¾c.; August makes, 7¾ to 7¾c.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Oct. 17, 1895.

GROCERIES.

TRADE does not this week exhibit any strikingly new features. There is a nice volume of trade doing, although it is perhaps not as heavy as a week ago. This is due to the fact that there is scarcely as much sugar moving as there was, although even in this particular a good seasonable trade is transpiring. Canned goods are showing a little more activity than a week ago, but the turnover is still small. If anything, there is a steadier feeling in canned tomatoes. Teas are still fairly active and strong as to values. Dried and evaporated fruits are gradually attracting increased attention, as stocks are becoming more complete with seasonable goods. Payments are fair.

CANNED GOODS—Canned tomatoes are steadier, partly on account of rumored movement to corner the pack in Canada, fuller particulars of which are given in our editorial columns. The demand for canned vegetables is a little better than it was, but it is still light and devoid of life. It is anticipated that as a result of the more than usually good quality of canned corn this season, there will be an increased consumption of this article. The demand is still fairly active. We quote: Tomatoes, 77½ to 85c.; corn, 75 to 85c.; peas, 85c., for ordinary; sifted, 95c. to $1; extra sifted, $1.40; peaches, $2.90 to $3 for 3's, $1.90 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.40 to $2; strawberries, $1.80 to $2.45, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.90 to $2.20; cherries, $2.40 to $2.45; apples, 3's, 85 to 90c.; gallons, $2 to $2.25; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.35 to $1.40; "Maple Leaf," $1.35; "Lion," $1.35; Lowe Inlet, $1.27 to $1.30, in tall tins; cohes, $1.15 to $1.20; canned mackerel, $1 to $1.10; lobsters, $1.80 to $2.10, for tall tins; flats, $2.35 to $2.65, half tins, $1.40 to $1.45; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.50 to $1.60; 2's, $2.50 to $2.65; 6's, $8 to $8.25; 14's, $18 to $19. Chicago canned beef, 1's, $1.75 per doz.; 2's, $2.85.

COFFEE—Fine coffees of all kinds are scarce and firm. Locally the demand continues good. We quote green in bags as follows: Rio (new season), 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22½c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracaibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

RICE—The local market is quiet and unchanged. We quote: "B," 3½ to 3¾c.; extra Japan, 5¼ to 5¾c.; imported Japan, 5¼ to 6¼c.; tapioca, pearl, 3½ to 5½c.

SPICES—Pickling spices are still occupying the chief attention. We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.

NUTS—There is the usual seasonable trade doing at unchanged prices. We quote: Brazil nuts, 11½ to 12½c.; Sicily shelled almonds, 25 to 26c.; Terragona almonds, 14 to 14½c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 14 to 15c.; Marbot walnuts, 12 to 13c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 10 to 12c.; Sicily filberts, 9 to 10c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; pecans, 10½ to 11c.

SUGAR—There has been no material change in the local situation. If anything, the demand is not as good as it was a week ago, although the quantity going out is fair for the season. In New York there have been sales at recent highest quotations, but the bulk of the holders are unwilling to let their supplies go, anticipating further advances, while the refiners take willingly everything that is offered and look for more. The reaction in London and Paris is said to be due to more favorable weather reports on the continent, which might lead to the modification of Mr. Giesecker's estimate. At the moment, however, Mr. Licht still adheres to his original estimate of a shortage of over 1,000,000 tons in the beet crop. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, 4¾ to 4¾c.; do, No. 2, 4¼c.; yellows, 3¼ to 3.85c.; Demerara, raw, 3½ to 3¾c.

SYRUPS—Owing to the reduction in the price of corn syrup, there has been a good deal of this commodity selling during the past week. In sugar syrups there is scarcely anything doing. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.; bright, 40 to 42c. Corn syrup we quote as follows: 2 gal. pails, $1; 3 gal. pails, $1.50; kegs, 3¼c. per lb.; half-bbls, 3c.; bbls., 2¾c.

MOLASSES—There is an increasing trade doing, although the volume of business is not of large proportions. Prices are as before.

JOHN A. ROBERTSON, Board of Trade Building, MONTREAL

We quote : New Orleans, bbls., 30 to 32c.; half-bbls., 33½ to 35c.; Barbadoes, bbls., 31 to 35c.; half-bbls., 33 to 37c.

TEA—There is no material change in the situation. The chief demand on the spot continues to be for Ceylon and Assam teas at from 17 to 20c. There is a fair demand only for Japan teas, and low grades are scarce and dear. Green teas are still in good demand. We quote ruling prices to retailers : Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades ; Ch na Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 35c. for high grades ; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades ; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

DRIED FRUIT—Local stocks of currants are now fairly complete, having been augmented by the large shipments. The demand is fair. We quote : Fine filiatras, in half-bbls., 3¾ to 4c.; ditto, cases, 4 to 4¼c.; ditto, half-cases, 4¼ to 4½c.; Casalinas, cases, 4½ to 4c.; half-cases, 5 to 5½c.; Vostizas, cases, 5¾ to 6c.; ditto, half-cases, 6 to 6¼c.; ditto, extra fine, 6¾ to 7c.; ditto, half-cases, 7 to 7¼c. Valencia raisins continue in demand. There is a little inquiry for new season's California loose muscatels. We now quote : Fine off stalk, 4½ to 5c., according to brand; selec. ed, 5½ to 6c. Old fruit we quote as follows : Off stalk, 75 to 80c. per box; selected, 85 to $1 per box. California loose muscatels (new season's), 4-crown, 7c.; 3-crown, 5½ to 5¾c. per lb. Malaga raisins, new season's, are quoted nominally as before : London layers, $2.20 to $2.50; extra dessert, $3.75 to $4; connoisseur clusters, $3 to $3.25. California prunes are now offering, and we quote them as follows : 50-60 to box, 9½c. per lb.; 60-70 to box, 9c.; 70-80 to box, 8½c. per lb. We quote Bordeaux prunes nominally at 4½ to 6½c. California evaporated fruits are beginning to be enquired after again, shipments of new season's goods having arrived. We quote : Pears, 11½c.; apricots, in boxes, 15 to 16c.; peaches, in boxes, 12½c. California figs are selling well, and they show excellent value this season. Other kinds are not receiving much attention yet. We quote : 14 oz., 10½c.; 10 lb., 10½c. for 5-rowed, and 12½c. for 4-rowed; 14 lb., 11c.; 28 lb., 16c. Dates are dull and unchanged at 4¼c. up.

GREEN FRUIT—The feature in the market is the continued high price of lemons, though these are a little lower than last week. The receipts are not large, and the demand at quotations is small, retailers apparently holding off in the hope of lower figures. Despite the fact that the call for cranberries is not as yet very marked, these berries, of which some Cape Cod are on the market, remain high in price. In fact, they are higher than last week. The apple crop still promises to be large, but other domestic fruits have ceased to come in. In oranges the only kind in the market are Jamaicas, which hold their price. Prices are : Lemons—Sorrento and Verdilla, in boxes, $9.50 to $10; Malagas, in half chests, $10 to $10.50. Oranges—Jamaicas, in boxes, $4.25 to $4.75; in bbls., $8 to $8.50. Bananas, $1 to $1.50; cocoanuts, $3.50 to $4 a sack; cabbage, 75c. to $1 per bbl.; Canadian tomatoes, 10 to 20c. per basket; green apples, $1.50 to $2.25 a barrel; muskmelons, $1.75 per bbl.; grapes, 4 to 5c. per pound; Canadian peaches, 75 to 85c. per basket; Bartlett pears, $1.25 per basket; other grades, 60 to 75c.; Spanish onions, 75 to 80c. per small crate; Portugal onions, $2 per large crate; sweet potatoes, $3.50 per bbl.; cranberries, $9 to $10 per bbl.

BUTTER—There is an increasing demand for good butter, but poor qualities are unsalable. Prices are : Old summer dairy and store packed, 5 to 9c.; fresh prints, 16 to 17c.; fresh tubs, 15 to 16c. Fresh creamery—Tubs, 19 to 20c.; pound prints, 21 to 22c.

CHEESE—Local buyers are still offering 7½c. for August Canadian makes, and 8c. for the balance of the season. Last August and September makes bring 10 to 10½c.

EGGS—Fresh eggs are higher and firm at 15 to 16c. per doz. Pickled are quoted at 13½ to 14c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.—Beans—Have declined in price owing to plentiful stocks. Now quoted at $1.15 to $1.30. Dried apples—

Unchanged at 5½c. per lb. Evaporated apples—Unaltered at 7c. per lb. Potatoes—Still offering at 25c. per bag by the carload. Honey—S rained, in bulk, is still quoted at 8 to 9c. per lb. In the comb honey brings $1.50 to $1.80, according to quality. Hops—Are quoted : Canadian, 6½ to 7½c.; Pacifics, 14c. Dressed beef, veal and mutton by the carcass—A little easier in some lines. We quote : Beef, first-class, $7 per 100 lbs.; fair to middling, $5.50 to $6.50; rough and inferior, $4 to $4.50. Lamb, 5 to 5½c. per lb. Mutton, 4 to 5c. per lb. Veal, 4 to 6½c. for first quality.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS—Packers have begun work, and hogs are coming in pretty freely. They are quoted at $5.15 to $5.25, and are likely to go lower. Products are a little lower in some cases. We quote : Dry salted meats—Long clear bacon, 6¾c. for carload lots, and 7¼c. for small lots; backs, 7½ to 8c. Smoked meats—Breakfast bacon, 10½ to 11c.; rolls, 7 to 7¾c.; hams, large, 22 lbs. and over, 10½ to 11c.; medium, 15 to 20 lbs., 11½c.; small hams, 11 to 11½c.; pickled, 10c.; backs, 10 to 10½c.; picnic hams, 7½ to 8c. Lard—Pure Canadian, tierces, 7¾c.; tubs, 8½c.; pails, 8½c. Barrel pork—Canadian heavy mess, $15; Canadian short cut, $16; clear shoulder mess, $13.50; shoulder mess, $13.

FLOUR AND FEED—Wheat is quoted thus : White, 66½ to 67½c. per bushel; red, 66 to 66½c.; goose, 55 to 56c. Oats, quoted at 28 to 28½c. per bushel. Barley, quoted at 35 to 41c. per bushel. Flour maintains a comparatively firm tone at last week's prices, viz. : Straight roller, $3.05 to $3.10; Manitoba, $3.90 to $4; patents, $4.15 to $4.25.

BREAKFAST FOODS—Are somewhat lower owing to the season's large crops of grain. We quote : Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.25 to $3.55; rolled wheat, $2.10 in 100 lb. barrels; cornmeal, $3; split peas, $3.25; pot barley, $3.40.

BALED HAY—Quoted thus : In carloads, $12.50; in small lots, $13.50 to $14.

FISH—Trade is very good and supplies are larger. Frozen lines will soon hold the market. Oysters are quoted at $1.25 for standards and $1.75 for selects. We quote fish : Skinned and boned codfish, 6½c.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4c.; haddock, 5 to 6c.; Labrador herring, $3.25 to $3.50 per half barrel and $5.50 to $5.75 per barrel; Newfoundland herring, $2.50 per half barrel, and $4.50 to $4.75 per barrel; fresh water salt herring, $3 per barrel; blueback herring, 3c.; pike, 5 to 6c. per lb; flitched cod, 5c.; finnan haddies, 7½c.; Digby herring, in bundles of 5 boxes, 11c.; do., lengthwise, 10c.; large halibut, 12 to 15c.; Georgian Bay trout, 6½ to 7c.; whitefish, 8 to 9c.; Restigouche salmon, 20 to 25c.; British Columbia salmon, 12 to 16c.; mackerel, 20 to 25c.; steak cod, 6½ to 7½c.; haddock, 5c.; black bass, 9 to 10½c. Fresh Lake Erie herring, $3 per hundred.

SALT—With trade fair, prices are : Barrels, 85c.; coarse sacks, 58c.; fine sacks, 60c.; dairy, $1.25; rock, $10.

HIDES, SKINS, WOOL AND TALLOW—Hides are weaker still than last week. Dealers are paying 7, 6 and 5c. respectively for Nos. 1, 2 and 3 green, and asking 8¼ to 8½c. for cured.

SHEEPSKINS—Lambskins and shearlings remain at 70c.

WOOL—Trade continues quiet. We quote : Fleece combing, from 23½ to 25½c.; rejections, 17½ to 18½c.; unwashed, 13½ to 14½c.

PETROLEUM—Trade is good and we still quote in 1 to 10 bbl. lots, imperial gallon, Toronto : Canadian, 16c.; carbon safety, 18c.; Canadian water white, 18c.; American water white, 20½c.; photogene, 21½ to 22c.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.—Concluded from page 94.

please them, and the good result of this treatment is shown by the larger orders which the travelers are now getting and the increase of good feeling between wholesalers and retailers. One or two failures that have lately taken place lead THE GROCER to again urge the wholesale dealer, not only for his own good, but as well for the good of the retailer, not to permit credit to be so easily obtained. The present anxiety to sell goods not only tempts the honest man to enter business when he has no means and ought not to, but it also gives the dishonest man a chance to do what is no better than stealing—buy goods for which he does not intend to pay. Moreover, knowing he does not intend to pay for them, he brings an unfair competition to bear upon his more honest competitor by cutting the price of goods.

OIL—Prices show no change. In burning oil a better demand is reported, while lubricating is more quiet. We quote: Best American, 22¼c.; best Canadian, 21¼c.; prime white, 17½c.; No charges for barrels.

SALT—A cargo of some 6,000 bags is daily expected. As this will contain some fine, as the demand is easier, and as the market has been well supplied during the past month by the arrival of two other cargoes, there will be a fairly large stock held here. Prices show no change. We quote: Coarse, 50 to 55c.; fine factory-filled, $1.10; 5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.80 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10 lb. boxes, 12c.; cartoons, $2 per doz.; cheese salt, bulk, $2.70 per bbl.

CANNED GOODS.—There is a fair demand and stocks are larger than was expected. In oysters a large number of Baltimore houses are not offering. The demand is, however, light here owing to fresh oysters being to hand. More Canadian pineapple is in the market than ever before. In fact, this is about the first year any has been offered. It is of particularly good quality. We quote: Corn, 85 to 90c.; peas, 95c. to $1; tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; gallon apples, $2.15 to $2.25; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.65 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.60 to $1.65; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $2.85 to $3; 2's, $1.90 to $2; pineapple, Canadian pack, $2.35; salmon, $1.45 to $1.50; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.40; clams, $5.50 for 4 doz.; chowder, $3 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1.

DRIED FRUIT.—Peels are daily expected. The larger quantity received here will be English goods. New French prunes are to hand. Buyers are rather sorry they bought so lightly, as the market has advanced and is so firm. Those to hand are in three qualities the lowest priced ones being in kegs, the other two in 56-lb. boxes. No direct shipments of raisins have yet been received, and the present demand, which is not large, is being supplied from New York. No new layers have as yet arrived. A car of California raisins has been consigned here, and the consigner has placed the larger proportion subject to quality being satisfactory. They will cost the same as those quoted from New York. Owing to shortness in 4-crown goods they are quoted much higher as compared with 3-crown, than usual. Malaga fruit is to cost low. Dried apples are coming in in small quantities from Nova Scotia, and there is a fair demand. It is understood some Canadian onions arriving here have not given the best of satisfaction, and the effect is felt in the prices. We quote: Currants, 1-lb. cartoons, 7½c.; bulk, 6½c.; dried apples, 5½ to 6c.; evaporated apples, 7½ to 8c.; Sultan raisins, 7 to 8c.; old Valencia, 4c.; layers, 5c.; London layers, $2.25; loose muscatels, 5½ to 6c.; currants, bbls., 3¼ to 3½c.; half-cases, 3¼ to 4c.; dates, 4 to 4¼c.; prunes, 4¼ to 5½c.; figs, 11 to 18c.; California evaporated peaches, 12 to 13c.; do. apricots, 12 to 14c.; do. pears, 12 to 13c.; onions, $2.15 to $2.25 per bbl.; new Valencias, 5½c.; keg prunes, 4 to 4¼c.; case, 4¼ to 6c.

DAIRY PRODUCE—The egg market is in a most unsatisfactory condition here, prices being much lower than at other points. There has been a great deal of trouble from bad eggs, and many shippers deserved the low returns they got. Not only do the eggs have to be culled over by the commission man, but in many cases the goods are returned to him. And the expense, trouble and dissatisfaction to consumer, retailer and dealer, cannot be paid by the commission. P.E.I. shippers say they cannot ship here as they can get 15 cents at other places. Butter is firm for good. Cheese in early makes is easy, while later makes are held fairly firm. We quote: Common dairy butter, 16 to 17c.; dairy, 18 to 19c.; new creamery prints, 22c.; cheese, new, 8½ to 9c.; creamery, tubs, 20c.; eggs, 10 to 12c.

MOLASSES—The demand for barrels is better, and there are fair stocks. A better demand is noted for syrups, and splendid values are shown. In Barbadoes there is quite a range of quality. The Porto Rico held here shows splendid value. We quote: Barbadoes, 32 to 34c.; Trinidad, 33 to 34c.; Porto Rico, 34 to 36c.; bbls.; New Orleans, 32 to 34c.; St. Croix, 29 to 30c.; syrup, 35c.

SUGAR—Stocks (particularly granulated) in store and to arrive are large, one merchant having 3,600 bbls. of granulated. Upper Canadian refiners will not sell futures, and prices have advanced ¼c. and are held firm. One party holding 1,000 bbls. of granulated says he will not sell a barrel under 5c., and that this price may come is the general opinion, though not expected for some months. The movement is good, outside dealers seeming to feel the position. Good values in yellows continue in request by wholesalers here. Although some sugar bought before the duty is still held, in almost all cases dearer sugar has been handled while the other lies. It is said it can be carried at the low figure of ¼c. for eight months. We quote: Granulated, 4¾ to 4½c.; yellow, 3½ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5¼ to 5½c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

FISH—New smoked herring are now to hand. The market is dull, and 7c., ex vessel to dealers in large lots, is the highest point reached. There are still a number of old on the market. Grand Manan pickled are reported higher, but there is no change here. In Shelburne prices are low, with a good grade of fish to hand. One of our local packers is putting up a pure cod in 3 lb. boxes to compete with the shredded. There is considerable complaint that the dry fish brought here are not as dry as they should be. But as long as dealers will buy them the fisherman will bring them. We quote: Fresh haddock, 2 to 2½c. per lb.; dry, $1.50; large cod, $3.70 to $3.75; medium, $3.45 to $3.50; pollock, $1.40; bay herring, $1.25 to $1.30 per half bbl.; Rippings, $1.75; Wolves, $1.85 to $2; smoked herring, old, 5 to 6c.; new smoked, 7 to 8c.; Canso, $5 per bbl.; Barrington, $3.50 per bbl.; Digby chicken, 10c.; shad, half-bbl., $5 to $5.50; fresh, 10c.; Grand Manan herring, half-bbl., $1.40 to $1.45; Shelburne, $3 to $3.25 bbl., $2.70 half-bbl.; oysters, $3 per bbl.

PROVISIONS—The demand is rather better, lumbermen buying largely. Pork is easier. American is much preferred to Canadian, except the local pack, which finds very ready sale at good prices. Canadian barreled beef is not in request. In lard prices are rather easier, with quite a range between different packers. American is being offered very low. The local retail trade buy almost entirely New Brunswick packed lard. The demand for cottonseed is quiet, and compound lard is also dropping off in demand. We quote: Clear pork, $15.50 to $16.50; mess, $14.50 to $15; beef, $13.50 to $14; pure lard, 9½ to 10c.; compound lard, 7½ to 8c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—Flour is held firm with fair sales reported, and rather better prices looked for. In oatmeal the price is again marked lower. Cornmeal is in large demand and local mills are rushed with business. The price is now lower than for many years. This low price is effecting the demand for feed and the prices are easier. It is expected beans, which are again marked down, will be still lower. The quality of N.B. oats to hand is not what it should be, they being badly cleaned. It is too bad their sales should be so spoiled by carelessness in this way. We quote: Manitoba, $4.65 to $4.75; best Ontario, $3.85 to $3.90; medium, $3.50 to $3.65; oatmeal, $3.50 to $3.75; cornmeal, $2.30 to $2.35; middlings, $19 to $20 on track; bran, $18 to $19; hand-picked beans, $1.30; prime, $1.40; oats, 33 to 35c.; hay, $10 to $11.50; pot barley, $4; round peas, $3.65 to $3.70; split peas, $3.70 to $3.80; native yellow eye bean, $2.

NOVA SCOTIA FIBRED CODFISH

REPRESENTS the highest achievement in the art of curing and preparing Codfish ready for cooking.

NOTHING is used in this product but the finest of shore Codfish especially cured and dried for it.

THE disagreeable odor usually considered to be a necessary evil to be endured while cooking Codfish will be found to be entirely lacking in this.

EVERY particle of skin and bone being removed and the water evaporated, there is absolutely no waste. The contents of each package, therefore, is worth to the housekeeper about three times its weight in Codfish as ordinarily sold.

PUT UP in half-pound cartons, 3 doz. cartons to the case, and sold by the wholesale and retail grocers throughout Canada.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

HALIFAX, Oct. 17, 1895.

THE grocers of this city have no society or guild of their own. The hardware and dry goods people have. The latter has only been in existence a few months, but it is showing remarkable signs of vitality. At their last meeting they took the initiative in what may prove beneficial to the merchants of Halifax in general—a summer carnival in Halifax during the coming summer. The grocery trade will be asked to co operate.

The weight of bread sold in Halifax is coming in for considerable discussion. A citizen writes to the press that he weighed two loaves sold him for two-pound loaves, and found one to weigh 1 lb. 6 oz. and the other 1 lb. 12 oz. He also complains that the quality of coffee sold in many places in the city is “nothing but beans.”

FISHSTUFFS—Dry cod are still arriving very freely fortnightly from Newfoundland. A portion of these are bad weather fish, but the quantity of really firmer fish is quite large. The fall catch of cod on our shores is very good, but not sufficient to bring the catch, as a total, up to an average one. Fall herrings are in good supply, but good quality fish, suitable for the grocery trade, are wanting. No mackerel are as yet reported, and the prospects are poor for this fishery. Prices on salmon and mackerel have both advanced, and these articles now come under the head of luxuries.

SUGARS—The market is looking very strong for raws. A cable this week from London to the Acadia Refinery says the market is firm, with an upward tendency. Refined keeps strong, with good demand. Quotations are: Granulated, $4\frac{3}{8}$ c.; yellows, $3\frac{1}{4}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c. Owing to the scarcity of water at Moncton it is feared the refinery there will have to stop boiling. Moncton has had a very dry spell, and the city reservoir is very low.

GREEN FRUIT—The green fruit market is quiet, with some items attracting attention. Jamaica oranges are arriving freely and prices are moderate, the quotations being from $6.50 to $7 per bbl. repacked. The first Malaga lemons of the season are to hand, and the quality is very good. Large cases are worth from $10.50 to $11.

EGGS—The egg market is slow, good stock jobbing at 13 to 14c.

PRODUCE—There is an abundant crop of potatoes on P. E. Island, but very few have found their way to this market as yet; 35c. is a fair quotation here to-day.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY?

W. H. Gillard & Co., of Hamilton, tea importers and wholesale grocers, have some very attractive advertising in this week's issue and a perusal of same is worthy the attention of buyers. Since the inception of THE CANADIAN GROCER this firm has occupied a place both in the advertising columns and in the interests of the paper; recognizing the value of well distributed printers' ink as an important factor in the furtherance of an up-to-date pushing wholesale house. The firm have been keenly alive to the advantage of placing weekly before their many customers, and the trade in general, the attractive lines they offer throughout the year, and appreciate the necessity of advertising only such goods as will reflect credit upon themselves, and be a source of pleasure to the retail merchant to handle. This year, as last, the firm are making a special feature of Mediterranean fruits, and their shipments comprise many hundreds of tons of raisins, currants, (Paradise and Haycastle) figs, nuts and other seasonable goods which are in great demand for the winter trade. Their tea department is flourishing and their sales largely in excess of any previous year, which they say is due to a careful study of the varied requirements of the tea drinking public. The firm import heavily from the countries of growth, having careful and special arrangements made with their foreign buyers, which ensures the shipment of teas best suited to this market.

AN ENLARGED SOAP FACTORY.

P. M. Lawrason, London, Ont., maker of “Wonderful,” “Electric,” and other soaps, has again been compelled to enlarge his factory. This has relieved the congested state of the premises, and consequently increased the facilities for both making and shipping Mr. Lawrason's various soaps. The output is now about 1,500 boxes per week. Mr. Lawrason makes a fine grade of toilet soaps in addition to his laundry soaps.

FOAM YEAST RISING IN POPULARITY.

The Foam Yeast Co., which occupies a thoroughly equipped five-storey building on Esplanade street east, is one of Toronto's growing concerns. Its goods are beginning to be recognized as the equal of any on the market, and business is increasing so rapidly that the firm is not able just now to keep up with the demand. All goods are done up in enamelled tin boxes in different sizes, viz.: Packages containing 3 doz. 5c. cakes, and packages containing $1\frac{1}{2}$ doz. 10c. cakes. The firm also put up for the lower provinces a wooden case containing 3 dozen 10c. cakes.

MATCHES TO GO UP.

THE CANADIAN GROCER is informed that it is the intention of the manufacturers to raise the price of French matches 15c. per case. Our authority is good and the change may take place very shortly.

FIBRED CODFISH.

Parker & Eakins, of Yarmouth, N. S., curers and export dealers in fish for over a quarter of a century, are now placing upon the market a new article of diet, viz., fibred codfish. In the preparation of this article great care is used. The choicest fish are selected, and, having been thoroughly cured and inspected, are put up in neat half-pound packages and packed in cases containing three dozen. As Messrs. Parker & Eakins guarantee their fibred codfish, the trade will run no risk ordering from them, and will be sure of receiving a pure article and one that will give the consumer satisfaction.

VERY SORRY.

“Procrastination is the thief of time” someone has truthfully said. Market notes and many interesting items have been crowded out of this issue. We are sorry, but we cannot help it. It is now one hour before this last page must close, and although we have room for a few items, to be fair to all we leave every item out. At this moment we have eight pages in type which we cannot wait to print. If we missed the mail the Postmaster-General would have a fit.

DROPS FROM THE EDITOR'S PEN.

The Grand Trunk's Sir Rivers is bringing on a tide of reforms.

* * *

It is determination, not trying, that makes men successful merchants.

* * *

It looks as if the strength in wooden ware wouldn't wear out for some time.

* * *

He is a stranger to his ability who has not made himself acquainted with it by testing it.

* * *

Clerks should never measure the quantity or quality of their work by the wages they receive.

* * *

Aim to build your business upon your own energy, not on the competitors you may shove under.

* * *

Rest is sweet only to the man who works for his living, and doubly sweet to him who works hard.

* * *

All clerks may not have the capacity to get wealthy, but richness in character is possible to all.

* * *

All that receive calls to the bar are not lawyers: Some are toppers and some the making of such.

* * *

There is one thing about His Satanic Majesty; he can be relied upon to give delinquent debtors a roasting.

* * *

The Customs Department seems to have a penchant for taxing packages; so have cormorants for swallowing fish.

* * *

The Customs Department seems determined to have rather more than less of the pound of flesh from the importer.

* * *

We discourse upon the need of capital in business, but brains, after all, is the most essential. Brains can make capital, but capital can never make brains.

* * *

A merchant with ideas only becomes a light when he diffuses his ideas. Until he does that he is an opaque nonentity.

* * *

Merchants who obstruct sidewalks with their goods sometimes find that they have opened up a pathway to the police court.

* * *

Trade is getting ready to take a nap before engaging in the hard work of a promised active winter and spring business.

* * *

Canada can afford to lose a little revenue consequent upon the French Treaty, if it is offset by an enlarged trade with the French Republic.

* * *

Trees losing their summer decorations remind observing merchants that it is time store windows were putting their winter decorations on.

* * *

An Englishman went from beer to groceries. The other day he failed. Sometimes people go from groceries to beer, and they, too, frequently fail.

* * *

"A" stands for advertising, "B" for brains, and "C" for capital. And they are the first three letters in the alphabet of success in business.

* * *

Judging from the bones of mastadons that have recently been unearthed in Hamilton, the Ambitious City must at one time have been the abode of great animals, as is it now of great business men.

* * *

The Salvation Army is opening grocery, provision and general stores in England. While the Army is ruining the business of the legitimate merchants it is doubtless trying at the same time to save their souls. But is this true religion? One thing is certain: it is not live and let live.

* * *

Judging from experience in the past, there are some people who conclude that it is little use whining at the door of the Customs Department over the 20 per cent. duty on packages of French wines.

* * *

The country merchant's stove will soon be the centre of attraction for loungers many. He will be a blessing to the store-keeper who will invent a stove that will eject loafers as well as emit heat.

* * *

The recently developed activity among the politicians is not born of any desire to better qualify themselves to transact the business of the country. They are merely training for office: the one to get in and the other to keep in.

* * *

The proposition to abolish smoking at the committee meetings of Hamilton's aldermen was probably actuated by a desire to benefit the mental as well as the physical eyesight of the "Ambitious City's" municipal rulers.

* * *

Entertainments under the auspices of business men's associations should be the means, not the end, of these organizations. Their end should be the removal of trade evils and the inauguration of improved business methods.

* * *

A merchant in England figured that he had a surplus of £600, but he overlooked the little liability of £6,000, money borrowed. He is now in the bankruptcy court. He is short enough in common sense to be in an insane asylum.

* * *

If politicians would devote one-tenth to the business of the country of the time they spend in picking flaws in each other's armor, the Dominion would be better off, and the word "politician" would have a less unsavory odor than it now has.

THE COFFEE CROP.

ACCORDING to advices from some quarters earlier in the season, the coffee crop for 1895-1896 was going to be very short, but more recently formed estimates make the yield for the year a large one.

It is now quite apparent that the small estimates referred to, while no doubt published with good intentions, were measured, especially in Rio, by the extremely light receipts from November to March. Since then matters have changed. A run of large receipts in Rio and Santos has forced a reconsideration of estimates, but as the smaller figures were in accord with the feeling and sentiment in Brazil and nearly all other coffee markets, they were accepted by dealers without reserve; therefore the change to larger estimates is not popular, and the trade attempts to disregard the correct position. Receipts in Rio and Santos to this point indicate a total yield nearer to 6,000,000 than 5,000,000 bags. The average date for ten years, when one-third of the crop has been marketed in Rio and Santos, is about the middle of October, and already $2\frac{1}{4}$ million bags have been sent down. If, therefore, Rio and Santos will give more than expected on this crop, it will be quite interesting to figure out what may be expected from all the other crops.

Calculating the supplies from Rio and Santos for the current season at about 5,500,000 bags, and the rest of the world to contribute the same quantity, the total of 11,000,000 bags will come fully up to the world's consumption. With all the talk of decreased supplies from Brazil, which encouraged higher prices, it was not considered probable that the first three months of this crop the visible supply should increase 230,000 bags instead of a decrease. In the second half of the crop season supplies have seldom decreased, but rather the reverse; and, therefore, from present indications, it is quite reasonable to expect that the season's supplies will be more or less equal to consumption, and the world's visible on July 1st, 1896, is not likely to be any less than the quantity the current season started with.

As regards the growing crops in Rio and Santos, reports of the prospects are uniformly favorable. The peculiarity this year is that not a dissenting voice is heard regarding the probabilities of a large crop, and where opinions have shaped themselves into figures, a total of about 8,000,000 bags is conservatively expressed for the Rio and Santos crops.

BROOM CORN.

The broom corn crop of Illinois this season is, without doubt, the best ever produced in that State, being of a fine silky growth and of a beautiful green color throughout, with practically no red-tipped or stained brush in it.

Owing to the heavy crops the price is reasonable, but with any ordinary improvement in business a corresponding advance may take place.

The firm of Chas. Boeckh & Sons have secured some of the choicest of the crop, having personally selected and bought their stock direct from the growers. They have now arriving about 25 carloads, or over 400,000 lbs. With their large manufacturing facilities they will be in a position to offer value to the trade which cannot be surpassed by any other house. Dealers may act advisedly by laying in their stock while present values and prices are obtainable.

NEW MARKET FOR CIDER.

The Canadian High Commissioner in England has called the attention of the Department of Agriculture to the great increase of late years in the consumption of cider in the United Kingdom, a consumption which, he says, is quite beyond the power of supply of the local cider-making industry. Imports of this commodity from the United States to Great Britain have assumed considerable proportions, and the High Commissioner is of opinion that no reason exists why Canadian cider should not find a large market with equal ease. The attention of fruit growers' associations and leading manufacturers of cider in this country is called to this fact. A number of copies of a pamphlet called "Cider," published in London, have been transmitted to the Department of Agriculture, and will be distributed among such parties as take an interest in the suggested new branch of export trade.

A SORRY GROCER.

A rather funny incident occurred in Middletown recently, according to N. E. Grocer. It seems that a customer approached a local grocer and asked him how it was that he was not giving 22 pounds of sugar for a dollar as another grocer was? The grocer replied, saying that he doubted if the retailer the grocer named sold that amount of granulated sugar for a dollar, and the result of the argument was that the groceryman offered his customer $4 in cash with the understanding that he was to go to the store named and ask for that amount of sugar, and if he was given it, the sugar was to become the property of the customer at the expense of the groceryman. The customer lost no time in making the purchase, loaded his sugar into a cart and carried it around to the store of the one who had furnished the cash, and carried it home when he found the weight to be correct. Now the groceryman is thinking how to get even with his customer.

AVOID EXCESSIVE ROUTINE.

Some merchants, remarks Merchants' Review, believe there is nothing like system or routine in business, and it certainly seems impossible to conceive of a big wholesale or retail business being successfully carried on without the aid of system. Yet, carried to excess, system in private business becomes as fatal to all healthy progress as it has often proved itself to be in departments of the government of this country and other countries. Undoubtedly many promising businesses have been gradually throttled and eventually killed by too much red tape.

When system or routine is made to take the place of individual talent, impulse and enterprise, it is a sign that death of the business from excessive red tapism is not far off.

Where routine rigidly governs all the details of a business a military style of promotion becomes the rule, and the dull and incompetent employe stands an equal chance of promotion with his able and intelligent co-worker. The result is that ability and energy are driven to rival houses, trade soon takes the same course, and eventually the death of the business follows.

System is a good servant but a poor master. It never can be substituted for the personal qualities that distinguish the ideal merchant, and however much certain authorities may harp upon its importance, success in business will always depend upon the man rather than the system.

SERVANTS AND THE MERCHANT.

A trade journal for butchers utters a timely word of warning to its readers on the subject of the treatment of the servant girls who visit the store on errands for their employers. It shrewdly remarks that it is in the power of servants to do a tradesman much harm or much good, and that polite and attentive treatment of the girl is as necessary as though she were the mistress.

Advice of this sort is always in order, because however trite the same has become, merchants are constantly losing trade through servants getting huffy because of neglect and discourtesy, which, however, is sometimes wholly imaginary.

But, to show how effectually competition disposes of questions of this nature, it is only necessary to mention the practice of tipping servants, which is resorted to by numbers of retail dealers in large cities. Discourtesy to servants! Why, what can the man be thinking of? would be the instantaneous response of any of these dealers, whose principal object during business hours is to keep "solid" with the cooks and general servants employed in the vicinity of his store. And yet, as we have already hinted, it is necessary for their own good to from time to time caution other dealers not to treat servants or other messengers as they perhaps deserve to be treated, but with the respect that wise dealers always treat one that is a possible powerful friend or a possible dangerous enemy.—Merchants' Review.

DUTY ON WINE PACKAGES.

A GENERAL adjourned meeting of the Montreal Chambre de Commerce was held on Friday last, Mr. H. Laporte, the president, in the chair. There were also present Messrs. Contant, Haynes, Chagnon, V. Hudon, O. Faucher, J. Monier, J. X. Perrault, J. O. Joseph, L. E. Morin, Jr., Jos. Fortier, C. Desmarteau, A. Racine, R. E. Gareau, Geo. W. Parent, J. P. Coutlee, and others.

The first business was the reading of a communication from the firm of John Hope & Co., drawing the Chambre's attention to the new Customs regulation exacting a duty of 20 per cent. on packages, cases, barrels, etc., containing French wines. A resolution was adopted complaining that such a charge was contrary to the letter of the present existing French treaty. A committee consisting of Messrs. Laporte, Contant, Perrault, and Cote was appointed to draft a petition to the Government asking a repeal of the law.

A report presented by the Real Estate Owners' Association on an interview with Mr. Auge, M.L.A., was referred to the council's next meeting. Mr. S. Beaudin gave a legal opinion as to the right of the Chambre de Commerce to issue certificates of competency to candidates for the inspectorship. The secretary was authorized to send a copy of the document to the Government.

After the committee on the city charter amendments had presented their report the meeting began a lengthy discussion on the Chambre's new by-laws. An adjournment was made until to-day (Friday), when the first order of the day will be the by-laws, and the second the report of the committee on charter amendments.

NEW LIQUID MEASUREMENTS.

A new departure has been made by the Inland Revenue Department regarding measures for liquids. Hitherto only cylindrical measures have been sanctioned for use. It is now proposed to permit the use of conical measures. This necessitates the adoption of a different standard of measurement.

Hereafter the standard will be that of weight instead of bulk. One gallon will be equal to ten pounds of distilled water at 62 degrees of heat, with barometer at 30 degrees. The half-gallon standard will be five pounds, and so on. This is the practice that prevails in England, and it will admit of a more accurate measurement of liquids.

A CHEAP DARNING LOOM.

A number of stocking darners have been put on the market in the last few years, but all had faults and, of course, did not sell in any quantity. One invented by an Englishman was brought into THE GROCER office this week by Mrs. Tinling, a Winnipeg lady. It looks like a good thing for readers who carry a general line to take up. Here is a cut of it :

It seems to be a perfect one. Darning on fine linen can be done in less time and better than by hand. They are made in bronzed steel and retail at 25c., costing the trade about 17c.

GETTING A FOOTHOLD IN CANADA.

Knox's gelatine has not up to the present time been sold largely in Canada. It has had a very large and well-deserved sale in the States, and now in Canada the leading wholesale houses have taken hold of it, and find that it meets the popular demand for a perfectly pure and strong gelatine. It is granulated and dissolves in two minutes, and each package makes two quarts of gelatine. This gelatine received the only medal at the World's Fair in 1893 given to any gelatine. A. E. Richards & Co., Caledonia, are the Canadian agents.

WHEN GROCERS OPEN THEIR EYES

Retail merchants should teach people how to make tea and coffee as well as persuade them to purchase. There is a great deal of missionary work to be done along this line.—THE CANADIAN GROCER.

They'll begin to do so some of these days, when they are forced to, to hold their end up. Grocers as a rule are good fellows—mighty good fellows—but they are everlasting slow in taking up new ideas. When they once get their eyes open to the advantages of selling goods through demonstration, every grocer in the land will adopt it. But it does take so miserably long to convince them!—Grocery World.

'T WAS HEAVEN ENOUGH FOR HIM.

A grocer who had died was being escorted to Heaven by an angel who had been sent for that purpose.

"May I look at the other place before we ascend to eternal happiness?"

"Easily," said the angel.

So they went below and skirmished around, taking in the sights. The angel lost track of the grocer, and went around Hades to hunt him. He found him sitting by a furnace fanning himself, and gazing with rapture upon a lot of people in the fire. There was a sign on the furnace which said "Delinquent Customers."

"Come," said the angel, "we must be going."

"You go on," said the grocer, "I am not coming; this is heaven enough for me."

WANT BETTER RAILROAD RATES.

The Western Ontario Commercial Travelers' Association are endeavoring to secure better transportation arrangements from the railway men of Manitoba and the Northwest. At present travelers receive a reduction of 25 per cent. and a baggage allowance of 300 pounds. The traveling men think that they should get a reduction of at least 33 1/3 per cent. and be allowed 400 pounds of baggage. Alf. Robinson, secretary of the association, recently returned from a trip throughout the west in the interests of the association.

NEW COMPETITORS IN ONTARIO.

AN IMPORTANT move has just been made by a Montreal wholesale grocery house, Laporte, Martin & Cie. Hitherto this firm, which is one of the most energetic in Canada, has confined itself to Montreal and east. About a year ago they began advertising in THE CANADIAN GROCER to keep their name and goods they had to offer from time to time before the trade in the province of Quebec. They were surprised to receive orders from all parts of Ontario and from the Maritime Provinces, and had enquiries from as far west as British Columbia. In answer to one advertisement alone they had hundreds of inquiries from every part of Canada.

Most of them came from the district between Montreal and Toronto, including the Ottawa Valley. Some of them, it is true, were from firms who were not well rated by the mercantile agencies. To these they politely wrote that they would be glad to sell the goods wanted, but as they had no established credit they must send the cash in advance, and in most instances they received it. On account of the letter-order business thus worked up they came to the conclusion that it would pay them to put travelers on this ground. At the beginning of this month H. A. Small opened his samples in the Ottawa district, and John T. Eadie began his first trip between Montreal and Toronto. Mr. Small comes from England, and he represented the late W. Donohue & Co. for eighteen years. He was in the retail grocery business for ten years. He has now a sample room and office in Ottawa, where he will look carefully after the trade in that city and district.

Mr. Eadie, who is now between Montreal and Toronto, was 8 years with Lock-erby Bros., resigning his position to take this route.

JOHN T. EADIE.

This move by Laporte, Martin & Cie. introduces an entirely new factor in the grocery trade in Ontario. It is the first time a purely French house has made a systematic effort to cover that province. In fact, until recently none of the French firms have canvassed for business outside their own nationality. In the last few years they have developed much strength and larger fields have become necessary. They are generally keen, shrewd, energetic business men; they drive a hard bargain, buy in big lots, and sell at close figures. No doubt, other houses will soon be competitors for the Ontario trade. It remains to be seen whether the smaller jobbers in eastern Ontario will be able to hold their own or eventually be compelled to remove to Toronto or Montreal, where a larger field, and consequently larger purchases at closer prices, will put them on as good a footing. This has been the course of trade in all American centres in the past ten or fifteen years.

The make-up of many Montreal firms differs from those in other Canadian cities in that they are much larger. In Laporte, Martin & Cie. there are five partners, and each has a department. Mr. Laporte himself is the buyer; J. B. A. Martin does the financing; J. O. Boucher, shipping and receiving; L. O. Delorme, the bookkeeping and advertising; Joseph Ethier, the selling. Besides these departments another was recently established, to be a sort of headquarters for trade outside Montreal.

THE FRESH FRUIT TRADE.

THE consumption of California fruit has during the past few years increased enormously in Canada. This applies, not only to green fruit, but to the dried and evaporated kinds also. Five years ago the Canadian consumer ate no California peaches, pears or plums, and the demand for our own Canadian fruit was restricted to comparatively few. Large weekly offerings of this California fruit, systematic methods of doing business, and prompt transportation from point of growth to point of consumption has changed all this. During the season nearly everyone can afford to have fresh fruit on his table. Previous to the introduction of more modern methods of business, peaches retailed as high as 75c. to $1 per dozen. To-day they are plentiful at from 30 to 50c., or within the reach of almost everyone, costing fully one-third less than they did five years ago. The result does not involve the grower realizing materially less than he did at that time. It means that matters have been systematized and the cost of packing and bringing fruit from the Pacific Coast to the eastern markets reduced to a minimum. In fact, it is not at all certain that the grower is not getting more than he did, and that the middlemen and carriers have to content themselves with less.

The steady development of this trade is one of the features of the fruit situation during the summer and fall months. One of the first houses to conceive the idea that there was anything in California fruit was the firm of Vipond, McBride & Co., Montreal. In the year 1890 they decided to make the venture, and arranged for the receipt of one carload per week of fresh fruit from the Pacific Coast. When their first carload arrived everyone laughed at them and predicted a certain failure. Their early experience was discouraging, and, as Mr. Vipond put it, they "were stuck badly." Perseverance, however, is everything, provided the conditions are all right. The firm had the satisfaction of witnessing the trade generally converted to their ideas as time passed. It was fully two years, however, before the business was actually established and California fresh fruit really became a factor in the market. In the year 1893 the fruit trade of Montreal organized a "Fruit Auction Association," and arranged for the regular receipt of not only California fruit, but our own Canadian fruit as well. With this action the trade developed, from the toddling infancy of one and sometimes two cars a week, by steady strides, until it attained its present vigorous manhood of two, three, and sometimes four carloads of fruit per day. A carload of fruit, as prices go now, is worth from $1,400 to $1,600, so that THE CANADIAN GROCER'S readers can form some idea of the magnitude of the business and the amount of money it involves.

Auction sales are held every day in Montreal, from the time the California fresh fruit season opens early in June until the Canadian fresh fruit season closes about the middle of November. After that period the Fruit Auction Association devotes its attention to apples and Florida fruit. The fruit is brought in every day and sold under the hammer for what it will bring. The benefits that this has conferred on the consumer have been pointed out. They show their appreciation by keeping the market well cleared up. In fact, had any trader predicted five years ago that the Montreal market could absorb the large quantity of fruit it now does, he would have been laughed at as a lunatic. Briefly, the trade may be approximated at a turnover of about $12,000 worth of fresh fruit per week while the season lasts.

To a certain extent this competition from California has militated against the output of our own Ontario orchards. This, however, cannot be avoided. The Canadian grower has at present a specific protection of 1c. per lb. on peaches and 2c. per lb. on grapes. This is figured by importers to be equivalent to about 30 to 60 per cent. respectively of the value in California. Many importers protest that this protection is excessive, but space does not permit of a discussion of this point now. On plums and pears the duty is 20 per cent. ad valorem, and no complaint is made against this impost. Besides, it may be explained that with the exception of early fruit, such as Crawford peaches for instance, California and Canadian fruit do not compete with one another to a great extent.

Speaking of this early fruit, many traders hold, and they are right, that Canadian fruit growers do not vary their growths enough. The latter will have to recognize the wants of the market and grow late fruit in due proportion to other descriptions. By doing so they go a long way toward avoiding the necessity of sacrificing a heavy accumulation of stock when the market is not prepared to handle it. Their experience has been unpleasant in this connection on some of their shipments of Crawford peaches.

By the end of September the receipts of California fruit, which first make their appearance in Montreal about the 15th of June, commence to fall off materially, and by the middle of October they are hardly a serious factor. The receipts of our own Canadian fruit really begin in earnest about the 20th of August, and last from that time until the close of navigation, or the middle, or perhaps the end, of November. The two seasons, therefore, differ to a material extent.

One decided advantage that shipments of California fruit possess is their cheaper cost of transportation. This, considering the geographical position of the two sections, is curious, yet it is a fact. In a word, the railways discriminate in favor of "long hauls" in fruit as in everything else. Not only that, but the American fruit is brought through by freight as promptly, considering the greater distance, as shipments from the Niagara district. In the old days of the trade the express charges on a box of California peaches from Chicago to Montreal were $1, as against 25c. now. On the other hand, the rate on a box from London, Ont., to Montreal is 75c. A comparison of these two charges shows clearly the injustice under which Canadian growers labor. There should be equalization of rates. Surely the fruit growers, as a body, have influence enough, either in Parliament or otherwise, to secure the reform they are entitled to. If they are to meet competitors on equal terms, some move will have to be made in this connection, and also in the direction of varying their output to better suit the fluctuating conditions of supply and demand. A home market is always the best one for prices, and it should be consulted accordingly. This must be done first of all, and then attention can be devoted to the British market as a supplementary outlet.

Mr. A. C. Worsnop now fills the position of Surveyor of Customs at Victoria, B.C.

CLEANLINESS OF A CANNING FACTORY.

The Kent Canning and Pickling Co.'s new factory is a marvel of cleanliness. Cleanliness is insisted upon in all departments. Mottoes adorn the long rafters and remind one of this. A rotary table keeps all hands busy and carries pails, etc., round steadily to the hands of those placed to take them off. This factory insists upon half-bushel boxes only of all goods. I saw piles of boxes filled with fine fresh tomatoes; these were being emptied into a wash boiler and from thence went into a power scalding, where the skin was softened by steam. The buckets are put on the rotary tables, and as the tomatoes are skinned and cut they are sorted out and only the really good ones find their way into the cans. All juice but that absolutely necessary for the proper canning is drawn off, and as a result these goods are full heavy packed. About 1,200 feet of pipes under the floors makes it impossible for any water to remain long on the floors. None of the employees wear any protective rubber boots, for the floor is as dry as could be anywhere else. The day I was there they had a warehouse about 50 x 30 feet filled with goods ready to go out. The capacity is about 15,000 to 18,000 cans daily. Mr. Malcolmson is particularly careful regarding the quality of the goods, and uncleanness, either in the manner of work or in the person of an employee, means dismissal.

WELL, HOW DID YOU LIKE IT?

WAS not the Fall Trade Number of THE CANADIAN GROCER up to our promises? Was it not handsomer than any yet issued? If we only get half a chance, we can do most wonderful things. This year we got half a chance, and you have the results. Did you notice the enterprise displayed by our advertisers? Can you find in any other country, or in any other grocery journal in the world, so much evidence of enterprise, push, and originality as is displayed by the manufacturing and wholesale trade of Canada? No, you cannot. What we want in this country is population to make it the greatest in the universe. We have all the requisites except population. The Government that will go to the people with a practical scheme for immigration will be elected.

COMBINE FORMED ON SALT.

CONSUMMATED at last has an agreement been among the salt manufacturers of Canada. And as a result there has been a marked appreciation in values.

Table and dairy salt is equal to about 20c. per barrel dearer. Barrel salt has appreciated 15c., and sack salt 10c. Quotations are now: Barrels, $1; coarse sacks, 60c.; fine sacks, 65c.; dairy, $1.50.

The movement having in view the organization of the salt manufacturers was initiated in the early spring, and during that time more than once did it seem to have been completed, when suddenly the parties to it would scatter like a lot of sheep. Now that they have been rounded up again and the organization completed, the agreement is stipulated to stand for five years.

All the salt wells in the Dominion are within the organization. Or, to be more ex-PLICIT, all but one, and that one has an agreement with the organized body.

Mr. John Ransford, of Clinton, is the centre of the organization. He has obtained control of all the wells except that of the Windsor Salt Works. To all the wells under his control Mr. Ransford gives a pro rata of the output, paying them a certain price. His selling price is left to his own discretion. And between him and the Windsor Salt Works there is a mutual understanding as to the selling price.

Salt-producing in the Dominion has been an unsatisfactory one for some time. The first cause of this is the fact that the supply exceeded the demand. Following this came the natural consequences, heavy stocks and depreciated prices.

Barrel salt has been sold as low as 43c. What this means is obvious to anyone conversant with the trade. In the first place the minimum price of the barrel itself is 21c., leaving 22c. for all the other incidental costs, including the 280 pounds of salt. Forty-three cents was actually below what some of the wells could produce a barrel of salt, while none of them could make a living profit. Those who had not sufficient capital to stand the siege, or declined to do business under such conditions, closed down their wells.

The consumption of native salt in Canada was a year or two ago some 300,000 barrels per annum, but, owing to the competition among the domestic salt makers, together with the improved quality of the salt turned out by some of the wells, it is now estimated to be 25 per cent. larger.

That this increased consumption was partly at least at the cost of the imported article is evident from the Trade and Navigation Returns. In 1892 Canada imported 18,837,210 pounds of salt, other than free coarse salt for the sea fisheries, valued at $66,356; in 1893 20,163,317 pounds, valued at $79,479; in 1894 the imports sank to 15,887,014 pounds, valued at $53,531. The duty on salt, other than free salt for the fisheries, ranges from 5 to 7½c. per 100 pounds.

Notwithstanding the advance in price, the Canadian producers claim that they will still be able to compete successfully with the imported article.

SUGAR AT 10c.; TEA AT 90c.

THE CANADIAN GROCER was recently shown an order for groceries which contains a couple of items which will, no doubt, cause merchants to sigh for the good old days of long ago when prices were high and profits big. The order bears date of Southampton, Ont., Jan. 14, 1876, and was received by Mr. Mewburn, of James Turner & Co., from a customer in that place, Mr. Isaac C. Hunt, who still deals with the wholesale firm in question.

The items which are so particularly interesting relate to sugar and tea, and they read:

1 bbl. of good 10c. sugar.
½ chest of 60c. tea to sell at 90c.

Sugar at 10c. and tea to retail at 90c. ! It is no wonder we sometimes want to turn the hands of time backward a few years !

THE PRICE OF BROOMS.

According to the present appearance of the market it seems likely that brooms will cost the trade much about the same figure as last year.

The crop of broom corn is said to be almost unprecedentedly large and of excellent quality, but the sagging influence that this fact is likely to have on the market is offset by the circumstance that the stock is of a great deal longer growth than last year, entailing more waste to the manufacturer.

Moreover, manufacturers allege that brooms are already so low that they cannot go lower without absolute loss to the makers.

Prices, therefore, will not probably move very much for some time to come, although some American firms have advanced quotations from 12½ to 50c. a dozen.

Broom corn, owing to the shortness of our seasons and the danger of early frosts, has not yet been successfully cultivated in this country, and Canadian manufacturers obtain most of their raw material from Illinois, where the best corn is grown. Other sources of supply are Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, and other States and Great Britain.

During the year 1894 broom corn to the value of $120,597 was imported from the States, while $700 covered the price of that brought in from England.

FAKE COMMISSION MERCHANTS.

The number of failures that have taken place among commission merchants doing business in Toronto has, no doubt, made country merchants somewhat nervous when shipping produce to the "Queen City."

Except in one instance, all the failures have been among new firms, some of whom were born one day and died the next.

The produce business is like the grocery business in one respect: People who are not acquainted with it imagine that all that is necessary in order to become a commission merchant is to rent a warehouse and put out a sign. Capital and experience are minor matters.

Another class, and one which has wrought more injury than any other, is the sharper class: Men that engage in the commission business, hold out glittering bait, and when they catch gullible country merchants rob them and then abscond.

But there is still another cause, although an indirect one, for the advent of these ephemeral commission merchants.

These sharpers can read character. They know that among men who have produce to sell are always to be found those who can be caught with unreasonable promises as long as said promises are gilded over.

And every merchant who swallows the bait and sends produce to them is assisting fake commission men to ply their trade.

The remedy for the evil lies much with country merchants themselves: Let them send their produce to commission merchants of reputation; it may not necessarily be old firms; but before they ship to a new firm they should be assured of its financial standing, or at least learn something of the character of the men that comprise it.

In the advertising columns of THE CANADIAN GROCER can always be found commission men of reputation. Before we accept an advertisement the natural instinct of self-preservation impels us to investigate the standing of the advertiser. If he is considered shaky we refuse his advertisement. And thus it is that we can recommend to the trade in the country the commission merchants whose announcements are found in our columns.

DEPARTMENT STORES IN AFRICA.

DW. CLARK, grocer, Toronto, is in receipt of an interesting letter from his brother James, who settled in Johannesburg, South Africa, in January last. Mr. Clark speaks in glowing terms regarding Johannesburg, which he considers the most progressive city in the world. He is doing well, and is sorry he did not go there sooner.

The most interesting part of Mr. Clark's letter is that which relates to the business methods obtaining in the city of his adoption. Department stores are there in all their glory. The small storekeeper, unless he happens to be a Chinaman, can find no foothold there. "A man to start business here must have at least a million pounds to back him." He adds: "All the small corner groceries are run by Chinamen, who sell cheaper than other people." He refers to a grocery store that was being erected and adds: "The building alone cost £50,000 before one cent's worth of goods was put into it."

Department stores and all, as there may be, the retailer's profits are enormous, and the method of adding the profit is as simple as it is unique. If an article costs, say 10s. in London, when fixing the selling price the merchant adds another 10s. "The profits in the leading grocery stores," he explains, "range from 35 to 100 per cent.," and he refers to one store of his acquaintanceship that is doing a business of $25,000 per month on that basis.

Mr. Clark utters a warning against clerks emigrating to Johannesburg. He says that every steamer from Great Britain and the United States is bringing crowds of them, and that already the market is over-supplied.

BURGLARIES GALORE.

An epidemic of burglaries seems to be sweeping over the province of Ontario, and merchants in many places are suffering from the depredations of these midnight visitors.

Detectives are at work in several sections of the country endeavoring to run down some of the deft-fingered gentlemen, but very little success has so far attended their efforts.

The difficulty of apprehending the thieves lies in the fact that they make a rule of quietly dropping into a town or village in the evening unobserved, and leaving before the dawn of day, in fact as soon as their work for the night is done.

It is, moreover, a practice of the burglars to arrive at places while the fall fair or other public functions are in full swing. Thus they are lost in the crowd and unnoticed. As a result, when the officers of the law capture a suspicious character no one is ever able to identify him as guilty of the particular offence in hand.

The latest burglaries are reported from Mt. Forest, where A. Lamont's hardware store was robbed, and from Kingston where Routly Bros' store was ransacked of $200 worth of goods.

It behooves merchants to carefully guard their stores until the robbers have gone into winter quarters.

THE INSPECTION OF GRAIN.

The Montreal Corn Exchange Association, at a meeting held last week, considered, among other matters, the question of the inspection of grain and the charges thereon, adopting the following resolution:

Resolved, That the rate of inspection hitherto charged by our inspector here, viz., 40 cents per car, is sufficient for the inspector's remuneration, and that the Montreal inspector is quite satisfied therewith;

That the rate of 60 cents per car, the collection of which is made imperative by Order-in-Council of 23rd September, 1895, is considered excessive by this meeting and will tend to largely reduce the quantity of grain inspected;

That this joint meeting, as representing the grain trade of Montreal, hereby urges the Government to at once pass an Order-in-Council fixing the rate for inspection of grain in car lots at 40 cents per car.

The committee also passed the following resolution in regard to the Galop Rapids:

That the Committee of Management of the Corn Association hereby expresses its appreciation of the prompt action of the Hon. John Haggart, Minister of Railways and Canals, in hastening the completion of the lift lock at the Galop Rapids upon the representations made on September 20, 1895, by the Marine Association, that navigation was suspended for days at a time under the prevalence of an east wind.

MANITOBANS AS EXPORTERS.

MANITOBA has become a large exporting country. Only a few years ago the Prairie Province imported largely of food and provisions, but all this has changed.

These reflections are based upon some valuable data got together by Mr. A. Gunn, of D. Gunn, Flavelle & Co., Toronto, who recently toured the west in search of butter and cheese. Let us look at some of these statistics.

Since January 1, 1895, there have been shipped over the C.P.R. alone out of Manitoba 7,000 live hogs, 5,000 dressed hogs, 35,000 head of cattle, 6,500 sheep, 350 horses and about 1,000,000 pounds of butter and cheese. It is estimated that before the close of the season the output of cattle over the C.P.R. will reach 50,000 head, and the exports of sheep, hogs, butter and cheese will also be largely increased. A glance over such figures enables us to see what sort of a competitor for eastern Canada is growing up in the west.

In regard to grain, the C.P.R. is now handling between 300 and 400 cars per day, and it is expected that wheat will move even more freely yet before the year is much older. Things look bright for Manitoba, Mr. Gunn says, although the merchants have not yet felt the improvement in trade which will follow from the bountiful harvests of the past summer. The tradespeople are happy, resting assured of better times in the near future.

Mr. Gunn went to Winnipeg to buy up butter and cheese, but had to come away without securing much, as most of that made in the Prairie Province this season had already been disposed of locally, had been shipped away, or was awaiting purchasers at country points.

In an interview with a representative of THE CANADIAN GROCER, Mr. Gunn stated that Manitoba creamery butter, when obtainable, was excellent in quality, and just suited to the demand in Ontario.

As regards cheese Mr. Gunn said that some of the Manitoba factories had been unfortunate in securing a lot of very inferior coloring, which left the cheese in a motley condition, and unfit for sale at decent prices. Those makers so unfortunate as to have bought the coloring had been advised to throw it away and turn out their cheese in its natural white condition. There is a good local demand and also a certain export call for white uncolored cheese, but it does not go off well in eastern Canada.

In some of the older districts of the province French weed or "stink" weed grows in large quantities, and the farmers have been cautioned to keep their cattle off of it, as the milk from one cow that has eaten of the herb will seriously effect the whole output of a factory.

HOW TO SHIP POULTRY.

NOW that the poultry season is once more pretty well opened up, country merchants and outside produce shippers generally should pay particular attention to this department of their trade and endeavor to make the most of it. Poultry is now in good demand and prices are fair, so that there is room for profit in handling it, if the handling is properly done.

When the shipper is putting up poultry for consignment to the city commission merchant he should exercise as much care as he does in making up packages of butter for high class custom. As one bad roll of butter condemns a whole package, so one not very fresh looking fowl is likely to seriously interfere with the sale of a shipment of poultry.

In order to aid the city dealer in disposing of fowl the country dealer should observe a few rules. He should first see that all poultry is fresh, nicely plucked, and well sorted, and then he should exercise great care in packing.

Boxes should be used in preference to barrels, and the boxes should not be too large, or deep either, for if they are the poultry is liable to get jammed and crushed out of shape in passage. Long, shallow cases containing but three or four dozen fowl are the most suitable for the purpose.

The proper case thus having been selected, it should be lined with paper, and in the neat, clean-looking receptacle thus prepared the fowl, each carefully wrapped in paper, should be laid in rows.

When such a package is opened up in the city dealer's warehouse it at once attracts the attention of the customer, and a sale is made at a much better figure than if the shipment were untidy and uninviting in appearance.

Attention to these points will not cost the country shipper anything, but, on the contrary, the following of this advice will put some shekels in his pocket.

In conclusion let us say, don't "top off" your consignment. Let the layer that first meets the prospective purchaser's eyes be a fair sample of what is underneath. By so doing you will establish yourself in the confidence of city commission merchants and dealers in general.

FURTHER ADVANCE IN VALENCIAS

Valencia raisins continue to gather strength. Cables received in Toronto this week from Denia announce another advance of 1s. per cwt. This makes an advance of at least 2s. 6d. from the lowest point. Quotations are firm at the higher figures.

What is probably the strongest feature of the situation is not the advances. The strongest feature is, it seems to us, the threatened scarcity of the fruit, shippers in Denia reporting that there is a possibility of not being able to obtain supplies.

It is estimated that the quantity on the Toronto market will be more than enough, at the outside, to supply the Christmas trade.

Should there be a shortage of Valencia raisins on the market, attention can be turned to the California raisins, although the high price of the latter would naturally prove more or less of a deterrent.

FRENCH TREATY CHANGES.

THE proclamation regarding the new French treaty has been an interesting topic with importers of French wines and grocery specialties this week in Montreal. The provisions of the new enactment are now in force, and importers this week are passing their entries under the new schedule. It is not only on French goods, however, that importers will have to pay lower duties.

By the favored nation clause, the following countries are entitled to the same privileges as France: Argentine Republic, Austria-Hungary, Belgium, Bolivia, Chili, U.S. of Colombia, Cos'a Rica, German Empire, Muscat, Russia, Salvador, and Sweden and Norway. Importations of Belgian, German and Austrian wines, therefore; also Austrian prunes and nuts, will come in under the new changes, as well as imports from France.

In wines and liquors all non-sparkling wines under 26 degree test are entitled to the reduced rates, and all sparkling wines. The old ad valorem duty of 30 per cent. is thrown off and only the specific duty imposed, and also 20 per cent. ad valorem on the packages. The specific duties are 25c. per gallon on non-sparkling, and on sparkling $3 30 per dozen on quarts, $1.65 per dozen on pints, and 82c. per dozen on half pints. The change will not seriously influence the jobbing price on cheap non-sparkling wines, such as clarets. On such wines up to say $6 per case it will mean only a difference of 50c. per case. On high-priced champagnes, however, the difference will be considerable. In fact, it will mean a difference of fully $3 per case, so that the change means a nice little item of profit to the jobbing trade.

There are disputes already with regard to the duty of 20 per cent. on packages in which wines or spirits are imported. The importers contend that the removal of the ad valorem duty meant not only the 30 per cent. on the wine, but the 20 per cent. on the packages as well. The Department, however, are disposed to place a different interpretation on the Act, and are collecting duty on the packages.

Another line of goods that are appreciably reduced is French soaps. Under the tariff common laundry soaps paid 1c. per lb.; now they only pay ½c. per lb. Castile soaps paid

2c. per lb. under the tariff; now they only pay 1c. per lb.

In nuts also the treaty results in some noticeable changes. Shelled almonds, for instance, paid 5c. per lb. before, now they only pay 3½c. per lb.; almonds paid 3c. per lb., now they only pay 2c., while walnuts, etc., which paid 2c. per lb., are now only subject to a charge of 1½c. per pound. On prunes the difference means a saving of ½c. per lb.

Several other lines are affected also to a certain extent, but importers have as yet had no occasion to figure out what the actual difference is.

"THE GROCER" ABROAD.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has a number of subscribers in Italy, Austria, Turkey, Greece, and other Mediterranean points, but it has never claimed that field was a good one for its advertisers.

A letter from G. T. Sturdee, St. John, N.B., proves that it is, for some firms at least. Mr. Sturdee has had an advertisement in THE GROCER for some time, stating that he was a mercantile broker and manufacturers' agent. In enclosing cheque for advertising account, on Oct. 11, he writes that — —, Smyrna, "wants a representative in the Maritime Provinces, and writes me, saying he saw my advertisement in THE CANADIAN GROCER, and wants to know if I am open. I have written him, accepting the agency."

Besides this, Mr. Sturdee is now negotiating with a large tea house in Ceylon for their agency, and they got into touch with him through the same advertisement. It was also through THE CANADIAN GROCER he got one of his most profitable English agencies.

This paper has hardly ever alluded to its foreign circulation, but has gone on quietly increasing it. That it is a profitable one for brokers and manufacturers' agents to advertise to, Mr. Sturdee's experience proves. Everyone of them should have their cards in its columns if they occupy but five lines. If they get but one really good agency through it in ten years, would it not pay?

TORONTO FAILURES.

Ryan & Delaney, the Church street produce dealers who started out in business last April, have come to grief, and their affairs are in the hands of W. A. Campbell, assignee. The assets are placed at $717.71, while the liabilities total $2,286.71. A meeting of creditors has been called.

A meeting of the creditors of Lockhart & Co., grocers, who assigned to E. R. C. Clarkson a few days ago, will be held next Monday afternoon, when a statement will be presented showing assets in excess of liabilities. R. Lawyer, one of the partners, will, it is said, pay all claims in full and continue the business.

WHERE'S MY PAPER?

OWING to the big rush with our Fall Trade Number we were a day late in mailing. The result of this delay has been a deluge of enquiries from all over the country. This is another ocular demonstration to advertisers that this journal has readers who raise the deuce if they do not receive "Their GROCER" on the minute every week. Here are a few of the enquiries:

I beg to say I did not get THE GROCER this week. Kindly look into this, as it is a commodity badly missed in our business.

Yours truly,
H. W. WRIGHT, Alliston.

I beg to say GROCER came to hand to-day. It is a masterpiece of work. Congratulations.

Been looking forward for the Fall GROCER, but none arrived, at least we have not got it. Just been to the office at 4.30 p.m. Wonder if you sent the same, as I don't want to miss it. Will you please enquire about the same?

I remain yours,

We have not received last week's issue of THE GROCER. Where is it?

Yours faithfully,

We have to thank you for copy of Fall Number of THE GROCER, which eclipses in brilliancy of execution and originality of the general get-up even your former Fall numbers, each one of which has been a "gem" in the grocery interests. We are,

Yours truly,

Please see if you sent me Friday, Oct. 18th, number of GROCER. I did not get it, and I want to know the reason why. I have an idea that it may be some mistake in the postoffice.

PRICE OF CRANBERRIES.

The prediction of THE CANADIAN GROCER some weeks ago that cranberries would be high for some time to come is being fully borne out.

The only berries on the market in any quantity are the Cape Cod, and there are not enough of these to more than fill the demand, comparatively small as it is at present. Consequently, cranberries are higher and firmer than they were a week ago even.

Quotations should drop considerably, though, when cold weather sets in and importations are made more freely, for the yield of Cape Cods is this year estimated at 125,000 barrels, or double what it was last year, while the crop of Jerseys, which is not usually introduced into the market until later, is also said to be very large.

So far no domestics of any account have arrived, and they are as yet an unknown quantity.

HONEY IS SCARCE.

A subscriber writes asking where he can get honey in the comb. Such inquiries are rather numerous just now, as the sweet product of the busy bee is rather scarce on the Toronto market. A number of dealers who handle it have none in stock or to arrive.

The scarcity has had the effect of elevating the price of good clover honey somewhat, though buckwheat and other inferior varieties remain at old figures. Strained in bulk has followed suit with comb, and is firmer than a few weeks ago.

In answer to subscriber we would say that he can get honey in the comb at prices quoted in our Ontario market reports from either Rutherford, Marshall & Co. or J. F. Young & Co., both of Toronto.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Oct. 24, 1895.

GROCERIES.

INTEREST in sugar has continued to depreciate during the past week, and the marked strength of a few weeks ago has given place to a rather uncertain feeling, although the market is without quotable change. But while sugar is less in demand than it was, the volume of trade generally is fairly good, some staple lines showing increased movement. Canned goods are attracting a little more attention. The chief attention at the moment, however, is being paid to foreign dried fruits. Teas are in good demand, and the market is somewhat excited on account of the advancing prices. In other lines of trade the situation is much as before.

CANNED GOODS.

Although some of the leading packers are still holding new pack cohoes at $3.75 f.o.b. at the Coast, there have been some transactions at low figures: Some as low as $3.35, while offers of $3.50 have not been entertained. As a result of these lower prices cohoes are being offered to arrive by wholesalers at $1.10 to $1.15 per dozen. Business in salmon is not as active as it was. Canned vegetables are, on the other hand, in better demand than they were, although the buying is characterized by a great deal of caution. Canned fruits are receiving but scant attention. We quote: Tomatoes, 77½ to 85c.; corn, 75 to 85c.; peas, 85c.; for ordinary; sifted, 95c. to $1; extra sifted, $1.40; peaches, $2.90 to $3 for 3's, $1.90 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.40 to $2.00; strawberries, $1.80 to $2.45, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.90 to $2.20; cherries, $2.40 to $2.45; apples, 3's, 85 to 90c.; gallons, $2 to 2.25; salmon, "Horseshoe,"

$1.35 to $1.40; "Maple Leaf," $1.35; "Lion," $1.35; Lowe Inlet, 1.27 to $1.30, in tall tins; cohoes, $1.10 to $1.20; canned mackerel, $1 $1.10; lobsters, $1.80 to $2.10, for tall tins; flats, $2.35 to $2.65; half tins, $1.40 to $1.45; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.50 to $1.60; 2's, $2.50 to $2.65; 6's, $8 to $8.25; 14's, $18 to $19. Chicago canned beef, 1's, $1.75 per doz.; 2's, $2.85.

COFFEE.

Demand is fair, and supplies are equal to immediate requirements. The New York Journal of Commerce of Tuesday said the contract market for Rio coffee was dull and irregular. Brazilian accounts revealed plenty of coffee. We quote green in bags as follows: Rio (new season), 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22½c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracaibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

RICE.

The local market is quiet and unchanged. We quote: "B," 3½ to 3¾c.; extra Japan, 5¼ to 5¾c.; imported Japan, 5¼ to 6¼c.; apioca, pearl, 3½ to 5½c.

SPICES.

The situation remains much as before. We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.

NUTS.

Supplies of new season's nuts continue to arrive, but there is not much demand yet. The almond market is reported firm. We quote: Brazil nuts, 11½ to 11¾c.; Sicily shelled almonds, 25 to 26c.; Tarragona almonds, 14 to 14½c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted, and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 14 to 15c.; Marbot walnuts, 12 to 13c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 10 to 12c.; Sicily filberts, 9 to 10c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; pecans, 10½ to 11c.

SUGAR.

The sugar market, both at home and abroad, is dull and in a somewhat nervous condition. Although prices are without quotable change there have been some transactions at lower prices at special conditions and terms. Ordinarily, however, the Canadian refiners will make no concessions. The retail demand is of a hand-to-mouth character. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, 4¾ to 4¾c.; do., No. 2, 4¾c.; yellows, 3¾c. to 3.85c.; Demerara, raw, 3½ to 3¾c.

Beet declined 3d. in London on Tuesday. Willett & Gray's Statistical, in its review of the sugar situation, says: "The week has seen a temporary check to the advancing tendency in sympathy with the European markets, but no quotable decline has thus far resulted. There are sellers at last prices, but buyers are indifferent and can afford to be so, as their receipts this week have been increased by several cargoes arrived from the Sandwich Islands and from Java. The receipts, however, are less than the meltings, and total stocks are still further reduced

7,000 tons. The immediate future depends upon the course of the European markets. The cause of the moderate reaction now going on in Europe is that intimations from Mr. Licht, the great Magdeburg beet crop expert, favor the expectation that he will not agree with Mr. Giesecker in his first estimate of the beet crop, but will make his estimate at about 4,000,000 tons, or say 845,000 tons less than last year. Mr. Licht last year was at quite as large a difference from Mr. Giesecker as now, and it is only fair to the latter to say that he was as nearly right as Mr. Licht was in the first estimates. An average of the two first estimates last year proved correct, and an average of the figures as mentioned for this year would show a deficiency in the new crop of 1,000,000 tons. We have noted that when crops change about and go another way they generally run to extremes—as, for instance, cotton this year, and very likely beets also, and quite likely Cuba. We may as well prepare for an active bull sugar campaign. The difference between the American sugar markets and the foreign markets is well shown this week in the fact that while Europe has declined ½c. per lb. there has been no decline here. Our markets have not advanced as rapidly as Europe, and even the decline noted leaves us still below the parity of Europe."

SYRUPS.

Syrups are meeting with a better enquiry, but offerings are light. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.; bright, 40 to 42c. Corn syrup we quote as follows: 2 gal. pails, $1; 3 gal. pails, $1.50; kegs, 3¼c. per lb.; half-bbls., 3c.; bbls., 2¾c.

MOLASSES.

A little better enquiry is also to be noted for molasses. We quote: New Orleans, barrels, 30 to 32c.; half-bbls., 33½ to 35c.; Barbadoes, barrels, 31 to 35c.; half-barrels, 33 to 37c.

TEAS.

There is a better feeling in the market, both in regard to business and prices. The scarcity of low-grade Japans is more pronounced, in consequence of an increased demand for them. Practically none are coming forward. The market in low-grade Japans up to about 12½c. is exhausted; but medium teas at from 16½ to 18½c. are plentiful. The scarcity of low-grades has affected the price of dust, which is now 1c. per pound dearer. Ceylon teas are firmer, and there is a good demand for low grade and fine flavoring teas of this description; in fact, anything that draws well is wanted. Practically the same remarks apply to Indian teas. The poorest kind of Indian and Ceylon teas are said to be worth 7½d. in London. In China teas, medium Young Hysons are wanted, but they are scarce; black teas are quiet. We quote ruling prices to retailers: Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 35c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

DRIED FRUITS.

Valencia raisins are in active demand. In the primary markets prices are 1s. per cwt. higher, making an advance of about 2s. 6d. per cwt. from the lowest point. Prunes remain much as before. New season's Bosnia prunes are not likely to reach here until at least the middle of next month, and the cheapest will probably be worth about 5¾c. lb. New French prunes will probably be about ¼c. cheaper. California prunes we quote as follows: 50-60 to box, 9½c. per lb.; 60-70 to box, 9c.; 70-80 to box, 8½c. per lb.

Figs are quiet and unchanged. We quote: 14 oz., 10½c.; 10 lb., 10½c. for 5-rowed, and 12½c. for 4-rowed; 14 lb., 11c.; 28 lb., 16c.

Dates are dull and unchanged at 4¼c. up.

Further shipments of Malaga raisins have arrived during the week, but there is no movement yet. We quote: London layers, $2.10 to $2.20; black baskets, $3 to $3.20; blue baskets, $3.50 to $3.75; choice clusters, $3.50 to $3.75; Dehesa clusters, $4.25 to $4.50; Royal clusters, $5 to $5.25.

GREEN FRUIT.

No marked features are to be noted in this week's green fruit market. Lemons maintain their high price and are still scarce, while oranges do not cut any figure in trade at all. Cranberries, of which only Cape Cods have yet arrived, quotations have advanced over last week's high prices. There is a big movement in apples and large quantities are being bought up for export on speculation. A few Pelee Island quinces are on the market at 60c. a basket and $2 a bushel, and some peaches, the last of the season, are to hand, also from Pelee Island. We quote: Lemons—Sorrento and Verdilla, in boxes, $9.50 to $10; Malaga, in half-chests, $10 to $10.50. Oranges—Jamaicas, in boxes, $4.25 to $4.75; in bbls., $8 to $8.50. Bananas, $1 to $1.50; coconuts, $3.50 to $4 a sack; cabbage, 75c. to $1 per bbl.; Canadian tomatoes, 10 to 20c per basket; green apples, $1.50 to $2.25 a barrel; muskmelons, $1.75 per bbl.; grapes, 4 to 5c. per pound, and 30 to 40c. for small baskets; Canadian peaches, 75 to 85c. per basket; pears, 60 to 75c; domestic onions, 60 to 75c. per bag; Spanish onions, 60 to 70c. per small crate; Portugal onions, $2 per large crate; sweet potatoes, $3.25 to $3.50 per bbl.; cranberries, $10 per bbl., and $3.50 to $3.75 per case; butternuts, $1 per bushel; hickory nuts, $1.50 to $1.75 per bushel; chestnuts, $7 per bushel.

BUTTER, CHEESE EGGS, POULTRY.

BUTTER—There is not anything new in the butter situation, except that during the past few days a lot of old stuff of inferior quality has been cleared off the market at from 6 to 8c. per pound.

CHEESE—The market has improved somewhat, and local buyers are offering 8c. for August Canadian makes, and 8½c. for balance of season.

EGGS—Fresh eggs remain firm at 15 to 16c. per doz., while pickled cannot be bought lower than 14c.

POULTRY—Has been rather scarce and in good demand, but is coming in a little more freely. We quote prices: Geese, 5½ to 6c. per lb.; turkeys, 8 to 9c. per lb.; chickens, 35 to 45c. per pair; ducks, 50 to 70c. per pair.

COUNTRY PRODUCE

BEANS—Are easier still than last week, jobbers offering at $1.10 to $1.15 per bushel.

DRIED APPLES—Still bring 5½c. per lb.

EVAPORATED APPLES—No change at 7c. per lb.

POTATOES—No appreciable improvement is noted, 25 to 30c. being the ruling quotation for bags in the city, while 15c. is the price spoken of at some outside points.

HONEY—Is very scarce in the comb, only a few local dealers being in a position to offer any. Comb brings $1.50 for buckwheat, and $2 for choice clover fed.

HOPS—Are quoted 6½ to 7½c. for Canadian, and 14c. for Pacifics.

DRESSED BEEF, VEAL AND MUTTON.

By the carcase is quoted thus: Beef, first-class, $7 per 100 lbs.; fair to middling, $5.50

William Paterson & Son have placed several new lines of "Gross Goods" on the market this week that are selling rapidly.

The following lines of currants are to hand with H. P. Eckardt & Co.: Filiatras, in barrels, half-barrels, cases and half-cases; extra choice Vostizzas, in cases and half-cases; Casalina Patras, in cases and half-cases.

W. H. Gillard & Co. report that their sales of black teas for the past year have been over double those of any former year.

Dawson & Co. have in a shipment of Pelee Island quinces; also a consignment of peaches—the last of the season—from Pelee Island.

The Eby, Blain Co. report that its shipment of Leghorn citron peel is a great improvement in quality compared with previous shipments.

Shipment of "Flag Ship" salmon to Lucas, Steele & Bristol has been somewhat delayed, but the firm expect its arrival almost any day now.

Perkins, Ince & Co. are in receipt of a shipment of natural pulled figs in sacks. The quality is choice, and the firm report that the price is low.

William Paterson & Son are making a beautiful line of tablets, satinettes, pastilles and buttercups, put up in fancy glass bottles. All their travelers have samples.

John Sloan & Co. are just in receipt of a shipment of Batger's candied peels; also Traynor's selected Valencia raisins, Merle's fine off-stalk raisins and fine Campos currants.

The Snow Drift Co., of Brantford, is putting on the market this week their well-known self rising buckwheat flour. It will be found in new sizes, new labels, and at attractive prices.

T. Kinnear & Co. have received shipments of new season's California loose muscatels, three and four crown; also a consignment of Merle brand off-stalk Valencia raisins and Leghorn lemon and citron peels.

A cleverly executed piece of workmanship is being sent out at present by the Adams & Sons Co., 11 and 13 Jarvis street, Toronto. It is a Tutti Frutti paper doll with a movable head and body. The firm are sending one of these and a booklet free to those who send in their name and address.

The Eby, Blain Co., Ltd., have secured the entire pack of "Globe" brand tomatoes. These are packed right on the farm, only the choicest stock being used, and the firm claim they are the finest shown this year.

"Potmahoff," the new blend of tea put on the market by Lucas, Steele & Bristol, is packed in ordinary half-chests; also acme packages. With initial orders the firm is providing the purchaser with two handsome brass scoops.

W. H. Gillard & Co., of Hamilton, have in their sample room an immense gourd which has been on exhibition at the Atlanta Exposition. These curious growths of nature are very scarce, there having been only two at the Exposition.

A small shipment of finest Loucoum's figs has just been received by the Eby, Blain Co. These figs are of garden production, and are the highest-priced goods of the kind brought to this market. They are in squares. The firm has also a shipment of natural figs in boxes and bags.

The Toronto Biscuit and Confectionery Co. have put a 3-lb. tin (net weight) of cream sodas on the market. The demand for this brand in tins has been enormous, customers refusing the old style of pasteboard boxes and demanding the tins. They claim that biscuits in tins will keep fresh and crisp for months.

J. W. Beardsley's Sons, New York, inform us that their celebrated "shredded codfish" so well known to the Canadian trade and public, is being imitated by competing firms, and that they are taking measures to protect their registered trade mark "Shredded." They look to see the trade stand by them in this matter.

Last week the first car of new California raisins of 1895 reached Toronto. Goods were shipped by the Griffin & Skelly Co. Quality of the 3-crown good, while the 4-crown were unusually fine, being the finest California raisins that have ever come into Canada. Price of 4-crown, high, and fruit scarce; 3-crown, cheap and plentiful. W. G. A. Lambe & Co., the Toronto agents, also received a car of dried prunes, apricots and peaches. The prices were high, but the trade acknowledge the goods were the finest ever seen in this country.

been one of the quieter lines. Stocks of syrups in refiners' hands are light, which keeps prices firm, but enquiry is moderate. Molasses rules steady. In tea demand continues good for all kinds: blacks, Japans, Ceylons, and Indians. Prices all round are firm. Coffee is quiet, but there is a better enquiry for spices, especially for future shipment. Dried fruits are active, and values are higher than they were on all reliable brands. Canned goods continue much the same. Payments are rather backward.

SUGAR.

The easier tendency in outside markets has up to the present writing had no effect on the prices for refined sugars on this market, values for which remain as previously quoted. Demand continues fair on the whole, but volume of business doing is less than a year ago. We quote: Granulated, $4\frac{3}{8}$ c., and yellows, 3 to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c. as to grade. At the refineries values are quotable $\frac{1}{8}$ c. less per lb. for straight wholesale lots.

SYRUPS.

With very light stocks in refiners' hands the firm tone of this market is maintained. Demand is very limited, however, but we quote prices as before at $1\frac{1}{4}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb., as to grade.

MOLASSES.

Demand has been rather slower this week for molasses, and nothing very new is to report. Values are steady, as previously reported, for jobbing sales. Barbadoes has moved in single puncheons at 37c. and Porto Rico at $35\frac{1}{2}$ to 36c. For large lots buyers could do better than the above on the latter grade, as we hear of round lots changing hands at 31 to 32c.

RICE.

The situation in this staple is unchanged. The feeling is steady, with a fair business doing at former quotations. We quote: Japan, $4.30 to $4.50; crystal Japan, $4.80 to $5; standard B, $3.45; C.C. style, $3.30; Patna, $4.37 to $5; and Carolina, $6.75 to $7.50.

SPICES.

Spices have displayed rather more life with the colder weather, and orders for future shipments have increased in volume. Prices are steady. We quote: Cream of tartar, $22\frac{1}{2}$ c.; Penang black pepper, 7 to 10c.; white pepper, 12 to 15c.; cloves, whole, 9 to 20c.; cassia, whole, 9 to 20c.; nutmegs, 60 to 90c.; Jamaica ginger, 17 to 20c.

COFFEE.

There is no change in coffees, which rule steady despite a limited demand. We quote green bean: Maracaibo, 20 to 22c.; Rio, 19 to 20c.; Java, 24 to 28c.; Jamaica, 18 to 20c., and Mocha, $27\frac{1}{2}$ to 31c.

TEAS.

There has been a good distributing trade done during the week both in Japan and black teas, while western buyers have again been operators for Ceylons and India stock at full prices. Some 300 chests of low grade Japans changed hands at 14c. the other day, which is $1\frac{1}{2}$ c. better than was bid on the same lot a month ago. Blacks from 12 to 20c. are attracting quite a lot of attention, and a good volume of trade has been transacted within this range since our last report.

DRIED FRUIT.

The firm feeling that we noted last week in dried raisins is fully maintained and an active trade is passing at full figure. Selected grades of Valencia fruit are scarce and firmly held. No ordinary off-stalk fruit of reliable brands can now be had under $3\frac{1}{2}$ c., which is $\frac{1}{4}$ c. per lb. higher than was asked previous to the arrival of the Escalona, and other grades are in proportion, and we quote values on Valencia stock firm as follows: Ordinary off-stalk, $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c.; fine off-stalk, 4 to $4\frac{1}{4}$ c.; selected, 5c., and layers, $5\frac{1}{2}$ c.

Another carload of California raisins has arrived since our last, and is now in the hands of the jobbing trade. It has not led to any change in quotations, which are as firmly held as ever, jobbing business being of good volume at 6c. for 3-crown and 7c. for 4-crown loose muscatels.

Sultanas are a light stock, and prices on them are unchanged at 6c. per lb.

Cluster Malaga raisins are offering this week in a small way from second hands at $2.75 per box.

There is no change in the currant market. Business has been of a quiet character, but, with strong advices from Patras, values here have a firm tendency. We quote: $3\frac{1}{2}$ c. in barrels, 4c. in half-barrels, and $4\frac{1}{2}$ c. in cases and half-cases.

There is no alteration in prunes, which are as strong in tone as ever. We quote: Ordinary, 5 to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c.; fine to choice, $8\frac{1}{2}$ to 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.

Supplies of figs are small, and they are jobbing in boxes at 9 to 17c., and in bags at 4 to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c. We quote as follows in detail: Extra fancy 7-crown Eleme layer figs, 50-lb. flat boxes, 17c.; fancy 5-crown 12-lb. flat boxes, 11 to 12c.; fancy 12-oz. boxes, 8 to 9c.; choice bag figs, 4 to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.

NUTS.

There is no change in nuts, which rule much as they were. We quote: Brazils, 8 to 9c.; shelled almonds, 18 to 25c.; Tarragona, 12 to 13c.; Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; shelled ditto, 24 to 25c.; filberts, $6\frac{1}{2}$ to $7\frac{1}{2}$ c.; and pecans, 8 to 10c.

CANNED GOODS.

Trade in canned goods continues quiet, and what movement there is of a small jobbing character to fill actual wants. Canned lobsters and mackerel continue firm. Peas are firmly inclined and show some scarcity at 95c. to $1 per dozen. The pack of apples is reported to be large, and offers are freely made at 80 to 85c. per dozen in 3-lb. tins. We quote: Lobsters, $6.50 to $9 per case; sardines, $8.50 to $10.50; salmon, $5.20 to $5.50; mackerel, $5; tomatoes, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peaches, $1.90 to $3 per doz.; corn, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peas, 95c. to $1 per doz.; strawberries, $2.25 to $2.50; raspberries, $2; green gages, $2 to $2.25; blue plums or damsons, $1.50 to $1.75; pineapples, $2.25 to $2.50, and 3-lb. apples, 80 to 85c.

WINES AND SPIRITS.

There is a good trade doing in wines and spirits. The new French treaty is now in force, but the only lines that it will affect to an appreciable extent are high priced sparkling wines. On these prices to the jobbing trade will be lowered in the vicinity of $3 to $4 per case. On cheap wines, such as French clarets, for instance, running up as high as $6 per case, the reduction in duty will only amount to a difference of 50c. per case. The fact of the matter is these cheap wines are now sold so close that there is little room for reduction.

GREEN FRUIT.

Trade is brisk, and some lines of fruit show an advance. Apples, cranberries, etc., are all higher. Grapes and pears are a little easier. Receipts in all lines are heavy.

APPLES—Receipts have been about 25,000 bbls., of which 15,000 were exported. Good winter apples are in good demand, and red fruit sells at $2.25 to $3 per bbl. Green fruit sells $1.75 to $2.25 for anything good and sound.

PEARS—Receipts have been a little too much for the market. They bring $5 to $6 per bbl. for best fruit. Some poor stock has sold for less.

GRAPES—Are selling well from 30 to 45c. per 10-lb. basket.

CRANBERRIES—Are much higher. Good Cape Cod berries range from $8.50 to $9, and Nova Scotia, $9.50 to $10 per bbl.

ALMERIA GRAPES—Receipts show very fine quality and prices are firm with a higher tendency at $4.90 to $5.25 per bbl.

ORANGES—Jamaica oranges are arriving from time to time. They sell from $6 to $7 per bbl., as to grade.

LEMONS—Malaga lemons are offering at $4.25 to $4.50 per box, and $7 to $7.50 per case.

SPANISH ONIONS—In fair demand at 40 to 50c. per crate.

SWEET POTATOES—Fancy Jersey sweets range from $4 to $4.50, and Virginea, $3.50 per barrel.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Offers of these are now being made at 6 to 7c. per lb.

FISH.

The colder weather has led to a somewhat better trade in fresh fish, but taken on the whole there is little change. We quote: Whitefish and trout, 6 to 7c., and fresh halibut, 10 to 12c.

Pickled fish rule quiet and steady on the whole. We quote: Cape Breton and Nova Scotia herring \$4.25 to \$4.75; No. 2 Labrador salmon, 13 to $13\frac{1}{2}$ c.; No. 2 B.C. do., $10\frac{1}{2}$ c.; No. 2 large mackerel, \$17.50, and No. 1 green cod \$4.50 to \$4.75.

Prepared fish are moving in a quiet way for actual wants. Prices are steady as follows: Dried cod, \$4.50 to \$4.75 per 100 lbs.; boneless cod, 6c.; smoked haddies, $6\frac{1}{2}$ to 7c.; Yarmouth bloaters, \$1 per box; smoked herring, 8 to 10c.; kippered do., \$1.75.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The egg market has ruled strong and higher, prices being 1 to $1\frac{1}{2}$ c. per dozen above what they were a week ago. Demand is good at the advance, and we quote: Choice candled 14 to $14\frac{1}{2}$ c., and ordinary, $11\frac{1}{2}$ to $12\frac{1}{2}$ c. per dozen.

POTATOES—The demand for potatoes was fair, and choice stock changed hands at 35 to 40c. per bag in car lots.

BEANS—There was no change in beans, prices being steady at $1.10 to $1.20 per bushel for choice hand-picked in car lots, and at $1.30 to $1.40 in smaller quantities.

HOPS—The market for hops was quiet and prices were unchanged at 5 to 8c. per lb. for new, as to quality.

TALLOW—Tallow rules firm under a fair demand for small lots at 6 to 6½c. for prime refined, and at 5 to 5½c. for lower grades.

POULTRY—The poultry market was quiet to-day, owing to the small offerings. We quote: Turkeys, 8 to 9c.; chickens, 6 to 7c.; ducks, 7 to 8c., and geese, 5½ to 6c. per lb.

HAY—The firm feeling in hay noted last week is firmly maintained. Sales of No. 1 have taken place in the country at $11 f.o.b. on the cars. We quote: No. 1, $12, and No. 2, $10.50 to $11.

PROVISIONS.

There was no improvement in the local provision market, business being quiet and of a jobbing character at steady prices. We quote: Canadian short cut, clear, $14.50 to $15; Canadian short cut mess, $16 to $16.50; hams, city cured, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 9¼ to 10c.; bacon, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, com. refined, per lb., 6¼ to 6¾c.

FLOUR, MEAL AND FEED.

The demand for flour was good and business active. Prices firm. We quote: Winter wheat, $3.75 to $4.15; spring wheat, patents, $4.15, straight roller, $3.35 to $3.50; straight roller, bags, $1.55 to $1.70; extra, bags, $1.40 to $1.50; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.90 to $4.

There was no change in the situation of the oatmeal market, the feeling being unsettled and business quiet. We quote: Standard, bbls., $3.60 to $3.70; granulated, bbls., $3.70 to $3.80; rolled oats, bbls., $3.70 to $3.80.

In feed business continues active under a good demand at steady prices. We quote: Bran, $14.50 to $15; shorts, $16.50 to $17; mouillie, $20.50 to $21.50.

BUTTER.

Exporters have been active buyers of fall creamery during the past week. All the September make has been taken out of first hands all the way from 20 to 20½c., and now bidding is freely done for October makes at 21 to 21½c. in the country. The market, therefore, is fully 2c. per lb. above what it was a week ago.

CHEESE.

The deal in fall cheese goes merrily along, and there was active buying on spot from first hands in line with the higher priced contracts recently made in the country. In fact, the market advanced fully another ¼c. per lb., and looks as though it was still going higher. The English market is slow in following the rise on this side, and for every rise in cable quotations recent values on this side have gone up, so that they have been steadily above the offers made by British buyers. The situation has, therefore, resolved itself into a question between the people who are speculating in fall cheese in Canada and the British consumer. The Canadian factorymen having contracted the great bulk of their make, with the exception of those west of Toronto, are practically out of it. At the wharf Monday morning 4,000 to 5,000 cheese sold at 9 to 9¼c. This buying means an advance all round in our quotations. We quote: Finest Ontario, Septembers, 9¼ to 9¾c.; finest Townships, Septembers, 9½ to 9¾c.; finest Quebec, Septembers, 9 to 9¼c.; August makes, 8¼ to 8½c.

MONTREAL NOTES.

L. Chaput & Sons have been very busy recently, having their staff back two nights last week and three nights during the present one.

There are offers of 3-crown California loose muscatels for forward shipment at ¼c. less per lb., but 4-crown high grade fruit are held firm.

Among the firms who have received shipments of California raisins this week are Ransom, Forbes & Co., Birks, Corner & Co., and Caverhill, Hughes & Co.

Hudon, Hebert & Co. are sellers of some choice brands of Malaga fruit. Some of the clusters in the sample room look very tempting.

A. P. Tippet & Co. were showing samples this week of Griffin & Skelly's fancy cluster California raisins. They were much admired and several orders have been placed for them.

The only offers of prime 4-crown loose California muscatels made here so far have been of the Griffin & Skelly brand.

Among the firms who are landing shipments of Lazenby's preparations this week are Hudon, Hebert & Co., Caverhill, Hughes & Co., George Childs & Co., and Bate & Son of Ottawa.

A few of the leaders that Lazenby & Sons are putting up in patent lever-stopped bottles are table jellies, chow-chow pickles, lucca cream, olive oil and Harvey's sauce.

Vipond, McBride & Co. were offering cluster Malaga raisins this week at $2.75 per box.

Laporte, Martin & Cie. are offering now, and have ample stocks of fine raisins, nuts and French prunes at very moderate prices.

The G.T.R. and C.P.C. have notified shippers here that the higher winter rates of freight go into force on Friday, the 1st of November.

Laporte, Martin & Cie., of Montreal, have already prepared their new price list for French products, and can give very low figures for delivery ex-wharf.

Wm. H. Dunn, who has been selling Babbitt's soap and Prescott & Co.'s "Enameline" for some time, has opened an office at 394 St. Paul street, where he will carry on a brokerage and commission business as well. Fred. D. Hughes will assist him in the office and do some traveling as well.

Caverhill, Hughes & Co.: "We still find a growing demand for Marshall's Scotch fish products, and always carry a large and assorted stock of tins and kegs."

D. Hatton & Co. find that they cannot get along without Marshall's Scotch herring delicacies, and have, to arrive, an assorted stock both of tins and kegs.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 24, 1895.

THE week has been an active one, large quantities of supplies having gone forward for the lumbermen. The lumbermen are blue over the large quantity of logs hung up above Fredericton, which, it is expected, will not be got to the booms this season. There is said to be about 25,000,000 feet thus held. Large quantities of wood are going forward to Rockland, though the price is low, owners not wishing to carry it over the winter. The active lines of business are sugar and flour, which show a firmer tendency. Buyers of Valencia raisins are regretting their orders were not larger, owing to the advance in prices. One of our merchants, who exhibited at the Exhibition and gave away samples of package tea, reports a greatly increased sale. A number of leading wholesale grocers intend adopting eastern standard time. It will be a welcome change when the city adopts it as a whole.

OIL—Prices show no change. There is the usual good demand at this season for burning oil. We quote: Best American, 22¼c.; best Canadian, 21¼c.; prime, 17½c. No charge for barrels.

SALT—Another cargo is to hand this week of about 5,000 sacks. It is finding a fair demand at 45c. from the ship's side in wholesale quantities. There is now a fairly large stock of salt in the city. There is another cargo afloat, but it is not due for three weeks or a month. In the last cargo there was some 40 tons of rock salt, the demand for which is limited. We quote: Coarse, 50 to 55c.; fine factory-filled, 95c. to $1.10; 5-lb. bags, $3 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.80 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10-lb. boxes, 12c.; cartoons, $2 per doz.; bulk dairy, $2.80 per bbl.; bulk cheese, $2.70.

CANNED GOODS—As yet but few tomatoes are to hand. There is a fair demand for canned vegetables, but retailers are not buying as largely as in former years, and in this they show wisdom, as the profit or difference in cost does not pay for carrying the larger stocks. A sample of Australian canned sheep's tongue was shown here during the week. The goods were extra quality. New pack oysters are now offered by Baltimore packers at prices about the same as last season. Salmon are being offered again at $4.25, Coast. Prices are: Corn, 85 to 90c.; peas, 95c. to $1; tomatoes, 95c. to $1; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.60 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.50 to $1.60; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $2.85 to $3; 2's, $1.90 to $2; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.40; salmon, $1.50; flat, $1.75; clams, $5.50 for 4 doz.; chowder, $3 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1; pineapples, $2.75.

DRIED FRUIT—The car of California raisins spoken of are to hand. The 4-crown loose muscatels turned out well, but the 3-crown are hardly giving the satisfaction that was expected. There were some seedless in the car, which it is intended to pack in lb. cartoons. In buying Cal. London layers it should always be remembered that they come 2 lbs. less in a box than the Malaga fruit. Loose muscatels are now being offered at rather lower prices from the Coast. In Valencia raisins about 12,000 boxes are sold to arrive and buyers are expecting a profit, as prices have advanced some 4%, but our market is always very slow. A much larger proportion than usual of selected fruit was bought this season, and also a large number of 7-lb. boxes of layers. Peels are not to hand, shipments being delayed for some reason. New figs via New York are to hand and find good demand. Direct shipments are daily expected. New currants will arrive on a bare market. Evaporated apples are being offered very low, but the sale is light. There are as yet but few new dried moving. Onions are marked lower. The large Spanish onions find a poor sale here. A car offered at 50c. per crate found no buyers. Prices are: New Valencias, 5c.; new figs, 12c.; new 4-crown Cal. L. M. raisins, 7 to 7½c.; new 3-crown Cal. L. M. raisins, 6 to 6½c.; new keg prunes, 4c.; boxes, 4¼ to 6c.; new Cal. L. L. raisins, $1.75 to $1.85; old Valencia, 4c.; layers, 5c.; London layers, $2 to $2.25; California loose muscatels, 5 to 5½c.; currants, bbls., 3¼c.; half-cases, 4c.; evaporated apples, 7½ to 8c.; dried apples, 5¼ to 6c.; dates, 4 to 4½c.; California evaporated peaches, 12 to 13c.; do. apricots, 12 to 14c.; do. pears, 12 to 13c.; clean currants, bulk, 6½c.; 1-lb. cartoons, 7½c.; Canadian onions, $2 to $2.25 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $4 per 100.

GREEN FRUIT—Large quantities of apples are to hand, but except for Gravensteins the demand is light and prices are low. Gravensteins are rather higher. In winter fruit there are but light arrivals as yet. Grapes in kegs are firmer. Receipts of California grapes are light. In sweet potatoes there is but a small sale. A fair quantity of late American pears were received during the week. Quinces find a rather better sale. We quote: Pears, $4 to $5; apples, $1 to $2.25 per bbl.; lemons, $5 to $6; bananas, $1 to $2.50; West India oranges, $5.50 to $6 per bbl.; Malaga grapes, $5 to $6; quince, American, $5 to $6; Cape Cod cranberries, $7; Canadian grapes, 50 to 70c.; California, $4 to $4.50; sweet potatoes, $4 per bbl.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Eggs continue in light demand at low figures, the quality being but fair. In cheese, early are getting hard to sell, even at low figures, while even the later makes do not find anxious buyers. The September make here was not large, and most holders want to sell the earlier makes with the late cheese. In butter the reports from the country are that fair stocks are held. A real good butter is, however, in demand, and creamery tubs find a good sale. In creamery prints the demand is rather lighter owing to fair qualities of dairy coming forward. Last year at this time the sale was active at 24 to 25c. We quote: Cheese, 8½ to 9c.; new butter, 17 to 18c.; eggs, 12 to 12½c.; fresh creamery prints, 22 to 23c.; tubs, 20 to 21c.

MOLASSES—There is a fair movement, but there is nothing of particular interest to note. Some splendid syrup is offered for sale, and a better demand for molasses in small packages is noted. Those holding stocks of best grades are very firm. We quote: Barbadoes, 32 to 34c.; St. Croix, 32 to 33c.; Porto Rico, 34 to 36c.; syrup, 35c.; Trinidad, 32 to 33c.; New Orleans, bbls., 34 to 35c.

SUGAR—There is a good movement at the firmer figures. Stocks, particularly of granulated, held here are large. We quote: Granulated, 4¾ to 4½c.; yellow, 3¾ to 3½c.; Paris lump, 5¼ to 5½c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

FISH—In dry cod and pollock prices are firmer, owing to the light catch. Vessels are asking an advance of 10c. In pickled, prices are, as a rule, low, though Quoddy River and wolves are held firm. There is quite a difference in the grade of some Shelburne here. In smoked, the demand is rather more than supplied by the receipts, and prices are low. Ex-vessel old have sold as low as 2½ per box, and new as low as 5. We quote: Medium cod, $3.40 to $3.50; large, $3.70 to $3.75; small, $2.50 to $2.75; pollock, $1.40; bay herring, $1.25 to $1.30; Grand Manan, $1.30; rippings, $1.65 to $1.70; wolves, $1.90 to $2; Quoddy River, $2.50 to $2.75; smoked, 5 to 7c.; shad, half-bbl., pickled, $4.50 to $5; Canso, $5; halves, $2.75; Shelburne, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.

PROVISIONS—In pork and beef there is but a light movement, and prices show no change. In smoked meats, new hams find a fair demand. Rolls are light sale. In lard, different packers have a large range of price. Some are offering pails a half cent lower than others, but little compound is now being sold. We quote: Clear pork, $16 to $16.50; mess, $14.50 to $15.50; plate beef, $13.25 to $14; pure lard, 9 to 9½c.; compound lard, 8c.; cottolene, 9¼ to 9¾c.; rolls, 9 to 9½c.; beef, half bbls., $7.

FLOUR, MEAL AND FEED—In flour (particularly Ontario) prices are firm and in many cases show an advance. There are fair quantities moving. In oatmeal the feeling is still easy. Beans are moving in small quantities, as lower prices are looked for. Cornmeal is easy, and local millers find it all they can do to keep up with the demand. Hay is being sold through Carleton county for shipment to American markets at fair prices. Movement here is not large. Oats have but a light sale. P. E. I. have been held rather above the market. The quality of Carleton county is not satisfactory. We quote: Manitoba, $4.70; best Ontario, $4 to $4.10; medium, $3.75 to $3.80; oatmeal, $3.65 to $3.70; cornmeal, $2.35 to $2.40; hand-picked beans, $1.45 to $1.50; prime, $1.15 to $1.20; split peas, $3.70; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.25; hay, $11.50 to $12; oats, 33 to 35c.; middlings, $19 to $20 on track; bran, $18.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

An exhibit of apples has been sent from Nova Scotia to Berlin.

E. M. Robertson & Co., fish dealers, are reported in financial trouble.

A cargo of 1,500 bbls. of potatoes cleared from Harborville, N.S., for Havana during the week.

Dean Bros., retail grocers, have dissolved. In future the business will be carried on by T. J. Dean.

It is understood that the Government are taking steps to use the Annapolis and Digby flats for oyster planting and cultivation.

Now we have wind of a robbery at Nelson, Northumberland county, some $220 having been taken from the office of Sargeant Bros.

A party invested $25 in a share in a shad seine at Minas Basin, and at the end of three months received $125 as his share of the profits.

Twelve carloads of canned blueberries, 312,000 lbs., passed through Fredericton during the past week consigned to the New England States.

During the week, from Montague, P.E.I., the following shipments have been made: 14,500 bushels oats, 1,500 bushels potatoes and 1,000 bushels turnips.

In Houlton, Maine, potatoes are selling to the starch factories for 50 to 75c. per bbl. The crop is large, but on account of the rot farmers will lose money.

Up to the close of September $90,000 had been paid for milk by Prince Edward Island cheese factories, and only one-fifth of the farmers are patrons of any of the factories.

We learn that Boston is making extra effort to obtain part of the Canadian winter trade, and also that extensive preparations are being made by the Grand Trunk at Portland.

Potatoes are being shipped from Canning, N.S., to Havana at 25c. per bushel, and many are anxious to sell, fearing the rot. A cargo has also been shipped from Shediac to Bermuda.

Woodstock, Carleton County—The produce business is not over active. Potatoes are reported scarce, and higher prices are looked for. Hay and oats are rather dull, while butter and pork are in good demand. We quote prices as follows: Loose hay, $7 to $8; oats, 26 to 28c.; butter, 16 to 17c.; cheese, 7 to 8c.; pork, 4 to 5c.; eggs, 8 to 12c.; potatoes, 50 to 60c.; buckwheat meal, $1 to $1.25.

That is the time it took for a shipment of tea to come to Black & Co., Truro, N.S., from Foochow, China. The cars were shunted into Black & Co.'s private siding, adjoining their warehouse, twelve days after leaving the C. P. R. wharf at Vancouver, B.C. Black & Co. have been importing teas direct from China since 1888. Their increasing business is good evidence of the satisfaction given their patrons.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

HALIFAX, Oct. 24, 1895.

IT must be admitted that St. John, N.B., has taken the lead of Halifax in one thing at least. Last week St. John duly organized a Grocers' Association. Halifax has none. Not because there are not grocers enough, because at the present time we have just 271 retail grocers in the city and 22 wholesale grocers. Indeed, to show the importance of the grocery trade in Halifax, we have only to mention that in addition to the above we have 34 hay and feed dealers, 20 wholesale fish merchants, 71 produce and provision dealers, 23 flour dealers, 14 fruit dealers, 19 butter and cheese dealers, 13 sausage and pork dealers, 30 confectioners, 16 tea dealers, and a number of spice and syrup manufacturers, lobster canners, dealers in hermetically sealed goods, etc. It takes 121 commission merchants and 89 general agents to look after the trade. Still we have no Grocers' Association. It is about time to organize. Who will take the initiative?

The markets are quiet this week, but firm. A fair volume of business is being done and remittances are good.

FLOUR—The flour market is in a healthy condition, good sales being made at current prices, with a stiffening on Canadians. Quotations are: Hungarian patent, Manitoban, $4.75 to $5; Manitoba strong bakers', $4.60 to $4.75; Canadian pastry, $4.70 to $4.85; 75 per cent. roller patents, $4.40 to $4.50; 80 per cent. do., $4.30 to $4.40; 90 per cent. do., $4.10 to $4.20; straight, $4.15 to $4.20; extra, $3.90 to $4.

SUGAR—There is little doing in sugar. Quotations remain unchanged. The refinery at Moncton is closed down owing to scarcity of water.

MOLASSES—Some sales of Porto Rico have been made on Newfoundland account. There have been no late arrivals, and stocks are considerably reduced. Montreal houses have been making enquiries this way, though no transactions have as yet resulted. The jobbing trade is good and a steady market is looked for. Quotations are: Antigua, 30c.; Porto Rico, 32 to 35c.; Trinidad, 30c.; Barbadoes, 34c.; Demerara, M.E. brand, 39c.; St. Kitts, 28c.

FISHSTUFFS—The fish market remains unchanged. James Murray, writing from St. John's, Newfoundland, says: "Fish is coming in more plentifully, especially what is known as shore-cured Labrador. This sells from $2.50 to $2.60 per quintal."

CANNED GOODS—A fair business is being done in salmon at $5.75 per case. Green stuffs have slackened the demand for fruits and vegetables.

BUTTER—The improvement noted last week continues. There is enquiry for fall creamery. New rolls are due to arrive.

CHEESE—A slight improvement is noted in cheese, but not as much as reports from the west would warrant. Jobbing prices are nominally 9¼ to 9½c.

EGGS—There is little or nothing doing in eggs in this market. The few small lots which came in this week sold at 13c. P.E.I. dealers ask 12½c.

GREEN FRUITS—The green fruit market remains without change. There is a fair supply in staple lines at previous quotations.

PROVISIONS—Provisions also remain unchanged. A fair trade is being done.

HALIFAX NOTES.

The steamer St. John City took 9,981 bbls. of apples to London on Monday.

ANNAPOLIS NOTES.

A new by-law of the town of Annapolis provides that any outsider selling goods within the town must pay $10 for a temporary license or a sum not exceeding $20 for a yearly license. Another clause provides that a commercial traveler selling to others than merchants shall pay a fine not exceeding $20.

KENTVILLE NOTES.

A Board of Trade has been formed at Kentville. The officers pro tem. are: S. R. Lantz, president, and F. E. Cox, secretary.

PERSONAL MENTION.

T. Wilson, of J. L. Watt & Scott, returned on Tuesday from a hunting trip.

W. J. Massey, of J. W. Lang & Co., returned on Monday from a successful business trip through the Northwest and British Columbia.

F. E. Boulter, of the firm of W. Boulter & Sons, is a bicycle rider as well as a sharp, pushing young business man. He pushed his wheel well up to the front in the finish in the Dunlop road race on Saturday last and that with a badly bent pedal.

J. C. Pearson, one of T. Kinnear & Co.'s city travelers, was married on the 16th inst. The bride was Miss Jones, daughter of Street Commissioner Jones. The happy couple are spending their honeymoon in the Eastern States. THE CANADIAN GROCER congratulates.

Major A. G. Campbell, representing the MacLean Publishing Co., of Montreal, is at the Queen. He is traveling through the provinces in the interests of this company, who are the publishers of those excellent trade journals embracing the principal mercantile pursuits.—Daily Patriot, Charlottetown, P.E.I.

W. A. BRADSHAW & CO. SELL OUT.

W. A. Bradshaw & Co., the Toronto Soap Co., have sold out to Pugsley, Dingman & Co. Mr. Bradshaw found the margin of profits too narrow, owing to the reckless cutting which has characterized trade lately, and so decided to get out.

LATE BUSINESS CHANGES.

Crawford, Lynch & Co., general store, Orillia, Ont., offer to compromise at 70c.—The refinery, plant, etc., of the Canadian Oil Co., Sarnia, Ont., has been sold by auction.—T. H. Goodison, general store, Streetsville, Ont., has sold out to E. Goodison & Co.—W. G. Walker, grocer, Toronto, wants to compromise at 40c.—The general store stock of Louis St. Pierre, Chateau Richer, Que., has been sold at 34c.—L. J. A. HEAVY BUYING OF BUTTER.

WITHIN the past three weeks exporting firms in Montreal have been active buyers of fall made creamery butter. So keen has the competition been to acquire control of the output of leading factories that prices have advanced fully 2c per lb. or $1.50 per tub in less than a fortnight.

All the September make of leading creameries throughout the Province of Quebec has been gathered in at a first cost in the country of from 18 to 19½c. per lb., and now the firms are trying to secure options on the October make as well.

One leading Montreal firm, it is well known, must have bought up fully 20,000 packages of September creamery. In fact, they almost cornered the make of the month in Quebec Province, for other firms of shippers are not reputed to have got more than 4,000 to 5,000 packages. Allowing that 30,000 packages in all have been contracted it represents the tidy little sum of $450,000 worth of butter.

As far as can be learned, the buying in the Province of Ontario has not been so extensive, so that there must still be September make in first hands in that province, but some leading creameries, such as that at Renfrew, have been secured at top prices. It is quite likely that these improved prices will result in an increased output for the month of October. In fact, reports from the country show this to be the case.

A PICTOU (N.S.) GROCERY.

While in Pictou, N.S., the representative of THE CANADIAN GROCER found that Hogg, Craig & Co. had still further extended their grocery business. They employ eleven hands and three teams. Their store is one of the finest in the country, with its high ceiling, artistically shelved walls, and its generally scrupulously clean appearance throughout. The large plate glass windows are now fitted with mirrors inside, which make them very attractive when neatly dressed. In this they appear to have adopted the design of George Rowntree, of London, described in THE GROCER some time ago. They are also large packers of lobsters, employing about eighty hands. It is needless to say that they have been subscribers to THE CANADIAN GROCER for a number of years.

CLERKS TO OPPOSE ALDERMEN.

There was a meeting of Montreal dry goods and other clerks and shopmen on Monday night, in Ald. Marsolais' store, corner of Notre Dame and Bonsecours streets, to consider what action they could take with a view to bringing about by-laws for their benefit, such as early closing. It was decided that this object could only be attained by the clerks taking an active part in the next municipal contest and opposing every alderman who was not favorable to such a by-law. Committees will be appointed in every ward to organize the clerks, and a beginning was made by appointing the following for the East Ward: M. P. Langevin, president; Joseph Lussier, vice-president; L. Sicotte, secretary; Arthur Roy, treasurer. Active work will be carried on, the promoters of Monday night's meeting say, and another meeting will be held Wednesday night in Brault's drug store, corner of St. Denis and Dorchester streets.

SPECULATION IN FALL CHEESE.

THE unusually low price at which the fall output of Canadian cheese factories has been offering resulted lately in extended speculative operations. Practically all the make in Ontario east of Toronto, that is, between that point and Montreal, has been contracted.

The earlier contracts were made in the Belleville district, and were on the basis of 7½ to 8c. per pound. This was about a month ago. These factorymen have probably made the worst bargain in years, and the speculator about the best deal this fall. Since then prices have advanced steadily, until last week contracting was freely carried on in the Brockville district at 9c., and in the Eastern Townships and Quebec at the same figure.

Briefly, the entire fall make east of Toronto in Ontario and in the Eastern Townships in Quebec is now controlled by exporting firms in Montreal and a few English houses. Most of the speculation, however, is on this side the water, for it is noteworthy that the English market is slow to follow the rise on this side, and though cables have advanced their limit over 2s. in the last fortnight they are still fully ½ to 1c. per lb. below a parity with current prices on this side the water.

It is estimated that the deal in fall cheese represents 200,000 boxes in the districts mentioned, which, at an average cost of say 8½c., means in the vicinity of $1,200,000 worth of cheese taken out of first hands in a little less than three weeks.

As to the speculators' prospects they are fair on the whole, if precedent amounts to anything.

Fine Canadian fall cheese is cheap at 9c., for it will permit "a cut" over the retail counter to the British consumer at a reasonable figure compared with the cost of other foodstuffs. It looks, therefore, as if the speculation will be profitable on the whole, and help some of the shippers to recoup their heavy losses of last season.

The factorymen west of Toronto so far have not contracted, and if the market turns out as most people expect, they stand a good chance of making more money by not doing so.

A NEW GROCERY.

The Tea Company is the name of a new grocery started at the corner of Princess and King streets, Toronto. The proprietors are Geo. Kent and S. R. Oakley. They have paid spot cash for everything, and are handling nothing but the choicest groceries. They will sell for cash only, and, with their long experience in the grocery trade, their success is assured. About eight months ago Mr. Oakley came from Newfoundland, where he had been engaged in the fishery business. Mr. Kent has served seventeen years as a grocery clerk, ten of which was with one firm in England.

MANITOBA FISHERIES.

THE Manitoba Free Press in the course of a recent article remarks that few people realize the importance of the fisheries in Manitoba and Northwest waters. International disputes over other Canadian fisheries are frequent and costly; but over Lake Winnipeg, Lake Manitoba, and the waters with which they are connected, the Dominion Government has undisputed control, and can both protect their natural resources and gradually make them reserve fishing grounds. Once it was thought impossible to exhaust the fishery wealth of the St. Lawrence and its chain of lakes. Little care was taken to prevent the utter depletion of these fishing areas. To-day the scarcity of fish where the supply formerly seemed inexhaustible, teaches the Governments of Canada and of the United States that wasteful, indiscriminate fishing, in season and out of season, brings with it the punishment of natural consequences; but when the preservation of fishery resources is forced on the attention of the two Governments, the subject at once becomes involved in international wrangling, or lost in diplomatic verbiage. The fisheries of the Lake Winnipeg region being within Canadian territory, have not such disadvantages; and the Department of Marine and Fisheries, by careful supervision, by the establishment of the hatchery at West Selkirk, the place of departure for fishing in Lake Winnipeg, and by regulations for the preservation and protection of fish, is doing much to develop the fisheries and to increase the fish of the inland waters of Manitoba and the Northwest.

The article goes on to describe the hatcheries and to note the possibilities of the 40,000 square miles of fishing grounds in the Lake Winnipeg basin.

In a concluding paragraph is found the statement: "The markets of the United States must look to Canada for a supply of fresh water fish; and if the fisheries of the Lake Winnipeg basin are carefully protected and fostered they should become a source of wealth to this country.

THANKS TO MR. FLYNN.

At their last regular monthly meeting the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association adopted a vote of thanks to Mr. Flynn, of Flynn Bros., St. Catharines, for the efforts made by him to help make the Toronto grocers' excursion to the Garden City last summer a success. That outing, by the way, paid its own expenses and left a balance of $10.02 to the good. F. C. Whitelock has been admitted to membership in the association.

FAKES.

The Advocate has often referred to the way that certain up-town stores fall short of their performances of the promises contained in their advertisements. Lines of groceries and similar goods are advertised at apparently low prices, but when a would-be-purchaser appears she is told "we are out of" whatever is asked for, even if it is only jam, and the shopper must buy something else or put up with wasted time. The other day a recently started department store advertised Tutti Frutti chewing gum at two sticks for five cents. Customers who asked for Tutti Frutti, however, had a much cheaper gum than Tutti Frutti handed out, none of the genuine article being visible in the place. This is only one instance out of many, but it is worth remembering that the proprietors of departmental stores are not likely to sell good goods below cost, and that people who expect them to do so will find themselves losers in the long run.—The Advocate, Toronto.

THE ART OF SELLING.

"A jolly old gentleman slapped me on the back recently," writes a traveling salesman in Hides and Leather, "and said he wanted me to make a first-class salesman out of his son. The son was a manly young fellow, intelligent, industrious, nearly twenty, and just through college. 'I want him,' continued my old friend, 'to be able to command a salary of $3,000 a year, or possibly a partnership.' I smiled feebly and aimlessly. Three thousand a year and a partnership. It set me thinking. Can a man be taught to succeed as a salesman, or must the gift be inborn and natural? Answering myself, I should say that young salesmen need training like racehorses, and out of a string, some may be prizes. Let us go deeper into this important and interesting matter.

"As a rule, practical knowledge is the sure rock of salvation for salesmen. The boy that sweeps the floor, lives in the stock room, helps make up orders and shows goods to customers in the presence of his employers or veteran salesmen, is slowly but surely being prepared for successful salesmanship. Much, however, depends on himself. In addition to practical knowledge of goods, he must study to gain practical knowledge of men; must cultivate and practice self-control, self-restraint; must know when to press forward, and when not to. And, above all, he must learn to remain cool and calm in victory and defeat.

SOME EXPECT TOO MUCH.

Don't expect an advertisement to bear fruit in one night. You can't eat enough in a week to last you a year, and you can't advertise on that plan either. People who advertise only once in three months forget that most folks cannot remember anything longer than about seven days.

COLD STORAGE FOR APPLES.

THOMAS S. WHITMAN, of Annapolis, writes to the press as follow: The losses incurred in the past from shipping apples to England by the ordinary freight steamships (the average temperature of their compartments for the Atlantic voyage being over 50 degrees Fahrenheit), have been very heavy, and will so continue until apples are transported by steamships having cold storage compartments, in which apples can be kept the voyage over at a temperature of not above 30 to 32 degrees.

Apples, particularly the delicate varieties—such as Gravensteins, Kings, Blennies, Ribstons, etc.—are invariably damaged, if not ruined, if kept in a temperature over 50 degrees for, say, ten days, while if kept in damp, dark, cold storage temperature 30 or 32 degrees, the most delicate apples may be kept for months in perfect condition. Gravensteins have been kept in good condition until April, stored in an icehouse. I have had over twenty-five years' experience in exporting apples by steamships to London from Annapolis and our Bay of Fundy ports. The only instance in 30 odd cargoes of from 6,500 to 14,000 barrels each shipped by me, in which the delivery at London was quite satisfactory, and the entire cargo landed in perfectly sound condition, was a shipment of about 8,000 barrels made from Annapolis in the month of February, some years ago, by the steamer Balcarris.

This steamship came from Demerara to Boston, where (while at that port) the cold was very severe, ranging below zero. On arrival at Annapolis the captain reported the water in the tanks in the lower hold frozen, and on test the temperature of the hold was 25 degrees, or 7 degrees below freezing. This hold we filled with deals from the pier, icy and cold, leaving the between decks for apples, capacity 8,000 barrels. Before loading these we again tested the hold, and found the temperature 28 degrees. After filling between decks with apples, over 8,000 barrels, and just before closing the hatches, we tested again and found temperature 30 degrees.

The steamship had a 13 days' passage to London, when the apples were landed in perfectly sound condition, so much so as compared with the ordinary landings of Nova Scotia apples, that it was very generally noted and commented on by the London fruit brokers. This cargo of apples was all sold at good prices, all of which only goes to prove that the prime requisite for delivery of apples from this side to the English markets is cold storage for the voyage as well as before shipment.

At Annapolis, in the cellar at the head of the Acadia pier, capacity 13,000 barrels (Grant warehouse), apples can be stored from November till April in a temperature of 30 to 33. I have delivered apples from this warehouse in June in perfect condition.

An Extract from the article on "Salt in Canada" in the Special Fall Number of THE CANADIAN GROCER

"After the brine leaves the wells the three processes most generally employed in heating it are: (1) Evaporation by fire; (2) evaporation by steam; (3) evaporation by means of the vacuum pan. The last-named process is considered the best. By means of it all lime, magnesium and other foreign substances are removed, and the salt is left pure."

Windsor Salt is the only salt made in Canada by the vacuum process. There is a good deal of satisfaction in knowing that the salt you are selling is made by the most modern and best system, and is going to give your customers the best of satisfaction. MANAGEMENT OF GENERAL STORES.

GENERAL STOREKEEPER treats of this subject in a lengthy article in The Shoe and Leather Facts. He earnestly believes that one to succeed must be conscientious in his care to serve his patrons.

"The merchant, in order to do this, must understand his business perfectly in all its details and study all the shoes he has in stock. He will then be able to recommend them honestly and candidly, and a recommendation from a man who has the reputation of knowing what he is talking about, and also of telling the truth about it, has infinitely more weight with a customer than a glowing recital of the virtues of a shoe of which the customer knows that the speaker is entirely ignorant."

He also impresses one with the importance of knowing his stock as "a customer will have a very poor opinion of a merchant who knows so little, or cares so little, about his stock, as not to know where to find a certain style which is wanted, and who, when a pointed toe is desired must open box after box before he finds the proper style." Possibly the most important part of his article is that in which he gives advice to those merchants who are in the habit of advising their customer as to what they wish.

"It is poor policy to go so far in trying to sell a certain style as to tell the customer what he wants, or rather what you think he wants, when in fact he has well-defined predilections for the opposite. An instance which well illustrates this point came to my notice recently. A gentleman entered a store and asked for a pair of shoes. The salesman exhibited a pair, saying they were 'just the thing' now for all well-dressed men, and seeming to take it for granted that his argument was convincing, went on to inquire the size wanted. The gentleman inquired for a different style, and the salesman, in affected surprise, exclaimed, 'Oh, you don't want that shoe; we never sell it to anybody but Chinamen. We have sold dozens of pairs to them in the last month.' 'That style always suits them, does it?' 'Always.' 'It is what they ask for then, I suppose?' 'Every time.' 'And you don't try to sell them any other kind, do you?' 'You bet I don't.' 'Well,' said the gentleman, 'I think I'll go to some store where they are as anxious to please a white man as a Chinaman. Good evening.'"

WHOLESALE GROCERS MEET.

The annual meeting of the Wholesale Grocers' Association of New York and vicinity was held on the 16th inst., in the rooms of the association, in the Mercantile Exchange building.

The old Board of Officers succeeded itself as follows: President, G. Waldo Smith, of Smith & Sills; vice-presidents, Thos. W. Ormiston, of Austin, Nichols & Co., and F. H. Leggett, of Francis H. Leggett & Co., N.Y.; treasurer, Samuel J. Berry, of Berry, Wisner, Lohman & Co., N.Y.; secretary, L. P. Lyon. Directors—F. C. Clark, of Clark, Chapin & Bushnell, N.Y.; C. E. Brown, of West, Stone & Co., Springfield, Mass.; Geo. P. Bergen, of Valentine, Bergen & Co., Brooklyn; F. W. Wilkinson, of Wilkinson, Gaddis & Co., Newark, N.J.; Augustus Van

CANADIAN VS. U. S. LIVE STOCK.

CANADA comes out well on a comparison of the ratio of live stock to population. The figures are given in a report of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. It is there stated that Canada is one of the few countries that do not present a strikingly unfavorable contrast to the United States; and the following table is supplied to show the number of farm animals to every 1,000 inhabitants in the two countries:

	Canada.	United States.
Horses.....	298	239
Milch cows.....	378	264
Other neat cattle.....	462	557
Sheep.....	520	574
Swine.....	352	917

In respect only of swine, it will be seen, does the United States make a strikingly favorable comparison with Canada, a fact accounted for by the great maize crop in the United States for rearing the hogs of Chicago fame. It is also stated that "the total wealth of Canada in 1888 was estimated by the eminent statistician, Mr. Michael G. Mulhall, at $4,900,000,000, composed as follows: Lands, $1,410,000,000; houses and furniture, $955,000,000; railways and shipping, $785,000,000; cattle, etc., $400,000,000; and sundries, $1,350,000,000. This is an average of $980 for each inhabitant, as compared with an average of $1,050 for each inhabitant in the United States." Fancy poor little Canada mounting up in wealth so close to the great and mighty Republic!—Canadian Gazette.

Grand Mogul Tea

Is like a gold mine to the merchant—large dividends without much effort. Quite true, Grand Mogul Tea is not placed in stores on approval, to be sold or returned. Only goods of questionable quality and no reputation are so placed. All merchants who handle this best of all teas are asked to do so after the most careful test with all competitors. This test wins us the order. Every merchant who handles this excellent tea has bought it on its high quality and well deserved popularity.

TORONTO AND MONTREAL, NOVEMBER 1, 1895

($2.00 per Year) No. 44

DROPS FROM THE EDITOR'S PEN.

Have not the Brownies been over-baked a little?

* * *

A merchant should be as affable selling pickles as dispensing sugar.

* * *

Chili's foreign trade last year decreased $14,000,000. That's chilly.

* * *

He that loaneth money often roameth abroad in vain in search of it.

* * *

A little carelessness on a clerk's part may cause much damage. Be careful.

* * *

Clerks who associate with bad companions cannot expect to draw good customers.

* * *

Printers' ink, black as it is, has lit the pathway of many a merchant to success.

* * *

"Bust" rhymes with trust, but the worst of it is that the great trusts will not "bust."

* * *

"All the world's a stage," but all who are playing the part of merchants are not born actors.

* * *

Generosity towards clerks pays, while a mean employer begets an unprofitable employe.

* * *

Keep your money in your business or your money will probably put you out of business.

* * *

A "kicker" in the association is a good thing, when his kicks are timely and well-directed.

* * *

The advertisement has a two-fold mission: It introduces the merchant to the buyer and sel's his wares.

* * *

I see that Indian Pekoe fannings were offered in London, Eng., the other day as low as 4½d., duty paid. May those who drink such tea have copper bottom stomachs! They need them.

* * *

If you have a leak in your business locate and stop it. Otherwise, pump as you may, you will founder in the sea of bankruptcy.

* * *

When the merchant and the clerk do not pull together it is clear they cannot pull business to the store.

* * *

He who endorses for a friend exercises an implicit trust in mankind that should be condemned rather than condoned.

* * *

Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he reap. If you do not plant good advertisements you cannot expect to reap good business.

* * *

It is better to have the latter than the first days of one's life paved with ease. Begin smooth, end rough; begin rough, end smooth.

* * *

More endowed with riches than he who is born with a silver spoon in his mouth is he who comes into the world with a penchant for work.

* * *

When a merchant begins to cut prices he is unconsciously preparing the soil for a crop of tares that will eventually spring up and choke his business to death.

* * *

The authorities of Hammond, Ind., have decided to drive the canned horse meat business out of the town. That is right. The horse was made to be driven, not eaten.

* * *

Now that Canadian horses are a factor on the English market, we may expect stories to be manufactured to the effect that equines from this side of the Atlantic are affected with some virulent disease. Some people in Great Britain, you know, are affected with a disease which becomes abnormal whenever Canadian live stock or produce becomes prominent on the market.

* * *

There are two descriptions of competition—legitimate and illegitimate. The latter kills active and slothful merchants alike; the former only gives the quietus to the slothful.

An ordinance in Centralia, Ill., decrees that the displays in front of the grocery stores of that place must not be more than two feet. I do not know what kind of feet the people in Centralia have, but such an ordinance in Chicago would leave little room for pedestrians to get about.

It is said that the recent decline in the European sugar market was "merely the result of a successful effort to twist some remaining speculative holdings into control of operators who are concentrating stocks for bullish purposes." It would be a good thing for trade if these manipulators would twist themselves out of existence.

GROCERY CLERKS IN MONTREAL.

EDITOR GROCER,—Answering to a demand upon me, I write you these few lines to show to the readers of your valuable and interesting paper, and especially to the grocery trade, the position of grocery clerks of this city compared with other trades. It is a delicate question to touch, but I shall do my best to deal with facts, with the intention of improving the position of clerks, if possible.

Now, Mr. Editor, what a grocer expects from his clerk is education, honesty, intelligence, neatness in dress, politeness, and a good many other qualities, so that he can rely on his abilities to increase his trade. To acquire all these good qualities the young man who wants to be a good grocer should employ his leisure hours in educating himself in this delicate line of trade; for it is a very delicate trade, the grocery, and it requires a good training to be a successful grocer. He has to be up in the morning at six o'clock, the latest, and he is in harness till ten or eleven o'clock at night. Has he time to devote himself to any lecture, to any study of methods of improving his line of trade? Certainly not. But he has to be well educated to be a good merchant and a good citizen, and it is only by taking hours that he should devote to sleep that an ambitious young fellow can learn anything in the way of education.

Is the clerk well paid for his long labor? I say no. And the fault lies with grocers themselves. The reason is this: If grocers would organize and come to an understanding between themselves on a certain margin of profit, on a margin to meet expenses, and leave a profit for themselves, they could well afford to pay better salaries to clerks thoroughly acquainted with the trade; but as stores are run to-day in general, with the increase of expenses that has taken place since the last ten years, the property has increased in value, having the effect of increasing the rents. Rents being higher, the municipal taxes, which are based on rents, have increased. The license-taxes have increased 100 per cent. lately. With these increased expenditures on the shoulders of grocers, it seems to me that they should take means to have a larger margin of profit and thus be in a position to pay their employes a better salary for their long day's work. They would then have better employes, while the young man would take a greater interest in the welfare of his patron; the grocer would make more money, and both would be better off.

On what margin are goods sold to-day in Montreal? I don't believe storekeepers get 10 per cent. on an average, and, to prove this, I will tell you that I know of a house here, that is pushing for business, that sells a bottle of Hennessey's brandy for $1.10, which costs by the case $1.05. That is one out of a hundred similar cases that I could enumerate of the way grocers are selling their goods to day. Grocers keep stores, not for the benefit of the passers-by, but for their own benefit, with the idea of increasing their capital. Selling goods on such a small profit I call giving goods away to the public, for which the grocers will never get any thanks.

Employers and employes should well understand that it is to their best interests that they should join their respective associations and discuss the matter thoroughly, and come to an understanding on a higher schedule of profit for the good of our community.

One example to show what salary a good clerk can get was illustrated to me the other day. A grocery friend, knowing that I was out of a situation, sent for me. After taking many references as to my experience, I decided to take the situation. I asked him the hours of labor. He told me that I would have to open the store at 6.30 a.m. and close same at 10 p.m. every day, and that the salary would be seven dollars a week. I thanked the party for his kindness in thinking of me, but could not accept a position on that salary. Now, that party is not to blame, as he has to compete with his neighbors on small margins.

I hope, Mr. Editor, that I haven't been too long in discussing this important subject, and hope that the study of these facts by the parties interested will bring some good results. By doing this they will appreciate their trade better, and by improving their business, better salaries can be given to clerks. All grocers should subscribe to a trade paper, such as THE CANADIAN GROCER, where matters most interesting to the trade could be discussed.

Hoping that good results will derive from this long article, and thanking your readers, I remain yours, etc.,

J. BTE. E. POIRIER,

President Montreal Retail Grocers' Clerks' Association.

Montreal, Oct. 28, 1895.

IT SETTLES THE QUESTION.

The decision of the Board of General Appraisers and the N. Y. Circuit Court affirming British Columbia red cedar lumber to be free within the meaning of the U. S. tariff, is looked upon by lumbermen as settling the long pending question of whether the U. S. market was open to the competition of British Columbia lumbermen. The sample shipment of lumber on which the test case was settled was beveled cedar siding, and it is, therefore, taken for granted that this description of lumber will be admitted free. There is yet, however, a question that it is manufactured lumber, but the decision of the Board of Appraisers will most probably be overthrown.

HE TAKES WHAT HE DEEMS BEST.

The manufacturer who thinks he can ignore the retail grocer—can compel him to come in like the Scriptural rich man who prepared a feast, may, like him, be obliged to go into the highways and hedges, into the byways—among the less intelligent and more pliable classes of trade—to secure the sale of his goods. The self-reliant grocer cannot be compelled to sell the most widely-advertised product; he will do as he deems best and his customers will do as he recommends—will do it every time. All the billboard and street-car advertising, all the appeals to consumers, count for naught unless first the good will of the grocer is obtained. Remember this, manufacturers; and remember, too, that the grocery trade press is the grocers' parliament—it speaks for him—speaks for the man in the village and the man in the city; it voices his sentiments, it is, as one of our subscribers happily puts it, the rudder by which his individual business is steered; and he will steer clear of the enemy of the grocers' parliament every time. There is no bulldozing in this—no boycotting—it is a statement of a fact.—New England Grocer.

COLD STORAGE IN MONTREAL.

The present owners of the block of land, buildings, etc., formerly owned by the Canada Meat Packing Company, on Murray, Wellington and Young streets, and the owners of the block of land and buildings on corner of Wellington and Colborne streets, Montreal, have completed arrangements to amalgamate and form a joint stock company to carry on a refrigerated storage business, under the name of "The Canada Cold Storage and Freezing Co.," of Montreal. The buildings are strongly constructed, have a total capacity of one million cubic feet, and are admirably suited for the business. Facing on four streets, with railway tracks already in place, goods can be handled very expeditiously and economically. The location is close to the canal docks and the street railway cars pass on two sides of the property. Thos. Fraser & Co. have been carrying on a cold storage business in one of the properties this past season. Tenders have been called for the latest improved mechanical refrigerating machinery, which will be placed in the former building. Incorporation will be called for in due course.

HAMILTON TRADE GOSSIP.

DURING the past week trade has dropped off a little, but there is still a good volume of business passing; in fact, some at least of the wholesale houses have found it necessary to bring back their employes at night. As far as I can learn, Hamilton's wholesale houses have not much cause for complaint regarding the volume of business that has been passing their way lately. Neither have they much cause for complaint regarding payments.

I find that the tea market has lost none of its firmness. In fact, generally speaking, it is firmer than it was a week ago, especially on medium Congous, which are now being very much sought after on account of the high price of Ceylon tea. In China teas there has been an advance the past week of something like 2c. per pound. Japan teas are being held very firm, and nothing like a decent liquoring tea can be obtained under 16c., but the tea most in demand ranges from 17 to 18c. The better grades are rather neglected. No quantity of Young Hysons have come upon the market, and any desirable teas of this description are picked up as soon as offered. Locally the turnover during the week has been fair for the season.

The demand for sugar has fallen off considerably during the past week or ten days.

But in spite of this the movement is quite equal to that usually obtaining at this season. We quote as before: Granulated, $4\frac{3}{8}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.; yellows, 3 to $3\frac{3}{8}$ c.; brights, $3\frac{3}{4}$ to $3\frac{7}{8}$ c.

The feature of the grocery trade during the past week has been the sharp advance in Valencia raisins. Quotations received on Tuesday by importers here show that second quality fruit would cost about $5\frac{3}{4}$ c. net cash, laid down here. "In view of the bareness of the market in Spain, it seems safe to consider the advance a permanent one," remarked a wholesaler to me. "And one that is likely to affect the California raisin market, and that at no distant day." Very few off-stalk Valencias are being offered, and they are not wanted. Fine off-stalk Valencias are worth 5 to $5\frac{1}{4}$ c., ordinary selected $5\frac{1}{4}$ to $5\frac{3}{4}$ c., and best selected $5\frac{3}{4}$ to $6\frac{1}{4}$ c.

The advances which have taken place in currants have been fully maintained, and, judging from present indications, there is no possibility of a reaction. "And merchants," remarked a wholesaler to me, "can make no mistake in making their purchases now for the holiday trade." The idea as to price is: Provincials, $3\frac{3}{4}$ to 4c.; Filiatras, $4\frac{1}{4}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.; Patras, $4\frac{1}{2}$ to 5c.; Vostizzas, $5\frac{1}{2}$ to $6\frac{1}{4}$ c., according to quality. "It would pay for retailers to know," remarked an importer to me, "that there is more than one quality of currants put up under similar brands. Merchants should therefore be very careful in buying. The difference in the quality of Vostizza currants is very marked."

The canned goods market is practically featureless. Ruling quotations are: Tomatoes, 75 to 85c., according to brand; corn, 75 to 85c.; peas, 80c. to $1, according to brand.

Coffees continue much as before. With the advent of the winter months, naturally, a greater consumption is looked for. Green coffee is quoted: Rios, 19 to 20c.; Java, 29 to 32c.; Mocha, 30 to 32c.

There are new season's French prunes on the spot. They are quoted at $4\frac{1}{2}$ c., but there is no enquiry for them. Bosnia prunes are being quoted to arrive at 6c. Shipments are due here in a week or ten days.

I am told there is quite a good movement in both syrups and molasses. The molasses most wanted is that ranging from 23 to 25c., and that again at from 32 to 35c. In syrups, 30 to 32c. is the ruling idea. Some good values are being offered in American syrups, which are being brought in and underselling the native product, notwithstanding the heavy duty. Corn syrups are going into consumption more since the reduction in price. "Carrying out," remarked one wholesaler,

"the old adage that price has a great deal to do with the increase in the consumption in a great many lines. When it was 50c. per gallon we did not keep it in stock; now that the price is down to 40c., we are selling large quantities."

F. W. Fearman, the pork packer, is fairly well employed, but the price of hogs is somewhat retarding operations. "In Chicago," explained one of Mr. Fearman's sons, "hogs were on Tuesday quoted at $3.40 to $3.70, and in Buffalo at $3.75 to $3.80. Now we are paying $4 to $4.10, and still the farmers are holding for higher prices. Our English agents advise that they expect a low run of values, and urge us to be cautious."

I ran against Mr. W. W. Montague, of Dunnville, on Wednesday, while he was in one of the warehouses buying some assorting parcels. "Trade is good," he said in reply to a query. "It has improved wonderfully the last few weeks, but the outlook was blue a short time ago," Mr. Montague is a cousin of the Secretary of State, and proud is he of his honored cousin. By-the-bye, I am told that Mr. Montague has a seventeen-year-old daughter who promises to be about as famous as an eloquist as his cousin, the Secretary of State, is as an orator.

Walter Woods & Co. are busily employed at the moment in shipment of brooms, brushes, woodenware and a number of other lines, which customers desire to get before the close of navigation.

Lucas, Steele & Bristol, who make a specialty of the article, are just in receipt of their usual fall shipment of English rock candy. The firm is quoting low prices.

Lucas, Steele & Bristol are in receipt of a large shipment of black teas in half-chests and caddies. "It was a very advantageous purchase," explained one of the members of the firm, "the people from whom we bought them advising us that they would cost 3c. per pound more to-day."

Balfour & Co. have a large line of Valencia raisins and currants on the Frerona, due to arrive in Montreal in a few days. "These lines have gone up very much, but we find our customers are willing to pay the higher figure for the class of fruit we handle," it was explained to me. Balfour & Co. have had a busy week of it filling orders for the Upper Lakes and Manitoba. They expect their shipment of Lipton's teas every day.

Balfour & Co. expect to be settled down in their new building about the end of the month. "We shall move over gradually," said Mr. Balfour. "Goods arriving are being sent there now."

James Turner & Co. report a large trade in "Mecca" coffee. "We have orders from as far east as Kingston," said a member of the firm.

W. H. Gillard & Co. have sold out the three carloads of China black teas they received about a month ago, and are now in receipt of a duplicate shipment of same quantity; also 500 packages of "Big Gun" Japans, and documents of 300 packages of Moyune Young Hyson points which left Shanghai Oct. 1.

In September last W. H. Gillard & Co. sold a dealer in Manitoba a sample package of Dalu Kola Congou, a blend, and on Wednesday last they received a duplicate order from the customer for five chests of the same.

THE DUTY ON RICE.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has more than once dealt with the duty on rice. We are inspired to again do so by a circumstance which recently came under our observation.

Against cleaned rice there is a duty of one and one-fourth of a cent per pound; but in spite of this fact there are wholesalers who are bringing their supplies of this article from England. We know one house that has purchased the whole of its anticipated requirements in that country. It is this that has induced us to return to the subject.

The cost of the rice in question before it passed the Customs was less than two cents per pound. By the time it had passed the Customs and paid the one and one-fourth of a cent duty, its cost had swelled to three and one-fourth cents per pound. The duty, therefore, enhanced the price to the extent of about 62½ per cent.

The importer here cited was, however, more fortunate in the percentage of duty paid than was the average importer of last year.

Turning to the Trade and Navigation Returns of 1894 we find that there were brought into the country during that year 6,238,388 pounds of rice valued at $106,882, the duty on which was $68,764.62 or a little over 64½ per cent.

One unacquainted with the facts would naturally infer, with a duty averaging over 64 per cent., that rice milling, if not rice growing, was an important industry in Canada. It is important for two mills and for three or four score of people who earn their bread and butter by it. If our memory serves us, the number of persons employed in the industry is less than one hundred. Surely, then, to tax the people of this country for the purpose of giving employment to so few people is an injustice. It is an illustration, indeed, where the "saving minority" is more important than the great majority.

But it would be unfair to overlook the fact that the rice manufacturers of the country are also taxed for the raw material they import. On the unhulled, uncleaned or paddy rice they bring in they are mulcted to the extent of three-tenths of one cent per pound. And we find that last year they contributed to the Government treasury on this account the sum of $8,178.

But a comparison between the percentage of duty paid by the importer of rice and that of the mill-owner on his raw material shows a difference of nearly 60 per cent. in favor of the latter. In other words, the importer pays over 64½ per cent. on finished rice, while the mill-owner pays a duty of scarcely 5 per cent. If the duty is put on the raw material for the purpose of mollifying the importer and the consumer, obviously the attempt is weak. Here are the figures according to the Trade and Navigation Returns: Unhulled, uncleaned or paddy rice, 13,996,983 pounds, valued at $136,761; duty, $8,178. We have already given the figures regarding the cleaned rice imported.

Another striking feature revealed by the Trade and Navigation Returns is the proportion of cleaned (consumed by the people) and uncleaned (used by the mills) brought into the country. Of rice we last year imported in value $106,882 worth and of uncleaned $136,761, or nearly 78 per cent. of cleaned to uncleaned, while in quantity the proportion was nearly 45 per cent. of the former to the latter.

These figures show that, in spite of a tariff evidently intended to be high enough to be prohibitory, Canadians have to import about one-half of the rice they require.

Obviously, the duty on rice is an injustice, and a rank one at that. The Government should not allow another session to pass without doing something to remedy the evil.

SHOULD BE MADE PAY THE PIPER.

COMPETITION between the department stores in Toronto is becoming so keen that it promises to be the death of some of them.

No one will probably regret if the promise becomes a reality.

Department stores are undoubtedly an evil. The daily newspapers get large advertisements from these concerns, but it is probably no exaggeration to say that even the newspapers are not the gainers in the long run: Department stores kill other advertisers and drive away subscribers.

But granted that the daily newspapers are gainers by the existence of the department stores, it is questionable whether any other class in the community are.

Manufacturers are not benefitted. Neither are the wholesalers. Store property in the vicinity of these department houses and store property in outlying districts alike depreciate in value. Then one thing is certain: the wages of clerks and the wages of working people, male as well as female, are not appreciated by the "Cheap John" class of business which these stores carry on.

But of course the greatest sufferer by the advent of the department store is the retailer. It is all very well to declare that there are some retailers who should not be in business anyhow, small and incompetent ones for instance. But the trouble is that large and competent ones are also being made to suffer. Some are closed out altogether, while others have a struggle to keep their heads above water.

The department store is a monopoly, and anything that monopolizes trade cannot be a good thing for the community in which it exists. Ninety-nine per cent. of those who imagine they are saving money by buying their goods at these department stores would probably readily acknowledge that the injury these department stores are working is out of all proportion to the benefit they bestow.

The improvement of a thoroughfare, the construction of a railroad and other undertakings nearly always entail the payment of damages to someone. Yet these undertakings are admittedly for the public good. And if institutions admittedly on the whole beneficial to the community are compelled to pay damages, why should institutions such as department stores, admittedly on the whole inimical, be allowed to work injury right and left without being made to pay for the privilege of doing so?

THE CANADIAN GROCER does not, of course, mean to say that the department store should be made to pay damages to every retailer that it forces out of business. Such a contention would be too absurd to advance. Nor do we maintain that department stores should be witholden from starting up; that would be interference with the freedom of trade.

But what we do maintain is that the department store should be compelled to pay to the community in some way something proportionate to the privileges they enjoy, if not for the evil they work.

MARITIME PROVINCE POTATOES.

The potato crop in the Maritime Province is a heavy one. When in Shediac, N.B., THE CANADIAN GROCER found the principal street completely blocked with farmers' teams all laden with potatoes. One dealer alone, who ships to the West Indies, has handled 25,000 barrels so far this season, and recently the deliveries from the farmers averaged over 1,000 barrels per day. The price paid per barrel was 70c. for the ordinary varieties, and for Garnets 75c.

In P.E. Island the crop is so abundant that potatoes are almost a drug on the market.

HON. MR. WALLACE AND CUSTOMS VALUATION.

SERIOUS complaint is made by Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, Controller of Customs, of some statements in the Ottawa correspondence of THE CANADIAN GROCER, Oct. 4. The article in question, our readers will remember, dealt generally with the vacant Commissionership of Customs, and complained that political reasons would probably determine the class of man chosen to fill the position. All the statements were in the nature of information for the business interests of Canada which support this journal, and which it, in turn, desires to serve on all occasions. The article was moderately and courteously expressed, and contained no charges of a personal nature, nor anything which reflected upon private character.

We understand that the Controller thinks that the article involves a charge of conspiracy against himself to compel Mr. Douglass to act unfairly in the matter of Customs valuation. He is clearly mistaken in such a view, for that is not the meaning intended to be conveyed by any of our articles regarding the Customs administration, and if any reference in the Ottawa correspondence in question seems to convey that impression, we are glad to disclaim it and regret that such an imputation should appear to be made.

As a matter of fact THE CANADIAN GROCER has repeatedly expressed its high regard for the Controller of Customs. It has, indeed, been accused of partiality towards him on different occasions, because it has spoken of his industry, of his capacity as a business man in a Government badly needing more business men in its make-up, and of his personal worth. We still hold these opinions. We are as ready as ever to record his general willingness to listen to trade complaints and remedy abuses when such are pointed out.

But Hon. Clarke Wallace and the administration of the Customs Department are two different things. Political influences in public affairs didn't originate with Mr. Wallace. They are a legacy of times past. Neither party is free from the offence. Disputes as to rates of duty recently in the hardware trade have given rise to a feeling that the Customs Department unduly press upon the importer in the interest, apparently, of a few Canadian concerns. This question has been discussed in Parliament, in THE CANADIAN GROCER, and in other public journals. Discussion is free, and must continue so. Any attempt to muzzle public expression of opinion or stifle fair criticism would have a very bad effect, both politically and otherwise. At the same time, Hon. Mr. Wallace may imagine that reflections upon the system are intended for himself, personally or officially. This is not so, as far as this journal is concerned, and we wish to make the most distinct disclaimer of the slightest intention to attack him in his individual or official capacity. It is a system, not a man, we are dealing with. If any remarks in the Ottawa correspondence referred to can, fairly or unfairly, be construed into an injurious attack on character, we would greatly regret it, because this is a business man's paper, and wishes to have no party bias or personal animus in discussing public affairs.

Of course, we realize the difficulty of Mr. Wallace's position. He has to raise a revenue and the law gives him large discretionary powers. To business men his department is by far the most important branch of Government. He is certainly the most vigorous Minister of Customs we have yet had, and if the importers think the law is being strained to make them pay more duties than is necessary they will naturally air their grievances. They have a right to do so, and this journal is equally free to help them in their efforts. THE CANADIAN GROCER has no interest to serve, other than the interests of the merchant community whom it represents. It would not be worthy of support if it were not a fearless champion of the trade, and ready, even at inconvenience and cost, to stand up boldly for free discussion. But attacks on public men, as men, are not part of its programme, and Mr. Wallace may rest assured that the situation does not call for a campaign on his part against a paper which has always been a fair, nay a generous critic, a critic which may be antagonized, but one which cannot be muzzled.

THE MONTREAL COLLECTORSHIP.

THE following snappy correspondence was given out for publication this week by the Montreal Board of Trade, and will show the ill-feeling prevalent in Montreal in regard to the delay in appointing a Collector of Customs:

HON. MACKENZIE BOWELL, Premier of Canada:

SIR,—I have the honor, by the direction of the Council of this Board, to again communicate to you the appended resolution adopted by it on the 9th of April, with regard to the delay in appointing a Collector of Customs at this port, and to express the disappointment felt by the Council that, although in acknowledging receipt of that resolution, you said that the matter would have the Cabinet's best attention, no appointment has yet been made.

The Collectorship of Customs became vacant in January 1893, and the Council is constrained to express its opinion that the action of the Government in delaying the appointment of a Collector for nearly three years indicates an indifference to the welfare of Montreal and a lack of regard for the representations made by this Board and the commercial community generally, that is most regrettable.

The Council prays that the Government will not further delay the appointment of a Collector of Customs for this port.

I have the honor, etc.,

Your obedient servant,

GEO. HADRILL, Secretary.

The resolution adopted by the Board is as follows:

That the Council of the Montreal Board of Trade hereby asks the attention of the Government to the long continued vacancy in the Customs Collectorship of this port.

That the Council, in common with the business community generally, gladly bears testimony to the able and efficient manner in which the Acting Collector has succeeded, by unremitting devotion to the public service, in discharging the duties of the Collectorship; but that it considers that it is detrimental to the prestige of the chief port of the Dominion, as the combined duties of Collector and Acting Collector are more than one person can discharge, and unsatisfactory to importers, that there should be no Collector of Customs here.

That the Council, therefore, earnestly prays the Government to take the matter of the appointment of a Collector of Customs for the port of Montreal into consideration at once, with a view to action at the earliest possible date.

The Premier replied as follows:

GEORGE HADRILL, Esq., secretary Board of Trade:

SIR,—I have the honor to acknowledge your letter of yesterday enclosing a copy of a resolution adopted by the Council of your Board in April last, calling attention to the necessity for filling the position of Collector of Customs at the port of Montreal. I am exceedingly glad to learn that the Acting Collector has succeeded, by unremitting attention to the public service, in discharging the duties of the Collectorship, and your Council may rest assured that the matter of appointing a Collector will be attended to at the earliest moment practicable.

Yours respectfully,

MACKENZIE BOWELL.

The opinion was plainly expressed to THE CANADIAN GROCER by members of the Council that the P. emier's reply was entirely unsatisfactory. The business community were going to have a plain answer, or know the reason why.

ONTARIO APPLES.

The apple market is in a better condition than it was a few weeks ago.

It is not long since, owing to the report that there was a tremendous yield of apples in all parts of the world, the outlook for the grower was bad, and speculators refused to buy up the fruit by the orchard, as is their wont.

Now, however, a slight reaction has set in, the tide seems to have turned the other way, and prices are advancing.

One reason for this is that, owing to the poor outlook before mentioned, large quantities of Ontario fall apples were not marketed, but instead were allowed to spoil. The results are that winter apples are being early called for, and the quotations for good fruit are firming up generally and in some lines actually advancing.

FIRMNESS OF BOSNIA PRUNES.

Bosnia prunes promise to be a scarce, as well as an expensive, commodity on the Canadian market.

Owing to the high price, the orders placed have been few. "Those who have ordered," said an importer, "are lucky, as the market is firm at the advanced figures. There will be no Bosnia prunes to retail under 10c. per pound."

BIG OPERATIONS IN VALENCIAS.

THE week has been an excited one in wholesale grocery circles in Montreal, owing to the unusual anxiety displayed by buyers to procure supplies of Valencia raisins.

Some time ago THE CANADIAN GROCER referred to the fact that the Escalona's cargo had been almost all taken by western jobbers. This fact was one of the original causes of the activity witnessed this week in Montreal. Expecting that they would have no difficulty in securing their share of the stock on the Escalona, Montreal jobbers offered new crop fruit at very low figures, and were foolish enough to book orders to a considerable extent ahead without providing for supplies ahead. In fact, in some cases the competition for business was carried to such an extent that sales were made entirely irrespective of what supplies would cost laid down in Montreal.

Then came the steadily advancing cables from Denia, which have been going up ever since, the rise being 5s., or 1½c. per lb. from the lowest point at that port this season, and the Montreal jobbers who had sold ahead were in a decidedly unenviable position.

The Escalona came to hand, and they found that the westerners had shut them out. The outcome has been "cakes and ale" to the selling agents, in enabling them to make a quick turnover of the fruit to arrive ex Fremona on the 4th inst. There was a regular rush to buy, and with the demand from shorts anxious to cover and the firm cables, prices from first to second hands improved fully ½c. per pound all round.

The fruit on the steamer in question aggregates 60,000 odd packages—viz., 53,000 half, 4,800 quarter, and 2,700 eighth boxes of Valencia, and the fact that the whole, or almost the whole, of this large quantity has been placed to arrive within the past eight days or so, will afford some idea of the extensive buying done by Montreal houses. In fact, hardly any of it will go west, it being placed in Montreal and Quebec.

BETTER BUTTER MARKET.

Though there is little activity in medium and low grade butter, we have to note a considerable improvement in the finer qualities. Prices have not advanced to any extent, but the market is brisker, with an upward tendency at present.

This improvement is due to the better export demand just now existing for Great Britain.

Dealers, however, should not be too hasty in buying, as the present pleasant state of trade may not last long. The new Australian butter will soon reach the British markets, and may be followed by reduced values.

In this case the Canadian export demand would, of course, decrease again.

Meantime it may be mentioned that within a fortnight 40,000 tubs of creamery butter from this side of the Atlantic have been disposed of in London at prices varying from 24 to 28c. per pound.

CAN YOU TELL US WHY?

HOW did cheese first come to be artificially colored? For some days the dairy editor of THE CANADIAN GROCER has been worrying over this question. It seems strange that the fad of coloring cheese has become so universal. Cheese in its natural condition is, of course, as everyone knows, white, and the query as to how the people were first educated up to so generally demanding a colored article is therefore an interesting one.

Throughout the English-speaking world a rich-hued cheese is in demand, but there must be an exception to the rule, and so we find an odd community here and there that calls for the white article.

In Toronto and Montreal, for instance, and in fact throughout all Eastern Canada, the call is for the yellow-red product, but in Manitoba and other western districts the pure white article can be easily disposed of in considerable quantities.

This latter circumstance is a fortunate one for some of the Prairie Province manufacturers, who were unlucky enough this year to get hold of a lot of inferior coloring material, which "set" unevenly and turned out a very mottled specimen of cheese. These makers have had to throw away their "dye," and manufacture white cheese, which, as stated above, can be disposed of to a great extent in the local markets.

Turning to Great Britain, where nearly all our export cheese is disposed of, we find that the demand is chiefly for the colored product, but that "white" is in favor in some important centres. Liverpool and Glasgow, for instance, take all red cheese, while Manchester uses white almost exclusively.

These facts show that the call for red cheese is merely a fad supported by local custom, and as a big jobber remarked in the writer's hearing the other day, some day common sense will prevail and white cheese will be universally used. The sooner this change is brought about the better, for it is absurd that people, who are shocked at any attempt at adulteration or artificial coloring in connection with other articles of food, should be to so great an extent in favor of the introduction, for appearance sake, of foreign substance into cheese.

Taking Toronto as a criterion, it may be said that white has begun already to supplant the red cheese. The better classes are calling more than formerly for cheese in its natural state, and the grocers who cater to the fashionable trade have now to keep the white article in stock. Of course, the masses always follow the suit of their wealthier fellow citizens, so we may perhaps expect in time to see the coloring of cheese a thing of the past.

We have made inquiries in various quarters with a view to finding an answer to the query with which this article opens, but in vain. Produce men and grocers seem alike unable to answer the question. The only remark approaching the nature of a reply elicited was to the effect that cheese may have been colored in imitation of butter in order to catch the poor people who were not able to buy the dearer article, and used the cheaper as a substitute.

We should be glad to hear from anyone who has a suggestion to make bearing on a possible solution of this problem.

DON'T SCALD YOUR POULTRY.

Last week THE CANADIAN GROCER made some suggestions regarding the manner in which poultry should be prepared for market, and we trust that country shippers have benefitted by what we said.

This week we wish to throw out another suggestion, nay, a strong recommendation. We want to impress upon shippers the advisability of sending dry-plucked fowl to market, and they can in turn call the attention of farmers and others from whom they get their poultry to this matter.

Dry-plucked poultry is more marketable by long odds than scalded fowl, and the sooner this is learned the better for all concerned.

Scalded fowl does not keep its appearance or freshness like dry-plucked. It turns blue more quickly, and taints more readily, it is said.

Read, mark, learn, so that others may inwardly digest the poultry you send to market, instead of turning up their noses at it, or throwing it away.

MALAGA RAISIN SITUATION.

Malaga raisins, like a good many other lines of foreign dried fruits, have developed a stronger feeling.

The shipments now on the way for Canada ex ss. Fremona are costing considerably less than earlier shipments via Liverpool.

The quantity of fruit imported has not been large and ought to meet with a ready sale. The higher grades, such as connoisseur and dessert clusters, have never shown as fine quality before, and the quality of Malaga fruit generally is better than that of a year ago.

TRADE CHAT.

THE price of eggs has advanced in Regina to 15 cents. Butter made a sharp advance also a few days ago.

The annual commerce of the British colonies amounts to £448,000,000.

The Manitoba Government has decided to start a dairy school in Winnipeg on Jan. 1st next.

Orders at the Tillson Co.'s mills are being received much faster than the output of the mill will fill them.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Tillson, of Tilsonburg, have arrived home from Chicago and Minneapolis, via Saulte Ste. Marie.

David Strickler has been appointed by the Bright Cheese Manufacturing Co. to fill the vacancy in the board caused by the death of the late John Little.

The Winnipeg civic health authorities have been devoting attention to the citizens' milk supply lately, and as a result some 300 cows have been isolated or destroyed.

Manitoba cheese shipments are beginning to assume large proportions, as well as grain and live stock exports. One Winnipeg firm in the past ten days has shipped 18,000 pounds to Montreal for export to England.

Land Commissioner Hamilton, of the C.P.R., suggests that a practical milling and baking test be made by the Government of frozen and other inferior grades of wheat, so that the actual value of frosted wheat may be arrived at.

A Toronto traveler is reported to have sold $8,000 worth of liquors in Kootenay on one trip.—B.C. Commercial Journal.

Henry Matthew, a prominent business man of Brockville, was married this week to Miss Maggie Beaubien, of Howe Island.

The British Columbia Commercial Journal is urging the people of that province to take advantage of the partial failure of the French sardine industry to embark in the industry for themselves.

On Monday at Toronto Junction, burglars entered the grocery store of Barnes and Padget, by forcing in the iron door at the rear. After drilling a hole in the safe they blew open the door with some explosive, and decamped with about $30 in silver.

The C.P.R. traffic department is going in for record-breaking in grain carrying this fall. The highest figures of former years have been exceeded several times, but the record of one day last week of 413 cars is not likely to be exceeded this season.

A cable from London (Eng.) says: "The salmon from British Columbia, which the Fishmongers' Company declare to be salmon trout, the sale of which was made illegal, has been declared by experts to belong to the family of salmonidæ, though they differ from the British salmon. The Fishmongers' Company has consequently withdrawn its order prohibiting the sale of frozen salmon from British Columbia, and the importers of the fish are satisfied.

On Saturday fire was discovered in the cellar of G. G. Steele's grocery store, Woodstock, Ont., and was making good headway by the time the employes attacked it with pails of water. They succeeded in extinguishing the flames before much damage was done.

W. B. Cockburn, of the Milton Butter Factory, has purchased the brick store on the corner of Main and Brown streets, Milton, Ont., and the frame dwelling on the east side of it. Mr. Cockburn has commenced excavating, and intends erecting a fine building for a butter factory on the site.

Fire broke out last week in the stone residence of W. H. Gillard, Aberdeen avenue, Hamilton, and threatened to consume building and contents, but was got under control by the fire department after $600 damage had been done. The fire originated in a frame addition to the house, and spread along the windows of the main building, destroying all the shutters, blinds and curtains.

John McCause, clerk with Butler Bros., Woodstock, Ont., will, on November 1st, enter into partnership in the grocery business with D. D. Black, of the same place. Mr. McCause is an energetic, obliging young man, and possesses a thorough knowledge of the grocery business. The new firm should, as they doubtless will, do a large trade.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Oct. 31, 1895.

GROCERIES.

TRADE during the past week has not been noted for its activity. Although there is a fair business in staple lines outside sugar, yet the fact that sugar is moving slower than a week ago causes the aggregate volume of trade to be unsatisfactory. The feature of the trade during the week has been the appreciation in the price of foreign dried fruit, and particularly in Valencia raisins and currants, quotations on them being higher locally as well as in the primary markets. Teas continue firm, although the demand is not very active. Canned goods are receiving but passing attention. Syrup and molasses are both quiet. Payments are on the whole fair.

CANNED GOODS.

The demand is getting a little better for canned vegetables, but the volume of business is by no means large. There seems, however, to be a better feeling, and packers are less anxious than they were. Peas appear to be about cleaned out of first hands. Canned fruits are still dull. Canned salmon is quiet, but prices are firm. We quote: Tomatoes, 77½ to 85c.; corn, 75 to 85c.; peas, 85c.; for ordinary; sifted, 95c. to $1; extra sifted, $1.40; peaches, $2.90 to $3 for 3's, $1.90 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.40 to $2.00; strawberries, $1.80 to $2.45, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.90 to $2.20; cherries, $2.40 to $2.45; apples, 3's, 85 to 90c.; gallons, $2 to 2.25; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.35 to $1.40; "Maple Leaf," $1.35; "Lion," $1.35; Lowe Inlet, 1.27 to $1.30, in tall tins; cohoes, $1.10 to $1.20; canned mackerel, $1 $1.10; lobsters, $1.80 to $2.10, for tall tins; flats, $2.35 to $2.65; half tins, $1.40 to $1.45; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.50 to $1.60; 2's, $2.50 to $2.65; 6's, $8 to $8.25; 14's, $18 to $19. Chicago canned beef, 1's, $1.75 per doz.; 2's, $2.85.

COFFEE.

Demand is moderate, with stocks fair. We quote green in bags: Rio, 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22½c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracaibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

RICE.

The local market is quiet and unchanged. We quote: "B," 3½ to 3¾c.; extra Japan, 5¼ to 5¾c.; imported Japan, 5¼ to 6¼c.; tapioca, pearl, 3½ to 5½c.

SPICES.

The primary market is a little firmer on pepper, but locally there is no quotable change. The demand for pickling spices is about over. We quote as follows: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.

NUTS.

The first direct shipment of walnuts is expected here about Dec. 1. Filberts will also be late. A direct shipment of Tarragona almonds is expected to arrive in about ten days. We quote: Brazil nuts, 11½ to 11¾c. Sicily shelled almonds, 25 to 26c.; Tarragona almonds, 14 to 14½c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted, and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 14 to 15c.; Marbot walnuts, 12 to 13c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 10 to 12c.; Sicily filberts, 9 to 10c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; pecans, 10½ to 11c.

SUGAR.

There is practically no enquiry from the wholesalers, and retailers' wants are but small. The London market shows more strength. Prices there show a total advance of 4½d. from the recent lowest point, or a gain of one-half what values lost during the recent slump of three week ago. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, 4¾ to 4½c.; do., No. 2, 4¼c.; yellows, 3¾c. to 3.85c.

SYRUPS.

The conditions, both as to business and price, remain much as before. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.; bright, 40 to 42c.

MOLASSES.

The market is without special feature. We quote: New Orleans, barrels, 30 to 32c.; half-barrels, 33½ to 35c.; Barbadoes, barrels, 31 to 35c.; half-barrels, 33 to 37c.

TEAS.

People are holding off, apparently hoping to see lower prices. In the meantime, however, Indian and Ceylon teas remain firm. The scarcity of low grade Japan teas is still a marked feature of the market. "I never," said a tea man, "saw low grade Japans so scarce in all my experience with the tea trade. People have now given up asking for them." We quote ruling prices to retailers: Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

DRIED FRUITS.

Valencia raisins are higher on the spot, in sympathy with the primary markets. First-class brands, such as Arguimbau's, C. Moran's and Trenor's, are now quoted as follows: Off-stalk, 4¼ to 4½c.; fine off-stalk, 4¼ to 5c.; selected, 6c.; layers, 6½c. The advance has somewhat checked the demand, although a large business could evidently be done at the old figures.

Currants have again advanced, and figures in the primary markets are now from 1s. to 2s. above the price of the fruit on board the Fremona, the direct steamer now on the way. Local wholesalers have also advanced their prices ½ to ¾c. per pound. We quote: Fine Filatras, in half-bbls., 4 to 4¼c.; ditto, cases, 4¼ to 4½c.; ditto, half-cases, 4¼ to 4¾c.; Casalinas, cases, 5 to 5¼c.; Vostizzas, cases, 6 to 6½c.; ditto, half-cases, 6½ to 6¾c.; ditto extra fine, 6¾ to 7¼c.; ditto, half-cases, 7¼ to 7½c.

California dried fruit is without special feature. We quote: Pears, 11½c.; apricots, in boxes, 15 to 16c.; peaches, in boxes, 12½c.

The prune market continues firm, for the Bosnia kinds being especially so. California prunes we quote as follows: 50-60 to box, 9½c. per lb.; 60-70 to box, 9c.; 70-80 to box, 8½c. per lb.

In figs the market is somewhat bare, but it is, of course, only temporary. We quote: 14 oz., 10½c.; 10 lb., 10½c. for 5-rowed, and 12½c. for 4-rowed; 14 lb., 11c.; 28 lb., 16c.

The first direct shipment of Malaga raisins will be here in about ten days. We quote: London layers, $2.10 to $2.20; black baskets, $3 to $3.20; blue baskets, $3.50 to $3.75; choice clusters, $3.50 to $3.75; Dehesa clusters, $4.25 to $4.50; Royal clusters, $5 to $5.25.

GREEN FRUIT.

The market is practically featureless, trade keeping on in the even tenor of its way. Lemons have declined considerably. In cranberries, Cape Cods are the only ones that cut any figure, Jersey not being in yet, and it being said that there will be practically no domestic this year. We quote: Lemons—Sorrento and Verdilla, in boxes, $6 to $8; Malaga, in half-chests, $10 to $10.50. Oranges—Jamaicas, in boxes, $4 to $4.50; in bbls., $7 to $8. Bananas, $1 to $1.50; cocoanuts, $3.50 to $4 a sack; cabbage, 75c. to $1 per bbl.; green apples, $1.50 to $2.50 a barrel; muskmelons, $1.75 per bbl.; grapes, 4 to 5c. per pound, and 30 to 40c. for small baskets; Canadian peaches, 75 to 85c. per basket; pears, 50 to 75c.; domestic onions, 60 to 75c. per bag; Spanish onions, 60 to 70c. per small crate; Portugal onions, $2 per large crate; sweet potatoes, $3 to $3.50 per bbl.; cranberries, $10 per bbl., and $3.50 to $3.75 per case; butternuts, $1 per bushel; hickory nuts, $1.50 to $2 per bushel; chestnuts, $7 per bushel.

BUTTER, CHEESE, EGGS, POULTRY.

BUTTER—There has been considerable improvement in the butter situation, especially in the finer grades. This is largely owing to a better export demand, but medium and low grades show little activity. See editorial remarks on situation. We quote: Old summer dairy and store packed, 8 to 12c.; fresh prints, 16 to 17c.; fresh tubs, 15 to 16c. Fresh creamery—Tubs, 20 to 21c.; pound prints, 22 to 23c.

CHEESE—Has made a very marked advance, as stated in our editorial columns. Local buyers have paid 8½ to 9c. for August Canadian makes, and 9½c. for balance of season.

EGGS—Fresh eggs remain firm at 15 to 16c. per doz., while pickled cannot be bought lower than 14c.

POULTRY—Is very plentiful on a declining market. We quote prices: Geese, 5 to 5½c. per lb.; turkeys, 7 to 8c. per lb.; chickens, 25 to 40c. per pair; ducks, 40 to 60c. per pair.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—Are easier, jobbers offering at $1.10 to $1.15 per bushel.

DRIED APPLES—Weaker at 5 to 5½c. per lb.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Dropped to 6¾c. per lb.

POTATOES—No appreciable improvement is noted, 25 to 30c. being the ruling quotation for bags in the city, while 15c. is the price spoken of at some outside points.

HONEY—Is very scarce in the comb, only a few local dealers being in a position to offer any. Comb brings $1.50 for buck-wheat, and $2 for choice clover fed.

HOPS—Are quoted 6½ to 7½c. for Canadian, and 14c. for Pacifics.

DRESSED BEEF, VEAL AND MUTTON.

By the carcass is quoted thus: Beef, first-class, $7 per 100 lbs.; fair to middling, $5.50 to $6.50; rough and inferior, $4 to $4.50. Lamb, 5 to 5½c. per lb. Mutton, 4 to 5c. per lb. Veal, 4 to 6½c. for first quality.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

Dressed hogs have gone still lower, and are now quoted at $5 flat. Products seem also to be weakening. We quote:

DRY SALTED MEATS—Long clear bacon, 6¾c. for carload lots, and 7c. for small lots; backs, 7½ to 8c.

SMOKED MEATS—Breakfast bacon, 10½ to 11c.; rolls, 7½ to 7¾c.; hams, large, 22 lbs. and over, 10c.; medium, 15 to 20 lbs., 11c.; small hams, 11c.; pickled, 9c.; backs, 10 to 10½c.; picnic hams, 7½c.

WHEAT—Quoted thus: White, 73c.; red, 68½c.; goose, 64½c. per bushel.

OATS—Quoted at 28 to 28½c. per bush.

BARLEY—Quoted at 35 to 41c. per bush.

GROCERIES.

THE grocery market has ruled moderately active during the past week.

Several of the staples have shown dulness, but the chief feature has been the excitement in several leading lines of Mediterranean fruits. This is especially the case with prunes and Valencia raisins, both of which, as will be seen elsewhere, have scored marked advances. The same can be said of currants. In other lines of dried fruit the tone is equally firm, though there has not been the same activity to report. Tea is active in a distributing way, while sugar is rather quiet, and the same can be said of syrups and molasses. Values all round, however, are firm in tone, and any changes that we have to mention this week are, with possibly one exception, in an upward direction.

SUGAR.

The sugar market has ruled very quiet during the past eight days, but spot prices here have ruled steady in the face of declines in outside markets, both in the refined and raw product. In fact, no radical change is anticipated by refiners here, as they look for a change in foreign markets consequent upon the very bullish statistics furnished last week from Europe in regard to the beet crop. It may be noted in this connection that private cables from Great Britain noted a steadier tendency both on beet and cane recently. Trading from refineries here both in granulated and yellows is moderate, and the same can be said of the distributive trade from second hands. We quote: Granulated, $4\frac{3}{4}$ c., and yellows, 3 to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c. as to grade. At the refineries values are quotable $\frac{1}{8}$ c. less per lb. for straight wholesale lots.

SYRUPS.

The syrup market is quiet, but with light supplies both in first and second hands values are firmly maintained. We quote: $1\frac{3}{4}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb. as to grade.

MOLASSES.

There is a fair trade doing from jobbers' hands at steady prices both on Barbadoes and Porto Rico stock. Prime goods of the former are held at 36 to 37c., but car lots have changed hands at 35c. Jobbing parcels of Porto Rico change hands at 35c. and car lots at 33c.

RICE.

There is no change in rice, which we quote as before: Japan, $4.30 to $4.50; crystal Japan, $4.80 to $5; standard B, $3.45; C.C. style, $3.30; Patna, $4.37 to $5; and Carolina, $6.75 to $7.50.

SPICES.

This market has been fairly active and a good business is reported at former rates. We quote: Cream of tartar, $22\frac{1}{2}$ c.; Penang black pepper, 7 to 10c.; white pepper, 12 to 15c.; cloves, whole, 9 to 20c.; cassia, whole, 9 to 20c.; nutmegs, 60 to 90c.; Jamaica ginger, 17 to 20c.

COFFEE.

There has been no change in the coffee market, which rules quiet and steady. We quote green bean: Maracaibo, 20 to 22c.; Rio, 19 to 20c.; Java, 24 to 28c.; Jamaica, 18 to 20c., and Mocha, $27\frac{1}{2}$ to 31c.

TEAS.

The scarcity of low-grade Japans is still the leading feature of the tea market here, and practically the tea in first hands available, from 13 up to 15c., has been absorbed. This condition of affairs is of benefit to blacks ranging from 10 to 13c., and another notable fact is the constantly growing demand for Ceylon and India teas on western account. Japans from 15 to 19c. have been moving also from second hands with considerable freedom; in fact, though the market is quieter than usual in a wholesale way, there is an active distributing trade in progress at firm values from second hands.

DRIED FRUIT.

The strong tendency noted on Valencia raisins last week has been intensified, and an active business transacted here during the week between first and second hands. This is evidenced by the fact that nearly all of the Fremona's lot, 60,000 odd packages, have been sold to arrive, the great bulk within the past eight days. We quote: Ordinary off-stalk, $3\frac{3}{4}$ to 4c.; fine off stalk, $4\frac{1}{4}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.; selected, $5\frac{1}{2}$ c., and layers, 6c.

Further carload lots of new California raisins have been received this week. Prices on 3-crown fruit are $\frac{1}{2}$ c. lower, as to range, but 4-crown are firmly held. We quote $5\frac{1}{2}$ to 6c. for 3-crown and 7c. for 4 crown loose muscatels.

There is a fair jobbing trade doing in Malaga fruit at steady prices. We quote: Extra loose muscatels, $1.40; Imperial London layers, $1.75; Imperial cabinets, $1.90; Connoisseur clusters, $2.20; extra dessert clusters, $3; Royal Buckingham clusters, $1.10; Imperial Russian clusters, $4.75.

Advices on Sultana raisins by cable are firm, being equivalent to an advance of 1c. per lb., contracts being put through on Monday at 4s. advance on offers of the 9th instant. We quote spot values firm at 6 to $6\frac{1}{2}$ c.

Shipments of California table raisins are expected toward the close of the present week consisting of 4, 5, and 6-crown Imperial clusters in boxes and quarter boxes. They are selling to arrive at $2.25 in boxes, and $1.25 in quarter boxes.

Advices from Patras on currants are very firm and to repeat orders means an advance of $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb. The stock ex Fremona, is nearly all absorbed and prices are firm, sales of ordinary between houses having transpired at $3\frac{1}{2}$ c. spot cash. We quote: $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c. in barrels, 4 to $4\frac{1}{4}$ c. in half-barrels, and $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{3}{4}$ c. in cases and half-cases.

All advices on prunes are firm and, in consequence, spot values here have to be advanced all round. No French prunes can now be had under 6c., while fine to choice are much higher. Bosnia prunes are quoted at 1s. advance, and 6c. spot cash is asked for them to arrive. We quote: French ordinary, 6c.; fine to choice, $7\frac{1}{2}$ to $13\frac{1}{2}$ c.

The fig market is steady on the whole, though fresh receipts have led to a somewhat lower range in some cases. We quote as follows in detail: Extra fancy 7-crown Eleme layer figs, 50-lb. flat boxes, 16 to 17c.; fancy 5-crown 12-lb. flat boxes, $9\frac{1}{2}$ to 11c.; fancy 12-oz. boxes, 8 to 9c.; choice bag figs, $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.

The date market is strong and contracts have been put through for reliable grades of Halloween dates that mean fully $4\frac{1}{4}$ c. laid down in Montreal. The first shipment of new dates is expected to leave London for here on the 5th November.

NUTS.

There is nothing special to report in the nut market. We quote: Brazils, 8 to 9c.; shelled almonds, 20 to 25c.; Tarragona, 12 to 13c.; Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; shelled ditto, 25 to 27c.; filberts, $6\frac{1}{2}$ to $7\frac{1}{2}$ c.; and pecans, 8 to 10c.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been little change in the canned goods market during the past week, and business on the whole is quiet. Lobsters are firmly maintained as to value, though business is moderate. In vegetables nothing special is to note except the offer of a round lot of 5,400 cases of tomatoes on this market at a shading on quotations. In a jobbing way prices are slightly easier also. We quote: Lobsters, $8 to $9 per case; sardines, $8.50 to $10.50; salmon, $5.20 to $5.50; mackerel, $5; tomatoes, 75 to 80c. per doz.; peaches, $2 to $3 per doz.; corn, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peas, 95c. to $1 per doz.; strawberries, $2.25 to $2.50; raspberries, $2; green gages, $2 to $2.25; blue plums or damsons, $1.50 to $1.75; pineapples, $2.25 to $2.50, and 3-lb. apples, 80 to 85c.

WINES AND SPIRITS.

Some fair sized contracts have been put through for champagnes during the week, but as a rule the market is quiet and unchanged. Shipments of Scotch whiskies, etc., are arriving on all the steamers for houses both here and in Toronto, who have ordered fairly well ahead.

GREEN FRUIT.

The green fruit market continues much the same with the exception of apples. On these cables are rather easier.

APPLES—Anticipations of heavy receipts this week from American ports has led to easier cables on apples from Great Britain. Spot prices here are the same at $2.50 to $3 for reds, and $1.75 to $2.25 for greenings.

PEARS—There is a fair trade doing in these, and prices are steady at $5 to $6.

GRAPES—Are lower at 20 to 40c. per 10-lb. basket.

CRANBERRIES—No change to report. We quote: Cape Cod $8.50 to $9, and Nova Scotia, $9.50 to $10.

ALMERIA GRAPES—Stocks are light and prices firmly held at $4.90 to $5.25 per bbl.

ORANGES—Jamaica oranges range from $6 to $7 per bbl.

LEMONS—Malaga lemons sell quietly at $4 to $4.50 per box, and $7 to $7.50 per case.

SPANISH ONIONS—Stocks are not heavy, and prices are steady at 40 to 50c. per crate.

SWEET POTATOES—Fancy Jersey sweets are worth $4 to $4.50.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Quiet and rather lower at 6 to 6½c. per lb.

FISH.

Only a moderate trade can be reported in fish during the past week. Pickled fish have furnished the chief feature in the shape of exceptionally large arrivals of pickled herring and green cod. Values in consequence are exceedingly low, and shippers will hardly realize cost. We quote: Choice No. 1 Labrador, $5.25 to $5.50; Cape Breton, $4.50, and Nova Scotia, $4 to $4.25; No. 1 green cod, $4.50; No. 2 mackerel, $17.50; No. 2 Labrador salmon, $13.50; B.C. do., $10.50.

In prepared fish business is of a moderate character, and values fairly steady. We quote: Dried cod, 4¼ to 4½c.; boneless cod, 6c.; shredded do., 11c.; bloaters, $1 per box, and kippered herring, $1.65 per box.

Fresh haddock and cod are arriving freely, and selling in a small way at 4c. per lb. This is the close season for white fish and trout, and they are not quotable.

Shell oysters are only in fair supply, especially in the line of ordinary grades. We quote: Hand-picked, $4.50 to $5; Miramichi, $2.50 to $2.75; and Buctouche, $4 to $4.50 per barrel.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There has been a firmer tone in the egg market for choice candled stock, and prices are ½c. per dozen higher for small lots. A fairly active trade was done at 14 to 15c. per dozen for choice candled stock, and at 11½ to 12c. for ordinary. There has been no business in limed stock for local account to speak of, but some fair-sized lots have been shipped to the English market.

POTATOES—A fair business was done in potatoes and prices rule steady at 35 to 40c. per bag in car lots.

BEANS—The market for beans was quiet and steady at $1.10 to $1.15 per bushel in car lots for choice hand-picked, and at $1.20 to $1.30 for smaller quantities.

HOPS—The demand for hops continues slow, and the market is dull and steady at 5 to 8c. per lb. for new, as to quality.

TALLOW—There was no change in tallow, prices ruling steady at 6 to 6½c. for prime refined, and at 5 to 5½c. for lower grades.

POULTRY—The poultry market was quiet owing to the small offerings, but all the stock arriving is meeting with a ready sale at steady prices. We quote: Turkeys, 8 to 9c.; chickens, 6 to 7c.; ducks, 7 to 8c., and geese, 5½ to 6c. per lb.

DRESSED HOGS—A few small lots of dressed hogs have come to hand, for which the demand was fair and sales were made at $5.50 per 100 lbs. Holders in the country are offering carload lots delivered here at the above figure, but no sales are reported.

HAY—The hay market is steady. We quote: No. 1, $12, and No. 2, $10.50 to $11.

PROVISIONS.

The week has witnessed a weaker feeling in the provision market, and packers here have lowered prices on Canadian short cut mess 50c., to $15.50 to $16. Other lines are dull with an easy tendency also. We quote: Canadian short cut, clear, $14.50 to $15; Canadian short cut mess, $15.50 to $16; hams, city cured, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 9¾ to 10c.; bacon, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, com. refined, per lb., 6¼ to 6½c.

FLOUR, MEAL AND FEED.

The demand for flour was good and the market rules active with a large volume of business doing. In Manitoba grades prices have been shaded 10c. per barrel in some cases. We quote: Winter wheat, $3.85 to $4.15; spring wheat, patents, $4.05 to $4.15; straight roller, $3.40 to $3.50; straight roller, bags, $1.50 to $1.70; extra, bags, $1.50 to $1.55; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.65 to $4.

There was no change in oatmeal, business being quiet at steady prices. We quote: Standard, bbls., $3.15 to $3.20; granulated, bbls., $3.25 to $3.30; rolled oats, bbls., $3.25 to $3.30.

The demand for feed continues good, and the market rules active and firm. We quote: Bran, $14.50 to $15; shorts, $16.50 to $17; mouillie, $20.50 to $21.50.

BUTTER.

The butter market rules steady with nothing special to note. The high prices at which creamery is held has enabled some holders to close out lots of dairy stock to better advantage. In this connection we hear of sales of held dairy stock at 16c. In the country it is reported that some local jobbers have been offering full prices for October creamery, as their supplies are not heavy, with the season as far advanced as it is. We quote: Finest September creamery, 22 to 23c.; finest August creamery, 19 to 19½c.; Township dairy, 17 to 18c.; Western dairy, 14 to 15c.

CHEESE.

The cheese market is rather unsettled at this writing. Buyers are not disposed to bid as high prices as last week. This was evidenced in connection with the usual weekly offerings from the French sections down the river this week. About 3,000 boxes of these were offered, which were all sold, the leading and ruling price being 9c. This is ¼c. per lb. less than cheese from the same section realized last week. The price, however, only applies to Quebec cheese from the French sections, for values on Ontario goods are nominal. Buyers, it is true, talk lower prices, but, with supplies situated as they are, it is hardly likely that they could fill an order with Western cheese at a concession upon the rates ruling for finest Ontario or Townships last week. We quote: Finest Ontario, fall makes, 9½ to 9¾c.; finest Quebec, fall makes, 9 to 9¾c.; summer makes, 8 to 8½c.

ASHES.

The ashes market is weaker in feeling, under increased receipts. We now quote firsts $4 to $4.10; seconds, $3.75 to $3.80; and pearls, $4.70.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER

ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 31, 1895.

THE Fall Number of THE CANADIAN GROCER has been the sensation of the fortnight. It is on all sides said to be the best thing seen here in the way of a trade paper. The number (to say nothing of the handsome manner in which they are arranged) of the advertisements is a matter of much comment. But not only in its special numbers, but in its regular numbers, THE CANADIAN GROCER weekly makes friends.
It has made itself a necessity. In trade the output of the week has been good. In tea there continues a good demand. Indians range higher. Throughout this province Indians and blends make up about one-third the consumption. In cream of tartar the market is easier, there being no good grounds for the rapid and large increase in price. Sal soda is reported higher. Merchants report country collections good. New dried fruit being to hand, merchants are busy filling their advance orders. Ontario flours show strength.

OIL—An improved demand is noted in burning oil, and dealers are very busy.
Prices remain firm at quotations. American,
22½c.; best Canadian, 21¼c.; prime white,
17½. No charge for barrels.

SALT—There is a good steady demand.
Prices remain steady. Stocks held are not over large, but equal to demand, and a cargo is now afloat though not expected for some weeks. On round cartoons the Windson salt people report a better demand since the Exhibition, which they hold is the result of their display at the show. We quote:
Coarse, 50 to 55c.; fine factory-filled, $1.10;
5-lb. bags, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags,
$2.80 to $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10-lb. boxes, 12c.; cartoons, $2 per doz.; cheese salt, bulk, $2.70 per bbl.

CANNED GOODS.—Stocks are now largely to hand and, as reported, are fairly large.
The only thing which is short is peas, a quantity of which could be sold here in prospect of higher prices. Six cars of salmon, at least, are coming here. This is about two cars less than last year.
There is something new on the market
—canned kippered herring from Grand Manan. Those who have tried them are much pleased with them. New oysters are quoted, and merchants begin to show an interest, but think prices rather high. Canned beef is quiet. Peaches and strawberries are very firm. We quote: Corn, 85 to 90c.; peas, 90 to 95c.; tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; gallon apples, $2.15 to $2.25; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.65 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.60 to $1.65; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $2.85; 2's, $1.90 to $2; pineapple, Canadian pack, $2.35; salmon, $1.45 to $1.50; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.40; clams, $5.50 for 4 doz.; chowder, $3 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1; kippered herring, $1.10.

DRIED FRUIT.—Peels are to hand. Those principally offered are English. There were none cured in Canada this season. Many more California raisins are coming to this market than were expected. Since the lower prices have been quoted some five cars have been sold. In Malagas there are also fairly large stocks on the way. One broker reports having sold upward of 2,000 boxes. Evaporated apples are being offered very low; but at this season the demand is light. In dried, Nova Scotias are coming forward in fair quantities, costing here about 5c. New currants are daily expected. California evaporated are slow. We quote: Currants, 1-lb. cartoons, 7½c.; bulk, 6½c.; dried apples, 5½ to 6c.; evaporated apples, 7½ to 8c.; Sultana raisins, 7 to 8c.; old Valencia, 4c.; layers, 5c.; London layers, $2.25; loose muscatels, 5½ to 6c.; currants, bbls., 3¼ to 3½c.; half-cases, 3¼ to 4c.; dates, 4 to 4½c.; prunes, 4½ to 5½c.; figs, 11 to 18c.; California evaporated peaches, 12 to 13c.; do. apricots, 12 to 14c.; do. pears, 12 to 13c.; onions, $2 to $2.25 per bbl.; new Valencias, 5½c.; keg prunes, 4 to 4½c.; case, 4¼ to 6c.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—Cheese here do not show the increase in price which is noted on Ontario markets. In Nova Scotia the market is rather better than here, while P.E.I. cheese are all sold in Montreal. White cheese will not sell in the local market. A fair quantity were shipped of small cheese (about 30 lbs.) to the West Indies by the last steamer, but returns from there are not very encouraging. In eggs stocks are small and prices higher, with a firm feeling. Butter is rather dull, with far too large stocks of poor. Creamery shows fair demand. We quote: Common dairy butter, 16 to 17c.; dairy, 18 to 19c.; new creamery prints, 22c.; cheese, new, 8½ to 9c.; creamery, tubs, 20c.; eggs, 15 to 16c.

MOLASSES.—There is a fair movement, but prices show no change. If there is any difference it is that there is an easier feeling. Syrup, of which there is a splendid quality offered, shows a better demand. The last steamer from the West Indies landed about 100 casks of Trinidad molasses. We quote: Barbadoes, 32 to 34c.; Trinidad, 33 to 34c.; Porto Rico, 34 to 36c.; bbls.; New Orleans, 32 to 34c.; St. Croix, 29 to 30c.; syrup, 35c.

GREEN FRUIT.—Apples are rather firmer with lighter arrivals, winter fruit being now in demand. In oranges the last West India steamer landed some 400 bbls., besides 254 at Halifax, 170 for Montreal and 75 for Boston. This fruit was in splendid condition. The California grapes which are arriving are splendid. Canadian are firmer. Lemons continue to drop off in price. Sweet potatoes are being received freely and find a good demand. We quote: Oranges, $4.75 to $5 per bbl., $3.50 to $4 per box; Lemons, $5 to $5.25; keg grapes, $5 to $6, California, $4.50, double case, Canadian, 40 to 60c. per basket; quince, $6 per bbl.; pears, $5; bananas, $1 to $2; sweet potatoes, $3.50 to $4 bbl.

SUGAR.—Granulated is being held firm at quotations. In yellow there is also a strong feeling. There are, however, reports of an easier feeling outside. We quote: Granulated, 4¾ to 4½c.; yellow, 3½ to 3¾c.; Paris ump, 5¼ to 5½c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

FISH.—There has been a large quantity of smoked herring landed during the week, one firm handling upward of forty thousand boxes. Prices have dropped as low as the vessel's side as 4½c. in cargo lots. A large quantity has been shipped to the West Indies. Quotations from there are, however, low. In boneless, a large business is being done, and a good demand is also noted in dry cod. Pickled shad are particularly good this season. A large quantity of extra dry haddie is to hand for the West Indies. These cost from 25 to 40c. more per cwt. than those not so well dried. Pickled herring, Grand Manan, are low, with good movement. We quote Canso rather easier. Buctouche oysters are being largely bought to supply the trade, Prince Edward Island being high. We quote: Fresh haddock, 2 to 2½c. per lb.; dry, $1.50; large cod, $3.65 to $3.75; medium, $3.35 to $3.40; pollock, $1.40; bay herring, $1.25 to $1.30 per half-bbl.; Rippings, $1.75; Wolves, $1.85 to $2; smoked herring, old, 5 to 6c.; new smoked, 7 to 8c.; Canso, $4.50 to $5 per bbl.; Barrington, $3.50 per bbl.; Digby chicken, 10c.; shad, half-bbl., $5 to $5.50; fresh, 10c.; Grand Manan herring, half-bbl., $1.40 to $1.45; Shelburne, $3 to $3.25 bbl., $2.70 half-bbl.; boneless, 2½ to 8c.; oysters, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.

PROVISIONS.—A good demand is noted for lard. Prices show no change from last week. In smoked meats there is a fair sale, but the season is late and prices are low. Local packers are not offering barreled pork freely yet. We quote: Clear pork, $15.50 to $16.50; mess, $14.50 to $15; beef, $13.50 to $14; pure lard, 9½ to 10c.; compound lard, 7½ to 8c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL.—It is understood that prices of Manitoba are being shades. Prices as compared with Ontario have been rather high. Ontario flours (particularly Star, which is a standard brand here), are higher and a strong feeling is noted. Hand-picked beans, though price in this market is likely to be lower owing to the arrival of beans bought at bottom prices, are held rather firmer outside. Cornmeal at present prices is in large demand. Oats are still low, Ontario being principally handled. Hay is firm with a fair movement. We quote: Manitoba, $4.65 to $4.75; best Ontario, $4.10 to $4.15; medium, $3.75 to $3.85; oatmeal, $3.50 to $3.75; cornmeal, $2.30 to $2.35; middlings, $19 to $20 on track; bran, $18 to $19; hand-picked beans, $1.30; prime, $1.40; oats, 33 to 35c.; hay, $10 to $11.50; pot barley, $4; round peas, $3.65 to $3.70; split peas, $3.70 to $3.80; native yellow eye bean, $2.

Co., and have a full stock of their goods on hand. Though new, they have already a reputation.

Dry cod, both large and medium, are quoted lower. Northrup & Co. received during the week a large supply of the best qualities.

Country markets showed low values during the week. Lamb sold for $5\frac{1}{2}$ c., and even as low as 5c., with pork at 5 to $6\frac{1}{2}$ c. for whole pigs; good beef at 4c., with poor hard to sell; turkeys at 10c., and a large supply of chickens at 25 to 50c. Butter was dull at 18c., and there were more potatoes than buyers. There is a strong growing feeling that more goods should be sold by weight, chickens being particularly mentioned.

John Seely received 40,000 extra quality new medium smoked herring during the week. He guarantees the quality, and they were bought at bottom prices.

The Woodstock Board of Trade has passed the following resolution: "That, in the opinion of this Board, the duty on coal oil is an unjust tax on the vast majority of the poorer people of the Dominion to benefit one section alone, and be it resolved that this Board invite all the Boards of Trade in the Maritime Provinces to join in petitioning Parliament at its next session to abolish the duty on coal oil."

MORE ABOUT THE SALMON PACK.

Full returns relative to the pack of sock-eye salmon in British Columbia have been received by the Fisheries Department at Ottawa.

We take a special pleasure in reproducing the figures, as they are practically the same as those published in THE CANADIAN GROCER several weeks ago, and which were held by some to be exaggerations.

The figures submitted to the Government are as follows: Fraser River, 347,346 cases; Skeena River, 67,351; Rivers Inlet, 59,000; Naas River, 18,000; other northern points, 20,000; grand total, 512,197. The total output last year was 494,371 cases, so that this year's pack is larger by 17,826 cases.

Although the largeness of the pack has now been assured by the official figures, it will have no effect on the market. The trade had already appreciated the size of the pack.

But, aside from this, there are other facts which warrant a belief in a steady market for at least the standard and better brands of salmon, no matter what may be the fate of the other brands not generally considered first class.

One of these facts is the bare character of the market at the opening of the season. Another is the increased export demand of the present season. Great Britain alone will probably take at least from 70 to 75 per cent. of the total pack. Up to October 12 two vessels had left the Fraser river loaded with salmon for England, taking between them 121,326 cases of salmon, valued at $654,757, while two barks were loading at New Westminster for the same destination. Then larger quantities than usual are expected to be shipped to Australia and

New Zealand. What, however, promises to be a modifying factor on the market is the price; as it stands to-day it is interfering with the consumptive demand.

Notwithstanding all that has been said about a small pack of cohoes on the Coast, there is likely to be cheap fish of this description on the market, if some of the offers made within the last week or so can be taken as a criterion. The coho pack is estimated at 40,000 cases.

WALNUTS, ALMONDS, FILBERTS.

Shipments of walnuts from France will be a little later than usual, but every effort is being made to shorten the time in transit, and it is expected that the goods will be on the Canadian market by December 1. Prices will be somewhat below those of last year.

Tarragona almonds will be on the market in about ten days, and are likely to be sold wholesale in lots at about 12c. per pound.

Filberts will be late, and are likely, in consequence, to be sold on close margins. Retailers will likely buy them at about 8c. per pound.

CHEESE IS HIGHER.

Notwithstanding the gloomy prophecies regarding cheese, the values of that article have made a marked advance.

The Old Country markets have jumped up several shillings, and a lot of late fall Canadian cheese has been cleaned out from the factories at 9 to $9\frac{1}{4}$ c. per pound.

This means very much higher quotations for the local markets, and prices in Toronto have already, in fact, begun to advance.

A SPECIAL NUMBER ADVERTISE- MENT.

There was only one advertisement in the Fall Trade Edition of THE CANADIAN GROCER that was a disappointment to the publishers, and that was the full page of the Truro Condensed Milk Co. They themselves were partly to blame, and the fate that is sure to follow some advertisement completed the cause for disappointment. What we started out to do was to show the medal in silver, and we came near it, but not near enough to suit us. Look for their advertisement next week and you will find a genuine silver medal.

WHOLESALE WHEELERS.

The employees of Davidson & Hay, wholesale grocers, held their annual bicycle races on Saturday afternoon last. The race was a five-mile handicap, the starting point being just east of the Norway hill, on the Kingston Road. The prizes were very handsome, the first prize being a gold medal donated by Col. Davidson. Great interest was taken in the race by the whole staff, there being eleven entries. The contestants finished as follows: 1, Floyd Brown; 2, E. A. Watts; 3, Geo. Wills; 4, F. H. Oulcott; 5, John Findlay; 6, J. A. Bremner. And, alas! there were others, who are still riding. The time made by the winner, 18 min. 35 sec., was very good, considering that half the distance was ridden against a very strong head wind. Needless to say, the winner drinks nothing but "Kurma."

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. Saunders, grocer, of Wawanesa, Man., met with a serious accident at his farm, near Miami. He was driving a bull, which turned upon him, throwing him down and bruising him very badly.

J. N. Christie, representing Thomas Doherty & Co., tea importers, Montreal, was in Toronto on Monday en route home from a business trip through Manitoba. "I have had a fairly successful trip," he said, in reply to a query, "and a much more successful one than a year ago."

In the last issue of THE GROCER we stated that S. R. Oakley, Princess and King streets, Toronto, was engaged in the fishery business in Newfoundland previous to coming to Canada. In this we have since found that we were wrong, as Mr. Oakley held a Government position, which he gave up to come to Canada. Previous to that he was in the grocery business for three years.

"THE QUEEN" IN COLLISION.

Passengers on Front street shortly after 6 o'clock on Tuesday evening were startled by a loud crash, and for a moment or two thought a volcano or an earthquake had come to town, but when the thickness in the air settled it resolved itself into coffee pots, ground coffee, and profanity.

It appears that a C. P. R. lorry, heavily loaded with Pure Gold Mfg. Co.'s "Queen" coffee, was proceeding from their factory to the freight sheds, when a trolley car crashed into it and sent the load flying in all directions. The matter was attended to with commendable zeal by the Dominion Transport Co., who reimbursed the Pure Gold Co. in cash without delay, and a new load went on its way rejoicing early next morning. A distinct odor of coffee, however, still pervades the neighborhood.

B. C. HALIBUT FISHERY.

The halibut fishery has opened satisfactorily as far as the Company's success in fishing is concerned. Two cargoes of fish, consisting of about 75,000 pounds each, have already been shipped from here east over the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the steamer is expected in immediately with the third cargo.

Prices, however, are said to be very low in the east at the present time. The Com pany has, however, got its business so well and economically organized that profitable results are likely to be the reward of its enterprise.—Statistic.

A STRIKING EXCHANGE.

J. H. Todd & Son, Victoria, B.C., shipped a car of salmon to Toronto. When it reached here and was unloaded, it was immediately filled by W. Boulter & Sons, and will go direct to Todd & Son, Victoria, as part of their order of canned goods.

OF COURSE.

Do not embrace a new thing until you are assured that it is worthy of your affection.—CANADIAN GROCER.

THERE IS SALT IN MOORETOWN.

We are in receipt of a letter from the Mooretown Salt Co., Ltd., Wallareburg, denying that their works are closed down, as was stated in THE CANADIAN GROCER of the 18th ult. The wells are in operation and shipments are being made continuously.

We are sorry that the mistake was made. Our information came from what we believed to be a reliable source, and it was not until we received the letter of the Mooretown Co. that we discovered our error.

NEW CURRANTS.

The steamship Fremona brings to Montreal on the 4th inst. the second cargo of new currants, amounting to 780 bbls., 1,485 half-barrels, and 4,033 half-cases. Most of this lot has been sold to arrive.

COFFEE IN CEYLON.

THE little island of Ceylon is attracting an unusual amount of attention from commercial centres through the wonderful development of its tea industries. The stride made by this sea-girt little isle in the tea trade is truly remarkable, and is another evidence of what British capital, push, and enterprise can do. It is only since the year 1880 that any attention was given to Ceylon as a tea producing country, and this was largely due to the complete destruction of its leading export article, coffee, by an insidious parasite that worked its way into the leaves of the coffee tree and sapped its strength and prematurely destroyed all chance of development.

It is within the range of possibilities that even more attention will be given Ceylon as a food producer, if we may judge from an article copied from The Ceylon Observer of Sept. 4th last, on the subject of coffee. We append the article, and can only wish that the hopes expressed in the resurrection of the old King of the Isle may be verified. It would be a grand thing for British commerce should it gain control of such an indispensable article as coffee—British-grown coffee—and it goes without saying that if the crop reports of The Observer's correspondent are verified, English capital will develop the coffee industry of Ceylon on an as equally large and systematic scale as it has and is developing the tea industry. The Observer says:

Coffee blossom full out to-day, and a really fine show, nothing to equal it for some years. Weather for setting has so far been all that could be wished. Leaf disease disappeared some time ago, and has not been bad at all this season. Up to date green bug practically nil. I wonder if the old king is really to take a new lease of life. I returned yesterday morning from a tour round the Haputale side of the district; coffee on Nayabedde was one white sheet, not so much on Gonamotava and Roehampton. I understand they have just finished gathering a very big crop. Haputale and Sherwood, especially the latter, was a sight sufficient to gladden the heart of any old stager who can remember the blossoms of the sixties. Thotalagalla was very fine on their big acreage of fine coffee left. I would say they had blossom for an average of 4 cwt. an acre, and on a few acres here and there more than double. Pita Ratmalie had also a good blossom; but somewhat patchy. On this estate, it is reported, the proprietors contemplate opening a hundred acres of their fine forest reserve in coffee next season, so that faith in the old king is also reviving. Nothing could look better than the coffee on Dambatenne, and that just after giving a crop of over 5 cwt. an acre. Not so dusty in these degenerate days!

FISH FOR BREAKFAST.

J. W. Beardsley's Sons, the original packers of shredded codfish, are sending out 50,000 copies of a pamphlet entitled "Your Breakfast." It contains a complete series of recipes for making delicious dishes, with shredded codfish as a basis.

A TORONTO FIRE.

MacWillie Bros.' palace grocery store in the Confederation Life building, Yonge and Richmond streets, Toronto, was badly scorched on Sunday last. Before the flames could be extinguished damage to the extent of $10,000 was done to the grocery stock, while the huge building got off with the small loss of $1,000. Insurance covers all losses.

NOVA SCOTIA FIBRED CODFISH

REPRESENTS the highest achievement in the art of curing and preparing Codfish ready for cooking.

NOTHING is used in this product but the finest of shore Codfish especially cured and dried for it.

THE disagreeable odor usually considered to be a necessary evil to be endured while cooking Codfish will be found to be entirely lacking in this.

EVERY particle of skin and bone being removed and the water evaporated, there is absolutely no waste. The contents of each package, therefore, is worth to the housekeeper about three times its weight in Codfish as ordinarily sold.

THE RYAN-DELANEY FAILURE.

THE inspectors who are looking after the estate of Ryan & Delaney, the insolvent produce and commission firm of Colborne street, Toronto, are much dissatisfied with the statement of assets and liabilities submitted.

The statement shows that in the six months since the firm started to do business it has gone behind nearly $2,000, or at the rate of $4,000 per annum. The liabilities total $1,986, while there are practically no assets.

It seems that the business has been carried on carelessly, and that the personal expenses of the partners have been rather high. As an instance of this, a frequent entry in the firm's cash book has been "Around town, $2.50," or "Around town, $3.50." Questioned as to what such entries meant, one of the partners is said to have replied, "We do a good deal of business with the hotels, and have to spend some money there."

Another example of carelessness is the way in which the cash book is daily closed. "Shortage, $—," is a frequent entry, inserted for the purpose of securing a balance.

It is said that the day after the assignment was made the sum of $215.60 standing to the credit of the house in a city bank was withdrawn, and besides this a cash on hand balance of $176.01, vouched for by the firm's books, has not yet materialized. Again, a bicycle which was purchased by one of the partners for $105 and charged to the firm account, was, it is claimed, sacrificed to "a friend" for $20.

These and other circumstances of the case have put the creditors on their mettle and the inspectors propose to make a further investigation.

Several Toronto produce men and a lot of outside dealers are "stuck" as a result of the smash, for sums varying from $10 to $400.

EXCITEMENT IN VALENCIAS.

Further and material strength has been developed by the Valencia raisin market. Since our last prices have appreciated about another cent per pound in the primary market, and wholesalers' ideas are higher by about half a cent. per pound. The latest advance has put values from four to five shillings above the lowest point. Compared with a year ago prices are several shillings per cwt. higher.

In Spain the crop is practically exhausted, while if such were not so there is no steamer available.

With stocks in Canada low, it is only natural, therefore, that wholesalers should have advanced their figures.

BOULTERS' TRAIN OF CANNED GOODS.

W. Boulter & Sons' special train for Vancouver, B.C., will leave their Toronto works the latter part of this week. It will go by way of Owen Sound, and will be handsomely decorated with flags, mottoes, etc. The train will consist of seventeen cars, each containing 2,400 pounds of canned goods. It was originally intended to have placed only 2,000 pounds in each car, but as it was found possible to pack 400 pounds more than that in each car, it was decided to do so, thus making it possible to reduce by three the number of cars in the train.

OATS 130 BUSHELS TO THE ACRE.

A gentleman who has just returned from a trip to British Columbia is delighted with the fruit, cereal and other crops in and about Chilliwack. He was on one farm where the yield of oats averaged 130 bushels to the acre. He gazed upon two cherry trees that had yielded two tons of fruit between them. Hops he never saw the like before, and he was brought up in an Ontario hop district. When he feasted on white plums, he was reminded of a good sized apple. Lombardy plums he saw growing in clusters so close that they looked more like monstrous grapes than anything else.

FUN FOR MERCHANTS.

The magnificent spectacular production of magic that Mr. Frederick Bancroft brings to the Princess Theatre for a week's engagement, beginning Monday, November 4, with the usual matinees, will be one of the greatest of the season's novelties in the stage appointments, costuming and mechanical effects. In the first act the magician in his palace of magic gives eight great feats of magic. Next comes "Onri" in her beautiful aerial equestrian. Part second is a mystical comedy entitled "The Sultan's Visitor," with Mr. Bancroft as "Abdul Hafiz," a wizard, and a full cast of characters. Mlle. Rose Gautier, premiere danseuse, and Miss Catherine Giles, with Indian clubs, will be seen, incidental to the action. Mercedes, in her spectacular divertissement, "A Solar Sunbeam," will also be seen. In the last act Mr. Bancroft will again appear in six numbers more of magic and mystery, the performance ending with a beautiful scenic representation of "The Home of Magic." Bargain day matinee will be given on Wednesday.

APPLES FROM NOVA SCOTIA.

PROFESSOR C. E. FAVILLE, director of the Nova Scotia School of Horticulture, has just completed a tour in Europe, made in the interests of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association, and has given a representative of The Canadian Gazette some information as to his travels and as to the progress of the industry.

Mr. Faville does not look for much of a market for Nova Scotia apples in European countries, except Germany. He visited Belgium, Holland, Austria, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and France, paying special attention to the different horticultural institutions and scientific schools, and visiting the markets and orchards. At Berlin he left an exhibit of Nova Scotia fruit for competition in the International Exhibition. There is no duty upon imported apples in Germany, and a trial cargo is to be sent to Hamburg from Nova Scotia this autumn, in the full expectation of opening up a profitable trade. In France, Canadian apples have, by virtue of the new Franco-Canadian treaty, been placed upon the minimum tariff; but there does not seem any immediate prospect of trade so far as Nova Scotia apples are concerned.

The Nova Scotia apple crop of this year is, Professor Faville said, above the average, but it is not a large crop such as was the crop of last year. The quality is good, especially as regard Gravensteins, Ribstons, Kings, and Nonpareils. Of this, no better proof is needed than the fact that Nova Scotia apples are bringing higher prices in British markets this year than last, despite the present glut of English apples. Mr. Faville found Gravensteins bringing from 12 to 15 shillings per barrel and Ribstons as high as 18 and 19 shillings.

"And what," asked The Gazette's representative, "have British importers to say about the trade?"

"They speak most highly of the quality of our fruit and the prospects for its extended sale in British markets. They would, however, prefer flat barrels to the round ones, and they like larger and neater barrels than we now use. They think, too, that we need not trouble to drive quite so many nails into the barrels. The best French apples and the Canadian are, they say, the best picked apples that come into the market. Austrians arrive at a different season of the year, and do not compete with us. Indeed, the Nova Scotian apple is better flavored, and better packed, than any imported apple that competes with us. It also has excellent keeping qualities, for our climate in Nova Scotia is peculiarly adapted to fruit growing. Spring begins late in the season, and the apples are harvested late in the autumn, and so keep well when placed on the market. Especially is this true of all winter fruits. We have no hot summers in Nova Scotia, and that means much to our apples. Our growers are, moreover, realising the necessity of more careful grading, so that buyers here, seeing a certain grower's name on the barrel, will at once feel confidence in the quality of the fruit."

"And are sales increasing?"

"About 50,000 barrels have come from Nova Scotia so far this season, and within the next month there will probably be 150,000 to 200,000 more, mostly Gravensteins and Kings. Of the 1894 crop half a million barrels were exported to Britain, yielding a cash return of, say, three quarters of a million dollars. The value of our total shipments to Great Britain, the United States, West Indies, Prince Edward Island, and Newfoundland is about one million dollars. Thirty years ago we produced only a few hundred barrels for home use."

"And it follows, doubtless, that the orchard area in Nova Scotia is increasing rapidly?"

"In the Annapolis Valley it is estimated that there are 7,500 acres in bearing, and 5,000 acres newly planted. But this is only a fragment of the area capable of equal production. In the Annapolis Valley alone there are about 250,000 acres of land adapted to fruit-growing, and of this, as I have said, less than one-twentieth part is as yet planted in orchards. Why, do you know that the Annapolis Gravenstein excels in flavor and quality, though not in size, the apple of Germany, where the parent stock is? And while the Annapolis Valley is the favorite orchard country, fruit can be grown with more or less success in other parts of the province."

Any room for Englishmen, Mr. Faville, or are you keeping all these good things for yourselves?"

"No, we are not. You know how United States capital is pouring into Nova Scotia for the development of our coal and lumber resources. The same is taking place in the apple industry. One body of United States capitalists has planted 100 acres in fruit, and others are planting smaller areas. As these succeed more United States capital will come in, and of course we welcome it. I myself am a native of the United States. Our local people are forming fruit-land improvement companies, and subscribing the capital among themselves."

"But what about Englishmen and English capital?"

"Well, the High Commissioner, who is himself, you know, a Nova Scotian, has probably been the means of sending out one hundred with capital during the past few years, and they are now developing fruit farms in various parts of the province, and there are many Englishmen to be found here and there. Of course, there is plenty of room for many more, but they must have common sense, and they must have some capital. A man who understands his business and attends to it would start well with from $1,000 to $2,000 (£200 to £400). A man who does not understand his business and does not attend to it can run through any capital you like to name, and have little to show for it. There is no difficulty in getting land—unenclosed land—for from $15 to $20 (£3 to £4) an acre, and cleared land proportionately higher.

"But so much really depends on a man himself. One man will make a success with only £200 to start with; another man will fail with £2,000. I know a man who, twenty-five years ago, had not a dollar to call his own; he has now ten acres of fruit land, and is worth $60,000. Another man took fifty acres of uncleared land, cut the trees down, planted apple trees between the stumps, removed the stumps at his leisure, put in plum trees and small fruit trees between, grew a large crop of potatoes the first year, and took out enough of a crop in succeeding years to pay for his farm. It cost him $10 an acre—$500 in all—and is now worth about $8,000. That man knows his business."

"Of course, training is necessary, and it is for that purpose that the Nova Scotia School of Horticulture has been established at Wolfville by the Fruit Growers' Association, assisted by the Nova Scotia Government. The tuition is free, and students can board in the students' boarding halls for about $80 or $90 (£16 or £18) a year. This is the second year of the school and there are 50 students. The requirements for entrance are a knowledge of the elementary branches of education. We have nursery grounds, conservatories, and the schools are surrounded by acres of orchard land in all stages of development, so that practice and theory go hand in hand."

"Are there any openings for men without capital?"

"For men who will work, and know how to work in nurseries and in the packing and exportation of fruit. There are from 8,000 to 10,000 men employed during the season in picking, packing and shipping fruit, and over 6,000 men are constantly employed in fruit culture."

"You might add that we are getting a good market for small fruits—plums, etc.—in Boston and New York. Our fruit comes to market just two or three weeks later than their local fruit. We can land fruit in Boston in twelve hours, and in New York in eighteen hours. Of course Britain is our great market for apples, and we mean to do greater things there and in Germany before long."

CHRONIC KICKERS.

WE presume that everyone engaged in business, whether he be a grocer or a dealer in any other commodity, comes in contact with a class of people who seem to take a peculiar delight in grumbling and in kicking. This propensity is not the exclusive right and privilege of those who buy, but is frequently indulged in by those whom we employ. The practice results in unpleasantness wherever it is found, and cannot be productive of good anywhere. It is bad enough when those to whom we sell make a kick every time they get a bill of goods, but it is worse when our own people kick. Who has not among his force of employees those who are valuable to him, with whom he is glad to remain on terms of friendship and intimacy, but who, presuming on their worth and value, make life a burden to their employers? With customers we can put a stop to grumbling much easier than we can with our own employees. A sharp letter, a convincing argument or a gentle reminder may serve to break them off the habit or at least diminish the number of their complaints. If the worst comes to the worst we lose a customer whom we can replace by another customer.

With trusted and valued employees the question is one of greater importance. If he be our cashier or book-keeper we cannot turn him off without subjecting ourselves to the risk of not being able to replace him by one equally honest and equally reliable. If he be a salesman we have a greater risk of seeing him engage his services to a competitor and take from us not only the trade which is his, but a portion that he knows to be our own. If he be a porter or a driver we have a risk when we displace him because he knows our customers and can sell his information to a ready, willing and anxious competitor.

Perhaps the unkindest cut of all we experience is when the kick comes from those whom we are anxious to serve. When those who profess confidence in us and in our methods show by their selfishness, ignorance or thoughtlessness that all our actions, our solicitude and thoughts for their welfare are unappreciated, then we feel sore and our hearts feel heavy.

With our customers, as above stated, we can afford to take a stand sometimes. We ourselves have had for years in heavy letters printed on our price lists, "We do not want the trade of habitual grumblers." We have never lost trade by being thus frank and outspoken and we have never regretted that we made our likes and dislikes known thus publicly. Chronic kickers, such who kick when there is no occasion for so doing, such as are calamity howlers, such who overlook all merit on the part of their houses, but magnify every demerit real or apparent, are hard to get along with and are calculated to make a veritable sinner out of a probable saint.—Jacob Furth in Inter-State Grocer.

Grand Mogul Tea

Is like a gold mine to the merchant—large dividends without much effort. Quite true, Grand Mogul Tea is not placed in stores on approval, to be sold or returned. Only goods of questionable quality and no reputation are so placed. All merchants who handle this best of all teas are asked to do so after the most careful test with all competitors. This test wins us the order. Every merchant who handles this excellent tea has bought it on its high quality and well deserved popularity.

THE CANADIAN GROCER

Vol. IX. (Published Weekly)

TORONTO AND MONTREAL, NOVEMBER 8, 1895

($2.00 per Year) No. 45

DROPS FROM THE EDITOR'S PEN.

A is for "ad," an Addition to business.

* * *

Butter is often strong when the market is weak.

* * *

Keep your eyes open for bargains as well as for customers.

* * *

Clerks should not go to Jerusalem. There is no courtship there.

* * *

It is better to be at peace than at war with your competitors.

* * *

A trust is something that a great many people aver cannot be trusted.

* * *

The merchant who desires to make life a success must marry his business.

* * *

Assignees usually take stock for merchants who never take stock for themselves.

* * *

The grocer who does not cultivate the tea trade may be considered a tea-total failure.

* * *

When a merchant of large avoirdupois takes to bicycling it is either for wheel or woe.

* * *

It is not so much lack of capital as lack of ideas that crowd many merchants to the wall.

* * *

If nature intended you for a farmer, don't, for goodness sake, essay to be a merchant.

* * *

It is better to lay schemes to keep customers than to lie in advertisements to catch trade.

* * *

The merchant who inaugurates a new departure does not necessarily take his departure.

* * *

Instead of retaliating in kind when a competitor cuts prices, the merchant that is sensible will get behind the works of Torres Vedras and wait till the "cutter" draws off his forces.

* * *

Provoke to emulation, and not to unkind feelings, should the live business methods of a competitor.

* * *

Those who would like to see war in the East think that it would put yeast in business and cause it to rise.

* * *

Hallowe'en was not a hollow eve for most merchants. It was well filled with the yells of predatory youngsters.

* * *

Competition is getting so hot between the departmental stores that there is danger of some of them being consumed.

* * *

Keep your eyes open for and your tills closed against the counterfeit fifty-cent pieces that are looking for a resting place.

* * *

Deferring advertising to a more convenient season is like building a dam in a stream bed after the water is gone.

* * *

He who keeps his eye on the interests of his employer is richer in the long run than is he whose eyes are all centred on self.

* * *

Not much success comes to the man in business who is a thinker but not a worker, or to him who is a worker but not a thinker.

* * *

A cigar with a whistle in one end is one of the novelties in this market.—New York Paper.

That is nothing. On this market we have cigars with "wind bags" on one end.

* * *

A theatrical manager in Minneapolis and the Associated Retail Grocers of that place have entered into an agreement whereby the latter will be tendered several benefit performances. The actors will provide the fun and the grocers the money. The idea may furnish the theatrical manager with money and the grocers with entertainment, but it will not add anything to the grocers' store of mercantile knowledge.

VALUE OF A COLLEGE EDUCATION.

IT is now generally conceded that college education is an essential preliminary to the successful practice of medicine or law. Formerly a young man would go directly from school into a law office or a doctor's office and acquire the technical knowledge of his chosen profession. Later on it was found that it was a great advantage to take a short theoretical course in a law school or a medical school, and these schools required a certain proficiency in general knowledge before receiving students. The tendency of late has been both to lengthen the course of study in the technical school and to require a full collegiate course of study as a preliminary to entrance.

What is the reason for this increased thoroughness of preparation for the active work of a profession, and why is such stress laid upon the necessity for a broad general culture, a college education, before undertaking the special course in the technical school?

SOME BENEFITS OF A COLLEGE COURSE.

The college-bred law student has studied the English language, and has a more thorough knowledge of its possibilities. His vocabulary is larger. He has learned how to use the words which most clearly express his meaning. By the study of logic he has learned to put his thoughts in proper sequence. From psychology he has learned to know the processes by which the mind works, and thus he is able to divine the probable line of argument which his opponent will take, and so to prepare himself in advance to meet it. Having through his study of history a knowledge of the laws and customs of other times and peoples, he is prepared as his less cultured adversary cannot be.

In like manner, the medical student who has received a college education is found to be fitted to grasp more quickly the complex study of the diseases of the human body and mind.

USING EVERY FACULTY.

What is true of the so-called learned professions is true to-day of every line of business. In order to succeed the man must be able to use every faculty to the best advantage. He must have not only a sound mind but a trained mind. He must be able to think in the right way and to act at the right moment.

In the early stage of his career in business a young man will not appreciate what he has missed by not going to college. Assuming that he entered an office or a store at seventeen, and that his friend entered college at the same age, he will feel at twenty-one greatly the superior of his friend in business ability. But five or ten years later the one who had the college training will probably be found to be working more easily, with greater confidence, and with exactly as much success as the friend who had four years the start—if not greater.

I am a great believer in laying deep, broad, substantial foundations for all undertakings in life. I believe that certain pursuits require broader and better foundations than others. For some a good common school education is ample, and the time spent in college would probably be of no advantage; perhaps it would even be a detriment. However, if a boy intends to become something more than an under clerk or a small tradesman he will need the best preliminary education that his parents can afford to give him.

EXPERT WORK REQUIRES MASTER MINDS.

In the down-town business sections of New York city several great buildings are now being erected. The utmost care has been bestowed upon their foundations. Special engineers have been employed, and in some places they have had to drive piles 60 feet below the surface of the ground before a firm foundation could be found. These piles are driven very close to each other, and the interstices filled in with the best cement. After weeks of preparation the construction of the building may at last be proceeded with.

It is because the building is to be so high and so noble in its proportions that the foundation is laid so deep and broad. A less important building would require a less substantial foundation; and the contractor's booth can be stood upon the pavement with perfect safety without any special foundation whatever.

The illustration requires no explanation. Any boy who reads this article will understand that the greater his ambition to be successful in business, the more important the career which he hopes to have, the more pains he must be willing to take in preparing for it.

I think it wise for a boy to have pretty clearly in mind during his college course, and particularly during the last two years, the line of business which he intends to follow. He can then shape his college course, by an intelligent choice of the elective studies, so as to get from it the greatest good. I should advise, also, during a part of the long vacation, getting a position, even at a nominal salary, with one of the best concerns in the line of business which he expects to follow. In this way he will have the benefit of practical work, and will be kept so closely in touch with the business that he will be prepared to take hold intelligently and quickly the moment he is graduated.

STUDY THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE.

Let me impress on every boy who is looking forward to a business career the importance of giving peculiar attention to a study of the English language and literature. He should be thorough in this. He should learn to express his thoughts tersely and easily in good, pure English. Thoroughness in mathematics is most essential, and a comprehensive knowledge of the history, resources and institutions of our own country. Absolute knowledge along these three lines lays the foundation of success. They are the ones, too, that are too apt to be slighted, because we think that we know our own language and how to use it, and all about our own country, intuitively.

A word about college sports. It is a waste of time and money to run about after the "teams." Every college boy should make good use of the opportunity to enjoy in moderation all manly sports, especially the out-of-door sports. The subsequent professional and business career will leave too few opportunities for exercise, and nature will punish severely the man who neglects his body. A love of out-of-door sports, not as an onlooker, but as a habitual participant, will be invaluable all through life.

One word in conclusion: Cultivate a habit of repose of mind. Learn to be a good listener. The most successful men work, as a rule, most quietly. The mastery of a subject insures one greater ease and quietness in its use. Learn to weigh conflicting opinions and to decide by the preponderance of evidence. A college education will strengthen all your faculties, and, rightly used, will be a blessing all through life.—Harvey F. Fish, in The Outlook.

TOMATOES IN THE STATES.

Tomatoes, as being the most active article on the list, are supposed to be a shadow stronger than they were—that is, where they were selling for 62½c., less 1½c. for labels, they are now only allowing 1c. off for labels. By the time the commission of 1½ per cent. is allowed it leaves them net below 60c. But the opinion is general that they will reach 60c. flat within a week. The market really promises more than this. Philadelphia operators for heavy Jersey packers are so firm on present prices of 67½c. for well-known brands that they limit orders to single amounts, no quotation governing beyond the lot included, with notice that any additions to orders will be at 2½c. higher, or 70c. regular. We expect to hear that the New Jersey price is at bottom at 70c. by our next issue.—The Trade, Baltimore.

A N. S. SLAUGHTER HOUSE.

SOME months ago J. A. Leaman & Co. made extensive improvements to their slaughtering establishment at Rockhead. They have now the best establishment of the kind in Nova Scotia. The buildings embrace cattle shed, boiler house, slaughter house, hog house, stable, etc. The most striking feature, however, is the water system. A well was sunk, 5x6 feet in circumference, a depth of 25 feet, 20 feet of which went through the solid rock. At the bottom of this a tunnel was cut 3 feet wide by 6 feet deep, which runs across the layers of rock for 16 feet, thus making all the small water-courses available and at the same time giving the well a large capacity. The well at the mouth is walled and cemented to a height of 2½ feet, and completely covered over with a tight plank platform, thus avoiding any polluting influences. On top of the platform stands a 40-foot steel tower, with a steel windmill 10 feet in diameter, which supplies the motive power. The well stands about 400 feet from the stable, and contains water of the purest kind. Pipes run from the well through all the buildings. There is also a reservoir in the slaughter house yard which holds 1,800 gallons. Leaman & Co. have been trying for some time to have the city water service extended out their way. They had offered to pay $200 for the first year and $100 for each succeeding year. Besides this they would have had to lay considerable more pipe than they now have, an additional expense of perhaps $500. Failing to secure the city water they decided to adopt the system now in use. It gives the best of satisfaction, and the cost is not great. The next point of note about the establishment is the cattle shed. This is something which should command the praise of the S. P. C. The shed is 32 x 78 feet, two stories and flat roof. It accommodates 52 head of cattle. They are not cramped, but on the contrary are made very comfortable. Each head of cattle has a space three feet wide and is fastened with a light chain, thus giving it all the room required to lie down with ease and comfort. A trough runs the full length of the shed, at the heads of the cattle, and the water is always fresh. It is indeed a model cattle shed and worthy of imitation. The hog shed, or pen, is 100 feet long and 26 feet wide. There is a small boiler house in the centre of the hog shed, with two steel boilers having a capacity of 280 gallons. There is a second cattle shed, 50 feet long, with horse stable and barn at the end. The main boiler house is 30 x 15 feet. It contains four steel boilers with a capacity of 400 gallons. The establishment is well worthy of a visit from all interested in the cattle business.—Chronicle, Halifax.

FISHERIES ON THE COAST.

A Vancouver, B.C., despatch says: The supplemented pack of the late running coho salmon will add considerably to the already large aggregate output of the year, previously reckoned conservatively at 514,000 cases of sockeyes. The Victoria Cannery of the Delta country has packed 18,000 cases of cohoes, known as white salmon. They are just as good in eating as the red sockeyes, but the red fish look so much better canned that they have a readier sale.

The coho pack in its entirety will be about 40,000 cases. The ultimate result should be, including a large output of frozen and smoked fish, a salmon year practically equal, or nearly equal, to the banner year of 1893.

The B.C. seal fishery to date accounts, though the result is considerably smaller than last year, for over 39,000 skins valued at $395,000.

The halibut fishery is still producing very large returns as regards quantity of fish taken. The other day 39½ tons were brought in by the collecting steamer Capilano.

One fisherman said to your correspondent that there was enough fish at the banks to supply the American market for the next hundred years.

GOODS IN BONDED WAREHOUSE.

Some time ago the Montreal Wholesale Grocers' Guild applied to the Board of Trade, urging them to use their influence with the Customs Department to have the time during which goods can remain in the Government bonded warehouse extended.

A reply was received this week from the Controller of Customs to the effect that the regulations already provided that in cases where reasonable explanations were afforded the Governor-General in Council could grant the necessary extension.

The reply was considered satisfactory by the Council of the Board of Trade, but to THE CANADIAN GROCER it appears that some simpler method of bridging the difficulty could be devised than the cumbrous course of an appeal to the Governor in Council. Surely the collectors of Customs or appraisers, if they are intelligent men, could be trusted to decide in cases of the kind.

A PHASE OF DEPARTMENT STORES.

WORKING people in posing as apologists for department stores are championing a cause which is taking pennies from their own pockets.

Were the merchants of the country extorting monopolists who feasted sumptuously every day on the enormous profits they reaped, the advent of department stores, with their lower prices, might with some reason be hailed with satisfaction by the consuming public.

But everyone knows that the average range of profits in the merchant's store is below rather than above the normal point. No matter what a merchant's predilections to profits may be, he is prevented in these days of keen competition from reaping what his desire reaches after.

The department store is no philanthropic institution. It is erected by capitalists who are just as desirous of getting good dividends as are those who invest their money in hotels. And between them and the average merchant there is this difference: the latter is primarily actuated by a desire to earn a livelihood; the former are moved with a desire to find investment for their money.

Department stores are in business for money, not for the health of their proprietors or for the good of humanity. And they make money. Even if they are not falsifying when they advertise this and that article below cost, it is only with a view to catching bigger game. No sane man would hesitate to bait his hook with a minnow to catch a good, plump mackerel. And the department stores catch many a plump fish with the bait they put on their hooks.

The tendency of the department store is not to develop a trade in cheap goods so much as in low-priced goods. It is the relative proportion of the worth of an article to the price placed upon it that determines its value. Not the mere price itself. Two brands of canned salmon may be offered by the retailer, the one at 10 cents and the other at 15 cents, and yet the higher-priced may be the cheaper.

The placing of so many of these "cheap" lines on the market as bait must necessarily increase the use of inferior goods. And every want that is satisfied by a "cheap" article means so much less of the good or higher-priced article for the artisan to make, just as sure as two from three leave one. As a concomitant of this, less skilled and lower priced workmen are required. No, the working classes have no reason to warm in their breasts the department stores.

Some people may justify department stores on the ground of being a peculiarity of the age. But so is typhoid fever a peculiarity of bad drains.

TOMATOES IN CANADA AND U. S.

CONFIDENCE appears to be developing with regard to canned tomatoes. And although some of the statements made by the bull element are exaggerations, yet there is no question that the outlook is reassuring rather than otherwise.

Large as the pack of tomatoes may be, it must not be forgotten that it came upon a bare market, and then the low prices ruling to-day will certainly tend to induce consumption.

In the United States, the shortage in the tomato pack is estimated at 500,000 cases. And, as a consequence, Canadian packers are beginning to weigh the possibility of finding a market there. One packer who was on the street this week declared that the prospects for export to the United States are better than they have been for a long time.

But, obviously, prices will have to depreciate materially before the Canadian packer can send his goods there. Standard tomatoes are quoted in New York at 67½ to 75c. wholesale, but there are tomatoes on the market at a great deal lower price, trash although a great many of them may be. But even the outside figure does not offer a sufficient inducement for the Canadian packer to essay anything.

The duty on canned vegetables in the United States is 30 per cent., so that even if the Canadian packer would accept 65c. per dozen the cost would be about 84c. by the time the goods had crossed the border, without allowing anything for freight.

The situation in the United States is certainly strong, and an advance of 15 or 20c. per dozen would doubtless open up the way for the entry of Canadian canned tomatoes. In the meantime, however, the Canadian packer will have to wait if he wants to get his goods across the border.

The course of the American and Canadian market on canned tomatoes will be watched with interest for the next few months.

RIGHTEOUSLY INDIGNANT.

THE indignation of the Montreal Board of Trade at the neglect of the Government to appoint a Collector of Customs at the port of Montreal is righteous.

Come January next, the office will have been vacant three years, and the failure of the Government to fill it is either an evidence that the collectorship is a sinecure or that procrastination superinduced by party exigencies has deferred the appointment of the late Mr. M. P. Ryan's successor.

THE CANADIAN GROCER chooses to accept the latter reason. The office is not a sinecure, notwithstanding that Montreal, the chief entry port of Canada, has been without a Collector for so long. Were it what the apathy of the Government would seem to indicate it was, the Montreal Board of Trade would not be found solicitous for the appointment of an occupant. The members of the Board are too richly endowed with business common sense to champion anything that is not consonant with business ethics.

If Premier Bowell and his Cabinet were men noted for their business acumen instead of their lack of it, the appointment would have been made long ago.

What the action, or rather the want of action, of the Cabinet proves more than anything else is that the Government has no qualms of conscience about sacrificing the interests of even the commercial metropolis of the Dominion if in so doing it will best serve party ends. And the trouble is that one party is as bad as the other in this respect, although this much must be confessed: The present Government is composed of the greatest aggregation of business nonentities that the country has ever seen.

Premier Bowell's letter in reply to the memorial of the Board of Trade has aggravated the matter rather than smoothed it over. The idea of telling business men "that the matter of appointing a Collector will be attended to at the earliest moment practicable." It is merely adding insult to injury.

What the Montreal Customs House needs is a common-sense business man with a backbone strong enough to resist the machinations of the politicians. Anything else will not suit the business men of Montreal. Fortunately, the desideratum is in sight if the Government choose to appropriate it.

RULINGS RE FRENCH TREATY.

The action of the Customs authorities since the French treaty went into force has not been such as to commend itself either to the exporters in France or to the importers in Canada.

The treaty was supposed to be an instrument whose office was to develop our foreign trade. But one would almost imagine that the Government of the Dominion regretted its bargain. At any rate, it has obstructed rather than lubricated the way for the entry into Canada of the goods specified in the treaty.

Rulings have been conceived and launched which were both petty and vexatious.

First, the strict letter of the tariff was violated by the tax of twenty per cent. on the wine package. And then they had to treat as a suspicious character the importer who had not produced the affidavit of the British consul that the wines and other goods were the product of the country from which they were imported.

Scan the treaty as one may, there is nothing there to indicate that this and that embargo would be placed on the products coming into Canada under this instrument.

These strainings at knats cannot be viewed by France other than as sharp practices. And we would think so too if the boot was on the other foot.

It is to be regretted that the Government has lately developed such a penchant for imitating sharp American practices for extorting from importers every possible cent in the way of duty. But this is the result of having a professional and not a business Cabinet.

CURRENTS STILL APPRECIATING.

FURTHER strength is being developed by the currant market, this week's cables from Patras announcing that prices continue to steadily advance, while the demand is active. To-day's limit is quite half cent per pound above the cost of earlier importations.

The present condition of the currant market is far different from what it promised to be during the growing season. The predictions favored a crop of 180,000 tons. Owing, however, to damage by rain, etc., the actual crop turned out to be far less.

Allowing for the quantity that will be retained by the Government, in pursuance of the law which went into force in August last, latest estimates place the crop at 130,000 tons, or 16,000 tons less than the average consumption of the past two years. Adding the old stock, one authority estimates that the quantity of currants available at the beginning of the season was 190,000 tons, against 193,000 last year at the same time, and 210,000 tons in 1893.

As stocks on spot and arriving are rather on the light side, importers in Canada regret they were not freer buyers when the market ruled lower.

At the low figures ruling at the opening of the season it is rather surprising that importers did not venture more than they did. They knew that the price then obtaining left little or nothing for the grower; and, furthermore, they were conversant with the Greek Retention Act, which was devised to appreciate prices. And yet, comparatively, they bought but sparingly.

One of the features of the situation at the moment is the presence on the market, as buyers, of France and Russia, which naturally tends to strengthen the situation.

DON'T.

"Do you know of any grocery or provision business for sale, or of a good place where I could start such a business? I have a little money and am doing nothing. I might go into hardware or dry goods, but I know more about groceries and provisions, as I kept books for a retail house some years ago."

So writes a Montreal gentleman on Nov. 1, whose initials are T. N. W. We can find any number of firms who are willing to sell out if T. N. W. insists on embarking in business on his own account. Our advice to him is "Don't." There are too many in business now. His inexperience is more than likely to result in failure. He would lose his own money and probably injure the business of competitors in the same town. Our advice to him is to seek employment. At the end of his career of usefulness the chances are that he will be better off. Statistics are strongly in favor of the man who has a small salary and saves a little every week. When he is 60 or 70 the interest on his savings will keep him for the rest of his days. He has not had the cares and worries of a business on his mind. The great majority of men who embark in business die poor. We think it was Mr. Paul Campbell who made a careful study of this question at one time. He showed that if a clerk put aside $1 a day from the time he turned twenty he would be worth $400,000 at seventy if at 6 per cent. compound interest. We know of many clerks to-day who are worth much more than their employers. Do not be too anxious to go into business.

NUTMEGS STRONGER.

Nutmegs are much stronger in the primary markets. A mail advice just received from London, England, states that there is a very good demand there for all the "bold" sizes. When the demand from the Continent materializes, as it will in a few weeks, much higher prices are anticipated.

As a result of the firmer tone abroad a good many enquiries are heard among wholesalers in Toronto.

WERE YOU "STUCK"?

Time and again we have warned our subscribers against shipping produce, etc., to unknown commission merchants. We are aware that a number have taken our advice and thanked us for it, and we are also aware that some have not, and were, therefore, "stuck" in more than one failure. Every firm advertising in THE GROCER are reliable, or their advertisement would not be in our columns. We refused the Ryan-Delanev advertisement because we could not recommend that firm to subscribers, who pay us for furnishing reliable information. Still, their advertisement was accepted by many other papers who get what advertisements we refuse, and they are principally advertisers with not money enough to pay for a good thing. Why country merchants should ship to unknown commission merchants is beyond our comprehension, when they know of the existence of such well-known firms as Messrs. McWilliam & Everist, John Hawley, White & Co., Graham, McLean & Co., Rutherford, Marshall & Co., Clemes Bros., Dawson & Co., Wm. Ryan, D. Gunn, Flav'le & Co., S. K. Moyer, of Toronto; J. & R. McLea and Howe, McIntyre & Co., of Montreal.

VALENCIA RAISINS EXCITED.

THE excitement and activity noted by THE CANADIAN GROCER in Valencia raisins at Montreal last week is continued, and values are fully ¼c. per lb. higher.

The Fremona's lot has all been distributed, and now the best price that a buyer can secure, even on the most ordinary grades of off-stalk, is 4c.

Some of the goods that sold at this figure during the week do not look very tempting, and the fact that they have done so speaks plainly for the excited condition of the markets.

Briefly, the Valencia raisin market in Montreal is ¼c. per lb. higher than it was a week ago, and values are held firm at the advance for all grades, from ordinary off-stalk to selected fruit. It is unlikely, however, that they can go much higher, for then the competition of California stock has to be considered. As it is, these latter fruit are offering much cheaper this fall for ordinary to medium fruit than they were last.

Fairly good 3-crown loose muscatels have been laid down here this week, costing less than 5c., duty paid, which will permit them to be sold at 5¼c., so that the difference in price between California and Valencia fruit is decreasing every season.

TRANSFER OF GOODS IN BOND.

The Montreal wholesale grocers have been urging upon the Customs Department recently the advisability of allowing the transfer of ownership of goods while in bonded warehouse.

This week a reply was received by the secretary of the Montreal Board of Trade to the effect that the department considered the request worthy of consideration.

The department promised to look into the matter and, if it was found that the course of trade was facilitated by the granting of the privilege, the necessary legislation would be introduced to secure it.

The department is to be commended for its evident desire to comply with the views of the business men of Montreal.

NEW YORK AS AN EXPORTING PORT.

WHILE it may be common property in the United States, yet it is perhaps not generally known in Canada that the port of New York is gradually losing prestige as an exporting point.

The fact is clearly shown by tables adduced by The N. Y. Journal of Commerce. New York, however, is of course still far ahead of all other exporting points in the United States, for, of all the exports of the country, over 41 per cent. leave her wharves. And although she is not likely to occupy a secondary position in this respect, yet the fact is none the less obvious that New York does not monopolize the export trade to the extent she did twenty years ago.

Baltimore and Boston are the ports which show the most increase. Twenty years ago Baltimore only possessed 3.8 per cent. of the total export trade of the United States and Boston 4 per cent. Now the figures are 9 and 9.4 per cent. respectively. In 1874 New York possessed 48.3 per cent. of the export trade; in 1894 it had dropped 7 per cent. to 41.3. New Orleans, too, shows a loss of prestige, the exports passing through her port in 1894 being 9 per cent. of the whole, a decline of 4.3 per cent. New York's loss is principally in wheat, flour, and corn.

In wheat New York dropped from 58.3 per cent. in 1874 to 34 per cent. in 1894, while Baltimore increased from 4.2 to 12.5 per cent.; Boston, 1.2 to 4.5 per cent. respectively; Norfolk, Portsmouth, and Newport News, from nothing in 1874 to 2 per cent. in 1894; New Orleans, .03 to 7.8 per cent.

In flour New York stands alone in the ports enumerated as showing a decrease between the years 1874 and 1894, her percentage in the former year being 51.2 and in the latter 41.2. Baltimore, on the other hand, increased from 10 per cent. in 1874 to 20 per cent. in 1894; Boston, from 5 to 11 per cent.; Philadelphia, from 4.3 to 7.6 per cent.; Norfolk, Portsmouth, and Newport News, from nothing in 1874 to 5.1 in 1894.

In corn New York shows a still greater falling off. Here she does not stand alone, and, strange to say, her companion is Baltimore, a port adjacent to the corn fields. Her proportion in 1874 was 54.3 per cent. of the whole; in 1894 it was but 25.1. Baltimore's percentage fell from 20 per cent. in 1874 to 15.8 per cent. in 1894. The percentage of corn exports from the other ports in the respective years were: Boston, .07—10.6; Norfolk, Portsmouth, and Newport News, 0—11.6; Philadelphia, 6.4—6.9; New Orleans, 3.4—12.2.

It might be interesting to note that between the periods named the quantity of wheat exported from the United States increased by seventeen million bushels, flour over four-fold, while corn nearly doubled.

One of the most peculiar features to us in the figures adduced is that in the matter of corn Boston, a northern port, should increase 10 per cent., while Baltimore, a southern port, and, as we have pointed out, adjacent to the corn fields, should show a decrease of 4.2 per cent.

Perhaps an explanation for this may be found, in part at least, in the development of corn production in the Western States and the utilization of the Canadian through lines for sending the same out of the country via Boston.

TOMATOES IN MONTREAL.

Tomatoes are demoralized in Montreal at present in consequence of free offers from Quebec Province packers at a reduction of fully 10 to 15c. per dozen on what was asked a week ago. These low offers are confined, it is true, to one or two Quebec packing establishments, but are quite sufficient, nevertheless, to unsettle the market.

Last week a leading commission firm was offered the handling of 5,000 cases with the liberty to sell it at 65c., and it is understood that another packer has met this cut and is offering to fill orders at the same price. The result of these low offers has been rather to discourage jobbers from buying than to make them purchasers, as they are uncertain whether they will be offered still lower figures.

The condition of affairs is markedly different from the position last fall. At that time holders of tomatoes everywhere considered them good property. There was a combine of several of the leading packers, who would not sell for less than 85c., and the very best figure that we heard of was 75c. At the recent offers, therefore, jobbers can procure supplies of tomatoes at 10 to 20c. per dozen below what they cost last fall.

It may be remarked that some of the jobbers refuse to handle any of the Quebec Province pack, and that they hold their Upper Canada brands firm at 75c.

SEND FOR ONE.

John Dewar & Sons, whose Scotch whisky has secured a firm foothold on this market, have issued from time to time about the finest lithographs that have come on the market. They are not only attractive, but they are appropriate, and a good advertisement for the whisky.

Nearly every reader of THE GROCER is familiar with the hanger showing a brawny Highlander in full costume who has just tasted a wee drop, and says, with a look of extreme pleasure on his face, "Hech, mon, you're richt the noo, there's na Scotch like Jock Dewar's." They were never able to supply the demand for these.

A new one has come in this week from the old country: "The Whisky of His Ancestors," that is even better. It represents a young laird in kilts, surrounded by the pictures of his ancestors, all of whom have been users of Dewar's. J. M. Douglas & Co., the Canadian agents, have received only a limited supply so far, but anyone who would like a copy, by sending a postal card to them at the Board of Trade, Montreal, may have one sent to him if he mentions that he is a reader of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

FIXED PRICES ON CIGARETTES.

IT IS more than probable that the American Cigarette Co. of Canada will shortly fix the prices at which jobbers may sell their cigarettes to the retail trade. Jobbers have complained that there is so much competition and that prices are cut to such an extent, that there is no money in handling them.

Mr. Davis, the manager, has been discussing the question with leading jobbers, and endeavoring to arrive at a basis which can be worked satisfactorily.

These conferences have led to a good deal of gossip among the trade, both wholesale and retail and manufacturing. In fact, there is considerable excitement owing to the announcement of the terms which the American Cigarette Co. of New Jersey are making with jobbers in the States. It is commonly reported that the Canadian company will make the same terms.

Mr. Davis, the manager, said to THE CANADIAN GROCER to-day that he had not made any terms yet. It rested entirely with the jobbers what these would be. He was prepared to help them in maintaining prices, and in return for this it was only fair that they should support his company. It would be more to their advantage if their cigarettes reached the consumer at the lowest price. They would use more. At the same time he, in common with all manufacturers, was anxious that the trade should have a profit.

Under the American agreement, about which there is so much talk, the American Cigarette Co. consign cigarettes to the jobbers to be sold on commission and to be paid for quarterly as sold. Jobbers must not sell at less than the prices fixed by the company; and they must not sell to any but retail dealers. By complying with these terms, and not discriminating against the cigarettes made by the company and in favor of other brands, each jobber will receive a rebate of 2½ per cent. If, however, the jobber handles the American Cigarette Company's brands exclusively, and does not sell or distribute or aid in the sale or distribution of any other brand, he will be allowed a further rebate of 7½ per cent.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

TORONTO, Nov. 7, 1895.

GROCERIES.

THE wholesale houses are still fairly well employed, although the volume of business is evidently not as large as it was a week ago. Sugars continue dull and much the same as a week ago. The cynosure at the moment is dried fruit. Stocks in these are now being completed while the demand is good. But the chief feature in this line is the upward tendency of currants and Valencia raisins. Canned goods are quiet and steady. Spices are in good demand with the market firmer on some lines. In syrups, the feature is the demand on lumbering camp account. Teas of all descriptions are firm with the demand generally fair.

CANNED GOODS.

Canned vegetables are in active demand at steady prices. The position appears to be improving, and we hear of one house that is holding its peas at slightly higher prices than a week or two ago. The situation in salmon is unchanged, either in regard to prices or business. We quote as follows: Tomatoes, 77½ to 85c.; corn, 75 to 85c.; peas, 85c.; for ordinary; sifted, 95c. to $1; extra sifted, $1.40; peaches, $2.90 to $3 for 3's, $1.90 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.40 to $2.00; strawberries, $1.80 to $2.45, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.90 to $2.20; cherries, $2.40 to $2.45; apples, 3's, 85 to 90c.; gallons, $2 to 2.25; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.35 to $1.40; "Maple Leaf," $1.35; "Lion," $1.35; Lowe Inlet, 1.27 to $1.30, in tall tins; cohoes, $1.10 to $1.20; canned mackerel, $1 $1.10; lobsters, $1.80 to $2.10, for tall tins; flats, $2.35 to $2.65; half tins, $1.40 to $1.45; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.50 to $1.60; 2's, $2.50 to $2.65; 6's, $8 to $8.25; 14's, $18 to $19. Chicago canned beef, 1's, $1.75 per doz.; 2's, $2.85.

COFFEE.

Business continues fair. The outside markets do not exhibit much life. We quote green in bags: Rio, 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22½c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracaibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

RICE.

Business continues quiet at unchanged prices. We quote: "B," 3½ to 3¾c.; extra Japan, 5¼ to 5¾c.; imported Japan, 5¾ to 6¼c.; tapioca, pearl, 3½ to 5½c.

SPICES.

There is a little more enquiry for nutmegs. Ginger has advanced about 10s. per cwt., and the market is strong. We quote as follows: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.

NUTS.

Reports from France say that the walnut crop will be much lighter than usual.

Locally the situation remains much as before. We quote: Brazil nuts, 11¼ to 11½c. Sicily shelled almonds, 25 to 26c.; Tarragona almonds, 14 to 14½c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted, and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 14 to 15c.; Marbot walnuts, 12 to 13c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 10 to 12c.; Sicily filberts, 9 to 10c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; pecans, 10½ to 11c.

SUGAR.

Dulness is still the characteristic of the market, both at home and abroad, but the refineries will not shade prices, bids of 1-16c. less than figures asked having been refused. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, 4¾ to 4½c.; do., No. 2, 4¼c.; yellows, 3¼c. to 3.85c.

SYRUPS.

A good demand has sprung up from the lumber camps, but there is not much doing otherwise. There is not much offering, and prices are firmer. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.; bright, 40 to 42c.

MOLASSES.

There is the usual quiet demand at this season. We quote: New Orleans, barrels, 30 to 32c.; half-barrels, 33½ to 35c.; Barbadoes, barrels, 31 to 35c.; half-barrels, 33 to 37c.

TEAS.

A good many teas of all descriptions are changing hands. Low grade Japan teas are still very scarce, although some shipments have been received on the Toronto market during the past week. Dust has advanced altogether from 1 to 2c. per pound as a result of the scarcity of low grades. Medium Japan teas as high as 18 to 19c. are getting into smaller compass, and early picked sweet drawing teas promise to be higher before very long. We quote ruling prices to retailers: Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

DRIED FRUITS.

Valencia raisins continue in good demand, and prices are strong. There is no prospect of further immediate shipments from Spain. Leading brands we quote: Off-stalk, 4¼ to 4½c.; fine off-stalk, 4¾ to 5c.; selected, 6c.; layers, 6½c.

Currants continue to advance in the primary markets, to day's figures being ½c. per lb. above the cost of the earlier importations. Locally there is an active demand and prices are firm and unchanged. We quote: Fine Filatras, in half-bbls., 4 to 4¼c.; ditto, cases, 4¼ to 4½c.; ditto, half-cases, 4½ to 4¾c.; Casalinas, cases, 5 to 5¼c.; Vostizzas, cases, 6 to 6½c.; ditto, half-cases, 6½ to 6¾c.; ditto extra fine, 6¾ to 7¼c.; ditto, half-cases, 7¼ to 7½c.

Sultana raisins are in much the same position as currants. The markets abroad are steadily developing strength and prices are now so high that for old fruit which has been shown four shillings per cwt. more has been asked than was wanted early in the season for new fruit.

California evaporated fruits are quiet and steady. We quote: Peas, 10 to 11½c.; nectarines, 10½ to 12c.; apricots, in boxes, 12 to 13c.; peaches, in boxes, 10 to 12½c.; plums, 7c. up.

A few contracts have been made for Bosnia prunes for October and November shipment, but the very strong prices have prevented much business. The market in Europe has been steadily advancing since the first purchases were made. There is a little demand on lumbering camp account for French prunes. We quote: California prunes, 40-50, 10 to 10½c. per lb.; 50-60 to box, 9½c. per lb.; 60-70 to box, 9c.; 70-80 to box, 8½c. per lb.; French, 4½ to 5c.

Figs are in good supply, with demand fair. It is thought that the requirements will be below the requirements of the trade. We quote: 14 oz., 10½c.; 10 lb., 10½c. for 5-rowed, and 12½c. for 4-rowed; 14 lb., 11c.; 28 lb., 16c.

Malaga raisins are quiet and unchanged. We quote: London layers, $2.10 to $2.20; black baskets, $3 to $3.20; blue baskets, $3.50 to $3.75; choice clusters, $3.50 to $3.75; Dehesa clusters, $4.25 to $4.50; Royal clusters, $5 to $5.25.

GREEN FRUIT.

There is nothing remarkable to record this week. Business goes on at a steady swing. Lemons are perhaps a trifle easier, and there are now a few Messinas offering, as well as Sorrentos and Verdillas. Cranberries maintain their high figure, although Cape Cod have not the situation all to themselves any more, as some Nova Scotia berries are to hand, and some New Jerseys are bought to arrive next week. Canadian grapes are scarcer, but they can be had at from quotations down to almost any figure. Malaga grapes are to hand in quantities. We

BUTTER, CHEESE, EGGS, POULTRY.

BUTTER—The situation continues improved. Good qualities continue to point upward in price. We quote: Old summer dairy and store packed, 8 to 12c.; fresh prints, 16 to 17c.; fresh tubs, 15 to 17c. Fresh creamery—Tubs, 21 to 22c.; pound prints, 22 to 23c.

CHEESE—Maintains the advance of last week. Local buyers have paid 8½ to 9c. for August-September Canadian makes, and 9½c. for balance of season.

EGGS—Fresh eggs have advanced to 16 and 17c. per doz., while pickled cannot be bought lower than 14 to 14½c.

POULTRY—Is very plentiful and unchanged in price. We quote prices: Geese, 5 to 5½c. per lb.; turkeys, 7 to 8c. per lb.; chickens, 25 to 40c. per pair; ducks, 40 to 60c. per pair.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—Jobbers still offering at $1.10 to $1.15 per bushel.

The Chatham Banner, in its weekly review says: The market is still in a very unsatisfactory condition and shippers are rather pleased that the farmers are holding off the market, the receipts having declined fully one-half since our last report. Picking stock was bought on the street yesterday at 65 to 75c., according to condition, and it had to be an extra sample of primes that brought over 70c., only a load or two bringing 75c. The decline has led many holders to cease delivering and wait patiently for a turn in the market, which is unsettled and panicky—at least on this side of the line. Dealers in the eastern provinces won't buy at any figure that shippers could quote, a "cut" giving them an idea that a drop is sure to follow. There is no way to get over this situation, but patiently waiting till the supplies east run out. A few sales will steady the market, and a limited trade may then be looked for. American dealers west and south would take some of our beans just now if the price was satisfactory, but to compete with the Michigan and Wisconsin crop, the beans would have to be placed on the track here, picked and barreled, at less than 80c. The duty and certificate amounts to 18 or 20c. A better feeling and more activity is expected in the course of a few weeks, but that there will be any rise in the price none of the dealers appear to be at all confident.

DRIED APPLES—Remain at 5 to 5½c. per lb.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Still quoted at 6½c. per lb.

POTATOES—No improvement is noted, 25 to 30c. being the ruling quotation for bags in the city, while 15c. is the price spoken of at some outside points.

HONEY—Strained brings 9 to 10c. per lb.; while combs go at $1.50 to $2 per doz.

DRESSED BEEF, VEAL AND MUTTON.

By the carcase is quoted thus: Beef, first-class, $7 per 100 lbs.; fair to middling, $5.50 to $6.50; rough and inferior, $4 to $4.50. Lamb, 5 to 5½c. per lb. Mutton, 4 to 5c. per lb. Veal, 4 to 6½c. for first quality.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

Hogs are down to $4.50 to $4.90, but there are no changes to speak of in products, though quotations have a downward tendency. We quote:

DRY SALTED MEATS—Long clear bacon, 6¾c. for carload lots, and 7c. for small lots; backs, 7½ to 8c.

SMOKED MEATS—Breakfast bacon, 10½c.; rolls, 7½ to 7¾c.; hams, large, 22 lbs. and over, 10c.; medium, 15 to 20 lbs., 10½c.; small hams, 11c.; pickled, 9c.; backs, 10 to 10½c.; picnic hams, 7½c.

LARD—Pure Canadian, tierces, 7¾c.; tubs, 8¼c.; pails, 8½c.

BARREL PORK—Canadian heavy mess, $15; Canadian short-cut, $16; clear shoulder mess, $13; shoulder mess, $12.50.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Nov. 7, 1895.

GROCERIES.

DESPITE the fact that railway freights advanced to their winter basis last week, there has been a fairly good volume of trade in a distributive way, and values on all leading staples are well maintained on the whole. In a wholesale sense the situation is a quiet one except in dried fruit, the excitement in which continues, and higher values have been realized this week on all grades of Valencia fruit, from ordinary off-stalk to selected. A firm feeling actuates all other descriptions of dried fruit also. Sugar rules quiet and steady, and the same can be said of molasses and syrups. Coffees and spices are featureless, but a firmer feeling is noted on the former in outside markets. Tea remains much as it was, and there is nothing new either in canned goods or fish, which remain much as they were, except that canned tomatoes are offered, if anything, still lower, owing to heavy offerings by Quebec canners.

SUGAR.

There has been little change in the sugar market since our last report. Demand is slow on the whole, but prices rule steady. Advices on raws are firm on the whole. We quote: Granulated, $4\frac{1}{8}$ c., and yellows, 3 to $3\frac{1}{4}$ c. as to grade. At the refineries values are quotable $\frac{1}{2}$ c. less per lb. for straight wholesale lots.

SYRUPS.

Trading in syrups since our last report has been quiet. The supplies, however, continue light and prices are held firm at $1\frac{1}{4}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb. as to grade.

MOLASSES.

The molasses market has furnished a moderate jobbing trade at steady prices, with the chief demand for Porto Rico stock owing to its cheapness. Few sales of car lots are noted. We quote: Barbadoes, 36 to 37c. and Porto Rico, 35c.

RICE.

The rice market is firm in tone and prices are unchanged. We quote: Japan, $4.30 to $4.50; crystal Japan, $4.80 to $5; standard B, $3.45; C.C. style, $3.30; Patna, $4.37 to $5; and Carolina, $6.75 to $7.50.

SPICES.

There is a fair jobbing trade doing in spices, and values all round are steady. Cream of tartar is higher. We quote: Cream of tartar, 30c.; Penang black pepper, 7 to 10c.; white pepper, 12 to 15c.; cloves, whole, 9 to 20c.; cassia, whole, 9 to 20c.; nutmegs, 60 to 90c.; Jamaica ginger, 17 to 20c.

COFFEE.

A firmer feeling is noted from the outside markets, but no change is spoken of here, business being of a moderate jobbing kind. We quote green bean: Maracaibo, 20 to 22c.; Rio, 19 to 20c.; Java, 24 to 28c.; Jamaica, 18 to 20c., and Mocha, 27½ to 31c.

TEAS.

The tea market does not present any striking alteration from the position of a week ago. Owing to the scarcity of low priced Japans demand is perforce being directed to medium grade goods, the enquiry noted last week for stock ranging from 15 to 19c. is fairly active in a jobbing way. A fair trade is also noted in blacks worth from 10 to 12c., and further business has, it is understood, been worked for Indian and Ceylon on western account. We quote Japans: Low grades, 14c.; medium, 15 to 18c.; fine, 20 to 22c., and choice, 25 to 32c.

DRIED FRUIT.

The strong feeling noted last week for Valencia raisins is firmly maintained. In fact, prices are ¼c. higher all round, for 4c. was freely offered on Monday and Tuesday for anything offering in ordinary off-stalk. We quote: Ordinary off-stalk, 4 to 4¼c.; fine off-stalk, 4½ to 4¾c.; selected, 5¼c., and layers, 6¼ to 6½c.

There is a fair jobbing enquiry for table raisins, for which prices are steady. In Malaga fruit we quote: Extra loose muscatels, $1.40; Imperial London layers, $1.75; Imperial cabinets, $1.90; Connoisseur clusters, $2.20; extra dessert clusters, $3; Royal Buckingham clusters, $1.10; Imperial Russian clusters, $4.75.

There have been further receipts of California 3-crown loose muscatels this week. Prices are a shade easier than last week's quotation. Four-crown fruit continue scarce and firmly held. We quote 5½c. for 3-crown and 7c. for 4-crown loose muscatels.

There is no change in Sultana raisins, which continue firm at 6 to 6½c. Supplies here are very light.

The currant market remains firm and unchanged with a fairly good demand for stock to arrive ex Fremona. We quote: 3½ to 3¾c. in barrels, 4 to 4¼c. in half-barrels, and 4½ to 4¾c. in cases and half-cases.

There has been a fair jobbing demand for figs at steady prices. We quote as follows in detail: Extra fancy 7-crown Elme layer figs, 50-lb. flat boxes, 16 to 17c.; fancy 5-crown 12-lb. flat boxes, 9½ to 11c.; fancy 12-oz. boxes, 8 to 9c.; choice bag figs, 3½ to 4½c.

The firm feeling on French prunes held in second hands here is strengthened by the strong advices regarding the Bosnia fruit, which, as noted last week, are firmly held. We quote: French ordinary, 6c., and choice, 7½ to 13½c. New Bosnias are offering from second hands at 6½c.

The firm feeling in dates, already noted last week, continues, and for business to arrive 4¼c. is easily made by sellers.

NUTS.

There is no change in nuts, which are quiet. We quote: Brazils, 8 to 9c.; shelled almonds, 20 to 25c.; Tarragona, 12 to 13c.; Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; shelled ditto, 25 to 27c.; filberts, 6½ to 7½c.; and pecans, 8 to 10c.

CANNED GOODS.

The prominent fact of the canned goods market is the weak feeling on canned tomatoes. Low offers were noted on these last week, and they have been continued. In fact, they are offering fully 10c. per dozen lower on round lots than the figures current last week. We quote: Lobsters, $8 to $9 per case; sardines, $8.50 to $10.50; salmon, $5.20 to $5.50; mackerel, $5; tomatoes, 70 to 75c. per doz.; peaches, $2 to $3 per doz.; corn, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peas, 95c. to $1 per doz.; strawberries, $2.25 to $2.50; raspberries, $2; green gages, $2 to $2.25; blue plums or damsons, $1.50 to $1.75; pineapples, $2.25 to $2.50, and 3-lb. apples, 80 to 85c.

WINES AND SPIRITS.

There is a good demand for wines and spirits of all kinds from both first and second hands. In the former connection some large-sized contracts have been put through both for Scotch, Irish and Canadian whiskeys with the wholesale grocers during the past week, notably with the Maritime Province firms.

GREEN FRUIT.

There has been no striking change in the green fruit market since our last report. Receipts have been considerable of all kinds of fruit, but the market has been kept well cleaned up.

APPLES—The feeling on apples is firm on the whole, and prices are maintained at $2.50 to $3 for good winter fruit. No other kind are offering now.

GRAPES—Range in a quiet way from 20 to 40c. per basket.

CRANBERRIES—No change is to note in these, which range from $8.50 to $10, as to grade.

ALMERIA GRAPES—Stocks light and prices firm at $4.90 to $5.25 per cask.

ORANGES—Range from $6 to $7 per bbl.

LEMONS—There is no change in lemons, Malagas ranging from $4 to $4.50 per box.

SPANISH ONIONS—Receipts have been considerable of late, but prices are steady at 40c. per crate.

SWEET POTATOES—A few lots are selling in a small way at $4.

EVAPORATED APPLES—No change to report from 6 to 6½c. per lb.

FISH.

There has been considerable business in green cod and pickled herrings during the past week. Car lots of green cod change hands at $4 to $4.10, while No. 1 bright herrings fetch $4.25 to $4.50. Mackerel range from $17.50 to $17.75, and No. 2 Labrador salmon, $13.25 to $13.50, with B.C. salmon, $10.50.

Arrivals of dried cod have been heavy, but prices rule steady at $4 to $4.50 per 100 lbs. Boneless cod are steady at 6c., and shredded cod at 5c., while boneless haddock fetches 5c. Smoked fish are in good supply, haddies selling at 6½ to 7c., and Yarmouth bloaters, $10 per box. Kipperred herring fetches $1.65 per box.

Malpeque oysters are quiet, but prices are steady under small supplies at $4.50 to $5, while Miramichi fetch $3 and Buctouche, hand-picked, 4.50.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The tone of the egg market continues firm and prices are sustained. The demand was good and trade was fairly active at 18 to 20c. for new laid, 14 to 15c. for choice candled, and ordinary 11½ to 12c. per dozen.

POTATOES—A fair trade was done in potatoes, and choice lots sold at 35 to 40c. per bag in car lots.

BEANS—The market for beans continues dull at $1.10 to $1.15 per bushel for choice hand-picked in car lots, and $1.20 to $1.30 in small quantities.

HOPS—The demand for hops was slow and trade quiet at 5 to 8c. per lb. for new, as to quality.

TALLOW—The market for tallow was quiet and steady at 6 to 6½c. for prime refined, and at 5 to 5½c. for lower grades.

POULTRY—The demand for poultry was fair, of which the offerings were larger, but values ruled steady. We quote: Turkeys, 8 to 9c.; chickens, 6 to 7c.; ducks, 7 to 8c., and geese, 5½ to 6c. per lb.

DRESSED HOGS—The receipts of dressed hogs are increasing, and the market in consequence has an easy tone. The demand to-day was fair, and sales in a jobbing way were made at $5.50 per 100 lbs.

HAY—The hay market is firm and has exhibited rather more activity at $12 for No. 1 and $11 for No. 2.

PROVISIONS.

The demand for provisions continues slow, and business is dull, with no change in prices to note. We quote: Canadian short cut, clear, $14.50 to $15; Canadian short cut mess, $15.50 to $16; hams, city cured, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 9¾ to 10c.; bacon, per lb., 9 to 11c.; lard, com. refined, per lb., 6¼ to 6½c.

FLOUR, MEAL AND FEED.

The demand for flour continues good, and the market rules active and steady. Orders are coming in freely from the country, and millers in some cases state that they are oversold to some extent. We quote: Winter wheat, $3.85 to $4.15; spring wheat, patents, $4.05 to $4.15; straight roller, $3.45 to $3.60; straight roller, bags, $1.55 to $1.75; extra, bags, $1.50 to $1.55; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.65 to $4.

Business in oatmeal continues of a limited character, and prices rule steady. We quote: Standard, bbls., $3.15 to $3.20; granulated, bbls., $3.25 to $3.30; rolled oats, bbls., $3.25 to $3.30.

Stock must be cleared out by 1st January.

No reasonable offer refused to clear out any line. For this reason it will pay you well to call and see our stock of Crockery, China, Glassware, Lamps, etc., both staple and fancy.

BUTTER.

The export demand for creamery has fallen off to a certain extent, the advance in prices on this side acting as a check. Holders, however, are firm in their views, as local jobbers are paying full figures, and there is as yet no great accumulation in first hands. Cables this week noted lower limits, but prices here are unchanged, as sellers will not concede anything to exporters, who, today, want to buy late made creamery for 22c. and less. We quote: Finest September creamery, 22 to 23½c.; finest August creamery, 19 to 19½c.; Township dairy, 17 to 18c.; Western dairy, 14 to 15c.

CHEESE.

The cheese market was quiet and unchanged. Values on late made cheese are firmly held at former rates, but demand is dull and the figures are more or less nominal. For early makes there is a fairly good enquiry all the way from 8 to 8½c., and this is an encouraging feature, for it is decreasing the stock of early cheese held in cold storage on this side. At the wharf, Monday morning, 3,500 cheese were offered and sold at 9c., the same price as was paid last Monday. We quote: Finest Ontario, fall makes, 9½ to 9¾c.; finest Quebec, fall makes, 9½ to 9¾c.; summer makes, 8 to 8½c.

ASHES.

There has been no further change in ashes. We now quote firsts $4 to $4.10; seconds, $3.75 to $3.80; and pearls, $4.70.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER

ST. JOHN, N.B., Nov. 7, 1895.

THE past month's trade has been active, and values have been well sustained. There is a fair trade reported by the candy manufacturers, though as yet orders are hardly as large as at the same time last season. It is, however, early. In tea there is a good, active demand. In spices the trade is more active. Extracts for the holiday trade also show good movement. Cream of tartar, after having fallen off somewhat, is again moving upward. The interest at present is around dried fruit, and merchants are firm in quoting prices. It is said, however, that some very low prices are quoted. It is also reported that one merchant, who found much fault with the low prices, was the first to make the cut. Our daily papers have had much in them regarding the price of bread here and in Halifax, it being said it is much cheaper in Halifax. While there may be some truth in the statement, the reason appears to be not that the price is too high here, but that, on account of cut prices, the result of war between the bakers, the price is too low there.

OIL—The dealers are quite busy filling orders already taken, outside of which the demand is lighter. Moncton is becoming quite a centre in the oil trade, both the American and Canadian people having a large depot there. We quote: Best American, $22\frac{1}{4}$ c.; best Canadian, $21\frac{1}{4}$ c.; prime, $17\frac{1}{2}$ c. No charge for barrels.

SALT—The last cargo landing found good demand at firm price, but a small quantity being stored by importers. The demand from now will be lighter. There are fair stocks, while a cargo is on the way. The new round cartoons of the Windsor Salt people are now on the market, and are finding ready sale. The price is rather lower than some of the other style packages. Some rock salt is on the market, but demand grows lighter from year to year. We quote: Coarse, 50 to 55c.; fine factory-filled, 95c. to $1.10; 5-lb. bags, $3 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.80 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10-lb. boxes, 12c.; cartoons, $1.90 to $2 per doz.; bulk dairy, $2.80 per bbl.; bulk cheese, $2.70.

CANNED GOODS—The interest in these lines is rather less, as dried fruits are taking the general attention. There is, however, a fair quantity of vegetables moving at firm prices. As yet demand for fruits is light. Oysters and beef are both dull. Salmon show less strength than was expected. There is a report that a large quantity was packed in poor packages, which accounts for low prices at which goods have been offered from the Coast. None of that grade are here. Prices are: Corn, 85 to 90c.; peas, 90 to 95c. tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.60 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.50 to $1.60; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $2.85 to $2.90; 2's, $1.90 to $2; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.40; salmon, $1.25 to $1.50; flat, $1.75; clams, $5.50 for 4 doz.; chowder, $3 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1; pineapples, $2.35; kippered herring, $1.10.

GREEN FRUIT—These continue to be good. Gravensteins have advanced in price about 50 to 75c., while Bishop Pippins show good demand. Common fall apples, low. In oranges the large quantity put on the market during the past few weeks from the West Indies has weakened the prices. Lemons are good sale at prices. Keg grapes sell freely. Canadian are about out of the market. Pears and quince are also small movement. We quote: Lemons, $5 to $6; bananas, $1 to $2.50; West India oranges, $4.50 to $6 per bbl.; Malaga grapes, $5.50 to $6; quince, American, $7 to $7.50; Canadian grapes, 40 to 70c.; sweet potatoes, $4 per bbl.; Gravenstein apples, $2 to $2.75; other fall grades, $1 to $2; Pippins and winter fruit, $1.50 to $2.25; sickle pears, $3 per box; others, $2 to $2.50.

DRIED FRUIT—Business is active, though direct shipments of Valencia are not to hand. Large quantities of new peel, currants and figs have been received. Figs particularly are in good demand, one merchant having already upward of 40 cases, and another 25. In all lines stocks seem ample. In spite of the fact that currants are higher at place of production some very low prices have been quoted here. In cleaned currants quite a difference in quality is noticed, some being cleaned dry while others are washed. When they are washed, it is said, they fall short 25 per cent, and that it only pays to do a good quality, as the poor all wash away. Sultanais raisins are now being put up in the same way. Nova Scotia parties are offering fair quantities of dried; quality is said to be better than last season. In evaporated, some few are arriving, bought at low prices; there is a rather firmer feeling, but demand at the season is very low. Four-crown California loose are reported higher in proportion than 3-crown. The stock bought to arrive of California raisins is much larger than any former year. Cocoanuts in quantities could be bought under quotations, there being rather large stocks held here. We quote: New Valencias, 5c.; new figs, 12c.; new 4-crown Cal. L. M. raisins, 6 to 7c.; new 3-crown Cal. L. M. raisins, $5\frac{1}{2}$ to 6c.; new keg prunes, 4c.; boxes, $4\frac{3}{4}$ to 6c.; new Cal. L. raisins, \$1.75 to \$1.85; old Valencia, 4c.; layers, 5c.; new currants, bbls., $3\frac{1}{2}$ c.; half-cases, 4c.; new evaporated apples, 7 to $7\frac{1}{2}$ c.; dried apples, $5\frac{3}{4}$ to 6c.; dates, 4 to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.; California evaporated peaches, 12 to 13c.; do. apricots, 12 to 14c.; do. pears, 12 to 13c.; clean currants, bulk, $6\frac{1}{2}$ c.; 1-lb. cartoons, $7\frac{1}{2}$ c.; Canadian onions, \$2 to \$2.25 per bbl.; cocoanuts, \$3 to \$4 per 100; citron, 15 to 16c.; orange, 12 to 13c.; lemon, 11 to 12c.; new cleaned currants, 6-crown, 1-lb. cartoons, 8 to $8\frac{1}{2}$ c.; Sultanais, 10c.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Eggs have taken quite a jump, stocks being light and selling freely at 15c., with higher prices looked for. Butter does not show active demand, though best quality is firm. There is a fair demand for creamery, but there is not a large quantity made, and factories hold rather high. In cheese there is still a fair quantity in first hands. Wholesale dealers find sales through this province and Nova Scotia lighter this season than usual owing to the large number of factories that are each supplying their local market. There are a number of early make yet to be sold. Demand is dull. In later makes there is better demand, but price is below Ontario, the trouble being the quantity manufactured is too large for local demand. In many cases they are not right for export. The firmer feeling is much welcomed, as the low prices have been discouraging to factorymen here. Rather too high prices were paid for milk. We quote: Cheese, $8\frac{1}{2}$ to 9c.; new butter, 17 to 18c.; eggs, 12 to $12\frac{1}{2}$ c.; fresh creamery prints, 22 to 23c.; tubs, 20 to 21c.

MOLASSES—The feeling among holders is that best grades will be good stock, though the market on Barbadoes, the standard grade here, has not so far gained much strength. In syrups there is a much better movement, that offered being particularly pleasant flavor. We quote: Barbadoes, 32 to 34c.; St. Croix, 32 to 33c.; Porto Rico, 34 to 36c.; syrup, 35c.; Trinidad, 32 to 33c.; New Orleans, bbls., 34 to 35c.

SUGAR—Shows fair movement, there being large quantities of granulated used. There is a firm feeling here, although stocks are fairly large. THE GROCER saw in one office two sugar drafts in one day amounting to \$17,000. A fairly large amount for a dealer here. We quote: Granulated, $4\frac{3}{4}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.; yellow, $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c.; Paris lump, $5\frac{1}{4}$ to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c.; powdered, $5\frac{1}{4}$ to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c.

FISH—There have been fairly large receipts during the week, and values are low, while quality generally is good. It is thought stocks are largely to hand. In Shelburne the stock received is large. Smoked herring continue dull and low. Grand Manan, pickled, are quoted as low as bay. In cut boneless there are fair quantities moving. In dried cod and pollock large quantities shipped are now boxed, and some few are skinned. We quote: Medium cod, $3.40 to $3.50; large, $3.60 to $3.70; small, $2.40 to $2.50; pollock, $1.40; bay herring, $1.25 to $1.30; whole bbls., bay herring, $2.25 to $2.50; Grand Manan, $1.30; ripplings, $1.65 to $1.70; wolves, $1.90 to $2; Quoddy River, $2.50 to $2.75; smoked, 5 to 7c.; shad, half-bbl., pickled, $4.50 to $5.50; Canso, $5; halves, $2.75; Shelburne, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.

PROVISIONS—There is a fair movement in all lines. There is quite a range of price, owing to a difference in quality under the same grade. As in clear pork, some are largely neck and shoulder pieces. We quote: Clear pork, \$15.50 to \$16.50; mess, \$14.50 to \$15.50; plate beef, \$13.25 to \$14; pure lard, 9 to 10c.; compound lard, 8c.; cottolene, $9\frac{1}{4}$ to $9\frac{3}{4}$ c.; rolls, 9 to $9\frac{1}{2}$ c.; beef, half bbls., \$7; hams, 12c.

FLOUR FEED AND MEAL—There is a good demand noted. Ontario flour is firm with upward tendency. Manitoba remains at old figures, and large quantities are moving. Oatmeal is also in demand, and higher prices are looked for. There are a great many half-barrels sold in this market. Oats have been in demand, largely to go to the woods for lumbermen. Of the three grades sold here, N. B., P. E. I. and Ontario, the Ontario are preferred, and then the P. E. I. Ontario have been very low, reported to have been sold at $31\frac{1}{2}$ c., and have got the bulk of the trade. They are now much higher. P. E. I. can be landed at 33c. by the car, but the Ontario are now quoted above that. Cornmeal continues a large sale with prices still at the low figure. Beans bought at the low prices are daily expected, but the drop will hardly be as much as was expected, as in first hand, they are higher again. Feed is firmer. Yellow Eye beans are held much above the price of the others. The quantity of standard oatmeal now sold here is very light. We quote: Manitoba, \$4.70; best Ontario, \$4 to \$4.15; medium, \$3.85 to \$3.90; oatmeal, \$3.60 to \$3.70; cornmeal, \$2.35 to \$2.40; hand-picked beans, \$1.40 to \$1.50; prime, \$1.10 to \$1.20; split peas, \$3.70; pot barley, \$4.10 to \$4.25; hay, \$10.10 to \$11.50; oats, 33 to 35c.; middlings, \$19 to \$20 on track; bran, \$18.

During the past few weeks some 6,000 barrels of potatoes have been shipped from up-bay Nova Scotia ports to Havana.

Owing to the low price of cheese here compared with outside points, a number of holders are shipping direct to London, the last steamer taking 200 boxes.

On Wednesday last Allan D. Barbour, accountant for Puddington & Merritt, one of our largest retail grocery firms, was married to Miss Idella Fowler. THE CANADIAN GROCER extends congratulations.

Large quantities of sheep are being shipped from Hartland, Carleton County, some four cars going forward on one day during the past week. They are shipped first to Montreal and thence to the English market.

With the exception of one lot of Leghorn, the peels received in this market this season are English, the packers being Batger & Co. Rose & Laflamme, of Montreal, are the Canadian agents. They are represented here by F. R. Titus.

Large importations of dried fruit are to hand this week, one firm receiving fifteen tons. Among the importations arriving were 1,000 cases currants and a quantity of barrels, which were sold by E. T. Sturdee for Cremidi Bros., Patras, Greece.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

HALIFAX, Nov. 7, 1895.

TRADER has been very dull in all lines this week. There is hardly an article in which any change can be noted. Unsettled weather is in a measure accountable.

E. Collishaw, who did a general grocery business at New Glasgow five years ago, and who since has been traveling for the Imperial Oil Co., is about to open business again in New Glasgow on a new (for those parts) plan, the outcome of which is looked forward to with considerable interest. New Glasgow is a manufacturing centre, and a large number of men are employed at the works there. Mr. Collishaw proposes to supply them with goods at cost prices. In other words, Mr. Collishaw will act as agent for those who choose to come into his scheme. Each person signs a paper agreeing to pay $10 a year for the privilege of purchasing from Mr. Collishaw. So far some 200 have signed the document. Your correspondent was in New Glasgow the other day, and as there was considerable talk among the merchants about the new scheme, he decided to interview Mr. Collishaw, who informed him that he would open with a stock valued at $45,000, which would consist of groceries, dry goods, hardware, ready-made clothing, etc. He would sell at cost, the persons buying from him to appoint a committee to inspect the invoices and see the goods were properly marked. Mr. Collishaw said he had purchased the grocery business of T. Graham Fraser and would occupy that stand. Where Mr. Collishaw is to get his profit appears to be the burning question.

FLOUR—There has been a slight stiffening in prices since last report. The volume of business this week is fair at the following quotations: Hungarian patent, Manitoban, $4.70 to $4.80; Manitoba strong bakers', $4.55 to $4.65; Canadian pastry, $4.25 to $4.30; 75 per cent. roller patents, $3.95 to $4; 80 per cent. do., $3.85 to $3.95; 90 per cent. do., $3.75 to $3.85; straight, $3.60 to $3.70; extra, $3.50 to $3.60.

FISHSTUFFS—Large grocery cod are much called for, and as stocks are low prices are advancing. Mackerel continue scarce. A few have been taken and shipped in ice to the Boston market. The catch does not amount to anything, and the season will soon be over. The price of this article also is firmer, a lot selling to-day at tender at 25c. per bbl. advance on all grades. The catch of salmon is all marketed, and does not total half an average one. What few there are obtainable are held at fancy prices.

SUGAR—The Acadia Refinery reports business quiet to-day. Prices for refined remain unchanged.

MOLASSES—There is considerable firmness in the molasses market. Stocks are low, the arrivals being only a few puncheons by the last steamer. Prices will likely be well sustained for the remainder of the season. Quotations are: Antigua, 28c.; Porto Rico, 32 to 35c.; Trinidad, 28c.; Barbadoes, 32c.; Demerara, M.R. brand, 39c.; St. Kitts, 28c.

DRIED FRUIT—The quantity of dried fruit coming here this fall is decidedly below the average of last year. Valencia layers, in boxes, are worth 6c.; half-boxes, 6½c., and quarter-boxes, 7½c. London layers are quoted at $2.25 for single boxes, $1.20 for half-boxes and 75c. for quarter boxes. Imperial cabinets are quoted at $2.50 per box; black baskets at $3.50; Patras currants at 5c.; Filiatra currants at 3½ to 4½c.

CHEESE—The cheese market here does not seem to be responding in sympathy with other markets. Business is being done under 10c. for September.

BUTTER—There is a brisk movement in the local market. Quotations at 22 to 23c. for September creamery, and some dairy is offering at 18 to 18½c.

HIDES—Hides have fallen one cent this week. The market is quiet.

EGGS—Eggs are in demand this week at 16c. P.E.I. shippers are asking 15c.

GREEN FRUIT—The green fruit market is very firm and dealers are doing a good business. Winter varieties of apples are scarce. The market is still overstocked with onions and prices remain low.

HAY—Local dealers are selling hay at $12 ex store and $11 ex car. An advance is looked for.

PRODUCE—Several schooners have arrived from P.E. Island with oats and potatoes. The crop there is very heavy, and oats can be bought f.o.b. at 27½c., and potatoes at 13c. The quotations here are: Oats, 35c.; potatoes, 25c. The market is well supplied.

PROVISIONS—There is no change in the provision market as far as prices are concerned. The demand is light, poultry receiving the most attention at present.

HALIFAX NOTES.

The body of Angus Chisholm, grocer, of New Glasgow, who died in England recently, arrived here this week and was sent to New Glasgow for burial.

William Dillon, of Dillon Bros., general grocers, died last week, aged 39 years. He leaves a widow.

P. E. ISLAND STARCH FACTORIES.

Says a Charlottetown paper: A gentleman who had just returned from a visit to the country, informs us that there is a brisk business being done this season at the starch factories owing to the low price of potatoes. At the Edwardsburg factory, Malpeque, conducted by Robert Sutherland, 300 loads of potatoes were taken in on the 22nd and up to that date the enormous quantity of 22,000 bushels had already been purchased this season by that one factory at 14c. per bushel. It is calculated that 300 tons of starch will be made in the Edwardsburg factory this season and this will be considered a good season's output. Last season operations did not commence there until the 27th October. It appears that some farmers are only receiving 10c. per bushel for their potatoes, but the above factory, and we understand some others, are paying 14c. per bushel.

TWO NEW SIZES CANNED SALMON.

Ward & Co., Victoria, B.C., the agents of the Canadian Pacific Packing Co., have placed two new sizes of the "Flagship" brand canned salmon on the Toronto market, making now four sizes in all of this brand on this market. The new sizes are pound and half-pound "squats." The two sizes already on the market are one pound flats and one pound talls. The fish in the "squats" is larger in diameter than that in the tall tins. The packages are both attractive and handsome. Davidson & Hay are handling these goods on the Toronto market.

HOW HE BETRAYED HIMSELF.

BY RAMBLER.

"WELL," said a grocer to me the other day, "what do you think of Mr. —?"

"I hardly know," I replied. "Lately I have begun to think that he does not know as much about teas as I thought he did."

"Well, I'll tell you what I think," said the grocer. "I think he is an over-rated man."

"How is that?" I asked.

"I will tell you in a few minutes," he replied. "A few days ago I bought a half-chest of tea which I considered good value at 25c. a pound. Mr. — came in shortly after. I had been in the habit of buying most of my tea from him. So I showed a sample of the tea to him and asked him to give me an honest opinion of what it was worth, and what he could match it for. He took it up, looked at it, blew in it, and marked on a piece of paper 16c. I thought I had been badly sold, but never said a word. Another tea traveler came in and I asked his opinion. After trying it carefully he said that if I got it for 24c. I would have got it cheap. I told him what I gave for it, and he told me that it was cheap at that. He quoted within the mark. I felt better satisfied, but I came to the conclusion that if Blank could not tell within nine cents the value of tea, he knew nothing about it, and if he did know he was not what he pretended to be."

IN RETAILERS' DOMAIN.

H LAVROCK, of Hamilton, formerly in business in Port Elgin, was visiting old friends in the latter place recently.

Ballantyne & Co., Tiverton, have bought the stock of H. Zant, Port Elgin. The stock has been removed to Tiverton.

Dunke & Co., Elmira, have bought the stock of Wing & Master, New Dundee, and are selling it off in the latter place.

Kelly & Co., Plattsville, advertise that they are selling out and retiring from business.

F. W. Chapman, of Cannington, has a nice and attractive display of fruits in his windows. Mr. Chapman is doing a nice trade.

James Maylor & Son, Forest, have renovated and enlarged their mammoth department store. Among the improvements are new plate-glass windows and electric lights. James Maylor & Son are said to have one of the finest stores in the country, and certainly the best in the county.

Russell & Watson, of Guelph, have bought out the grocery business of J. Hall. The business before was under the name of Watson Bros. This store was formerly occupied by John A. Wood, who retired some years ago, and the store has always been the headquarters for a high-class trade.

Guelph is keeping up with the times. We notice several merchants in the grocery line are having their stores thoroughly renovated.

Millman & Scott, of Guelph, have had their store turned upside down, as it were. It has been newly painted and decorated, and is ready for a big business. The firm has about as fine a store as you will see west of Toronto. Millman & Scott lately succeeded Fielding & McLaren.

George Williams, of Guelph, is moving into splendid new premises, and the way the new store is arranged and fitted up will, when fully completed, be a credit to the city.

C. H. Gerbig, of Ayr, bought a stock (general) at Brantford, and is selling it off there. His general store at Ayr is going on as usual.

John Uttley, groceries, etc., of Elmira, is dead. He was greatly respected, and will be very much missed in Elmira. The business will probably be offered for sale.

Jackson & Son (late Jackson & Hallett), Guelph, have had extensive alterations made—store is nicely decorated and new front put in, also plate-glass windows. This is an old-established business, and does a large jobbing trade as well as retail. Mr. Jackson, jr., was with Lightbound, Ralston, of Montreal, for several years, and has had experience in other large houses, so the firm is always found "quite up to date."

NEW FIRM FOR CANNINGTON.

Cannington is to have a new firm added to its list of merchants. Philp & May is its name. Both members of the firm are known to the mercantile community. Mr. Thomas Philip was for some years a member of the firm of Brandon Bros., retiring therefrom some six months ago. Mr. J. T. V. May was until recently a member of the firm of May & Chapman. Philp & May's place of business will be in W. G. Smith's old store in Cameron street. The firm will carry a full line of groceries, confectionery, flour, feed, hardware and woodenware. And the spring the firm will devote attention to the seed trade. The premises are spacious both in regard to store and warehouse. The store has plate glass fronts. Groceries, etc., will be allotted to one side of the store and hardware, etc., to the other. The new firm will open its doors to the public on Saturday, 16th inst., and THE CANADIAN GROCER hopes that success will crown its efforts. The members of the firm were in Toronto this week purchasing their stock.

EGGS IN CASKS.

Eggs are now imported into Britain from Russia, shelled, beaten up, and preserved in hermetically sealed tins, from which they are drawn off through a tap. Eggs in this condition are principally used by pastry cooks, and the advantages claimed for the system are freedom from damage in transport and long-keeping qualities. The tin or drum is packed with straw in a wooden case, and holds the contents of 1,000 to 1,500 eggs, the white and yolk being mixed together, poured into the drum, and the aperture closed with a bung and sealed. Great care is said to be necessary in selecting the eggs to be preserved, as one bad one will spoil the whole cask or drum.

GRAPE FOOD.

NEAR Los Gato, according to an exchange, is a curious factory, said to be the only one of its kind in the world. It is a factory for the making of grape food, and is devoted to the extracting and concentrating, but not fermenting, of grape juice. During the season it consumes 50 tons of grapes every day, and produces 100,000 gallons of juice, concentrated to one-fourth of its original bulk. The ingenious process by which this is accomplished is simplicity itself. A small but constant stream of fresh juice flows into the upper end of a copper cylinder two feet in diameter and 19 feet long, which is inclined at a slight angle, and revolves slowly in a hot water jacket that keeps it heated to 150 degrees. The juice forms a film on the interior of the cylinder, the heat evaporates all water from it, and the vapor is drawn off as soon as formed by great exhaust fans that make 300 revolutions per minute. The juice occupies just sixty seconds in passing through the cylinder, and finally trickles from its lower end in a warm syrupy stream, robbed of none of its original elements or properties save three times its bulk of water. The grapes used in such enormous quantities in this interesting factory, both red and white, are wine grapes, which, as the tourist observer soon discovers, are very different from raisin grapes, the former containing the more juice and the latter the most saccharine matter. One of the most surprising things about a raisin vineyard is the small size of its vines, which, being cut back every year, are rarely more than two or three feet high, and the great size of the bunches. These, when fully ripe, are cut and laid in shallow trays between the rows of vines, where, without the addition of any sugar, they are allowed to dry in the sun until they become raisins, which is all there is to the process. The most surprising thing of all is the discovery that all raisin grapes are white grapes, until they are all turned purple in drying, which is hard to realize, but is nevertheless a fact.

SUDDEN DEATH OF A GROCER.

Mr. Findley McNeil, of Wellington street, London, Ont., died on Saturday last. Mr. McNeil was feeling somewhat unwell the previous day, but was around in the afternoon attending to his business affairs as usual, and went home about 5.30. After tea his condition became worse, but nothing serious was anticipated until shortly before 1 o'clock, when a severe attack of heart failure seized him. It resulted fatally in a few minutes. Deceased was a native of Scotland, and was born 56 years ago. He came to London when about 21 years of age, and for five years or more conducted a brickyard in Westminster. After abandoning this business, he removed to the city, and started a grocery in the southern end of the city, which he owned up to the time of his death, and which was very successful. Mr. McNeil leaves a wife, but no children.

FIRST TWO SALMON SHIPS.

The first two ships of this year's salmon fleet have sailed for Liverpool. The Wythorp, 1,248 tons, on Oct. 10, with 58,583 cases, valued at $309,671, and the Van Galen on Oct. 12, with 62,743 cases, valued at $345,086. The Ladas and Sardhana are also loading, but will not get away for some time yet. The canners are busy preparing their output for shipment and winding up the season's operations.—B. C. Commercial Journal, Oct. 15.

UNITED STATES APPLE CROP.

THE crop in the principal States in 1889, as reported by the census in 1894, as determined by market movement, and in 1895 as estimated by American Agriculturist, is presented in the following statement:

	1895. Bbls.	1894. Bbls.	1889. Bbls.
Maine.....	790,000	1,080,000	1,228,000
New Hampshire.....	985,000	1,974,000	1,313,000
Vermont.....	550,000	946,000	505,000
Massachusetts.....	858,000	1,320,000	676,000
Connecticut.....	785,000	999,000	798,000
New York.....	6,375,000	5,918,000	3,398,000
Pennsylvania.....	5,550,000	4,264,000	3,021,000
Ohio.....	6,450,000	2,871,000	5,515,000
Michigan.....	3,750,000	5,815,000	5,261,000
Indiana.....	3,307,000	1,086,000	3,514,000
Illinois.....	3,972,000	1,991,000	3,840,000
Missouri.....	3,864,000	1,974,000	3,479,000
All others.....	28,400,000	26,500,000	24,694,000
Total.....	66,256,000	57,629,000	57,242,000

An examination of this table shows, says The Agriculturist, that the New England crop this year is little more than half that of '94, and smaller than in '89. In New York and Pennsylvania it is a third larger than last year and double that of '89. The Ohio crop is two and a quarter times larger than last year, while the Michigan crop is less than two-thirds as large as in '94. The most remarkable gains over last year's production are noted in Indiana, Illinois and Missouri.

Canada as a whole has not been favored with an abundant crop for several years, although exceptional localities have borne well. This is true regarding the '95 crop, with a material shortage in much of Ontario. In the Annapolis Valley, the apple-growing section of Nova Scotia, a fairly good crop has been harvested, including both fall and winter varieties, the latter being fine in quality and adapted to the export trade. Early shipments from that province, however, shared no better fate than did those from the States, as England was well supplied with home-grown and Continental fruit. Considerable quantities of Nova Scotia apples are drifting into Boston, partly on commission, and providing the market is right may be eventually re-exported to England. Indicating the distribution of the crop of Canada and the lower Maritime Provinces in former seasons is the following statement of Canadian exports of apples, in barrels, for year ending June 30:

	1895.	1894.	1893.
Ontario.....	276,678	148,344	582,935
Quebec.....	284,669	65,587	483,839
Nova Scotia.....	285,838	55,566	119,209
New Brunswick.....	5,581	5,726	1,489
Manitoba.....	46	9	11
British Columbia.....	30	21	172
P. E. Island.....	226	6	10
Total.....	853,268	278,238	1,187,665

evenly distributed, and it is an exception rather than the rule to find a state with a positive deficiency. England is about our only foreign customer. Up to late autumn that country is supplied with fruit from the liberal home yields and from the continent of Europe, including Holland and Belgium, which have very large crops; France, which turned off fair quantities, Germany and Italy, with at least sufficient crops of their own to make it improbable that they will need to import many, and may possibly send a few to the United Kingdom, as they do usually. The fruit, however, is autumn stock, and once out of the way should enable American exporters to ship more freely to England. Business of this character is so far only a third that of a year ago, which, by the way, was an exceptionally big year, the United States and Canada together exporting 1,500,000 barrels, against less than 200,000 barrels from the crop of the previous year. Canada and the lower Maritime Provinces together will no doubt eventually find a good many apples for export, in spite of the uneven yield, and these, partly through superior selections and packing, will compete sharply with American apples. Latest advices, however, report an increased interest in leading English and Scotch markets, with an outlook for better figures. Showing the drafts made upon the various surplus countries for British consumption is the following table of English imports of apples, in bushels, in 1894:

United States.....	1,441,657	Italy.....	7,775
Germany.....	50,492	Channel Islands	7,199

WINNIPEG RETAIL ASSOCIATION.

Another special meeting of the Retail Association was held the other night. The committee that had in its care the nullifying of the clothiers' petition to the City Council were given a hearty vote of thanks for the work they had done in securing the withdrawal of the names of Messrs. White & Manahan, S. D. Deegan, James Dresser, J. Goldstein, Burke Bros., and Rodgers Bros. from the petition, thus making it non-effective.

The question of civic elections came up for discussion and occupied the remainder of the evening. It was the general opinion that the retailers ought to take an active interest in securing the election of suitable aldermen, and that the Ward Four seat at least should be occupied by a good business man. This subject will be further debated at the regular meeting to be held next Tuesday evening, when it is hoped there will be a large attendance of members.

Any person engaged in the retail business in the city will be welcomed to membership of the association.

ADVERTISEMENTS IN COINS.

A Detroit, Michigan, dispatch says: A merchant in the interior of the State has evolved a novel advertising scheme, but is in some doubt as to his right to use it. The plan is to stick a round paster on the back of a silver dollar, setting forth in catchy language something to this effect.

"Send or bring me back to the store of—where I'm worth $1.05."

Assistant District-Attorney Wilkins has received a letter from the originator of the novel plan in which he set forth his system in detail, and asked if there is any provision of the Treasury Department against it. Mr. Wilkins looked up the question and answered that there is no statute to prevent it. He has written to the Secretary of the Treasury to ascertain if the Department has any ruling which prevents the use of United States coins for advertising purposes.

They are the most faithful companions, best watch dogs (the Standard Oil Co. use them exclusively), for they will fight until the last drop of blood in their darling little bodies in defence of their master or his property. No rats can live where they are. They are excellent dogs for the woods, and very fond of the water.

DROPS FROM THE EDITOR'S PEN.

Advertising is a science, and it is a profitable one.

* * *

The man behind the counter ought not to be behind the times.

* * *

Minutes spent in window dressing bear a fruitage of golden dollars.

* * *

Dating ahead is in favor of everybody but the man who does the dating.

* * *

When a foundryman fails he may be said to be in the foundering business.

* * *

Schemes to regulate trade are frequently melted by the heat of competition.

* * *

The merchant who gets the goodwill of the people is sure to secure their custom.

* * *

Because a merchant reigns in his store Clerks should not think he is a bore.

* * *

Pleasant words from behind the counter entice, like sweet music, customers to the store.

* * *

When railroad earnings increase it is evident the wheels of commerce are traveling faster.

* * *

In putting fire into the furnace it is just as well to see that the "fire" is kept up in the business.

* * *

Six dollars has been realized on a hen in St. Thomas. That must be a hen that lays golden eggs.

* * *

Why some people are merchants is an enigma to others as well as an unanswerable question to themselves.

* * *

The great powers of Europe are threatening to "roast" Turkey. The day the "cooking" takes place will be a good day for trade as well as religion.

* * *

Tea and fish should be no more close companions in the grocery store than morality and immorality in the world.

* * *

Merchants who pass off one brand of goods for another are little better than men who pass off spurious coins for genuine.

* * *

The pathway of the merchant is not all strewn with flowers: there are thistles there as well as in the pathway of the millionaire.

* * *

Free smiles from behind the counter will do much more in the way of business building than purchased "smiles" from behind the bar.

* * *

Business is business; play is play. Both are essentials, but neither should be allowed to run into the other. They do not harmonize.

* * *

Bicyclists should have no concern about the proposition to tax them. They ought to easily be able to keep ahead of the tax gatherer.

* * *

The Customs Department must have screwed up a great deal of courage when it made bold to define a coach screw as a bolt.

* * *

Canada's Indian summer may have an inspiring effect on the spirits of the people, but it scarcely has on the trade of the country.

* * *

Look after the children. Clerks who cannot condescend to wait upon the little ones are not qualified to ascend to wait upon the big ones.

* * *

It is not the men who offer themselves for parliamentary and municipal honors who are the best qualified to judge of their fitness to succeed to the aspired office. It is the men who have the power of bestowing the honors who are the best fitted to fill them.

* * *

It is just as essential that the management of the country should be in the hands of business men as is the management of a corner grocery.

* * *

Judging from the closing down of sugar refineries in the United States, it is evident that all is not joy even with the sweet things of this world.

* * *

Is it not possible that merchants said to have absconded have merely gone in search of delinquent creditors? This should be investigated.

* * *

It is said there is no truth in the rumor that the Customs Department has declared a screw of tobacco to be a bolt because some chews to bolt it.

* * *

"Dead or alive, we'll get the English market" appears to be the motto of the Canadian cattle, if my reading between the lines of the returns re shipments be correct.

* * *

The boy who tried to grab an abnormal handful of nuts found his hand caught in the jug; merchants who try to grab inordinate profits find themselves in the jug.

* * *

It is evident from the many visits of burglars to merchants' stores that there are some people who believe that the business men of the country are not as poor as they sometimes profess to be.

* * *

A man ought not to go abroad before he has an acquaintanceship with his own country. A Canadian who has traveled over his own country is not likely to come back from a foreign trip with any less pride in the Dominion.

THE TRADE OUTLOOK.

THE following additional reports regarding trade prospects appeared in the last issue of The Dry Goods Review :

ONTARIO.

GUELPH.—Crops, fair. Fall wheat and hay, very poor. Oats, peas and potatoes, good yield, but present low prices make returns to farmers unsatisfactory. Low prices of live stock, for which this section is noted, are also against profit to farmers. The business outlook on the whole, we think, is fair, and somewhat better than last year. With caution, a reasonably profitable business may be expected. Local city trade is good, as factories have kept hands employed steadily, with few exceptions. The greatest hesitancy to spend money is on the part of the farmers. Collections we have little personal experience of, as our business is principally, if not totally, cash, but we are told that it is very difficult to collect accounts. Guelph is not a "boomed" town, but enjoys a steady, fairly profitable trade without very serious fluctuations, and with plenty of competition to ensure customers getting goods "cheap."—E. R. BOLLERT & CO.

WINDSOR.—The condition of the crops is good. Corn is one of the heaviest for years. Wheat and oats, above the average. Garden produce, very abundant. Dairy products command good prices. Fruits, especially small fruits, were plentiful. Grapes, not up to average owing to early frost. The outlook is very favorable so far. Trade has shown a marked increase over last year in September and October. As we do a cash trade we cannot say how collections are. Building operations have been rather slow here this season, a number of workmen being out of employment.—PEDDIE & CO.

KINGSTON.—Crops in the vicinity were good, with the exception of hay, which has proved a failure. This, coupled with the low price of cheese, will have a bad effect on many farmers around here, who have been depending on cheese and butter and gradually accumulating stock. At the present price of hay, and at the higher prices most likely to rule during the later autumn and winter, it will be impossible for many to winter their stock. Prices for cattle have, in consequence, fallen to a very low figure. Prices for all grains are exceptionally low : Oats, 23c. a bushel ; barley, 33c. ; peas, about 50c. So, taken in all, there is very little money in sight for the farmer around here for some time to come. In regard to collections among the farmers, we cannot speak from personal experience, as we do a cash trade, but from what we can learn from those who do a credit trade, money is coming in freely, better, in fact, than was expected. In regard to the city trade, it will hardly be information to state that this is one of the towns suffering greatly from over-competition in the dry goods trade. For a number of years a steady fight has gone on between the dealers doing a legitimate business and the supply accounts. Profits, as a result, have been greatly reduced, and if some of the Toronto wholesale firms follow the same tactics over the entire ground they cover that they do here, we will watch developments with a great deal of interest.—JOHN LAIDLAW & SON.

MANITOBA.

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE.—Crops, very good and free from frost. Wheat is the principal, and, besides, good crops of barley and oats. Potatoes are a heavy crop. It is expected a good trade will be done in this section up to date. There is some improvement over last season. Farmers are just beginning to sell grain. Collections are expected to be much better, although a good few farmers are away behind, and those will need assistance still. There is a better feeling here, and if business houses were more conservative business would pay better.—JAMES ROBERTSON, Manager H. B. Co.

MARITIME PROVINCES.

SYDNEY, C. B.—The hay crop was not over 75 per cent. Other crops, very good. Scarcity of hay will affect local trade, as our farmers will have to purchase a large quantity in order to keep up their stock. I do not feel over sanguine about fall and winter trade. This section, as you may be aware, is a coal-producing country. In former years we enjoyed a large amount of trade from the different coal mines. Now, the proprietors of these mines have large stores of their own, and supply not only their own employees but many others, and hence our trade has fallen off to that extent.—Money appears to be scarce and collections slow.—A. G. MCLEAN, of Ingraham & McLean.

LUNENBERG, N.S.—The season has been very dry, consequently the hay crop is below the average. Cereals are very fair, but the apple crop is short. Potato and root crops are very good. The trade of our town depends largely upon the success of the fisheries. The catch of bank fish is above the average, but in consequence of the dullness of the West Indies markets the prices are low. Should there be a rise in prices we might look for a good fall and winter trade, with a prospect of a possible collection of many back bills.—J. JOSEPH RUDOLF.

WINDSOR, N.S.—The crops this season have been above the average, with the exception of hay, which was very light in some sections. The principal industries which affect local trade are the plaster quarries, cotton factory, furniture factory, iron foundry, farming, lumbering and shipping. The outlook for fall and winter trade is only fair. The factories are running full time, but money seems scarce and collections are very slow, owing in a great measure to the large amount of capital invested in shipping, from which very small dividends are derived. Freights are very low and difficult to secure in consequence of steamers having taken the place of sailing vessels to a great extent, and our farmers find it hard to obtain a market for their produce.—GEO. D. GELDERT.

YARMOUTH, N.S.—Crops have all been fair—blueberries, apples, potatoes, and vegetable crops generally. Potatoes are too low to be grown at a profit. Matters have been moving slowly through summer and autumn. Fishermen, as a whole, have not done well. Too many adroit commercial men on the road ; too many goods sold to country dealers who have not, as a rule, firmness to say they will not buy and stick to it. This, together with the foreign pedlar nuisance, is the curse of this end of the Dominion.—J. D. DENNIS.

QUEBEC.

HULL.—Pray excuse the delay in answering your question as to how we found trade. The fact is, we have had so much to do that it was quite impossible for us to give you in time for your Fall Number, as you desired and we wished to have done, the brief and hurried synopsis given below, but if this is of any use to you now and of any use to your readers, you are quite welcome to it. Trade is always fairly good with us the year round, as we have branches and agencies in all the principal towns from the Atlantic to the Pacific, so that when it is dull at one end of the Dominion the chances are that there is something lively going on at the other end. August was a very fair month in all lines ; September was better, but October promises to be the best, and it looks as if the latter half of 1895 would be much better than the first half.—THE E. B. EDDY CO., LIMITED.

DECREASE OF SALT SHIPMENTS.

The last eight months have shown a great falling off in the exports of salt from Liverpool to the East Indies, and the statistics as given in Mr. Henry Ingram Thompson's monthly list exhibit a truly lamentable condition of affairs. A decrease of nearly 40 per cent. in the salt shipments from Liverpool to Calcutta is shown. The total tonnage of salt sent from the Mersey to Calcutta during the first eight months of the present year was only 127,766 tons, as compared with 197,689 tons forwarded during the first eight months of 1894. This 70,000 tons decrease was compensated for in some slight measure by an increase of shipments to Chittagong, since 19,586 tons were despatched to that port, compared with 2,950 tons between January 1 and August 31, 1894. Other ports have suffered as well as Liverpool as regards Calcutta shipments, though not to the same extent, the total tonnage forwarded from other ports during the last eight months being 58,453 tons, compared with 79,510 tons in the first eight months of last year.

DOMINION TRAVELERS MEET.

THE quarterly meeting of the Dominion Commercial Travelers' Association was held last Saturday in Montreal. Lieut.-Col. F. Massey, of the Gurney-Massey Co., was in the chair, and there was a large attendance of members.

The president opened the meeting with a few remarks, in which he referred to the excellent standing of the association, and to the increasing number of members. It was a brief resume of the work of the quarter, and in which the speaker took occasion to refer to the death of the late Ald. Hurteau, a member of the association, in a feeling manner.

The nomination of officers, to be elected at the next annual meeting, was then taken up. Lieut. Col. Massey was re-elected president for the ensuing year by acclamation, as was also Fred. Birks to the position of treasurer.

Max. Murdock and R. G. Stokes were then nominated for the office of vice-presidents, and the following gentlemen for the directorate: W. Brewster, John T. Dwyer, Robt. Thomson, J. T. Le Seur, E. B. Garneau, Henry Miles, T. L. Paton, Charles H. Cochrane and David Watson, Jr.

The president remarked that, at the last meeting of the directors, it had been considered the best plan that Messrs. Riddell and Common should be appointed scrutineers of the election. The meeting gave its consent to this. The custom adopted by the Board of Trade in its elections was also adopted by the association. The key of the ballot box, which is to receive the voting papers, is given into the hands of the scrutineers, who will open the box in time to declare the results at the annual meeting.

Messrs. Baird and Beauchamp were then appointed to superintend the mailing of voting papers to out-of-town members on Saturday next. The ballot box, it was decided, should, as usual, be closed on the afternoon preceding the annual meeting, at five o'clock.

"Are we to have our annual dinner or not?" asked the president, and this important subject was then discussed. That the annual dinner should be held as usual was the immediate decision of the meeting. Nominations for the dinner committee to have charge of arrangements were then made as follows: J. H. Morin, David Watson, N. Tucker, F. Hughes, A. S. Campbell, G. Piche, T. L. Paton, J. T. Dwyer, W. Wonham, Chas. Gurd and R. G. Dubord, Quebec. It was then decided that this dinner should be held in the Windsor on Monday, the 23rd of December. This is a change from the usual Saturday night, and, as most of the members will be in off the road during the holidays, a very large attendance is expected.

The date and place of the annual meeting was then discussed. The secretary wished it, for business reasons, to be not later than the 14th of December. This date, Saturday, 14th of December, was unanimously decided upon. The question of the place was then discussed, and the choice lay between the new hall in the Masonic Temple and the Fraser Hall. The cheaper of these two meeting places will probably be chosen.

Several notices of motion were then read: One from D. Watson on a proposed change in the constitution and regarding the educational fund; another, from Mr. Tucker, was for a change in the present voting system. Mr. Piche wanted all the past presidents of the association to be members of the Board of Directors, ex officio. Mr. Murdock gave notice of motion that holders of conditional certificates be not entitled to accident benefits, while Mr. T. L. Paton did the same with regard to the making of a new by-law concerning the benefit fund. The meeting was then open to general discussion. A meeting that was conspicuous for the business-like manner in which everything was dealt with was brought to a close at an early hour.

OTTAWA GOSSIP.

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.

THE Board of Customs, whose province it is to determine knotty points of construction in the complex wording of our tariff law, was in session here for three days last week. I have it on good authority that several decisions of moment to the importing trades were arrived at, and that the promulgation of these rulings will tend to a greatly needed uniformity in Customs rulings at the several ports.

But when these decisions will be made public is a problem I have not yet been able to fathom. After formal adoption by the Board they have to be submitted to the Controller for his approval; and that is where the uncertainty comes in. Mr. Wallace has political as well as departmental duties to perform, and the demands of the former are said to be pressing the more heavily upon him just now. At all events, the report of the Board was handed to him on Saturday last, and on Monday, when he left for Toronto, he had not set the seal of his official sanction upon half the items it contained.

Apropos of this sitting of the Customs Board, it may not be uninteresting to observe to what extent the views expressed in Parliament last session have prevailed in determining its composition. It will be remembered that very strong representations were made by the Board of Trade of Montreal upon the necessity of reconstructing the Board so as to have it composed of five members, each member an expert in one of the principal branches of trade, such as dry goods, groceries, hardware, chemicals and the like. These views found equally strong expression in the course of the debate upon the bill. Mr. Wallace opposed the proposition on the ground, mainly, that such a system would practically leave the decision of any particular question of valuation to the determination of the one expert in that branch of trade. He was able also to quote the deliverances of the Toronto and Ottawa Boards of Trade in opposition to the Montreal men's proposal. The Amendment Bill passed, and a few days before the meeting the composition of the Board was announced as follows: Commissioner Kilvert, chairman; George W. Jessop, assistant Dominion appraiser, secretary; Robert W. Breadner, chief check clerk; T. F. Blackwood, Dominion appraiser; S. W. McMichael, inspector of ports, Toronto, and John Thomson, appraiser, Hamilton. The Board is thus equally constituted of inside and outside officials of the Customs Department.

Canadian whisky seems to be growing in favor in foreign countries. In the last fiscal year 117,218 gallons were exported, which is 41,120 gallons more than were exported the year before, and more than double the exports of 1893. The total production of spirits in Canada also increased enormously last year, the quantity turned out being 2,605,787 proof gallons against 1,608,344. To produce this the distillers used 22,555 tons of grain, about 16,000 tons of which consisted of Indian corn.

The quantity of spirits taken out of excise warehouse for consumption was 2,509,019 gallons, about 240,000 gallons less than the previous year. There was placed in warehouse 2,803,410 gallons, or a million gallons more than in 1894, although the quantity remaining in bond at the end of the year, 11,434,857 gallons, is slightly less than the quantity so held at the close of 1894. The consumption of spirits, beer and tobacco per head of the population shows a considerable reduction. The per capita consumption was 66 gallons, against 71 in 1894; beer, 3.47 gallons, against 3.72 gallons; tobacco, 2.16 pounds against 2.26 pounds. The revenue per head derived from these articles was: On spirits, $1.12, against $1.23 in 1894; on beer, 16c. against 20c.; on tobacco, 64c. against 68c.

In May last a duty of $1.14 per cwt. was imposed on refined sugar, and of 50c. per cwt. on raw sugar. The Finance Minister estimated that this would increase the revenue during the fiscal year by about $1,200,000. The trade returns for the three months ended Sept. 30 show that the duties upon sugar yielded just about $180,452 in Customs revenue. The effect of the duty upon the volume of importation is shown by the fact that during the first quarter of the current financial year sugar was imported to the value of $667,181, while in the first quarter of the fiscal year 1894-5, when raw sugar was free, the importations amounted to $2,114,953 worth. The increase in the duty on spirits, from $2.12½ to $2.25 per gallon, which was also imposed for revenue purpose purely, has not at all operated in a similarly restrictive manner. In the September quarter of last year spirits were imported to the value of $188,333, yielding $386,158 in revenue. During the quarter ended Sept. 30th. 1895, importations of spirits reached $203,700 worth, yielding a Customs revenue of $437,487.

Under the new tariff of Bermuda all vegetables from Canada, except potatoes, will have to pay a steep Customs duty. A curious feature of our trade with that island is that each imports onions from the other. About this time of year large quantities of Canadian onions are usually exported to Bermuda. In spring, when the Bermuda crop is available, we import onions from the island to quite a considerable extent.

Mr. Joseph Kavanagh, one of the capital's leading grocers, is president of the Ottawa Board of Trade, and stands a good chance of re-election to that important office next month. Mr. Kavanagh is at present in Buffalo, having been in Toronto in the interests of the Ottawa Ship Canal scheme, of which he is one of the leading promoters.

OF LIVELY INTEREST TO CANADA.

CUBA is framing a new tariff as well as fighting over the question of government.

What the changes are, if any are proposed, THE CANADIAN GROCER is not cognizant.

Canada's trade with the island does not amount to a great deal, but as we are trying to cultivate business in the West Indian Islands there is a certain amount of interest to Canadians in the fact that Cuba proposes to readjust its tariff.

Our aggregate trade with the Spanish West Indies is $3,769,392, the imports being valued at $2,438,251 and the exports at $1,331,141. The returns do not give the returns for Cuba alone, but, outside Porto Rico, Spain has now no important possession in the West Indies.

What the Spanish possessions in the West Indies do take from us is well distributed over different products, so that any change in the Cuban tariff is likely to affect in some way our trade with that country. For instance, in 1894 the Spanish West Indies took coal to the value of $7,641. Their purchases of codfish aggregated $958,507; pickled mackerel, $20,188; pickled herring, $51,783; smoked herring, $4,162; pickled sea-fish, $2,265; canned lobster, $750. Of products of the forest they took: Laths, $321; planks and boards, $173,673; staves, $1,529; masts and spars, $187; piling, $191; shingles, $709; shooks, $5,283. Horses they purchased from Canada to the value of $2,220. They took $10 worth of poultry, probably to keep the horses company in Cuban barnyards. Canadian cheese they took to the value of $83. They heard of the world's championship this country won at the World's Fair, and probably wanted to ascertain for themselves what the famous Canadian cheese was like. Their custom may be expected to increase for this commodity. In agricultural products they took:

Green apples, $618; flour, $3,146; hay, $338; potatoes, $86,109. In manufactured products they took from us: Carriages, $525; drugs, $320; explosives, $1,000; stoves, $296; machinery, $4,208; ale and beer, $1,052; whisky, $1,182, (and we even sent them $183 worth of sugar, presumably for their whisky); ships, $2,500; manufactures of wood, $694.

A comparison of the returns for the past fiscal year with those of 1890 shows a somewhat satisfactory result. Our aggregate trade now is $825,719 more valuable than it was then, and not only that, but an analysis of the returns reveals the fact that the Canadian goods going into these colonies of Spain are becoming more diversified. Flour, for instance, we did not send a dollar's worth in of 1890. Neither did we in 1893. Flour is one of the principal imports of Cuba. Up to the time it entered into treaty relations with the United States, practically all its flour came from Spain. After that, however, the United States still supplied her needs in this respect. And although the treaty between these two countries has been abrogated, the latter still has the field in the matter of flour. The reason is that the bakers in Cuba have learned by experience that the United States article is immensely superior to that from Spain. And as Canadian flour is equal in quality to that made in the United States, we ought to experience an increased trade with Cuba in this commodity. If we do not, we may charge it to the packages in which our millers ship their flour, and not to the flour itself.

While the reciprocity treaty between the Spanish possessions in the West Indies obtained, a preferential tariff against the rest of the world being in force, the tendency was naturally to retard the development of Canada's trade with these possessions, but in spite of this there has been a steady development, the aggregate last year being $3,769,392, or over one million larger than in 1893. It must be remembered, however, that there was not the preferential treaty to contend with during the latter half of the fiscal year, 1894, that instrument having been abrogated in the January of that year.

Our trade with the Spanish West Indies last year slightly exceeded that with Newfoundland, and exceeds that with France, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Holland, Belgium, South America, China and Japan and Switzerland. It is therefore natural that we should take a lively interest in any contemplated changes in the Cuban tariff. It is to be hoped the Dominion Government is on the qui vive.

THE TAX ON WINE PACKAGES.

According to a legal opinion obtained from a well-known Queen's counsel in Montreal by the Chamber of Commerce, the Customs authorities cannot collect the tax of 20 per cent. on wine packages brought in under the new French treaty.

The Council has transmitted the opinion to the Minister of Trade and Commerce and the Controller of Customs for their decision in the matter. It now remains for either the Customs people or some individual importer to test the legality of the tax in the courts.

It is possible the Customs authorities may be acting within their legal right. But they are unquestionably acting contrary to the spirit of the treaty. And most people will probably coincide with the opinion of the legal gentleman called in by the Chamber of Commerce to the effect that in a legal sense as well as in the spirit Canada has not lived up to the treaty.

A CLOCK ON FRONT STREET.

That there may be no excuse for advertisers not having their advertisements in on time, we have placed in the window of the Toronto office of THE CANADIAN GROCER an electric clock which will have direct communication with the sun, moon and stars. We also hold the patent right for "time" on Front street, but we do not propose to collect royalty from those making use of it.

We propose that this time-piece shall be as reliable in its information as the paper that placed it there, and this means a good deal. One sure thing: the office boy will not monkey with it.

THE ST. JOHN SUBSIDY.

IT is to be hoped that the Ottawa Cabinet will fulfil its promise and consider, and that well, the memorial of the St. John, N.B., deputation for a $25,000 annual subsidy for a fast line of steamers between St. John and England during the winter months. The circumstances demand it.

THE CANADIAN GROCER believes that subsidies to steamship lines have not always been wisely given. But here is an instance where, it seems to us, it would be wiser to grant than to refuse a subsidy.

St. John has an excellent harbor, which, in turn, is in touch, through the C. P. R., with all parts of Canada. But St. John has not a fast steamship line such as plies from United States ports. Consequently much Canadian freight and many Canadian passengers leave by American ports.

Had she the desired fast line, St. John would undoubtedly get much of the freight and passenger traffic that now goes by way of foreign ports during the winter months.

Aside, however, from that phase of the matter, it must be remembered that a fast line running out of St. John means augmented shipping facilities for the Canadian exporters west of that port.

Another thing not to be forgotten is that if the line in whose behalf the subsidy is asked receives it, its headquarters will be transferred from Boston to a Canadian port.

With the St. Lawrence open, Canada is bad enough off when compared with the United States, but in the winter, when that route is closed, comparison between the Atlantic services of the two countries is odious.

On the principle of increasing the facilities of the winter ports of Canada, the Dominion Government should comply with the request of the deputation from St. John.

THE CHEESE SITUATION.

THE past eight or ten days have witnessed a lull in the export demand for cheese, and the market at present is passing through a quiet spell.

This is not surprising considering the free movement of goods during the last three weeks or so.

Buyers in England, having supplied themselves for future wants for some time ahead, are not urgent, and therefore not averse to a decline in prices on this side of the Atlantic which would enable them to secure late made cheese at lower prices. It is doubtful, however, if they will do so, for holders are not anxious to sell. The latter consider their purchases of fall-made cheese good property. It cost fully 9 to 9½c. in Montreal, and they want a profit on that basis and are prepared to hold it for the time being to see whether they can make it or not. Nominally, therefore, though the market may be called lower, as it would take a concession to effect a turnover now, it is not actually so.

Two facts this week which have furnished buyers with an argument are the offers of 25,000 boxes, the entire make of the season on Prince Edward Island, and the damage by smoke and water to 20,000 boxes of cheese in Hill's cold storage warehouse in Montreal.

The Prince Edward cheese is being offered to exporters in Montreal, and it is quite likely that some of the damaged goods, after they are adjudicated upon, will also be offered for sale on this side.

This makes a block of 45,000 boxes put up for sale, and the fact, no doubt, has a good deal to do with the efforts of buyers this week to establish a lower range of prices. It seems hardly possible, however, that they will be successful in doing so.

Holders of cheese have many arguments that they can bring forward. One is the undeniable fact that Canadian cheese will have to fill a much larger void than usual in the English market this winter.

It will be noted that the ruling prices on cheese across the lines are fully ½c. per lb. higher than the current quotations in Canada.

This has never been the case before, and simply means that the home demand in the States is consuming nearly all the make. The enormous decrease in the exports from New York this season clearly demonstrates this fact.

English buyers will have to depend largely on Canadian cheese, therefore; and when it is considered that the price is 1c. per pound less than it was last year, it is not astonishing if holders are disposed to hang on for better figures. With regard to supplies in Canada, they are not going to be too heavy after all, for the cold-storage cheese, we have good reason for knowing, has been melting away pretty rapidly of late. Any estimate of the stock in Montreal is pure guess work, but it may be remarked that the rates as posted on 'Change since the 1st of May foot up the total of 1,806,000 odd boxes. Against these there have been shipments of 1,574,000 boxes, which would give a residue of 200,000 odd boxes.

APPLES FOR FRANCE.

Dawson & Co. this week shipped a consignment of Canadian winter apples to Paris, France.

Inasmuch as France grows a lot of apples, which compete largely with our own fruit on the British market, this shipment is a rather remarkable one.

According to the Trade and Navigation Returns, the sum total of our exports of green apples to France amounted to three barrels, valued at seven dollars, or three barrels and seven dollars worth more than in 1893.

As apples is one of the Canadian commodities which, under the treaty, is subject to the minimum instead of the maximum tariff, it is possible that we may be able to develop a trade of respectable proportions with France in some varieties of apples. The difference between the minimum and the maximum tariff is one franc, or equal to twenty cents.

A GROCER DISAPPEARS.

Retail grocers generally in Montreal, and his many friends and acquaintances, have been much mystified by the sudden disappearance of Duncan Stewart, grocer, Mountain and St. Antoine street.

Mr. Stewart is well known in Montreal Scottish circles, and he is chief steward of the Clan McLennan. His friends believe that Mr. Stewart, who was of a very sensitive nature, has magnified business difficulties until he drove himself into fleeing from them.

In consequence of his disappearance Judge Archibald has granted the petition of Geo. McGarry, asking that the absent merchant be required to attend a meeting of his creditors on Nov. 14th.

The business is now in the hands of J. McD. Hains, accountant, who will prepare a statement for the meeting in question.

SHORT ON SELECTED RAISINS.

WHOLESALE grocers who this season followed the usual course in regard to Valencia raisins are not dollars in pocket thereby.

As the trade is perfectly aware, the highest priced raisins, as a rule, are those which first arrive on the market. This season, however, the experience has been the opposite.

Long before a raisin reached the Canadian market advices from Denia stated that the crop would likely be 50 per cent. less than last year. This marked reduction was scarcely given credence by buyers in this country. And they did nothing to discount it, while it was possible for them to have done so. But results proved the anticipations regarding the shortage to be correct.

The realization that the crop was one-half less than usual led to the sharp advances which have characterized prices for some weeks.

But where the shoe has pinched the wholesalers more particularly is in regard to selected fruit. Following the practices of previous years, they pushed this fruit on the market at cut prices, with the result that some of them oversold, while, generally speaking, stocks of raisins were light. During the last week or two some houses in Toronto have been compelled to go among their confreres for selected raisins to fill their orders with, and, what is more, pay one cent per pound above the figures at which they had sold the goods.

Although a good many Valencia raisins have, so far, been sold this season, yet the sharp advances have apparently checked the demand to some extent.

Further shipments ex Fremona are now being passed into the warehouses, and this fact, together with the presence of California raisins, will relieve the situation, and, together with the California raisins on the market, tend to keep prices on spot from appreciating as much as they otherwise might.

CURRANTS AGAIN ADVANCE.

Currants continue to advance. A cable received on Monday announced a further appreciation in prices equal to about one-fourth of a cent per pound.

This makes the total advance from the lowest point about ¾ to ¾c. per pound.

There is still a sharp demand from France, and the market is excited. The primary cause of the strength in prices is the presence of France on the market as a buyer.

That country has not, however, been the only one that has been buying heavily of Grecian currants. The duty payments show that England has been buying liberally. Up to the beginning of the present month the duty payments in London were 1,048 tons more than in 1894—namely, 8,878 tons against 7,830 tons. Purchases on Russian and American account are also largely in excess of those in 1894.

One thing that contributes to the confidence in the situation, according to The Produce Markets' Review, is the fact that although the greater part of the currants now being bought by France for wine-making purposes will not be used till next spring, that country is still in the market as a buyer.

There is no question regarding the strength of the currant market, and at present there is nothing in sight to indicate the development of any weakness.

AFTER DEPARTMENT STORES.

THE retail grocers of Montreal have declared war upon the big departmental stores. They did so at their regular monthly meeting last week, and, whether they are successful or not, intend to make a hard fight to prevent further development of unfair competition from these big establishments.

Four of the big department stores in Montreal now handle many lines of groceries, which, the retailers contend, they sell away below cost to attract trade to other departments of their respective establishments.

At the meeting in question the recently elected president, S. D. Vallieres, presided. Previous to proceeding with the general business, he thanked the members for the honor conferred upon him, and expressed the desire that each of the present members should try and extend the membership of the association by bringing in at least one new member. He concluded by stating that he would do his humble best to follow in the footsteps of predecessors who had done so much for the association.

Then after some routine business the subject above mentioned was opened by Jno. Johnston remarking that the association should take steps to protect the trade from the unfair competition of the department stores. He noticed that they were advertising all kinds of staple grocery specialties for less than cost, instancing Crosse & Blackwell's jams, pickles, etc., at 12½c. a bottle. Something should be done, or they would lose the best part of their day trade, and if the recent early-closing by-law was enforced the consolation of night trade in the suburbs and outlying portions of the city would also be taken away from them. In fact, they would get no trade at all. He mentioned also that it was not only the departmental stores that were cutting into their trade, but the big uptown butcher shops as well were selling groceries for cost and less to draw trade. It was not so long ago that the butchers had secured the enactment of an ordinance by the City Council preventing the grocers from selling dressed poultry. He thought that the grocers in their turn should do something to protect their business.

Messrs. Raby, Hall, Levesque, Connaughton and the chairman followed in the same strain, all strongly stigmatizing the unfair competition to which they were subjected.

The first suggestion came from the president, to the effect that the City Council should be asked to impose a heavy individual tax for each separate branch of business that the department establishments were engaged in. He remarked that the municipal elections were coming on, and that it was a good time to agitate. The grocers were a political force, and the department stores were not.

Messrs. Connaughton, Levesque, Raby, Hall and Johnston did not think that a special tax would be effective. The department stores would simply laugh at any tax that could legally be imposed by the Council.

It was ultimately decided to call a special mass meeting of all the retail grocers in the city for the 4th of December next to discuss the matter.

A resolution, to the effect that the members pledge themselves to work only for candidates for the City Council who would support a by-law preventing the departmental stores and butchers' shops from selling groceries, was also adopted unanimously.

Then a committee, composed of the president, Messrs. Levesque, Hall, Johnston, Raby, Fraser, Gannon and Scanlan, were named to prepare a petition to the City Council to that effect, and secure the signature of every member of the trade to it.

Among other matters discussed was the request that the association lend its countenance to another food fair, to be held in the Drill Hall in holiday week. The absurdity of grocers attending during such a busy season caused some laughter, and the opinion was pretty generally and plainly expressed that the grocers had had enough of food fairs for a long time to come.

Wm. Rourke was nominated for membership.

ANOTHER CUSTOMS DIFFICULTY.

The wholesale grocery trade in Montreal have another serious grievance against the Customs Department.

It is a well-known fact that between seasons dried Mediterranean fruit can often be bought more advantageously in bond at London or New York than direct.

The regulations of the Customs Department, however, make it difficult for an importer to take advantage of this.

The authorities have ruled that goods bought in bond, either at London or New York, shall not be admitted the same as fruit imported direct from point of growth, but taxed at the duty-paid price, either at London or New York, as the case may be.

The hardships that this ruling imposes on the importer are easily understood, and accordingly the Grocery Section of the Montreal Board of Trade asked the council of that body to lay the matter before Controller Wallace.

This was done, and when the facts were explained to him Mr. Wallace admitted that there was justice in their contention, and made a recommendation accordingly to the Acting Commissioner of Customs.

That official, however, decided that importations in bond, either from London or New York, could not be treated under the law as direct importations, and the importers in Montreal have been so informed.

They naturally feel much disappointed over the matter, as they fully expected that the department would see their way clear to grant their request.

THE PRICE OF GAME.

Game is beginning to come into Toronto pretty freely, and venison and wild duck may be seen hanging at the doors of fruit and fish dealers and restaurants.

In fact, deer are so plentiful that dealers will pay only 5 or 6c. per lb. for venison.

As to duck, blue-bill bring 30 to 40c. per pair, and mallard 65 to 70c. per pair.

NEW COMPETITORS IN ONTARIO.

EDITOR GROCER: Our attention has just been called by one of our travelers to an article entitled "New Competitors in Ontario," which appeared in your issue of the 25th October.

Our firm has had travelers in the Province of Ontario for over eight years. This was well known; so much so, in fact, that at a meeting of the wholesale grocers in Montreal several years ago one of our confreres remarked to our senior partner that our firm should be satisfied with the business of the Province of Quebec without soliciting the Ontario trade.

From the very beginning of our career—that is, in 1842—a large proportion of our customers have been, and are still, of other nationalities than ours.

Trusting you will accept these remarks as we make them, in a friendly way, we remain,

Yours very truly,

L. CHAPUT, FILS & CIE.,

Wholesale Grocers.

Montreal, Nov. 12.

REMARKS: In writing the article referred to THE CANADIAN GROCER fell into an error, to correct which we have much pleasure in inserting Chaput, Fils & Cie.'s letter. It is only fair to add that Hudon, Hebert & Cie. have also representatives in Ontario.—THE EDITOR.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

GROCERIES.

AS one wholesaler put it, trade has "taken a dip" during the past week or ten days. True, a house here and there reports that it is well employed, but this is not the rule. Trade is not, however, what can be termed dull, but it is evidently not as brisk as wholesalers would like to see it. The drop in sugar has not induced business, the movement being as light as ever. Refiners, however, are firm at the decline. Canned goods are active, and the feeling that better prices will be seen is becoming more pronounced. There are a few syrups changing hands. Teas are not attracting much attention, but prices are firm. Shipments of dried fruit ex ss. Fremona are arriving this week, and the chief interest is wrapped around the fruit market. Currants have again advanced fractionally in the primary markets. Payments are only moderate, but little else can be expected with the farmers paying attention to their fields instead of the liquidating of their accounts.

CANNED GOODS.

Confidence in the canned vegetable situation appears to be gathering strength. Some houses are trying to get higher prices, one here and there as much as five cents per dozen more for tomatoes. There is, however, still a variety of prices, largely due to the variety of brands. Assorted lots of tomatoes, peas and corn rule at about 80c., although for peas alone 10 to 15c. per dozen more would be demanded, while corn, on the other hand, can be had at 5c. per dozen less. The ruling idea for tomatoes is 77½ to 85c.

COFFEE.

There is a fair demand for the better grades of Rio coffee. The outside markets are rather unsettled. We quote green in bags as follows: Rio, 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22½c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracaibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

SUGAR.

The decline of 1-16c. in refiners' prices has not resulted in any improvement in the demand. The demand is decidedly light, but as buyers' stocks are small, an improved business is likely soon to be felt. The opinion is that stocks are unusually light. The cause of the break in the price of Canadian refined was largely due to a fear among the refiners that one or other of their conferees would lead in cutting prices to induce business. Latest advices report London rather easy and New York firm. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, 4-35c.; do., No. 2, 4½c.; yellows, 3¼c. up.

SYRUPS.

There has been a little movement in syrups at steady to firm prices. Fair medium has changed hands on the basis of 2½c. laid down in Toronto. Bright grades run from ¾ to ¾c. per lb. more. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.: bright, 40 to 42c.

MOLASSES.

Advices from the South indicate tendency of values downward. Locally there is nothing new to note. We quote: New Orleans, barrels, 30 to 32c.; half-barrels, 33½ to 35c.; Barbadoes, barrels, 31 to 35c.; half-barrels, 33 to 37c.

TEAS.

There has been an enquiry for all grades of Ceylon teas of a flavory nature, few of which are to be had. Low grade Japans are still scarce. The same applies to China green teas. China blacks are quiet. We quote ruling prices to retailers: Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

DRIED FRUITS.

Valencia raisins continue firm at the advance, but the local demand, while good, is not as active as it was, presumably owing to the higher figures obtaining. Selected fruit has been scarce, but with the Fremona's cargo to hand stocks will be replenished. Leading brands we quote: Off-stalk, 4¼ to 4½c.; fine off-stalk, 4¼ to 5c.; selected, 6c.; layers, 6½c.

Still another advance is to be recorded in currants. A cable received on Monday announced a further appreciation equal to about ¼c. per pound, and the market is excited. We quote: Fine Filigras, in half-bbls., 4 to 4¼c.; ditto, cases, 4¼ to 4½c.; ditto, half-cases, 4½ to 4¾c.; Casalinas, cases, 5 to 5¼c.; Vostizzas, cases, 6 to 6½c.; ditto, half-cases, 6½ to 6¾c.; ditto extra fine, 6¾ to 7¼c.; ditto, half-cases, 7¼ to 7½c.

Malaga raisins for the Christmas trade are arriving this week ex ss. Fremona. We quote as before: London layers, $2.10 to $2.20; black baskets, $3 to $3.20; blue baskets, $3.50 to $3.75; choice clusters, $3.50 to $3.75; Dehesa clusters, $4.25 to $4.50; Royal clusters, $5 to $5.25.

California dried fruits are firmer. Demand here is fair, especially for loose muscatels. We quote: Loose muscatels, 4-crown, 6½c.; 3-crown, 5½c.

Cable advices from Trieste announce Bosnia prunes, 110-115's, exhausted, 95-100's in small supply, quotations for 80-85's and 70-75's firm. The cable advises those wanting the 70-75 and 80-85 sizes to order now. There are no Bosnia prunes on this market yet, and the little demand there is for the California article. We quote: California prunes, 40-50, 10 to 10½c. per lb.; 50-60 to box, 9½c. per lb.; 60-70 to box, 9c.; 70-80 to box, 8½c. per lb.; French, 5 to 6c.

GREEN FRUIT.

Trade is very fair, but without any special feature. Lemons are a trifle easier, but are not expected to go below present prices. Sorrentos and Verdillas are about out, but we see arriving Messinas and Malagas. In oranges Jamaicas are the only kind offering, and they are firm and, even if they do not go higher, will not likely come down until after Christmas at any rate. The failure of the Florida crop is the cause of the scarcity of oranges, Californias and Messinas not being due yet. Cranberries are firm and will probably maintain present quotations for some time to come. We quote: Lemons—Messina, $4.25 to $5.50 per box; Malaga, in half-chests, $8 to $9, boxes, $4 to $4.50; Oranges—Jamaicas, in boxes, $4; in bbls., $7 to $7.50; Bananas, $1 to $1.50; cocoanuts, $3.50 to $4 a sack; apples, $2.25 to $3 a barrel; grapes, 4 to 5c. per pound, and 25 to 40c. for small baskets; Malaga grapes, $6 to $7 per keg; pears, 50 to 75c.; domestic onions, 60 to 75c. per bag; Spanish onions, 50 to 65c. per small crate; sweet potatoes, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; cranberries, $10 per bbl., and $3.50 per case; butternuts, $1 per bushel; hickory nuts, $1.50 to $2 per bushel; chestnuts, $7 per bushel.

BUTTER, CHEESE, EGGS, POULTRY.

BUTTER—The keen edge has been taken off the export butter trade. If shipments to the Old Country continue to fall off as they they are now doing, butter will rule easier here. We notice that sales of creamery have been considerably limited since the higher values have been in force, the market being now largely supplied with large rolls and dairy tubs. We quote unchanged prices: Old summer dairy and store packed, 8 to 12c.; fresh prints, 16 to 17c.; fresh tubs, 15 to 17c. Fresh creamery—Tubs, 21 to 22c.; pound prints, 22 to 23c.

CHEESE—The market has no marked feature. Local buyers have paid 8¾ to 9c. for August-September Canadian makes, and 9½c. for balance of season.

EGGS—Fresh eggs remain at 16 and 17c. per doz, while pickled cannot be bought lower than 14½ to 15c.

POULTRY—Is not so plentiful this week,

POTATOES—The prices paid in the country are 14 to 15c., while in the city on the track potatoes bring 22 to 25c., and out of store 25 to 30c. The incoming of cold weather will likely stiffen prices by about 5c. a bushel, as the expense of carriage will be increased by the necessity of using heated cars.

HONEY—Strained brings 9 to 10c. per lb.; while combs go at $1.50 to $2 per doz.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

Hogs remain at last week's quotations, namely, $4.50 to $4.90, but there are no changes to speak of in products. We quote:

DRY SALTED MEATS—Long clear bacon, 6¾c. for carload lots, and 7c. for small lots; backs, 7½ to 8c.

SMOKED MEATS—Breakfast bacon, 10½c.; rolls, 7½ to 7¾c.; hams, large, 22 lbs. and over, 10c.; medium, 15 to 20 lbs., 10½c.; small hams, 11c.; pickled, 9c.; backs, 10 to 10½c.; picnic hams, 7½c.

FLOUR—Flour maintains a comparatively firm tone at last week's prices, viz.: Straight roller, $3.05 to $3.10; Manitoba, $3.90 to $4; patents, $4.15 to $4.25.

BREAKFAST FOODS—We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.20 to $3.30; rolled wheat, $2.10 in 100 lb. barrels; cornmeal, $2.90 to $3; split peas, $3.25; pot barley, $3.40.

HAY—Car lots of No. 1 Quebec hay are quoted on track at $13.50; and two-ton lots, delivered, at $14.25 to $14.50.

FISH.

As the close season for lake fish is now on, trade is rather quiet. It will wake up again after December 1, however. Standard oysters are quoted at $1.10 to $1.20, but selects remain at $1.65 to $1.75. We quote fish: Skinned and boned codfish, 6½c.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4c.; haddock, 5 to 6c.; Labrador herring, $3.25 to $3.50 per half barrel and $5.50 to $5.75 per barrel; Newfoundland herring, $2.50 per half barrel, and $4.50 to $4.75 per barrel; fresh water salt herring, $3 per barrel; blue-back herring, 3c.; pike, 6 to 7c. per lb.; flitch cod, 5c.; finnan haddies, 6½c.; Digby herring, in bundles of 5 boxes, 11c.; ditto, lengthwise, 10c.; large halibut, 12 to 15c.; Restigouche salmon, 20 to 25c.; British Columbia salmon, 12 to 16c.; mackerel, 20 to 25c.; steak cod, 6½ to 7c.; haddock, 5c.; black bass, 9 to 10½c. rice continue much the same. In dried fruit the firm feeling is well maintained on Valencia raisins, currants and prunes, all of which have been fairly active. In raisins, stocks are now almost all in second hands, and we hear of no concessions from 4c. as the inside figure for off stalk. Cable advices on Bosnia prunes and Sultana raisins this week are firm, and it would cost fully current rates to lay down additional supplies. Tea is steady, with medium Japan and black finding a ready sale wherever they are offered. Nuts are featureless except for rather firmer advices on Grenoble walnuts.

SUGAR.

Since the date of last writing an easier feeling has been shown by refined sugar in this market, the local refineries on Friday last shading prices all round 1-16c. per lb. on round lots of goods from the refineries. The fact has not had the expected effect of inducing any increase in the demand, jobbing trade ruling as quiet as ever. In this connection we now quote: Granulated, $4\frac{1}{4}$ to $4\frac{3}{4}$ c., and yellows, 3 to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c. as to grade.

SYRUPS.

The demand for syrup is slow and the market rules quiet and steady at $1\frac{1}{2}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb. as to quality. At the factory prices are $\frac{1}{8}$ c. less.

MOLASSES.

There has been no change in the molasses market, a fair distributing trade in Barbadoes being noted at 36 to 37c. and Porto Rico, 35 to 36c. as to quantity. Round lots of both kinds have been shaded 1c., but the fact is no criterion to work on, as jobbers hold their stocks firm.

COFFEE.

There is no new feature to note in the coffee market, which rules dull, and outside of a few small lots of Maracaibo at quotations very little business has been put through. We quote green bean: Maracaibo, 20 to 22c.; Rio, 19 to 20c.; Java, $24\frac{1}{2}$ to 28c.; Jamaica, 18 to 20c., and Mocha, $27\frac{1}{2}$ to 31c.

TEAS.

The tea market continues much the same. Shipments lately arrived at Tacoma for Montreal and Toronto houses are now being distributed, and have had no influence whatever on values. A round lot of gunpowder brought 18c. Business in a jobbing way is good, and Japans at 14c. are ready sellers when they can be had. Small lots of blacks and Ceylons have been moved. We quote Japans: Low grades, 14c.; medium, 15 to 18c.; fine, 20 to 22c., and choice, 25 to 32c.

DRIED FRUIT.

There is a good demand for these, and as most of the stock has been distributed and is now in second hands, prices are held very firm, nothing being obtainable even in the most ordinary stock under 4c. We quote: Ordinary off-stalk, 4 to $4\frac{1}{4}$ c.; fine off-stalk, $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{3}{4}$ c.; selected, $5\frac{1}{2}$ to $5\frac{3}{4}$ c., and layers, $6\frac{1}{4}$ to $6\frac{1}{2}$ c.

Demand for table raisins is of a satisfactory character, and prices are held firm. We quote Malagas: Extra loose muscatels, $1.40; Imperial London layers, $1.75; Imperial cabinets, $1.90; Connoisseur clusters, $2.20; extra dessert clusters, $3; Royal Buckingham clusters, $3.50.

Standard brands of California raisins continue very firm, and no change is to note in them. Lower grades have been offered for rather less money during the week, the figure not being specified, but in a jobbing way values are steady. We quote $5\frac{1}{2}$ c. for 3-crown and 7c. for 4-crown loose muscatels.

Cables this week on Sultanias are very strong, and, based on the offers made, it will cost more to lay down fresh supplies than the current range of values. We quote prices firm at 6 to $6\frac{1}{2}$ c. Supplies here are very light.

The currant market is very firm, and jobbers generally agree that they are not over plentifully supplied with goods to carry them through the winter. Prices are held firm, and we quote: $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c. in barrels, 4 to $4\frac{1}{4}$ c. in half-barrels, and $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{3}{4}$ c. in cases and half-cases.

The strong tone in prunes that we have already noted is fully maintained. Cables this week quoted Bosnia 28s. 6d. cost and freight at New York, and this means at least $5\frac{1}{2}$ to 6c. laid down here. The tone, therefore, is firm. We quote: French ordinary, 6c., and choice, $7\frac{1}{2}$ to $13\frac{1}{2}$ c.; new Bosnias from second hands at 6 to $6\frac{1}{2}$ c.

There is no change in dates, which are held firm at $4\frac{1}{4}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.

NUTS.

Advices on Grenoble walnuts are very strong, and the best offers made mean cost of fully 11c. laid down here, and it is doubtful if any can be had at that price. We quote: Brazils, 8 to 9c.; shelled almonds, 20 to 25c.; Tarragona, 12 to 13c.; Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; shelled ditto, 25 to 27c.; filberts, $6\frac{1}{2}$ to $7\frac{1}{2}$ c.; and pecans, 8 to 10c.

CANNED GOODS.

There is little activity to note in canned goods. A fair jobbing demand for vegetables is noted, and that is about all. We quote: Lobsters, $8 to $9 per case; sardines, $8.50 to $10.50; salmon, $5.20 to $5.50; mackerel, $5; tomatoes, 70 to 75c. per doz.; peaches, $2 to $3 per doz.; corn, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peas, 95c. to $1 per doz.; strawberries, $2.25 to $2.50; raspberries, $2; green gages, $2 to $2.25; blue plums or damsons, $1.50 to $1.75; pineapples, $2.25 to $2.50, and 3-lb. apples, 80 to 85c.

WINES AND SPIRITS.

There is a good trade moving in wines and spirits, some good contracts having been executed in the Lower Provinces this week for Scotch whiskies. The three last steamers have brought in considerable shipments of wine, whiskies and gin for houses both here and in the west.

GREEN FRUIT.

The green fruit market is fairly steady, and though receipts have been free the market has been kept well cleaned up and is fairly steady.

APPLES—Free receipts of these have not affected prices, which are held steady at $2.50 to $3.25 per bbl.

GRAPES—Receipts of New Almerias are noted, but are all absorbed and prices are held at $5 per case.

CRANBERRIES—There is no change in cranberries, which range from $8.50 to $9 per bbl.

ORANGES—Quiet and unchanged for Jamaica at $6 to $7 per bbl.

LEMONS—Held quiet and steady $4 to $4.50 per box for Malagas, and $4 to $5 for Palermos.

SPANISH ONIONS—Are steady to firm, ranging from 40 to 45c.

SWEET POTATOES—Exhibit no alteration, being quoted firm at $4.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There is no change in the egg market. The demand for small lots was fair and a fairly active trade was done at steady prices. We quote new laid at 18 to 20c.; choice candled at 14 to 15c., and ordinary stock at $11\frac{1}{2}$ to 12c. per dozen.

POTATOES—The demand for potatoes was fair and sales of car lots of Early Rose were made at 35 to 40c. per bag.

BEANS—In beans business was dull at $1.10 to $1.15 per bushel for choice hand-picked in car lots, and at $1.20 to $1.30 in small quantities.

HOPS—The hop market continues quiet and steady at 5 to 8c. per lb. for new, as to quality.

POULTRY—There was a freer demand for poultry to-day, but the supply was in excess of the requirements, and values in some cases were easier. We quote: Turkeys, 8 to $8\frac{1}{2}$ c.; chickens, 5 to $6\frac{1}{2}$ c.; ducks, 7 to 8c., and geese, $5\frac{1}{2}$ to 6c. per lb.

DRESSED HOGS—A fair trade was done in dressed hogs, there being a good demand for small lots at $5 to $5.50 per 100 lbs.

TALLOW—The tallow market is rather easier in tone, prime being obtainable at $5\frac{1}{2}$ to 6c., low grades 5c.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market has declined during the week, and prices on pork, lard and smoked meats are all lower than they were, while demand is dull. The drop ranges from $1 per bbl. on pork to 1c. per lb. on lard, bacon and hams. We quote: Cana-

BUTTER.

The butter market is dull and heavy in tone. Business transpires in late made creamery at 23c., but in a small way, for local account, and this figure is not possible on a wholesale lot for export. Receipts of western roll dairy continue free, and as the quality is good the market is well cleaned up, at 16 to 17c., as to quality, by the local demand. Fall ends of Townships dairy are a small offering, and sell at 18c. or thereabouts, in jobbing parcels. We quote: Finest September creamery, 21 to 22 1/2c.; finest August creamery, 19 to 19 1/2c.; Township dairy, 17 to 18c.; fresh Western rolls, 16 to 17c.; Western dairy, 14 to 15c.

CHEESE.

The cheese market is quiet and rather inclined to heaviness, though it cannot be said that there is a radical change in quotations. The business at present is restricted to summer makes, which are available between 8 to 8 1/2c. Late makes are firmly held, and likely to be so for some time, for even if a decline of a full half-cent occurs it is not likely to shake out any stock. We quote: Finest Ontario, fall makes, 9 3/8 to 9 1/2c.; finest Quebec, fall makes, 8 3/4 to 9c.; summer makes, 8 to 8 1/2c.

C. W. Murphy & Co. state that they had such a run on Watson's Three-Star Glenlivet lately that they were out of stock for about a week. They have just received a fall consignment, and can execute orders promptly now for the brand.

Robert Greig & Co., sole agents in Canada for Carr & Co., Ltd., biscuit makers, are quoting reduced prices on these goods owing to a new arrangement which comes into force this week.

Over 250 cases have been landed for Robert Greig & Co. by various steamers arriving this week. This comprises biscuits from Carr & Co., chocolates from Rowntree & Co., and Christmas specialties, on which the firm report a heavy run of orders.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER

ST. JOHN, N.B., Nov. 14, 1895.

BUSINESS during the week has been active. The scene at Indiantown is particularly busy. The dealers along the river are hurrying along their winter supplies before it freezes, so that the steamers have more freight than they can carry. The steamers going to up-bay ports are also taxed for space, while the same may be said of the packets going to Nova Scotia.

SALT—Quite a quantity has arrived during the week, one firm alone receiving a cargo of 5,000 sacks from Liverpool and upward of 1,000 via Boston per schooner. The above cargo was not expected at least for another week. It found good demand, about three-quarters already being sold. Stocks here are not large, but the demand from now on will be light. There are no more full cargoes expected. Smaller quantities will arrive via Boston by schooner. We quote: Coarse, 50 to 55c.; fine factory-filled, $1.10; 5-lb. bags, $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10-lb boxes, 12c.; cartoons, $2 per doz.; salt, bulk, $2.70 to $2.80 per bbl.

CANNED GOODS.—A few continue to arrive, but stocks are about all in. Some American Baltimore peaches are on the market. Our own are much preferred, but the imported have an advantage of price. On speaking to Connors Bros.' agent I was told they noted a better demand for clams, chowder and scallops. It will be noted clams and chowder are quoted lower. There are very few strawberries here, and what there are are very firm at the advanced price. They are mostly held over from last season. Nova Scotia gallon apples are offered freely, and the quality is good. A better demand for oysters than for some time has been noted. We quote: Corn, 85 to 90c.; peas, 90 to 95c.; tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; gallon apples, $2.15 to $2.25; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.65 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.60 to $1.65; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $2.75 to $2.85; 2's, $1.90 to $2; pineapple, Canadian pack, $2.35; salmon, $1.45 to $1.50; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.30; clams, $5 for 4 doz.; chowder, $2.75 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1; kippered herring, $1.10.

DRIED FRUIT.—The first direct shipment of Valencias are to hand in off-stalk layers, half and quarter boxes. Prices are held firm at rather higher figures, the same being true of currants. Loose muscatels are quoted lower in New York. Stocks for here were this season bought direct, and New York prices will not yet compete. A quantity of Nova Scotia dried apples were shipped west last year, and holders are now expecting bids, but the large crop in the States and western Canada is affecting prices, and there is little hope of a demand at a paying figure. Evaporated keep low. Onions are also low. There is no demand in this market for reds. Figs are showing a large sale. In nuts there is a good demand. In Brazils prices are high. We quote: Old Valencias, 4c.; layers, 5c.; new Valencias, 4 1/4 to 5c.; layers, 5 1/2 to 6c.; half-boxes, 6 1/4 c.; quarter-boxes, 6 1/2 c.; California L.M. 4-crown, 6 1/2 to 7c.; 3-crown, 5 1/2 to 6c.; London layers, $1.75 to $1.85. Currants, bbls., 3 1/2 to 4c.; cases, 4 to 4 1/2 c.; cartoons, cleaned, 7 1/2 c.; bulk, cleaned, 6 1/2 c.; prunes, kegs, 4c.; boxes, 4 1/2 to 5c.; half-boxes, 6 to 8c.; citron, 15 to 16c.; orange and lemon, 13c.; dates, 4 1/2 to 5c.; dried apples, 5 1/2 to 5 3/4 c.; evaporated apples, 7 1/2 to 7 3/4 c.; California evaporated peaches, 12 to 13c.; apricots, 12 to 14c.; pears, 12 to 14c. Canadian onions, $2 to $2.25; walnuts, $3 to $4 per 100 lbs.; figs, 11 to 12c.; washed currants, 6-crown, 1-lb. cartoons, 8 to 8 1/2 c.; Sultanas, 10c.; Sultana raisins, 7 to 8c.; Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; Chili, 10 to 11c.; Brazil, 12 to 13c.; filberts, 8 1/2 to 9c.; almonds, 11 to 12c.; roasted peanuts, 9 to 10c.

GREEN FRUIT.—Apples have moved very freely during the week at good prices, up-river buyers being in town in force. One schooner sold over 600 barrels in three days. Some schooners have the name of bringing better apples than others, and they get better prices and sell much more quickly. Florida oranges are being much missed, there being no first-class oranges in the market. Though the West India fruit improves from week to week, the latest arriving was not extra. Pears are almost run out. In keg grapes the quality is not as good as last season, but there is a fair demand. Some few Canadian baskets are still to be had. Cranberries are firm at quotations. Stocks are not large. We quote: Apples, $1.50 to $2.50; oranges, $5.25 to $5.50 per bbl., $3.50 to $4 per box; Lemons, $5 to $5.25; keg grapes, $5.50 to $6.50, California, $4.50, double case, Canadian, 50 to 70c. per basket; quince, $6 per bbl.; sweet potatoes, $3.50 to $4 bbl.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—Butter is rather dull, owing very largely to the fact that there is so much poor stuff in the market. There is a good demand for creamery at a price, but grocers do not care to pay factory prices. Eggs are in fair demand, and are quoted a cent higher. Stocks are not large. In cheese, the market here shows little effect of the higher prices west. Junes offered at 7 1/2 c. find slow sale. It is reported that some June and July have been sold for 7c. Later makes are held firmer. There are fair stocks here, bought at bottom prices, and holders are hopeful. Some 600 were shipped by one factory to London during the week. We quote: Common dairy butter, 15 to 16c.; dairy, 17 to 18c.; new creamery prints, 22c.; cheese, 8 1/2 to 9c.; creamery, tubs, 20c.; eggs, 16 to 17c.

MOLASSES.—There has been a good movement. Prices show no change but are firm. A small quantity of nice Porto Rico arrived in the city from Yarmouth during the week. Syrup is finding a better demand than for some time. The quality of that largely held here is very nice both as to color and flavor. We quote: Barbadoes, 32 to 34c.; Trinidad, SUGAR—The little depression noticed outside is said not to be on account of lower value, and holders are confident. The demand for yellows and granulated is nearly equal. Fair stocks are held and a large quantity is moving. We quote: Granulated, $4\frac{3}{8}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.; yellow, $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c.; Paris lump, $5\frac{1}{4}$ to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c.; powdered, $5\frac{1}{4}$ to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c.

FISH—Arrivals of dry have been large and prices are easier. The movement is hardly as active as it was. In pickled some splendid fish are seen in Grand Manan and Quoddy river herring, but the price is low. In smoked herring there is no improvement. New are very low, with but little demand, while it is understood there are still some old at the Islands. Some during the week of extra nice new ones were repacked here into large boxes for shipment to Scotland, but the market there is not large. Quite a large quantity of Shelburne in buckets are on the market at 45 to 50c. We quote: Fresh haddock, 2 to $2\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb.; dry, \$1.50; large cod, \$3.50 to \$3.65; medium, \$3.25 to \$3.30; pollock, \$1.40; bay herring, \$1.25 to \$1.30 per half-bbl.; Rippings, \$1.75; Wolves, \$1.85 to \$2; smoked herring, old, 4 to 5c.; new smoked, 6 to 7c.; Canso, \$4.50 to \$5 per bbl.; shad, half-bbl., \$5 to \$6; Grand Manan herring, half bbl., \$1.25 to \$1.35; Shelburne, \$3.25 bbl., \$1.75 half-bbl.; boneless, $2\frac{1}{2}$ to 8c.; oysters, \$2.50 to \$3 per bbl.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour as in other lines the week has been active. Ontario grade still shows an upward tendency, while Manitoba is firm at quotations. In oatmeal the feeling is firmer with a good demand. Cornmeal continues to have a very large sale at prices. Oats are firmer in Ontario and more P.E.I. oats are arriving. It is too bad N.B. oats do not give better satisfaction, as crops were large. Hay is not very active here, but prices are firm. We quote: Manitoba, $4.70 to $4.75; best Ontario, $4.10 to $4.15; medium, $3.85 to $3.95; oatmeal, $3.55 to $3.75; cornmeal, $2.30 to $2.25; middlings, $19 to $20 on track; bran, $18 to $19; hand-picked beans, $1.25; prime, $1.20; oats, 33 to 35c.; hay, $11 to $11.50; pot barley, $4; round peas, $3.65 to $3.75; split peas, $3.70 to $3.80; yellow eye beans, $2; buckwheat meal, $1.30 to $1.35.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

B. B. Hardwick, the popular representative of Pearline, is in the city this week.

John Seely has some particularly fine Quoddy pickled herring received this week.

About 1,300 boxes of bloaters passed through here for Halifax from Grand Manan during the week.

Northrup & Co. secured some barrels of choice grocery molasses, which they are selling low to the trade.

At the Baltic Starch Factory, P.E.I., they expect to manufacture over 300 tons of starch. Over 32,000 bushels potatoes have been bought at 14c. per bushel.

At the last meeting of the St. John Board of Trade it was decided to affiliate with the Maritime Board, and W. Frank Hatheway was elected their representative on the council.

The regular monthly meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association was held during the week. Much regret was expressed that more of our leading retailers were not members. There is much needed work to be done. It is too bad that for the good of the whole they cannot get united action.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

HALIFAX, Nov. 14, 1895.

THE general tone of trade remains pretty much the same as last week. There is nothing doing in sugar, molasses or fish, while produce is a drug on the market. Provisions are very dull, but green fruit, butter and cheese are improving.

E. Collishaw, of New Glasgow, writes THE GROCER that the report of his scheme as published in last issue is misleading. He says: "I propose to secure the supplying of 500 families, and have secured about 300. These pay me $10 a year each for the benefit of being supplied with goods at wholesale prices with cost of handling added. This will mean a very large business, and should be profitable to myself as well as the parties who will be supplied." It is to be called the "Consumers' Union." He says he is carrying no $45,000 stock, and that the first report is calculated to injure him with the wholesale trade. In reference to the question in THE GROCER, "where will the profits come from?" he says: "The profits come in with 5 per cent. average cash discounts, and outside trade at regular prices."

The directors of the Acadia Sugar Refinery have issued their report for the year ending Sept. 30th, 1895, in which they say: Notwithstanding the unprecedented fall in the value of raw sugar during the first quarter of our financial year, and the very close competition in refined sugar, the net profits of the past year, including $7,693.80 balance from last year, amounted to $170,227.54, from which the interim dividend of 6 per cent. on preference shares was paid 15th August, $81,760, and after writing off $11,645.09 debt for preliminary expenses, and setting aside $25,000 for depreciation, there remains $51,822.45, from which the directors propose to pay, on Dec. 15, a further dividend of 3 per cent. on the preference shares, amounting to $40,880, leaving a balance of $10,942.45 to be carried forward.

It is noted that James Thompson has retired from the directorate in consequence of ill-health, and P. O'Mullin fills the vacancy.

The annual meeting is to be held in the Y.M.C.A. hall on Thursday, 28th inst.

FLOUR—The flour market is quiet, with quotations remaining the same as last week.

SUGAR—The Acadia refinery reports business very quiet, with no change in refined quotations. The Moncton refinery has again started work, the water supply being sufficient. Raw sugars have declined since last week.

GREEN FRUIT—Nova Scotia cranberries are plentiful and selling at $5.50 to $6.50 per barrel; Cape Cod cranberries are selling at $8.50 to $10, being a superior keeping fruit than native. Foxberries are worth from $3.25 to $3.75. Magdalen Island cranberries have ceased arriving. A considerable quantity of the latter have gone to the upper provinces. Apples are still on the rise, good fruit commanding from $2 to $3 per bbl. They are likely to go higher. Canadian onions have advanced 50c. per bbl., the quotations to-day being $2.25 to $2.50 for choice keeping stock. Spanish onions rule low, being sold at 60 to 75c. per box for choice. The latest arrivals of Jamaica oranges look well. They are fine, sweet fruit, and sell at $7.50 per bbl., repacked, for choice stock. Malaga lemons, 500 count, bring $9 to $9.50.

CANNED GOODS—A steady trade is being done in canned goods. Prices remain unchanged.

PROVISIONS—The provision market is very dull, and prices rule low on account of the soft weather. Beef (alive) has been selling at \$3.50 per 100 lbs. for small and \$6 to \$7 for heavy, very few bringing the outside figure. Lambs are a little stiffer, being worth \$2.25 to \$2.50, while sheep are lower, selling at \$2.50 and \$3. Carcase pork is also lower, to-day's quotations being $5\frac{1}{2}$ and 6c.

POULTRY AND GAME—The poultry and game market is depressed. Turkeys are retailing as low as 12c. per lb., chickens at 30c. per pair, and geese 55 to 60c. each, all for good stock. Rabbits are bringing 12c. per pair, and partridge 20c. Colder weather will stiffen these prices.

PRODUCE—Schooners are arriving every day from Prince Edward Island with potatoes, oats and turnips, and the market is over supplied. On account of the large crops elsewhere, there is no place to ship to, and the local demand is not equal by any means to the supply. On P. E. Island the price for potatoes is 12 and 13c. per bushel. Here the price is 22 to 25c. per bushel, according to quantity. It is expected they will come down to 20c. per bushel. Oats are quoted at 33 to 35c. from schooners, and turnips at 20c. All the available storage in the city has been secured.

EGGS—There is a little stiffening in eggs. P.E.I. stock sells at 15c. here and 14c. on the island. Fresh native stock commands 17c.

BUTTER—For many months the butter market has been most discouraging, but dealers are now looking for a change. Tub is quoted to-day at 17 to 19c., and creamery from 20 to 23c.

CHEESE—Like butter, cheese is on the rise, and is worth to-day from 9 to 10c.

DRIED FRUIT—The steamer Damara, which arrived last Saturday, brought 7,000 boxes of raisins on through bill of lading from the Mediterranean. Trade is fair, with indications of an advance in prices.

MOLASSES—There have been some arrivals of molasses since last report. Geo. E. Boak received a cargo of Porto Rico, consisting of 170 puncheons. Prices remain unchanged.

Stock must be cleared out by 1st January.

No reasonable offer refused to clear out any line. For this reason it will pay you well to call and see our stock of Crockery, China, Glassware, Lamps, etc., both staple and fancy.

BRITISH GROWN TEAS.

A London tea letter says: "Considerable progress is now being made in pushing the trade of British grown tea in external markets. Australia is steadily increasing the quantity annually consumed, and appears to be following the example of the United Kingdom, in the gradual displacement of China tea, in favor of Indian and Ceylon. In Russia, the use of Ceylon tea has lately received considerable impetus, and this market has now become a very important outlet. From North America, reports are very encouraging, and there is every reason to believe that British grown tea has now taken sufficient hold of the public taste, both in the United States and Canada, to ensure a permanent and increasing demand for it, if only the work of the Indian and Ceylon commissioners can be effectually and steadily carried on. The Indian planters have been frequently urged to come forward with adequate subscriptions, and it is hoped that the levy being raised in Calcutta will meet with the success which is so urgently needed, and thus provide sufficient funds to ensure the success of their tea in this large and growing market."

WHERE SANDFORD WAS THE BOY.

When the general subscription agent of The Review was in Great Britain recently he called on Robert Heggie, linen manufacturer, Kirkcaldy. In talking about Canada, Mr. Heggie said that Sandford Fleming, C.M.G., now one of the leading civil engineers in Canada, was a boy in his office many years ago; "and a good boy he was too," added Mr. Heggie.—Dry Goods Review.

P. J. Russell, formerly with Thompson, Codville & Co., wholesale grocers, of Winnipeg, and lately manager of Carlin & Lake's stores at Golden, and other points in East Kootenay, has arrived at Nelson, B.C., with his family. Mr. Russell is the agent of several wholesale houses, and will look after their trade in Southern Kootenay until such time as houses can be established on the ground.

HOPEFUL FEELINGS IN THE WEST.

Mr. W. R. Brock, of Toronto, has returned from a month's trip to Manitoba and British Columbia. He said to THE CANADIAN GROCER: "The business situation throughout the west is more satisfactory, mainly on account of the improved prospects. It is not so much an expansion in trade, for cautious buying still prevails, but there is a steadier volume of business. Probably it would take several years of really better times in Canada to show a marked increase in business. Into the Kootenay country great numbers of miners and speculators are crowding from California, Nevada, and other places, and a great deal of gold is being got out. There appears to be a general agreement as to the richness of the district, for old miners with whom I talked on the spot said it was the best paying gold field on this continent. The increase in population results in a large consumption of Canadian produce, and I noticed that a quantity of butter, cheese, etc., came into the province from as far east as Portage la Prairie, supplies that were formerly drawn from Seattle. All over the great west there is the hopeful feeling for which westerners are famous, but there is this additional feature at present: that there are better grounds for hopefulness than usual, and the country is accordingly elated."

SHIPMENT OF CANNED GOODS TO BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Last week there left the Union Station, Toronto, a decorated train of seventeen cars, loaded with Boulter's peerless "Lion" brand canned goods, going direct by lake and rail over the C. P. R. route to purchasers in Victoria, B.C. This train carries over 24,000 lbs. of canned goods in each car.

The train was beautifully decorated with Union Jacks and 34 banners, each 33 by 4 ft., one on each side of the car, bearing the name of the firm. The shipment is the largest of canned goods that was ever sent across the continent.

W. Boulter & Sons commenced business in 1882, and in 1885 they sent their first shipment to Victoria by San Francisco. In 1886 this firm enjoyed the honor of sending the first carload of canned goods that ever crossed the C. P. R. to Victoria.

Aside from this large shipment, over ten carloads were sold in Winnipeg this year. The firm is to be congratulated upon its enterprise.

To such of your customers as you know to be suffering from coughs or colds, offer a few B. F. P. cough drops. Once introduced they will always be in demand, and will open up opportunities for sales in other lines.

THE DUTY ON RICE.

WITH regard to the editorial article in your issue of Nov. 1st, under this heading you have been led into making such an extraordinary error that it is due to you, as a mouth-piece of the grocery trade, to correct same.

The article says "the mill-owner pays a duty of scarcely 5 per cent." Now such a gross misstatement might have been avoided by a simple reference to the Customs Tariff, which reads:

"Rice, uncleaned, unhulled, or paddy, 3-10 of a cent. per lb., but not less than 30 per cent. ad valorem" in any case.

Take the figures you give as from the Trade and Navigation Returns for 1894 (to June 30), i.e., 13,996,983 lbs. uncleaned rice imported; this, had the calculation been made at 3-10 of a cent. per lb., would give $41,990.95, nearly $42,000, as payable by the manufacturers, instead of $8,178, the sum stated, an under-statement of $33,000.

It is quite clear the figures of column "Entered for Consumption" instead of column "Imported" have been taken in making the calculation of 5 per cent. as the duty.

You can find out by applying to the collector at Montreal that the duty paid on a single cargo alone of uncleaned rice averages considerably over $25,000.

A great deal of what has been said and written on this rice question is as inaccurate as the above, and moreover the fact is almost invariably lost sight of, that the 30 per cent. duty is levied on a raw material, and no allowance made for the very large shrinkage in the various processes of milling.

The fact is, the largest moiety of the alleged protection is given back to the consumer in the reduced price of the rice. Surely it must occur to any business man, that if the margin is as large as alleged the manufacturers would not allow what you mention as a fact, that there is still imported of the cleaned article "about one-half of the rice they require."

Granted that the manufacturers have ample facilities to produce all the country requires, which they have, how do you reconcile excessive protection, and yet so large a proportion of the cleaned rice required imported?

MOUNT ROYAL MILLING & MFG. CO., Ltd.
Montreal, 5th Nov., 1895.

REMARKS: This matter was brought to the attention of THE CANADIAN GROCER by a dealer who read the figures from the Trade and Navigation Returns for 1894. It is quite evident he has made a mistake of using one column instead of the one alongside of it. His reputation is such, however, that we know he did not do so intentionally. It was not considered necessary to verify them, as is almost always done in such cases. The deductions based on these figures are, of course, very unfair to the Mount Royal Co., and we are very glad to give place to their letter.—THE EDITOR.

RAMBLER'S NOTES.

Mrs. Clements, Thamesville, has decided to continue in the dry goods business in her old stand.

Nelson Graves, of Thamesville, has sold out his grocery stock and gone to farming near that place.

F. J. Mayhew, of Mayhew & Harmer, grocers, Thamesville, had the misfortune to sprain his back Oct. 28, but he is improving again and will soon be around.

Thos. Adams, who has been with Frank Gorrie, the Queen's Grocery, Chatham, Ont., for the past two years, has taken a position with W. F. Cherney, grocer, of Windsor.

Trade in Chatham is quite brisk; the grocery and dry goods stores have done very well. Merchants here look for a great increase in volume of business as prices on farm products advance. The banks had an exceptionally good day on Nov. 4, and say the farmers in vicinity are in good circumstances.

PROVISION FIRM FAILS.

Fox Bros. & Co., pork packers and commission merchants, Toronto, have offered to compromise with their creditors at 40c. on the dollar. The firm, which is composed of Mr. F. H. Gooch and the two Fox Bros., has been in existence nearly two years.

The causes of the failure were simply lack of trade and rather extravagant business methods. During its career the firm is said to have spent $16,000 to make $8,000.

THE BUSINESS PAPER.

ITS TRUE POSITION, AND ITS INTRINSIC VALUE
IN BUSINESS MAKING.

The trade paper is a trade necessity.

Business may be run without it.

Business never has been run without it.

The merchant can write his letters on a barrel-head—but he doesn't.

Merchandise can be sent across the continent by mule-power, but nobody uses that motor.

The fact that every trade has from one to a dozen representative papers devoted exclusively to the trade they represent, is prima-facie, as well as circumstantial, evidence that the trade paper is a part of the economy of business.

I don't own a trade paper.

I never did own a trade paper.

I never expect to own a trade paper.

I have no trade paper interest.

I simply know trade papers.

I am writing what I know.

A bank president in Boston can't write more than his own name, but his ignorance didn't make him a bank president.

There are men who don't read the trade papers and succeed, but so long as the ninety-and-nine read trade papers, and are successful, there is no need of discussing the peculiar composition of the one man who makes money and reads nothing.

The trade paper is a commercial clearing house, with members entirely confined to its particular trade.

It is more than a clearing house, it is a typographical business club, and into its arena is thrown the thought of trade.

It is a printed show-room, where everything new, and everything interesting, are placed before the reader, for the reader's benefit.

The good trade paper civilizes trade—spreads trade—increases trade—makes trade honest—disarms unnatural competition, tends to raise cold-blooded business up to the fraternity of social decency.

The man who reads a trade paper may not be wise, but I never knew a fool to read a trade paper.

The trade paper reaches into general trade, and absorbs that line of business which is pertinent to the class it illustrates.

The trade paper gives to the reader that which he wants—it is a sort of sieve through which only can pass words of business interest.

The reason that trade papers carry advertising is the same reason that magazines and daily papers carry advertising.

The first-class trade paper has just as much right to devote a part of its pages to advertising as has the magazine or story publication.

The advertising in a trade paper is as interesting as the reading matter, for the advertising pages present the names and addresses and other business information concerning the most enterprising business men in the trade represented.

The progressive manufacturer or wholesaler realizes that while the circulation of the trade paper may be small, every copy goes into the hands of a probable customer.

A man can do business without advertising in the trade paper, but the fact that comparatively few men of enterprise do not advertise indicates that the advertisement in the trade paper has money-bringing and trade-increasing value.

A paper with a circulation among one thousand probable customers is worth more than the circulation of a paper with one hundred thousand among possible customers, unless the one thousand probable customers are included in the one hundred thousand possible customers.

The only people who read a grocery paper are people who earn their living, making, distributing and retailing one particular line of goods.

They are not only interested in the news of their trade, but they are ever anxious of considering any one who supplies the goods they sell.

The advertisement in the trade paper may not bring more than one answer a month, perhaps not more than one a year, but one answer may be the beginning of a trade which will pay for the advertisement ten times over.

There are a thousand reasons why a general magazine need not be read by business men, but the sun never shone upon a reason why the man who sells groceries, etc., should not read systematically and carefully the paper which represents the trade of his living.

He reads the trade paper, and as he isn't a fool, he reads the advertising pages as carefully as he reads the reading matter, for the business man knows that the advertising pages will present to him ways and means of increasing his business, and of making more money.

The man who does not believe that people read the trade paper advertisements is advised to print at the bottom of his advertisement, in the smallest possible type, the statement that he will present a yellow dog, or a rosewood piano, to any reader of the paper who sends for it.

The best advertising in the world is the advertising that strikes men squarely between the business eyes.

The trade paper contains nothing but business—it is the one great business-bringer of wholesale publicity.

There is something the matter with the business man who can't build business better with the business assistance of business papers.

BRITISH COLUMBIA SALMON.

The British barque Sardhana, 1,119 tons, has completed her cargo of salmon at the Fraser River, comprising 34,999 cases valued at $174,995, and will sail shortly for London. There are two salmon ships yet to arrive, the Ardmore and John Gambles.

Next season will probably witness a number of new canneries in operation. The Fraser River Industrial Society, better known as the Co-operative Cannery, has been incorporated, and will be managed by a number of prominent citizens of Westminster. A number of new canneries are also mentioned for the west coast of Vancouver Island. The Nootka cannery seems assured, as it is reported that buildings are now being erected. Quatsino Sound is also a proposed site, and two canneries may be built at Queen Charlotte Islands.—B. C. Commercial Journal.

The Seattle Trade Register says: "From present indications the next year will see a large increase of salmon packed on Puget Sound and in British Columbia waters, and notes the following contemplated canneries for 1896:

LaConner wants a fish cannery. Dr. N. McMillan, formerly of Seattle, now employed by the British Columbia cannerymen, was there last week looking up a site for one of four canneries his employers may put up in that section. English and Canadian parties have located a cannery on the tide flats at Chuckanut. They have plenty of capital, and will build this fall to be ready for next spring.

Dogs for Business Men

Irish Terrier Puppies for Sale—From stock that has won first prizes in leading British and American shows. They are now the fashionable breed in Great Britain. They are the most faithful companions, best watch dogs (the Standard Oil Co. use them exclusively), for they will fight until the last drop of blood in their daring little bodies in defence of their master or his property. No rats can live where they are. They are excellent dogs for the woods, and very fond of the water.

NEATNESS

In the appearance of a package is a help in selling the article. All the packages in which is put up are the neatest and most attractive on the Canadian market. Our cotton bags are made of the best material and printing is the neatest. The cardboard used in our packages cannot be duplicated in Canada, and our round packages, 2 doz. 4 lb. per case, are handsomely lithographed for shelf display. These facts are worth remembering when you are ordering table salt from any wholesale house.

WINDSOR
SALT

THE CANADIAN GROCER

Vol. IX. (Published Weekly)

TORONTO AND MONTREAL, NOVEMBER 22, 1895

($2.00 per Year) No. 47

DROPS FROM THE EDITOR'S PEN.

Business does not make the man ; man makes the business.

* * *

Success is attained by climbing, not by taking the toboggan slide.

* * *

When a business is wound up by the courts it does not go again.

* * *

A merchant is not well ballasted unless he possesses "sand" as well as gold.

* * *

None of us are all we pretend to be. And no one knows it better than ourselves.

* * *

Honesty is the best policy in business. But common sense is just as essential.

* * *

Saint John is not too saintly to scheme, and that successfully, for a winter port.

* * *

All advertising on fences may not be offensive, but a great deal of it is useless.

* * *

There is one satisfaction regarding sour merchants : like sour lemons they shrink away.

* * *

It does not follow that because a grocer keeps Mumm's goods he should keep mum his tongue.

* * *

Merchants who are careful about the tomorrow and careless about the to-day should not be emulated.

* * *

It is not a question these days as to who has the best goods, but who has the best method of selling them.

* * *

Prof. Stephens told a Globe reporter that 4,000 years hence the blue waves of Ontario will be rolling over Hamilton. They may. But the waves of thought that have emanated from Hamilton will be rolling over the wide world.

* * *

The difference between the burglar and the "dead beat" is that one helps himself, while the other is helped by the merchant.

* * *

The difference between Manitoba and British Columbia is that one is rich in golden grain and the other in golden metal.

* * *

He who openeth his mouth to speak evil of his competitor lifteth at the same time the veil that hideth his own imperfections.

* * *

A question in the rule of three : If a by-election will stir up the business instincts of a Cabinet, what will a general election do?

* * *

It is significant that the Beaver Company should supply the first steamship line running out of St. John : the beaver gnaws its way.

* * *

To grant the farmer credit for one year would not be so bad if the wholesaler would the retailer, the manufacturer the wholesaler, and the wage-earner and the producer of the raw material the manufacturer. As long as this is not done retailers who give a year's credit are bearing the greater proportion of the burden. It is no wonder some of them are round-shouldered, financially.

SHIPPING FROZEN MILK.

A YEAR ago a Danish merchant experimented by taking Danish milk, which is peculiarly delicate and rich in flavor, freezing it by the use of ice and salt, and sending it in barrels by rail and steamer to London, Eng. On its arrival the milk proved to be as sweet and well tasting as if it had been just drawn from a cow in the middle of Denmark.

The milk was so much in demand and proved so profitable an article of commerce that the exporter immediately took out a patent on the shipment of frozen milk from Sweden and Denmark to London. He then sold the patent to a stock company with large capital, which on February 1st last bought one of the largest Swedish creameries, converted it into a factory, and, having put in a special freezing apparatus, began on May 1st the export of frozen milk in large quantities.

When the milk is received from the farmers, it is pasteurized, that is, heated to 75 deg. Celcius, and then immediately cooled off to 10 deg. C, and now the freezing is commenced. Half of the milk is filled into cans and placed in the freezing apparatus, where it will be thoroughly frozen in the course of three hours. The frozen milk is then filled into barrels of pine, the only kind of wood that can be used. The barrels, however, are only half filled with this frozen milk, the balance being filled with the unfrozen milk.

This way of packing has proved to be the only practical one, as part of the milk has to be frozen in order to keep the whole cold, and part has to be in a flowing state in order to get the barrels exactly full, which is necessary in order to avoid too much shaking up on the road, by which the cream would be turned into butter; the floating masses of ice at the same time prevent the unfrozen milk in setting the cream. Milk which is treated in this way has proved to keep quite fresh for twenty-six days. Every barrel holds one thousand pounds of milk, and twice a week there will be shipped fifty barrels, making in all 100,000 pounds of milk a week.

The time may not be far away when the dairy farms of Canada may be sending not butter and cheese, but frozen milk and cream, to the large centres of America and Europe.

NICE PARTNERSHIP POINT.

Judge Gill rendered a judgment in Montreal last week which tends to settle a very difficult question of law. The judgment was in the case of Avila Lecompte vs. Chs. Duclos, restaurateur. Mr. Lecompte seized moneys in the hands of Mr. Duclos' partner in virtue of a judgment. The partner denied that anything was owing to Mr. Duclos, as it was impossible to calculate what was coming to him from the profits. These ran on from day to day and they could not be liquidated. To stop moneys of a partner by seizure would be to injure the business of the other partners and their profits might be affected by the seizure. Judge Gill refused to look at matters in that light, and he declared the seizure good and valid.

A SOAP THAT FLOATS.

Wright & Copp, Toronto agents for the St. Croix Soap Manufacturing Co., St. Stephen, N.B., are placing "Sea Foam," a toilet and bath soap, on the market with great success. Many wholesale grocers have oversold and find difficulty in filling orders promptly. The company, however, are doing their utmost to fill orders and promise a car for Toronto this week. "Sea Foam" is a floating soap, and will retail at 5c. per cake. A handsome and striking lithographed hanger is being issued by the firm as an advertisement of this soap. In the foreground of the picture is a colored boy enjoying his bath with "Sea Foam" soap, while a dog is waiting in expectancy for his turn.

CREAMERIES' ASSOCIATION.

The eleventh annual convention of the Ontario Creameries' Association will be held in Cornwall on January 14, 15 and 16, 1896. The association expects to make this the most important gathering of dairymen yet held under its auspices, and have secured some of the most eminent men in Canada and the United States, including Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, Toronto; Prof. J. Robertson, Dominion Dairy Commissioner; Prof. Dean, Guelph; Prof. Fletcher, Experimental Farm, Ottawa; Prof. W. P. Brooks, Dairy School, Amherst, Mass.; A. A. Wright, manager of the Renfrew Creamery, and others. It is understood that the Cornwall Board of Trade, which has been lying dormant for some time, will reorganize for the purpose of extending a fitting reception to the delegates.

WESTERN ONTARIO TRAVELERS.

At the quarterly meeting of the Western Ontario Commercial Travelers' Mutual Benefit Society, held in London on Saturday, the following officers were unanimously elected for 1896: President, L. P. Blackwell; first vice-president, R. W. Coates; second vice-president, George A. F. Jackson; treasurer, W. S. Case (re-elected). Directors—For London—George H. Glass, C. W. Nichols, Alf. Russell, J. M. Logan, George Axton, Joseph Pocock, James A. Smith, W. H. Mohan, M. F. Irwin, and T. H. McCurdy. The Toronto directors are: F. W. Heath, R. H. Greene, and F. W. Grew. The by-laws of the society were revised, the principal change being the fixing of six statutory assessments per annum.

WELL-KNOWN GROCER DEAD.

Thomas Stephen Edwards, a well-known St. Thomas grocer, died at the Amasa Wood Hospital Thursday night, of brain affection, in his 58th year, after a month's illness. Deceased was born at Lobo, and came to St. Thomas in 1884, where he opened out a grocery and crockery store, which he continued until a short time ago. Deceased was a prominent member of the Centre street Baptist church. He leaves, besides his wife, one son, A. T. Edwards, grocer, Talbot street east, and one daughter, Mrs. R. D. Kilgour, London. He was a member of St. David's Lodge, No. 302, A. F. & A. M., and No. 76, I.O.O.F., and was insured in the latter for $2,000. The funeral took place on Sunday, at 9.30 o'clock, from the residence of his sister-in-law, Mrs. J. W. Edwards, 155 Wharnccliffe road, London West, to Lobo cemetery.

DIFFERENT SUGAR STATISTICS.

An English trade journal says: At no time in the history of the beet sugar industry, since it acquired any influence as an important factor in the world's production of the article generally, have the estimates of the new crops on the Continent and visible supplies in all countries differed so much from the actual average of former years as they have done this season; and instead of assisting the trade in forming a correct idea of what is likely to be the aggregate yield for 1895-96, the calculations put forward by opposite parties have been perplexing in the extreme to those who have wished to come to a right conclusion in a matter so full of interest to the refiners, the dealers, and consumers.

Blueberry pie, such as New England mothers used to make.—Sacramento Record Union.

Say, you Record Union man, you want to quit that! Do you hear? It's thirty years since we ate our last blueberry pie (a whole one, too,) back in the hills of the old Bay State, and the delicious taste lingers yet. The sight of those headlines brought it all back, but actually we hadn't the heart to read the article through. Please don't do it any more and awaken appetites that can only be appeased in one place in the world, and that place 3,000 miles away.—Bakersfield Californian.

Come home, brothers! Blueberry pie, squash pie, mince pie—come home! We are in the pie belt, and it's only a few weeks to Thanksgiving. Come home!—N. E. Grocer.

Come home, ye three wandering children. Come home within the folds of the Union Jack, and delight yourselves upon turkey, cranberry sauce and pumpkin pie on Thanksgiving and good old English plum pudding on Christmas.

The movement of lumber this fall from Owen Sound is only limited by the number of vessels which can be secured for the trade. The offer of $2 per thousand to Detroit and $2.50 to Buffalo or Tonawanda was made. Every vessel that can be put in commission is making a harvest. Coal from Ashtabula brings 50c. per ton as compared with 35c. last year.

THE EARLY CLOSING BY-LAW.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has been asked by one of its subscribers in Quebec for fuller information regarding the early closing by-law lately enacted by the Montreal City Council. The law in full is as follows :

No. 222.

BY-LAW CONCERNING THE EARLY CLOSING OF SHOPS.

Passed October 31, 1895.

Whereas, in virtue of the provisions of the Provincial Act : 57 Victoria, ch. 50, sec. 1, the Council of any city or town is empowered to pass by-laws ordering the closing of certain shops at certain hours ;

Whereas, in virtue of the provisions of another Provincial Act, 52 Victoria, ch. 79, sec. 141, the Council of the City of Montreal may impose a penalty for each and every infraction to its by-laws.

It is ordained and enacted by the said Council as follows :

Sec. 1. The shops in the City of Montreal, during the whole year, shall be closed at eight (8) o'clock p.m., and the same shall remain closed until five (5) o'clock the following morning ; nevertheless, this provision shall not be construed to include Saturdays, Mondays, and the eve of holidays.

Sec. 2. Nothing contained in the present by-law shall, during the time shops are to remain closed, prevent the sale or delivery of merchandise which may be required in cases of death, sickness or accident ; nor, in drug stores, the sale or delivery of medicine or surgical instruments or apparatus.

Sec. 3. The word "shop" shall be held to mean any establishment or place where merchandise is exposed or offered for sale retail, but shall not apply :

(1) To the establishments wherein tobacco only is sold, as well as such articles as are required in connection with the use of tobacco, such as pipes, cigar holders, matches, etc. ;

(2) To the establishments or public resorts where newspapers, periodical reviews, magazines, etc., only are sold ;

(3) To hotels, saloons, taverns, restaurants, cafes or licensed establishments wherein spirituous, alcoholic, or fermented liquors, to be drunk therein, are sold retail ;

(4) To fruit and candy shops, etc.

Sec. 4. The word "closed" or "closed shop" shall mean not open for the sale of merchandise or for the admission of customers, purchasers or the public generally, during the time stipulated in sections 1 and 2 of the present by-law ; but shall not be construed in such a way as to render obligatory the discontinuance of one or more sales begun at the hour fixed for closing.

Sec. 5. The stores wherein are established post offices may remain open, but only for the postal service.

Sec. 6. Any merchant or person in the employ of any merchant, who keeps a shop open, or offers for sale any merchandise in such shop, or store-room, cellar or outbuilding connected therewith, in violation of the provisions of sections 1 and 2, shall be liable to the penalty hereinafter provided.

Sec. 7. Every person offending against any of the provisions of this by-law shall be liable to a fine, and in default of immediate payment of said fine and costs, to an imprisonment, the amount of said fine and the term of said imprisonment to be fixed by the Recorder's Court, at its discretion ; but such fine shall not exceed forty dollars, and the imprisonment shall not be for a longer period than two calendar months ; the said imprisonment, however, to cease at any time before the expiration of the term fixed by the said Recorder's Court, upon payment of said fine and costs, and the said offender shall be liable to the same penalty for each and every day that such violation or contravention shall last, which shall be held to be a distinct and separate offence for each and every day as aforesaid.

Sec. 8. This by-law shall come into force on the first day of May, 1896.

FOR PORRIDGE OR PUDDINGS.

E. D. Tillson, of Tilsonburg, Ont., is sending out circulars calling attention to his "peerless farinaceous food," Flake Barley. All grocers should carefully read these circulars, for this flake barley makes a pleasant change for oatmeal as a porridge, cooking up white and flaky, if properly prepared, and also constitutes, in the shape of a pudding, a delicious dessert.

TRADE CHAT.

IT IS proposed to make Chatham, Ont., the headquarters of the Erie mills, instead of St. Thomas, as at present.

Rodney, Ont., people want a roller flour mill.

Huston & Co., Glencoe, Ont., are building a cellar and cold storage room.

A quarter of a million bushels of wheat are being marketed daily in the province of Manitoba.

Thompson, Codville & Co., wholesale grocers, Winnipeg, have opened a branch warehouse at Nelson.

G. A. Bigelow & Co., Nelson and Rossland, are contemplating the disposing of their Rossland branch.

E. G. Chamberlain, Parkhill, Ont., produce merchant, will shortly ship a quantity of poultry to Germany.

It is expected that the Sandwich hatchery will have over a million whitefish fry to put into the lakes next spring.

A co-operative creamery company is being organized at Langley. The capital is to be $5,000 in shares of $5 each.

It is reported that steps are being taken to start a cheese factory in Salem, Wellington county, Ont., next spring.

The opening of the Fruit Growers' Convention in Woodstock has been postponed from Tuesday evening, December 10, until Wednesday morning, December 11, at 10 o'clock.

The business houses of Chatham, Ont., are very busy. The roads in the country are splendid at present, and an exceedingly large number of farmers take advantage to visit the city.

Rumor has it that Thomas Edwards is going to start a general store at Springhill, Ont. The farmers in that vicinity are offering great inducements to whoever has pluck enough to start in a profitable business.

George McKenzie says that if the citizens of Wingham who subscribed $500 to a flax mill to be erected there will stand by their offer, he will give the site as promised, the mill and barns to be equal in capacity to either Blyth or Brussels mills.

The best advertising a merchant does is in connection with the disposal of his odds and ends, his "bargains." This attracts people to his store, interests them while they are there, and sends them away with the impression that the store is a place where benefit is derived.

R. J. Graham, Belleville, who has been operating a cheese factory at Ridgetown, Ont., under the supervision of R. H. Hart, has decided to hold a public meeting, and see if they are willing to give the factory a fair patronage. Otherwise he will close it up.

Frank Dowler, of the Great Cash House, Guelph, has concluded the purchase of the confectionery store occupied by George Williams and owned by James Mays. Mr. Dowler will connect this new premises with his present large store, and thus secure more than double the accommodation he has at present. It will be the finest emporium west of Toronto, and will be conducted on the departmental principle.

The following new post offices have been opened in Ontario: Beaver Mills, Algoma, Robert Reid, postmaster; Elmsdale, Oxford, N.R., H. J. Smith; Erasmus, Wellington, N.R., George Wood; Langman, Simcoe, N.R., Richard Langman; New Canaan, Essex, S.R., Mrs. Ellen Neal; Zenda, Norwich, Oxford, S.R., C. J. Banbury. Offices closed: Gertrude, county of Simcoe, E.R., closed 1st October; Muskoka Mills, district of Muskoka and Parry Sound, closed 1st October.

W. A. Fraser, manager of the Government oil boring party at Athabasca Landing, arrived in Toronto on Monday. The oil well is down 1,700 feet and arrangements have been made to go still deeper. The work will be continued during the winter whenever the weather permits. Although oil has not yet been struck, the boring shows that the strata calculated upon by the geologists are there. This information is of great practical value in any case, and if oil is found of course the advantage will be incalculable. Gas has been struck at various depths.

The Chatham Board of Trade is showing signs of return to life. The adjourned meeting was called for Friday night, and by the regulation time a quorum had turned up. The proceedings were interesting throughout and the debates were spirited. The meeting decided that it would like very much to have the head office of the Stevens-Campbell Milling Co. located here; that the removal of the bar at the mouth of the Thames was an absolute necessity; that natural gas should be obtained for Chatham, and that the aldermen should be elected by a general vote. No motion was taken in the last-mentioned matter, but the general impression of the meeting seemed to be opposed to the present system of electing aldermen.

LATE BUSINESS CHANGES.

The grocery stock, etc., of the late J. R. Brown, of Tilsonburg, Ont., is to be sold by auction on Nov. 27.—J. R. Abbott, grocer, Lovering, Ont., has been succeeded by Thos. Shaw.—John McKinnon, general store, Everton, Ont., has sold out to Geo. Martin.—Wm. Wright, miller, Bradford, Ont., has been burned out.—The stock of A. L. Vanasse, general store, Cowansville, Que., is to be sold.—Thos. Deery, poultry and eggs, Montreal, has assigned, and creditors are to meet on Nov. 28.—J. B. Boursier's grocery stock at Ste. Cunegonde, Que., was sold at 55c.—Anthime and Joseph Desmarais are partners as A. Desmarais & Fils, St. Hyacinthe, Que.—G. M. Jackson, general store, has been succeeded by Hambley Bros.—Alfred Oram, baker, Prince Albert, Man., has sold out to Harry McCall.—R. H. Williams, general store, Regina, N.W.T., has opened a branch at Balgonie.—Roderick Ross, general store, Selkirk, Man., has sold out to M. Finklestein.

WILL HELP CANADA'S FAST LINE

One of the most important decisions of the Imperial Government for a long time, as far as Canada is concerned, was arrived at on Tuesday. It was nothing less than a decision to give $375,000 per annum to supplement the Dominion subsidy of $750,000 for a fast Atlantic line. Young Canada feels several inches taller to-day.

TURNIPY BUTTER.

"Tell the country dealers not to send in turnipy butter," said a well-known Toronto produce man the other day to a representative of THE CANADIAN GROCER.

This is good advice, and outside merchants should heed it. Moreover, they should take care in packing butter not to get any turnip butter into the tub, for no matter how little you put in it "leavens the whole lump."

These remarks are called forth by the arrival of a lot of turnip butter on the Toronto market. Farmers are beginning to feed turnips now, and have to be watched. In the present state of the market turnip butter counts for little.

OPENING UP IN MONTREAL.

So greatly has their business in Montreal and throughout the Eastern Provinces increased that Chas. Boeckh & Sons have found it necessary to open up warerooms in Montreal.

They have selected the large five-storey stone building at 301 St. Paul street for this branch establishment, and hope to have it running in full swing by Dec. 1, or thereabouts.

The building is one of the most modern style and is fitted with the latest improvements, including hydraulic elevators, etc.

At this address full lines of the firm's brushes, brooms and woodenware will be kept.

All manufacturing will still be done in Toronto, and all stock will be carried to Montreal in carload lots.

The enterprise of this house in thus extending operations is to be commended.

A POINTER TO POSTMASTERS.

Notice has been issued to postmasters in Canada, enjoining them to exercise extreme care in redirection of letters. In a recent case a letter addressed to a commercial traveler, who was about to visit a certain place, was sent away from the post-office of that place to a neighboring office for the altogether insufficient reason that no person by the name mentioned in the address was accustomed to call at the first office, while a person of similar name was known to live near the second office. The result was that the letter was opened by a wrong party, and the proper addressee failed to receive it, to his great inconvenience and disappointment. It would greatly help to insure prompt delivery of letters intended for commercial travelers if parties posting such letters would endeavor so to address them as to make it evident that they are not intended for permanent residents of the same name in the localities where they are to be delivered.

DROP IN TRANSVAAL SECURITIES.

The London Economist now estimates that the depreciation in the value of Transvaal gold mining securities since the slump began in September is £78,000,000, allowing nothing for the decline in the market valuation of shares for which it is now impossible to obtain a quotation. Outside of the Transvaal stocks the fall has been worse. For instance, the shares of the Chartered British South Africa Co. alone have declined £10,000,000, and the Beers mining shares £5,500,000. The Economist agrees with the opinion that the recovery in values will be slow.

REFUSING TO SELL SUGAR ALONE.

A London woman, who has recently returned from a visit to New York, stated to a friend of mine that she noticed in some of the grocery stores there that an order for sugar alone was refused. If they wanted sugar they also had to purchase something besides. "I think the idea is a good one," remarked my friend.

—Canadian Grocer.

We do not see how a grocer can refuse to sell any article in stock. If sugar is offered at or below cost it is done for advertising purposes, and nothing would be more likely to drive away customers than to refuse to comply with their demand, especially if they were induced to come through the attraction of cheap sugar. We do not believe in making a leader of sugar, or any other staple that everybody must have. Those articles sell themselves. Make goods prominent that afford a profit, and let the "drives" be such as indicate originality of action, and which tend to enhance the reputation of the store.—American Grocer.

PERSONAL MENTION.

William Ince, sr., partner of the firm of Perkins, Ince & Co., wholesale grocers, Toronto, has been elected vice-president of the British Canadian Loan and Investment Co.

J. E. Ganong, of the St. Croix Soap Co., manufacturers of "Surprise" and "Sea Foam" soaps, St. Stephen, N. B., is in Toronto this week.

John Ransford, of the Canadian Salt Association, Clinton, was in Toronto this week prospecting for business.

Charles Parsons, city traveler for John Sloan & Co., Toronto, unfortunately sat upon an infant in a street car the other day and terribly crushed it. As it was his own, however, and made of soap, no proceedings for damages have been instituted.

PEDLAR QUESTION IN TORONTO.

THE long-pending litigation between the City of Toronto and the pedlars regarding the legality of the by-law preventing pedlars from plying their avocation in King, Queen, Yonge and Dundas streets and Spadina avenue, has at last been settled.

The pedlars have won after the case has traveled, with various results, through the inferior courts up to the Privy Council of the Empire.

The by law in question was passed in October, 1891. The following September the pedlars endeavored to quash it. Failing, they went to the Court of Appeal, and there met with no better result. By no means satisfied, they brought the matter before the Supreme Court. Here they were successful, the sitting judges, by three to two, declaring the by-law ultra vires. The city then appealed to the Privy Council of Great Britain, but that august body has upheld the ruling of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Until quite recently the pedlars, on the advice of their counsel, have not been paying license fees, it being held that the result of the then pending litigation might affect the validity of the whole by-law, as well as the clause prohibiting peddling.

Impatient, however, awaiting the decision of the Privy Council, Toronto civic authorities some weeks ago decided to enforce the by-law as far as it related to the license fees. As a result, scores of offenders have been before the Police Magistrate and fined; and there are more to follow. One Police Court case was appealed, but Judge McDougall disallowed it.

As the by-law now stands, minus its prohibitory clause, it is the same as passed by the City Council in 1891. And the authorities are bent on enforcing it.

The fees under this by-law are as follows:

Horse and wagon, $20; push cart, $7.50; pedlar with large basket or creel, such as Italians carry on their shoulders, $2.50; pedlars on foot with all kinds of goods, $2.50; pedlars with pencils, threads, needles, etc., 10c. Fish pedlars—With horse and wagon, $10; with hand barrow, $2.50; with basket, 10c.

Although the by-law of 1891 has been maimed in one of its important features, the merchants who have championed the movement for more perfect regulation of pedlars should not be discouraged. They have only been defeated at one point; and there are other points at which it is possible for them to rally their forces and secure what has now been denied them.

During the argument of the case before the Privy Council the law lords intimated that while the city had not the power to prohibit pedlars from going on certain streets, it certainly had the power to regulate. For instance, the city could say on which side of the street pedlars may be permitted to ply their avocation. It also had the power of defining certain hours and enacting discriminatory fees.

Obviously, then, the City Council has yet a powerful weapon in its hand for abating the pedlar nuisance on the leading and crowded business thoroughfares of the city. There are many other ways of killing a dog besides hanging it.

What Toronto needs, and needs badly, is a charter. Montreal has one; and there is no valid reason why the "Queen City" should not be placed on an equal footing with the "Commercial Metropolis" in this respect.

Concomitant with the advance of civilization is the tendency to increased freedom of provinces and municipalities in matters appertaining to their internal government. And rightly so.

Ideal provinces or municipalities are built up only by action from within. The Federal power cannot know what is best for the province or the province for the municipality, any more than can the mayor of a city best discern the requirements of each home within his municipality.

It will probably be some time before Toronto will be able to procure a charter. And in the meantime those who desire a more vigorous by-law for the regulation of pedlars should make good use of the powers they possess.

The city cannot prohibit pedlars from coming on certain streets, but they can make them pay a price in proportion to the nuisance they create. The magnitude of that nuisance pedestrians and drivers of vehicles are better able to testify than even the mercantile community.

But while working for the one, agitation for the other can be inaugurated.

CANNED TOMATO SITUATION.

THE situation in canned tomatoes is more interesting than it has been for some time. THE CANADIAN GROCER has come to this conclusion after a careful investigation.

It is now generally conceded that although the pack is of fairly good proportions, it is not as large as anticipated.

The tomatoes which were coming into the factories at the opening of the packing season appear to have been on the whole rather above the average in quality. In some districts, for instance, where last year only 11 to 12 cans were obtained from a bushel of tomatoes, this year 15 to 18 cans were secured. Basing their opinions on this, the cannery anticipated an enormous pack. Then, what was natural under the circumstances, most of them pushed sales with more than the usual quantity of vigor. This, however, induced buyers to hold off, they accepting only such offers as were pretty low. And some of the offers were low. Some transactions are said to have been made as low as 65c. But these were exceptional cases, and were, in at least one or two instances, necessitated by the demand of the banks for money. It should be pointed out, however, that the tomatoes sold at the extremely low figures were not the well-known standard brands.

The lowest price ruling to-day for what are termed standard brands is 70 cents per dozen delivered. There have been transactions during the past few days at these figures. Some packers, however, who were willing to accept that figure a week or so ago, are now demanding better prices.

The fact of the matter is that within the last three or four weeks there has been a realization of the fact that the pack, while of goodly proportions, is not as large as people two months ago believed it would be.

As a result of this fact there has been a good deal of quiet buying on the part of wholesalers: Anything offered at a fair price they have taken. In pursuance of this some good-sized contracts have been made.

Although wholesalers held off during the early part of the season, as a result of the freer buying of the past few weeks, jobbers have much larger stocks at their command than they had a year ago. Much of these stocks may not be in the warehouses of the purchasers, but that does not alter the fact that the wholesalers have the goods.

As a concomitant of these heavy purchases by the wholesalers there has, of course, been a corresponding decrease of supplies in first hands.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has evidence enough to warrant the statement that at least four or five of the factories have disposed of practically all their stock. And among these are numbered some of the principal ones. We know of one factory that the other day had to purchase five hundred cases in order to complete its orders.

A few weeks ago a certain wholesaler in Toronto was approached by two or three packers, who importuned him to manipulate a sort of corner on tomatoes. At any rate they wanted him to purchase all the tomatoes available and they would co-operate with him.

This, however, may indicate many things: it may mean the creation of a corner for the purpose of controlling the market and appreciating prices; or it may mean the creation of a store to which the packers could go and get supplies to keep them going in the day of need. Those who were interested in the suggested undertaking allege that the latter was the real motive. THE CANADIAN GROCER is inclined to think, while this is in part true, that speculation was more at the bottom of the movement than anything else. At any rate it indicates some confidence in the market.

One peculiarity of the situation is that where last year the wholesalers bought only as they required, the packers being allowed to carry the goods, this year the wholesalers are carrying the bulk of the tomato pack. But while this is so, the wholesalers have, on the other hand, disposed of much larger quantities than is usual at this stage of the campaign. Retailers do not as a rule purchase extensively till after the first of the year, but, like the wholesalers, they have been induced by the low prices to purchase earlier than usual.

Under ordinary circumstances THE CANADIAN GROCER discountenances the anticipation of wants, but in the instance under review we opine that the right course was taken: Prices were so very low and so near the first cost that it was wiser to anticipate, within reasonable bounds, than to defer till a latter period; for with tomatoes retailing at three tins for 25 cents there must necessarily be a large consumptive demand, and a demand that will set in earlier than were the goods dearer.

One thing that should not be forgotten in reviewing the situation is the fact that the new pack came on a bare market, and that, with the prospect of a good consumptive demand during the present campaign, a repetition of last year's experience is not at all improbable.

At present prices THE CANADIAN GROCER would advise the trade to purchase, but at the same time we would urge every merchant to make his purchases proportionate to his carrying ability. It does not pay to overload a merchant any more than a ship, even if the indications do favor fair weather.

It may be interesting to note in connection with this article that the tomato pack in New Jersey is estimated to be fully 50 per cent. short on the average, while in Delaware the decrease is estimated to be nearly 50 per cent.

THOSE LOW PRICED TOMATOES.

THE low offers on canned tomatoes in Montreal, exclusively reported in THE CANADIAN GROCER the other week, have caused some misunderstanding, because the conditions qualifying the lots in question were not made sufficiently clear.

The goods are the output of two packers in the province of Quebec near Montreal, and it is understood that some of them are stock that has been carried over from previous seasons.

Of course this does not alter the fact that offers at 65c. have been made, and that they have unsettled the market to some extent; but it must be plainly understood that the low prices do not apply to Ontario packed stocked or to all Quebec brands either.

All brands of Ontario goods are held firm around 80c.; and packers are pretty well sold up on their pack. The same can be said of well-known Quebec makes. One of the latter packers said the other day that while it was quite true that two outside lots were being hawked around the market at 65c., his inside figure was 75c. at the factory, and not for his best brand, which he held for 80c. This establishment was pretty well sold up on its output also. In fact, the position in a nutshell is that while the low offers have created some uncertainty among retail buyers, and so interfered with business, jobbers who hold prime brands of tomatoes are not at all anxious about their property.

At this writing the low-priced goods under discussion, as far as can be learned, are still in first hands, as buyers have been chary about handling them.

THE ST. JOHN SUBSIDY.

THE Dominion Government is to be congratulated on the promptness with which it has complied with the memorial of the merchants of St. John, N.B., praying for a subsidy of $25,000 for a line of steamships to ply between that port and Great Britain.

Months and years are, as a rule, required to decide questions of this character, but here is an instance where one week proved sufficient.

The old material in the Cabinet is evidently developing business instincts for promptness; or perhaps the not-far-off general elections are doing the sharpening. If the latter be the cause, we can afford to have elections a little more frequently.

But, aside from all motives, the decision of the Government is a wise one. During the winter months Canada's position is most humiliating as far as its Atlantic shipping is concerned. The greater part of our freight and passengers destined for the other side of the Atlantic depart by United States ports. Had we no Atlantic winter ports, as foreigners may sometimes fancy is the case, we would have to "grin and bear" the humiliation. But we have winter ports. And in Halifax and St. John we have ports, not only the equal of anything on the Atlantic seaboard, but ports that are much nearer Europe than any possessed by the United States.

Therefore the Government would prove recreant to its trust were it to do nothing to encourage the utilization of our own winter ports. Nature has done its part; it is only right we should do ours.

With the increased facilities which this subsidy will afford Canadian exporters, also comes less dependence upon United States ports.

Every ton of freight we now send out of the country via a United States port merely goes out on sufferance. Politicians across the line know this; and frequently, when they want to curry favor with a certain class of voters, threaten to deprive Canada of the bonding privilege. Already they have deprived us, by vexatious ruling, of some of the bonding privileges conferred by the Washington Treaty of 1871.

We built the Soo Canal, not with the object of injuring the United States, but for the purpose of lessening our dependence upon the whims of her politicians. And it is the same spirit that actuates us in desiring to increase the facilities of our winter ports on the Atlantic. The subsidizing of a line running out of St. John is a step in the direction.

One provision of the contract stipulates that preference is to be given to all freight coming from the western provinces, and that rates shall be as low as from any port in the United States.

The first outward bound steamer leaves St. John on December 11.

POOR STYLE OF CHINA GREENS.

THE CANADIAN GROCER had occasion a few months ago to refer to the poor quality of some of the new season's Japan teas. We now make a similar complaint regarding China green teas.

The particular complaint regarding them is that they are carelessly made. One gentleman who has been a large handler of these teas for a number of years assures us that in style they are generally worse than he has ever heretofore seen them.

This condition of affairs has interfered a great deal with business, as out of five or six hundred packages it has been found practically impossible to get a handsome tea. And at the high price now ruling for China green teas, one of the things people demand is style.

Opinions as to the cause of the poor quality of China green teas are largely speculative, but the one which seems to find most favor is that the low prices obtaining last year have induced carelessness on the part of the growers in the preparation of the tea.

ANOTHER ADVANCE IN SALT.

IN a recent issue THE CANADIAN GROCER noted the consummation of an agreement among the Canadian salt men, and the appreciation of values which resulted therefrom.

And now we have to announce a further advance of prices, the result of further joint action on the part of the associated salt well interests.

The advance amounts to about 5c. per barrel, barrels now being quoted at $1.05.

This further rise in quotations was in reality, it is said, determined upon when the agreement was originally made, and the advance took place. But all parties agreed that it would be wise to gradually elevate prices rather than to spring a big advance on the trade all at once.

The primary cause of these advances is, as THE CANADIAN GROCER pointed out a few weeks ago, owing to the fact that for a long time past Canadian salt well men have been working practically without any profit.

The advance on barrels means also, of course, an advance of 5c. on sacks delivered from the wells, bringing the price up to 65c. per sack.

This state of affairs would seem to afford a splendid chance for Liverpool salt to compete with Canadian, as it can be laid down in Toronto at 62c. It is understood, however, that there is sufficient salt, purchased before the last advance and stored in Toronto (and therefore quotable at 60c.), to meet local competition by Liverpool.

No further advance is looked for.

THE CURRANT MARKET.

Mail advices received from Barff & Co., under date of Patras, Oct. 29, state that the steady upward tendency of the market is due to the strong demand from France and Russia, "in fact, from all markets of consumption."

According to the same advices, 20,000 tons of currants were being shipped and held for shipment during the next fortnight.

It was thought that there would likely be a continuance of the French demand, as the vintage in France is very short.

The Produce Markets' Review of Nov. 9, referring to currants, says: "Although the general position is undoubtedly strong, and future prospects exceeding healthy, it should be remembered that the next three or four weeks will see us through the heaviest buying; and it goes without saying that it is less desirable to play with old fruit, and hold it for a possible improvement, than to do so with the product of the present crop. The price of the lower kinds of new currants has hardened to the extent of 3d. per cwt., the lowest market quotation being now 13s., while the equivalent price in Greece for future shipments is slightly higher, and the fruit cannot be laid down here under 13s. 3d."

The Toronto Globe of the 19th instant stated that currants were easier in the primary markets at 9s. 6d. None of the brokers in the trade have received any notification to this effect, and consequently the statement is not given much credence. But whether the market is easier or not, the figures given are rather misleading. They would infer that 9s. 6d. was the price here. Such could not possibly be. If they have any application at all it is f.o.b. Patras. The laid-down price here is something like 11s. 6d. to 12s.

ORANGES ARE SCARCE.

The effect of the devastating frosts which laid waste the Florida orange districts last December and January will soon begin to be felt now. Many trees were killed then and others were put back years in their growth, and as a result, whereas the southeastern States of the Union are accustomed to send forth to the world tens and hundreds of thousands of baskets of oranges, the output this year will be very limited indeed.

Toronto is therefore likely to see very few Florida oranges this winter. In fact, not more than an odd car or two will be shipped here, it is thought, and these will be held in all probability at very fancy quotations.

Just now the demand is being filled by Jamaica fruit, which is not of a wonderfully high class. These we shall have to depend upon for a month, and after that come the rather sour Valencias. By January 1, the California oranges should begin to arrive in sufficient quantities to relieve the situation.

Meantime oranges are very scarce and firm, having advanced during the past few days in New York. They are likely to remain rather scarce and dear until after the Xmas holidays are over.

MARKING OF CANNED GOODS.

A resolution was submitted to the Montreal Chamber of Commerce at its meeting last week that is of interest to every grocer in the country. Mr. L. E. Morin, who introduced the resolution, wants the weight and year of manufacture of all canned goods plainly stamped on the cans so that there can be no misrepresentation.

Mr. Morin claims that as matters are now canned fruit and vegetables that have been carried over from previous seasons, sometimes two years old, are sold as new pack, and there is no means of the buyer knowing whether he is imposed upon or not. He accordingly asks the Chamber of Commerce to urge upon the Government the passage of a law which will secure the reform he desires.

The request is certainly a reasonable one, and when the matter comes up for discussion by the Chamber it is to be hoped that they will give it careful consideration. Anything that tends to guarantee goods against misrepresentation is in the interest of both buyer and seller.

THE POTATO SITUATION.

When Canadian farmers are glad to sell their potatoes at 15c. a bushel, there must be some cause for such low prices, and we have not to search far for a reason. The simple fact is that we have had an enormous over-production in Canada.

And Canada is not alone in this, for we have only to look abroad to learn that the whole world has seen a tremendous yield of potatoes. France and Germany report exceptional crops, and in England and Ireland potatoes bring only 28 to 30c. per bushel. Throughout the United States also the yield has been tremendous, the growers and buyers have flooded the markets, and prices are therefore away down.

The world's yield for the year is estimated at: United States, 282,148,000; Canadian Provinces, 56,956,000; United Kingdom, 192,800,000; France, 443,200,000; Germany, 1,106,000,000; Austria, 306,700,000; Hungary, 118,760,000; Belgium, 141,625,000; Denmark, 19,600,000; Holland, 90,000,000; Italy, 26,460,000; Russia, 611,000,000; Sweden, 57,670,000; Norway, 25,810,000.

While the prevalence of rot in the yield of the United States and the abandonment of the crop in some sections may later on in the winter relieve the situation and cause prices to firm up, we can hardly look for fair prices for potatoes until the next crop is about due anyway.

EARLY CLOSING IN MONTREAL.

The danger of a repeal of the early closing by-law in Montreal is not yet over. The law says that such a by-law may be passed on the petition of the merchants. When passed it must be signed by the Lieutenant-Governor. Apparently it can only be repealed by a petition from these same merchants, and on the approval of the Governor. Some of its opponents say that the new Council may repeal it.

In order to prevent any such possibility, the friends of early closing must continue united and bring all the influence they possibly can to bear to secure the election in February of aldermen favorable to their cause.

The Clerks' Association are still as active as ever. They held an enthusiastic meeting to celebrate their victory. They are organizing committees in each ward to work for aldermen who will pledge themselves to enforce the by-law and to prevent the election of men opposed.

MANITOBA WOOL EXPORTS.

The extensive exports of wheat, cattle and sheep from Manitoba and the Northwest have attracted widespread attention, but there is another product that will cut a respectable figure in the exports of the country this year that has been overlooked, viz., the wool crop. For the past four years the production of wool has been increasing by leaps and bounds. Last year a little over half a million pounds were shipped to the east, and this season about 1,000,000 pounds have been purchased by Ontario, Quebec and American dealers. This is the calculation of the local representative of Canada's largest buyer, who keeps well posted on the quantities sold and shipped. This gentleman informed a Free Press reporter yesterday that the quality of Manitoba and Northwest wool this season was much better than any previous crop, and that the buyers were well satisfied with it. The poorest quality came from the Mennonite reserve. Over two-thirds of the amount exported was supplied by the western ranches. The average price paid was ten and a half cents per pound, which represents an aggregate of $105,000 realized by the growers. The entire clip of one ranch, 50,000 pounds, was secured by a Boston buyer.—Free Press, Winnipeg.

QUALITY NOT QUANTITY IN CIRCULATION.

"In all the discussion about circulation," said the editor of a leading trade paper recently, to the editor of The Trade Press, "not half enough attention has been paid to quality of circulation. It is the character of your readers that makes your paper valuable or otherwise to advertisers." This is a solid chunk of sound sense. The men, or boys, who look a trade paper through for the "funny" column in it or a personal item that may be there, are of mighty little value either to publisher or advertiser. He is usually the reader who looks at the paper as long as it can be had free. One man who pays for his paper, insists on having every copy, and who reads it for the editorial comment on the technical articles, is worth more as a possible and probable buyer of things advertised in such papers than a carload of certain kinds of readers. There is a class of readers who are forever writing to advertisers for catalogues, prices or samples, but who have not the slightest intention of buying. They serve to "bring answers" to the advertiser, but it is a nuisance instead of revenue, a useless lumbering up of his mails. They are the same class of readers who are constantly sending for sample copies of newspapers without the remotest intention of any sort of patronage of the same. It were better for publisher and advertiser if these diligent readers and "subscribers" were in purgatory.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

GROCERIES.

NO new marked features have developed on the market during the past week. Canned vegetables continue in good demand at steady prices, and fair attention is being given to new season's foreign fruits. In other lines trade is quiet. In respect to sugar, it is dull, while teas are not receiving the same attention as they were a few weeks ago. Further shipments of new season's foreign dried fruits have arrived, but a great deal of dissatisfaction is being expressed at the slow manner in which the goods are coming forward from the direct steamer at Montreal. The reason assigned is the great pressure that is being made upon the rolling stock of the railways.

CANNED GOODS.

Canned vegetables continue in good demand, particularly peas, which are alleged to be nearly exhausted. Some wholesalers assert that they will not now take less than 95c. per dozen for peas. The situation in canned tomatoes, as noted editorially, continues to gather in strength. Salmon continues in fair demand at from $1.10 upward, according to brand. We quote as follows: Tomatoes, 77½ to 85c.; corn, 75 to 85c.; peas, 90 to 95c.; for ordinary; sifted, $1.05 to $1.10; extra sifted, $1.40 to $1.45; peaches, $2.90 to $3 for 3's, $1.90 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.40 to $2.00; strawberries, $1.80 to $2.45, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.90 to $2.20; cherries, $2.40 to $2.45; apples, 3's, 85 to 90c.; gallons, $2 to 2.25; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.35 to $1.40; "Maple Leaf," $1.35; "Lion," $1.35; Lowe Inlet, 1.27 to $1.30, in tall tins; cohoes, $1.10 to $1.20; canned mackerel, $1 $1.10; lobsters, $1.80 to $2.10, for tall tins; flats, $2.35 to $2.65; half tins, $1.40 to $1.45; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.40 to $1.50; 2's, $2.40 to $2.55; 6's, $7.75 to $8.25; 14's, $16 to $18.

COFFEE.

The markets both in the United States and in Europe are dull and lifeless. Locally the market is quiet and unchanged. We quote green in bags as follows: Rio, 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22½c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracaibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

SUGAR.

Business is almost nil, but the Canadian refiners are refusing to shade prices. Some bids at figures slightly under regular quotations have been made by wholesalers, but they have not been entertained. As a consequence buyers and sellers are apart. Licht's latest estimate issued on Saturday last shows a deterioration in the growing beet crop, the effect of which was to advance prices 1½d. in London for November and December. The feeling in New York is steady at the recent decline. The decline in question was only in certain lines and was, it is claimed, made to equalize quotations, and should not, therefore, be taken as an indication of weakness. In consequence of the dulness here wholesalers are accepting lower figures than a week ago. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, 43 to $4 45c.; do., No. 2, 4½c.; yellows, 3¼c. up.

SYRUPS.

The movement in syrups is still light. Only a few of the refineries appear to have any syrups to offer. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.; bright, 40 to 42c.

MOLASSES.

There is a good demand for molasses. We quote: New Orleans, barrels, 30 to 32c.; half-barrels, 33½ to 35c.; Barbadoes, barrels, 31 to 35c.; half-barrels, 33 to 37c.

RICE.

The conditions are much as before, both in regard to business and prices. We quote: "B," 3½ to 3¾c.; extra Japan, 5¼ to 5¾c.; imported Japan, 5¼ to 6¼c.; tapioca, pearl, 3½ to 5½c.

SPICES.

There is a good demand generally for spices, especially ginger. We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.

NUTS.

Shipments are still arriving, but there is not much demand yet. We quote as follows: Brazil nuts, 11¼ to 11½c. Sicily shelled almonds, 25 to 26c.; Tarragona almonds, 14 to 14½c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted, and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 14 to 15c.; Marbot walnuts, 12 to 13c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 10 to 12c.; Sicily filberts, 9 to 10c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; pecans, 10½ to 11c.

TEAS.

In Japans there has been considerable buying of medium to fine grades, at prices showing better results to shippers, with great scarcity of low grade and teas for price. Holders of China blacks have eased off a little in their views; there has been considerable buying of medium grades, Kaisows and a few Monings, both these kinds showing unprecedentedly good value. Greens have eased off somewhat, with fair buying at the decline. Ceylons and Indians are about one farthing lower in London on low grades. We quote ruling prices to retailers: Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

DRIED FRUITS.

Valencia raisins are still in demand at steady and unchanged prices. Leading brands we quote: Off-stalk, 4¼ to 4½c.; fine off-stalk, 4¾ to 5c.; selected, 6c.; layers, 6½c.; California loose muscatels, 3-crown, 5½c.; 4-crown, 6½c.

Currants continue in fair demand at unchanged prices. Mail advices state that the advances have been largely due to the demand on French and Russian account. We quote as follows: Fine Filatras, in half-barrels, 4 to 4¼c.; ditto, cases, 4¼ to 4½c.; ditto, half-cases, 4½ to 4¾c.; Casalinas, cases, 5 to 5¼c.; Vostizzas, cases, 6 to 6½c.; ditto, half-cases, 6½ to 6¾c.; ditto extra fine, 6¾ to 7¼c.; ditto, half-cases, 7¼ to 7½c.

Most of the houses did not receive their shipments of Malaga fruit till Monday and Tuesday, owing to the slow deliveries of the railways. The quality is fine. One importer asserted the shipment was the finest he has seen. We quote as before: London layers, $2 to $2.20; black baskets, $2.75 to $3.20; blue baskets, $3.25 to $3.50; choice clusters, $3.25 to $3.50; Dehesa clusters, $4 to $4.50; Royal clusters, $5 to $5.25; Royal Buckingham clusters, $4.50; Non-Plus-Ultra and Royal Windsor, $6.50.

Bosnia prunes continue firm in the primary market according to latest advices. A few French prunes and plums have arrived on the market Saturday last. Some of these plums are extra choice, being worth 20c. per lb., while the price of all French goods are high so far this season. The lowest on the market at present is worth 6½c. A few Bosnia prunes are also to be had. We quote: Bosnias, "Sphinx" brand, "A," 70-75 to lb., 9c.; "B," 80-85 to lb., 7¾c.; "U," 110-115 to lb., 6¾c.; California prunes, 40-50, 10 to 10½c. per lb.; 50-60 to box, 9½c. per lb.; 60-70 to box, 9c.; 70-80 to box, 8½c. per lb.; French, 5 to 6c.

California evaporated fruits are in good demand and prices in the primary market are steady. We quote: Apricots, 13½ to 15c.; peaches, 10½ to 12½c.; pears, 10½ to 12½c.; plums, 6½c. for unpitted, and 12½c. for pitted; nectarines, 11 to 13c.

Figs are quiet and steady. We quote: Eleme, 14 oz., 9 to 10½c.; 10 lb., 9½ to 12½c.; 18 lb., 13 to 15c.; 28 lb., 16 to 18c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The chief features of the green fruit market this week are the facts that oranges and bananas are both firming up. There are very few bananas in the city, and the Jamaica oranges are none too plentiful. Cranberries remain very firm, though good stocks of very fine berries are on the market. Malaga grapes are scarce, and are likely to go higher, as Liverpool advices say that there are no good "marks" left for shipment. The scarcity in all these lines is emphasized by the arrival of Thanksgiving day, which as usual has had the effect of strengthening the market. We quote: Lemons—Messina, $3.50 to $5.50 per box; Malaga, in half-chests, $8 to $9, boxes, $3.75 to $4; Oranges—Jamaicas, in boxes, $4 to $4.50; in bbls., $7 to $7.50; Bananas, $1.40 to $1.75; cocoanuts, $3.50 to $4 a sack; apples, $2.25 to $3 a barrel; grapes, 4 to 5c. per pound, and 25 to 40c. for small baskets; Malaga grapes, $6 to $7 per keg; pears, 50 to 75c.; domestic onions, 60 to 75c. per bag; Spanish onions, 50 to 65c. per small crate; sweet potatoes, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; cranberries, $10 per bbl., and $3.50 per case; butternuts, $1 per bushel; hickory nuts, $1.50 to $2 per bushel; chestnuts, $7 per bushel.

BUTTER, CHEESE, EGGS, POULTRY.

BUTTER—As predicted in these columns last week, butter is a little weaker than it was. The warm weather perhaps has something to do with this, but unless the demand in England improves very much higher prices can hardly be looked for. We quote: Old summer dairy and store packed, 8 to 12c.; fresh prints, 15 to 16c.; fresh tubs, 15 to 17c. Fresh creamery—Tubs, 20 to 21c.; pound prints, 22 to 23c.

CHEESE—Local buyers have paid 8¾ to 9c. for August-September Canadian makes, and 9½c. for balance of season.

EGGS—Fresh eggs bring 16 and 17c. per doz., while pickled cannot be bought lower than 13½ to 14c.

POULTRY—Is coming in in good quantities, but, despite the weather and all, it keeps very firm in price and has even advanced a little. We quote: Geese, 5½ to 6½c. per lb.; turkeys, 7 to 9c. per lb.; chickens, 25 to 40c. per pair; ducks, 40 to 60c. per pair.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—Jobbers offering at $1.10 to $1.15 per bushel.

DRIED APPLES—Remain at 5 to 5½c. per lb.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Firm at 6½ to 7c. per lb.

POTATOES—Show no particular change. The prices paid in the country are 14 to 15c., while in the city on the track potatoes bring 22 to 25c., and out of store 25 to 30c.

HONEY—Strained brings 8 to 10c. per lb.; while combs go at $1.50 to $2 per doz.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

There are large offerings of hogs, but packers do not seem willing to pay the price asked in many cases. As a result, sellers are anxious. Just now hogs are bought at $4.65 to $4.70, selected weights, but they may go lower. We quote products:

DRY SALTED MEATS—Long clear bacon, 6½c. for carload lots, and 7c. for small lots; backs, 7½ to 8c.

SMOKED MEATS—Breakfast bacon, 10½c.; rolls, 7½ to 7¾c.; hams, large, 22 lbs. and over, 10c.; medium, 15 to 20 lbs., 10½c.;

small hams, 11c.; pickled, 9c.; backs, 10 to 10½c.; picnic hams, 7½c.

LARD—Pure Canadian, tierces, 7¾c.; tubs, 8¾c.; pails, 8½c.

BARREL PORK—Canadian heavy mess, $15; Canadian short-cut, $16; clear shoulder mess, $13; shoulder mess, $12.50.

DRESSED BEEF, VEAL AND MUTTON.

Farmers just now are running in their cattle off the pasture for slaughter, and an over supply has resulted. This, in conjunction with the warm weather and the influx of poultry, has brought prices away down. They will go up a notch when cold weather returns and the surplus cattle are disposed of. Dressed meats by the carcass are thus quoted: Beef, first-class, $5.50 to $6 per 100 lbs.; fair to middling, $4.50 to $5; rough and inferior, $3.50 to $4. Lamb, 4¼ to 5c. per lb. Mutton, 3½ to 4c. per lb. Veal, 4 to 6½c. for first quality.

FLOUR AND FEED.

WHEAT—Quoted thus: White, 74c.; red, 71c.; goose, 60c. per bushel.

OATS—Quoted at 28 to 28½c. per bushel.

BARLEY—Quoted at 35 to 44c. per bushel.

FLOUR—Ontario is higher, while the price of Manitoba has sagged somewhat. We quote: Ontario straight roller, $3.15 to $3.20; Manitoba, $3.50 to $3.69; patents, $3.75 to $3.85.

HAY—Baled hay is very scarce and advancing in price, while baled straw is practically unobtainable. For baled hay in carload lots, $14 to $14.50 is being paid, $16 being asked for ton lots.

BREAKFAST FOODS—We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.20 to $3.30; rolled wheat, $2.10 in 100 lb. barrels; cornmeal, $2.90 to $3; split peas, $3.25; pot barley, $3.40.

FISH.

As the close season for lake fish is now on, trade is rather quiet. It will wake up again after December 1, however. Standard oysters are quoted at $1.10 to $1.20, but selects remain at $1.65 to $1.75. We quote fish: Skinned and boned codfish, 6½c.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4c.; haddock, 5 to 6c.; Labrador herring, $3.25 to $3.50 per half barrel and $5.50 to $5.75 per barrel; Newfoundland herring, $2.50 per half barrel, and $4.50 to $4.75 per barrel; fresh water salt herring, $3 per barrel; blue-back herring, 3c.; pike, 6 to 7c. per lb.; flitch cod, 5c.; finnan haddies, 6½c.; Digby herring, in bundles of 5 boxes, 11c.; ditto, lengthwise, 10c.; large halibut, 12 to 15c.; Restigouche salmon, 20 to 25c.; British Columbia salmon, 12 to 16c.; mackerel, 20 to 25c.; steak cod, 6½ to 7c.; haddock, 5c.; black bass, 9 to 10½c. Fresh Lake Erie herring, $3 per 100.

SEEDS.

There is no change in business, which continues quiet; there is a little more enquiry for alsike. Prices are unchanged. Current quotations are as follows: Timothy, $3 to $4 per 100 lbs.; alsike, $4.50 to $7 per 100 lbs.; red clover, $7 to $7.50 per 100 lbs.

SALT.

As noted in our editorial columns salt has made another advance of 5c per barrel. Prices now are: Barrels, $1.05; coarse sacks, 60c.; fine sacks, 65c.; dairy, $1.50; rock, $10.

HIDES, SKINS, WOOL AND TALLOW.

HIDES—Have declined another half-cent in price and dealers are now paying 5½, 4½ and 3½c. respectively for Nos. 1, 2 and 3. Cured are held nominally at 6¾c. Business is very quiet, sales being difficult to make, and everybody seeming to be waiting.

SHEEPSKINS—Lambskins and shearlings have advanced another 5c., and now bring 75c.

WOOL—Trade continues quiet. We quote: Fleece combing, from 23½ to 25½c.; rejections, 17½ to 18½c.; unwashed, 13½ to 14½c.

PETROLEUM.

In the States all lubricating oils have advanced 1c. per gal., and American burning oils have done the same. Crude is high and an advance is expected here, especially as small stocks are held here. Meantime we still quote in 1 to 10 bbl. lots, imperial gallon, Toronto: Canadian, 16c.; carbon safety, 18c.; Canadian water white, 18c.; American water white, 20½c.; photogene, 21½ to 22c.

California prunes have advanced from $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb. at the Coast owing to large offers for same from Europe. Apricots have stiffened in price and grown scarcer. Loose muscatels remain unchanged, with all sorts of offers flying around, but the standard brands remain firm, and shippers have been able to obtain a slight advance on 4-crown.

The British ship Ardmore, 1,092 tons, Capt. White, arrived Nov. 11, from London, with general cargo, and will load salmon for Liverpool. The five vessels of this year's fleet that have already cleared carried 263,267 cases, valued at $1,373,209. The Ardmore will probably carry about 49,000 cases, and the John Gambles, yet to arrive, 46,000 cases.—B. C. Commercial Journal, Nov. 12.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Nov. 20, 1895.

GROCERIES.

THE week has not presented any striking feature, and, as a whole, business is of moderate volume. There has been rather more enquiry for sugar at the refineries during the past six days for future delivery, but the jobbing demand is light. Syrups and molasses have ruled quiet and firm. Teas show a moderate degree of activity, and there have been turn-overs of China greens and medium Japans to a considerable extent. The firm feeling in all kinds of dried fruit is fully maintained, and in Valencia and California raisins and dried currants quite a noticeable business has been transacted from second hands. Canned goods continue quiet and dull, and there is nothing else of moment to refer to.

SUGAR.

The reduction in price by the refiners has led to a little more activity in the sugar market, but the volume of business is not materially increased. Advices on raw from outside points lately have been rather easier in tone, but no radical change is likely on this market. At the refineries granulated has been moved at 4 3-16c., and high grade yellows at $3\frac{3}{4}$ c., but in a jobbing way. We quote: Granulated, $4\frac{1}{4}$ c., and yellows, $3\frac{1}{4}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c., as to grade.

SYRUPS.

There has been a steady, quiet demand for syrups during the past week at $1\frac{3}{4}$ to $2\frac{3}{4}$ c. per lb. at the refinery, but in a jobbing way business is rather quiet at $1\frac{1}{2}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ c., as to grade.

MOLASSES.

There has been no change in the molasses market since our last report. Business is of a quiet jobbing character to fill actual wants at 37c. for Barbadoes and 35 to 36c. for Porto Rico.

RICE.

There has been a fairly good demand for rice, while prices rule steady.

SPICES.

There has been no change in spices during the past week, the volume of business being fair and prices generally steady.

Black pepper has sold at $7\frac{1}{2}$ to 8c. in jobbing lots, and cloves at 9 to 10c., while lots of white pepper have left the factory on the basis of 10 to $12\frac{1}{2}$ c.

FIGS.

The fig market is steady at 9 to 12c. for ordinary and 13 to 17c. for fancy fruit.

COFFEE.

The coffee market exhibits no new feature, business being confined to a small jobbing trade. Prices all round are steady as follows: We quote green bean: Maracaibo, 20 to 22c.; Rio, 19 to 20c.; Java, 24 to 28c.; Jamaica, 18 to 20c., and Mocha, $27\frac{1}{2}$ to 31c.

TEAS.

The tea market has not shown much activity. The most prominent feature has been some sales of round lots of China green tea on private terms, some 800 packages changing hands. The movement from second hands is light, as local and country retailers have supplied themselves for some time ahead now with all grades except low-priced Japans. The market continues very bare of supplies of these, and any that are in hand are held firm for the advance. Medium lots of Japans have been taken for account of western jobbers at 16c., and also quite a few lots of Ceylon and India teas. In fact, the consumption of these teas in Ontario, if the movement this fall is any criterion, must be largely increasing. We quote Japans: Low grades, 14c.; medium, 15 to 18c.; fine, 20 to 22c., and choice, 25 to 32c.

DRIED FRUIT.

The Valencia raisin market is very firm on spot. All the supplies in first hands have been absorbed, or nearly so, and there has been a continued good jobbing enquiry for all grades running from ordinary off-stalk to selected. We quote values firm, as follows: Ordinary off-stalk, 4 to $4\frac{1}{4}$ c.; fine off-stalk, $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{3}{4}$ c.; selected, $5\frac{1}{2}$ to $5\frac{3}{4}$ c., and layers, $6\frac{1}{4}$ to $6\frac{1}{2}$ c.

There has been a good demand for California raisins. The market here is very lightly supplied with 4-crown loose muscatels, and as the same advices come from the Coast, jobbers who have them in stock are very firm in their views. In fact, an order could not be filled under 7c. The stock of 3-crown, however, is more ample and prices rule about as follows, $5\frac{1}{4}$ to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c.

There is no change in Sultana raisins. Supplies of them are light on spot, only a few jobbers having any, and values are held at 6 to $6\frac{1}{2}$ c. as to grade.

In table raisins a fair business is doing, prices ruling steady as follows on Malaga fruit. We quote Malagas: Extra loose muscatels, $1.40; Imperial London layers, $1.75; Imperial cabinets, $1.90; Connoisseur clusters, $2.20; extra dessert clusters, $3; Royal Buckingham clusters, $3.50.

The currant market rules very firm, and stocks in jobbers' hands here are much lighter than usual at this season. Prices are held at: $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c. in barrels, 4 to $4\frac{1}{4}$ c. in half-barrels, and $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{3}{4}$ c. in cases and half-cases.

There is no change in prunes, which continue strong in tone. Business in a jobbing way has been fair as follows: We quote: French ordinary, 6c., and choice, $7\frac{1}{2}$ to $13\frac{1}{2}$ c.; new Bosnias from second hands at 6 to $6\frac{1}{2}$ c.

There is no change in dates, which we quote at $4\frac{1}{4}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.

NUTS.

The nut market is much as it was last week and business is quiet. We quote: Brazils, 8 to 9c.; shelled almonds, 20 to 25c.; Tarragona, 12 to 13c.; Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; shelled ditto, 25 to 27c.; filberts, $6\frac{1}{2}$ to $7\frac{1}{2}$ c.; and pecans, 8 to 10c.

CANNED GOODS.

There is little or no change in the canned goods market. Lobsters are firm and prices on prime brands of other leading lines are held pretty firm. We quote: Lobsters, $8 to $9 per case; sardines, $8.50 to $10.50; salmon, $5.20 to $5.50; mackerel, $5; tomatoes, 75 to 80c. per doz.; peaches, $2 to $3 per doz.; corn, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peas, 95c. to $1 per doz.; strawberries, $2.25 to $2.50; raspberries, $2; green gages, $2 to $2.25; blue plums or damsons, $1.50 to $1.75; pineapples, $2.25 to $2.50, and 3-lb. apples, 80 to 85c.

WINES AND SPIRITS.

There has been a fair trade doing in Scotch whiskies, for which some good orders have been booked during the week. Wines have been on the quiet side.

GREEN FRUIT.

No striking change is to report in the green fruit market. Supplies have been fairly liberal, but were cleared up under a fair demand.

APPLES—Receipts have been rather heavy, but sales are easily made at firm prices. We quote $2 to $3.25 per bbl.

GRAPES—Almeria grapes are steady at $5.

CRANBERRIES—Steady and unchanged at $8.50 to $10 per bbl.

ORANGES—Range from $6 to $6.50 per bbl. for Jamaicas.

LEMONS—Palermo lemons are unchanged at $2 to $3 per box.

SPANISH ONIONS—In fair demand at 40 to 45c. per crate.

SWEET POTATOES—Rather easier at $3.50 to $4 per bbl.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was a fair demand for eggs, and prices rule steady. We quote new laid at 18 to 20c.; choice candled at 14 to 15c., and ordinary stock at $11\frac{1}{2}$ to 12c. per dozen.

POTATOES—The market for potatoes was quiet at 35 to 40c. per bag for choice Early Rose in car lots.

BEANS—Beans are moving slow at $1.10 to $1.15 per bushel for choice hand-picked in car lots, and at $1.20 to $1.30 in small quantities.

Stock must be cleared out by 1st January.

No reasonable offer refused to clear out any line. For this reason it will pay you well to call and see our stock of Crockery, China, Glassware, Lamps, etc., both staple and fancy.

HOPS—The demand for hops was slow at 5 to 8c. per lb. for new, as to quality.

POULTRY—The poultry market was quiet and easy. The receipts were fair and the demand slow. We quote: Turkeys, 8 to 8½c.; chickens, 5 to 6½c.; ducks, 7 to 8c., and geese, 5½ to 6c. per lb.

DRESSED HOGS—In dressed hogs, trade was quiet at $5 to $5.50 per 100 lbs. in a jobbing way. Car lots are offering at less money.

TALLOW—The tallow market is unchanged at 5½ to 6c.

HAY—The hay market shows more activity recently, there being a good enquiry experienced from Ontario points. We quote:
No. 1, $12, and No. 2, $10.50.

PROVISIONS.

There was no change in the situation of the local provision market. The demand is slow and business quiet. We quote: Canadian short cut, clear, $14.50; Canadian short cut, mess, $15; hams, city cured, per lb., 9 to 10c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 8¾ to 9c.; bacon, per lb., 9 to 10c.; lard, com.
refined, per lb., 6¼ to 6½c.

BUTTER.

The butter market continues dull with a dragging sort of trade confined to small lots for actual wants on local account. In this connection medium sized parcels of creamery were moved at 21 to 22c. to-day, and Western made stock sold at 16 to 16½c.
Receipts of Township dairy are light and anything choice fetches 18 to 19c., but the outside is an exceptional price. We quote: Finest September creamery, 21 to 22c.; finest August creamery, 19 to 19½c.; Township dairy, 17 to 18c.; fresh Western rolls, 16 to 17c.; Western dairy, 14 to 15c.

CHEESE.

The cheese market continues quiet and steady. Business in late made cheese is at a standstill. Owners of it consider that it is good property, and are in no hurry to sell, and as buyers are not disposed to concede what the former ask, values on this grade of stock remain nominal, at a range of 9¾ to 9½c. for finest Western makes, and 8¾ to 9c. for Eastern makes. On the other hand, good grading from 8¾ down to 8c. are fairly active in a small way. Sales of last half August were noted at 8¾c. to-day, and earlier makes sold over the iron, from 8 to 8½c., as to quality. Cable advices are of quite an indifferent character. We quote: Finest Ontario, fall makes, 9¾ to 9½c.; finest Quebec, fall makes, 8¾ to 9c.; summer makes, 8 to 8½c.

ASHES.

The ashes market is quiet and steady.
We now quote: First pots, $3.90 to $4; seconds, $3.75 to $3.80, and pearls, $4.60
to $4.70.

appearance of these goods is certainly first-class and they simply look delicious in their tasty packages. They are of the well-known G. & S. brand.

Hudon, Hebert & Co. are offering Valencia and Malaga raisins, and Provincial and Vostizza currants. Their stock of these goods is a very full one.

Laporte, Martin & Cie. note a good demand for their Richard's brandy. This liquor offers special value for the money.

Ernest Templier, grocer, of St. Louis de Mile End, pleaded not guilty before the police magistrate Thursday to a charge of selling liquor without a license. He was remanded for trial.

The creditors of Duncan Stewart, the absent grocer, met on Thursday last and confirmed the appointment of J. McD. Hains as curator; also appointing Geo. A. Childs inspector. The liabilities will not exceed $5,000.

A. M. Smith, of London, spent last week here. He has as many friends as in the Forest City, but he was specially looked after by his old friend John Morrow, of Morrow & Ewing.

Robert Junor, who has been in the employ of the late firm of Jas. A. Skinner & Co., Toronto and Hamilton, has been appointed manager of the crockery and art department of Henry Morgan & Co., Montreal.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Nov. 20, 1895.

THERE continues to be a large movement in most goods. The weather is still very mild, and the river steamers find no trouble running. It is expected another week will see the end of the river trade. Very large quantities of vegetables, particularly potatoes and turnips have been brought down. Owing to quite a rise in the river a large number of the logs hung up, have been got in, but as it is now only at usual summer height, there are quite a quantity which it is expected will have to remain till spring. The men owning the booms at Fredericton are anxious to get them closed, as should they be caught open by the frost, it might mean a loss of $25,000. Our people are much pleased that St. John is to be the winter port for the Beaver Line steamers running fortnightly to Liverpool. As regards the question of what time shall be used, the feeling in favor of Eastern is growing, through a lengthy signed petition has been presented to the Mayor in favor of Atlantic. Word has been received that the Government has complied with the request of the Board of Trade, and that the Custom House and other Government departments will in future use Eastern Standard time. The most particular interest this week has been taken in Valencia raisins, the prices of which are higher and very firm.

OIL—Very large quantities particularly of burning oil are moving. In all grades, both burning and lubricating, prices are marked up half-cent on account of the advance in crude. Prices are held firm at quotations.

We quote: Best American, 22½c.; best Canadian, 21½c.; prime, 18c. No charge for barrels.

SALT—There has been nothing new since our last report. Stocks are not large, but if needed, a supply can be got via schooner from Boston, and it is understood the first of the direct steamers from Liverpool is to bring some. At this season the demand is light. We quote: Coarse, 50 to 55c.; fine factory-filled, 95c. to $1.10; 5-lb. bags, $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10-lb. boxes, 12c.; cartoons, $1.90 to $2 per doz.; bulk dairy, $2.80 per bbl.; bulk cheese, $2.70.

CANNED GOODS—There continues to be a fair business. Beans and pork are being offered low. Something new is being offered in American baked beans, in one and two pound tins, called Vancamp. These are extra quality and are put up in tomato catsup. Nova Scotia packers of gallon apples have shipped largely to England. They put up a good apple, but the demand for them here has fallen off very much in the past few years. New oysters are to hand. There is some inquiry for peas, but packers are offering very few, and then only in small quantities with corn. Prices are: Corn, 85 to 90c.; peas, 90 to 95c. tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.60 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.50 to $1.60; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $2.85 to $2.90; 2's, $1.90 to $2; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.40; salmon, $1.25 to $1.50; flat, $1.75; clams, $5.50 for 4 doz.; chowder, $3 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1; pineapples, $2.35; kippered herring, $1.10.

GREEN FRUIT—In apples arrivals have not been so large, and prices are much firmer. Bishop Pippins are coming in rather more freely than other grades of best winter fruit, such as Northern Spys, Kings, etc. The quality is very good. Sales are freely made at quotations, not near as many being sold at auction as last season, or even as at the first of this. In other lines there is a fair demand. Canadian grapes are out of the market, as far as the wholesale business is concerned. Some Valencia oranges have been offered here, but our dealers do not care to have them before the middle of December, as the quality only begins to get good by that time. In the meantime they prefer West India fruit. The demand for nuts is rather active, owing to the approach of the holiday season. We quote: Lemons, $4.50 to $5; bananas, $1 to $2.50; West India oranges, $5 to $6 per bbl.; Malaga grapes, $5 to $6; sweet potatoes, $4 per bbl.; Graevenstein apples, $2 to $2.75; other fall grades, $1 to $2; Pippins and winter fruit, $1.50 to $2.25; pears, $2.50 to $3.50; Gren. walnuts, 12 to 13c.; filberts, 7½c.; Brazils, 11c.; almonds, 11c.; roasted peanuts, 8½c.; pears, 11c.; cocoanuts, $4.50 per 100.

DRIED FRUIT—There is a large trade doing. Particularly is the movement active in Valencia raisins and layer Valencias. Stocks are not large, and neither in New York nor at Denia can any quantity be bought. It is hard to give quotations as prices will be higher. The fact that there is a quantity of California L. M. raisins here and to arrive will prevent prices going above certain figures, the more so as some of the Californias were bought low. It is expected they also will be firmer, although at present they can be laid down from New York nearer the direct shipment price than at any other time during the season. In currants prices are also very firm at quotations. Prunes are held firm, and are likely to be higher. There is an active sale for figs. On onions the quotations are still low. We quote: New Valencias, 5 to 6c.; new figs, 12c.; new 4-crown Cal. L. M. raisins, 6 to 7c.; new 3-crown Cal. L. M. raisins, 5 to 6c.; new keg prunes, 4c.; boxes, 4¼ to 6c.; new Cal. L. L. raisins, $1.75 to $1.85; new currants, bbls., 4c.; half-cases, 4½c.; new evaporated apples, 7 to 7½c.; dried apples, 5½ to 6c.; dates, 4 to 4½c.; California evaporated peaches, 12 to 13c.; do. apricots, 12 to 14c.; do. pears, 12 to 13c.; clean currants, bulk, 6½c.; 1-lb. cartons, 7½c.; Canadian onions, $2 to $2.25 per bbl.; coconuts, $4 to $4.50 per 100; citron, 15 to 16c.; orange, 12 to 13c.; lemon, 11 to 12c.; new cleaned currants, 6-crown, 1-lb. cartons, 8 to 8½c.; Sultanias, 10c.; half-boxes, off-talk, 6 to 6¼c.; half-boxes, layers, 6½ to 7c.; quarter-boxes, layers, 7 to 7½c.; Valencia layers, 6 to 6½c.

DAIRY PRODUCE—There is a slowness about butter that was hardly expected. The quantity offering is too large. Butter is being offered from P.E.I. There is, however, a fair movement in best grades. In eggs, the price continues firm, with but fair supplies arriving. Cheese shows no marked advance, and large sales are hard to make, particularly early makes. Some factories are shipping direct to London and others to Montreal. There are fairly large stocks here, and a quantity is still in first hands. We quote: Cheese, 8½ to 9c.; new butter, 17 to 18c.; eggs, 16 to 16½c.; fresh creamery prints, 22 to 23c.; tubs, 20 to 21c.

MOLASSES—There has been rather less of a movement during the past week, and holders of best grades are firm, stock not being large, and there being no large stocks near to draw from. New Orleans, in barrels of 40 gallons each, is having a large sale, the quality offered being good value. There is also a good movement in syrup, that on the market here being free from certain flavors which in other years have been noticed, and have hurt the sale. We quote: Barbadoes, 32 to 34c.; St. Croix, 31 to 32c.; Porto Rico, 34 to 36c.; syrup, 33 to 35c.; Trinidad, 32 to 33c.; New Orleans, bbls., 34 to 35c.

SUGAR—There is a fair demand, but hardly as great as last week. There is rather an easier feeling, though no change is noted in prices, and stocks here are in some cases large, with holders not pushing sales. At the low prices there is a larger demand for granulated than yellows. We quote: Granulated, 4¼ to 4½c.; yellow, 3½ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5¼ to 5½c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

FISH—There are fair stocks of dry on hand and prices are rather firmer, principally in cod. In smoked there is more than there is a demand for, there being still a quantity of old both here and at the islands. Numbers are being shipped to the West Indies, but advices from there are not encouraging. Pickled are moving but stocks are large, and though quality is particularly good prices remain low. Boneless shows good demand. We quote: Medium cod, $3.35 to $3.50; large, $3.60 to $3.75; small, $2.40 to $2.50; pollock, $1.40; bay herring, $1.25 to $1.30; Grand Manan, $1.30; ripplings, $1.65 to $1.70; wolves, $1.90 to $2; Quoddy River, $2.50 to $2.75; smoked, 10c.; shad, half-bbl., pickled, $5.50; Canso, $5; halves, $2.75; Shelburne, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.

PROVISIONS—In this line there have been large importations, principally in pork, which has been offered very low. It is said one dealer placed orders for 1,000 barrels. Canadian packers keep their prices too high. In beef the Canadian is thought to be too light for sale here. Lard is being offered very low by some packers, there being ¼c. difference between some quotations this week. We quote: Domestic mess pork, $14.50 to $15; clear pork, $15.25 to $16; mess, $14.50 to $15; plate beef, $13.25 to $14; pure lard, 9 to 10c.; compound lard, 8c.; cottolene, 9¼ to 9¾c.; rolls, 8½ to 9½c.; beef, half bbls., $7.; hams, 12c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—Manitoba flour is having a large sale. There is no change to note in prices. The feeling does not favor higher figures. Oatmeal is firm with an upward feeling, as is true of oats, for which a good demand is noted. Large quantities of P.E.I. are coming in. Beans are rather lower and stocks are large. Cornmeal is still moving freely. Our local mills received 20 cars of corn this week. Hay continues firm with country buyers backward in giving prices. We quote: Manitoba, $4.70; best Ontario, $4 to $4.15; medium, $3.90 to $4; oatmeal, $3.60 to $3.70; cornmeal, $2.35 to $2.40; hand-picked beans, $1.25 to $1.30; prime, $1.10 to $1.20; split peas, $3.70; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.25; hay, $10.50 to $11; oats, 34 to 36c.; middlings, $19 to $20 on track; bran, $18.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Bradstreet's is to have an office here with R. W. Teskey as manager.

F. P. Reid & Co., wholesale grocers, of Moncton, have just completed their fourth warehouse built inside the past three years.

Smelt fishing has commenced on the north shore, and already a few small shipments have gone forward to Boston.

C. & E. Macmichael have received a shipment of the celebrated Nigger Head Oysters.

Theo. H. Estabrooks has received a large shipment of extra quality syrup, as a large demand is noted at this season.

James B. Gillespie has received his line of Christmas samples from the firm of G. J. Hamilton & Sons, whom he represents. The candies are particularly fine.

Smith & Tilton, representing the Windsor Salt Co., report the sale of their salt in cartons has been far larger than they expected, while the demand for barrels and boxes continues very heavy.

Northrup & Co. have received a car of the well known and popular "Flag Ship" brand of salmon. It is the first received here and is giving every satisfaction.

The property of the St. Lawrence Lumber Co., situated in New Brunswick, has been bought by Adams & Co., New York.

So far the returns from the 28 cheese factories on P. E. I. show an output of cheese valued at $157,000, while the two creameries sent out butter worth $11,000. It is now intended to run a winter creamery, which it is expected will turn out $25,000 worth of butter. Should all go well next year it is thought the output can be doubled.

The steamers of the Furness Line are already carrying western winter freight to London from this port. The last steamer had 1,000 bags of oatmeal, and there was other freight to go but it was late arriving. This line of steamers is deservedly popular, having done much to forward the interests of our port. Among the merchandise taken aboard here was twenty tons of N. B. cheese.

Northrup & Co. received last week a carload Fraser river salmon, "Flagship" brand. We understand these goods are giving their customers the best of satisfaction.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER,

HALIFAX, Nov. 20, 1895.

THE most important item to the trade, and indeed to the whole province, is the disappearance of James Hutchinson, of the firm of Hutchinson & Seeton, commission merchants. He left his place of business on Tuesday night, the 12th inst., and has not been heard of since. This firm has had a rather curious career in this city. When this firm commenced business three months ago they subscribed to the commercial agency reports, but the expense of the same, $50, they never paid. They issued circulars, which, in many instances, quoted to country shippers prices of produce 25 per cent. above the market price, and it sold 25 per cent. below. They demoralized trade generally. Seeton, the other member of the firm, was never seen here, and it was given out that he resided in England. Country dealers sent the firm large consignments, which were at once sent to an auction sale. It was another case of the country dealers being duped.

Halifax has another model fish-drying establishment, that of Messrs. George E. Boak & Co. Heretofore damp fish brought in at this time of year had to be placed in store and remain there until spring, when they were dried in the usual manner, spread in the sun about the wharves. By the new process the fish are dried in 24 hours and ready for shipment. The dryer is capable of holding 85 to 100 quintals of fish at a time. This is calculated to increase our trade with South America.

FLOUR—There is no change in the flour market, but it is expected the present prices will be maintained.

FISHSTUFFS—Grocery cod is still in good demand, as are grocery herring of good quality. Very few mackerel have been taken during the week, and the outlook is very discouraging as the season draws to a close. Prices are firm, and are likely to go higher.

GREEN FRUIT—Good apples are in demand, and prices are well maintained. Gravensteins are very scarce. In other lines the market remains unchanged.

EGGS—There is an advance of 1c. in eggs since last week. The quotation to-day is 16c.

DRIED FRUIT—There is no change to report in dried fruit. New Valencia raisins are quoted at 4½c., although prime stock sells at 4¼c.

PROVISIONS—The mild weather leaves the provision market very dull. Prices are low all round.

MOLASSES—Another cargo of molasses, consisting of 200 puncheons, was received this week. Quotations are unchanged.

SUGAR—Business continues dull at the refineries, and quotations are unchanged.

BUTTER—There is some activity in the local market. Creamery is selling at from 21 to 24c. for tubs, and 23c. for prints. Some new dairy rolls are offered at 18 and 19c., while dairy tubs are bringing 15 to 20c.

CHEESE—Good stock is selling at 9c.

PRODUCE—Schooners continue to arrive from P.E. Island with produce. There are over 20 cargoes here now and more on the way. Potatoes sell at 23 to 25c., and oats at 32 to 35c. Turnips bring 20 to 25c.

HALIFAX NOTES.

Bauld, Gibson & Co., Halifax, N.S., have a large consignment of MacLaren's Imperial cheese on the way, and will have some in stock shortly, all put up in beautiful white opal jars. The firm have the sole control for Nova Scotia, and can fill all orders promptly from their stock. No retail grocer should be without this delicious article on his shelves for Christmas trade.

CHARLOTTETOWN NOTES.

The steamer Campania took 120 bushels of cranberries to Montreal this season, shipped by J. Wheatley. They were grown at Rustico Island.

ANNAPOLIS NOTES.

Mr. William T. Chute, son of Mr. Aaron Chute, of Annapolis, has invented and patented an egg tester, which must certainly fill a long felt want among merchants and traders. The device consists of a small box, $9\frac{1}{4} \times 5\frac{1}{2}$, with a sloping top, and having a capacity for testing six eggs at one time. It can be used with equally satisfactory results any time through the day or by artificial light, and will instantaneously show exactly in what condition an egg is when placed in the box. The tester is meeting with ready sales, and bids fair to outlive all other similar devices.

TAUNTON.

INCREASING THEIR FACILITIES.

Mr. J. McCance, who for six years has been in the employ of Butler Bros., east end grocers, St. Thomas, has entered into partnership with Mr. D. D. Black, who for five years has conducted a successful grocery business on the corner of Wellington and Elgin streets in that city. Mr. Black has always enjoyed a leading trade amongst a critical class of customers, and has the reputation of handling only the best goods on the market, while keeping the price in every case lower than his down-town competitors. Both gentlemen have a wide experience in the grocery business, and they propose to give their whole attention to catering to the public and enlarge their list of customers.

A NOTE OF WARNING.

The London Grocer issues the following note of warning: "As is well known, it has for years past been the practice to bulk Indian and Ceylon teas at the gardens before they are dispatched to the markets, or bulk them in London if it has not been done at the gardens. This has been done to secure regular and uniform quality. Serious complaints have reached us, however, that some importers are neglecting this practice. When the irregular character of the tea in the chests is discovered, and a claim is made, it is quietly allowed, and the matter treated as accidental. If the non-bulking is not detected then the cost of the process is saved and goes into the pockets of the importers. The omission, however, if persisted in, must lower the confidence in Indian and Ceylon teas. The greed of the Chinamen, which led to the deterioration of Chinese tea, and the consequent falling off in the demand, ought to be remembered by all but the most indifferent or careless among the importers. There is little doubt that similar conduct on the part of those interested in Indian and Ceylon imports will lead to a like result. At present the evil has not grown strong, but unless checked, and that speedily, disaster is not far off.

CEYLON AND TEA CULTURE.

A REPRESENTATIVE of The Evening News, London, Eng., recently had an interesting interview with Mr. John Lane Densham, one of the partners of the Mazawattee Tea Co., regarding tea matters in general and Ceylon tea in particular, from which THE CANADIAN GROCER makes the following excerpts:

There are now tea companies without number. Almost everyone drinks tea—in point of popularity it stands head and shoulders above every other beverage. Next to tobacco, indeed, it yields the largest Customs revenue. Speaking roughly, the country makes about £5,000,000 off tea every year, spirits coming next, and wines next.

Having got this little prologue down, I will now proceed to describe how I bearded a Tea King in his throne-room, and beguiled him into an hour's conversation about the cheerful drug which has never yet been known to enebriate.

Mr. John Lane Densham shares with his brother the task of ruling over the destinies of the Mazawattee Tea Co. The house of Densham—started by our hero's father 33 years since—is an old and respected one. For years the Denshams sold tea and coffee (wholesale) just like anyone else, but ten years ago they were struck by the quality of the tea which came from Ceylon. The China trade is now as near as possible (so far as the English tea trade is concerned) a dead letter. Some old stagers drink China teas, but the rising generation hardly dream of touching them.

Mr. Densham here got out a great ledger, and turned to a page of figures, the sight of which sent a cold shiver down my back. "It's all right," he said, noting that I wore a worried look. "I am not going to worry you with a lot of statistics. I simply want to show you a few figures which will prove how wonderfully the consumption of Ceylon tea has increased since we first drew the attention of the public to it. In 1884-85 Ceylon exported 2,482,000 lbs. of tea, and China 139,000,000 lbs. In 1894-95 Ceylon exported 84,000,000 lbs. of tea, and China only 46,000,000. Thus in ten years the consumption of Ceylon tea has increased by 72,000,000 lbs., while that of China has declined by almost 100,000,000 lbs."

"And where does the discarded China tea go to?" I asked Mr. Densham. "The best of it," he replied, "goes to Russia, the inferior sorts to other European countries, and the commonest of all to Canada and Australia. High-class Ceylon teas, such as 'Mazawattee,' have practically driven China tea out of the English market."

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

According to The Grey Review, Jas. A. Hunter, general merchant, of Durham, Ont., is achieving a reputation as A Hunter. About a year ago he shot a bear almost within the corporation limits, and on Tuesday last he went out on the trail of a deer whose tracks had been seen for a day previously. Before long fresh tracks were discovered, and after some tramping between the town and the Rocky Saugeen, the animal was at last sighted behind the Vessie farm and a shot or two from the sure hand of Jas. A. brought him down. He was a fine buck, 4 or 5 years old, in good condition and weighed 200 lbs.

A TRAIN OF FRUIT.

Yesterday there passed through the city for British Columbia, via the Canadian Pacific, a train of twenty cars of canned fruit from the factory of the Boulter Canning Company, Picton, Ont. The train was very attractively decorated with the firm's name, and will, no doubt, be a conspicuous object to the settlers as it moves across the prairie. It will also be a striking object lesson to the people of British Columbia, a land of so much fruit of the finest quality, and may be an incentive to them to extend their orchards by planting new trees and establishing canning factories within their own boundaries. A slight impetus was given to the industry this year, and several shipments of packed fruit were made to many places in the Territories and the province. A start was also made this year in building a canning factory in the Pacific province, and this is receiving every encouragement. The novelty of a train of canned fruit moving from east to west may be superseded before many years by trains of a similar character coming from the Pacific province to the prairies—Free Press, Winnipeg.

CONCERNING RETAILERS.

IT was erroneously stated in our issue of 8th inst that Russell & Watson had bought out F. Hall, of Guelph. It should have read Mercer & Watson had bought out F. Hall.

J. W. Gilpin, merchant, Belhaven, was unfortunate enough to lose an infant child the other day.

George Homer & Co.'s clerk "The Little Fellow," Gravenhurst, has returned from a deer hunt. As he bagged the stipulated number—two—it was not a dear hunt. Friends who may have been concerned about his health will be pleased to learn that he gained flesh as well as deer. He now tips the beam at or about 300 pounds.

Crawford, Lynch & Co., general merchants, Orillia, are occupying a store in the Syndicate block formerly occupied by Chas. Moore. The premises, however, are too limited for the firm's business, but, I am informed, they will eventually be back in their old store again after the effects of the fire have been repaired.

Alf. Courtemanche, manager and buyer for James Stafford, of Midland, has returned from a deer hunt with two beauties as the result of his labor.

F. Dalton, grocer, Niagara Falls, is erecting a new store. It is going to be a fine building, better, in fact, than the one at present occupied by him, which is saying a great deal.

DEPLETED OF SALMON.

The Canadian Government has received an application from the State of Washington of an unusual nature. It appears that the salmon in that State and in the important rivers of the Pacific slope States are rapidly becoming extinct. Some reports say it will not be long before the once famous Columbia River will cease to yield fish. The Government of Washington State is now exerting itself with a view to restocking the rivers, but cannot obtain a supply of eggs. It has consequently applied to Canada for a supply, and the application is now under consideration. There is at present in the Fraser River hatchery a surplus of salmon eggs, more, in fact, than are at present required. From that source an effort is being made to stock rivers in the territories. It is hard to overlook the extensive and systematic poaching that is engaged in, both as regards the eastern and western fisheries. At present the United States fishermen put out great nets near the mouth of the Fraser River which are highly detrimental to Canadian fishing interests. Having ruined practically their own fisheries, they are now forced to look to Canada for the means of restocking them.

If you want to get solid in your town and prevent your customers dying off, sell them B. F. P. cough drops.

Neatness

In the appearance of a package is a help in selling the article.
All the packages in which

Windsor Salt

is put up are the neatest and most attractive on the Canadian market. Our cotton bags are made of the best material and printing is the neatest. The cardboard used in our packages cannot be duplicated in Canada, and our round packages, 2 doz. 4-lb. per case, are handsomely lithographed for shelf display. These facts are worth remembering when you are ordering table salt from any wholesale house.

THE WINDSOR SALT WORKS, Windsor, Ont.

A MODEL CANNING FACTORY.

CANNED food of all kinds is now a staple line with all dealers in food products, and the consumption of it is growing every year. Such being the case, any contrivance that is calculated to improve the condition and quality of these articles before they reach the consumer is of material benefit to the community. In the past the contact of the solder used in sealing the can with its contents has been one of the chief objections. THE CANADIAN GROCER last week inspected some new machinery, which entirely does away with this objection, in the canning establishment of J. W. Windsor, on the banks of the Lachine canal. This firm possess the exclusive rights in Canada for the cans turned out with these contrivances, and that their merits are recognized by the trade the increasing demand for their patent cans fully attests.

The process is a speaking object lesson in the advance in modern machinery methods. The first treatment that the plain tin cylinders receive is in the flanging machine. This contrivance gives the flange on the edges of the cylinder necessary for the insertion of the top and bottom of the can. When this is done, a top, which has been previously stamped out by stamping machine, another labor-saving contrivance, is beaded into the flanged tin cylinder and double-seamed, without the use of a single drop of solder. Then the can, which is now complete, with the exception of the top, is filled with lobsters or tomatoes, etc., as the case may be, the top stamped on by a second beading machine, and the job is complete. To do all this is a matter of minutes, the rapidity being fully attested by the fact that one of these machines running full time can turn out 5,000 to 6,000 cans daily. When the can is filled, topped, and bathed the package is ready to be labelled for the market. This establishment, in addition to providing cans for its own use, also supply the firm's lobster factories in the Maritime Provinces. Last year was the first time these patent cans were used for lobsters, and their merits are amply attested by the fact that next year's output of the firm's lobster packing establishments is already all sold to London firms.

A few words regarding the Lachine Canal factory will appropriately close this article. Besides the machinery above described, it is fully equipped with other modern appliances for turning out the firm's well-known brands of tomatoes and other goods. The building is a three-storey structure on the canal bank, with a large basement. The latter is used for tomato packing, the first floor for the offices and store-room, the second also as a store-room, and the third as a can shop for the accommodation of the patent machinery mentioned above.

HE FOLLOWS SUIT.

There is at any rate one man known to the grocery trade who should fully enter into the spirit of Thanksgiving day. We refer to Mr. Chris. Fowler, head salesman for Dawson & Co., Toronto, who intends combining his Thanksgiving dinner with his wedding breakfast. The bride is Miss Taylor, of Brampton, Ont., formerly of Michigan. By the way, Cupid seems to be getting in good work in the West Market street fruit emporium. It is only a few weeks since we recorded the marriage of Mr. Henry Dawson, the senior member of the firm, who, if we remember rightly, also brought his wife from Brampton.

ADVERTISING HINTS.

Advertise vigorously. Make yourself felt. Half-hearted, intermittent advertising won't "go down" nowadays; the public is "onto it," and has a very decided prejudice in favor of the advertisement which is always with them.

A novelty in advertising is shown in a Scotch church. The congregation could not pay its minister. To help them out of their dilemma a soap firm offered to pay $500 a year for five years on condition that its advertisement be hung up in front of the gallery in the church. The offer was accepted.

FOR DELECTATION OF CLERKS.

THE superintendent of a large retail store in New York, while talking to a friend one day, said :

"It is not always the most industrious or intelligent salesmen who succeed in our business. Sometimes a peculiarity of speech or manner will make them distasteful to customers. Note that young man who is selling towels, for example. He is too familiar. He leans over the counter and whispers as if he were the confidential friend of every woman who buys a napkin. He means only to urge his wares, but ladies do not like it. They will not be served by him again. I shall probably be forced to discharge the poor fellow, though he means well."

A trustee of one of our colleges was asked why Professor Blank was held in comparatively light esteem as a teacher. "He is a learned man, accurate and earnest in his teaching," said the inquirer, "and an honorable gentleman. Yet inferior men are advanced in general esteem, while he remains just where he began ten years ago."

"There is but one cause for his failure," was the reply, "his untidy habits. How can it be otherwise with a man who comes on the platform with soiled linen, a greasy coat and black finger nails? He looks like a tramp. Good and wise as he is, he does not command the respect of the students."

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, in a lecture to nurses, said that competent, earnest women sometimes fail in the sick room because of some peculiarity of habit which renders them unpleasant to their patients. Among these was the use of perfumes. No well-bred person will carry around a scent which may be offensive to half the people whom they meet.

Men and women in every department of life find their usefulness impaired by some little habit often unconsciously acquired. A sensible, friendly woman finds that her companions, after a few moments' conversation with her, look bored and manage to leave her. She is wounded and perplexed. No one has told her that she has an annoying habit of talking only about herself, or of giggling at the end of each sentence, which worries the most patient listener.

A clergyman of piety and much talent was unpopular in every parish over which he had charge because of his brusque, harsh manner of speaking.

Such little weights have burdened and hindered usefulness and success in many a human life.—Youth's Companion.

The grocers of Brooklyn will try and induce the State Legislature to pass a bill decreeing that a married woman is equally liable with her husband for all debts. It is to be hoped the grocers will succeed in their efforts. Woman is equally liable with man to the divine law, why not then to the human in the matter of debts?

A NOVA SCOTIA CREAMERY.

SAYS a Kentville paper: Among the many creameries which during the past two or three years have been established all over the country, the creamery at Canning, although only started a little over a year ago, already takes a prominent place. When work was begun in July, 1894, it received the milk of only 200 cows, a number entirely inadequate for successful operation, but this year the number has been nearly doubled and is constantly increasing. The milk is collected four times a week, and an average weight of 6,400 lbs. a day is received. For this they pay the farmer 70 cents a hundred, except between the months of May and November, when they pay 75 cents. The first year cheese making received the most of their attention, but the cheese market this year has been so dull they have dropped its manufacture entirely, having scarcely made any since the first of August, although in the four months preceding they made over 21 tons. Since then they have devoted their time wholly to butter making. They now make butter four times a week, and turn out about 1,200 lbs. from the four churnings. But even this does not nearly fill the demand, which is double the supply and constantly increasing. The principal market for the butter at present is Halifax, where they get 20c. per lb. in $\frac{1}{4}$ -lb. prints and in tubs. Cheese sells at 9c. per lb. by the single cheese, with a discount for larger lots, and though the demand this year is small yet, they have sold 180 cheese in the past week and have orders for 100 more by Nov. 1st. The creamery at Canning is controlled by a joint stock company, of which Herbert Stairs is the president and N. W. Eaton the secretary, and is under the management of C. E. Sanford, a man of large experience in butter and cheese making, as the superior articles manufactured by him amply show. He has been in the business twenty-four years, and makes a very obliging and capable manager.

GRAND TRUNK AND WABASH.

A private Toledo despatch, received in New York, says that the fact that Chas. M. Hays became general manager of the Grand Trunk means more than the mere employment of a good man. The Gould interest has coveted the southern division of the Grand Trunk and English capitalists prevented their securing it. Some close arrangement for an eastern outlet for the Wabash over the Grand Trunk to Buffalo is expected in the near future.

GROCERS' COLLECTING BUREAU.

A gentleman who takes a lively interest in the affairs of grocery associations writes: "Would it not be a wise move for the Grocers' Association to raise the annual dues to five dollars, and make it a gigantic collecting and reporting agency? This could be easily done, if three hundred members could be got who would pay five dollars each which, I believe, could be procured, when they could see the advantages of such an institution. Fifteen hundred dollars a year would pay the secretary a good salary to do nothing else but look after the collections and work of the association. It would pay him $1,200 a year and pay for office, telephone, and office boy. Grocers belonging to it would get advantages they could get nowhere else. Every grocer belonging to it would be required to send in all his accounts for collection, which would be credited to them, and a list made out for each day for the secretary to collect. This would pay in more ways than one. If the secretary only collected a hundred dollars for each member a year, the member would only be paying five per cent. for having his accounts collected, and if the grocer wanted to find out whether a customer was good or not all he would have to do would be to telephone down to the secretary's office and enquire. With such an agency as this in connection with the association no member would need to pay $15 per annum for a mercantile agency book."

DROPS FROM THE EDITOR'S PEN.

Teas are good things to tease business with.

* * *

Experience, like a snow ball, becomes larger the more it is rolled.

* * *

With sugar as cheap as it is, it would hardly pay the grocer to add sand.

* * *

Winnipeg's retail merchants appear to be going in for civic reform by the wholesale.

* * *

Trade does not run on sleds, but it nevertheless moves a little faster when snow is on the ground.

* * *

Perseverance is the key that will open the door of Success to any young man of common sense.

* * *

When illuminating gas is as cheap as political gas this will indeed be a cheap country to live in.

* * *

He who cannot give and take will not be given much of this world's goods—or the next either for that matter.

* * *

He who digs deeply into his business is likely to strike paying gold sooner than he who goes prospecting in gold lands.

* * *

A Philadelphian advertises that he sells at "Cut prices only." He is either a prevaricator or a fool; probably both.

* * *

Character is more important than education; and goodness knows how little a man can afford to be without education.

* * *

The measure of a merchant's success is gauged, not by the goods he sells, but by the proportion of his receipts to his expenditures.

* * *

A bright store will be more attractive to the public than a dull one, just as a mirror is more attractive to a woman than a black-board.

* * *

The merchant should be careful that people who trot off to the departmental stores with their cash do not get goods from him on credit.

* * *

Oil spread on the water calms angry seas, but spread on the store floor sometimes raises angry passions in the breasts of customers.

* * *

Legion is the name of a great many people who do not believe in advertising, but who will burst their suspenders in their efforts to get a free "ad."

* * *

Because Torontonians are so particular regarding the quality of their water supply, it should not be inferred that everybody in the "Queen City" is a teetotaler.

* * *

Were we sure we would be alive to-morrow we might safely leave the doing till to-morrow of a good many things that under existing circumstances it is wiser to do today.

* * *

He who stands before the counter of the barroom, when he should be found behind his own runs the risk of losing the capital necessary to stand either before the one or behind the other.

* * *

Young Canada could, on Thanksgiving day, easily have said that he was thankful he was not as other nations, and yet the charge of being pharasaical could not have been levied against him.

* * *

The Division Court compels the merchant who brings suit in it to divide up his profits with the court officials and lawyers. Therefore the Division Court must be an Anarchistic institution.

* * *

Merchants who keep to the pathway of honesty have no easy task at times, but the hills they have to climb are not nearly as high as the falls of those who tread the paths of dishonesty are deep.

* * *

In spite of efforts to maim Canada's export cattle trade, we have this season shipped to Great Britain about 7,000 head more than last year. This is the kind of revenge which is profitable as well as sweet.

* * *

The salt combine in the United States is making Chicago packers smart. To rub, with salt, half a million dollars out of an industry, as it is thought the combine will do out of the packers, is enough to make the latter smart.

* * *

Those who are so tied down to business that they can afford no time for association of either their family or their fellow-tradersmen, are none the less slaves because the chains that bind them are of their own forging.

* * *

The grocers of Philadelphia are now face to face with the department store evil, John Wanamaker having added a grocery department to his mammoth store. And the "spirit moves" the good people of the "Quaker City" to put their fighting armor on.

* * *

Canadian Pacific earnings for the second week in November were $508,000, against $437,000 last year and $501,000 the same week in 1893. These figures provide Canadians with confidence-building material, as well as the railway with food for satisfaction.

* * *

Scales have been lately introduced which will weigh a pencil mark on a sheet of paper or a hair from the eyebrow. For fine distinctions splitting hairs is not to be compared to this. Hereafter, instead of talking about splitting hairs, it will be weighing pencil marks that we shall refer to when desiring to illustrate the finest possible distinction.

MARKING CANNED GOODS.

EDITOR GROCER,—In your issue of the 22nd ult., under the head of "Marking of Canned Goods," I notice a Mr. L. E. Morin moving a resolution to the Chamber of Commerce, Montreal, praying that body to bring before the notice of the Government at its next session the necessity of legislation in the direction of compelling the manufacturers of hermetically-sealed canned goods to stamp the weight and year in which the goods were packed on the can or label for the protection of the public and the unsophisticated grocer.

I would remind Mr. Morin that a similar agitation was set on foot some years ago, and I think it originated in the east, where the wise men come from. The Government took action, granting the petition of the defender of people's rights, and a law was passed compelling canners to have stamped or printed, either on the can or label, the weight of the can, and the year in which it was packed. Canners immediately set to work to meet the new order of things, and various devices were invented for stamping empty cans and unused labels left over from the preceding year. Considerable grumbling was heard from those who were caught with a stock on hand, and the writer remembers a gentleman, who in the early history of the movement was among the agitators, who was ready to swear long before the end came that canned goods did not depreciate with age.

A canner in one of the country towns of Ontario came to the rescue by discovering that simple, common water was about the heaviest and cheapest product that he could fill cans with, and that you could not always tell the value by the weight. I think I can yet see the expression on the faces of our law makers when a deputation of canners waited on them with a can of vegetables and a similar sized empty can, which was filled with water in their presence, and when weighed was found to outweigh the former some 3 oz.

I am happy to inform Mr. Morin that the deputation of canners waiting on the Government at that time were able to convince them that canned goods did not materially depreciate with age when properly canned and stored, and succeeded in having removed from the statute books a very absurd and nonsensical law.

In conclusion, I think the regulations and recommendations to the Government as to laws pertaining to canned goods may for the present be safely left with the canners themselves, who, with few exceptions, are quite as anxious as the trade to elevate the standard of canned goods, and I know, Mr. Editor, you will agree with me in saying that the canned goods of this country (new as the industry is) are second to none in the world. Now a word to Mr. Morin (whom I take to be a grocer), and the trade in general, and I am done: Don't be induced to purchase inferior brands of canned goods on account of cheapness, but encourage the honest packer to keep honest by paying him a living profit for his product, and you will soon find the evils complained of disappear. Remember that it is always the poor brands that become aged on your shelves.

A CANNER.

GETTING UP A BLACK LIST.

At the last meeting of the Winnipeg Retail Association, the secretary was instructed to compile a list, gathered from the members of the association, of all customers from whom it was found impossible to collect accounts, for the private use of the members of the association. Municipal matters were discussed and a committee appointed to canvass for the association's nominee, C. H. Wilson.

S. D. VALLIERES.

The new president of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association, S. D. Vallieres, is one of the popular members of the trade, as his election testifies. His grocery in the flourishing Montreal suburb of St. Henri is all that a modern grocery should be, and it is satisfactory to note that Mr. Vallieres, whose business integrity is well-known, is the proprietor of a flourishing business. Mr. Vallieres was born at St. Rose, a town near Montreal, on Nov. 13, 1844. He was educated at the parish school, and at the early age of 13 came to Montreal and spent three years in the general store of Felix Gougeon, of St. Henri. He afterwards spent several years in Chicago, where, having thoroughly mastered English, he returned to Montreal and spent two years in the grocery store of J. T. Lavigne. In 1874 he began business on his own account, and has been a successful merchant ever since. He was one of the founders of the Retail Grocers' Association of Montreal, of which he has been secretary, trustee, and finally elected president in October last.

CLEANING WINDOWS.

A satisfactory way to clean windows, explains an exchange, is to select a dull day, or at least a time to do the work when the sun is not shining on the window, or it will be dry streaked, no matter how much it is rubbed. Take a painter's brush and dust the window, inside and out, washing all the woodwork before touching the glass. The glass should be washed simply with ammonia diluted with warm water. Do not use soap. Use a small cloth with a pointed stick to get the dust out of the corners. Wipe dry with a soft piece of cotton cloth. Do not use linen, as it makes the glass linty when dry. Polish with tissue or an old newspaper.

FIRST TRANSHIPPED RAISINS.

The first of the Valencia raisins transhipped from England arrived Monday on the Adriatic from Liverpool. The total arrivals of Valencia raisins from the beginning of the season to date have been 102,746 half-boxes, 4,480 quarter-boxes and 500 eighth-boxes, against 26,590 boxes, 414,592 half-boxes and 15,600 quarter-boxes for the corresponding period last year.

CANADIAN LOBSTER TRADE.

THE Maritime Grocer gives some interesting information regarding the lobster trade this year. This journal says that the season opened nominally at about $8 to be paid to packers for choice 1-lb. flats, and $7 for straight packed 1-lb. tails, but towards the middle and end of the season prices advanced, and as high as $8.85 was paid for flats, because buyers foresaw a deficit, together with the fact that higher prices were ruling for British Columbia salmon, and this enabled them to pay higher prices. Towards the end of the season, as is usual, prices slackened off again owing to the fact that in the winter the demand for canned fish is very materially lessened.

The total exports from Halifax were about 162,000 cases, of which in round numbers, 71,000 went to London, 33,000 to Liverpool, 20,000 to the United States and Upper Canadian points, and 38,000 to continental ports via New York, the chief points of destination being Hamburg, Stockholm, Copenhagen and Bordeaux. In addition to these shipments to continental ports from here on through bill of lading, a fairly large quantity of the London and Liverpool shipments would afterwards be sent forward to the continent.

Last year the total shipments from Halifax were about 150,000 cases, and the proportions of disposals were about the same, with the exception that England took a slightly larger and the United States a slightly smaller percentage of the pack.

At St. John's, Nfld., for the present year the total shipments were about 27,000 cases, nearly all of which went to Liverpool, as against about 20,000 for 1894.

The year has been marked by the absence of trouble caused by what is known to the trade as "smut," but will be recognised by chemists as sulphide of iron. This takes the form of a moist black paste which forms on the inside of the can owing to the chemical action of the sulphur in the lobster on the iron or steel of the tin can.

The article concludes by speaking of a new process of packing being experimented with this year.

GET A RECEIPT ALWAYS.

The man to whom you are paying money may be honest, but get a receipt notwithstanding. There are other things besides dishonesty that sometimes compel the payment of an account already liquidated.—Canadian Grocer.

Too many grocers, and men of other business as well, ignore this. You may have the highest regard for the probity of the man to whom you pay money and from whom you take no receipt, but human memories are not infallible. Suppose several months later that man dies, or forgets that you have paid him, and suppose he may have neglected to credit you with the amount? Where will you be if you have no receipt?—Grocery World.

NEW FISH ENTERPRISE.

Application is being made for the incorporation of the Reid and Tait Fish Co., Ltd., of Selkirk, Man. Daniel Reid, James Tait and Roderick Smith are to be the first directors of the company. The chief place of business of the company will be at the town of Selkirk, and the operations of the said company will be carried on in the town and on Lake Winnipeg and the Red River. The objects of seeking incorporation are to acquire real estate, erect buildings, ice houses and freezers thereon, and to acquire steamboats, steam barges, sailboats, fishing tackle and general fishing plant for the catching, curing and shipping of fish. The company is to have a capital stock of $60,000, divided into 600 shares of $100 each.

HE CAME OUT OF THE WEST.

Roderick Ross, a well-to-do young general merchant of West Selkirk, Man., came to Toronto last week to be married to Miss Higgins, stepdaughter of Latouche Tupper. Miss Higgins has been attending the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

HAMILTON TRADE GOSSIP.

THE grocery trade in Hamilton, as elsewhere, exhibits the falling off in trade that is usual at this season. At the same time, however, it must not be inferred that trade is dull. On the contrary, it is fairly good. And in the regular seasonable lines the activity is generally conceded to be more marked than is customary. One house reports last month's trade was the best in its existence, and one of the partners of another assured me that its business for the first fifteen days of the present month was fully 20 per cent. larger than for the same time a year ago. It is evident Hamilton is sharing in the general revival of trade. Payments are fairly good.

Sugar is one of the commodities that is really dull. But prices, at least as far as the refiners are concerned, are firm. I know of one bid at 4¼c. net cash for Montreal granulated which was refused, and one-sixteenth more asked. The wholesale price for granulated is 4¼c. for Acadia and 4¾c. for Montreal. The idea for yellows is 3.30c. up to 3.90c.

Another line which is sharing in the seasonable dulness is canned goods—vegetables, fruits, salmon and lobster are all in limited demand. With the large shipments of poultry that are arriving upon the local market, nothing else could be expected, particularly in the matter of salmon and lobster. In spite of the enormous quantities of poultry that are coming in, however, stocks in the hands of the commission men are kept pretty well cleaned up. Regarding the future of canned vegetables, the wholesalers do not appear to have any opinion. At least if they have they religiously keep it to themselves.

There is very little doing in teas, which, of course, is natural for this time of the year. The market, however, continues firm, as far as prices are concerned.

What the trade is now particularly paying its attention to, and will be to the end of the year, is, of course, foreign dried fruits. "The Christmas trade in fruits," remarked one wholesaler to me, "is being done much earlier than last year. There is no doubt about it, that the retailer who this year got his supplies in early is reaping the benefit of it, because he catches the consumer who early makes his purchases. Merchants who these days wait till the middle of December before purchasing their supplies run the risk of being compelled to carry over a larger proportion of their stock than would have been the case had they bought their supplies earlier in the season." Valencia raisins are gradually getting into smaller compass. Further shipments are due here about the middle of December, and it is expected that they will come upon a bare market. The demand in the meantime continues active. Currants, too, are selling freely. Malaga raisins have also been experiencing a good demand. "Our experience," remarked one jobber, in speaking of this fruit, "is, that the best fruit had the first sale. And we think that things are shaping much the same way as they did last year, when, by the first week in December, there were practically no Malaga raisins on the market."

New Grenoble walnuts are on the market this week. "This," explained a member of one firm, "is really the first appearance of new season's Grenobles, notwithstanding the fact that some houses alleged they had them in stock before the goods were really landed in the country." In regard to prices, I find there is considerable range, but the idea for good stock appears to be 12½c. per pound by the bale and 14c. per pound for smaller quantities. A good demand is to be noted for shelled almonds.

There is not much doing in either molasses or syrups, but on good baking molasses the market is firm.

Evaporated goods such as peaches, plums, apricots, nectarines, prunes, and apples are all meeting with a ready sale at prices much the same as before.

Free deliveries of poultry are affecting the cured meat trade, as well as that in canned goods. In fact, trade in this line is practically centred in breakfast bacon, and F. W. Fearman informed me that the demand for his English breakfast bacon was active. Sounding one of Mr. Fearman's sons regarding the hog situation, he remarked briefly: "Prices are very low, but I think the bottom has been about touched."

A new washing powder has been put on the market by a local firm organized for the purpose. The style of the firm is the Silver Dust Manufacturing Co., and the powder takes the name of the first two words in the company, "Silver Dust." It is done up in neat packages and is highly recommended by the trade.

Balfour & Co. are still in their old premises in James street. About one-half their stock is, however, in their new warehouse at 72 McNab street, and some time around Dec. 1 will see the other half, together with the staff, located there as well.

Lumsden Bros. have within the last week received two shipments of teas. The one consisted of 600 packages of Paklings and the other 500 chests of cheap Congous. The former was received into the warehouse on Tuesday.

Balfour & Co. received a shipment of Lipton's teas on Tuesday. They are also in receipt of shipments of Morton's goods, including Albert sardines, which are still very scarce. "We placed the order six months ago," remarked Mr. Balfour, "and they advise us that it will probably be another six or twelve months before they will be in a position to fill any more orders."

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. H. Devaney, northern traveler for Eby, Blain & Co., is off on sick leave this week, sore throat, that common complaint, laying him up. E. Mellish, of the sample room staff, is taking his place.

Ernest S. Cooper, of the Toronto Salt Works, has returned from Windsor, where he went to arrange for shipments of salt. He reports finding the Windsor people behind in their shipments, chiefly because of the big demand from the Northwest.

Through a slip the name of Dawson & Co.'s head salesman, who was married last week, was misspelled in THE GROCER. The happy groom is Mr. Chris. Thauburn.

T. J. Widdén, grocer, of Port Perry, Ont., was in Toronto on Wednesday on a buying tour. He reports trade fair, with good prospects for improvement when the cold weather sets in, so that the farmers can get to town.

BIG PURCHASE OF RAW SUGAR.

In addition to being heavy buyers on spot in Montreal of raw centrifugals at 3¾c., which is considered a good price, it is understood that the St. Lawrence Sugar Refinery have closed negotiations for the output of M. Lefebvre & Co.'s beet-root sugar factory at Berthier. This will result in somewhat different conditions in the sugar market this winter than existed last season. During the previous winter the output of the Berthier factory was offered to the jobbing trade in competition with the goods of the two big refineries, as the latter had all the supplies of raw they wanted. If the above purchase is any criterion the same is not the case this year. It will be remembered also that in 1893 the output of the Berthier establishment was taken entirely by the Montreal refiners and not offered to the jobbing trade at all.

SOAP MANUFACTURER FAILS.

D. Phelan, soap manufacturer, of William street, Montreal, has assigned on the demand of Michael and Patrick Shea. The liabilities are in the vicinity of $62,000. The principal creditors are: A. Finn, $500; estate D. Shea, $500; J. Shea, $5,650; Wilson, Patterson & Co., $616; Hughes, Coor & Co., $1,000; Hochelaga Bank, $2,614; Martin Phelan, $18,000; A. J. Brice, $24,600, and estate Munderloh, $3,500.

To such of your customers as you know to be suffering from coughs or colds, offer a few B. F. P. cough drops. Once introduced they will always be in demand, and will open up opportunities for sales in other lines.

RELATIVE COST OF MANITOBA AND ONTARIO FLOUR.

SOMEWHAT unique in the history of the trade are the relative conditions of Manitoba and Ontario wheat, and Manitoba flour and Ontario flour.

As a rule, both wheat and flour of Manitoba production are higher in price than the same products in Ontario. This rule has obtained inviolate for some years until the present. And now it has, in part at least, been broken.

To-day Ontario wheat is dearer than Manitoba wheat. But the peculiar feature does not end there: Ontario family flours, made to a great extent from Ontario fall and winter wheats, are at the present time cheaper—notwithstanding that the raw material is dearer—than Manitoba flours which are used by bakers and supposed to be superior to the Ontario product.

The difference in the price of Ontario wheats and Manitoba No. 1 hard runs all the way from 2½ to 5c. per bushel in favor of the former. As it takes four bushels and one peck of wheat to produce one barrel of flour, it is obvious that the Ontario miller can in some instances produce flour from Manitoba wheats something like, roughly speaking, 10 to 20c. per barrel cheaper than from Ontario wheats.

As a result of this, small millers throughout Ontario who have never done so before are now using Manitoba wheats.

The fact that Manitoba wheat is now cheaper than the Ontario commodity will for the time being deprive salesmen offering flours made from the two wheats of an argument why they should be given an order in preference to the man who is selling Ontario wheat flour only. To say that a certain flour offered contained 20, 30 or more percentage of Manitoba flour and yet the price asked for it was no more than the purely Ontario wheat article was, of course, a strong argument in its favor, because the buyer knew that, besides adding to the strength of the flour, Manitoba wheat was the dearer of the raw materials used. Now, while the addition of Manitoba wheat still adds to the strength of the flour, the buyer knows that it does not add to its cost. On the contrary, he knows that the greater the percentage of Manitoba wheat used the cheaper can the flour be produced.

A RAT IN THE FOOD PRODUCT.

NOT much reason as a rule is there for complaint regarding either the quality or the manner of the putting up of Canadian prepared food products.

For canned goods, for breakfast foods, for cheese, we have a high reputation. We once had a fairly good reputation for butter-making, but, through carelessness little short of criminal, we lost the name and place we once had in the British market. And it is because of the jealousy with which we desire to protect both our home and foreign trade that we consider it our duty to now and then urge caution.

Canadian manufacturers of food products can no more afford to be careless in their wares than can a dynamite maker in the regulations governing his factory.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has been induced to make these remarks by two exhibitions of carelessness that could not but tend to make unpopular certain products that are worthy of a far better fate.

One was in regard to a certain cereal food which a family in Toronto has been in the habit of using a great deal of, but which it is not likely to use again for a long time—if ever. This food was used both as a porridge and for making cakes and loaves. Not long since the good wife, in getting towards the bottom of the sack in which the cereal in question had come from the manufacturer, scooped up with the food product a dead rat, which had been run through the rollers with the grain, and was as flat as the proverbial pancake.

As some of the contents of this particular sack had already been made into pancakes, porridge and bread, the feelings of the family who had partaken of it are better imagined than described.

The other instance was where a wholesaler had returned to him a can of peas, in which the consumer had found a three-inch stub of a cigar.

THE CANADIAN GROCER cites these instances with the object of stirring up breakfast food manufacturers and canned goods men particularly, and food product men generally, to the exercise of greater care in the respective commodities they make. And they owe it to themselves, they owe it to the country, to do so.

TRAVELERS' MEMORIAL RE HOTELS

THE memorial presented last week to the Provincial Secretary of Ontario by the delegation of commercial travelers, praying for the appointment of a sanitary inspector for hotels, was not based upon any supposititious grievance.

Commercial travelers suffer inconveniences, swallow annoyances, and undergo hardships with a great deal more grace than do any other class of the traveling community. Like the boy accustomed to travel barefooted over rocky roads, they became used to their surroundings, scarcely recognizing whether their pillows are made of feathers or straw.

When commercial travelers as a body have therefore a grievance to air it is usually worthy of attention.

The sanitary condition of many of the hotels which the traveler has almost daily to put up with is notoriously bad. Anyone who has traveled at all knows this. Lavatories are frequently worse than pig pens, dining-rooms unwholesome, and sleeping compartments foul.

The Provincial Government has established a code of rules for the regulation of hotels and bar-rooms in almost every other particular except their sanitary arrangement.

This one particular should be no longer made the exception. Unsanitary hotels mean a menace to health. And what threatens health courts death.

The commercial traveler is one of the greatest factors the world possesses to-day for the facilitation of trade, and it is the duty of the Government to see that the places in which he is compelled to spend so much of his time in lieu of his home are made fit habitations for him.

A QUICK SHIPMENT.

To have a few years ago asserted that merchandise could have reached Toronto from Marseilles in less than two weeks, by ordinary freight, would have been considered more or less utopian. It is now, however, no longer utopian; it is a fact.

On Friday last there arrived on the Toronto market, and were distributed among the retail trade the same day, between two and three hundred bales of Grenoble walnuts, consigned by F. Estiene & Co., of Marseilles. Yet, on the 9th inst. these goods were in France.

The shipment came by way of New York.

NOT SUITABLE FOR CANADA.

Some weeks ago the Japanese Consul at Victoria, B.C., sent to the Board of Trade in Montreal some samples of Japanese fish products, and asked the Board to obtain opinions as to whether they were suitable to the Canadian market or not. The samples were distributed among two or three of the leading grocery firms for a report. The report was handed in this week to Secretary Hadrill, and it is to the effect that the fish preparations in question are entirely unsuitable to the wants of the Canadian trade. Each one of the three or four houses asked for an opinion made the same report.

THREE-CROWN CALIFORNIA RAISINS.

The relative cheapness of the 3-crown California raisins this fall is attracting considerable attention. Two importers in Montreal told THE CANADIAN GROCER this week that they considered them about as good "a buy" as there was at the present time.

The usual difference between 3 and 4-crown fruit is 1c. per lb., the quotations last year being: 3-crown, 6 to 6½c., and 4-crown, 7 to 7½c. This fall 4-crown Californias have been held firm at 7c., whereas 3-crown are easily obtainable at 5½c.

The greater relative difference this year is in favor of the buyer, for the quality of the fruit offering this fall is, if anything, superior to that offered last season.

TWO SALMON CANNERS.

THE CANADIAN GROCER had the pleasure this week of a chat with two gentlemen intimately connected with the salmon canning business of British Columbia. O. M. Malcolm and C. S. Windsor, of the "Gulf of Georgia" cannery, are the gentlemen in question. Both have been in Montreal calling on the trade and visiting J. W. Windsor, of that city, who is a brother of C. S. Windsor. Mr. Malcolm is on his way to Great Britain.

The English market in the current and previous years has taken the great bulk of the firm's "Ice Castle" brand, which is well known in the Dominion. Next year, however, Mr. Malcolm states that they are going to make a strong bid for the Canadian custom as well. They have all the facilities to enable them to do so. Their cannery, which is situated at the mouth of the Fraser, is one of the largest on the river. It is in a position to pack the salmon in any kind of can, and one advantage which it possesses is that the fish come direct from the boats in which they are caught. They are not crushed by two handlings, as some other fish are, and of course therefore pack in much nicer shape.

Arrangements have been made for next year also, whereby they will supply goods put up in the patent can, the advantages of which were fully described in last week's issue in connection with J. W. Windsor's establishment.

It may be interesting to know that the "Gulf of Georgia" cannery has a capacity of 2,000 cases, or 96,000 cans, a day, and employs 500 men. Mr. C. S. Windsor, who has charge of the actual canning operations, is one of the pioneers of the trade on the Fraser.

Both Messrs. Malcolm and Windsor look for firm values during the current season on canned salmon, as the condition of stocks in Great Britain favors high prices, and this fact is certain to have an indirect influence on quotations in Canada. When they left the Coast the inside figure on sockeye was $4.50 f.o.b. on the Coast, while cohoes, at the prices ruling, could not be laid down on the eastern markets for less than $4.10. Mr. Malcolm sails for England from New York this week.

SALT IN SACKS.

In the last issue of THE CANADIAN GROCER it was stated that Liverpool salt could be laid down in Toronto at 62c. per sack, while Canadian cost 65c. It is hardly necessary to explain to the trade that the English sacks contain 186 lbs. of salt, while the Canadian hold 200 lbs.

ONE OF OUR QUEBEC READERS.

A. Grenier, groceries and liquors, Quebec, writes: "Would you be kind enough to get me the by-law of the early closing of grocers and merchants. I am one of your subscribers, and in doing so you would very much oblige."

The by-law in question was published on page 10 of last week's CANADIAN GROCER, which had not time to get to the city of Quebec before his letter was written. Mr. Grenier is one of the best grocers in Quebec, and it is to be hoped he will be a leader in a movement that will bring about early closing in that city before long.

POTATOES MAY BE DEAR YET.

In view of the present cheapness of Ireland's national vegetable the statement which forms the caption of this article is hard to accept. When potatoes can be bought anywhere in the country at from 15 to 20c. per bushel, it seems unlikely at first glance that fair prices will be restored before next year's crop comes in.

But one never can tell what is going to happen, and the old saying is to be remembered, "After a feast, a famine."

At least one big dealer in Canadian potatoes looks confidently forward to seeing first-class prices paid for potatoes by, if not before, the first of April.

He reasons it out in this way: In any year which has not given more than an average yield of potatoes the crop has not more than sufficed to supply the current demand. Now, the crop of 1895 is not more than double that of the average year, and therefore the people will consume about half of it. And the remaining half of the yield is being fed to cattle throughout the country. Many farmers, cognizant of the year's over-supply, are said to be extravagantly wasting their potatoes. The result, so says our informant, will be that before the winter is over the supply will be found to be running short, and by the opening of spring potatoes will be hard to get.

Then, it is predicted, high prices are to come, and the dealer who has hung on to his stock will be decidedly "in it."

EXPORTS OF CANADIAN APPLES.

Though the apple business this fall, in sharp contrast with that a year ago, has allowed exporters a profit on all of their consignments, the volume of exports since the movement set in has not been as large as in 1894.

Up to the close of navigation this fall (the last steamer sailing from Montreal on Sunday last) there were shipped 140,632 barrels of Canadian apples, against 200,000 in the same period in 1894.

Last year the markets were glutted, but the prospects for the coming winter months are on the whole encouraging to those engaged in the apple trade. Since the week ending the 25th of August, when the export movement in apples set in, the weekly exports from Montreal have been as follows:

MOST IMPORTANT TO CANADA.

THE decision of the Imperial Government to give $370,000 to implement the $750,000 which the Dominion Government has already decided to grant for a fast Atlantic steamship service is probably the most important thing the Mother Land has undertaken to do for Canada since confederation, 28 years ago.

Canada is ambitious. Since confederation we have made remarkable headway. In undertaking and carrying to completion the Canada Pacific Railway, we undertook what older and far larger nations might well hesitate to do. Our canal system is the best in the world. Next to the United Kingdom, our shipping, exclusive of coasting trade, is larger than any other possession in the British Empire. Last year our inland and ocean waters yielded us fish to the value of $20,719,575. The average value of the minerals produced in Canada since 1892 is $19,917,237. And in this connection it may be interesting to note that while in the United States last year the value of the products of the mine decreased 13.37 per cent. compared with 1893, in Canada there was an increase of over $1,500,000, or 8 per cent. Our forest wealth is, like the sands on the seashore, beyond the possibility of man to compute. Statisticians do say we have a supply in the forests sufficient for the next 100 or 200 years. The value of the products of the forest was in 1891 calculated at over $80,000,000, while in the various industries depending for their existence upon the supply of wood there is an invested capital not far from $100,000,000, and an annual average wage list of over $30,000,000 with an output valued at $110,000,000.

But, whether rightly or wrongly, we are not satisfied with our development. We recognise clearly that we have great possibilities. No country has greater. But we chafe under the feeling that we are not as far on the road towards their attainment as we should. With our natural resources as rich as they are we all feel that they have not been developed as much as they should have been.

One thing is certain, our population does not increase as it should. Out of about 175,000 people that emigrated from the United Kingdom during the six months ending June 30th last, only about 15,000 came to Canada, while the United States secured about 135,000 of the whole. With all the sentiment there is about dwelling under the British flag, with the superior inducements that Canada has to offer for agricultural settlers, there must be something wrong when such a state of affairs as this obtains.

One ascribes the cause to the policy of this political party and another to that, but THE CANADIAN GROCER holds that the upbuilding of a country does not depend so much upon protection or free trade as ultra-partisans would have us believe.

The upbuilding of a country depends more upon the energy, loyalty and uprightness of its citizens than the policies of partisans, caught up either to keep in or get into power.

Canada has done much for herself. But where one of the weaknesses of our people has been is lack of confidence, yes, and even loyalty to ourselves. Confidence is the motive power, and unless we have it we cannot make headway in a national sense.

But the fault is not altogether our own. We have at our door a big competitor, and too many Canadians spend their time contemplating upon this fact instead of minding their own business. A realization of the commercial magnitude of the United States, instead of making our knees tremble, should nerve us to greater effort.

The United States being greater, as far as wealth and population are concerned, has undoubtedly greater attractive properties than Canada; but the development of Canada has been badly retarded by the want of a fast Atlantic service. Four-fifths of Canadians who can afford to make a European tour leave by New York. And New York is the gateway by which nearly all Europeans enter Canada. This, too, with the Dominion possessing by far the most picturesque route and by far the shorter sea voyage.

Alone we cannot do much more than we have already done. We have, in fact, for the time being, arrived at a stage when we cannot afford to dip much deeper into our pockets for public undertakings. And it is not right that we should. The building of the C.P.R.; the subsidizing of the Pacific steamship service; the building of our natural inland waterways are valuable to the Motherland as well as to us.

With a fast Atlantic service a fact, Canada's anomalous condition compared with the United States will be removed.

Canada is grateful to the Imperial Government for its assistance, but we at the same time believe that the gain is not altogether on our side. Whatever contributes to the upbuilding of Canada indirectly tends to benefit Great Britain and the Empire at large. But a fast steamship service will accrue to the direct advantage of Great Britain as well as the Dominion.

But to Canada most of all do the advantages accrue. It endows her with fresh courage. Her Atlantic service should become at least as popular as that of the United States. It is possible that it may become more popular, as the Pacific service already is. If the Dominion does not take a fresh step forward, she deserves to retrograde rather than essay to be greater than she now is among the nations.

HALIFAX TRADE GOSSIP.

THE private banking house of Farquhar, Forrest & Co. has collapsed, with liabilities which will reach $150,000 or $200,000. The firm operated a tannery, and, although the year was a good one for tanneries, they claim to have sunk about $100,000 in that alone. They also dealt extensively in tea, and, in fact, for many years did the leading business in the province in that line, keeping an agent continuously on the road.

We are to have another bread war. Moir, Son & Co. about a year ago reduced the price of 2-lb. loaves from 5 to 4c. This caused considerable excitement at the time, and other dealers were compelled to follow suit. Now, the same firm announces that they will further reduce the price to 3c. per loaf of 2 pounds.

The open weather continues throughout the province, and consequently business is dull.

BREADSTUFFS—The market in breadstuffs is fairly steady, with a slight inclination to lower prices.

SUGAR—There is no change in the sugar market. The Acadia refinery received a cargo of sugar on Monday from Probalingo and Batavia.

PROVISIONS—The provision market is extremely dull. An offer was made to a traveler for an Island house for mess at $12.50 landed here. This was the best offer the traveler received.

POULTRY AND GAME—The demand for poultry is limited, and stocks are not realizing anything like prices, handlers being compelled to sacrifice on account of the open weather. Turkeys retailed at Thanksgiving at 10c., and jobbers' prices to-day are 9c.

PRODUCE—P. E. Island potatoes retail from schooners at 25c., but sell as low as 22c. by the 100 bushels. A lot of 600 bushels sold at 20c. at Dartmouth this week.

BUTTER—There is little or no change in the butter market. Choice Canadian new-made rolls were offered to-day, landed here, at 16½c.

EGGS—The egg market is lively, there being a jump from 14 to 17c. during the past week.

GREEN FRUIT—The rush in green fruit is about over. In oranges, only Jamaicas are to be had at present. They are of choice quality, nice and sweet, and sell at $7 to $7.50. In lemons, Malagas show much improvement in quality, with bright color, and bring from $5 to $8 per case. There is a slight advance in grapes, the prices ranging from $5.50 to $7, according to size of package. Onions have advanced 50c. per bbl. during the past two weeks.

DRIED FRUITS AND NUTS—New dates and prunes, the first of the season, are to hand. The market is well supplied with new nuts of all kinds.

FISHSTUFFS—The price of best quality dry cod is firm, with a strong upward tendency, but lower grades of soft cured Labrador cod are little called for and, if anything, weaker. Grocery cod is in good demand, with small supplies in sight. The mackerel fishery is about over and the result is discouraging to everybody. Choice fat herring are really scarce, and good lots are eagerly "laid" for by dealers.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

GROCERIES.

WE have to note nothing very new as regards the grocery markets this week. Business generally is acquiring an impetus because of the near approach of the holiday season, but quotations, as a rule, remain stationary. Walnuts have advanced abroad, but are lower here. Lemons are easy, and oranges and bananas high and firm. In dairy produce the butter situation is weaker. Eggs are firmer, and poultry weaker. Because of the close season for white fish and salmon trout, not very much is doing in this line. Tea, coffee and sugar are unchanged.

CANNED GOODS.

The good demand for peas has had the effect of making them very firm. Gallon apples are easier, while mackerel and lobsters are firmer and higher. We quote: Tomatoes, 77½ to 85c.; corn, 75 to 85c.; peas, 90 to 95c.; for ordinary; sifted, $1.05 to $1.10; extra sifted, $1.50 to $1.55; peaches, $2.90 to $3 for 3's, $1.90 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.40 to $2.00; strawberries, $1.80 to $2.45, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.90 to $2.20; cherries, $2.40 to $2.45; apples, 3's, 85 to 90c.; gallons, $1.90 to 2.25; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.35 to $1.40; "Maple Leaf," $1.35; "Lion," $1.35; Lowe Inlet, 1.27 to $1.30, in tall tins; cohoes, $1.10 to $1.20; canned mackerel, $1.10 to $1.20; lobsters, $1.80 to $2.10, for tall tins; flats, $2.35 to $2.65; half tins, $1.45 to $1.50; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.40 to $1.50; 2's, $2.40 to $2.55; 6's, $7.75 to $8.25; 14's, $16 to $18.

COFFEE.

No changes are noted, the local market being still quiet. We quote green in bags as follows: Rio, 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22½c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

SUGAR.

Business is dull, and the situation is that of last week, refiners refusing to shade prices, and jobbers refusing to buy at quotations. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, 43 to 44½c.; do., No. 2, 4¼c.; yellows, 3¼c. up.

SYRUPS.

No activity remarked. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.; bright, 40 to 42c.

MOLASSES.

Is in pretty good demand, but New Orleans is weaker. We quote: New Orleans, barrels, 25 to 32c.; half-barrels, 33½ to 35c.; Barbadoes, barrels, 31 to 35c.; half-barrels, 33 to 37c.

RICE.

The conditions are not changed since our last report. We quote: "B," 3½ to 3¾c.; extra Japan, 5¼ to 5¾c.; imported Japan, 5¾ to 6¼c.; tapioca, pearl, 3½ to 5½c.

SPICES.

Prices remain unaltered, but fairly firm, as the demand continues good. We quote:

Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.

NUTS.

The latest cable advices show an advance equal to ½c. per lb. on Grenoble walnuts, which, however, have locally fallen off in price, owing to large arrivals. Brazils are higher. We quote as follows: Brazil nuts, 12 to 13c.; Sicily shelled almonds, 25 to 26c.; Tarragona almonds, 14 to 14½c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted, and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 11½ to 13c. Marbot walnuts, 10 to 12c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 10 to 12c.; Sicily filberts, 8 to 10c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; pecans, 10½ to 11c.

TEAS.

According to Gow, Wilson & Stanton's tea report the percentages during the past few years of teas imported into Great Britain from India, Ceylon and China respectively, were as follows: 1892, 49, 35 and 16; 1893, 49, 35 and 16; 1894, 50, 38 and 12; 1895, 49, 38 and 13. There is nothing new to note locally. Medium grades are plentiful. We quote ruling prices to retailers: Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

DRIED FRUITS.

Valencia raisins are in demand and fine off-stalk have advanced ¼c. Leading brands we quote: Off-stalk, 4¼ to 4½c.; fine off-stalk, 4¾ to 5¼c.; selected, 6c.; layers, 6½c.; California loose muscatels, 3-crown, 5½c.; 4-crown, 6½c.

Currants continue in fair demand at unchanged prices. We quote: Fine Filiatras, in half-barrels, 4 to 4¼c.; ditto, cases, 4¼ to 4½c.; ditto, half-cases, 4½ to 4¾c.; Casalinas, cases, 5 to 5¼c.; Vostizzas, cases, 6 to 6½c.; ditto, half-cases, 6½ to 6¾c.; ditto extra fine, 6¾ to 7¼c.; ditto, half-cases, 7¼ to 7½c.

Malaga fruit is unchanged. We quote: London layers, $2 to $2.20; black baskets, $2.75 to $3.20; blue baskets, $3.25 to $3.50; choice clusters, $3.25 to $3.50; Dehesa clusters, $4 to $4.50; Royal clusters, $5 to $5.25; Royal Buckingham clusters, $4.50; Non-Plus-Ultra and Royal Windsor, $6.50.

We quote prunes: Bosnias, "Sphinx" brand, "A," 70-75 to lb., 9c.; "B," 80-85 to lb., 7¾c.; "U," 110-115 to lb., 6¾c.; California prunes, 40-50, 10 to 10½c. per lb.; 50-60 to box, 9½c. per lb.; 60-70 to box, 9c.; 70-80 to box, 8½c. per lb.; French, 5 to 6c.

California evaporated fruits are in good demand and prices in the primary market are steady. We quote: Apricots, 13½ to 15c.; peaches, 10½ to 12½c.; pears, 10½ to 12½c.; plums, 6½c. for unpitted, and 12½c. for pitted; nectarines, 11 to 13c.

Figs are quiet and steady. We quote: Eleme, 14 oz., 9 to 10½c.; 10 lb., 9½ to 12½c.; 18 lb., 13 to 15c.; 28 lb., 16 to 18c.

GREEN FRUIT.

There are no features of the market worth noting this week. Oranges and bananas remain firm, while lemons and cranberries are arriving in quantities large enough to prevent further advances in quotations for some days. Of course prices may be expected to stiffen up between this and the close of the Christmas holiday season. We quote: Lemons—Messina, $3.50 to $5.50 per box; Malaga, in half-chests, $8 to $9, boxes, $3.75 to $4; Oranges—Jamaicas, in boxes, $4 to $4.50; in bbls., $7.50 to $8; Bananas, $1.40 to $1.75; cocoanuts, $3.50 to $4 a sack; apples, $2.25 to $3 a barrel; grapes, 4 to 5c. per pound, and 25 to 40c. for small baskets; Malaga grapes, $5 to $7 per keg; pears, 50 to 75c.; domestic onions, 60 to 75c. per bag; Spanish onions, 50 to 65c. per small crate; sweet potatoes, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; cranberries, $10 per bbl., and $3.50 per case; butternuts, $1 per bushel; hickory nuts, $1.80 to $2 per bushel; chestnuts, $7 per bushel.

BUTTER, CHEESE, EGGS, POULTRY.

BUTTER—The butter market continues to weaken, chiefly because of the lack of demand in Great Britain. We quote: Old summer dairy and store packed, 8 to 12c.; fresh prints, 15 to 16c.; fresh tubs, 15 to 17c. Fresh creamery—Tubs, 20 to 21c.; pound prints, 21 to 22c.

CHEESE—Local buyers have paid 8¾ to 9c. for August-September Canadian makes, and 9½c. for balance of season.

EGGS—Fresh eggs are firm at 16 to 17c., the latter being the most generally accepted figure, while pickled cannot be bought lower than 13½ to 14½c.

POULTRY—Since Thanksgiving Day the supply has more than equalled the demand, but the market has not experienced the glut of some former season. In consequence, however, of the free arrivals, prices have fallen off a little for geese and turkeys. We quote: Geese, 5 to 5½c. per lb; turkeys, 7 to 8c. per lb.; chickens, 25 to 40c. per pair; ducks, 40 to 60c. per pair.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—Jobbers offering at $1.10 to $1.15 per bushel.

DRIED APPLES—Remain at 5 to 5½c. per lb.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Firm at 6½ to 7c. per lb.

POTATOES—Very little is doing, and prices remain the same as last week. The prices paid in the country are 14 to 15c., while in the city on the track potatoes bring 22 to 25c., and out of store 25 to 30c.

HONEY—Strained brings 8 to 10c. per lb.; while combs go at $1.50 to $2 per doz.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

Nothing new to record. Hogs are being bought at $4.65 to $4.70. We quote products at last week's quotations:

DRY SALTED MEATS—Long clear bacon, 6¾c. for carload lots, and 7c. for small lots; backs, 7½ to 8c.

SMOKED MEATS—Breakfast bacon, 10½c.; rolls, 7½ to 7¾c.; hams, large, 22 lbs. and over, 10c.; medium, 15 to 20 lbs., 10½c.; small hams, 11c.; pickled, 9c.; backs, 10 to 10½c.; picnic hams, 7½c.

LARD—Pure Canadian, tierces, 7¾c.; tubs, 8¼c.; pails, 8½c.

BARREL PORK—Canadian heavy mess, $15; Canadian short-cut, $16; clear shoulder mess, $13; shoulder mess, $12.50.

DRESSED BEEF, VEAL AND MUTTON

Though prices are firmer no changes in quotations are noted. Advances are said to be looked for within the next week or two. Dressed meats by the carcass are thus quoted: Beef, first-class, $5.50 to $6 per 100 lbs.; fair to middling, $4.50 to $5; rough and inferior, $3.50 to $4. Lamb, 4½ to 5c. per lb. Mutton, 3½ to 4c. per lb. Veal, 4 to 6½c. for first quality.

FLOUR AND FEED.

WHEAT—Is quoted thus: White, 73c.; red, 70 to 71c.; goose, 59c. per bushel.

OATS—Are quoted at 28 to 28½c. per bushel.

BARLEY—Quoted at 35 to 44c. per bushel.

FLOUR—Prices seem to be at a standstill, with a tendency neither up nor down. We quote: Ontario straight roller, $3.15 to $3.20; Manitoba, $3.50 to $3.60; patents, $3.75 to $3.85.

HAY—Baled hay is exceedingly scarce. In large quantities it is bought at from $13.50 to $14.50, while $15 to $16 is the figure for ton lots.

BREAKFAST FOODS—We quote: Standard oatmeal and rolled oats, $3.20 to $3.30; rolled wheat, $2.10 in 100 lb. barrels; cornmeal, $2.90 to $3; split peas, $3.25; pot barley, $3.40.

FISH.

The close season for whitefish and salmon trout, which keeps these staples out of the market, has the effect of making business dull. Standard oysters are quoted at $1.10 to $1.20, but selects remain at $1.65 to $1.75. We quote fish: Skinned and boned codfish, 6½c.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4c.; haddock, 5 to 6c.; Labrador herring, $3.25 to $3.50 per half barrel and $5.50 to $5.75 per barrel; Newfoundland herring, $2.50 per half barrel, and $4.50 to $4.75 per barrel; fresh water salt herring, $3 per barrel; blueback herring, 3c.; pike, 6 to 7c. per lb.; flitched cod, 5c.; finnan haddies, 6½c.; Digby herring, in bundles of 5 boxes, 11c.; ditto, lengthwise, 10c.; large halibut, 12 to 15c.; Restigouche salmon, 20 to 25c.; British Columbia salmon, 12 to 16c.; mackerel, 20 to 25c.; steak cod, 6½ to 7c.; haddock, 5c.; black bass, 9 to 10½c. Fresh Lake Erie herring, $3 per 100.

SALT.

Salt retains the advance noted last week in these columns. We quote at Toronto: In carload lots, $1 per barrel, and 60c. per sack; in less than carload lots, $1.05 per barrel and 65c. per sack. At the wells we quote: F.O.B. barrels, 70c.; sacks 50c. for points west of Toronto, and 45c. for Toronto and points east of Toronto.

HIDES, SKINS, WOOL AND TALLOW.

HIDES—There is nothing doing, and a drop of ½c. is looked for at once. Meat-time dealers are paying 5½, 4½ and 3½c. respectively for Nos. 1, 2 and 3. Cured are easier at 6½c.

SHEEPSKINS—Lambskins and shearlings have advanced another 5c., and now bring 75c.

WOOL—Trade continues quiet. We quote: Fleece combing, from 24 to 25c.; rejections, 17½ to 18½c.; unwashed, 13½ to 14½c.

PETROLEUM.

An advance of ½ to 1c. is noted this week. Crude is advancing, and prices for refined at quotations are stiff. The wells are quoting only for one week in advance. We quote ing special prices to the trade. Readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER would do well to write this firm.

"Our Christmas spice is going well, as usual at this season," report Lucas, Steele & Bristol. "We also find a demand for a savory, mint, sage, thyme, marjoram and poultry dressing in 10c. tins.

Balfour & Co. will be in their new premises, 72 McNab street, Hamilton, next week, whence, on account of better facilities, orders will be shipped with greater despatch.

Up to November 4, five sailing vessels had left British Columbia with cargoes of salmon for the English market. The aggregate number of cases in the cargoes were 263,267.

Graham, McLean & Co. are carrying a new line of lards and meats. The lard is kettle-rendered and the meat mild cured, and likely to be very popular with the best class of the trade.

"We expect to complete our orders for 'Potmahoff' and 'Hillwattee' teas this week. Regret being unable to fill orders, but the demand was larger than we expected." Thus write Lucas, Steele & Bristol.

H. P. Eckardt & Co., Eby, Blain & Co., T. Kinnear & Co., John Sloan & Co., Warren Bros. & Boomer, Perkins, Ince & Co., J. W. Lang & Co., and Davidson & Hay, all have new stocks of Beardsley's shredded codfish, Acme beef, and Star herring.

"Last week was indeed a busy one," say Lucas, Steele & Bristol. "By Saturday night, though, all our back orders were shipped out and all our customers have their holiday supplies. We never have had such a heavy fruit trade."

The F. F. Dalley Co., of Hamilton, have had a larger sale for their self-rising flours than they anticipated. "No doubt the result of their superior quality," remarked a member of the firm. Mr. Vert, representing the firm, sold to nearly everybody during his recent trip through Western Ontario. He is now working the East.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

MONTREAL, Nov. 28, 1895.
GROCERIES.

THE grocery market furnished a fair degree of activity, and values generally are firm this week. The most interesting branch of groceries has been dried fruit. The strength noted previously in Valencia raisins has been strongly maintained and the best figure that the cheapest fruit can be obtained at is 4c. Cables on currants are strong, noting an advance of 2s., and spot values are held correspondingly firm. Arrivals of new Tarragona almonds came to hand this week and are selling in a jobbing way at 10½ to 11c. New filberts and walnuts are expected next week. Marbots and Bordeaux walnuts are now on the way and are expected here by the 15th of the month. Dates are cabled 3d. higher, in fact, all kinds of Mediterranean goods are strong this year. In other staples, such as groceries, coffee, tea, etc., there are no new features to note.

SUGAR.

There has been a good enquiry for refined sugar in a jobbing way during the week, orders being better both locally and from the west. At the refineries round lots of granulated changed hands at 4 3-16c., and yellows at 3½ to 3¾c. Cable advices on raw continue dull and rather easy in tone, while some round lots of centrifugals sold here at 3¾c. We quote refined sugar in a jobbing way: Granulated, 4¼c., and yellows, 3¾ to 3¾c.

SYRUPS.

A fair business has been transacted in syrups at steady prices. We quote: 1¾ to 2½c. per lb., as to grade.

MOLASSES.

There is a fairly good demand for Barbadoes molasses at former quotations, and a fair jobbing trade is noted in this grade at 36 to 37c., which would possibly be shaded in the case of a round lot. Round lots of 175 puncheons of Porto Rico have been turned over at 32c., but we quote jobbing prices steady at 35 to 36c. The sale of a lot of 70 puncheons of Barbadoes is noted at 31c., but the grade of the goods was not A1, and for anything prime holders maintain prices, and easily obtain them, as the steady volume of business for jobbing account attests.

RICE.

There has been no change in rice, values ruling steady, with a fair demand. Millers note a moderate enquiry at firmer prices.

SPICES.

No new feature is to note in the spice market, demand being fair at steady prices. Black pepper has left first hands at 7½c., and cassia at 9½c. Other lines also have met a moderate enquiry at steady prices.

COFFEE.

The coffee market is dull and slow, and prices, as a rule, are unchanged. Round lots of Rio and Maracaibo have changed hands at 19½ to 20½c. We quote green bean: Maracaibo, 20 to 22c.; Rio, 19 to 20c.; Java, 24 to 28c.; Jamaica, 18 to 20c., and Mocha, 27½ to 31c.

TEAS.

Outside of a fair distributing trade, the tea market has been, in the main, featureless. Japans ranging around 14c. continue as scarce as ever, and nothing can be had, as we have pointed out before, under 15c. A rather easier feeling has been noted in blacks, with sales of Congous at 10c. A few orders from the west still arrive for India and Ceylon stock. We quote Japans: Low grades, 14c.; medium, 15 to 18c.; fine, 20 to 22c., and choice, 25 to 32c.

DRIED FRUIT.

The firm feeling in Valencia raisins is fully maintained and business has been done steadily during the week at the following range: Ordinary off-stalk, 4 to 4¼c.; fine off stalk, 4½ to 4¾c.; selected, 5½ to 5¾c., and layers, 6¼ to 6½c.

California raisins continue to meet a good enquiry in a jobbing way. Four-crown fruit are held firm at 7c., and there has been a satisfactory business in three-crown at 5½c.

Sultana raisins are quiet and unchanged at 6 to 6½c.

Malaga fruit continues steady, as last noted, with a fair enquiry. We quote Malagas: Extra loose muscatels, $1.40; Imperial London layers, $1.75; Imperial cabinets, $1.90; Connoisseur clusters, $2.20; extra dessert clusters, $3; Royal Buckingham clusters, $3.50.

The demand for currants has been good, and the market has a firmer tone. Cables were 2s. higher this week and spot values are firm, while there are no cases to be had, and a quotation on them is impossible. Prices are held at: 3¾c. in barrels, 4 to 4¼c. in half-barrels, and 4½ to 4¾c. in half-cases.

The strong tone of the prune market already noted is fully maintained under a good jobbing enquiry. Advices from primary markets continue strong on Bosnias. We quote: French ordinary, 6c., and choice, 7½ to 13½c.; new Bosnias from second hands at 6 to 6½c.

The fig market is steady, with a fair trade doing at 9 to 12c. for ordinary and 13 to 17c. for fancy fruit.

Dates are stronger in tone, cables being 3d. higher this week. The Lake Huron brought in some which sold at 5c., but we quote 4½c.

NUTS.

Arrivals of the first new Tarragona almonds came to hand this week. They are selling at 10½ to 11c. New filberts and Grenoble walnuts are expected next week. We quote: Brazils, 8 to 9c.; shelled almonds, 20 to 25c.; Tarragona, 10½ to 11c.; Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; shelled ditto, 25 to 27c.; filberts, 6½ to 7½c.; and pecans, 8 to 10c.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been a fair demand for vegetables, while the tendency on canned salmon is very firm. Best offers are higher if anything than they were, and advices report that many of the canneries are closely sold up. We quote as follows: Lobsters, $8 to $9 per case; sardines, $8.50 to $10.50; salmon, $5.20 to $5.50; mackerel, $5; tomatoes, 75 to 80c. per doz.; peaches, $2 to $3 per doz.; corn, 80 to 90c. per doz.; peas, 95c. to $1 per doz.; strawberries, $2.25 to $2.50; raspberries, $2; green gages, $2

WINES AND SPIRITS.

The volume of trade in wines and spirits is of about the same dimensions as it was a week ago, and there are no special features to report.

GREEN FRUIT.

The green fruit market has ruled steady on all leading lines, and the market has been well cleared up of stock from day to-day.

APPLES—Fameuse fruit are scarce and firm at $4 to $5 per bbl., but other stock ranges from $2 to $3.

GRAPES—Malaga grapes sell steady at $5 to $6.50 per keg.

CRANBERRIES—Are steady to firm at $9 to $10 per bbl.

ORANGES—Jamaica oranges are selling in boxes at $4 to $4.50, and in barrels at $6 at $2 to $3.

SPANISH ONIONS—Steady and unchanged at 40 to 45c. per crate.

SWEET POTATOES—Quiet at the decline,
$3.50 to $4.

FISH.

The mild weather has checked trade in fresh fish, but for all that there has been a fair volume of trade transacted. The tone generally has been steady. Fresh haddock and cod are selling at 3 to 4c., and B.C. salmon, 12½ to 13c., while fresh halibut has ranged from 10 to 12c.

In pickled fish the movement has been fair. Choice herrings ranged from $4.25 to $4.50 per barrel, and No. 2 mackerel sold at $17.50. Labrador salmon are quotable at $13.50 and B.C. salmon $10.50 per barrel.
Green cod have had a material decline under increased receipts. We quote No. 1 $3.85 to $4, and No. 2 $3 per 100 lbs.

In dried and prepared fish, business has been quiet. Demand for dried cod is limited, and prices are easy at $4.25 to $4.50 per 100 lbs. Boneless cod is quoted at 6c. per lb. and shredded at 11c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The demand for eggs is slow, and the market is quiet and steady. The returns from abroad have been satisfactory to shippers, and, on the whole, the season has been a successful one. We quote new laid at 18 to 20c., choice candled at 14 to 15c., and ordinary stock at 11½ to 12c. per dozen.

POTATOES—There is no change in potatoes, business being quiet and prices steady at 35 to 40c. per bag for choice Early Rose in car lots.

BEANS—In beans, business continues slow at $1.10 to $1.15 per bushel for choice hand-picked in car lots, and at $1.20 to $1.30 for small quantities.

HOPS—The demand for hops continues to be of a limited character at 5 to 8c. per lb. for new, as to quality.

TALLOW—The market for tallow rules steady at 6 to 6½c. for prime refined, and at 5 to 5¼c. for lower grades.

POULTRY—Poultry has ruled stronger, and prices have advanced all round. The demand to-day was good, especially for turkeys and chickens, and the market was pretty well cleaned up of stock. Turkeys sold at 8½ to 9c.; chickens at 6½ to 7½c.; ducks at 8 to 8½c., and geese at 6 to 7c.

GAME—There was a good demand for game to-day, of which the offerings were fair, and No. 1 partridge sold at 40c. per brace, and No. 2 at 25c. Venison, by the carcass, sold at 4½c., and by the saddle at 7c. per lb.

PROVISIONS.

There was no change in the situation of the local provision market. Business was quiet and values unchanged. We quote: Canadian short cut, clear, $14.50; Canadian short cut, mess, $15; hams, city cured, per lb., 9 to 10c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 8¼ to 9c.; bacon, per lb., 9 to 10c.; lard, com. refined, per lb., 6¼ to 6½c.

CHEESE.

The cheese market was quiet. The only business noted was in connection with the arrivals of goods from the French sections. These receipts were trifling, and most of them had been placed to arrive. We quote: Finest Ontario, fall makes, 9¾ to 9½c.; finest Quebec, fall makes, 8¾ to 9c.; summer makes, 8 to 8½c.

BUTTER.

The butter market is quiet and fairly steady. The only business doing is in a jobbing way, and the appended quotations are for business of this sort. If a seller desired to do business in a large way, he would have to accept less. We quote: Finest September creamery, 21 to 22c.; Township dairy, 17 to 18c.; fresh Western rolls, 16 to 17c.; Western dairy, 14 to 15c.

ASHES.

The market for ashes during the past few days has been weak, and prices have declined 15 to 20c. per 100 lbs. The receipts have been fairly liberal of late, for which the demand is limited and business quiet. We quote: Firsts, $3.70 to $3.80; seconds, $3.60, and pearls, $4.70 per 100 lbs.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Cables to importers here this week from Patras quoted an advance of 2s. on currants.

First arrivals of new filberts and Grenoble walnuts are expected to arrive in Montreal next week.

Cables on dates from London on Monday quoted an advance of 3d., with the market firm.

Rose & Laflamme have received a carload of Snider's tomato catsup, tomato soup, and chili sauce.

A. P. Tippet & Co. are passing a lot of California fruits this week, and have advices for next week of a carload of California prunes and other fruits from San Jose.

Shipments of Griffin & Skelly's raisins are being taken into stock this week by Kinloch, Lindsay & Co., Lockerby Bros., and Caverhill, Hughes & Co.

A shipment of evaporated California apricots and peaches are being distributed this week. Geo. Childs & Co. and Caverhill, Hughes & Co. received lots.

The St. Lawrence Sugar Refinery were buyers of 4,500 bags of centrifugal sugar in this market last week at 3¾c., which is considered a very good price.

Robert Greig & Co. have received a consignment of Rowntree's flavoring extracts, cocoa, etc., this week. They also have a full stock now on hand of Craven & Son's confectionery in glass jars. The merits of these goods are well known.

Robert Greig & Co. report largely increased orders for Carr's English biscuits.

Mitchell's Irish and Scotch whiskeys are well known in this country. They are handled here by Laporte, Martin & Cie.

Robert Greig & Co. have now on hand a large stock of the well-known Sportsman sardines.

Caverhill, Hughes & Co. and D. H. Rennoldson have just received a shipment of Bell's spiced seasoning in ¼ lb. tins.

Invoices are just to hand for a shipment of Craven's English confectionery to Robert Greig & Co.

A carload of fine California raisins is expected this week for Laporte, Martin & Cie. Special prices will be given for immediate delivery.

Kola-Cafe, an extract of kola, coffee and chicory, is becoming a very popular breakfast cup. Robert Greig & Co. are the Canadian agents.

The line of cream cheese manufactured by the Union Produce Co., for which Robert Greig & Co. are selling agents, is rapidly working its way into popular favor.

Laporte, Martin & Cie have now a fine exhibit of Malaga raisins in their sample rooms. Their first consignment is nearly all sold and they are expecting another lot very shortly.

Mitchell & Co., of Belfast and Glasgow, have appointed Laporte, Martin & Cie, of Montreal, their agents for the province of Quebec.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Nov. 28, 1895.

THE holiday somewhat broke in upon the business of the past week. But the movement in goods continued large, dried fruit being again the matter of interest in grocery circles. The candy trade is also becoming large. Some of our merchants, in place of carrying stocks of fancy and penny candies, just carry samples received from some one of our manufacturers, and send the orders in to them to be packed. This is a great advantage to the grocer, saving him the trouble of packing the goods and keeping a large assortment of stock, only to carry over a quantity. It also is to the advantage of the manufacturer, because he receives the full trade of that house, and the houses are the more apt to push the goods, as they have so little trouble in handling and have a good profit. THE CANADIAN GROCER is pleased to notice that the feeling is growing among our wholesale houses to sell only to dealers.

SALT—There is at this season but little demand, fishermen being largely supplied. It is expected the first direct steamer from Liverpool will have some on board. Canadian, in small packages, continues to grow in favor. We quote: Coarse, 50 to 55c.;

fine factory-filled, $1.10; 5-lb. bags, $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10-lb. boxes, 12c.; cartoons, $2 per doz.; salt, bulk, $2.70 to $2.80 per bbl.

OIL—In American burning oil there is another advance of half a cent, with a very firm feeling. The quantity of oil moving is very large, but was largely sold at the lower prices earlier in the fall, and is now being delivered. This month often shows the largest shipments of the year. We quote: American burning oil, 23¼c.; best Canadian, 21¼ to 21¾c.; prime, 18c.; no charge for barrel.

CANNED GOODS—A rather better business was noticed during the past week, and fruits are being more called for. Salmon is hardly as firm as was expected, stocks being fully equal to the demand. About the only real shortage noticed in canned goods is strawberries. They are, however, not a particularly large sale. They are a line of goods which should be canned here. Beef shows but small sale at this season. Canned fish are in much less demand here than west. We quote: Corn, 85 to 90c.; peas, 90 to 95c.; tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; gallon apples, $2.15 to $2.25; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.65 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.60 to $1.65; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $2.75 to $2.85; 2's, $1.90 to $2; pineapple, Canadian pack, $2.35; salmon, $1.45 to $1.50; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.30; clams, $5 for 4 doz.; chowder, $2.75 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1; kippered herring, $1.10.

DRIED FRUIT—This continues to be an important item in business. One merchant receiving over 2,000 boxes Valencias in the last English steamer was so far sold ahead that none of the shipment were taken into store. The stock here of this grade is very light, many merchants being already sold out. There are, however, lots of California loose muscatels, some of which are particularly good quality. These prevent prices of Valencias going as high as would have been the case a few years ago. Some 1,800 boxes of Malaga fruit arrived at this port by the last English steamer, the quality of which was satisfactory. California L. L. raisins are quoted lower in New York. There are two grades and more or less range of quality in them. Cleaned currants in 1 lb. cartoons show good demand, it proving a much more satisfactory way of handling the goods than in bulk. There is quite a difference in quality of brands offered. A poor currant does not pay as well to clean as a higher priced one. Onions are quoted lower. In nuts a better business is being done. New peanuts are being offered.

Stock must be cleared out by 1st January.

No reasonable offer refused to clear out any line. For this reason it will pay you well to call and see our stock of Crockery, China, Glassware, Lamps, etc., both staple and fancy.

Canadian onions, \$1.90 to \$2.; walnuts, \$3 to \$4 per 100 lbs.; figs, 11 to 12c.; washed currants, 6-crown, 1-lb. cartoons, 8 to $8\frac{1}{2}$ c.; Sultanias, 10c.; Sultana raisins, 7 to 8c.; Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; Chili, 10 to 11c.; Brazil, 12 to 13c.; filberts, $8\frac{1}{2}$ to 9c.; almonds, 11 to 12c.; roasted peanuts, 9 to 10c.

GREEN FRUIT.—There is fair business, but cold weather is tending to lessen shipments. Apples are in good demand at fair prices. Stocks held here are not large. Shipments per schooner are light. Quality of fruit is generally good. West India oranges are in fairly large supply, and are about the only orange in the market. Malaga grapes are firm, with the usual good sale at this season. We quote: Apples, $1.50 to $2.50; oranges, $4.25 to $5.50 per bbl., $3.50 to $4 per box; Lemons, $5 to $6; keg grapes, $5.50 to $6.50; Canadian, 50 to 70c. per basket; quince, $6 per bbl.; sweet potatoes, $4 bbl.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—Although there is a firmer feeling in cheese, it is difficult to find those who are anxious to buy at advanced prices. There are a number of early cheese here as June and July's, which do not move quickly, even at low figures. Butter continues rather slow, with an overstock of poor to fair and not enough of best. Prices keep low, the more on account of western markets. Eggs are in fair demand at rather higher figures. Stocks are not large. We quote: Common dairy butter, 15 to 16c.; dairy, 17 to 18c.; new creamery prints, 22c.; cheese, $8\frac{1}{2}$ to 9c.; creamery, tubs, 20c.; eggs, 16 to 17c.

MOLASSES.—There are not large stocks, and holders of best grades are firm. Though movement at present is not large, there are a number of good months in which to sell, and in which demand is always large, before any new can be received. In syrup there is a good business at firm prices. We quote: Barbadoes, 32 to 34c.; Trinidad, 33 to 34c.; Porto Rico, 34 to 36c., bbls.; New Orleans, 32 to 34c.; St. Croix, 31 to 32c.; syrup, 35c.

SUGAR.—No change is noted in price here. There are fair stocks held, and there is a fair business doing. Prices are hardly as firm. We quote: Granulated, $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.; yellow, $3\frac{1}{2}$ to $3\frac{3}{4}$ c.; Paris lump, $5\frac{1}{4}$ to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c.; powdered, $5\frac{1}{4}$ to $5\frac{1}{2}$ c.

FISH.—In general it is thought the dry fish business is growing less from year to year, the reason being, it is held, the very large extent to which canned goods are used, together with the great variety of goods canned. At present in dry fish prices are very firm, stocks being not large, and most of the fish being in the market. In pickled fish prices continue low, while smoked herring are dull. Merchants are looking forward to the fresh fish trade, which, if cold weather continues, will soon open. We quote as follows: Fresh haddock, 2 to $2\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb.; dry, \$1.50; large cod, \$3.60 to \$3.75; medium, \$3.35 to \$3.50; pollock, \$1.40; bay herring, \$1.25 to \$1.30 per half-bbl.; Rippings, \$1.65; Wolves, \$1.85 to \$2; smoked herring, old, 4 to 5c.; new smoked, 5 to 6c.; Canso, \$5 to \$5.50 per bbl.; shad, half-bbl., \$5 to \$6; Grand Manan herring, half-bbl., \$1.25 to \$1.35; Shelburne, \$3.00 bbl., \$1.65 half-bbl.; boneless, $2\frac{1}{2}$ to 8c.; oysters, \$2.50 to \$3 per bbl.

PROVISIONS.—Prices show no change. There is a fair demand, and many look for higher prices. At present values are very low. We quote: Clear pork, \$15.50 to \$16; mess, \$14.50 to \$15; P. E. I. prime, \$11 to \$12; beef, \$13.25 to \$14.25; pure lard, $9\frac{1}{2}$ to $10\frac{1}{2}$ c.; compound, 7 to 8c.

FLOUR FEED AND MEAL.—Manitoba shows very large sales. No change of price is noted. Beans are firmer. P. E. I. oats have been advanced about one cent per bushel. Fairly large quantities are coming forward. In oatmeal the tendency is upward, while cornmeal is at very low figures, with a very large quantity moving. In hay the feeling is upward, with very little business here. We quote as follows: Manitoba, $4.70 to $4.75; best Ontario, $4.10 to $4.15; medium, $3.85 to $3.95; oatmeal, $3.55 to $3.75; cornmeal, $2.30 to $2.35; middlings, $19 to $20 on track; bran, $18 to $19; hand-picked beans, $1.25; prime, $1.20; oats, 33 to 35c.; hay, $11 to $11.50; pot barley, $4; round peas, $3.65 to $3.75; split peas, $3.70 to $3.80; yellow eye beans, $2; buckwheat meal, $1.30 to $1.35.

G. J. Hamilton & Sons, Pictou, are finding a splendid demand here for their English formula tablets, not only on account of the quality of the goods but on account of the bottles they use, which they have made two inches shorter than the English bottles to fit ordinary shelves.

Potatoes are very plentiful. One gentleman from the north shore was in town during the past week with four cars, and found buyers very scarce even at a price which meant a considerable loss to him.

It is expected greater attention will now be given throughout our province to the shipping of eggs and fowl to England. Australians are already shipping them there to advantage, though so much further from that market. It is thought by many that trade in these goods could be made as profitable as that in butter and cheese now is.

The lobster business is a large factor in the fall trade of the Maritime Provinces. This season from Halifax some 162,000 cases were exported, going to London, Liverpool, Hamburg, Stockholm and other places. From Newfoundland some 27,000 cases were exported.

Produce in Fredericton is quoted as follows: The heavy state of the roads tends to lessen the quantities offering. The river is quite high, and large numbers of logs are running into the booms, which, it was expected, would be hung up. It is not expected the river will remain open more than a few days. LONDON TRADE GOSSIP.

SEASONABLE goods are going out nicely, but in other staple lines the volume of business is light. That is the general consensus of opinion. Payments are moderate only. One unsatisfactory feature of the situation is the low price of cheese.

The feature of the trade is, of course, the movement in foreign dried fruits for the Christmas trade. A good trade has been experienced in Valencia raisins, but most of the orders have been filled. The idea for fine off-stalk is $5\frac{1}{2}$ c., and for select-ed $6\frac{1}{2}$ c. Off-stalk raisins are practically an unknown commodity at present here. Speaking to a wholesaler in regard to this matter, he said: "There is no trade for off-stalk here. I do not believe I could give them away. It is surprising, but, do you know we cannot sell poor fruit at any price." There is still a large trade being done in currants, notwithstanding that the sharp advances in the price have checked the demand to some extent. The demand is chiefly for Filiatras at $4\frac{1}{2}$ c. Quite a few Amalies are going out at 5c., and Panaretos at 7c.

The failure of the apple crop in this district is a matter of history. As a consequence of this failure the trade here are experiencing a larger demand than usual for evaporated goods, both domestic and foreign. In fact, one wholesaler assures me that he has never before sold as many evaporated apples at this season. The ruling price for good stock is about $7\frac{1}{2}$ c. California evaporated apricots, peaches, nectarines and plums, are all meeting with a good demand.

There is a good demand for the Bosnia prunes that have recently arrived in stock at from $5\frac{3}{4}$ to 6c. The shipments to arrive will cost more than those which have already come to hand. French prunes are quoted at $6\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb. for 90's, but the price prevents their meeting with much demand.

New season's Grenoble walnuts arrived on the market this week. They are in good demand, and the ruling price is about 12c. "Grenoble walnuts have arrived early this season," remarked one wholesaler. "As a rule, they do not arrive till two or three weeks later, and sometimes we have had to get them on by express in order to have them here for the Christmas trade."

There have been a few teas moving, but trade as a rule is quiet. The high price of Japans is injuring the sale of those teas, the teas chiefly sold west of here being cheap Japans that retail at about 25c. per pound. While the sale of Japan teas has fallen off, the demand for Indian and Japans teas is increasing. "There is no question about it," remarked one jobber, "the package teas are knocking the bulk teas out. For instance, I know of retailers who twelve or eighteen months ago would not look at a package tea who to-day keep in stock not one brand only, but two, three and even more brands."

Canned vegetables, while selling a little better than a week or two ago, are still somewhat of a drug on the market. Canned fruits continue dull, and there is not much doing in salmon. The idea for tomatoes and corn is 80c., and for peas 90c. The only thing in the way of canned goods that has really a good sale is apples. There are more apples selling than a year ago, as may be expected, in view of the short apple crop in this district; and the demand is increasing. Ruling quotations are $2.20 for gallons and 90c. for 3's.

Sugar continues inactive. "I said last April," remarked a wholesaler, "that we were going to have a dull sugar year, and my predictions have been fulfilled. Consumers bought unusually heavy lots in the spring, and some of them have not exhausted their supplies yet, hence, in part, the dullness of the sugar trade to-day." The current quotation is $4.40 to $4.50, but it by no means follows that this is the current selling price. Sugar is being cut in London as well as elsewhere. Yellows range from 3c. upwards. Trade in syrups and molasses is a little better than is usual at this season, the scarcity of domestic fruits here again being the cause of the increased trade.

T. B. Escott on Wednesday received another direct shipment of rice from England.

M. Masuret & Co. on Tuesday received their supply of Grenoble walnuts for the Christmas trade.

A. M. Smith & Co. have in stock their supplies of foreign dried fruits for the Christmas trade, included in which are Grenoble walnuts.

George Lydiatt, representing the Sydenham Glass Co., of Wallaceburg, Ont., was in the city this week looking up business. He reports trade good. At any rate he seemed in good spirits.

T. B. Escott & Co. have been appointed agents in Canada for the Bryan Candy and Cracker Case Co., of Bryan, Ohio. The candy and fruit cases have a capacity of from 40 to 75 pounds each, and the cracker cases a capacity of one barrel. The cases are finished in hard wood, four sides glass, and are treated with four coats of carriage varnish, which give them a rich appearance.

Gorman, Eckert & Co. have placed a new tomato catsup on the market. It is known as the "Home-Made," but, as it sells to the trade at \$1 per dozen, it has become dubbed with the name of the "Dollar" catsup. The same firm is also putting on the market a griddle cake flour in $2\frac{1}{2}$ -lb. packages.

W. L. E.

Hugh Walker & Son, of Guelph, have received into stock this week new "Golden" Hallowee and Sair dates and Grenoble walnuts.

PRINCESS THEATRE

TeL
2191.

Toronto

Commencing MONDAY Eve'g, Dec. 2nd, Manager Connelly announces the appearance of the Garriok Burlesque Company, at the Princess Theatre, who for one week will present a satire on the craze of crazes "Thrilly," entitled, "Thrilly." The recent appearance of Mr. Palmer's Company presenting "Thrilly," coupled with the fact that "Thrilly" ran for nearly one hundred nights in New York, should necessarily create considerable curiosity and cause theatre goers to turn out in large numbers to witness what is said to be the brightest burlesque since the days that Longfellow's dainty poem "Evangeline" was burlesqued. "Thrilly" is said to be irresistibly funny, and while causing no end of laughter never resorts to suggestive methods in order to make merriment. The music of "Thrilly," which is one of the principal features, is unusually melodious, of a light and catchy order which is so popular with the general theatre goer. The production is carried exclusively by the company, and in addition to witnessing the foremost exponents of comic opera in this country one may also enjoy a rare scenic feast. The original cast, which includes Elvia Crox Seabrooke, Willis P. Sweatnam, Carrie Perkins, Mark Murphy, Edyth Murray, Joseph Roberts, Margaret MacDonald, Louis Wesley, Sol. Aiken, Gus Bruno, Gertrude Murray and the supporting chorus which numbers fifty members. The orchestra of the Princess Theatre will be augmented during this engagement. Sale of seats will commence on Thursday morning, Nov. 28.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

The Montreal Chamber of Commerce held its weekly meeting last Friday, Mr. H. Laporte, president, Mr. Joseph Contant, vice-president, and Messrs. Morin, Haynes, Racine, Chagnon, Rolland and Bickerdike being present. The business, for the most part, was of a routine character. Reports of standing committees were received and adopted.

A delegation, consisting of Messrs. Laporte, Parizeau, Contant, Balcer and Bickerdike, will interview the Minister of Trade and Commerce on the matters concerning Canadian trade with France. Mr. S. Cote, the secretary, will accompany the delegation. One of the questions to be considered is the 30 per cent. on wine packages.

It was suggested that the Chambre de Commerce should hold a banquet, at an early date, and that invitations should be extended to leading public men of the country in order to afford them an opportunity to ventilate their views as to the possibilities, etc., of trade development. It was also suggested that the banquet should become an annual function. After some discussion the matter was laid over for future consideration.

The council accepted an invitation from the St. Jean Baptiste Society to attend a course of lectures to be given during the winter, in the Monument National. The lecture for to-morrow (Saturday) will be "Political Economy," by the Hon. Joseph Royal.

A PUSHING FELLOW.

R. W. Walden, general merchant, Neustadt, has put up a fine brick store 30 x 81, with plate glass windows, heated with furnace. The shelving for his dry goods is 27 inches deep. With this depth he can place a greater quantity of stock, as he can put the goods in lengthwise, and he has his shelves full. The building he formerly occupied was a small frame structure. On asking him what he did to the old building he pointed it out on the other side of the street and said, "there it is; we wheeled over there." Mr. Walden is a young fellow, very pushing, and he deserves the success that is attending him.

NEW YORK LEMON MARKET.

The N. Y. Journal of Commerce has this to say of the lemon situation in the American metropolis: "So far this season the shipments of Sicily lemons have amounted to about 50,000 boxes more than for the corresponding period last year, and are some 90,000 boxes in excess of those to this date in 1893. The high prices in this market during the summer months induced speculation in early shipments, with the results that a larger quantity was contracted for to be shipped in October and early November than for several years. By the time the first shipments were made, however, prices here had gone off many points under the efforts of holders of the considerable supply of Malagas to dispose of their stock on a dull market. . . . While present conditions are unfavorable to most holders, the outlook is held to be encouraging. The prices brought by the first arrivals having been so low will, it is believed, check shipments."

SEAFORTH PORK FACTORY.

The Seaforth Pork Factory was established about 19 years ago, and earned a well-deserved reputation for good, clean goods. About a year ago Mr. T. R. F. Case assumed the control of the establishment, and retained the services of the old employees. The same processes are followed now that made the hams and bacon of this establishment so popular. Mr. Case is an energetic young man, with an ambition to become one of the large pork packers of Canada, and with means sufficient to be able to always secure the best appliances and stock.

“WHAT delicious tea you always have, Maud! What kind of tea do you use?”

“Thank you, my dear. I use the Ceylon Tea or the India Tea, but this, I believe, is a blend of the two. I tell my grocer that I don’t mind which one he sends me, so long as it is not some of those hand-rolled teas.”

“What do you mean by hand-rolled teas?”

“Why, in China and Japan the native laborers roll the tea leaves by hand, and ever since a friend of mine visited those countries and told me what he saw, I have preferred to drink Ceylon and India teas, which are rolled entirely by machinery, and I am sure they have a much finer flavor.”

(The above is a copy of an advertisement being run by a number of retailers in the States who are making a specialty of their tea department.)

CONCERNING GROCERS.

I WANT to return to a topic on which I have once slightly expatiated, says Joel Benton in Printers' Ink, for teaching, like advertising, prospers by reiteration. The matter concerns grocers, and I should be glad to draw out the opinions of even one from each class on a custom that is common to the three classes named.

Let me ask them why it is that they all make so universal and liberal display in the front of their stores and on the sidewalk or street of their very perishable and easily damaged goods. Of course, they are advertised by so doing, but at a very great expense, or at a really regrettable loss or damage to somebody.

These tradespeople wish to attract attention, and are anxious to show the public, represented by the passer-by, that they have the best fruits, fish and food that the market affords; so they take their very best samples and place or suspend them where they can catch all the dust and dirt of the street, besides the flies and winged feeders prevalent in front of such stores.

Go through any street in this city, for instance, and see the tea boxes and coffee boxes, the tea itself finely pulverized often; the cakes and biscuits; the sugared and sweet things, etc., which one would say should not only be covered up, but should—many of them—be sealed up from the air, left wide open and exposed to the heat, dirt and blazing light. Would a "drawing" from that powdered tea, after standing out in this way for three hours only, be entirely what it should be? And if it stands out for days and weeks, as no doubt it usually does, who can guess what automatic, unflavorous and unwholesome adulterations must take place with it.

Even the bottled and canned goods, which, perhaps, suffer least, get unduly heated by this almost universal exposure, and are soiled outwardly in a very brief time. Fish soon becomes stale and destroyed, and vegetables and berries age and wilt visibly every hour. Some of these things must, in fact, be kept as signs while they preserve any attractive look whatever, when they must be thrown away to the refuse heap, or, if sold, advertise the store so much in the wrong direction as to drive those particular victimized customers away for all time.

DIRECT AND INDIRECT DATES.

The difference in the time of arrival of the direct steamer with Persian dates and steamers bringing stock transhipped from London was only a few hours, the former getting here first. When the dates began to be shipped some time ago it was stated that the first of the new crop would reach this market via England a week or ten days ahead of the direct boat. Subsequently this view changed, and it was said that the Hopedale would reach here ten days before the London or Southampton boats.—N.Y. Journal of Commerce.

NOTHING is used in this product but the finest of shore Codfish especially cured and dried for it.

THE disagreeable odor usually considered to be a necessary evil to be endured while cooking Codfish will be found to be entirely lacking in this.

EVERY particle of skin and bone being removed and the water evaporated, there is absolutely no waste. The contents of each package, therefore, is worth to the housekeeper about three times its weight in Codfish as ordinarily sold.

SHIPMENTS OF CURRANTS.

The shipments of currants from Greece from the beginning of the season to date, as compared with last year, are given by Messrs. Barff & Co., Ltd., as follows: To London, 20,080 tons, against 27,424 tons in 1894; to Liverpool, 13,060 do., against 16,174 do. in 1894; to outports, 5,515 do., against 4,795 do. in 1894; to United States, 5,893 do., against 2,947 do. in 1894; to Canada, 974 do., against 1,065 do. in 1894; to Marseilles, 2,386 do., against 11,676 do. in 1894; to north of France, 1,860 do., against 1,990 do. in 1894; to north of Europe, 8,420 do., against 8,878 do. in 1894; to Trieste, 1,524 do., against 688 do. in 1894; to Australia, 1,645 do., against 823 do. in 1894; to Russia, 4,259 do., against 2,885 do. in 1894. Total, 65,616 tons, against 79,345 tons in 1894.

In a letter dated Patras, Greece, November 5th, Mr. D. Pasqua says of currants: "The exports registered up to October 31st last amount to 27,690 tons. Adding thereto those of the preceding month we arrive at a total of 76,283 tons. In this sum France is debited with 5,000 tons, and Russia with 4,500. The sales made during the last eight or ten days aggregate close upon 25,000 tons. About the half is for France, 2,000 tons for Russia and the rest for America, England, Holland and Germany. The retention service has taken in warehouse about 9,000 tons. France is the principal buyer on the market, paying generously the prices quoted. In fact, with French dealers it is not so much a question of price as of quantity."

MIRROR OF A TOWN'S DOINGS.

The newspapers of a town are its looking glasses, says an exchange. It is here you see yourselves as others see you. You smile on them, and they smile back at you; you frown on them, and you are repaid in kind. They are the reflex of a town. If the town is doing business the newspaper will show it in its advertising columns. If the merchants are spiritless, shiftless fellows, whose stores are jumbles of junk and jam, the newspapers will show it by the lack of space they take. If you want the world to know that you have a live town you can only let it be known through its newspapers.

THEY WORK ON THE QUIET.

At a recent meeting of the United Grocers' Association of Brooklyn, N. Y., a member wanted to know why nothing had been done. This, according to the Retail Grocers' Advance, brought about an animated discussion, which brought out the fact that the majority had learned that it did no good to advertise the department store, but to work on the quiet. The most effective method was to discourage the sale of all goods sold in the department stores, and thus endeavor to bring the manufacturer to the proper solution of the question, whether it paid him best to sell the entire grocery trade or a few department stores.

THE DIFFERENCE

Between flour manufactured by the old "stone" process and that made by the modern "roller mill" is thoroughly understood by all grocers.

IN SALT

Grocers do not so generally know that there is exactly the same difference between Salt made by the old method and that made by the modern "vacuum process" which is used in the manufacture of

Windsor Salt

This process produces a Salt that is very fine and even in crystal, exceedingly white in color and unsurpassed for purity.

WINDSOR TABLE SALT

Is put up in fine cotton bags, packed 100/3s, 60/5s, 42/7s, 30/10s, and 15/20s per barrel, in 5 lb., 10 lb., and 20 lb. wooden boxes, in square cardboard packages packed 24/5s, 36/3s and 48/2s per case and in 4 lb. handsomely lithographed round cardboard packages packed 24 per case. THE CANADIAN GROCER

Vol. IX. (Published Weekly)

TORONTO AND MONTREAL, DECEMBER 6, 1895

($2.00 per Year) No. 49

DROPS FROM THE EDITOR'S PEN.

An open winter usually means a blockaded trade.

The quickest way to get rich is to work hard.

Clerks should be readers, but they should read what will prove profitable.

He who can sell goods fast is the only kind of fast merchant that should be emulated.

People who keep stirring the political pot sometimes quench the national fire with partisan soup.

When a merchant hires help he should help that help to help itself, in order to get the best results.

Wisdom does not grow with the rapidity of a mushroom, but its cultivation is sure to yield a profitable crop.

We often talk about the good old times of long ago, but we would not have them back again for all the world.

The trouble with a great many people is that they have schemes in their head which they never take out and put into practice.

It is quite proper that a merchant should watch his competitors, but it is quite improper for him not to watch his own interests.

A merchant with a smiling countenance is worth more as a drawing card than all the fake advertisements in the community.

The merchant who is always guided in his actions by what his competitor does cannot be said, like the washtub, to stand on his own bottom.

A first-class salesman may not be able to paint a picture, but he can usually paint in glowing colors the qualities of the thing he sells.

Five years ago the United States had a surplus it did not know what to do with; now it has a deficit it does not know what to do with.

Those who have lately been found guilty of arson are now doubtless being consumed with the burning wish that they had never put their thoughts into flame.

Young men are mistaken when they imagine they can lift themselves into affluence by dishonest methods; lifting one's self by the bootstraps is not more difficult.

Merit may be accidentally or designedly hid for a while, but it is just as sure to be revealed as the sun is to peep out from behind the clouds which have veiled its face.

C.P.R. earnings the third week in November were $502,000, against $460,000 last year and $499,000 in 1893. These figures are stronger than a column of adjectives.

The reason some merchants do not keep their store windows clean is, probably, because they are ashamed of the contents of their windows and desire to keep a veil over them.

We do not hear any bleating among the sheep in Canada because they cannot get upon the British market alive. They will get in somehow, even if it is by death's door.

When a Government promises to give the prayer of petitioners "careful consideration" it frequently means that it will carefully consider how it can best avoid answering it.

Beggars, beats and burglars are about the only kind of people that merchants should essay to keep out of their stores, but while a lowering countenance will not keep out people, it will those whose presence it is desirable to court.

The retail grocers of Pipestone, Minn., have formed a cash association, and hereafter they will sell for cash only. There must be some men good at pipe-laying among the grocers of Pipestone.

A dull "ad." is no more read because it is in big type than is a dull article in small type. The writer of advertisements, like the writer of ordinary articles, should study to make them bright and forcible.

Liquified air is to be made an article of commerce for refrigerating purposes. A German is the inventor, and he proposes to erect machinery to carry on the industry. Political gas will not be used, having no utility.

Merchants need have no fear that in sweeping out their stores customers will be swept out in the process. Dirt will keep out more customers than a score of brooms in the hands of even a score of females.

A Toronto boy fell into a tank of hot water the other day, and the daily papers far and near chronicled the matter. But there are some business men who are everlastingly getting into hot water and not a word is said about it.

Of course a trade paper is not an absolute necessity to a man of business; neither is a window in a shop. By carefully groping about, the merchant can manage to get along without either. He will doubtless lose a few dollars now and then in the one instance and some skin from his shins and nose in the other, but these are only trifling matters.

MANUFACTURE OF LAUNDRY BLUE

PREMISING that the process of making laundry blue is more simple than is generally supposed, a foreign journal gives some information concerning the profits of the industry and the methods employed. The plant, it says, consists of a pair of edge stones for grinding the material and presses to form it into blocks, cubes, or circulars, as may be required. A press to work by hand and to make four squares at a time costs about $20, and will turn out about 3 cwt. per day. The best form of press is hydraulic, making sixty-three squares and costing about £80. A blue which matches the leading makes is as follows: 40 lbs. ultramarine at about £30 per ton, 20 lbs. ultramarine at about £20 per ton, 40 lbs. bicarbonate of soda at £7 per ton, 12 lbs. glucose at £12 per ton. It will be seen that the mixture costs in raw material not more than 15s. per cwt. To this add 5s. 6d. per cwt. for cost of labor in grinding and pressing, packing, paper and boxes, which makes total cost 20s. 6d. per cwt. This is sold at from 65s. to 80s. per cwt.

Certain makers offer a blue at from 18s. to 20s. per cwt., which is made as follows: 20 lbs. ultramarine at £22 per ton, 20 lbs. kiln-dried blue earth, 15 lbs. terra alba, 45 lbs. bicarbonate of soda, 12 lbs. glucose.

The kiln-dried blue earth is reduced to a thick consistency with boiling water, just enough water being added to soften it. The glucose, when bought, is generally 44 deg. Tw. This is mixed with hot water to reduce it to 25 deg. Tw., and is added in this form. The weights given refer to this sp. g., and not to the original density. The dry materials are put under the stones and well ground, so as to thoroughly amalgamate the bicarbonate into the color, and the syrup is then added. The whole is ground until a sample taken from the stones does not show any black specks (syrup) when worked with a palette knife or rubbed between the fingers. When taken from the stones it is passed through a riddle (seven-wire gauge) by hand, and is then ready for the press. Unless pressed by hydraulic at $1\frac{1}{4}$ tons pressure it should be put in drying stove, which will considerably harden it. It is then dusted on the six sides of the square with a superior ultramarine by means of a small brush, and passed to the packers to be wrapped and parceled.

Circular and bag blues are pressed in dies with circular holes in place of square ones, and are pressed very light, so as to get a maximum size with a minimum weight, and are stoved until quite hard. A proportion of gum arabic, gelatine or dextrine added to the glucose will keep the circular hard. If made of glucose alone they have a tendency to go soft when kept in stock. Circular blue is generally made of pure ultramarine, with 22 pounds of syrup to the cwt. There are circular and bag blues on the market which show such ingredients as Fuller's earth, china clay and terra alba. Bag blue is packed by means of a wooden block having a hole in it just the depth of the circular piece to be produced, and slightly larger in diameter. The piece of linen is laid across the hole and the circular pushed down. This brings the linen up neat and tight around the blue, and leaves the neck standing out to be tied with linen.

HOW TO MAKE THE BUSINESS PAPER PAY THE ADVERTISER.

IN this paper I propose to give some practical advice and suggestions on how to make it pay any way, and how to make it pay better than it ever has paid.

Advertising to-day must be made to pay.

The good of all good is in so handling the good that the good of it does good.

Poor advertising pays poorly—good advertising pays well.

Good goods and poor advertising may be as profitless as bad goods and good advertising.

Unless the quality of the goods and the quality of the advertising harmonize there is no profit in publicity, except that transient profit that no decent man cares about.

The conventional advertisement has a value, although it has looked backward over a quarter of a century.

The selling value of anything is partly in the appearance of it.

Intrinsic value, covered with a bushel basket, is no more salable, and perhaps not so salable, as less value well presented.

A ham sandwich, with a wide, thick table cloth and napkin as big as a towel, with a waiter of immaculate blackness, and a well-set table, is more appetizing than terrapin and game served in a horse trough.

The diamond is not more brilliant than coal before it is polished.

Make the goods look as well as they are, provided they are as well as they look.

Make the advertisement look as well as the goods.

The advertisement which reads:

JOHN SMITH & CO.,

Wholesale Grocery Importers,

may bring Mr. Smith some business, but it will not bring him the business that is sure to come from an advertisement which advertises what Mr. Smith sells more prominently than Mr. Smith himself.

Mr. Smith is not for sale—that which he makes is for sale.

The buyer cares nothing about Mr. Smith beyond Mr. Smith's reliability and character.

He cares everything about the quality of what Mr. Smith makes.

I do not depreciate the value of keeping Mr. Smith's name before the public, but I do not believe in advertising Mr. Smith to the prejudice of what Mr. Smith makes.

Three-quarters of the advertisement and the largest type should be used in announcing the articles manufactured. Too big type cannot be used—the bigger the better.

Better hit the pocket-book of one man than the feet of a dozen.

One word inside of a man is worth one hundred outside of him.

If you manufacture a dozen articles, don't conspicuously speak of more than one of them at a time, unless you have separate advertisements for each.

No matter what you sell, advertise it, with your name and address as a matter of necessity, but don't place your name at the top of the advertisement in the largest type, followed by a conglomeration of what you make, so mixed up and so insignificant, that one can't separate the wheat from the chaff.

There is no objection to advertising some one article prominently, and, in small type following, speak of the other lines carried.

Let the advertisement have the advantage of always profitable oneness.

Let it appeal to the buyer on some one particular thing, that thing to be changed to another in the next issue of the paper, if you make other things.

If you manufacture a dozen articles, advertise one prominently, with the others very much less prominently; then the next time advertise another prominently, and the others less prominently, and so on.

Don't say much in your advertisement.

It is not the business of the advertisement to sell goods. It is to assist your salesmen and your catalogue in selling.

It is the business of the advertisement to create correspondence, to interest buyers in your travelers and the goods they carry, so that they will wait to see their samples before giving orders elsewhere, to separate the probable from the possible customers, to bring into your office letters which indicate that certain people desire certain goods, and it is there your business, and the business of your employes, to sell them.

Trade paper advertising would be worth double what it is to the advertiser if the advertiser made his advertisements specify something in particular, not everything in general.

Make one point at a time, and only one.

Advertise prominently the thing for sale, not the seller of it.

THAT BIG MOLASSES SHIPMENT.

AN impression has prevailed for several years past that Portland was rapidly losing its prominence in connection with the West India business, says The Express of that town, and that the molasses trade had been reduced to small proportions, but a careful student of transactions on our water front recently could not fail to notice that the general public are hardly aware of the volume of business done by molasses importers. Special mention should be made of one importing house whose enterprise has done much to make the port of Portland again one of importance in the line in question, and to renew, in a large degree, the business in grocery molasses, which seemed to be gradually drifting away. Some four years ago N. W. Taussig & Co., of New York, noting the possibilities and the needs of a revival of the trade in Portland, as well as the advantageous location offered, established an office on Commercial street, under the charge of Mr. J. E. Stringer, who, by the facilities rendered by his house, and by his indomitable will and able management, has built up a prosperous business.

The Messrs. Taussig, soon after locating there, began to import desirable grades of Porto Rico and Barbadoes molasses to that port, until, by carefully catering to the wants of the jobbers, they are known as the leading house in the importation of and the trade in molasses. But, not content with this, and with a spirit only possessed by energetic and pushing men, they conceived the idea of opening a trade with Canada by transportation from Portland, via the Grand Trunk Railway. This molasses is brought from the West India Islands by sailing vessels, and landed in the Grand Trunk warehouses in bond. If any part of it is required by our wholesale grocers, the duties are paid on that part, and then it is delivered. The balance is either shipped to Canada in bond, or duties are paid, and it goes on to other points in our own country on orders, of which the Messrs. Taussig receive a large number from the south and west. An idea of the extent of their trade from this point may be gained from the fact that during the present season they have had landed here, in bond, outside of their other prosperous local business, some 3,000 hogsheads of Porto Rico molasses, from which they have recently made one shipment to Montreal of 500 hogsheads and 80 tierces, in one special train, composed of 25 cars, said to have been the only special train loaded exclusively with Porto Rico molasses that ever went over the Grand Trunk road. This being so, it was thought proper to advertise it, and large signs, elegantly painted, were put upon several of the cars, bearing the following inscription:

This Train is loaded with Porto Rico Molasses, in Bond, for Montreal, shipped by N. W. Taussig & Co., importers.

The members of this firm and their families have become warmly attached to Portland and its surroundings, and for several years have enjoyed life at the beautiful islands in Casco Bay, thus materially adding to their other large expenditures of money, which, in the total, is an important factor in the increasing prosperity of Portland that should continue to be recognized by all our people.

The building up of this branch of commerce in our city should, and doubtless will, receive the encouragement to which it is entitled, and we hope the final result will be the complete restoration of the old time activity in the West India business on our water front. N. W. Taussig & Co.'s home office is in New York, but they now have branch houses established in Boston and in New Orleans, besides brokers' offices in many of the principal cities in the United States and Canada. The Portland office is under the management of Mr. W. G. Soule, an expert molasses man, Mr. Stringer having been promoted to a responsible position in the New York office.

N. W. Taussig & Co. intend to continue and increase the molasses business through here to Canada. They now have about 1,000 hogsheads left here in bond ready for shipment.

TRADE BALANCES AND CANADA.

POLITICAL economists differ as to the relative importance of the balance of trade. One school contends that excess of imports over exports indicates a healthy condition. The other argues that vice versa is the ideal.

Both are right to a certain extent, but the doctrine of neither will apply to all countries alike. The United Kingdom, for instance, great as it is as an exporter, is still greater as an importer, for the simple reason that it has to import the bulk of its raw materials. The United States, on the other hand, is an exporting country. She exports raw materials as well as manufactured products. Consequently when the imports exceed the exports, as they have during the past ten months, one can fairly say that the balance of trade against her is unfavorable, while the same application would only apply to Great Britain if her exports exceeded her imports.

Canada's position is somewhat unique in this respect. She is like neither Great Britain nor the United States. Canada imports both raw material and the finer class of manufactured goods, hence, when her imports exceed her exports it cannot be accounted unfavorable to her. If it did count against us we would have been bankrupt long ago, for since Confederation there have only been three years during which the exports exceeded the imports for home consumption.

Raw material is imported for the purpose of being turned into finished products. In this process profit, of course, accrues to the manufacturers.

Of Canada's total imports for 1894 over 21½ per cent. consisted of raw materials. Our exports of manufactured goods during the same year aggregated 23.16 per cent. of the total exports of all kinds, while according to the census of 1891 Canada turns annually about $256,000,000 worth of raw material into manufactured products valued at $476,000,000, an appreciation of value of over 46 per cent., distributed among the manufacturers, artisans, public carriers, etc.

It is evident that an excess of imports over exports does not indicate an unhealthy condition as far as Canada is concerned. But it does with the United States. It indicates, first, that the products which she sends abroad are not going out in their accustomed volume, and that, consequently, gold must be exported to meet her liabilities. Then, there is a demand upon her gold reserve to pay for the securities which British and European capitalists are anxious—over-anxious it may be—to get off their hands.

The result of this two-fold demand upon its gold supply is seen in the fact that its excess of gold exports over the imports is over $44,000,000 for the ten months ending October 31st last.

The British capitalist is beginning to learn that Canada affords an excellent field for investment. As a result, much of the British capital that once went to the United States is coming this way; and this flow is destined to grow in volume as the knowledge of the richness of our resources becomes more diffused.

It is no exaggeration to say that no country in the world to-day affords, to put it mildly, better investment to capitalists than does Canada. But the trouble is that we in this country are not aggressive enough in advertising the fact.

In the Kootenay and Cariboo country we have the richest and best paying gold mining properties in the world, not excepting those of the much vaunted South Africa. On both the Atlantic and the Pacific we have the best fisheries by far in the world. In the forests we have unlimited wealth. Along the shores of Nova Scotia, in the heart of the country, and in British Columbia there are illimitable fields of coal. And in Manitoba and the Territories we have a stretch of country whose adaptability for cereal raising and ranching purposes is beyond peradventure.

ADVANCE IN WOODENWARE.

The woodenware manufacturers of Canada have been meeting in Toronto during the past week, and as a result some important changes have been made in prices and discounts.

Complete information cannot be furnished as the revision of the lists is not yet finished. THE CANADIAN GROCER is, however, in a position to state that the advance in pails and tubs is about ten cents per dozen. Butter tubs and covers have been removed from the net list and placed on the regular list, and new prices have been compiled. Trade discounts are about 5 per cent. lower.

During the recent depression in the United States, it will be remembered, the Canadian woodenware manufacturers were compelled to lower their prices very materially to meet the slaughter figures at which makers were sending their goods into this country. Since the return of activity, the price of the raw material, such as hoops, wire, etc., used by the woodenware manufacturers, has advanced considerably; as much as 30 to 32 per cent. in some instances. It is this fact that is more responsible than any other for the advances just ordered in the finished products by the makers of woodenware in Canada.

Those present at the meetings were: W. H. Rowley, of the E. B. Eddy Co., Hull, Que.; H. S. Cane, of the Wm. Cane & Sons Mfg. Co., of Newmarket, and Charles Thompson, of the Longford Co., of Orillia.

FRENCH SHIPPERS ANNOYED.

SHIPPERS in France as well as importers in Canada are beginning to chafe under the regulations and exactions which the Canadian Customs authorities are imposing on goods entering the country under the French Treaty.

This is evident from correspondence which J. L. Watt & Scott, of Toronto, have just received from Marseilles.

The French Treaty, it will be remembered, went into operation some six weeks ago. But, ever since, the Customs Department, by a system of petty rulings, have made it about as impossible as they well could for importers to take advantage of the treaty.

One of the obstacles placed in the way was in regard to the evidence adduced as to the article imported being of French origin. Whether in all cases THE CANADIAN GROCER cannot say, but in a good many instances the consular certificate was not accepted as sufficient evidence. This has led to a great deal of annoyance, and is the direct cause of the letter from the Marseilles shippers in question.

"The traders on this and on your own side are respectable and reliable enough to certify to the truth," they write.

The method of issuing the certificate showing the origin of the goods is, in brief, something like this: First, the mayor of the municipality in which the shippers do business takes an oath to the effect that the goods being exported to Canada are the product of France. This certificate is then forwarded to the British Consul resident there, who makes an affidavit to the effect that the signature is that of the mayor. For this little duty and affixing his signature the Consul receives a fee of six francs and a half.

Watt & Scott's correspondents suggest that if this method is not sufficient to satisfy the Customs Department of Canada that the British Consul either make his certificate out upon the documentary evidence to be found in the office of the shippers or upon the affidavit of the shippers.

In carrying out the law the Customs Department undoubtedly needs to exercise much care; but care does not mean petty rulings and unfair exactions, notwithstanding that the Department has acted in dealing with the French Treaty as if it did.

The trouble is that consignor and consignee alike are account rogues—first, last, and all the time. At any rate, that is what is to be gathered from the attitude of the Government toward them.

As THE CANADIAN GROCER has said before, the system has been borrowed from our Yankee cousins. It is sharp, but it is not business-like, neither is it just. And the sooner the Canadian Customs Department discards it, and gives the importer some credit for being honest until he is proved otherwise, the better for all concerned, the Government included.

OFFICE OF THE TRADE PAPER.

THE CANADIAN GROCER is not issued every day; it is issued once a week. Yet this journal had made public to its readers the cigarette situation in Canada two or three weeks before the daily papers of the country revealed anything to their constituents.

We do not refer to this with a view to speaking disparagingly of the daily papers. Canada has reason to be proud of her daily newspapers. The reason we bring the matter up is that on it we may "hang a moral and adorn a tale."

The moral is that merchants who want to keep posted on matters appertaining to their respective lines must read the trade papers devoted to their particular business.

The papers devoted to groceries, hardware, dry goods, etc., are specialists. And not only must they of necessity be better qualified than daily papers to deal with trade matters, but they have better opportunities of giving information concerning matters in their particular sphere.

He who is in touch with the Government knows more of its doings than he who taries with the Opposition. And it is the same in regard to the trade and the daily papers: The one pays particular attention to trade matters; the other to political and general news.

Take, by all means, the daily paper for political and general news, but do not fall into the erroneous idea that it will keep you informed on trade matters as well.

PRICE OF POTATOES.

THE CANADIAN GROCER'S article last week voicing the opinion of some people that old potatoes, despite their present plentifulness, may, before the advent of new potatoes next spring, be quoted at an unusually high figure, is causing a good deal of discussion.

We understand that some bets have been made over the question, and that considerable money hangs on the issue. One of Canada's biggest dealers is backing the prediction chronicled in these columns.

GRENOBLE WALNUTS SCARCE.

THE situation in Grenoble walnuts is more than usually interesting at the moment, both at home and abroad.

At home there is already a scarcity, and the bulk of the demand for the holiday trade has not yet been satisfied. Some houses in Toronto appear to be completely cleaned out. At any rate those that have Grenobles in stock are being importuned by other wholesalers who desire to purchase. Toronto merchants have also received enquiries from Hamilton houses.

A few shipments have been received during the week, but they do not appear to have given much relief. Further shipments are not expected till after Christmas.

Advices just received from the primary markets announce an advance of about one cent and a half per pound in the price of Grenoble walnuts. Consequently later shipments will cost considerably more than those brought on earlier in the season.

A SUBJECT OF CONCERN.

OUR cousins to the south are again concerned about their gold reserve, which, on account of the demands that have recently been made upon it on export account, has again dropped some twenty millions below the legal level.

Coming at a time when gold ought to be flowing back into the country in payment for cereals exported, it is not surprising that financial men in the United States should scratch their heads in search of a reason, and that the president of the country should urge Congress to come to the rescue of the depleted reserve.

Some have opined that the decreased export of breadstuffs is the primary cause, but although up to a week or two ago the value of the wheat and flour sent out of the country was some three and a-half millions less than for the same time last season, yet the decrease in this respect was more than compensated for by the increase of 14,000,000 bushels is the quantity of corn exported. During September alone corn to the value of $2,388,216 was sent out of the country, against only $263,583 worth the same time in 1894.

Others turn to the cotton exports for an explanation; and here, in part at any rate, is to be found the explanation. According to the returns for September the exports for that month of raw cotton were valued at $4,925,015, against $8,172,421 the same time last year. But from figures collated by the N. Y. Journal of Commerce, dealing with the exports from September 1 to November 22, bales to the number of 1,258,023, and to the value of $50,336,000, based upon the average market price, were exported. According to these figures there was obviously a large increase in the cotton exports during October and November. But in spite of this the exports up to November 22 were 324,897 bales below those of the last five years and 786,288 below those of the highest year. In value the exports were $8,731,000 below those of 1894 and nearly $15,000,000 less than those of the last four years.

But the fact of the matter is, the merchandise exports from the United States have fallen off materially during the present year, while their imports have increased enormously. For instance, during the ten months ending October 31 last the exports aggregated $644,944,706, in 1894 they were $660,271,397. Turning to the imports we find that they exceeded the exports by over thirty-one million dollars, while during the corresponding ten months of 1894 the exports exceeded the imports by over ninety-six and a half million dollars.

TURKEYS AND APPLES FOR ENGLAND.

Certain quantities of Canadian fruit and poultry have recently been shipped from points in Ontario to catch the Christmas trade in the British markets.

Last week Dawson & Co. consigned seven cars of apples to the Old Country from Toronto, Stouffville, Brampton, and Cobourg.

The same firm shipped to Liverpool a car containing 170 barrels of turkeys and some geese.

It is interesting to note that Dawson & Co. were the pioneers in shipping Canadian apples and poultry to England. Twenty-eight years ago the father of the brothers now composing the firm sent the first apples over the sea, and this is the twenty-second consecutive year that the firm have placed turkeys on the home markets.

FREIGHT CLASSIFICATION OF GROCERIES.

At the invitation of the Classification Committee of the Railway Companies, H. C. Beckett, of W. H. Gillard & Co, Hamilton, had a conference Monday last with that body with a view of simplifying the classification of groceries so that they could be grouped under two or three classes instead of five as at present.

The committee appeared to be pleased with the suggestions made by Mr. Beckett, seeing advantages in the way of billing that might justify them in making the change. They have promised to take the matter into consideration, and if such a classification can be arranged, it will no doubt be a great advantage to both wholesale and retail grocers.

NEW AGREEMENT ON CIGARETTES.

THE agreement on which the American Tobacco Co. is to supply the jobbing trade in Canada with their various brands of cigarettes, to which reference was made in THE CANADIAN GROCER some weeks ago, is being signed by the trade this week.

Under it the American Tobacco Co. will consign cigarettes for sale on commission, and the jobbing trade must sell to retail trade only, and at the price fixed by the company: 2 per cent. discount is allowed for cash in ten days; the jobber pays the freight, and must guarantee the company against loss by fire or other cause; if the jobber does not discriminate against the American Tobacco Co.'s cigarettes in favor of those of any other manufacturer he will be allowed a commission of 2 per cent. on the amount realized by the sale of cigarettes consigned to him, and if he handles the company's cigarettes only he will receive an additional commission of 6 per cent. Briefly, jobbers who handle the American Tobacco Co.'s cigarettes only will get a rebate of 8 per cent., and if they pay cash they will receive an extra 2 per cent., or 10 per cent. in all.

As far as can be learned, none of the jobbers have refused to sign. While the agreement binds them down to its terms, they are assured of a profit which few of them have been making recently. It looks as if all the other makers would be shut out of the Canadian market entirely.

To protect one jobber from the other in cutting, the company will assign a number to each jobber. Every package sent to him will bear that number. When the representatives of that company find a package of cigarettes that has been sold at a cut price, they can, by referring to the number, ascertain what jobbing house sold it, and they will then cancel his rebate.

BEET SUGAR REFINERY FOR LEAMINGTON.

A proposition is on foot to start a refinery at Leamington, Ont., for the manufacture of sugar from beetroot. A meeting of citizens was held on Saturday night, when a committee was appointed to form a provisional board of directors.

Guarantees will be secured from farmers to supply 100,000 tons of beet next season. The average growth in South Essex is 25 tons per acre, and this will require 4,000 acres. The capacity of the factory will be 1,000 tons of beets per day, and 400 persons will be employed. A charter has been applied for.

Negotiations are being carried on by Mr. R. Lawder, the well-known authority on beet sugar cultivation, who is understood to be working in the interest of Mr. Lefebvre.

LATE S. DAVIS.

ON Saturday afternoon last Mr. S. Davis, of S. Davis & Sons, Montreal, who has been ailing for some time, passed away peacefully.

The late Mr. Davis was born on July 4, 1834, and came to Canada in 1891, after having been for a short time engaged in business in Brooklyn, N.Y. On reaching Canada he made Montreal his home, commencing as a cigar manufacturer. Beginning in a small way, the manufactory gradually extended, an immense business was built up, and the name of the house became known all over the North American continent. Seven years ago the estate of D. Ritchie & Co. was acquired by purchase, and was added to the business. The venture proved most successful, and, some few months ago, that portion of the manufactory was sold to the American Tobacco Co. of Canada. As each of his sons came of age, Mr. Davis took them into partnership, and the business of the firm, from which Mr. Davis retired three months ago, is now carried on by two of his sons, M. E. and M. H.

Acquiring wealth in abundance, Mr. Davis did not keep it wholly to himself, but was ever ready to contribute to charitable objects and worthy institutions, his generosity being limited to neither creed nor race, Hebrew and Gentile alike being recipients of his liberality. And the practical sympathy which he so freely displayed, he gave without the slightest ostentation; indeed, he let not his right hand know what his left hand did, never mentioning, even to any of the members of his family, any act of generosity that he had performed. To his timely aid very many families are indebted for their start in life; in fact, on one occasion he gave to no fewer than seventy-five families the means to earn their own livelihood, and that so quietly that only himself and the immediate recipients of his bounty were aware of his benevolence. He subscribed to all of the city charities, and in many of the benevolent institutions he interested himself deeply and held prominent offices.

He was a life governor of hospitals, and was one of those who took an active part in the founding of the Protestant Hospital for the Insane at Verdun. In the Baron de Hirsch Institute he took a lively interest, and he was among those who worked hardest in the obtaining of a grant for the founding of that colony in the Northwest, to which so many of the Jews, who have since landed on our shores, have been forwarded. For seventeen years he was president of the Spanish and Portuguese congregation, and at the time of his death had occupied a like position in the Temple Emanu-El for upwards of nine years. He was, on several occasions, offered public positions, but, with that natural modesty which ever characterized him, he always declined the honor.

Forty years ago he married Miss Falk, of Brooklyn, N.Y., who, together with five sons and two daughters, survive him. The sons are Eugene, who is interested in the largest tobacco house in the States; M. E. and M. H., who carry on the business of S. Davis & Sons, in Montreal; M. B., president of the Canadian branch of the American Tobacco Co., and D. T. a law student at Columbia College, N.Y., who was gold-medalist in arts at McGill some two or three years ago. Both daughters are married, one to Dr. Lustgarten, the well-known specialist in dermatology, New York, and the other to Mr. J. B. Cole, a large New York contractor.

Deceased carried a life insurance of $150,000.

AMONG THE RETAILERS.

Edgar Allen, confectionery, etc., Wallaceburg, is retiring from business.

J. D. Burk, Amherstburg, reports trade quite brisk this season.

Burk Bros., Buxton, dissolved partnership 1st December, 1895, and B. G. Burk continues.

D. B. Armstrong, Fletcher, will have his brother, of Beaver Falls, Wis., to assist him in his store. He is doing a good trade, and will find the addition of his brother a great benefit to his increasing business.

The new extension of the Michigan Central Railway into the business centre of Amherstburg will be appreciated by both shippers and other business men of that place. It is expected to be in running order by December 15.

B. G. Burk, Buxton, Ont., has made various alterations in his store, fitting it up in more convenient shape. He reports business a little quiet, but had a good month in October, being considerably ahead of same time last year. He expects a good Christmas trade to commence very shortly.

R. J. Graham met the patrons of his cheese factory at Ridgetown, November 29, to make arrangements for next season's supply. Mr. Hart, cheesemaker for the factory, was appointed to see the farmers about the future supply, and if they cannot get at least 300 cows' milk they will not continue the factory.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

GROCERIES.

A COMPLAINT is heard here and there regarding trade; but this is not general. Sugars are dull, and lower than they were a week ago. But there is a large business being done in foreign dried fruits for the holiday trade, and in general groceries outside sugars there is a fair business doing for the season. There is a little easier feeling in low grade Indian teas and in Young Hysons. Dark syrups are wanted, but there is a scarcity of all kinds of syrups on this market. Grenoble walnuts are scarce on spot and dearer in the primary markets. Stocks of Malaga raisins are also getting well reduced. The first bulk shipment of Turkish prunes for the Canadian market arrived in New York a few days ago. The first shipments of new season's dates are due on spot any day now. Further shipments of Rio coffees are to hand, and there is a good demand. A good demand is being experienced for candied peels. Notwithstanding the poor demand there was for sugar, the volume of business last month was good, expressions to that effect being heard on all sides. Some of the houses have been compelled to work overtime in order to get their orders out. One firm, and not the largest in Toronto, shipped 108 bills of goods on Saturday alone. Payments are fair, and they are naturally expected to get better if the present seasonable weather is maintained.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been some talk of low offers of tomatoes, but THE CANADIAN GROCER has been unable to trace the rumor to any authentic source. There was one packer on the street who asked 75c. for tomatoes and corn together, but 77½c. was the lowest figure he would entertain for tomatoes alone. Not many canned salmon are moving. A few cohoes have arrived on the market this week, but not many are likely to be on the market this season. We quote: Tomatoes, 77½ to 85c.; corn, 75 to 85c.; peas, 90 to 95c.; for ordinary; sifted, $1.05 to $1.10; extra sifted, $1.50 to $1.55; peaches, $2.90 to $3 for 3's, $1.90 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.40 to $2.00; strawberries, $1.80 to $2.45, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.90 to $2.20; cherries, $2.40 to $2.45; apples, 3's, 85 to 90c.; gallons, $1.90 to 2.25; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.35 to $1.40; "Maple Leaf," $1.35; "Lion," $1.35; Lowe Inlet, $1.27 to $1.30, in tall tins; cohoes, $1.10 to $1.20; canned mackerel, $1.10 to $1.20; lobsters, $1.80 to $2.10, for tall tins; flats, $2.35 to $2.65; half tins, $1.45 to $1.50; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.40 to $1.50; 2's, $2.40 to $2.55; 6's, $7.75 to $8.25; 14's, $16 to $18.

COFFEE.

Rio coffee is in good demand. Fresh shipments have been received on the market during the past few days, and some of them are showing particularly good sample. We quote green in bags as follows: Rio, 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22½c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracaibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

SUGAR.

Since last week the refiners have decided to shade prices 1-16c. per lb. on granulated for large lots, but have kept firm on quantities under 250 barrels. Yellows are nominally unchanged, but there is an easier feeling on account of the absence of a demand. During the last few days the raw market both in New York and London has recovered about 6d. from the lowest point recently touched. Although the sugar trade is still dull, refiners are experiencing a little better demand than they were the early part of the preceding month. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, 4.30 to 4½c.; do., No. 2, 4½c.; yellows, 3½c. up.

SYRUPS.

There is a demand for dark syrups, but the refineries have none, or very little of any kind to offer. Some transactions are reported in brights at from 2¼ to 2½c. per lb., and we hear of an odd shipment or so of dark American syrups coming forward, but the duty of course precludes much being done in this line. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.; bright, 40 to 42c.

MOLASSES.

East Indian molasses is being offered at equal to about 31c. per gallon laid down here, but we have so far heard of no transactions. We quote: New Orleans, barrels, 25 to 32c.; half-barrels, 33½ to 35c.; Barbadoes, barrels, 31 to 35c.; half-barrels, 33 to 37c.

RICE.

There is no special feature, the usual quietness obtaining. We quote: "B," 3½ to 3¾c.; extra Japan, 5¼ to 5¾c.; imported Japan, 5¾ to 6¼c.; tapioca, pearl, 3½ to 5½c.

SPICES.

Demand is good for black ground pepper, ginger, cinnamon, and allspice, and a fair seasonable trade generally is being done. We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.; allspice, 14 to 18c.

NUTS.

The local market is now well supplied for the holiday trade except in Grenoble walnuts, which are scarce on spot and about 1½c. per lb. dearer in France. The demand is good. We quote: Brazil nuts, 12 to 13c.; Sicily shelled almonds, 25 to 26c.; Taragona almonds, 14 to 14½c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted, and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 11½ to 13c. Marbot walnuts, 10 to 12c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 10 to 12c.; Sicily filberts, 8 to 10c. for sacks and 10¼ to 11c. for small lots; pecans, 10¼ to 11c.

TEAS.

Neglect has been the general feature of the tea market, buyers being occupied with Christmas specialties. Where extra value has been offered sellers have been able to interest buyers. A few transactions are reported in medium China blacks in caddies and half chests. Young Hysons are going forward in better supply, and prices have eased off a little. There is a little inquiry for low grade Indian and Ceylon teas. In low grade Ceylons the primary markets are a little easier. There is a fair business passing in Japan teas, prices of which continue firm. China Congous are quiet on spot. We quote ruling prices to retailers as follows: Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

DRIED FRUITS.

Valencia raisins are in active demand, and prices rule firm. We quote: Off-stalk, 4¼ to 4½c.; fine off-stalk, 4¼ to 5¼c.; selected, 6c.; layers, 6½c.

Currants continue in active demand, with prices strong. We quote: Fine Filiatras, in half-barrels, 4 to 4¼c.; ditto, cases, 4¼ to 4½c.; ditto, half-cases, 4½ to 4¾c.; Casalinas, cases, 5 to 5¼c.; Vostizzas, cases, 6 to 6½c.; ditto, half-cases, 6½ to 6¾c.; ditto extra fine, 6¾ to 7¼c.; ditto, half-cases, 7¼ to 7½c.

Stocks of Malaga raisins are getting well reduced on the local market, while trade is good, particularly in the finer grades. We quote: London layers, $2 to $2.20; black baskets, $2.75 to $3.20; blue baskets, $3.25 to $3.50; choice clusters, $3.25 to $3.50; Dehesa clusters, $4 to $4.50; Royal clusters, $5 to $5.25; Royal Buckingham clusters, $4.50; Non-Plus-Ultra and Royal Windsor, $6.50.

Bosnia prunes are in good demand, but there are not yet many being held here. The in your store that in your opinion is not giving satisfaction we will gladly return you your money for it if you ship it back to us. Many teas, loose and packets, are highly lauded. Is there as much said in favor of any one of them as is said in the above few lines.

first bulk shipment of Bosnia prunes for the Canadian market has arrived in New York, and may be expected here any day now: California prunes are firm at the recent advance. We quote prunes: Bosnias, "Sphinx" brand, "A," 70-75 to lb., 9c.; "B," 80-85 to lb., 7½c.; "U," 110-115 to lb., 6¾c.; California prunes, 40-50, 10 to 10½c. per lb.; 50-60 to box, 9½c. per lb.; 60-70 to box, 9c.; 70-80 to box, 8½c. per lb.; French, 5 to 6c.

California dried fruits have been moving out freely, people evidently appreciating the fine quality and value offering. Four-crown loose muscatels are practically cleaned out on the coast, and representatives here cannot get enough to fill orders. Two-crown are being offered on this market, but some doubt is expressed as to how they will take.

California evaporated fruits are meeting with fair demand, and apricots are firm in the primary market. We quote: Apricots, 13½ to 15c.; peaches, 10½ to 12½c.; pears, 10½ to 12½c.; plums, 6½c. for unpitted, and 12½c. for pitted; nectarines, 11 to 13c.

Sultana raisins are advised to be well sustained in the primary markets. There is nothing special to note regarding them on the local market.

The first shipment of dates for this market from London reached Boston some days ago, and Toronto's quota is expected to arrive every day.

Figs are in good demand at unchanged prices. We quote: Elme, 14 oz., 9 to 10½c.; 10 lb., 9½ to 12½c.; 18 lb., 13 to 15c.; 28 lb., 16 to 18c.

GREEN FRUIT.

The feature of the market this week is the advance in the price of oranges. No Floridas, Messinas or Californias being yet to hand, Jamaicas hold the fort, and at the approach of the holiday season these stiffen. Lemons are a shade easier than they were, as are also apples. Butternuts and chestnuts are about out of the market. We quote: Lemons — Messina, $3.50 to $5 per box; Malaga, in half-chests, $8 to $9, boxes, $3.75 to $4. Oranges — Jamaicas, in boxes, $5 to $5.50; in bbls., $10; Bananas, $1.40 to $1.75; cocoanuts, $3.50 to $4 a sack; apples, $2 to $3 a barrel; grapes, 4 to 5c. per pound, and 25 to 40c. for small baskets; Malaga grapes, $5 to $7 per keg; pears, 50 to 75c.; domestic onions, 60 to 75c. per bag; Spanish onions, 50 to 65c. per small crate; sweet potatoes, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; cranberries, $10 per bbl., and $3.50 per case; hickory nuts, $1.80 to $2 per bushel.

EGGS—Incline to be dearer. Fresh eggs bring 16 to 17½c.; new laid, 20c.; first-class pickled, 14 to 14½c.; No. 2 stock-pickled, 13½c.

POULTRY—The glut expected for Thanksgiving did not transpire until a week after that date, but when it did come it sent prices down from 1 to 2c. all around. The large receipts have, however, now been checked, and cold weather may be expected to stiffen prices. The quotations given below, therefore, as ruling at this writing, will likely be improved before this comes before the reader's eyes. We quote glut prices: Geese, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; turkeys, 5 to 6c. per lb.; chickens, 20 to 30c. per pair; ducks, 40 to 60c. per pair.

BUTTER, CHEESE, POULTRY, EGGS.

BUTTER—Good quantities are arriving, and finding a fairly ready sale on a market tending to be easy. We quote: Old summer dairy and store packed, 8 to 12c.; fresh prints, 15 to 16c.; fresh tubs, 15 to 17c. Fresh creamery — Tubs, 20 to 21c.; pound prints, 21 to 22c.

CHEESE—For September Canadian makes, 8¾c. is paid by local buyers, 9½c. being the figure for the balance of the season.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—Jobbers are still paying $1.10 to $1.15 per bushel.

DRIED APPLES—Remain at 5 to 5½c. per lb.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Advanced ½c., and firm at 7 to 7½c. per lb.

POTATOES—No change in situation. The prices paid in the country are 14 to 15c., while in the city on the track potatoes bring 22 to 25c., and out of store 25 to 30c.

HONEY—Strained brings 8 to 10c. per lb.; while combs go at $1.50 to $2 per doz. There is a good enquiry for extracted honey from western and northern Ontario, where it is scarce.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

Dressed hogs are coming in very freely and prices have fallen still further. Hogs now bring $4.50 to $4.60. Products are markedly lower also, as following quotations show:

DRY SALTED MEATS—Long clear bacon, 6½c. for carload lots, and 6½ to 7c. for small lots; backs, 7½c.

SMOKED MEATS — Breakfast bacon, 10c.; rolls, 7½ to 7¾c.; hams, large, 22 lbs. and over, 9c.; medium, 15 to 20 lbs., 10c.; small hams, 10½c.; backs, 9½ to 10c.; picnic hams, 7 to 7½c.; all meats out of pickle, 1c. less than above.

QUEBEC MARKETS

MONTREAL, Dec. 5, 1895.

GROCERIES.

THE grocery market has been a quiet one, in so far as large transactions are concerned, but there has been a good jobbing demand for many staple lines. Notable in this connection has been the active jobbing enquiry for all kinds of dried fruit at firm prices. New dates and nuts have arrived, and have met a good enquiry also, and resulted in little change in prices, except in a higher direction. Sugar refiners have been shading prices, but the fact has had little influence in inducing any improvement in the demand, which continues dull. The same can be said of teas and spices, but in coffee a shading of ¼c. induced rather more enquiry.

SUGAR.

There has been a fair business in sugar, but the volume of trade is not extensive despite the fact that refiners have shaded prices for round lots 1-16 of a cent all round. At the refineries 200 bbl. lots have been moved at 4 3-16c. and smaller quantities at 4 ¼c., while yellows have changed hands at 3 ¾ to 3 ¾c. The news on raw sugars furnishes no new feature, and we quote the jobbing range on refined here steady at 4 ¼c. for granulated, and 3 ¾ to 3 ¾c. for yellows.

SYRUPS.

The demand for syrups is slow and the market quiet and steady. At the factory there have been sales at 1 ¾ to 2 ¾c., and in a jobbing way ½c. advance on this basis is asked.

MOLASSES.

There has been little activity to note in the molasses market since our last report.

No round lots have been moving at all except a lot of Porto Rico at 31c., and a small lot of Barbadoes at 35c. In a jobbing way we quote single puncheons Barbadoes 37c., and Porto Rico, 35 to 36c.

RICE.

There has been a good enquiry for rice, which rules fairly active and steady. Millers' prices are: Japan standard, $4.25 to $4.40; crystal Japan, $4.75 to $5; standard B., $3.45; English style, $3.30; Patna, $4.25 to $5, and Carolina at $6.50 to $7.50.

SPICES.

This market furnishes no new feature, a fair trade being in progress at steady prices. We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.

COFFEE.

The market is quiet, the only large sale being a lot of Maracaibo at 19c. An easier feeling is noticeable, however, and at a reduction of ½c. per lb. the past few days has witnessed a rather better enquiry. We quote green bean: Maracaibo, 19½ to 21½c.; Rio, 18½ to 19c.; Java, 23½ to 28c.; Jamaica, 17½ to 20c., and Mocha, 27 to 31c.

TEAS.

There has been a fair distributing trade in the tea market, but between houses absolutely nothing is doing. Some Japans have been moved at 14c. for low grades, and blacks continue easy and low. We quote Japans: Low grades, 14c.; medium, 15 to 18c.; fine, 20 to 22c., and choice, 25 to 32c.

DRIED FRUIT.

There has been no great activity to note in Valencia raisins during the week between houses, but the jobbing trade has been a very active one and prices all round are very firmly held. We quote: Ordinary off-stalk, 4 to 4 ¼c.; fine off stalk, 4 ½ to 4 ¾c.; selected, 5 ½ to 5 ¾c., and layers, 6 ¼ to 6 ½c.

There is a good, brisk trade doing in California raisins, at firm figures. Arrivals of further lots of 3-crown fruit here occurred during the week and they have met a good call from the retail trade at firm prices. We quote: 4-crown, 7c., and 3-crown, 5 ½c.

The supply of Sultana raisins is light and a moderate jobbing trade is doing at last week's figures: 6 to 6 ½c.

Malaga table fruits remain steady under a quiet jobbing call. We quote Malagas: Extra loose muscatels, $1.40; Imperial London layers, $1.75; Imperial cabinets, $1.90; Connoisseur clusters, $2.20; extra dessert clusters, $3; Royal Buckingham clusters, $3.50.

Currants are in good demand, and with light stocks. Prices are firm. We quote:

3¼c. in barrels, 4 to 4¼c. in half-barrels, and 4½ to 4¾c. in half-cases.

There have been further receipts of new prunes during the week, and prices are rather easier than they were on French stock, which can now be had in the ordinary grades at 4½ to 5½c.; choice remain steady at 7½ to 13c. Further receipts of new Bosnia prunes have come to hand this week and have met a good jobbing demand at steady prices—viz., 6 to 6½c.

There is no change in figs, which rule steady at 9 to 12c. for ordinary and 13 to 17c. for fancy fruit.

Dates continue strong in tone, as noted last week. Arrivals of new came to hand this week and are selling at 5½c.

NUTS.

New Grenoble walnuts came to hand this week and have been selling between 12 and 13c. Other nuts are firm in tone also, and the inside price on Tarragona almonds is 11½c. Brazil nuts are practically off the market. We quote: Shelled almonds, 20 to 25c.; Tarragona, 11½ to 12c.; Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; shelled ditto, 25 to 27c.; filberts, 8½ to 9c.; and pecans, 8 to 10c.

CANNED GOODS.

This market has been without striking feature. Lobsters are scarce and firmly held, and there is little or no activity to note in any line of vegetables or fruit. We quote: Lobsters, talls, $8 per case; flats, $9 to $9.50; sardines, ordinary brands, $7 to $8.50; best brands, $9.50 to $10.50; salmon, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; tomatoes, 75 to 80c.; peaches, $2 to $2.25; corn, 85 to 90c.; marrowfat peas, 95c. to $1; strawberries, $2 to $2.25; raspberries, $1.75 to $2; green gages, $1.75 to $2; blue plums or damsons, $1.50 to $1.75; pineapples, $2 to $2.25 and 3-lb. apples, 80 to 85c.

WINES AND SPIRITS.

Quite a good trade has been passing in spirits, notably in Dewar's and Watson's blends of Scotch whiskies both for local and lower province accounts. Wines have been rather duller than before.

GREEN FRUIT.

The green fruit market is quiet on the whole, and few changes of importance have transpired.

APPLES—The apple market is firm, but quiet, at $2.50 to $3, as to grade.

GRAPES—There is no change in grapes, which sell at $5 to $6.50 per keg.

CRANBERRIES—Quiet and steady at $9 to $10 per barrel.

ORANGES—The only oranges offering here are Jamaicas, which are held firm at $7 per barrel.

LEMONS—Quiet and firm at $3 to $3.50 per box.

SPANISH ONIONS—Unchanged at 40 to 45c. per crate.

FISH.

The colder weather has imparted a firmer tone to the fish market, with the exception of pickled herrings, which are in over supply. They are moving slowly, and only choice stock is saleable. No. 1, $4.25 to $4.50 for N.S., and No. 1 Labrador $5.25 to $5.50. No. 1 green cod sells in lots at $4.15, No. 2 B.C. salmon $11, No. 2 Labrador $13, No. 2 mackerel $17.50, and No. 1 lake trout $4.25 to $4.50.

In prepared fish, dried and boneless cod continue in good supply, and move in a small way, boneless at 6c. and dried at 4¼ to 4½c. Smoked fish sell fairly well, haddies selling at 6½ to 7c. and kippered herrings $1.50 to $1.65 per box, Yarmouth bloaters 90c. to $1 per box, and smoked herrings 8 to 10c. per lb.

The demand for fresh fish is good, and, with light supplies, some difficulty is experienced in filling all orders. Haddock are held firm at 4 to 4¼c., and cod 3c., while salmon are offered to arrive at 10c. per lb. Fresh herrings are selling at $1.50 per hundred and smelts at 6c. per lb.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The egg market continues steady and values show no material change. The demand to-day was fair and a moderately active business done. We quote choice candled at 14 to 15c., and ordinary stock at 11½ to 12c. per dozen.

POTATOES—Potatoes are quiet, the demand being slow at 35 to 40c. per bag for choice Early Rose in car lots.

BEANS—Beans rule quiet and unchanged, at $1.10 to $1.15 per bushel for choice hand-picked in car lots, and at $1.20 to $1.30 for small quantities.

POULTRY—Owing to the large receipts of poultry, the continued mild weather, and the limited demand, the market was weaker, and holders accepted a decline of ½ to 1c. per lb. all round, and even then they found it impossible to make a clearance. Turkeys sold at 7½ to 8½c.; chickens at 6 to 7c.; ducks at 7 to 7½c., and geese at 5½ to 6c. per lb.

DRESSED HOGS—Receipts of dressed hogs are liberal, for which the demand is only fair, and lower prices are looked for in the near future. Sales of car lots were made to-day at $4.85 to $5.15 per 100 lbs., and in a jobbing way $5.25 to $5.50 was paid.

PROVISIONS.

The demand for provisions continues of a limited character at recent decline in prices. Canadian short cut, clear, $13.50; Canadian short cut, mess, $14; hams, city cured, per lb., 9 to 10c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 8¼ to 8½c.; bacon, per lb., 9 to 10c.; lard, com. refined, per lb., 6¼ to 6½c.

FLOUR, MEAL AND FEED.

Manitoba flours have declined 25c., but Ontario grades are steady. We quote: Winter wheat, $3.85 to $4.15; spring wheat, patents, $3.85 to $3.95; straight roller, $3.50 to $3.60; straight roller, bags, $1.70 to $1.85; extra bags, $1.60 to $1.65; Manitoba strong bakers, $3.65 to $3.75.

Business in oatmeal was quiet, the demand being only for small lots, and prices are easy. We quote: Standard, bbls., $3 to $3.10; granulated, bbls., $3 to $3.15; rolled oats, bbls., $3 to $3.15.

The demand for feed is fair, and values rule steady. We quote: Bran, $14 to $15; shorts, $15 to $16; mouillie, $19 to $20.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

There was little change in the cheese market. Business continued quiet, and beyond a disposition manifested by buyers to purchase summer makes at 8¼c., which sellers will not accept, there is a little temper to the market either way. Late makes are held purely nominal at 9½c.

Business in butter continues dull and unimportant. A few small jobbing sales of creamery were noted at 20½c., and some lots of township at 18 to 19c., as to grade.

HAY.

The hay market is strong, active and higher at $13 for No. 1 and $12 for No. 2 on spot. Toronto buyers have been active on the basis of $14.50 to $15 delivered in Toronto.

ASHES.

Since navigation has closed the demand for ashes has been slow, and, as the receipts have been fair, the tone of the market has ruled weaker, and prices have declined 5 to 10c. We quote: Firsts, $3.70; seconds, $3.50, and pearls, $4.65 per 100 lbs.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Mr. Taussig, of N. W. Taussig & Co., was in town this week and called on the trade with Mr. Rose, of Rose & Laflamme.

A. P. Tippet & Co. note the arrival and distribution of a shipment of Griffin & Skelly's California raisins.

First arrival of fresh herrings came to hand this week, and have met a good demand on Lenten account.

Hart & Tuckwell received some Grenoble walnuts via Boston this week. They are among the first of the season.

Hudon, Hebert & Cie. note a good demand for Valencia raisins, and state that values are likely to rule firm on them all winter.

A shipment of fine French goods has just been landed ex Labrador for Robert Greig & Co.

The St. Ronans landed a large shipment of Rowntree's chocolate at Boston this week for account of Robert Greig & Co.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 5, 1895.

WITH the close of November the heaviest of the wholesale business for the year is over. The fall has been very mild, the closing days of November being more like October days. Since our last report we have had very heavy rains, but they were too late to do the good most desired. They were, however, welcome to many. The wool business is one which has fallen off very much in St. John, owing for one reason to sheep and lambs being shipped alive to the American market on account of the duty, where before they were killed and skin taken off here. Then the lowering of duties in the States has tended to bring very many countries into competition with Canada in many cases.

Stock must be cleared out by 1st January.

No reasonable offer refused to clear out any line. For this reason it will pay you well to call and see our stock of Crockery, China, Glassware, Lamps, etc., both staple and fancy.

from countries where labor is very low. One firm, however, doing business here has shipped over 100,000 pounds during the past season. River business is over as far as the steamers are concerned.

SALT—There is no change in prices. Stocks at the moment are light. Some 8,000 bags of course and fine arriving by steamer will, however, prevent shortage the more so as at this season sales are light. Salt coming from Liverpool via Boston is required to be shipped at Boston at once, otherwise extra duty is charged as if it were American salt. We quote: Coarse, 50 to 55c.; fine factory-filled, 95c. to $1.10; 5-lb. bags, $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10-lb. boxes, 12c.; cartoons, $1.90 to $2 per doz.; bulk dairy, $2.80 per bbl.; bulk cheese, $2.70.

OIL—There has been no further advance during the week. Though the market is very firm, there is now 2c. between American and Canadian oil, the latter not having advanced the cent, while the former did. The Canadian concerns are now offering their petroleum jelly in small, handsomely-finished tins; it finds a steady demand. They also do a large business in candles. We quote: Best American, 23¼c.; best Canadian, 21¼c.; prime, 18c. No charge for barrels.

CANNED GOODS—The market is not active, demand being but fair. Prices are held firm. In condensed coffee and milk there seems a tendency to smaller sales from year to year. There is some demand for American peaches, but not for best trade. American pears are offered very low. We quote as follows: Corn, 85 to 90c.; peas, 90 to 95c. tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.60 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.50 to $1.60; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $2.85 to $2.90; 2's, $1.90 to $2; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.40; salmon, $1.35 to $1.50; flat, $1.75; clams, $5.50 for 4 doz.; chowder, $3 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1; pineapples, $2.35; kippered herring, $1.10; American peaches, $2.40.

DRIED FRUIT—There is still much movement, but Christmas orders are becoming well filled and shipments from now will be lighter. A demand for better quality raisins is noted this season. The proportion of Valencia layers to off-stalk has been much larger than ever before. The off-stalk were the large end of the business. This season it was the other way. The high price of Valencia fruit, together with the quality and low price of the California fruit, has caused large importations of the latter, some ten cars being imported, largely 3-crown loose muscatels, some 4-crown, with a few 2-crown and seedless; also a good quantity of London layers and clusters. The importations of Malaga fruit has also been large. In currants our dealers are all handling large quantities of cleaned, both bulk and 1-lb. cartoons. They clean them themselves. New prunes are soon expected, while dates are hardly looked for much before Christmas. Dried and evaporated apples continue low. No large quantities of Nova Scotia dried are seen, holders being rather above the market, but there is little, if any, prospect of higher prices. Nuts tend upward. We quote: New Valencias, 5 to 6c.; new figs, 12c.; new 4-crown Cal. L. M. raisins, 6 to 7c.; new 3-crown Cal. L. M. raisins, 5½ to 6c.; new keg prunes, 4c.; boxes, 4¾ to 6c.; new Cal. L. L. raisins, $1.50 to $1.75; new currants, bbls., 4c.; half-cases, 4½c.; new evaporated apples, 7 to 7½c.; dried apples, 5 to 6c.; dates, 4 to 4½c.; California evaporated peaches, 12 to 13c.; do. apricots, 12 to 14c.; do. pears, 12 to 13c.; clean currants, bulk, 5 to 6½c.; 1-lb. cartoons, 7 to 7½c.; Canadian onions, $2 to $2.25 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $4 to $4.50 per 100; citron, 15 to 16c.; orange, 13 to 14c.; lemon, 12 to 13c.; new cleaned currants, 6-crown, 1-lb. cartoons, 8 to 8½c.; Sultanas, 10c.; half-boxes, layers, 6¾ to 7c.; quarter-boxes, layers, 7¼ to 7½c.; Valencia layers, 6½ to 6¾c.

GREEN FRUIT—Owing to cold weather and but few kinds of good offering, volume of business is lighter. In oranges West India are higher and looking upward. The fact that they have to be repacked adds much to the cost. Valencias are expected this week. Sweet potatoes are about out of the market, as are Cranberries, Cape Cod berries being very high and not paying to import. New lemons are arriving in large quantities, and tend rather lower. In apples, stocks held are not large, and demand is good, with prices tending upward, best winter fruit being held very firm. We quote: Lemons, $4.50 to $5; bananas, $1 to $2.50; West India oranges, $6 to $7 per bbl.; Malaga grapes, $5 to $6; Valencia oranges, $5 to $5.50; apples, fall grades, $1 to $2; Pippins and winter fruit, $1.50 to $2.50.

DAIRY PRODUCE—That in which there is most life is eggs. One merchant sold 50 cases in small lots the other day, which shows active demand. Prices are rather higher. Cheese remains at old prices, with the late made held firm. There are fair stocks. Butter continues slow, with rather better demand for fresh creamery. We quote: Cheese, 8½ to 9c.; new butter, 17 to 18c.; eggs, 16 to 17c.; fresh creamery prints, 22 to 23c.; tubs, 20 to 21c.

MOLASSES—There are fair quantities moving, and prices are firm, but show no change. A better demand is noted in New Orleans in barrels, of which a good quality is being received here. There are also fair quantities of bright syrup moving. It is popular at this season, and quality appears better than usual. We quote: Barbadoes, 32 to 34c.; St. Croix, 31 to 32c.; Porto Rico, 34 to 36c.; syrup, 33 to 35c.; Trinidad, 32 to 33c.; New Orleans, bbls., 34 to 35c.

SUGAR—A good movement has been noted during the week, but it is a kind of last effort; with the closing of the river and packet trade there is a falling off. Stocks, particularly granulated, held here are quite large, and during the past week prices have been rather easy, but the larger number look for firmer feeling. We quote: Granulated, 4¼ to 4¾c.; yellow, 3¾ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5¼ to 5½c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

FISH—There is a large quantity of dry fish moving, while in fresh the demand exceeds the supply and dealers have large orders on hand which they cannot fill, at least at present, and outlook is not very satisfactory. In pickled stocks Bay and Grand Manan are getting higher and there is rather better feeling. Shelburne continue easy with Quoddy river, thought by many to be the best pickled fish in the market. Not only is the quantity good, but they are very carefully put up. Shad are but fair stock, with Economy Mess scarce and high. Smoked herring continue dull, with not many arriving, shippers holding back on account of low prices. A fairly good business is being done in bloaters, and some business in kippered, though for these weather continues rather mild. In finnan haddies Digby is shipping very largely to outside points at rather lower figures than our smokers care to sell at. We quote: Medium cod, $3.35 to $3.50; large, $3.60 to $3.75; small, $2.40 to $2.50; pollock, $1.40; bay herring, $1.25 to $1.30; Grand Manan, $1.30 to $1.40; rippings, $1.65 to $1.70; wolves, $1.90 to $2; Quoddy River, $2.75 to $3; smoked, 6 to 7c.; shad, half-bbl., pickled, $5.75; Canso, $5; halves, $2.75; Shelburne, $2.75 to $3 per bbl.

PROVISIONS—Pork continues very low with rather easier feeling. Domestic mess is being freely offered and finds good demand. In smoked meats prices are off, and particularly in rolls, they being offered as low or lower than ever known. In lard those packers who held prices up are gradually coming down to lowest figures. We quote: Domestic mess pork, $14.25 to $14.50; clear pork, $15 to $15.25; mess, $14 to $14.50; plate beef, $13.25 to $14; pure lard, 9 to 10c.; compound lard, 8c.; cottolene, 9¼ to 9¾c.; rolls, 8 to 9c.; beef, half bbls., $7; hams, 11 to 12c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—There has been a good quantity changing hands during the week. Markets are rather off, particularly Manitoba; the feeling is easy. In oatmeal there is good sale with upward movement in feeling as regards price. Oats, both Ontario and P.E.I., have advanced slightly during the week. Cornmeal shows good demand, but no change in price. The feeling is easy. Beans are rather firmer, but show no change. Hay is light business, with markets rather upward. We quote: Manitoba, $4.60 to $4.70; best Ontario, $4 to $4.10; medium, $3.90 to $4; oatmeal, $3.50 to $3.60; cornmeal, $2.35 to $2.40; hand-picked beans, $1.20 to $1.25; prime, $1.10 to $1.15; split peas, $3.70; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.25; hay, $10.50 to $11; oats, 34 to 36c.; middlings, $19 to $20 on track; bran, $18; buckwheat meal, domestic, $1.40 to $1.50; western, $1.75 to $2.

J. Hunter White, representing Messrs. N. W. Taussig & Co., New York, reports a growing demand for New Orleans molasses in barrels, that arriving showing particularly good quality.

Large quantities of cornmeal are used here, but in the past the demand has proved hardly enough to support two mills. We, however, had two, and for years the owners tried every way to make the business suc-

Wyles is their representative here. In their lines of tea, they do a very large business in these lower provinces.

In the face of the very large shipments of potatoes being made from the Maritime Provinces to Havana the following may be of interest: The firm shipping 165 barrels received $192.16 net in return. The potatoes sold at $3.50 per barrel. One barrel was used for repacking. Duties amounted to $2.01. Other charges, $161. Loss in exchange, about $20.

HALIFAX TRADE GOSSIP.

WE have now arrived at that season of the year when we can tell how business has been during the year, and give a good idea of how it will be during the next six months. The grocery trade in Nova Scotia depends upon three things, mining, fishing and farming. Our mines have done fairly well, but our fisheries have been next to a failure, but that fish have not been plentiful, but rather because the price is miserably low, so low in fact, that they hardly pay the expense of catching. Mackerel are high in price, but we have none of them. It was expected that our shore fishermen would get a few barrels each this fall, in order to help them through the winter, but in this there is disappointment, as the season has closed and no mackerel have been taken. In addition to this, the fishermen suffered greatly by the loss of nets. The farmer is also without money, as his produce is not in demand. The profits made by our merchants will be about equal to the losses. It is patent they have made no money, and the outlook for the winter is not of a very encouraging nature. The mild weather promises to make a dull Christmas and New Year's trade. Country merchants are tardy about sending in orders.

Large quantities of pickled and dried fish have been received here this week. Four thousand quintals of cod were received from Newfoundland in one lot, and 4,500 from St. Pierre, Miquelon, besides large consignments from coastwise ports.

The goods in the Halifax Produce and Fruit Co.'s store, on Barrington street, were seized on Saturday by the sheriff, under a writ of attachment issued by M. L. Foster, tea merchant, for $250. The owner of the business is Mrs. Wm. Wheatley, doing business under the married woman's act, her husband acting as "attorney." When the seizure was made the Wheatleys were en route to Boston, but a telegram says they are coming back. C. H. Harvey is interested to the extent of $500, and John Tobin & Co. to the same amount. The latter has attached the furniture of Mrs. Wheatley. An order has been granted to sell the perishable goods at once.

Joseph Murhead has opened an office as manufacturers' agent and broker at 60 Bedford row.

Moir, Son & Co. have secured the contract to supply the military with bread. J. J. Screven had the contract last year. J. A. Leaman & Co. have the contract to supply the military with fresh beef. They import mostly from Ontario, as the army require larger beef than Nova Scotia produces. They have held the contract for several years.

George E. Corbitt, the leading grocer of Annapolis, has erected a new place of business, which he has had fitted up with all modern improvements.

One hundred and ninety boxes of foxberries were received here this week from New Harbor.

A Charlottetown firm, writing to a dealer here, offers eggs, No. 1 stock, at 15c. f.o.b., and carcase pork at 4¼c. That gives an idea of the market in these lines.

The local supply of breadstuffs is exceedingly small, and, strange to say, the demand is limited for this season of the year.

Sales of flour here during the last week were as small, or smaller, than they have been for the closing week of November for many years. The steamer from Boston only landed 450 barrels on Monday, and the supplies at the railway station are small. Owing, however, to a decline of some ten cents west, it is difficult to realize a profit even on the limited holdings, as everybody seems to be buying from hand to mouth. From present appearances the stock of flour on hand at the close of this year will be the lowest held in Halifax for many years. Patents, however, are worth from $3.70 to $3.85 by the carload on the spot, while those to arrive ten days hence are quoted 10c. lower.

Oatmeals are steady at low price, which has been ruling of late, though oats are costing a little more.

GROCERS' COLLECTING BUREAU.

EDITOR GROCER,—In reading the article in your last issue on creating "A Grocers' Collecting Bureau," I confess I am a little perplexed in trying to understand the argument in favor of such, to cost $1,500 a year. Of the wisdom of such a scheme I am in doubt. I'll admit it looks very feasible for the secretary, and it would no doubt be a good thing for him; but for the grocers, what advantages will we gain more than at present? We were told one time that the present system would work admirably, but has it? Let the secretary give us the reasons why it has not been a success, and also give the reasons for wanting to make the change, and if they be sound and his scheme workable, I have no doubt but that there are enough grocers in the city to be found who are able to support such a bureau if it can be shown that the advantages to be gained are on the side of the grocers in supporting such a scheme.—Yours, etc.,

A GROCER.

WHOLESALE FIRM CHANGES HANDS.

HOW HE FOOLED THE CUSTOMS.

John P. Wells, 82 years of age, who ran an "immaginary bank" at St. John, N. B., was sent to jail last week for four months for indecent conduct. Wells was quite a character in his day. Some years ago, while doing business at Canning, N.S., he took a cargo of produce to Demerara and brought back a cargo of molasses. The molasses he took to St. John, landed it on what is known as the market slip, the most public wharf in that city, and sold it at auction without ever entering it at the Customs. The story leaked out and some weeks later the collector of Customs met him on the street and accused him of defrauding the Customs. "What," said Wells, "you say I landed a cargo of molasses, without entering it and paying the duty, and sold it under your nose! Where were you? If you say any more about it I will report you to the Minister of Customs. A pretty collector of Customs you are to be sure." The collector let the matter drop. How Wells managed to fool the Customs officials is a mystery to this day.

CEYLON INDIA CHINA

The development of CEYLON as a tea-producing country has been something sensational.

It was not until a leaf disease broke out amongst the coffee plants that any attention was given to the cultivation of tea in Ceylon. It was found that the plants grew larger and produced more even than those in Indian gardens. As a natural consequence tea growing was taken up on every hand, and to-day Ceylon is recognised by tea merchants the world over as producing the purest, finest, cleanest, most invigorating and healthiest teas IN THE WORLD.

"SOFT PORK."

Said The Chatham Banner in a recent issue:

"The pork business of this section has received a serious blow from the fact that Grant Bros., the extensive packers, of Ingersoll, among others, have refused to purchase a pound of Essex or Kent pork, alleging that it is too soft. This excuse has already done service too long, especially as it has been frequently demonstrated that there are no grounds for the charge—at least so far as Tilbury pork is concerned. There has never been any soft pork marketed here, but it appears that Tilbury must suffer with other places in the two counties.

"A representative of Griffin, the St. Thomas packer, was in town the other day, and states that although his firm has purchased large quantities of pork here, no complaint has been made as to the quality—and furthermore he does not believe that there is any soft pork in the vicinity of Tilbury.

"While this should amply demonstrate the baselessness of the charge, there is no doubt but that prices will be affected as a consequence, at least until packers are made to see matters in their true light.

"A local buyer last week offered dressed pork to Griffin, of St. Thomas, for $4.85, but the latter replied on Saturday that the best he could offer was $4.50, and that he understood pork was being freely bought at that price in Essex town, Amherstburg and other points in the country."

PROFITS IN INSURANCE.

The Mannheim Insurance Company has again had a prosperous year, being able to distribute a dividend of 15 per cent., as against 14 per cent. in the previous year. The profit realised for the year ending 30th June is £21,430, after an amount of £78,566 has been put in reserve for winding up pending claims and current risks. Beyond this the company has a cash reserve fund of £100,000, equal to the paid-up capital (25 per cent. of the nominal capital of £400,000). The Mannheim Reinsurance Company, which is an offshoot of the older and more important concern, realised a profit of £4,737, and is distributing a dividend of 10 per cent., the same as last year. An amount of £19,771 has been put in reserve for claims and premiums. The Mannheim Insurance Company has agencies in London, Liverpool, Manchester, Bradford, Glasgow, Dundee, Belfast, and at other places in the United Kingdom. It is one of the few German Marine Companies with a branch in the United States, where it has made deposits of $250,000. It is also represented in Canada by James J. Riley & Sons, Montreal—Fairplay, Oct. 11.

ONE YEAR'S ANALYSES.

A report on the inspection of foods, drugs and fertilizers during the past fiscal year has been presented to the Controller of Inland Revenue by Commissioner Miall, and will shortly be issued to the public. From this it appears that the most noticeable adulterations of the year were in respect of butter, tea and coffee. Of 113 samples of butter analysed 24 were adulterated, but not so much with a view to fraud as on account of carelessness. The adulteration consisted either of an excess of water or salt. Tea and coffee contained a large percentage of foreign substances. Of tea 87 samples were examined, and 30 were found to be defective. Many were condemned because the leaves were very much broken, and in some cases there was evidence that the tea had gone through a process of facing. One sample obtained in Quebec was adulterated with 4 per cent. of sand. The same substance was found in a sample obtained at Three Rivers. Out of 89 samples of coffee examined 34 were adulterated. Among the foreign materials found in coffee were roast peas and beans, chicory, roasted wheat and starch. Only two samples of adulterated coffee were discovered in Toronto, and these were sold as compound, not coffee. Following are the results of the examinations made by all the public analysts in the Dominion :

THE SUGAR SITUATION.

Willett & Gray upon the sugar situation as follows : "The statistical position is considered so favorable to an improvement in prices that the present weakness and declining tendency are considered quite unwarranted, and must soon come to an end. Receipts from foreign countries have been 15,687 tons, against 7,007 tons last week, and total stocks are reduced 4,313 tons, being now 142,214 tons, against 181,101 tons last year. The total stocks of Cuba and the United States together, 281,214 tons, against 287,527 tons last week and 195,601 tons last year. Word comes from Cuba that an attempt to start sugar making on two estates owned by Americans in the Cienfuegos district was immediately followed by the burning of their cane fields, thus carrying out the programme of the insurgents to permit no sugar making. Advices from Havana are that the remaining stocks of old sugars are being firmly held, and will continue to be held. Owners of other estates have cabled that they will not attempt to make any sugar while the present conditions exist."

There is always a "best" in everything.

This time it is starch—Edwardsburg Starch. Anything we didn't know about making starch when we commenced business in 1858, we have since learned, and as we manufacture from nothing but purest selected corn we feel justified in calling our preparations "the best."

Dogs for Business Men

Irish Terrier Puppies for Sale—From stock that has won first prizes in leading British and American shows. They are now the fashionable breed in Great Britain. They are the most faithful companions, best watch dogs (the Standard Oil Co. use them exclusively), for they will fight until the last drop of blood in their daring little bodies in defence of their master or his property. No rats can live where they are. They are excellent dogs for the woods, and very fond of the water.

Prices, $25 to $50 each.

DROPS FROM THE EDITOR'S PEN.

Has your window got its holiday habiliments on?

* * *

The earlier closing of stores means the later closing of life.

* * *

The holiday season is a busy time for the merchant. And so would he have it be.

* * *

He who would succeed in business must be a hugger; a business hugger, mind you.

* * *

A well-dressed window is often more dependent upon the man than upon the material.

* * *

A load of hay was stolen in Guelph last week. The thief evidently had the hay fever.

* * *

You can sometimes kill a competitor much quicker with kindness than with adverse criticism.

* * *

An advertisement should be simple enough to be read by the juvenile as well as the juvenile's pa.

* * *

The barbers of Winnipeg propose shaving off a few hours from their present long business day.

* * *

There is reason as well as rhyme in the assertion that snowfalls bring money falls for the country merchant.

* * *

He who essays to collect accounts should possess a smooth tongue, but his backbone should be rugged and stiff.

* * *

The merchant who allows his store to be turned into a smoking room may attract loafers, but customers never.

* * *

The United States Department of Agriculture announces that it has imported 65 new specimens of figs from the Royal Horticultural Society of England. I thought the United States did not give a "fig" for England.

* * *

The pedlar is a thorn in the side of the merchant that all the legal pincers in the land appear unable to extract.

* * *

It is during election campaigns that the politician's largeness of heart is revealed: it would all mankind embrace—for its votes.

* * *

You cannot flirt with Long Credit and keep Success by your side. She is sought after by too many to countenance inattention.

* * *

Rock salt in the United States has fallen into the hands of a Trust. It is yet to be determined whether the Trust is founded upon a rock.

* * *

A loss of business to the one and loss of reputation to the other are the fruits of want of harmony between merchant and salesman.

* * *

Salesmen who are ever repining that if they had this or that line of goods they would "do all right," have mistaken their occupation.

* * *

The United States Government is evidently as much concerned about its treasury as is a merchant regarding his diminishing bank account.

* * *

Because a man gets into a corner there is no reason he should remain there. Push and perseverance will make an aperture for escape in time.

* * *

One swallow does not make a summer; and it seems anomalous that one or two merchants should make an early-closing movement of non-effect.

* * *

Many an idea that is now frozen stiff would be thawed out and made useful if it were brought into contact with those to be found in business men's associations.

* * *

Although not yet in the daylight of freedom, the Knights of Labor in Canada propose to work hand-in-hand no more with their confreres in the United States.

* * *

In the election campaign in North Ontario which closed last night there were a merchant, a professional man and a farmer, and each wanted to fill a dead man's shoes.

* * *

It took the underwriters about one week to increase Toronto's insurance rates, but it promises to take them more than fifty-two weeks to reduce the rates to a normal condition again.

* * *

Another batch of non-licensed pedlars has been fined by Magistrate Denison, of Toronto. The Colonel is evidently determined that the hawkers shall no longer peddle on the city's generosity.

* * *

The retail druggists have now openly declared war against the departmental stores. With the subtle agencies they have at their command they should be able to give the enemy its quietus. But please do not charge us with being accessory before the fact.

* * *

The United States has a doctrine. It is named the Monroe Doctrine. But no one outside the United States subscribes to it; and nobody inside the United States, except politicians, and they only when they want to use the doctrine as a wand to call up latent votes.

* * *

Hon. Mr. Harcourt, Provincial Treasurer, claims that the reforms asked by the commercial travelers regarding the sanitary condition of the country hotels can be secured with the existing machinery. Perhaps so, but the machinery badly needs a vigorous cleaning and a liberal oiling.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS MEET.

THE general meeting of the Commercial Travelers' Association of Canada for the purpose of nominating officers for the ensuing year was held on Saturday evening in the association's rooms on Yonge street, Toronto. There was an exceptionally large attendance of members. The president, Mr. Robert H. Gray, occupied the chair. The annual report of the secretary, Mr. James Sergeant, who has been the efficient officer of the association for over fifteen years, was submitted, and showed an increase in membership and a substantial addition to the reserve fund. The report was unanimously adopted.

The following nominations of officers were then made for the ensuing year: President, R. H. Gray; first vice-president, R. J. Orr, second vice-president, C. E. Kyle; treasurer, J. C. Black (all elected by acclamation).

Directors for Toronto—D. D. Baird, H. Bedlington, W. Caldwell, R. H. Cosby, J. H. Devaney, M. C. Ellis, H. Goodman, A. F. Hatch, W. Hopwood, John Hodge, W. L. Holdmond, John Muldrew, C. H. Murdoch, W. R. Mosey, J. McKay, E. E. Starr, J. Taylor, G. N. White. Of these nine are to be elected.

Hamilton Board—First vice-president, John Hooper; second vice-president, W. E. Lachance (elected by acclamation); directors, Wm. Bremner, James Hooper, Fred Johnston, T. M. Davis, H. G. Wright, W. G. Reid, J. H. Herring, J. Madill, J. P. Stedman, Richard Coleman. Six to be elected.

The old boards for Guelph, Brantford, Montreal, Kingston, Berlin, Winnipeg and Victoria were all elected by acclamation. The scrutineers appointed to count the ballots were John Everett, W. D. Wynn and E. Fielding.

The main topic of discussion at the conclusion of the nominations for officers was the advisability of the appointment by the Government of a special inspector for hotels. At present the inspection of hotels is in the hands entirely of the license inspectors, and the opinion seemed to be that the work was not very efficiently done. During the discussion it came out that during the year there had been no deaths by accident on the railways.

Short speeches were made by ex-Presidents Captain McMaster, Hugh Blain, James Patterson and A. A. Allan.

ONTARIO FLAX MILLS ORGANIZE.

There are twenty-eight flax manufacturers in Ontario, about half of whom were represented at the meeting held on Tuesday in Stratford, when it was decided to form an organization, to be known as the Flax Manufacturers' Association of Ontario, and a committee, consisting of D. K. Erb, president, Sebringville Flax Company; D. A. Forester, Clinton, and John Hogarth, proprietor of Perth Flax Mills, was appointed to draft rules and set forth the objects of the association. As an outcome of the organization it is hinted that Stratford may be the site of a new industry at some not far distant day.

AN OLD CIGAR MAKER DEAD.

There died on Monday week in Preston, a much-esteemed citizen, Mr. Carl Ludwig Hermann von Ende, age 76 years. He had been a resident of Preston for half a century, and for fifteen years acted as tax collector. At the solicitation of the late Otto Klotz he opened the first German school in that town. He subsequently went into the manufacturing of cigars. He removed his cigar factory to Galt a number of years ago, but returned after three years. While a resident of Galt the deceased acted as organist of Trinity Church.

A COURTEOUS SUBSCRIBER.

An old subscriber to THE CANADIAN GROCER is Wm. Robinson, of Wroxeter. When our representative was in Wroxeter last week Mr. Robinson insisted on driving him out to Bellmore to see Mr. D. N. McDonald. Result—a new subscriber. Our representatives constantly write us of such courteous attentions shown them by subscribers.

SUGAR SITUATION IN CUBA.

The last circular of Willett & Gray contained the following: "As regards Cuba our cable advices report that holders are very firm, and will await the outcome of the new crop before disposing of the balance of the old crop. The making of the new crop has not yet commenced, although preparations for it are being made, but actual grinding operations are delayed in some instances at least by request of the Spanish Government. A week or two hence should show what the prospects are for grinding more clearly than at present, and whether the Spanish guards furnished to the estates that request them will be equal to the duty of protecting them from the attacks of the insurgents. Until this is known there can be no certainty about the crop."

PRESERVING EGGS.

Mr. Chas. B. Knox, of Gelatine fame, has purchased the entire outfit of the Egg Preservine Co., and will put this article on the market. Price not known; but it is a large one, for it is considered to be a valuable discovery. The eggs shown at the last test had been kept 13 months and 9 days, and at no trouble. October 1st, 1894, 20 dozen of fresh laid eggs were purchased and treated by the new Preservine and laid away in boxes and baskets in a dry cool room; January 1st, 1895, and every month after, some were taken out, broken and cooked by experts, and all pronounced them fresh laid. The last break was on Nov. 9th, and these were pronounced as fresh as the day they were laid down; so now Mr. Knox can put up the Preservine and guarantee its keeping qualities for a year or more, which will have a tendency to cheapen eggs the whole year through.

Egg packers, hotels, and even house-keepers, can lay down eggs when cheap, for fall and winter use. Eggs cost in summer 10c. a dozen, and run up to 30 or 40c. in winter, and as it will only cost ½c. per dozen to lay down the eggs, it is a big profit on the investment for every one. The work is easily done; simply treat the eggs while they are fresh, and lay away in a basket or box, no turning or looking at them until you want them; nor can you tell an egg has ever been treated from its appearance.

COFFEE IN AUSTRALIA.

And now the Australians are coming into the fold as coffee producers. A Sydney newspaper says: "The Queensland Coffee Company, Ltd., is in a sufficiently forward state to justify the commencement of operations on the Blackall Ranges without delay, and it is said that the enterprise is to be repeated in other parts. Already there are German settlers scattered about the colony who grow in their own gardens coffee enough for the use of their families, and in the very heart of Brisbane coffee trees can be seen in full blossom."

SUGAR MARKS IN ENGLAND.

This system has now been in force for some years, and its developments have been even more disastrous than was anticipated by the more responsible members of the English sugar trade. There are now twenty-four marks included in the vicious circle, any of which may be delivered in execution of a contract, however much they may differ among themselves in grain, complexion, or color. Further, all inducement to the refiner or manufacturer to deliver superior sugar or to improve his make is gone, since all that he has to do is to deposit a standard in London, for which he naturally chooses his minimum out-turn. However much he exceeds this he only gets the same price as for first marks, an improved quality at more money being absolutely unmarketable. A realisation of this price is not even certain to the refiner unless he actually registers his product as a first mark, it having become the fashion to deal only on that pernicious system, and to ignore the wants of the consumer and actual trade. A buyer is completely in the dark what sugar among twenty-four sorts he is to receive, and all he can be certain of is that low sugar will be delivered to him.—Produce Markets' Review.

GROCERS ELECT OFFICERS.

AT the December meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association held on Monday night there were present: Messrs. F. S. Roberts, A. White, T. Mills, R. M. Corrie, J. S. Bond, M. McMillan, A. G. Booth, W. J. Sykes, David Bell, W. Eddy, W. J. McCleary, Thomas Davis, W. H. McCulloch and F. Johnston.

The name of Jas. Nolan, 123 McCaul street, was submitted as applying for membership, and on motion of Mr. McMillan, seconded by Mr. Booth, he was admitted into the association.

On recommendation of the Executive Committee, it was decided to set aside a sum not exceeding $12 with which to purchase games for the entertainment of members at the close of the regular meeting. Messrs. Roberts, Mills, McCleary, Davis, Booth and Sykes were appointed a committee, with power to add to their number, to do the purchasing and look after the games during the year.

Another recommendation made by the Executive Committee was to the effect that a committee should be appointed to watch all legislation in the City Council regarding pedlars. The clause was adopted, and Messrs. White, Roberts and Mills were chosen a committee to look after the matter.

After a discussion on the subject of Christmas presents, the secretary was instructed to expend $10 in advertising in the daily papers that the grocers would not give presents this year.

When the question of holding the annual "At Home" was brought up, the matter was, on motion of Mr. Mills, seconded by Mr. Booth, laid over to the January meeting for further consideration.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with. Nominations for the various offices were made as follows:

For president—A. White, J. S. Bond, F. Johnston.

For vice-president—J. S. Bond, F. Johnston.

For treasurer—M. McMillan, W. Eddy, W. J. Sykes.

For recording secretary—Thos. Mills.

For Executive Committee—A. G. Booth, F. Johnston, W. J. Sykes, W. Eddy, David Bell, W. H. McCulloch, W. J. McCleary.

Mr. Mills was re-elected by acclamation, and, a ballot being taken for the other positions, the following are the officers of the association for the year 1896:

President—A. White.

Vice-President—J. S. Bond.

Treasurer—Martin McMillan.

Recording Secretary—Thos. Mills.

Executive Committee—A. G. Booth, David Bell, F. Johnston and W. J. Sykes.

Messrs. Roberts, Mills and Williamson were re-elected trustees of the "special fund."

The question of R. M. Corrie's quarterly salary was referred to the Executive Committee.

DESERVING SPECIAL MENTION.

Scarsbrook's grand window display of china is a treat to see and should cause widespread comment and appreciation. The magnificent Doulton china service of 116 pieces in the centre of the window is a show in itself; the pattern is a rich floral design with a background of couleur de rose and finished in burnished gold. Other services of china of various makes, banqueting lamps and polished brass and onyx tables of elegant designs artistically arranged complete the exhibition, which would do honor to any large city establishment. We take much pleasure in complimenting Mr. Scarsbrook upon his enterprise in placing such superb wares in stock and upon the excellent taste he has exhibited in the display of his goods. His boot and shoe window also is at all times a model of neatness, and a testimonial to his good judgment in the selection of fashionable and up-to-date stock.—Advertiser, Petrolia.

LONDON GROCERS DISCUSS CONVENTION.

THE Retail Grocers' Association of London held its regular meeting on Dec. 3, with the president, Mr. W. H. McCutcheon, in the chair.

Several trade questions of local interest only were discussed and disposed of or laid over for further discussion at next meeting.

Considerable discussion took place on railroad employes purchasing produce in outside places and bringing them to the city and selling them to friends and neighbors. It was stated that this was carried on to a considerable extent, and that while the employes were perhaps not making much profit out of the transaction, it is a detriment to trade, and, in many cases, the railway companies were out the freight charges. There would be no objection to an employe bringing home what he requires for himself and family, but there were many cases mentioned where fruit, butter, eggs, etc., were brought in and sold to neighbors. It was thought that this question could well be taken up by all the associations in the large trade centres, and, if thought advisable, reported to the headquarters of the railway companies.

On motion this question was laid over for further discussion at next meeting.

The committee on the earlier closing of stores on Saturday evening reported progress, and some of the members reported that the movement was taking effect. Citizens were doing their trading earlier, and orders given on Saturday evening were accompanied with the request that they be delivered on Monday.

The next question discussed was the next annual outing. The feeling among the members was that while all of the four annual picnics were successful and exceedingly enjoyable, it would probably be as well to have a change, and the question of holding a convention of all the Grocers' Associations in Ontario was proposed and met with the approval of all the members present. It was suggested that excursions might be arranged for to some central point and amusement for the day arranged for and delegates appointed from each association to remain over, together with all the members and grocers who could do so, for a meeting next day, when important trade questions could be taken up and discussed, as there are many grievances in the trade that require united effort of the whole trade of the Dominion. Each association could arrange a list of such questions, and through the delegates, bring them before the meeting for discussion with a view of providing some means of dealing with them. It was felt that a general meeting of this kind would be of great benefit to the trade generally. It was accordingly moved and carried that the secretary report the minutes of the meeting to THE CANADIAN GROCER as the best means of reaching the different associations throughout the Dominion.

Mr. R. A. Jones said he would like to hear some of the new members speak. There were some in the room that he had not met here before and could not call by name, and he would like to get acquainted.

Mr. Garfat responded. He said he had been a member for some months past, but something always occurred on meeting night to prevent him being present, but he had got here at last, and enjoyed the meeting very much. He would make extra effort to attend the meetings in future. He believed the meetings could be made a great benefit to the members and trade generally.

It was suggested that the grocers bring out a candidate or candidates for aldermanic honors at the coming municipal election, and Mr. F. Harley and Mr. R. W. Sharpe were mentioned as "good men and true" for the office. But as Mr. Sharpe was not present it was duly moved and carried that if Mr. Harley would consent to allow his name to be placed on the roll on nomination day as a candidate for one of the aldermanic chairs representing No. 2 Ward the members present would pledge themselves to give him their support. Mr. Harley tried to object, but the objection was not taken.

A social half hour's chat was enjoyed, and the meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock, to meet again on January 7, 1896.

Sister associations are requested to take up the question of a general picnic and convention and report to either THE CANADIAN GROCER or this association.

NOTE TO ADVERTISERS.

Next week's issue (Dec. 20th) of THE CANADIAN GROCER will be our Christmas number. Copy for advertisements must be in our hands not later than Monday noon, Dec. 16th, to insure attention. This course is necessary owing to the extra large edition forced upon us by a very large amount of increased advertising and circulation.

A CUSTOMS REGULATION THAT ANNOYS BRITAIN.

A CABLE a few days ago announced that the London Chambers of Commerce had presented a memorial to the Home Office protesting against the Customs regulations adding to the price of goods purchased in bond the amount of the duty that would have been demanded had the goods remained in England and imposing a duty thereon. The petitioners asserted that the continuance of this rule would interfere with the transit trade of the United Kingdom.

The regulations which created the conditions against which the London Chambers of Commerce have entered a complaint are 58 and 68 of the Customs Act.

Section 58 declares that whenever an ad valorem duty is imposed on any goods imported into Canada the value for duty shall be the fair market value thereof when sold for home consumption in the principal markets of the country whence and at the time same were exported directly to Canada.

Section 68 says that the Governor-in-Council may provide that in the cases and in the conditions to be mentioned in the order-in-council goods bona fide exported to Canada from any country, but passing in transitu through another country, shall be valued for duty as if they were imported directly from such country.

A sub-section of this latter section reads: "Goods that have entered for consumption or for warehouse, or that have been permitted to remain unclaimed, or that have been permitted to remain for any purpose in any other country intermediary between the country of export and Canada, shall not be considered as in transitu through such intermediary country, but shall be treated as goods imported from such intermediary country and valued and rated for duty accordingly."

Reading section 68 and its sub-section in conjunction with 58 the Customs Department decreed some time ago that in estimating the value of a commodity purchased in bond for duty-levying purposes, not only must the original cost be taken into consideration, but that the amount of the English or United States duty, as the case might be, must be added thereto as well. For instance, if a Canadian importer bought, say figs at equal to $5.24 per cwt. If he imported them direct he would be taxed 25 per cent. by the Customs authorities, making the cost of the goods $6.55, leaving freight, etc., out of the calculation. But if he bought he figs in bond in London at $5.24 the case would be this: In addition to 25 per cent. on $5.24 the Customs Appraiser in Canada would levy an additional 25 per cent. on the seven shillings per cwt., the amount of duty levied in England on figs imported into the country, bringing the cost up to $6.93.

In other words, he who buys in London this class of figs pays thirty eight cents per cwt. more than he who buys direct from the country of production. If the figs had been bought in bond in New York the difference between them and the directly imported would be still greater, the duty on figs in the United States being a cent and a half per pound.

Prior to the rigid enforcement of this regulation importers frequently allowed goods coming into United States ports to go into the unclaimed warehouses, not claiming them till they had found a market for them either in Canada or the United States. Now, however, there must be documentary proof that the goods were originally destined for Canada, backed by the certificate of the United States Customs officials that they were thus designated when they arrived at the port of entry.

The primary object of these regulations is clearly to make the indirect importation of goods as difficult as possible, and, on the other hand, stimulate importation direct from country of production. In pursuance of this policy, England's transshipping trade must necessarily suffer, but all the suffering is not on its part: the Canadian importer is also a sufferer to some extent.

STEER FOR CASH PORT.

HE who would court success cannot to-day afford to dally with long credit. Years ago, when profits were large and competition less keen merchants could better afford to give twelve months' credit than they now can three months' credit.

There may be differences of opinion as to how near business can be done on a purely cash basis; but all will concede that the nearer the business is to that basis the nearer it is to the ideal.

The only way in which business can be done successfully to-day is by bringing the selling price of a commodity or article as near the purchasing price as possible. This may seem paradoxical, but it is true.

Some merchants, in their efforts to do this, slaughter prices. But in slaughtering prices they frequently slaughter themselves.

What is entailed in bringing the selling price of an article as near as possible to the purchasing price is the cutting down the cost of doing business to as fine a point as is consonant with efficiency.

It is not so much the width of the margin between the first cost of the goods he sells and the selling price thereof that constitutes a successful merchant as it is the money it costs to carry on business.

An apple may look beautiful to the eye while it is rotten at the core. And some merchants are apparently doing a business as successful as it is large, and yet they suddenly collapse, to the surprise of everyone not acquainted with their methods of doing business: they sold the goods all right, and perhaps got a good profit on the first cost, but their intermediary costs had swallowed the profits.

Every merchant who carries on a credit business naturally loses money. And of course the greater his losses are the more must he add to the cost of his goods, and every fraction that he is thus compelled to add to the original price of his goods counts against him in his race with the merchant who is not so heavily handicapped.

Obviously, then, every merchant should steer for the Cash Port.

AN ADVANCE IN SUGAR.

Montreal sugar refiners on Monday last advanced their price on yellows $\frac{1}{8}$ of a cent per lb. to $3\frac{1}{4}$ c., and granulated, it is expected, will be marked up to $4\frac{3}{8}$ c. before the week is out.

The advance is due to the increased demand at the recent decline in price, which has pulled down stocks materially during the past fortnight or ten days.

Both refineries also have been shut down recently, the St. Lawrence for almost a month and the Canada for over a fortnight, which, of course, has had a tendency to reduce stocks still further. Besides all this, the strong tone on refined sugar at New York last week had a sympathetic influence on Montreal refiners, who have been from $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{8}$ c. per lb. below the price in New York all along, so that when the latter market advanced last week it was felt that there was room for a rise. It is also generally believed that stocks in second hands are light, so that with outside markets firm, and these conditions ruling, a good business in sugar is expected for the balance of the month.

Last year at this time it was a general complaint that sugar prices were at rock bottom. Yet, allowing for the extra cost owing to change in duty, present prices are comparatively low.

At this time last year refiners were selling granulated at $\frac{3}{8}$ c. and yellows at 3 to $\frac{3}{8}$ c.

WE ARE AWFULLY SORRY.

THREE or four should-be advertisers in THE CANADIAN GROCER read a memo. printed in red ink on page 29 of last week, and jumping to the conclusion that we were giving away advertising space free, sent in their copy by first mail, and demanded the free space promised.

We are sorry to disappoint them, and, of course, we feel complimented that THE GROCER was worth the time taken up in writing copy for a free advertisement. We notice that when our representatives call on these same people soliciting an advertisement, they say that our rates are too high and that "no one reads the paper." If this is the case how did they see the memo referred to? The brightest, shrewdest and most enterprising firms in Canada and some of the largest in Great Britain advertise in THE GROCER year after year, and these advertisers tell us, and will tell any enquiring advertiser, that they know from experience that THE GROCER is read by the best houses in every part of Canada. Our rates do not seem high to them. Why? Because they are the class of business men who want a good thing, and are willing to pay for it. We don't want all the advertising that is done in this country, because we would not be paid for half of it; but we do want all the best firms.

To should-be advertisers in THE GROCER we say: Try the dozen or so papers in Canada who will give you space at your own price, and when your contract runs out you will find us ready to welcome you.

Any fool paper can secure subscribers, but brains in the editorial department must hold them. THE GROCER has the best writers available at its Montreal and Toronto offices, and in its various correspondents, and has more of them than any paper in Canada outside a few big dailies. "If you see it in THE GROCER it's so." This is why the best business men everywhere take it. These editors demand big salaries. This is why THE GROCER'S advertising rates are higher than some others.

SCARCITY IN ORANGES.

Oranges continue to hold their own, and the situation looks to be all in favor of the seller. As the holiday season approaches the demand increases, and stocks are none too large to meet requirements.

So far this season Jamaicas have had it all their own way on the market, and it looks as though they will not be interfered with to any serious extent for some time to come.

To the failure of the Florida crop is due the strength of the comparatively sour Jamaica fruit this year.

This week will see the arrival of a few California and Valencia oranges, but they will not come in large enough quantities to bear the market.

So far we have heard of no Floridas being booked for Toronto.

THE GRENOBLE SITUATION.

Further shipments of Grenoble walnuts are on the way, but in the meantime the commodity is still scarce on the Canadian market. Some houses have none, while others have but very few in stock.

There are a few Marbots on the market, but as the bulk of the shipments have not yet come forward, there is a scarcity of these, more attention having been paid to these than would have otherwise been the case had there been a better supply of Grenoble walnuts. One Toronto broker, who was trying to pick up a few bales on the street for a local wholesaler, could not secure any except at a big advance in price.

FURTHER STRENGTH IN CURRANTS

The currant market is still gathering strength, this week's cables announcing prices firm with an upward tendency.

The situation in Canada has also its own particular features at the moment. Probably the most striking is in the fact that the price at which fine Filiatra currants, in assorted packages, are offering in this country is on an exact parity with the figures quoted in New York for the American staple in barrels. This American staple is from the Calamata district in Greece, and is much inferior in quality to anything that finds its way to the Canadian market. The realization of this fact makes the situation all the more interesting.

In view of the relatively lower prices now obtaining for them, it does not seem possible that the figures now obtaining for the finer goods can long remain where they are, and there is a general feeling among the trade that the present is not a bad moment for operating.

TEA PURCHASED IN BOND.

ANOTHER instance of what little reliance is to be placed upon daily newspapers in regard to purely trade matters was in evidence a few days ago.

While Controller Wallace was in Montreal last week, among the merchants that waited upon him was one in regard to nuts, under the French Treaty. The correspondents of the daily papers became acquainted with the fact that the merchant in question had interviewed the head of the Customs Department and the next morning the press of the country, Conservative as well as Reform, announced that the object sought was an amendment to the Customs affidavit required on "teas, nuts, etc., coming in transit through the United States."

The reply given by the Controller, we are told, was to the effect that tea direct was free, but that a duty of 10 per cent. was imposed on goods coming via all other countries, including the United States.

Feeling assured that the Controller could have made no such statement, THE CANADIAN GROCER interviewed Mr. Wallace on Wednesday while he was in Toronto, and his answer confirmed our conjecture.

As far as tea itself is concerned, it is free when imported direct or when purchased in bond in any country where tea is subject to a Customs duty, provided that there is satisfactory proof that the tea so purchased is such as might be entered for home consumption in the country where same is purchased. As there is no duty levied on tea in the United States, purchases of this commodity made in bond in that country could not be brought into Canada free; it would be subject to a duty of 10 per cent. As Great Britain imposes a duty on tea, purchases made in bond in that country come into Canada free.

As far as transshipments of merchandise generally are concerned, they are governed by the Customs Act, and according to that instrument goods can be transhipped via any country under the sun, and can come into Canada without any burdens being imposed because of that transshipment, as long as the goods have not been entered in any Customs warehouse in the country across which they were transhipped.

FIGS ARE DEARER.

Mail advices from Protopazzi Bros., London and Smyrna, report that the market on figs in London is very low for dark or "frosty" goods. Fine well-conditioned figs have advanced, now being worth 36s., cost and freight, an advance of 4s. per cwt., while common goods can be sold at 26s., cost and freight. The reason for the advance is that the bulk of the figs are not keeping well this year.

TORONTO IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

THE imports for the port of Toronto during the month of October just passed totalled in value $1,422,984.74, and the exports $432,278. The figures for the corresponding month last year were $1,193,448.94 and $565,629. These returns show an appreciable increase in imports, while the exports seem to have fallen off considerably.

The most notable increases in imports occur in grain, hides and skins, iron and steel, dyes and chemicals, cottons, anthracite coal, leather, oil, soap and tea, while the imports in bituminous coal, earthenware, window glass and jewellery have fallen off. Following is a comparative statement of the imports during November, 1894, and November, 1895, particularly affecting grocers and general storekeepers:

ORANGES A DOLLAR HIGHER.

An interesting feature in green fruit during the past eight days has been the strength of the orange market.

Usually at this season Canadian dealers have been able to secure supplies of Florida fruit, but owing to the comparative failure of the crop in that state they have had to fall back on Jamaica oranges.

The stock of these is light and the result at this writing is a bare market in Montreal, which western buyers swept as clean as a whistle at an advance of $1 per barrel, what few lots there are now being held firm at $8.

There is a cargo of Jamaica stock arriving at New York this week, and Montreal buyers have gone down to attend the sale, but they expect that prices will rule high for the reasons already mentioned.

DRY-PLUCKED POULTRY.

It is not long since THE CANADIAN GROCER advised country merchants to send into the cities dry-plucked poultry.

Scalded poultry does not show off to advantage, nor does it keep fresh as long as dry-plucked. As a result, large quantities of scalded poultry brought into Toronto lately have brought prices lower than dry-plucked would have done.

This matter is worth careful attention.

THREE-CROWN CALIFORNIAS.

The other week reference was made to the low price of three-crown California raisins as compared with four-crown fruit, and also that they were considered good value for the money.

This fact, it appears, is attracting more attention now across the lines, and reports are current of an effort to concentrate the stocks of California three-crown fruit.

Commission men in Montreal are advised that this development has stimulated the interest of buyers, and that receivers have had more enquiry lately. They do not consider it likely, however, that any effort to concentrate the supply will be successful, as the packers on the Coast will prefer to protect their own customers, and the inducement offered would have to be something substantial to make them follow any other course.

All this goes to show that three-crown are not dear at present prices, and it is not surprising that consumers are turning their attention to them as good keeping stock.

OUR CANNED GOODS WANTED.

Robert Little, of John Little & Co., Ltd., importers and jobbers, London and Singapore, is in Canada on his way from Singapore to London. He was in Toronto this week to see W. Boulter & Sons, to figure on shipments of canned fruits and vegetables to Singapore. This city is the principal point in the Straits Settlements, and imports very largely from the United States. Mr. Little saw Boulter & Sons' advertisement in THE CANADIAN GROCER. He called at their Toronto factory and sampled a number of the lines they pack, and was very much pleased with them. The good brands of Canadian canned fruits and vegetables he found are much superior to those exported from San Francisco; though sometimes smaller in size they are more delicate and much richer in flavor. This is the reputation they are making for themselves in other foreign countries. He has asked for a few samples to be sent out, and he is also taking a complete set of labels with him.

APPLES IN BOXES.

A new experiment in apple exporting was tried recently at Montreal. It was the shipment of apples to Liverpool packed in boxes and all selected hand-picked fruit.

Hart & Tuckwell, McGill street, are the firm who have made the new departure from the old barrel method, and they will know what the results are by Friday of the present week, when they expect to receive an account of sales.

A SNAKE AMONG BANANAS.

Dawson & Co., of Toronto, recently sent an expressman to deliver a large bunch of bananas to an Italian, in the west end. On the way the driver was almost startled out of his head by the appearance, from the midst of the yellow fruit, of the head of a snake. He claims that he hadn't had a thing to drink either.

On arriving at the Italian's a neighbor who makes a hobby of serpents was sent for, and, after great trouble, his snakeship was transferred, furious and hissing, to a box, and imprisoned therein.

The snake was of a dark hue, and adorned with distinctly marked grey spots. It measured five feet from head to tail.

NEW HARBOR COMMISSIONER.

Mr. Hormidas Laporte, head of the large wholesale grocery firm of Laporte, Martin & Cie., and president of the Chambre de Commerce, has been appointed a member of the Montreal Harbor Board, to succeed the late Ald. Hurteau. Mr. Laporte is a self-made man, of forty-five years of age, who is widely known in French-Canadian business circles. He was born at Lachine, and when he first came to Montreal worked for five years in factories and went to night schools. At twenty he entered the grocery trade, with which he has been connected for twenty-five years. He has been a member of the Council of the Chambre de Commerce for seven years, and has been President-General of the Alliance Nationale since its foundation. He has been a member of the Board of Trade for some years. Mr. Laporte has always taken a lively interest in commercial and navigation matters, and his friends predict he will make a good commissioner.

LATE BUSINESS CHANGES.

W. T. Wickham & Co., wholesale grocers, Brantford, Ont., have assigned.—The Perth Canning Co. (Ltd.), Perth, Ont., has obtained a charter.—J. J. Russell, baker and grocer, Ridgeway, Ont., is dead.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

GROCERIES.

SUGAR has suddenly become the centre of interest on the market, all the refineries having put their prices up on Monday last on yellows, while the Acadia also marked its granulated up $\frac{1}{8}$ c. The general feeling is stronger in consequence, and there is a better demand. Dried fruits for the holiday trade are still coming in, but the wholesalers are just now principally devoting their energies to shipping out. Currants are a little firmer in the primary markets. Dates and figs are also higher. Canned goods are quiet and steady. Coffees are in good demand. Outside those of Ceylon growth, teas are attracting little or no attention. Spices for the Christmas trade are still in demand. The activity of nuts is one of the features of the market. Payments are fairly satisfactory.

CANNED GOODS.

There is no special feature to note. Canned vegetables are quiet and steady, and the same may be said regarding salmon. We quote: Tomatoes, $77\frac{1}{2}$ to 85c.; corn, 75 to 85c.; peas, 90 to 95c. for ordinary; sifted, \$1.05 to \$1.10; extra sifted, \$1.50 to \$1.55; peaches, \$2.90 to \$3 for 3's, \$1.90 to \$2 for 2's; raspberries, \$1.40 to \$2.00; strawberries, \$1.80 to \$2.45, according to brand and quality; blackberries, \$1.90 to \$2.20; cherries, \$2.40 to \$2.45; apples, 3's, 85 to 90c.; gallons, \$1.90 to 2.25; salmon, "Horseshoe," \$1.35 to \$1.40; "Maple Leaf," \$1.35; "Lion," \$1.35; Lowe Inlet, \$1.27 to \$1.30, in tall tins; cohoes, \$1.10 to \$1.20; canned mackerel, \$1.10 to \$1.20; lobsters, \$1.80 to \$2.10, for tall tins; flats, \$2.35 to \$2.65; half tins, \$1.45 to \$1.50; Canadian canned beef, 1's, \$1.40 to \$1.50; 2's, \$2.40 to \$2.55; 6's, \$7.75 to \$8.25; 14's, \$16 to \$18.

COFFEE.

The demand is brisk for green Rio coffees, particularly those of the better grades. The New York market is unsettled in Brazilian growths. We quote green in bags: Rio, 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracaibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

SUGAR.

The market is excited, both the Montreal and the Acadia refineries having advanced prices on yellows $\frac{1}{8}$ c., while the latter marked its granulated up a like sum also. The wholesalers are also firmer in their views, and $\frac{4}{8}$ c. is now as a rule the lowest figure at which granulated can be obtained while the range runs from $\frac{4}{8}$ to $\frac{4}{8}$. Since the advance, orders have been coming in much faster, and any sugars offered at old prices are eagerly taken by retailers. The advance was induced by a sharp appreciation in raws. Centrifugals at the time of writing are about $\frac{3}{8}$ c. per lb. above the lowest point touched some weeks ago, and beets are up 9d. from lowest point touched this fall. The reason that yellows show more strength on the Canadian market than granulated is, the refiners claim; that they have for some time been from $\frac{1}{8}$ to $\frac{1}{4}$ c. per lb. below the parity of granulated. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, $4\frac{3}{8}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.; yellows, $3\frac{1}{4}$ c. up.

SYRUPS.

Syrups are still scarce, but there is not much demand. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.; bright, 40 to 42c.

MOLASSES.

There is the usual quiet seasonable trade doing. We quote: New Orleans, barrels, 25 to 32c.; half-barrels, $33\frac{1}{2}$ to 35c.; Barbadoes, barrels, 31 to 35c.; half-barrels, 33 to 37c.

SPICES.

Christmas spices are still in good demand, and prices are much as before. We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.; all-spice, 14 to 18c.

NUTS.

Nuts of all descriptions are in good demand, with Grenobles still scarce. We quote as follows: Brazil nuts, 12 to 13c.; Sicily shelled almonds, 25 to 26c.; Taragona almonds, 14 to 14 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted, and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, \$4.50 to \$5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. Marbot walnuts, 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 9c.; Sicily filberts, 8 to 10c. for sacks and 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 11c. for small lots; pecans, 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 11c.

TEAS.

The only teas which are at the moment receiving anything like attention are those of Ceylon growth, and for them there is a good demand, both on wholesale and retail account. Flavoury Ceylon teas are firm. The activity which has characterized the demand for Young Hysons has quieted down during the past week. There is nothing to be noted regarded other descriptions of teas. We quote ruling prices to retailers as follows: Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

DRIED FRUITS.

Valencia raisins continue in good demand with prices in the primary markets still strong. We quote: Off-stalk, $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{3}{4}$ c.; fine off-stalk, 5 to 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.; selected, 6 to 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.; layers, 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.

Currants are cabled firm, with an upward tendency. Locally the demand continues good. We quote: Fine Filhatras, in barrels, $4\frac{1}{4}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.; ditto, half-barrels, $4\frac{1}{4}$ to $4\frac{3}{4}$ c.; ditto, half-cases, $4\frac{3}{4}$ to 5c.; Casalinas, cases, 5 to 5 $\frac{1}{4}$ c.; Vostizzas, cases, 6 to 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.; ditto, half-cases, 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 6 $\frac{3}{4}$ c.; ditto extra fine, 6 $\frac{3}{4}$ to 7 $\frac{1}{4}$ c.; ditto, half-cases, 7 $\frac{1}{4}$ to 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.

Malaga raisins of the finer grades are about cleaned out, while the demand continues good. We quote: London layers, $2 to $2.20; black baskets, $2.75 to $3.20; blue baskets, $3.25 to $3.50; choice clusters, $3.25 to $3.50; Dehesa clusters, $4 to $4.50; Royal clusters, $5 to $5.25; Royal Buckingham clusters, $4.50; Non-Plus-Ultra and Royal Windsor, $6.50.

There is nothing new to note regarding prunes beyond the fact that some grades of California prunes are already cleaned out on the Coast. We quote prunes: Bosnias, "Sphinx" brand, "A," 70-75 to lb., 9c.; "B," 80-85 to lb., 7 $\frac{3}{4}$ c.; "U," 110-115 to lb., 6 $\frac{3}{4}$ c.; California prunes, 40-50, 10 to 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb.; 50-60 to box, 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb.; 60-70 to box, 9c.; 70-80 to box, 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb.; French, 5 to 6c.

California evaporated fruits continue in good demand. Apricots on the Coast are about cleaned out of first hands, and shippers are holding prices about as high as the goods are being sold for on the Canadian market. We quote: Apricots, 13 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 15c.; peaches, 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.; pears, 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.; plums, 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. for unpitted, and 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. for pitted; nectarines, 11 to 13c.

California 4-crown loose muscatels are scarce and firmer. Other kinds are in good supply and unchanged. We quote 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.

Sultana raisins are in good demand at 5 to 6 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.

The market is now pretty well supplied with dates, the first shipment via London being now on the market. Prices are higher in the primary markets, latest quotations from London being about 1s. 9d. above the price of shipments now arriving.

GREEN FRUIT.

Business is reported excellent among fruit men. The stocks of lemons show fine quality, and they are plentiful enough to be easy just now, but a firming up, if not an advance, is expected to transpire shortly. Oranges are scarce, Jamaicas having it a good deal their own way, with small lots of Mediterranean and California fruit coming in at high prices. Apples are a trifle easier, as are domestic onions. There is nothing else new to record. We quote: Lemons—Messina, $3 to $4 per box; Malaga, in half-chests, $5 to $6, boxes, $2.50 to $3. Oranges—Jamaicas, in boxes, $5 to $5.50; in bbls., $10; Valencias, 420's, $5; 714's, 5.50. Bananas, $1.40 to $1.75; cocoanuts, $3.50 to $4 a sack; apples, $1.50 to $3 a barrel; domestic grapes, in cases, 65 to 75c.; Malaga grapes, $5 to $7 per keg; pears, 40 to 50c.; domestic onions, 60 to 65c. per bag; Spanish onions, 50 to 65c. per small crate; sweet potatoes, $3 to $3.25 per bbl.; cranberries, $10 per bbl., and $3.50 per case; hickory nuts, $1.80 to $2 per bush.; lime fruit, $13 per bbl.

BUTTER, CHEESE, POULTRY, EGGS.

BUTTER—The principal receipts of butter are now confined to large rolls, which usually find a ready sale. The receipts of dairy tubs are light, but this is not felt much as very little enquiry is heard for this particular line. It is difficult to move medium and low grade butter at any price. We quote: Old summer dairy and store packed, 8 to 12c.; fresh large rolls, 15 to 16c.; fresh lb. prints, 16 to 17c.; fresh tubs, 16 to 17c. Fresh creamery—Tubs, 20 to 21c.; pound prints, 21 to 22c.

CHEESE—There is a better enquiry for export cheese, and dealers are looking for better prices, which should transpire any way about the first of the year. It is stated that the quantity of cheese held is much smaller than usual. We quote: Summer month makes, 9c.; September and October makes, 9½ to 10c.

EGGS—Are still firm. Fresh eggs bring 16 to 17½c.; new laid, 20c.; first-class pickled, 14 to 14½c.; No. 2 stock-pickled, 13½c.

POULTRY—Geese and turkeys are a little higher than last week, chiefly because of the colder weather. Receipts are still large. We quote: Geese, 4½ to 5c. per lb.; turkeys, 5 to 7c. per lb.; chickens, 20 to 30c. per pair; ducks, 40 to 60c. per pair.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

BEANS—Jobbers are selling at $1.10 to $1.15 per bushel.

DRIED APPLES—Remain at 5 to 5½c. per lb.

EVAPORATED APPLES—Firm at 7 to 7½c. per lb.

POTATOES—Nothing new. The prices paid in the country are 14 to 15c., while in the city on the track potatoes bring 22 to 25c., and out of store 25 to 30c.

HONEY—Strained brings 8 to 10c. per lb.; while combs go at $1.50 to $2 per doz. Honey seems scarce.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

Hogs are coming in freely, but prices are about the same both in hogs and hog products. Hogs bring $4.50 to $4.60. Products are quoted thus:

DRY SALTED MEATS—Long clear bacon, 6½c. for carload lots, and 6¾ to 7c. for small lots; backs, 7½c.

SMOKED MEATS—Breakfast bacon, 10c.; rolls, 7¼ to 7½c.; hams, large, 22 lbs. and over, 9c.; medium, 15 to 20 lbs., 10c.; small hams, 10½c.; backs, 9½ to 10c.; picnic hams, 7 to 7½c.; all meats out of pickle, 1c. less than above.

LARD—Pure Canadian, tierces, 7¾c.; tubs, 8 to 8¼c.; pails, 8¼c.

BARREL PORK—Canadian heavy mess, $14; Canadian short-cut, $15; clear shoulder mess, $12; shoulder mess, $11.50.

FISH.

Trade is brightening up. Lake Superior whitefish is now on the market. Oysters are this week quoted at $1.25 for standards and $1.65 for selects. We quote fish: Skinned and boned codfish, 6½c.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4c.; haddock, 5 to 6c.; Labrador herring, $3.25 to $3.50 per half barrel and $5.50 to $5.75 per barrel; Newfoundland herring, $2.50 per half barrel, and $4.50 to $4.75 per barrel; fresh water salt herring, $3 per barrel; blue-back herring, 3c.; pike, 6 to 7c. per lb.; flitched cod, 5c.; finnan haddies, 6½c.; Digby herring, in bundles of 5 boxes, 11c.; ditto, lengthwise, 10c.; large halibut, 12 to 15c.; Restigouche salmon, 20 to 25c.; British Columbia salmon, 13 to 14c.; mackerel, 20 to 25c.; steak cod, 6½ to 7c.; haddock, 5c.; black bass, 9 to 10½c. Fresh Lake Erie herring, $3 per 100; whitefish, 8 to 9c.; salmon trout, 7½ to 8c.; Lake Superior whitefish, 8c.

Mr. Boulter, of Picton, is at Woodstock attending the annual meeting of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, of which he is a director, representing Hastings, Lennox, Addington and Prince Edward counties. He read a very practical paper on the shipping of apples to British Columbia. Mr. Boulter has 2,000 apple-bearing trees in Prince Edward County, and has been shipping in carload lots to the extremes of Canada, British Columbia and Prince Edward Island.

Sam. Nesbit, of Brighton, Ont., export dealer in fruits and a constant reader of THE GROCER, is making large shipments of apples to England. His warehouses have a storing capacity of 35,000 barrels, and he has made a reputation of handling the best fruit. At the present time he is making a change in his mode of shipment: The fruit is carefully selected, rolled in tissue paper and neatly packed in boxes containing about a bushel. Central Ontario, the district in which Brighton is situated, is unsurpassed for producing apples that excel in flavor and keeping qualities.

QUEBEC MARKETS

MONTREAL, Dec. 12, 1895.

GROCERIES.

THE grocery market has exhibited a fair degree of activity during the week and several of the leading staple lines have shown more firmness. This has been notably the case with refined sugars, the best inside price for yellows having been advanced $\frac{1}{8}$ c., while the price of granulated is certain to go up to a similar extent in the course of a day or so, if not before. Syrups have been more actively enquired for also and prices have ruled firm in consequence, as stocks are light. Dried fruits continue in good enquiry and values are either steady or firmer. Ordinary off-stalk Valencias are very difficult to get, only a few of the jobbers here having any, while supplies of all grades of fruit in first hands are exhausted this week. Arrivals of new nuts are noted and the market generally is steady. Absolute scarcity of shelled walnuts is a feature in this connection, and they have sold 5c. higher owing to this fact. New dates are now in stock and prices have settled down a trifle, but not materially. In canned goods business is quiet and the same can be said of green fruit, with the exception of oranges, which are excited and higher.

SUGAR.

The easy feeling that has ruled in sugar has been entirely dissipated, and at this writing the market has a distinctly firmer tendency. Both granulated and yellows are wanted, the inside price for the former being $3\frac{1}{4}$ c. at the refineries, the latter advancing $\frac{1}{8}$ c. on Monday, and it is expected that granulated will also advance to the same extent every minute. As a result of this firmer feeling there is a brisk business from first to second hands, while demand from retailers is also commencing to pick up. We quote the jobbing range firmer at $4\frac{3}{4}$ c. for granulated, and yellows, $3\frac{3}{4}$ to 4c., as to grade.

SYRUPS.

There has been more demand for syrup during the past week, as jobbers note enquiry from customers and find that their stocks are light. As a result they have been freer buyers from the refineries who also are not over supplied. The result is a firm feeling and the very best price this week is $1\frac{1}{4}$ c. for round lots, while the higher grades range up to $2\frac{3}{4}$ c. per lb. These are refiners' prices, and for jobbing lots from second hands we quote $1\frac{1}{8}$ to $2\frac{1}{2}$ c., as to grade.

MOLASSES.

The molasses market has not furnished any new feature, business ruling quiet, while prices are held steady, the stock here being concentrated in few hands. We quote: Barbadoes 36 to 37c., and Porto Rico, 35c. Round lots of the latter have been offering at 32c., but we do not hear of business resulting.

RICE.

A fairly active business has been done in rice, and prices are steady. We quote at the mills: Japan standard, $4.25 to $4.40; crystal Japan, $4.75 to $5; standard B., $3.45; English style, $3.30; Patna, $4.25 to $5, and Carolina $6.50 to $7.50.

SPICES.

There has been an improved demand for spices, but no change in prices. We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.

COFFEE.

The coffee market has been quiet in a wholesale way, for aside from some parcels of Rio and Maracaibo at steady prices, no straight lots have been moved. We quote green bean: Maracaibo, $19\frac{1}{2}$ to $21\frac{1}{2}$ c.;

TEAS.

The tea market continues quiet but steady, a fair distributing trade being noted from second hands. Some parcels of Japans which changed hands at 16 to 19c., as to grade, ranging from medium up, was the the only large business that we noted. Black teas have exhibited a rather easier tone, but a quotable change has hardly been established. Some offers of Ceylons and Indians have also been made at better terms for the buyer. We quote Japans: Low grades, 14c.; medium, 15 to 18c.; fine, 20 to 22c., and choice, 25 to 32c.

DRIED FRUIT.

The Valencia raisin position is, if anything, firmer this week than last. All the stock in first hands has been absorbed, and the supplies of ordinary off-stalk in second hands are very light. In fact, some of the jobbing houses are entirely out of them. For this reason the market is very firm. We quote: Ordinary off-stalk, 4 to 4¼c.; fine off stalk, 4½ to 4¾c.; selected, 5½ to 5¾c., and layers, 6¼ to 6½c.

Business in California raisins has been quite brisk during the week. Arrivals of both 4 and 3-crown fruit which came to hand this week, still show the same fine quality. Prices are steady at 7c. for 4-crown, and 5½c. for 3-crown.

Sultana raisins are a small stock here, only one or two houses having any on hand. They are held at 6 to 6½c.

Retailers have supplied themselves pretty well ahead with table fruit, and the sorting demand on holiday account has not made itself felt yet. We quote Malagas as follows: Extra loose muscatels, $1.40; Imperial London layers, $1.75; Imperial cabinets, $1.90; Connoisseur clusters, $2.20; extra dessert clusters, $3; Royal Buckingham clusters, $3.50.

There has been a good demand for currants at steady prices. We quote: 3¾c. in barrels, 4 to 4¼c. in half-barrels, and 4½ to 4¾c. in half-cases.

Stocks of new Bosnia prunes are now fairly large, but the market rules firm, as quoted last week, at 6 to 6½c. Ordinary French prunes have sold at 4½c., while French plums range from 8 to 14c., as to quality.

California prunes are arriving, and there have been sales of 80's at 8c.

The fig market rules active, with prices steady. We quote in boxes: 10-lb., 9 to 10c.; 20-lb., 14 to 15c.; and 50-lb., 16 to 17c.

The date market has settled down a trifle, with the arrivals of further shipments. The tone, however, is steady at 4½ to 5c., as to grade.

NUTS.

There has been an active trade in nuts, while prices are firm on the whole. Grenoble nuts have been freely enquired for, and sell firm at 12 to 13c. In a jobbing way, though we hear of transactions in round lots at 11½c. Shelled nuts are practically exhausted here, walnuts having sold as high as 30c. We quote: Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; filberts, 7½ to 8c.; Tarragona almonds, 11 to 11½c.; pecans, 9 to 14c., and shelled walnuts 27 to 30c.

CANNED GOODS.

There has been little change or improvement in canned goods during the week, demand both from first and second hands ruling quiet. We quote as follows: Lobsters, talls, $8 per case; flats, $9 to $9.50; sardines, ordinary brands, $7 to $8.50; best brands, $9.50 to $10.50; salmon, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; tomatoes, 75 to 80c.; peaches, $2 to $2.25; corn, 85 to 90c.; marrowfat peas, 95c. to $1; strawberries, $2 to $2.25; raspberries, $1.75 to $2; green gages, $1.75 to $2; blue plums or damsons, $1.50 to $1.75; pineapples, $2 to $2.25 and 3-lb. apples, 80 to 85c.

WINES AND SPIRITS.

There has been a fairly active trade in wines and spirits during the week. Agents for Scotch, Irish and Canadian whiskies note a good demand on city account, and have also booked some satisfactory orders from both Eastern and Western Ontario. In wines business is quiet, but demand is expected to improve in a sorting way shortly on Christmas account.

GREEN FRUIT.

The main feature of the fruit market this week has been the scarcity and demand for oranges.

APPLES—Quiet locally, but export account sales show good profits. We quote prices firm at $2.50 to $3.

GRAPES—There is no change in Spanish grapes, which job out in kegs at $5 to $6 as to grade.

ORANGES—The market is completely bare of oranges, and Jamaicas, the only stock offering, are $1 a barrel higher at $8.

LEMONS—There is only a quiet trade doing in lemons at $2.50 to $3.50 as to grade.

SPANISH ONIONS—These continue quiet and steady at 40 to 45c. per crate.

FISH.

The cold weather and the demand on account of religious observances has maintained prices on fresh fish of all kinds, which have ruled very active. Haddock are firmer at 4½c. per lb., while cod are held steady at 3c. Frozen salmon meet a free sale at 10c., and fresh herrings at $1.50 per 100. There has been a good demand for smelts at 6c.

In pickled fish herrings have continued slow at $4.25 to $4.50 for No. 1 N.S., and No. 1 Labrador, $5.25. Car lots of No. 1 green cod are quoted at $4 to $4.15, and small lots, $4.25 to $4.50. B.C. salmon range from $10.50 to $11 for No. 2, and Labrador, $13. No. 2 mackerel move at $17.50, and No. 1 lake trout, $4.25 to $4.50 per keg.

In prepared fish, boneless and dried cod-fish are in good supply, while there is a fair trade in smoked fish. We quote: Boneless cod, 6c.; boneless haddock, 5c.; boneless fish, 3¾c.; shredded fish, 11c.; dried, 4¼ to 4½c.; haddies, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; kippered herrings, $1.50 to $1.65 per box; Yarmouth bloaters, 90c. to $1 per box, and smoked herrings 8 to 10c. per box.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—The demand for small lots of eggs is good, and the market is more active, but values show no change. We quote choice candled at 14 to 15c., and ordinary stock at 11½ to 12c. per dozen.

BEANS—Are slow, and carloads of choice hand-picked are offered at $1.05 to $1.10, and small quantities at $1.20 to $1.30.

POTATOES—In potatoes rather more business is done, and the market is firmer, choice Early Rose in car lots selling at 40 to 45c. per bag.

POULTRY—There is more enquiry for poultry, but owing to the heavy receipts and the already excessive supplies on the market, dealers cannot get any advance in prices; in fact, some of them state that 7½c. is the very outside figure they obtain for fine turkeys. Turkeys sell at 7 to 8c.; chickens at 6 to 6½c.; fowls at 5c.; geese at 5c. and ducks at 7 to 7½c. per lb.

DRESSED HOGS—There is a fair demand for dressed hogs. The supply is still in excess of the requirements, and sales are made at $4.75 to $4.80 for car lots, and at $5 to $5.25 per 100 lbs., in a jobbing way.

PROVISIONS.

There was no new feature in the local provision market to note. The feeling is about steady and the volume of business doing is small. We quote: Canadian short cut, clear, $13.50; Canadian short cut, mess, $14; hams, city cured, per lb., 9 to 10c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 8¼ to 8½c.; bacon, per lb., 9 to 10c.; lard, com. refined, per lb., 6¼ to 6½c.

FLOUR, MEAL AND FEED.

There continues to be a good local and country demand for flour, and the market rules fairly active and steady. We quote: Winter wheat, $3.65 to $4.00; spring wheat, patents, $3.75 to $3.95; straight roller, $3.50 to $3.60; straight roller, bags, $1.65 to $1.75; extra bags, $1.55 to $1.60; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.40 to $3.75.

Oatmeal rules quiet and easy, holders being disposed to shade prices in order to effect sales. We quote: Standard, bbls., $3 to $3.10; granulated, bbls., $3 to $3.15; rolled oats, bbls., $3 to $3.15.

There was no change in feed, prices being steady with a fair trade doing. We quote: Bran, $14 to $15; shorts, $15 to $16; mouillie, $19 to $20.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

The cheese market fails to show any change beyond the fact that buyers exhibit a disposition to advance bids. They are still below what holders want, and nothing of importance results. The range, therefore, is still a nominal one, between 8½ to 9½c. as to quality.

The butter market continues dull and unchanged. Creamery moves slowly at 20 to 20½c., and Townships' dairy at 18 to 19c.

HAY.

The hay market continues firm at $13 for No. 1 and $12 for No. 2.

ASHES.

There is no change. They continue steady at the decline. We quote: Firsts, $3.70; seconds, $3.50, and pearls, $4.65 per 100 lbs.

Stock must be cleared out by 1st January.

No reasonable offer refused to clear out any line. For this reason it will pay you well to call and see our stock of Crockery, China, Glassware, Lamps, etc., both staple and fancy.

Both yellow and granulated sugars have week.

Mail advices from London to commercial brokers here say that November developed a more cheerful tone in the tea market both for Indians and Ceylons, but that it did not last, and that the month closed dull, with round lots taken out of the catalogues unsold.

All the Valencia raisins in first hands have been absorbed, and only a few of the jobbing houses have a stock of ordinary off-stock fruit.

Shipments of 4-crown California raisins

Kinloch, Lindsay & Co., and Geo. Childs &

The first shipments of Santa Clara Cali-

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 12, 1895.

THE past week has been an active one with the wholesale trade. The retail trade is active and if cold weather continues good holiday business is looked for. The arrival of the first direct regular Beaver Line steamer has created a good feeling through the city. To have this a winter port has long been a hope, and the hope is now fulfilled. She had a fair cargo in, and will have a better out cargo than was expected. In markets there is a firmness, except in flour, which in Manitoba is marked lower. Pork products are easy and low, owing largely to low prices in England. In the candy line a large business is done here, and our manufacturers are well pleased with the Christmas demand.

SALT—During the week there has been a large movement, a schooner arriving from Boston and a quantity coming via the steamer from Liverpool. The demand is not very active at the season. We quote:
Coarse, 50 to 55c.; fine factory-filled, $1.10;
5-lb. bags, $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10-lb. boxes, 12c.; cartoons, $2 per doz.; salt, bulk, $2.70 to $2.80 per bbl.

OIL—The market still tends upward. No change is noted in American burning oil, but Canadian has been advanced with a very firm tendency. There is a large quantity moving. We quote: American burning oil, 23¼c.; best Canadian, 21½ to 21¾c.; prime, 19c.; no charge for barrel.

CANNED GOODS—There is a fair business doing, but nothing large. Some strawberries are in the market, put up in P.E.I. These are wild berries with good flavor in 1-lb. tins, and are being offered at $1.25 per doz. The stock of regular size and quality here is very light and is held some 70c. per doz. above last year's. Some few goods filling fall orders continue to come forward from Ontario. We quote: Corn, 85 to 90c.; peas, 90 to 95c.; tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; gallon apples, $2.15 to $2.25; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.65 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.60 to $1.65; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $2.75 to $2.85; 2's, $1.90 to $2; pineapple, Canadian pack, $2.35; salmon, $1.45 to $1.50; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.30; clams, $5 for 4 doz.; chowder, $2 75 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1; kippered herring, $1.10.

DRIED FRUIT—Is still a matter of interest. A small quantity of Valencia layers is arriving by steamer this week. Some retailers are offering their goods as low as the wholesale price. As before mentioned, the quantity of California loose muscatels is rather large, while of Malaga and California layers there are also good stocks, at low prices. Dried apples at outside points are low, and holders of Nova Scotia are disappointed. Evaporated are rather higher and are firm, though demand is light. Nuts are moving freely, with new Grenobles and filberts to hand, filberts being high and showing an improved movement. Brazils are largely of poor quality. Peanuts are at the moment easier. In Onions prices are firmer, while in dates, new are expected this week. It is thought a quantity of prunes for here has been burnt aboard a steamer, so that it looks as if stocks arriving would be even less than at first expected. We quote: Old Valencias, 3½c.; layers, 4 to 5c.; new Valencias, 4½ to 5c.; layers, 6 to 6½c.; half-boxes, 6½c.; quarter-boxes, 6¾c.; California L. M. 4-crown, 6 to 7c.; 3-crown, 5 to 6c.; London layers, $1.65 to $1.85. Currants, bbls., 3½ to 4c.; cases, 4 to 5c.; cartoons, cleaned, 7½c.; bulk, cleaned, 6½c.; prunes, kegs, 4c.; boxes, 4½ to 5c.; half-boxes, 6 to 8c.; citron, 15 to 16c.; orange and lemon, 13c.; dates, 4½ to 5c.; dried apples, 5½ to 5¾c.; evaporated apples, 7½ to 7¾c.; California evaporated peaches, 12 to 13c.; apricots, 12 to 14c.; pears, 12 to 14c. Canadian onions, $2 25 to $2.30; cocoanuts, $3 to $4 per 100 lbs.; figs, 10 to 12c.; washed currants, 6-crown, 1-lb. cartoons, 8 to 8½c.; Sultanias, 10c.; Sultana raisins, 7 to 8c.; Grenoble walnuts, 13 to 14c.; Chili, 12 to 13c.; Brazil, 12 to 13c.; filberts, 9½ to 10c.; almonds, 13 to 14c.; roasted peanuts, 9 to 10c.

GREEN FRUIT—In apples the arrivals are very light and prices are firm. The business has been much more satisfactory this season than last, as values have been tending upward, while last season they were always dropping off. In oranges, new Valencias are here and in fair condition for first arrivals. West Indies are rather higher, but there is a dearth of good oranges. In lemons prices continue to be marked lower. Grapes in kegs turn out but fair quality, but the demand is good, and prices for good quality are firm. We do not quote cranberries, the movement being light. Sweet potatoes are also out of the market. We quote: Apples, $1.50 to $2.50; oranges, $6.25 to $7 per bbl., $3 50 to $4 per box; Lemons, $4 to $5; keg grapes, $5 to $6.50; Valencia oranges, $5 to $5.50.

DAIRY PRODUCE—New Brunswick factories are shipping some cheese by the first direct steamer to Liverpool. There is a firm feeling in late makes, but there is not much activity and early makes are dull. In butter the quantity to hand is large, it is thought, because holders are marketing stocks rather than run the risk of the heavy losses of last season. Creameries still hold there butter above St. John markets. A good butter will, however, bring 20 cents. In eggs there is a good demand with firm prices. We quote: Common dairy butter, 15 to 16c.; dairy, 17 to 18c.; new creamery prints, 22c.; cheese, 8½ to 9c.; creamery, tubs, 20c.; eggs, 16 to 17c.

MOLASSES—There is a light movement. Prices tending upward. New Orleans in barrels is showing a nice business, giving good satisfaction. Prices are up two cents. In syrup only a light quality is used here. The sale is somewhat hurt by some poorer grades that have been offered. We quote as follows: Barbadoes, 32 to 34c.; Trinidad, 33 to 34c.; Porto Rico, 34 to 36c., bbls.; New Orleans, 32 to 34c.; St. Croix, 31 to 32c.; syrup, 35 to 38c.

SUGAR—Already there is a firmer feeling as noticed by THE GROCER, and holders are happy. Prices have already advanced some. The movement is lighter. We quote: Granulated, 4¼ to 4¾c.; yellow, 3½ to 3¾c.; Paris lump, 5¼ to 5½c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

FISH—There is quite an active movement in fresh fish, but stocks to hand are light and not up to the demand. In dried there are a few coming forward, but stocks are light and prices held firm. In pickled there are fair stocks at low prices and the quality is good. In smoked there is still a very dull market with nothing encouraging from the West Indies, upon which we depend a good deal for an outlet. Frozen herring are much lower than last year. We quote as follows: Fresh haddock, 2 to 2½c. per lb.; dry, $1.50; large cod, $3.60 to $3.75; medium, $3.35 to $3.50; pollock, $1.40; bay herring, $1.25 to $1.30 per half-bbl.; Ripplings, $1.65; Wolves, $1.85 to $2; smoked herring, old, 4 to 5c.; new smoked, 5 to 6c.; Canso, $5 to $5.50 per bbl.; shad, half-bbl., $5 to $6; Grand Manan herring, half-bbl., $1.25 to $1.35; Shelburne, $3.00 bbl., $1.65 half-bbl.; boneless, 2½ to 3c.; oysters, $3 to $3.50 per bbl.; small cod, $2.50; frozen herring, 50c. per 100.

PROVISIONS—Prices continues low with the largest demand for this year over. Smoked meats are in light demand even at the very low figures. The best retail city trade is supplied by local curers. We quote: Clear pork, $15.50 to $16; mess, $14 to $15; P. E. I. prime, $11 to $12; beef, $13.25 to $14.25; pure lard, 9½ to 10½c. compound, 7 to 8c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—In flour we quote Manitoba lower, and other grades show but little change. Although the market is easy, it is not thought prices will go much lower. Ontario mills are more freely offering Manitoba flour. In oatmeal the feeling is firm, and oats have again slightly advanced. P. E. I. will be from now on largely shut out owing to lateness of season. New Brunswick oats not being clean are not liked. In hay prices show quite an advance. There is little movement in the city. American buyers through the country are active. In beans the feeling is rather firmer, with good stocks held here bought at low prices. The low price of cornmeal makes the demand for feed light. In general movement business begins to fall off. We quote as follows: Manitoba, $4.60 to $4.65; best Ontario, $4.10 to $4.15; medium, $3.80 to $3.85; oatmeal, $3.50 to $3.65; cornmeal, $2.30 to $2.35; middlings, $1.90 to $2.00 on track; bran, $1.80 to $1.90; hand-picked beans, $1.25; prime, $1.20; oats, 33 to 35c; hay, $12 to $12.50; pot barley, $4; round peas, $3.65 to $3.75; split peas, $3.70 to $3.80; yellow eye beans, $2; buckwheat meal, $1.30 to $1.35.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Owing to scarcity of cornmeal from mills here, some Canadian and American is on the market.

Our local curers of pork are doing a large business this fall. Last week one firm shipped 1,500 lbs. to Boston. They have also sold in Montreal.

The Central Creamery, of Charlottetown, is now running. They receive milk, and also cream, the latter being sent from outside factories, which act as skimming stations.

The Brantford Starch Co., represented here by N. D. Hooper, is putting a new package of extra quality starch upon the market called "Lily White Gloss." It is a six pound tin package handsomely colored. It meets with a good demand.

Along our north shore smelt fishing during the winter season is a matter of much profit. It is now in full swing. In one day lately one man took four tons, for which he received $50 per ton. In one day some 40,000 lbs. passed through here for the American market and two cars for Fredericton.

One of our largest cheese makers has this season shipped some 40 tons to the English market on his own account, and is well satisfied with results. Formerly these goods were sent through Montreal merchants.

The trade of St. John for November makes a good showing, compared with that of a year ago. Imports are about $45,000 more, and exports some $55,000 in excess. Duty collected is $10,000 more.

At the annual meeting of the Board of Trade the retiring president, W. Frank Hatheway, declining to serve another term, Mr. Fisher was elected for the ensuing year.

W. C. Pittfield was chosen vice-president. The retirement of Mr. Hatheway was much regretted, he having by his time and energy done much to bring the Board to its present efficiency.

A. L. Goodwin, our large fruit dealer here, begins to feel, with others, the advantage of a direct steamer between here and Liverpool. By last steamer he received a large consignment of Valencia oranges, and was able to sell in both Montreal and Boston.

It is for the Canadian exporter and importer to see that Canadian business does not go to build up American ports. It is with them to make St. John the winter port of such business as is done via Montreal in the summer. The results so far are pleasing. The last Turner's Line steamer took a fair quantity of western freight outward as well as having landed a quantity. A quantity is also ready for shipment by the first of the Beaver Line including 2,000 sacks flour. Other lines are also talking of coming here. The steamer Concordia of the Donaldson Line sails from Glasgow Dec. 4 for here, and it is expected another steamer of the same line will be here in January.

Sense and cents—He who is possessed of the first will spend the latter in procuring cough drops. Have on hand B. F. P. cough drops if you want him to come back to your counter.

HALIFAX TRADE GOSSIP.

WE are enjoying a quiet week. I should rather say we are having and enjoying a quiet week. We are having it quiet as far as trade is concerned, and we are enjoying it because there are no unpleasant incidents to record. The weather continues open. Some snow has fallen to the eastward and westward, but Halifax streets are bare. It is to be hoped the proper weather will set in shortly and give our merchants a chance to do some holiday trade.

The markets may be tersely summed up as follows: Flour, steady at the decline; produce, a drug on the market; sugar, steady at the advance; beef, stiffer; poultry, low, and other lines unchanged.

We are naturally interested in sugar, having the head office, two of the refineries and most of the stock of the Acadia Refining Co. here. It was gratifying to learn from the report of the last general meeting that a dividend had been declared on the year's operations. It is, therefore, gratifying to know that the outlook for the year just commenced is very good. The company is doing a good business just now. During the past few days there have been constant enquiries for cargoes at the old prices, but all the offers have been declined, and many are buying on the new basis. Quotations are :

Granulated, 4 5-16c.; yellows, 3½ to 3¾c.

We import most of our poultry and fresh beef from Ontario ; but a large consignment of turkeys for the Thanksgiving season failed to arrive on time. They are expected this week, and are offered at 7½c. Ontario dealers are not giving us quotations for Christmas poultry. They are evidently looking for good prices, but that all depends upon the weather. This has been a bad year for poultry in this market, as there is none going forward to Newfoundland as formerly, and P.E.I. dealers are unloading stocks here. The outside price to-day for turkey is 10c. Ducks are worth 9c. and geese 8c. Fowls sell at 30 to 40c. and chickens from 35 to 45c.

The beef market is very good, small bringing from $5 to $6, and heavy from $7 to $8. Fishermen taking home winter provisions caused the little boom in beef. Most every fisherman takes home a quarter at this season. A representative of a Toronto house is here trying to place a carload of dressed beef. He asks from 5½ to 6¼c., landed here, but does not appear to meet with many ready buyers.

Small dressed hogs are in demand this week. Sales were made at 5½c., but a nice article would bring more money.

Lambs sell at from $1.50 to $2.60, but sellers are offering them at 3½c., live weight, in quantities of five or more. Mutton finds few purchasers at 2¼ and 3c.

There will be some little trade in eggs from now till after Christmas. Island stocks (cold storage) are offered at 16c. Fresh stocks are worth 20c., and limed stocks sell as low as 14c.

Prince Edward Island produce continues to arrive and shippers are not making much money. Potatoes bought on the Island at 13c. sold here this week at 12c. That, of course, was a lot of 300 bushels, the captain of the schooner selling in order to clear for home before his harbor is frozen up. They can be bought in quantities of 50 bushels at 14c. Sales were made all the way from 12 to 20c., which is the outside figure, except for lots of five bushels or under, which command 24c.

Flour stands about at last week's figures, with only the ordinary business doing.

All other lines are quiet and unchanged.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Tait, of Cawker & Tait, Bowmanville, is in town this week. One of his first calls was to see THE CANADIAN GROCER, which he says is the most welcome visitor he has to his store. He reports business good, with splendid prospects for Christmas trade, goods for which he is now buying. Crockery is very active in their town.

Charles A. Leaney, W. H. Gillard & Co.'s genial North Shore traveler, has just come back from an extended trip and reports things along his route as "looking up" considerably. The retailers, he says, have begun to feel the reviving effects of sleighing and expect a first-class winter, from a trade standpoint.

Mrs. Ross, wife of Mr. Ross, one of Raglan's merchants, was in Toronto last week.

IN THE DOMAIN OF RETAILERS.

James Steap, provision dealer, Clinton, has added a grocery department to his business. He has put in a full line of groceries, and will make a specialty of this branch of his business.

W. Gowdy, of Guelph, has made substantial improvements in his store, among which is a new plate-glass window. He has not over-looked his stock, for a full line of fancy groceries has been put in for the holiday trade.

James Steiss, of Berlin, who is well known as a purveyor of fancy groceries and imported goods, has had his store remodelled lately.

J. P. Tippling, of Goderich, is opening up in the grocery business in the premises formerly occupied by H. E. Snells, which were burned out some time ago.

P. Anderson, of the "Marvelous Tea Store," Guelph, has put in a new plate-glass front in his store, and otherwise improved his premises. He has a stock of holiday goods in keeping with the new surroundings.

James McCrea, of Guelph, has put a cash railroad service in his store, and added other up-to-date innovations.

A. E. French, general merchant and postmaster, of Copper Cliff, has sold out his stock-in-trade, post-office and livery business to Jas. Hamilton & Sons, of Glen Huron. Mr. Fred. Hamilton is managing the business there.

PRACTICAL PUBLICITY.

By NATH'L C. FOWLER, JR.

No. 1.

NEW DRY GOODS STORE,
No. 283 Broadway, opposite
Washington Hall.

A. T. STEWART informs his friends and the public that he has taken the above store, where he offers for sale, wholesale and retail, a general assortment of fresh and seasonable DRY GOODS; a choice assortment of Irish Linens, Lawns, French Cambrics, Damasks, Diaper, &c.

N.B.—The above goods have been carefully selected and bought for cash, and will be sold on reasonable terms to those who will please favor him with their commands.

The above advertisement, greatly reduced from the original, appeared in The New York Daily Advertiser, on September 22, 1823. It represents the initial business announcement of the greatest merchant of his time, or of any other time, and it presents a style three quarters of a century old, when advertising was a luxury, and not indulged in by more than one merchant out of a half a dozen. There is no record to prove that this advertisement was successful in the day of it. It was certainly better than the majority, and the best, however poor, generally succeeds. Half the advertisements, even in our progressive cities, are close copies of this old style. Merchants who believe in progressive methods of business don't always realise the necessity of modernism in advertising. The world moves, and business with it. However successful our grandfathers' advertisers may have been, their method cannot, in the nature of things, be profitable to-day. The man who follows old styles of advertising is as foolish as he who tries to sell hoopskirts to Fifth Avenue women. The successful merchant is he who adapts his business and advertising to the times, allowing his advertisements to contain all the good of the old style and all the good of the new style, a happy compromise between present over-originality and former over-conventionality. I present the advertisement, rewritten and reset, following a style of modern success.

New Store

My new store is open—everybody is convenient to it—283 Broadway, facing Washington Hall—dry goods and all that dry goods stand for—only the best for the best people, whether they have much money or not.

Yours for business,
A. T. STEWART.

"This has been an exceptionally good year so far for the sale of Mediterranean fruits," says W. H. Gillard & Co., of Hamilton, who are large handlers of this commodity. Their importations this year have been nearly double that of any former season.

"Although prepared for a big fall trade, the rush we are presently experiencing is quite beyond our most sanguine expectations," say Robert Greig & Co., of Montreal. "Our entire staff is working day and night trying to keep up with the orders."

Digby finnan haddies are making a name for themselves—that is, the fresh smoked—the shipments of canned being already very large. They are being sent to Winnipeg, and even to British Columbia. In the latter place they retail at 25 to 30c. per pound.

One of the best Montreal firms are offering at special figures all lines of goods for which they are agents for Christmas and New Year's trade. Those goods are guaranteed equal, if not superior, in quality to any other on the market, although they are of a lower price. See Laporte, Martin & Cie.'s advertisement in this number for details.

COMMUNICATION WITH FRANCE.

Further consideration of the subject of direct trade between France and Canada has created, according to the Ottawa correspondent of The Mail and Empire, a doubt in the mind of the Minister of Trade and Commerce as to whether better results might not be obtained by trading at Bordeaux, or some Mediterranean port, with an extension to some Italian port, than could be expected by trading to Boulogne or Havre, or any other part in the north of France. It appears that the chief demand for Canadian lumber and fish comes from the south of France, and it is questionable therefore whether it might not be better to have direct connection with the south than with the north. Again, Italy is proposing to meet Canada to discuss reciprocal trade, and it is not at all unlikely that negotiations now going on may result in something practical. In that event a line to the south of France might easily be extended to include a port or ports in Italy. Besides, it must be remembered that an existing line, the Hansa, gives us direct communication with Hamburg and Antwerp.

JAPAN TEA SHIPMENT.

Yokohama mails are to Nov. 15th, Smith, Baker & Co., and report upon tea as follows: Our markets have remained without any distinctive feature of interest, with a comparative small business doing at the two ports, operations having been curtailed by the poorer assortment of teas on offer as well as by the firm attitude of sellers. Yokohama—Arrivals, 4,801 piculs; settlements, 3,808 piculs; stock, 5,090 piculs. Hiogo—Arrivals, 5,080 piculs; settlements, 5,110 piculs; stock, 2,465 piculs. Settlements at both ports amount to 386,156 piculs, against 365,221 piculs at the same time last year, and 349,820 piculs in 1893. Comparison of tea export:

SUGAR IN EUROPE.

As regards the European sugar situation, says Wittett & Gray's Statistical, the crop deficiencies continue to be variously estimated from 807,000 tons to 1,050,000 tons. From the low point of 10s. for immediate delivery the market has slowly improved to 10s. 6d., and appears to be gaining strength and stability as it improves, so that it is not likely to recede again to the recent low point, and is more likely to take on a steady improvement in harmony with the statistical position of the present campaign, more particularly should the necessities of our refiners induce them to make early purchases in Europe.

NOVA SCOTIA FIBRED CODFISH

REPRESENTS the highest achievement in the art of curing and preparing Codfish ready for cooking.

NOTHING is used in this product but the finest of shore Codfish especially cured and dried for it.

THE disagreeable odor usually considered to be a necessary evil to be endured while cooking Codfish will be found to be entirely lacking in this.

EVERY particle of skin and bone being removed and the water evaporated, there is absolutely no waste. The contents of each package, therefore, is worth to the house-keeper about three times its weight in Codfish as ordinarily sold.

PUT UP in half-pound cartons, 3 doz. cartons to the case, and sold by the wholesale and retail grocers throughout Canada.

INNOCENCE AND GUILT.

EDITOR GROCER,—That little story by "Rambler" which appeared in THE GROCER two weeks ago has its sequel. It runs thus: A certain Mr. ——— who sometimes, it is said, writes up stories for a certain trade journal, and who is known among the "boys" as the gentleman of "many lines," one day last week while talking to a certain grocer in his store, spied the Mr. ——— (who, it is said, is the one who "betrayed himself" spoken of in the little story) alighting from a street car, and, making his way for the store in which the gentleman of "many lines" was in, when suddenly he complained of a pain in his stomach, and asked the grocer if he might go below, which request was granted him, nothing suspicious at this time being suspected by the grocer for the sudden collapse of this gentleman of "many lines."

On Mr. ——— entering the store in his usual gay and gentlemanly manner, he addressed the proprietor with the usual "Good morning," and, turning to another traveler who was waiting to do business, said: "I suppose you are first." "Oh, no," said he, "I am through, but here's someone's satchel on the counter, it looks more in your line than mine." Mr. ——— smilingly replied, "Then if you are through I suppose I am next, as the satchel can't speak for itself without its owner." Mr. ——— did his business quickly, and had just got through with the proprietor as the gentleman who had been so suddenly taken ill came up from below, blushing and seemingly a little embarrassed, muttering that he never before remembered being taken sick as suddenly. He thought perhaps he had taken cold, and with some little more conversation about the weather, etc., he and Mr. ——— left the store together, apparently very friendly. Another gentleman dropping in just at the time, remarked, as he entered, "Why that's so-and-so and Mr. ——— just gone out. They seem quite friendly." "Why not?" said the proprietor. "Oh, you can't have read the story in THE GROCER last week, and I'll wager a new hat that Mr. ——— hasn't either, or you would have heard something about it when they met." "Is that so?" said the grocer on hearing the story, "why that will account then for So-and-so wanting to go below so suddenly when he saw him coming in just now. Yours, etc.,

OBSERVER.

INCREASE IN SALT EXPORTS.

The shipments of English salt during the month of October were 58,679 tons. Rock salt, 7,243 tons. This was a net increase of 18,352 tons over the same month of 1894. The exports to the United States, British North America, West Indies, Central America, South America and Africa have been above the average, and the coastwise shipments have been about what is customary at this period of the year.

There is always a "best" in everything.

This time it is starch—Edwardsburg Starch. Anything we didn't know about making starch when we commenced business in 1858, we have since learned, and as we manufacture from nothing but purest selected corn we feel justified in calling our preparations "the best."

DROPS FROM THE EDITOR'S PEN.

A merry Christmas.

Success is won by men of action, not dreamers.

Lard is low; but it is a pretty slippery "customer."

Cleanliness is next to godliness. How is it with you, brother?

Bright new features every day are what will make a business pay.

He who saves his discounts saves himself from a multitude of troubles.

Put on a Christmas smile and keep it on till next Christmas: and then renew it.

Many obstacles to trade will fly asunder when merchants get their heads together.

Do not take any "stock" in your memory as a receptacle for keeping account of your stock.

Store windows were made to show goods, not hide them. It is well to keep this fact in mind.

We all believe in the perseverance of the merchants if we do not the perseverance of the saints.

There is one feature about advertisements along the route of railways: you cannot read them as you ride.

Men behind the counter who are not cleanly dressed can scarcely be expected to have good address.

The man who invented matches is dead. It is to be hoped he has not gone where Lucifer is king.

It is too bad that the man who was robbed of $900 in Kingston the other day was a commercial traveler. Every Knight of the Grip will now be considered a man of wealth until some Bill Sykes learns to the contrary.

System is the oil of gladness which obviates friction and facilitates the transaction of business.

Reading develops ideas, but do not spend all your time in reading: work off your ideas before they get stale.

A conscience void of offence may the price slaughterer have, but he is doing an illegitimate business nevertheless.

Dust is tolerated in the flour mill because it cannot be helped, but there is no toleration of it in the store because it can be helped.

A regular advertisement, like a substantial bank account, indicates that the merchant is in good standing in the community.

Just as essential to the success of the business is goodwill between the partners as is goodwill in the shape of dollars in the business.

The intrinsic merit of a thing may be good, but a good salesman and a bright advertisement are necessary to securing a customer for it.

The cutting which has been going on in foreign dried fruits has precluded the possibility of the wholesaler gathering much fruit in the way of dollars.

Now that the war is over in North Ontario, the merchants in that riding will be able to turn their attention to business and other arts of peace.

The merriment of a merchant's Christmas does not all depend on the dollars he takes in during the holiday season, but a lack of dollars alloys the Christmas festivities. May readers of THE CANADIAN GROCER have many dollars and much merriment this Christmas season.

Many a merchant who has slid to the bottom of the hill would have been on top to-day had he used a little sand of common sense when he first began to descend.

The difference between an engine without steam and a business with a know-nothing merchant at its head, is that while the one will not go at all the other will go backward to destruction.

When politicians cringe one-half as much to business interests of the country as they now do to sectarian interests the dawning of the mercantile millennium will not be many moons distant.

Young men who are now enjoying toboggan rides should be careful to become possessed with the idea that success in life is obtained, not by sliding down hill, but by climbing up.

An Atlanta grocer was arrested for kissing a 13-year-old girl who came into his store to make a purchase. Had it been a 43-year-old girl it would have been a deed void of offence.

The Customs Department was for a week without a captain or even a second in command; the Controller had resigned and the acting commissioner was in Europe.

It is to oblivion and not eminence that some young men are opening up a road, while they imagine they are cutting a swath in the world that will lead them up to everlasting prominence.

The merchants of a Missouri town are employing ladies, pretty ladies of course, to collect bad debts; and the innovation has proved successful. It is said that a woman always does have her way. And why should she not collect bad debts as well as get seal sacks when she has set her mind upon them?

THE HISTORY AND CHARACTERISTICS OF CEYLON TEA

BY PETER M. SHORT, TALAWAKELE, CEYLON.

A GLIMPSE at the tea industry of Ceylon. The traveler through Ceylon is not so much struck with the spicy breezes, of which Heber sings in his missionary hymn, as he is with the fine aroma which is wafted along from hundreds of tea factories. The tea factories in Ceylon have sprung up like mushrooms.

The tea plant is not a native of Ceylon. It was introduced about the middle of the present century. The first attempts at tea making did not prove successful. It cost about £5 per pound to make. Nothing daunted at this heavy cost, Mr. Worms persevered with his experiments and distributed plants in different districts. The company of which he was representative changed hands, and the new company, seeing there was a bright future before the tea plant in its new habitat, directed their attention to its cultivation. Their efforts, too, were not crowned with the salutary success anticipated; and it was allowed to lie in the background, while the coffee industry, which at this time was proving itself a perfect gold mine of wealth, received their careful attention. The Fates, however, doomed coffee. First one disease attacked the trees, weakening the plant considerably. The climax was reached when the hemileia vastatrix made its appearance. The impoverished plant, long the prey of the leaf disease, soon withered away before the attack of the hungry army. Ruin was carried through the length and breadth of the island. Hundreds were rendered penniless. This was in the latter end of the sixties and early in the seventies.

Just at this time the cinchona plant was the great rage. The few attempts which had been made proved most successful; and as a drowning man grasps at a straw, so the coffee planters of Ceylon laid hold of cinchona, with a view of recouping their lost fortunes. It proved itself a shelter in the time of storm, but only of a very short duration. The supply of cinchona soon became greater than the demand, and the price of the bark fell from 7s. 6d. a lb. to a less number of pence, a price which scarcely paid for the gathering and curing of the bark. What was now to be done? The planters were driven to their wits' ends. Many left the island for pasture new. Others began to look out for fresh products. Tea was for a long time looked on with fear and trembling. As the old Scotch saying goes, "Once bitten twice shy." But the Ceylon planters had been twice bitten and they were afraid lest they should be bitten a third time, through not being able properly to prepare the leaf after it had been cultivated. However, this difficulty was overcome and the tea industry increased by leaps and bounds.

SOIL AND CLIMATE.

The plant thrives in every district in the island from sea level almost to the top of Pidurutallagalla, or 7,000 ft. above sea level. The soil of Ceylon is most admirably adapted for the cultivation of tea, being very deep. The climate is also everything that can be desired, with an abundant rainfall all the year round. The tea bush in Ceylon yields all the year round, while in China and many parts of India a crop is got but once a year for about six months.

Statistics are very dry reading, but they are nevertheless most interesting, and those relating to the tea industry are the most surprising of any industrial statistics on record during the present century. The statistics here recorded are from Mr. Ferguson's "Handbook of Ceylon," one of the most interesting publications of its kind published. It ought to be in the hands of everyone who contemplates visiting the Spicy Isle. The figures quoted below are from the first introduction of tea to the present year. To give the annual returns would take up too much time and space, so that the triennial tables will be given only.

With results such as these it is not to be wondered at that Ceylon is classed as one of the finest tea-producing countries in the world. It takes five years from the time the seed is planted till the tea bush comes to maturity.

CULTIVATION AND PREPARATION.

No doubt many of your readers would like to know more about the preparation of tea. I will, therefore, give a brief description of the various stages through which it has to pass from the seed to the tea-cup. The plant itself belongs to the same family as the camellia; it is known botanically as the camellia thea. It is a very hardy evergreen and grows to a height of about 17 feet, when allowed to run its full course. On a tea estate it never attains much more than one-fifth of this height, being periodically pruned down almost to the ground. The leaves are of a leathery nature, with serrated edges, not unlike those of the ordinary camellia. The flower looks like a small white camellia, only about one and half inches in diameter. It is pure white with a beautiful yellow centre of numerous stamens; its odor is very slight. The seed is an irregularly shaped capsule about the size of a small walnut, with two or more cells, each containing a kernel not unlike a monkey nut. It is from the seed the plants are propagated.

The first step in the propagation of plants is the germinating of the seed. Before placing the seed in the ground, it is first allowed to burst forth from its embryonic covering. Then comes the setting out in nurseries specially prepared for the reception of the delicate plants. The nursery requires a great deal of care and attention, copious supplies of water having to be given to the thirsty seedling. Many planters do not have the nursery dug out of the earth, each sprouting seed being placed in a small basket and covered in with earth. The object of this is to have as great a ball of the mother earth around the young bush when planting out as possible, and also to protect the tap root, which is the most vital part of the plant.

While the young plants are coming to maturity the work of clearing the ground for their reception is going on in many places. Large tracks of forest have to be cleared away. In order to clear the jungle the underwood is set on fire, and when it has burnt itself out the charred trunks of the huge trees stand. They are then cut down. In many instances the roots are left in the ground. When the timber is removed the work of draining and roadmaking commences. In the high hilly districts the drains are run right round the hills in order to break the great rush of surface water during the rainy season. They are generally about 40 yards apart. The next step is the lining. The lines are run so that they intersect each other at intervals of from 3 to 4 feet apart. At the point where they cut one another a hole is dug for the reception of the young plant; this hole is about 18 inches deep. The ground is now ready for the reception of the tender roots.

When the seeds have been propagated in a nursery great care has to be exercised in lifting them for transplanting to keep as large a ball of the mother earth around them as possible in order not to injure the tap root. The basket plan is the best, but it is very

We beg to thank our friends who have given us all, or such a large share, of their trade for the year now closing. expensive. The basket and all, with its delicate contents, are placed into the hole and the earth is packed in round about it. Once planted out very little attention is necessary, save the keeping of ground clear of weeds and the filling in of spaces where the young shoot has not taken root. Planting is generally done during the rainy season. From the time of planting out till the first tea is plucked a period of about three years elapses. But, as already stated, the plant is not at maturity till its fifth year.

THE PLUCKING

is done by men, women and children, each armed with a basket slung over his or her shoulder, into which the delicate leaf is dropped. In plucking it is only the young leaf bud and the two next leaves that are taken. Great care has to be exercised in handling the tender shoots, not to crush or break the leaf in any way. If by accident the leaf gets broken, the part exposed to the air undergoes rapid oxidation, and then putrefaction takes place before the leaf is withered, thus spoiling the tea by giving red leaf. After a certain quantity of leaf has been plucked it is dispatched from the field to the factory, where it is weighed before spreading out to wither.

THE WITHERING

is carried out on lofts, filled with tats. The tats consist of tiers of trays arranged one above the other. Most commonly they consist of long stretches of jute hessian between four upright posts. The leaf is spread very thinly over these, and allowed to wither, the time occupied varying according to the amount of moisture in the atmosphere. In order to hasten the process fans are used to draw the hot air from the firing machines over the tats. The object of withering is to drive off the excess of moisture and lessen the turgidity of the cells. When the proper degree of wither has been reached, the leaves are soft and flexible, and do not break on crushing with the hand.

ROLLING.

The next stage is the rolling. The object of this process is to give the leaf the curl so familiar to tea, and also to break up the cell walls. This is carried out by a machine called the roller. There are several kinds of rollers, but the one most in use is that known as Jackson's rapid roller. This consists of a table which has a circular motion. On the top of this, a plate also moves in a circle; this plate is fitted with a jacket. On one side of the jacket there is a door for feeding in the leaf. A cap fits into this jacket, and can be raised and lowered at will by means of screws in order to regulate the pressure. On the upper surface of the table and the under surface of the plate short bars are nailed in order to give a sort of screwing movement to the leaf. This method is far more satisfactory, and by far more cleanly, than the horrid old-fashioned method still in vogue amongst the Chinese of hand rolling. Hand rolling dates away back to the time of Confucius. The machine rolled tea is far more economical, owing to the entire breaking up of the cells, thereby exposing a greater area to the action of the water. Hence the reason that Ceylon teas go further than China, two pounds of Ceylon being equal to three of China tea. The time occupied in rolling is from 30 to 40 minutes. During this process the temperature of the leaf rises. This is partly due to the friction, and also to a process of oxidation that takes place. After the proper amount of rolling has been done the mass of bruised leaves is removed from the roller by means of a trap door on the table. It is then put into the roll breaker. There are various patterns of this machine. The object of them all is to break up the ball into which the leaves have got during rolling and also to separate the finer leaves from the coarser. The former pass through the meshes of the sieve which forms part of the machine, the coarser ones passing over. The fine leaves are then set aside to ferment, while the coarser ones are again put into the roller in order to break up the cells entirely, which has not taken place in the first rolling, owing to the density of the tissues. When the rolling process is complete the leaves have a greenish appearance. They are then set aside to ferment,

Open Pan Salt

What is it? It is salt made by the OPEN PAN PROCESS. This is the method of manufacturing salt universally adopted in England, where so much good salt is made.

OPEN PAN SALT is no experiment. It has been tried for years and never found wanting. It produces a medium grain salt that is far better for all ordinary purposes than a very fine grain.

as it is improperly called, oxidation being the change that takes place and not fermentation. In this process the green color changes to a coppery tint. The leaf is then ready for the last stage in the manufacture of tea, namely, firing.

THE FIRING

is done by machines. They all have the same function to perform, that is, to drive off the last trace of moisture present in the leaf. In all of them hot air is either passed over or drawn through the leaf, the temperature varying according to the machine used, from 180 deg. F. to 250 deg. There is still room for improving the firing of tea, in order to retain the essential oil, which is at present driven off. This is obviated by placing the leaf into a highly heated machine at first, in order to coagulate the albumen of the leaf, and thereby prevent the escape of the essential oil. When once the firing is done the made tea has a fine crisp feeling and a most delightful aroma.

SORTING.

The next thing is the sorting of the various grades of tea: The Broken Pekoe, Pekoe and Pekoe Souchong. This is done by means of sieves of different sized meshes. The Broken Pekoe is the finest tea, and is composed of the leaf bud. In it are the little golden tips which fetch such high prices in the market. Pekoe is the leaf next to the bud, and Pekoe Souchong is the second developed leaf. There is also dust made in the process of sifting. This consists of the serrated edges of the leaf which break off in the process of sifting or sorting. Such is a brief account of the history of Ceylon tea.

TANNIN AND ITS EFFECTS.

In conclusion it would be well just to look at some of its properties. It is not the place here to enter into an elaborate discussion of the physiological action or the chemical composition of tea in general, but a brief notice may be useful. First, let us look at the essential ingredients in tea. First, there is that substance, tannin, which has perturbed the minds of so many, and has given to tea a bad name for causing dyspepsia. The evil effect of tea is not so much due to tannin as to other principles, in many cases entirely extraneous to tea. The Chinese are famed for doctoring up tea with Prussian blue, sulphate of copper and other injurious chemicals, which no doubt have led to tea being injurious to digestion. From experiments carried out by the writer, the action of tannin is merely mechanical in retarding the process of digestion; it does not act as some people try to imply, by tanning the mucous membrane of the stomach. The effect of the tannin present in tea is more than counterbalanced by the action of the second ingredient, caffeine or theine. It is to this alkaloid that the stimulating action of tea is due. The chemical formula for caffeine is $C_8H_{10}N_4O_2$ and the name given by chemists is trimethylxanthin. It is thus built up from xanthin, one of the essential substances for the nutrition of muscle, and from alcohol. It is rather bad to disturb the minds of the total abstainers by telling them that tea contains alcohol, but the percentage is very small, although in combination with xanthine it forms a better stimulant than pure alcohol, is not so rapid in action and its effects are more lasting. The secretions of all the glands are increased, the flow of gastric juice is also perceptibly increased, and thus helps to counteract the action of tannin very considerably. The next thing is the essential oil, to which the flavor of tea is due. It is of little other value.

There is also an alkaloid in tea, which is the cause of the bitterness; it is only extracted on allowing tea to infuse for more than five minutes. This may yet prove to be the injurious agent in tea, and not the tannin. In fact, it has been noticed in many cases that it was only by infusing tea more than five minutes that the evil was done. Therefore, after infusing tea for five minutes the leaves should be removed and treated as poison.

RELATIVE PERCENTAGE OF TANNIN IN CEYLON AND CHINA TEAS.

The late eminent English surgeon, Sir Andrew Clarke, condemned Ceylon tea most unjustly as containing more tannin than China. According to Mr. John Hughes, of London, who has carried out elaborate analyses of Ceylon and China teas, a five minutes' infusion of Ceylon tea contains 8.60 per cent. tannin; of China 7.80 per cent. tannin. This is accounted for, as already stated, by the entire breaking up of the cells in the Ceylon made tea, owing to the better method of rolling. This is easily demonstrated by examining the leaves side by side under an ordinary microscope. Ceylon tea contains also about 2 per cent. more caffeine than China tea does. A simple rule of three calculation will prove that a properly infused cup of Ceylon tea contains more caffeine and less tannin than China tea does, two pounds of Ceylon tea being capable of doing the work of three pounds of China. Thus: 14,000 grs. = 2 pounds; 100 grs. contain 8.60 of tannin, therefore 100 : 14,000 :: 8.60 : 1,204 grs. tannin in two pounds Ceylon tea. Three lbs. = 21,000 grs.; 100 : 21,000 :: 7.80 : 1,638 tannin in three pounds China; or, in other words, the quantity of China tea required to do the work of Ceylon tea would contain one fourth more tannin and a much more considerable per cent. less caffeine.

"RAMBLER" TO "OBSERVER."

EDITOR GROCER,—I write this because I wish it to be distinctly understood that the article "Observer" refers to was prompted by no personal ill-feeling against him. It seems some would-be mischief-maker has been trying to convey an opposite impression. It was written simply as a warning to all travelers to be careful in passing judgment when asked, lest they, in their haste, might fall into the same error. Many is the smile I had over "Observer's" letter, but after thinking seriously over it, I have wondered if either he or I can afford time to throw dirt for other parties to laugh at. For my part, out of the few lines I handle there is one I do not handle, and that line is dirt. I say few lines, for "Observer" handles hundreds of lines more than I do, but I have made a good fat living out of the few, and intend to stick to them; and I am always open for another real good line, but it must be good. We have only to reflect a little to see how necessary it is for both of us to be thankful.

I am not a little surprised at a man of "Observer's" age and experience trying to create a ridicule on a man who is trying hard to make an honest living by drawing people's attention to the number of lines he handles. I have been able to satisfy the proprietors of them all, as references will show. Then, again, I am surprised that a man of "Observer's" profession has nothing but the unclean suggestions of others to offer. Let them throw their own dirt. Let them be their own scavengers. In regard to the grocer and the other man, in looking over my psychological study I find that they are both laboring under what is known as an illusionary delusion, that is, if they meant it and did not mean it as a joke. It is getting near New Year, so with ill-feelings towards none, I am yours, etc.,

RAMBLER.

P.S.—There is one thing I can conscientiously say, and that is, that I have always done him more good than harm.

CHEAP ADVERTISING.

The biggest mistake I ever knew a merchant to make, said the lounge, was when one of my friends concluded to spend $70 to have illustrated signs painted on fences and barns in the country. The pictures were all humorous and in colors, to be painted on a white background. One was a bullfrog reaching out after a bug; another a dog catching a fellow by the seat of his pants, and another a snake and a bird, a sort of a take-off on the "early bird catches the first worm." Well, the painter used whitewash and cheap colors. After the first rain, says a writer in Farm Machinery, the bullfrog picture and the words of the advertisement got wonderfully blended together, and the bulldog was made to chew the advertiser's name instead of the other fellow's trousers; at least that is the way the blur made it appear. After the second rain there was only a vague sort of an indication of an advertisement, the water having washed out some words and letters and leaving others untouched. For instance, the line "Purchase Your Buggies" on the sign appeared as "Chase our Bug."

KNOX'S EGG PRESERVER

FRESH EGGS THE WHOLE YEAR
AT THE LOWEST COST

WHAT WE CLAIM FOR EGG PRESERVER—It is harmless ; no poison ; does not discolor the shells ; costs less than $\frac{1}{2}$ c. per dozen to lay down eggs ; a child can use it ; eggs do not need any turning or other attention after once treating ; lay them away in a box or basket in a cool, dry place ; you can lay down your winter supply when eggs are cheap ; a merchant when overstocked can preserve his eggs and hold for a rise instead of being forced to sell for fear they would spoil on his hands ; the farmer and egg raiser need not sell their eggs until prices suit them.

Heretofore eggs bought in the warm weather have to be used AT ONCE, or they are lost. With the aid of the Egg Preserver you can not only save this loss, but lay down in summer all the eggs you will want in the fall and winter, which will make a nice sum on your investment. This new compound was discovered last year, and before trying to put it on the market it was thoroughly tested so that we might know if we dare put OUR OWN GUARANTEE on it. This we now stand ready to do, and our guarantee is : Egg Preserver, when PROPERLY USED ON STRICTLY FRESH EGGS, will keep them as good as the day they were laid down for ONE YEAR, or MONEY REFUNDED.

We have tests that have been made over 13 months. Twenty dozen of eggs were purchased and laid down October 1st, 1894 ; these were broken from time to time to see how they would stand. The last lot were broken November 9th, 1895, 13 months and 9 days from the time of laying them down. These were tested by good judges, and their opinion was that they were fresh laid eggs.

THE VACANT CONTROLLERSHIP.

MANY rumors have been rife regarding the Government's policy towards the Customs Controllership, and all sorts and conditions of men have been mentioned as likely to succeed to the office. The latest names connected with the position are that of Col. Prior, of Victoria, B. C., whom it is understood the Government has decided to take into the Cabinet, and Hon. J. F. Wood, now Controller of Inland Revenue.

Col. Prior is senior member of the hardware and implement firm of E. G. Prior & Co., Victoria, and is most certainly the class of material the Cabinet badly needs. Whether, however, there is any substantial reason for coupling his name with the Controllership, or whether he is the best material procurable for the position, is another thing. Mr. Wood is a lawyer.

But whoever the Hon. Clarke Wallace's successor happens to be, one thing he must be: he must be a business man; not a type that has obtained his alleged qualifications because he once occupied a bed with a merchant or because, forsooth, he has a few hundred dollars invested in the shares of a joint stock affair, but because he has the hard business sense which is only gathered by years of practical experience behind the counter or in the warehouse.

There are, no doubt, scores of men in Parliament and hundreds of men in the country with, to use a slang term, a "pull," who feel themselves qualified to fill the office. It is true that for some positions in or under the Government the chief duty which those filling them are called upon to do is to draw their salary at regular and stated periods. But the Controllership of Customs requires the additional ability of actually controlling the department over which he presides. Daily a multiplicity of nice distinctions are submitted to the Controller for his consideration, nice distinctions upon which none but a business man de facto can possibly give an intelligent ruling. May as well expect a man who has never studied astronomy to give a learned dissertation upon the heavenly bodies as to expect a man who knows nothing of the practical in business to solve the problems which arise in a department which so appertains to the commercial interests of the country.

With so many around it hungry for office, the Government will no doubt find it difficult to select a man for the position because of his fitness and not by reason of his services to party. But the Government will strengthen or weaken itself in the commercial community just in proportion as it complies with the demands of the business men of the country.

THE CHRISTMAS PRESENT EVIL.

A MEAN merchant is an abomination. But during the Christmas holiday season some merchants practise liberality that is little short of an abomination. We refer to the custom of giving Christmas presents.

It is more blessed to give than to receive—under certain conditions. When love or sympathy is the motive that actuates the giver, then and only then does the proverb apply.

It is not for philanthropic objects that a man starts a store. He goes into business for the purpose of at least making a living. The giving of Christmas presents is therefore not a natural concomitant of business. Men go into business to buy and sell.

To lay down a hard and fast rule in the premises is not advisable even if it is possible. Where the merchant can afford it, the giving of a present is sometimes politic. And because a thing is politic it does not follow that it is always mercenary. A slight token of remembrance here and there may prove a good investment. Where it promises such who shall say him nay. Nor should anyone say nay to a known and deserving case of charity.

The evil of the present-giving custom and what has given rise to the crusade against it is the indiscriminate giving of presents.

We one and all condemn the merchant who sells his goods at a price which will not afford him a living profit. And the indiscriminate giving of Christmas presents is in the same category: a merchant cannot give to every Tom, Dick and Harry, or Tom, Dick and Harry's sisters cousins and aunts and be just to himself. And we all know what Shakespeare says about the man who is not just to himself.

Give where it will pay you to do so, give if you can to cases of deserving charity, but discriminate in the bestowal of your goods or means, as you would or should in the matter of credit.

DIRECT IMPORTS OF CEYLON TEA.

A FEATURE of the tea trade on the Toronto market during the past few weeks is the relatively better demand there has been for Ceylon teas compared with those of other growths.

This is, of course, not the season when teas exhibit activity, but the chief reason for the movement in question is the exceptionally fine values that have been shown in shipments from Ceylon direct, buyers having been able to do better than by purchasing on the London market.

The teas which have lately been experiencing the activity in question were purchased in Colombo with the special object of suiting the Canadian market.

The development of the consumption in Canada of British East India teas in general and Ceylon teas in particular has been surprising of late years.

Unfortunately, the returns furnished by the blue books of the Dominion do not go sufficiently into details to enable us to arrive at the exact individual shipments of Indian and Ceylon teas into the country. Of course, we know that the black teas imported from Great Britain are very largely the product of British India, but one is naturally curious to know the proportion that is from India proper and from Ceylon. But until the Government sees fit to classify the imports of teas from these two places, we must make the best we can out of the data as it is furnished us.

One thing we can learn from the Government figures as now adduced, and that is that the direct shipments of tea from British East India, while very small compared with what we get via London, are gradually increasing. For instance, in 1890, out of all descriptions of tea imported—blacks, Japans and greens—our direct importations from British India (India and Ceylon) were about one pound to five hundred pounds. Three years later the proportion was one to two hundred and fifty pounds. The year following (1894), the proportion was as one to one hundred and twenty-five. The Trade and Navigation Returns for the fiscal year ending June last have not yet been issued, but it is likely that they will show a still further increase in the direct importations. At least, that is the general impression of importers whom THE CANADIAN GROCER has approached on the subject. "There is infinitely more coming direct this year than last year" was the way one importer put it.

According to a return just furnished by a London, England, tea house, the exports of Indian tea to Canada from London during the nine months ending October 31st last were 694,539 pounds, against 575,784 the same time a year ago, an increase of over 17 per cent. The relative figures for Ceylon tea were 984,475 and 842,099, or an increase of over 14½ per cent.

A BUSINESS ESSENTIAL.

THERE are many things essential to a successful trade. Among them none is scarcely more important than stock-taking.

A merchant, like a mariner, must take his bearings periodically if he is to know his position.

Many a merchant who has followed the way of the bankrupt would not have done so had he known in the early drifting stages the way he was going.

Just as "a stitch in time saves nine," so the discovery of a leakage in business often means its stoppage, for stock-taking is something more than merely ascertaining the volume of business transacted and the amount of money made or lost. In addition to these it implies a careful diagnosis. Success in business is only obtained by skilful manipulation. Not only is it essential that every possible advantage shall be appropriated, but it is just as necessary that every weight be thrown aside as far as possible. Where these weights are and the nature of many of them can only be ascertained after careful investigation. And the best way to make this investigation is by taking stock at least once a year.

The stock-taking season is close at hand. In fact, as far as the wholesalers are concerned, it is already here, and has been for two or three weeks.

Beyond comprehension as it may seem to some, yet it is nevertheless a fact: there are numbers of retail merchants that never have an inventory taken of their stock, at least till the assignee is deputed to do so.

Besides discovering leaks, and revealing the merchant's financial condition, stock-taking unearths slow-selling lines, thereby determining action in regard to buying in future, so that bad selling and unprofitable lines may be eschewed as much as possible. What are the best selling lines are often discovered along with the revelation of what are the worst sellers.

Every merchant should know his business; and unless he has taken stock he has not this knowledge.

THOSE LOW-PRICED TOMATOES.

Some weeks ago reference was made by THE CANADIAN GROCER to the fact that low offers of a large outside lot of canned tomatoes had disturbed the market at Montreal. These goods were offered at an abnormally low figure, but had no influence on the position of prime brands of the vegetable. They have been hawked around the market ever since without finding a buyer until the close of last week, when it is understood that the entire lot of 5,000 cases or so were closed out to a western buyer. The price was kept private, but it is generally believed to be even below what the line was originally offered for, as first reported in these columns.

The clearance of this lot off the market puts the stocks in and around Montreal in a much better position.

As to the destination of the goods under consideration, and whether the buyer has them placed, nothing definite is known. The trade in Montreal generally class the purchase as a purely speculative one.

CHAT WITH A MAN FROM JAPAN.

Mr. Low, of C. P. Low & Co., Yokohama and Kobe, Japan, is making a tour of the firm's agencies in Canada and the United States. He is accompanied by Mr. Wainwright, of Chicago, manager of the business in America. Mr. Low reached Toronto this week, and on Tuesday I had a brief chat with him in the office of the firm's local agent, Mr. W. H. Halford. Our conversation naturally turned upon the subject of Japan teas, particularly in regard to their situation in the country of production.

"The principal feature in regard to teas in Japan," said Mr. Low in reply to a query of mine, "is that the crop this year followed a crop that was exceptionally good in leaf, cup and quality. What the people got last year they were naturally anxious to get again this year. Instead of being equal, however, early teas this year were poor in cup and leaf, and higher in first cost. Under these conditions it was extremely difficult to do business.

"There has also been a scarcity of low grades all through the year. Teas which we last year sold on this market at 11 and 12c. per pound were good value, but it has been impossible to get them this season. During September and October, and even now in Kobe teas were to be had at low prices, but they were late teas and not good quality. You simply got a fair leaf, but you did not get anything like the quality you did last year."

"What about the size of the crop?" I ventured.

"The crop this year will probably be somewhat larger than it was the year before; perhaps 2,000,000 pounds more."

"To what do you ascribe the scarcity of low-grade Japans?"

"The principal reason," replied Mr. Low, as he took his cigar from his mouth and sent a cloud of smoke ceiling-ward, "is this: The demand for the better grades of Japan tea was larger than ever before; and they were bought at prices that paid the Japanese so well that it was more profitable for them to make the higher than the lower grades of tea. In other words, the profit was proportionally larger on the higher than on the lower grades. Naturally, the lower grades were ignored."

"What was the effect of the war on prices?"

"The war did not affect the actual price of tea as it did the cost of firing it. Charcoal, labor, boxes, etc., advanced very materially. The advance was not uniform in everything, but I suppose, taking it all round, the cost in the particulars I mention aggregated 15 or 20 per cent. The men who make the boxes for us make their contracts for the necessary lumber with the natives back in the country. Well, when the war broke out the Government wanted men to go to Corea. As the people who cut the lumber were of the class most desired, the authorities offered them one dollar per day, about seventy cents per day more than they were ordinarily getting. Of course, they jumped at the offer. Then the lumbermen had to employ other and greener hands, and although they had to pay them higher wages than they formerly had to their trained workmen, they could not get nearly as good results. Then the lumberman refused to fill his orders at contract figures, and finally the box maker compelled us to pay higher prices for our boxes than we had contracted for."

"How do you view the outlook for Japan teas in Canada?"

"I find," he replied, somewhat guardedly, "that the tendency is toward cheap teas. Every man who buys Japan teas wants to buy them away down. He is always trying to get the price down. This makes the demand for low grades larger than it ought to be. The retailer here, I am told, is making a big run on teas which he can sell at 25c. per pound. I consider he is making a big mistake, and so is the jobber in encouraging it. Now the retailer can give a tea of much better value at 50c., and at the same time make more money. I am confident, too, that he could satisfy his customer better in the long run. It is a well known fact that the cheaper you sell the goods the less money you make, and the higher you sell them the more money you make."

After finishing his tour of the firm's agencies in America, he leaves for England.

ADVANCE IN DRESSED MEATS.

As a result largely of the annexation to one of the departmental stores of a butcher shop, meats have been rather low in Toronto for some time past. It is said that the venture is losing the store $200 a week, but for the sake of the additional custom it brings him in other departments he keeps it up. Another thing that tended to bear the meat market was the fact that farmers sent in their field-fed beeves as soon as the cold weather set in, spoiling the pastures, thus bringing on a glut.

The approach of the holiday season has, however, relieved the situation, and despite the rather soft weather meats are bringing fairly good prices. Both beef and lamb fattened for the Christmas trade are quoted a cent or more higher than last week.

ORANGES CONTINUE EXCITED.

THE Christmas demand for oranges is now on in full force, and the market in Montreal is scantily supplied to meet it. The result is continued firmness, and prices on Jamaica oranges have advanced another dollar to $9 since last week, making a clean gain of $2 inside of a fortnight.

There have been receipts of Valencia stock, but they sold as high as $5 to $5.25 per box, and a couple of carloads of California stock arrived on Monday, and were taken almost as soon as landed. The fact that these latter, the quality of which was not specially striking, auctioned off under the hammer at $4 to $4.90, speaks pretty plainly for the excited condition of the market.

The great scarcity of Florida fruit, which usually is an important factor in the situation, is the chief point. On the other hand, the present outlook for the California crop is good if the critical time between the 20th December and the 20th January is passed over safely without frost. If this is avoided, estimates from reliable authorities on the Coast state that the prospects are for a crop in the State of 3,000,000 boxes.

In the meantime, owing to the position in New York and elsewhere, shippers of Mediterranean fruit, contrary to their usual custom, are exerting all their energies to get their oranges on North American markets at the earliest possible date.

There is just the possibility, considering all the circumstances, of the market being overworked, with a surplus of imports.

According to The New York Commercial Bulletin, shippers are neglecting lemons in their anxiety to get whatever advantage the market affords on oranges.

FANCY FRUIT FOR XMAS.

A special feature of the Toronto fruit market this week is the appearance of three or four lines of fancy goods intended for sale by the better class of the trade.

Notable among these are California pomegranates, Japanese persimmons, and Mexican oranges. The oranges are said to be of very fine quality, and a good substitute for Floridas, of which we have none this year.

BRAZIL NUTS DEARER.

Brazil nuts have been developing considerable strength lately. The reason is a scarcity of supplies.

Wholesalers have this season purchased Brazil nuts as low as 10c. per pound, including cost, freight and duty. To-day the cost is over 12c., or an appreciation of 20 per cent. The jobbing price ranges all the way from 13 to 15c.

As the trade is aware, Brazil nuts contain a large quantity of oil. Consequently they lose a great deal of weight during the season. Nuts held from the beginning to the end of the season frequently lose 25 per cent. A shipment is accounted to lose 2½ per cent. in weight in course of transit even between here and New York.

Brazil nuts cannot be piled away with safety in sacks the same as other nuts when it is necessary to carry them over: they must first be spread upon the floor and dried, or they will become mouldy, and consequently worthless.

New crop Brazilian nuts usually reach this market about the latter part of February, or the beginning of March.

THE CANNED GOODS PACK.

A SPECIAL meeting of the Canadian Packers' Association was held on Tuesday at the Walker House. Mr. W. Boulter, president of the association, presided. Those present were: W. A. Ferguson, Delhi; W. P. Innes, Simcoe; D. Marshall, Aylmer; W. C. Breckenridge, secretary-treasurer, Hamilton; H. I. Mathews, Lakeport; S. Fenton, St. Catharines; T. E. Owen, of Miller & Co., Trenton; A. C. Miller and W. R. Wright, of A. C. Miller & Co., Picton; F. E. Boulter, of W. Boulter & Sons, Toronto and Picton.

The object of the meeting was to wind up the business in connection with the late Selling Committee of the association, to arrange for the closing up of certain factories acquired by the association about a year ago, and to receive reports regarding the pack. All the matters received attention.

The pack of the country was shown to be, on the whole, satisfactory, not being in excess of the requirements. The very low prices at which goods sold stimulated the consumption. Several factories have been compelled to close up during the year, not being able to meet the keen competition obtaining.

THE CANADIAN GROCER could not obtain any figures regarding tomatoes, but it is understood that the pack is not much larger than that of last year. Although the crop ultimately turned out to be a large one, the damage done to the plants by the heavy frosts in the spring was never fully recovered, the pack not being as large as it was expected it would be. The consumption of canned tomatoes in Canada is estimated to be between 150,000 and 160,000 cases annually.

The pack of corn, it is claimed, is not so large as it was expected to be, although, like tomatoes, it is larger than that of last year. The consumption of corn is about equal to that of tomatoes.

The pea pack is placed at one-third less than that of last year. The consumption of peas varies a great deal, being determined largely by the price.

The consumption of beans is increasing this year, they taking, to some extent, the place of peas.

The peach pack, as is already known, is very small, the packers being compelled to bring nearly all their fruit from the United States.

Pears were also a small pack. Pears were plentiful enough, but as the fruit came on when the packers were busy on both tomatoes and peaches, they could not receive the attention they otherwise might.

There was a large pack of three-pound and gallon apples, but this has been discounted by the large quantity that have been exported. "There are now very few left," remarked one packer. "A very large trade is now being done with England in this respect."

The strawberry pack was very light, some of the largest packers putting up none.

Of raspberries there was a good pack, and about equal to what it was anticipated it would be.

The pack of plums was light, and it is believed that practically none are now left in first hands.

CRANBERRIES DEAR.

The little berry so delicious when used as a relish with roast turkey is not so plentiful this year as usual. The Canadian cranberry crop did not cut any figure on the market at all, the New Jersey yield was not large, and as a result we have to depend chiefly upon the Cape Cod article for a supply this season.

True, a few cranberries have come into Toronto from the north and a few from Nova Scotia, but they have not arrived in sufficient quantities to influence the market.

The demand is likely to be large for the next few weeks, so we need not look for a quotation on cranberries lower than from $9.50 to $10 per barrel for some time to come.

One compensation to the public for the high prices they have to pay is the excellent quality of the berries offered.

ST. JOHN'S WINTER SERVICE.

The St. John Board of Trade has written the Montreal Board of Trade, stating that St. John is now thoroughly established as a winter port, having no less than four lines sailing from the port. They are the Beaver Line to Liverpool, the Furness Line to London, the Donaldson to Glasgow, and the West Indian, calling at Bermuda, St. Croix, St. Kitts, Antigua, Dominica, Martinique, St. Lucia, Barbadoes and Trinidad. The St. John Board also announces that arrangements have been made for through freight rates as low, if not lower, than by United States ports, and it urges that western shippers should patriotically support their own port.

OFFICERS MONTREAL BOARD OF TRADE.

WHEN an important personage like the Minister of Trade and Commerce visits one of the commercial centres of the Dominion there are always subjects of more or less importance which the merchants and manufacturers of these centres desire to bring before him. But frequently the Minister has made his entrance and his exit before the commercial men are aware that he has been in their midst.

At the annual meeting of the Montreal Board of Trade, held on Wednesday, this was one of the particular subjects up for discussion. It was considered that notice of these visits should be given so that the merchants having matters to which they desire to call his attention may have an opportunity of doing so. The Government will be memorialized to that effect. The Minister of Trade and Commerce was in Montreal this week, but he was gone again before some of the merchants knew that he had been in town.

These officers were elected :

President, Chas. Chaput.

Vice-President, G. A. Childs.

Treasurer, A. Hebert.

Directors, J. E. Quintal, H. Laporte, and G. E. Forbes.

Committee of Arbitration, H. H. F. Hughes, S. J. Carter, E. Villeneuve, L. W. Telmosse, and P. Grace.

SEND FOR ONE.

A very striking calendar is that just issued by Laporte, Martin & Cie, of Montreal. To describe it here would be a needless waste of space and time when we suppose our readers may have one if they ask for it. We will say this, however: that they are original in their choice of a design. Instead of a fancy female figure or an English pasture scene, they give us one of the old time, 'way back Irishmen with a shillalah under his arm holding a glass high up, and looking as if he were shouting "Vive la Compagnie," or "Erin go Bragh."

REPACKED CALIFORNIA FRUITS.

Now that the trade in Canada are beginning to use California evaporated goods, such as peaches, pears, apricots and prunes, it is as well that they should be thoroughly prepared and posted so they may be able to secure the best value.

Much of the fruit that has come to this market hitherto has been repacked from bags into boxes either in Chicago or St. Louis, and sold at, apparently, almost as low rates as where goods are bought free on board at the Coast ; in some places the quotations are actually lower.

The result of careful investigation has led to the discovery that while the approximate cost is almost the same to land from the Coast, in repacking the goods were almost invariably steamed or wetted, the consequence being that what was lacking in weight and appearance was made up by this process.

As this is distinctly against the interests of buyers there is little question as to the advantage of buying boxed goods in original packages as put up in California, in which case buyers are sure of getting what they pay for, as long as they deal with reliable parties, and they run no risk of sophistication at the hands of our enterprising friends over the line.

A DRUMMER CONVERTED.

During the evangelical meetings conducted by Mr. Gale in this city, a short time ago, Messrs. Hunter and Crossley, who stopped over here on their way to Charlottetown, told of a well-known commercial traveler and agnostic who had been converted in their meetings in Fredericton. His name was not given, but since then it has been learned that the man in question was Mr. B. Rautenburg, the well-known representative of Park, Blackwell & Co., of Toronto. Mr. Rautenburg, who was at the American yesterday, tells an interesting story of his conversion.—Moncton, N.B., Times.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

GROCERIES.

THE holiday trade is gradually becoming diminished in volume. The wholesalers are, however, still busy, numerous letter orders for sorting up lots coming in freely. Nearly every merchant wants his goods shipped immediately, and it is requested in a good many instances that they be forwarded by express. After this week we may naturally expect to see a quieter condition for a while. Nothing specially new has developed during the week. Sugar is a little easier in the outside markets, but the Canadian refiners are holding prices steady. The activity in fruits is still the leading characteristic of the market. Next in order come Ceylon teas, the demand for which is exceptionally good at the moment. Canned goods are quiet. Coffees are in fair demand. Brazil nuts are scarce and higher.

CANNED GOODS.

Nothing new has developed during the week, the demand for all classes of canned goods being moderate at steady and unchanged prices. We quote: Tomatoes, 77½ to 85c.; corn, 75 to 85c.; peas, 90 to 95c. for ordinary; sifted, $1.05 to $1.10; extra sifted, $1.50 to $1.55; peaches, $2.90 to $3 for 3's, $1.90 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.40 to $2.00; strawberries, $1.80 to $2.45, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.90 to $2.20; cherries, $2.40 to $2.45; apples, 3's, 85 to 90c.; gallons, $1.90 to 2.25; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.35 to $1.40; "Maple Leaf," $1.35; "Lion," $1.35; Lowe Inlet, $1.27 to $1.30, in tall tins; cohoes, $1.10 to $1.20; canned mackerel, $1.10 to $1.20; lobsters, $1.80 to $2.10, for tall tins; flats, $2.35 to $2.65; half tins, $1.45 to $1.50; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.40 to $1.50; 2's, $2.40 to $2.55; 6's, $7.75 to $8.25; 14's, $16 to $18.

COFFEE.

Choice Rio coffees are scarce and in good demand. In Mocha and Java growths the demand is moderate, and not as good as a few weeks ago. Rio coffees have been a little easier in New York, but it was confined to grades lower than those which come to this market. We quote green in bags: Rio, 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22½c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracaibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

SUGAR.

The demand is light, while the wholesalers are practically buying nothing, desiring, of course, to keep down stocks till after stock-taking is finished. London is dull and weak, and in New York buyers and sellers are apart. The refiners in Canada, on the other hand, are holding prices firm, particularly yellows. One refinery has advanced the price of yellows another ¼c., making a total advance of ½c. per lb. in less than ten days. The Canadian refiners are taking their cue from the holders of raws in the United States. In England a feeling obtains that Germany will not increase the bounty on sugar. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, 4½ to 4¾c.; yellows, 3¾c. up.

SYRUPS.

A fair business has been done in bright syrups, but generally speaking trade is quiet and the supply of syrups to offer light. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.; bright, 40 to 42c.

MOLASSES.

Molasses are quiet and unchanged. We quote: New Orleans, barrels, 25 to 32c.; half-barrels, 33½ to 35c.; Barbadoes, barrels, 31 to 35c.; half-barrels, 33 to 37c.

SPICES.

The volume of business appears to be smaller than a week ago, the bulk of the holiday trade having been done. We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.; all-spice, 14 to 18c.

NUTS.

Activity is still the characteristic of this market. Brazil nuts are scarce and dearer. We quote as follows: Brazil nuts, 14 to 15c.; Sicily shelled almonds, 25 to 26c.; Tarragona almonds, 14 to 14½c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted, and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 11½ to 12½c. Marbot walnuts, 12½c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 9c.; Sicily filberts, 8 to 10c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; pecans, 10½ to 11c.

TEAS.

The feature of the market is still the free buying of Indian and Ceylon teas, owing to the extra good cup quality being shown. In Ceylon teas especially the volume of business is much larger than is usual at this season. China green teas are in good position, the scarcity of low-grade Japans having stimulated the demand for these teas. Advices received in Toronto regarding China black teas state that holders are not inclined to sell at the moment. We quote ruling prices to retailers as follows: Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

DRIED FRUITS.

Valencia raisins continue in the same strong position, with the demand good. We quote: Off-stalk, 4½ to 4¾c.; fine off-stalk, 5 to 5½c.; selected, 6 to 6¾c.; layers, 6½c.

Currants continue in active demand at steady and unchanged prices. We quote: Fine Filiatras, in barrels, 4¼ to 4½c.; ditto, half-barrels, 4¼ to 4¾c.; ditto, half-cases, 4¾ to 5c.; Casalinas, cases, 5 to 5¼c.; Vostizzas, cases, 6 to 6½c.; ditto, half-cases, 6½ to 6¾c.; ditto, extra fine, 6¾ to 7¼c.; ditto, half-cases, 7¼ to 7½c.

Holders of Malaga raisins on spot are beginning to lower prices with a view to cleaning out their stocks before the end of the season. The supply, however, is not large, while the higher grades of fruit are cleaned out. We quote: London layers, $1.85 to $1.90; black baskets, $2.50 to $2.75; blue baskets, $3.25; choice clusters, $3.25; Dehesa clusters, $3.75; Royal clusters, $4.25 to $4.50; Royal Buckingham clusters, $4.25; Non-Plus-Ultra and Royal Windsor, $6.

There is a fair enquiry for Bosnia prunes at about 6½c., but only a few houses have any at the moment. The demand for California French prunes continues to increase, these goods finding favor on all sides. We quote prunes: Bosnias "Sphinx" brand, "A," 70-75 to lb., 9c.; "B," 80-85 to lb., 7¾c.; "U," 110-115 to lb., 6¾c.; California prunes, 40-50, 10 to 10½c. per lb.; 50-60 to box, 9½c. per lb.; 60-70 to box, 9c.; 70-80 to box, 8¾c. per lb.; French, 5 to 6c.

Trade has been fairly active in California fruits during the past week. Egg plums and silver prunes are entirely cleaned out, and no more are obtainable on the Coast. The price of loose muscatels has eased off on the lowest grades. The higher grades, however, remain steady, and the finest grades of 4-crown are in short supply. Apricots are firmer. Peaches are in good supply and unchanged. We quote: Apricots, 13½ to 15c.; peaches, 10½ to 12½c.; pears, 10½ to 12½c.; plums, 6½c. for unpitted, and 12½c. for pitted; nectarines, 11 to 13c.; loose muscatels, 5½ to 6½c. per lb.

Sultana raisins are in fair demand at 5 to 6½c., according to quality.

Figs are in good demand at unchanged prices. We quote: Eleme, 14 oz., 9 to 10½c.; 10 lb., 9½ to 12½c.; 18 lb., 13 to 15c.; 28 lb. 16 to 18c.

GREEN FRUIT.

As the holiday season approaches, business in the green fruit line picks up rapidly and dealers seem to have all they can do. As usual the demand for oranges is large, and some difficulty has been found in filling orders, partly owing to the late arrival of Mediterranean cargoes. Bananas, lemons, and grape fruit are firm, though no higher in price. A feature of the market is the importation of some lines of fancy stock for high class trade, such as pomegranates from California, persimmons from Japan, and oranges from Mexico. The firms carrying these specialties are mentioned in the "market notes" below. We quote: Lemons—Messina, $3 to $4 per box; Malaga, in half-chests, $5 to $6, boxes, $2.50 to $3. Oranges—Jamaicas, fancy, in boxes, $5 to $5.50; choice, $4.75 to $5; in bbls., $9 to $9.50; Valencias, 420's, $5; 714's, 5.50. We quote standards at $1.15 to $1.25, and selects at $1.45 to $1.65. Fish are quoted as follows: Skinned and boned codfish, 6½c.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4c.; haddock, 5 to 6c.; Labrador herring, $3.25 to $3.50 per half barrel and $5.50 to $5.75 per barrel; Newfoundland herring, $2.50 per half barrel, and $4.50 to $4.75 per barrel; fresh water salt herring, $3 per barrel; blue-back herring, 3c.; pike, 6 to 7c. per lb.; flitched cod, 5c.; finnan haddies, 6½c.; Digby herring, in bundles of 5 boxes, 11c.; ditto, lengthwise, 10c.; large halibut, 12 to 15c.; Restigouche salmon, 20 to 25c.; British Columbia salmon, 13 to 14c.; mackerel, 20 to 25c.; steak cod, 6½ to 7c.; haddock, 5c.; black bass, 9 to 10½c. Lucas, Steele & Bristol: "Our travelers are off the road between Christmas and New Year. Don't think customers want to be bothered with them during the busy season. Our mail order department does the work then, besides which our telephones 447 and 1258 are always at their disposal."

One city traveler of the Pure Gold Manufacturing Co., of Toronto, placed orders for 1,030 one-pound cans of Rainbow blend of coffee the first day he took out samples. The coffee was put on the market on Monday last.

W. Boulter & Sons had a series of photos taken of their trainload of canned goods which went through Toronto and Winnipeg for Victoria. A section of the train has been reproduced for this enterprising firm in their advertisement in this week's issue.

MONTREAL, Dec. 19, 1895.

GROCERIES.

THERE has been no lack of animation in the grocery market during the past week, for holiday lines of goods are showing the full seasonable activity, while there has been a brisk enquiry for sugar at the refineries, and the strength in that staple has imparted snap to the general market. Tea also has furnished a fair distributing trade, and there has been a good holiday demand for spices. Dried fruit of all kinds rule firm, Valencia raisins being a light stock, while an active trade is being done in California fruit. New dates and prunes rule steady, and the same remark applies to nuts of all kinds, especially shelled nuts, which continue scarce, and any that are here are wanted by holders for their own customers.

Canned goods continue quiet, the excited condition of the orange market continues, while there has been a good trade in fresh fish.

SUGAR.

The firmer feeling in sugar noted last week is fully maintained, and there has been a good demand from jobbers for future delivery at the advance in yellows. Stocks both of yellows and granulated continue light. The anticipated change in granulated has not come about, but the active business noted at the refineries has been maintained, and orders are being booked freely on the basis of $4\frac{1}{4}$ c., with yellows at $3\frac{1}{4}$ to $3\frac{3}{8}$ c. In a jobbing way prices are held firm at $4\frac{3}{8}$ c. for granulated and $3\frac{3}{8}$ to 4c. for yellows, as to grade. Raw sugars are very firm, cable advices noting strength at all the beet sugar centres.

SYRUPS.

There is a fair trade doing in syrups at the refineries, as jobbers' supplies are very light, but they have to wait to have their orders filled, as refiners' stocks are equally light. The demand from the lumbering districts is the chief feature at the moment. We quote jobbing prices firm at $1\frac{1}{8}$ to $2\frac{1}{8}$ c.

MOLASSES.

The molasses market is unchanged, demand being limited, while values continue steady. We quote: Barbadoes, 36 to 37c., and Porto Rico, 35c.

RICE.

There is no change in the rice market, values continuing steady as previously noted.

SPICES.

There is a good active holiday demand for spices of all sorts and prices are steady as follows: We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.

COFFEE.

There has been a fair demand for coffee during the week and prices are steady at the recent decline. Round lots of Rio have changed hands at 19c., and Maracaibo at 20c. We quote green in bags: Maracaibo, 20 to 21c.; Rio, 19 to 20c.; Java, 28c.; Jamaica, 20 to 21c., and Mocha, 32c.

TEAS.

Rather more business has been doing in teas during the week in twenty-five packages and upwards for actual requirements, the stock moving being chiefly Japans and blacks at 15 to 20c. Few large lots are moving, the only sales in this connection that we hear of being a few lots of Japans at 15 to 18c., aggregating possibly 250 packages. We quote Japans: Low grades, 14c.; medium, 15 to 18c.; fine, 20 to 22c., and choice, 25 to 32c.

DRIED FRUIT.

There is a good jobbing enquiry for Valencia raisins for actual wants, and prices are steady, while western buyers have also been enquiring on this market for fruit during the past eight or ten days. We quote: Ordinary off-stalk, $4\frac{1}{4}$ to $4\frac{1}{2}$ c.; fine off stalk, $4\frac{3}{4}$ to 5c.; selected, $5\frac{1}{2}$ to $5\frac{3}{4}$ c.; and layers, $6\frac{1}{4}$ to $6\frac{1}{2}$ c.

There is no change to note in California raisins, but a good jobbing trade is doing and prices rule very firm for standard marks. We quote 4-crown firm at 7c. and 3-crown at $5\frac{1}{2}$ c.

In table raisins, orders have been pretty well filled, and actual business at the moment is quiet. We quote Malagas as follows: Extra loose muscatels, $1.40; Imperial London layers, $1.75; Imperial cabinets, $1.90; Connoisseur clusters, $2.20; extra dessert clusters, $3; Royal Buckingham clusters, $3.50.

Sultanas are steady at 6c.

Currants continue firm at primary markets, and there is a fair local enquiry. Stocks are light and values held correspondingly firm. We quote: $3\frac{3}{4}$ c. in barrels, 4 to $4\frac{1}{4}$ c. in half-barrels, and $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{3}{4}$ c. in half-cases.

The prune market is firm, while there is a fair trade doing at former prices. We quote: Bosnia, 6 to $6\frac{1}{2}$ c.; ordinary French, $4\frac{1}{2}$ to 5c., and French plums, 8 to 14c.

California prunes have been arriving to the extent of a few carloads, and show good quality. They range from 8 to 9c.

Figs are fairly active, and steady at last week's prices. We quote in boxes: 10-lb., 9 to 10c.; 20-lb., 14 to 15c.; and 50-lb., 16 to 17c.

The date market is quiet and stocks are now well sorted up for the future. We quote values unchanged at $4\frac{1}{2}$ to 5c.

NUTS.

There is a good active holiday demand for nuts of all kinds. Grenobles continue scarce and firm, and stocks of shelled nuts still continue light. We quote: Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; filberts, $7\frac{1}{2}$ to 8c.; Tarragona almonds, 11 to 11½c.; pecans, 9 to 14c., and shelled walnuts 27 to 30c.

CANNED GOODS.

Nothing special is to note in canned goods beyond the clearing up of some outside lots which have been weighing on the market. For prime brands prices all round are steady, and we quote as follows: Lobsters, talls, $8 per case; flats, $9 to $9.50; sardines, ordinary brands, $7 to $8.50; best brands, $9.50 to $10.50; salmon, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; tomatoes, 75 to 80c.; peaches, $2 to $2.25; corn, 85 to 90c.; marrowfat peas, 95c. to $1; strawberries, $2 to $2.25; raspberries, $1.75 to $2; green gages, $1.75 to $2; blue plums or damsons, $1.50 to $1.75; pineapples, $2 to $2.25 and 3-lb. apples, 80 to 85c.

WINES AND SPIRITS.

There is nothing new to report in regard to wines and spirits, and a quiet time is looked for until importers commence to consider the subject of spring importations of wines.

GREEN FRUIT.

The chief feature is the continued strength of the orange market, these fruits ruling strong.

APPLES—Apples are in moderate demand at $2 to $5 as to quality.

GRAPES—Grapes continue quiet and steady at $5 to $6 per keg for Spanish fruit.

ORANGES—The firm prices continue, and the fact has had some influence in checking the demand. We quote $8.50 to $9 per bbl. Receipts of Valencia stock have come to hand, but they have not relieved the strain, prices on them being firm at $5 to $5.25 per box.

LEMONS—Lemons rule steady to firm at $2.75 to $3.50 per box.

CRANBERRIES—These are not plentiful, and prices are held firm at $9.50 to $10 for Nova Scotian and $12 for Cape Cod.

SPANISH ONIONS—Quiet and unchanged at 30 to 35c. per crate.

FISH.

There has been considerable movement in all kinds of fish, especially fresh stock, and though the arrivals of frozen goods of this kind have been large the market has been well cleaned up. Haddock and cod sell freely at 3½ to 4c., and fresh frozen salmon, 10c. Large to medium herring range from $1.15 to $1.25 per 100 and smelts 5 to 6c. per lb., while tommy cods sell at $1.35 to $1.50 per bbl.

Pickled fish are dull, only choice goods, being salable. We quote: No. 1. Labrador herring, $5 25; No. 1 N.S., $4.25, and ordinary goods, $3 to $4; B.C. salmon, $11; No. 2 Labrador, $13. No. 1 green cod $4.25 to $4.75; No. 2, $3 to $3.10; No. 2 mackerel, $17.50, and No. 1 sardines, $4.25.

Very little business is doing in dried or boneless cod fish, while in smoked fish stocks are light and prices firm. We quote: Haddies, 6½ to 7c. per lb.; kippered herring, $1.40 to $1.50 per 100; Yarmouth bloaters, 90c. per box, and smoked herring, 9 to 10c. per lb.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—A fairly active trade was done in eggs, there being a better demand, but values show no material change. We quote: Choice candled at 14 to 15c., and ordinary stock at 11½ to 12c. per dozen.

BEANS—The demand for beans continues to be of a limited character, and prices rule about steady. We quote: Car lots of choice hand-picked at $1.05 to $1.10, and small quantities at $1.20 to $1.30.

POULTRY—The demand for poultry was better, but supplies were large, and buyers had no difficulty in filling their wants. Now that Christmas is near at hand, dealers anticipate quite an active trade in this line during the week. Turkeys sold at 7 to 8c.; chickens at 6 to 6½c.; fowls at 5c.; geese at 5c. and ducks at 7 to 7½c. per lb.

POTATOES—Continue quiet and firm at 40 to 45c. per bag.

HOPS—Market dull, at 7- to 8c. for good and 6 to 6½c. for medium.

TALLOW—Quiet and steady at 5½ to 6c., as to grade.

ONIONS—Red onions sell at $2.25, and yellow at $2 to $2.25 per bbl.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

Business in provisions is slow and unsatisfactory, notwithstanding the fact that prices are lower than they have been for some time past, still buyers show no inclination to take hold freely. We quote: Canadian short cut, clear, $13.50; Canadian short cut, mess, $14; hams, city cured, per lb., 9 to 10c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 8¼ to 8½c.; bacon, per lb., 9 to 10c.; lard, com. refined, per lb., 6¼ to 6½c.

In dressed hogs a fair jobbing trade was reported, there being a better demand, and sales were made at $4.90 to $5, but car lots moved slow at $4.65 to $4.75 per 100 lbs.

FLOUR, MEAL AND FEED.

In Manitoba grades of flour millers report a good business doing, the demand keeping up from local and country buyers at steady prices. Ontario grades are quiet. We quote: Winter wheat, $3.65 to $4.00; spring wheat patents, $3.75 to $3.85; straight roller, $3.40 to $3.50; straight roller, bags, $1.60 to $1.70; extra bags, $1.50 to $1.60; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.40 to $3.65.

The demand for oatmeal was limited. We quote: Standard, bbls., $3 to $3.10; granulated, bbls., $3 to $3.15; rolled oats, bbls., $3 to $3.15.

The feed market was steady, and a fair trade was transacted. We quote: Bran, $14 to $15; shorts, $15 to $16; mouillie, $19 to $20.

CHEESE AND BUTTER.

Cheese exhibits little change, and few traders expect any until after the New Year. What developments will follow that date are hard to say, but it is evident that the holders of cheese on this side of the water have little or no anxiety about an outlet for their goods at a profit, when they are ready to sell. Their confidence is based upon the great shortage in exports from the continent, which has been frequently referred to before, and the fact that current values are low compared with previous years. Actual business on spot is very small and prices continue nominal, sellers' ideas on late made cheese being firm at 9½c., with medium to ordinary stock ranging from 8½ to 9c.

There is no improvement in the butter market, and it looks at present as though values were going to rule low for some time to come, as exporters are entirely without encouragement. The supply, therefore, is more than equal to the present domestic wants, and unless these increase there is little prospect of any improvement in prices. Jobbing business in creamery in fair sized lots is passing at 19 to 19½c., and prices on dairy stocks are purely nominal.

The exports of cheese, via the seaboard, during the past week comprised 12,542 boxes of cheese, and 174 packages of butter, which went to the following ports: 10,819 cheese and 174 butter to Liverpool, 841 cheese to London, 379 to Bristol, 100 to Antwerp, and 403 to Belfast. This makes the total, to date, 31,735 cheese and 1,146 butter to Liverpool, 15,460 cheese to London, 3,786 to Bristol, 100 to Antwerp, and 403 to Belfast, a total of 51,484 cheese and 1,146 butter since the close of navigation. For the corresponding period last year the exports were 66,865 boxes of cheese and 1,456 butter. Since the 1st of May the exports amount to 1,767,491 boxes cheese and 70,810 butter, against 1,792,923 cheese and 33,593 butter for the same period in 1894, a decrease of 24,432 boxes of cheese, and an increase of 37,214 packages butter.

HAY.

The hay market continues strong, with a good demand, but holders are backward sellers at $13 for No. 1 and $12 for No. 2.

ASHES.

The ashes market is steady. We quote: Firsts, $3.70; seconds, $3.50, and pearls, $4.65 per 100 lbs.

MONTREAL NOTES.

A. P. Tippet & Co. are offering to the trade now E. R. Skelley's Riverside navel California oranges, which are the earliest variety on the Coast. These will not be ripe before February 1st.

Ewing, Herron & Co. have now on hand a fine lot of imported chicory, which they consider to be very good value at the price they offer it at.

Mr. Laflamme, of Rose & Laflamme, has just returned to town from a hunting trip. The weather was rather too fine for successful stalking, but he succeeded in getting one or two red deer nevertheless.

A carload of California oranges, which came to hand on Monday, auctioned off as high as $4.50 per box.

There have been some sales of black and Pingsuey teas during the past week, aggregating 500 chests, at low prices, viz, 9 to 11c., as to grade.

The sugar market has ruled quite firm, but the expected advance in granulated did not come to pass.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE CANADIAN GROCER.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 19, 1895.

THERE has been a fair movement among the wholesale trade, but business is falling off. The retailers are selling large quantities of holiday goods, but a little more snow would improve the business. They have their stores looking very handsome. St. John should be proud of her retail stores. The fine display of American biscuits is a feature. The candy displayed is largely the product of our own province. Our manufacturers are doing a very large season's business, but they find it difficult to please all, as retailers want their goods fresh, and all want them shipped about the same time. There is much dissatisfaction among our merchants that they should have to pay duty on the duty charged by outside countries when buying goods held there in bond. It is working very much to the disadvantage of the smaller importers. Markets have rather an upward tendency, particularly sugar. Values show little change.

SALT—There is no change in price noted. Some which arrived via Boston is held here in bond, the Customs holding they should pay duty on it as American salt, on account of length of time it was in Boston before being re-shipped here. Our merchants sell quantities in Maine and no doubt this will be sold there. There is but little demand. About one thousand sacks will arrive by ss. Lake Ontario from Liverpool this week. Stocks held fair. We quote: Coarse, 50 to 55c.; fine factory-filled, 95c. to $1.10; 5-lb. bags, $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10-lb. boxes, 12c.; cartons, $1.90 to $2 per doz.; dairy, bulk, $2 80 per bbl.; cheese, bulk, $2.70 per bbl.

OIL—Prices are as quoted last week. There is a rather easier feeling, although shipments are not so large as during the last few weeks. We quote: Best American, 23 1/4 c.; best Canadian, 21 1/2 c.; prime, 19c. No charge for barrels.

CANNED GOODS—For the past few years canners in Nova Scotia have sold quite a quantity of corn and tomatoes in this market. This season they did not pack any, not caring to compete with Ontario prices. They have, however, had good business in gallon apples and condensed milk. Outside of fish the chief goods canned in New Brunswick are corn, peas and blueberries, the latter with but a limited sale. Large quantities of the corn and peas are sold. Prices show no change, goods being sold very near cost. There is quite a demand for the new brand of pork and beans which are being offered. They are put up in one and two pound tins, are done up in tomato sauce and are called "Van Camp." We quote as follows: Corn, 85 to 90c.; peas, 90 to 95c.; tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.60 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.50 to $1.60; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $2.85 to $2.90; 2's, $1.90 to $2; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.40; salmon, $1.35 to $1.50; flat, $1.75; clams, $5.50 for 4 doz.; chowder, $3 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1; pineapples, $2.35; kippered herring, $1.10; American peaches, $2.40.

GREEN FRUIT—There is a fair business doing, but except oranges, lemons, grapes and apples, there is little to sell, and the cold weather also tends to lessen business. But just now there is a fair demand. There are not many West India oranges here at present, but the steamer which arrives this week is expected to bring some. Prices are very firm for selected fruit. Valencias are arriving freely, and each lot is rather better. Price shows no change. In lemons there are good stocks to hand at easy prices. In apples, very few are now arriving, and good fruit is held very firm. Grapes, in kegs, for good quality are firm at the price. There is a great difference in quality. We quote: Lemons, $4 to $5; West India oranges, $7 to $7.50 per bbl.; Malaga grapes, $5 to $6.50; Valencia oranges, $5 to $5.50; Pippins and winter fruit, $1.50 to $2.50.

DRIED FRUIT—There are very few, if any, off-stalk in the market. There is a small stock of selected and layers, which are held very firm. As before noted, the presence of a quantity of California loose muscatels in the market tends to keep price of Valencias from a further advance. If boxes were smaller the trade would be better pleased. Onions of best quality are firmer. With price higher, evaporated apples tend upward. There is but little trade for dried. New dates are to hand, and look well; price as last year. In prunes there are no new yet, and arrivals will be small. The trade last season was not satisfactory. It looks as if some California prunes would be sold here; price asked is rather higher than for French. Figs are quoted rather easier. In nuts, filberts are firmer. Sales good in all lines. We quote: New Valencias, 5 to 6c.; new figs, 10 to 12c.; new 4-crown Cal. L. M. raisins, 6 to 7c.; new 3-crown Cal. L. M. raisins, 5½ to 6c.; keg prunes, 4c.; boxes, 4¾ to 6c.; new Cal. L. raisins, $1.50 to $1.75; new currants, bbls., 3¾ to 4c.; half-cases, 4 to 4½c.; new evaporated apples, 7 to 7½c.; dried apples, 5 to 6c.; dates, 4½ to 5c.; California evaporated peaches, 12 to 13c.; do. apricots, 12 to 14c.; do. pears, 12 to 13c.; clean currants, bulk 5 to 6½c.; 1-lb. cartoons, 7 to 7½c.; Canadian onions, $2 to $2.25 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $4 to $4.50 per 100; citron, 15 to 16c.; orange, 13 to 14c.; lemon, 12 to 13c.; new cleaned currants, 6-crown, 1-lb. cartoons, 8 to 8½c.; Sultanias, 10c.; half-boxes, layers, 6¾ to 7c.; quarter-boxes, layers, 7 to 7½c.; Valencia layers, 6 to 6½c.

DAIRY PRODUCE—In eggs there is an upward feeling; for fresh stock high prices are paid, with good case eggs in demand. Buyers are very careful, so many send poor case eggs to the market. In cheese a number of factories, both in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, have a quantity still on hand. There were a few small shipments sent forward to Liverpool during the week. In price no change is noted, with rather dull demand. Butter is very dull for average stock, there being large stocks of poor to fair. Extra quality is in good demand, and creamery, both tubs and rolls, are higher, with but small supply. We quote: Cheese, 8½ to 9c.; butter, 17 to 18c.; eggs, 17 to 19c.; fresh creamery prints, 23 to 24c.; tubs, 21 to 22c.

MOLASSES—The feature of the week has been the advance in New Orleans of 2c., it being strong with an upward feeling. A very nice grade of these goods, in about 40-gal. packages, have been selling here during the fall, finding steady demand. There are very few small packages held here, outside of this grade, and stock of it is limited. West India molasses continue fair stock, with best quality held firm. There is rather larger stock held here than it was thought there would be at this season. Syrup has also advanced, while stock held here is not large. We quote: Barbadoes, 32 to 34c.; St. Croix, 31 to 32c.; Porto Rico, 34 to 36c.; syrup, 35 to 38c.; Trinidad, 32 to 33c.; New Orleans, bbls., 35 to 36c.

SUGAR—Market is firmer, and further advance is looked for. We quote prices ½c. higher this week. Stocks here are not large, though some are well supplied, principally granulated. We quote: Granulated, 4¾ to 4½c.; yellow, 3¾ to 3½c.; Paris lump, 5¼ to 5½c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

FISH—There is little new to report, all grades of dry, except perhaps small cod, being held firm, with good business. The feeling in pickled remains unchanged, with fair business doing. In smoked the market is again lower, and shows no hopeful signs. There are not many lengthwise offered, as the larger fish are used for bloaters, for which there is fair demand at very good prices. In fresh business has so far been light. Weather has been such that there is no stock to hand. There are a fair quantity of orders awaiting stock. In boneless a steady demand is noticed. We quote: Medium cod, $3.50 to $3.60; large, $3.75 to $3.85; small, $2.25 to $2.50; pollock, $1.50; bay herring, $1.25 to $1.30; Grand Manan, $1.30 to $1.40; rippings, $1.65 to $1.70; wolves, $1.90 to $2; Quoddy River, $2.75 to $3; smoked, 5 to 6c.; shad, half-bbl., pickled, $5 to $5.50; Canso, $5; halves, $2.75; Shelburne, $2.75 to $3 per bbl.

PROVISIONS—Prices remain very low, and at present there is an easy feeling. Demand is but light. Lard shows best movement, while smoked meat is dull. Prince Edward Island goods are well liked here. We quote: Domestic mess pork, $14 to $14.50; clear pork, $15 to $15.25; mess, $14 to $14.50; plate beef, $12.25 to $14; pure lard, 9 to 10c.; compound lard, 8c.; cottolene, 9¼ to 9½c.; rolls, 8 to 9c.; beef, half bbls., $7; hams, 11 to 12c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—There is an easy feeling in flour, with Manitoba offered by Ontario millers much lower than the regular Manitoba millers, and not as well liked, though they are turning out some good flour. In oatmeal, feeling is firm. The Standard, which is coming here is not giving good satisfaction, being too fine. In oats Ontario are now sold inspected to a standard. Prices are firmer. Feed shows but limited demand. Cornmeal sales are also falling off with close of navigation. In hay there is little movement here, with price still tending upward. In native buckwheat meal we quote lower price. We quote: Manitoba, $4.25 to $4.50; best Ontario, $4 to $4.10; medium, $3.90 to $4; oatmeal, $3.50 to $3.60; cornmeal, $2.35 to $2.40; hand-picked beans, $1.20 to $1.25; prime, $1.10 to $1.15; split peas, $3.70; pot barley, $4.10 to $4.25; hay, $12 to $12.50; oats, 34 to 36c.; middlings, $19 to $20 on track; bran, $18; buckwheat meal, domestic, $1.25 to $1.30; western, $1.75 to $2.

Eighteen cars of grain arrived from the west for the Moncton flour mill during the week. The output is to be soon largely increased.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., reports large quantities of pork offering at 4½c. with an easy feeling. Hay and oats in smaller supply. Potatoes are as low as 16c. per bushel. Beef, 4 to 6c.

Large quantities of smoked herring and bloaters are being shipped direct from Grand Manan to the American market. This week one schooner took to New York over 4,000 boxes of bloaters and 8,000 boxes of herring. A schooner also loaded for Boston. Good line fishing is reported.

In the north of our province large catches of bass and smelts are reported. In smelts, some take from $100 to $250 worth in a night. One catch of bass in two nets is said to have been valued at $400. Large catches of these latter are most unusual at

AMONG THE RETAILERS.

R. E. Limoges, grocer, Montreal, has sold out.

W. R. Burton has opened a grocery store at Winnipeg.

George Hunter & Co., grocers, Winnipeg, have sold to the new firm of Baynham & Nix.

A. E. Varcoe, of Orono, has moved to Toronto, and opened a grocery store at 182 Queen street east. He has a nicely assorted stock and has had the premises changed to suit his requirements.

ON A CASH BASIS.

It is announced that one more Canadian merchant has joined the ranks of dealers who do business for cash only. The name of this wise man is G. H. Falconer, and since 1883 he has carried on a general store on a mixed cash and credit basis at Streetsville, Ont. He proposes now to buy and sell for cash, and on January 2 all books and accounts will be closed. In a proclamation to his customers Mr. Falconer calls attention to the fact that as he will buy for cash and take no chances on losing through bad debts, he can give his customers better value and lower prices than ever before.

THE GREEN GRASS AV OWLD IRELAND.

The green grass av owld Ireland,
Whilst I be far away,
All fresh an' clean an' jewel-green,
It's growin' there to-day.
Oh, it's cleaner, greener growin'—
All the grassy worl'd around,
It's greener yet nor any grass
That grows on top o' ground.

The green grass av owld Ireland

As salty as the sea.
For still the more I'm stoppin' here,
The more I'm sore to see

Though I be here widout a queen,

I'm comin' over steerage,
But I'm goin' back first-class,
Patrolin' av the foremost deck
For first sight of the grass.

God bless yez, free Ameriky,
I love yez, dock and shore,

That's worstin' me no more.
But most I'm lovin' Erin yet,
Wid all her graves, d' ye see,

ALL VISITED THE "SUPERIOR."

There is hardly a man or boy in St. John who did not visit the Beaver Line steamer Lake Superior while she was in port. All are interested in the success of St. John as a winter port. The loading of 2,000 sheep was also a new feature there, and attracted a great deal of attention. The Lake Ontario, expected this week, is to load some 80,000 bushels of grain. Many will be anxious to see the elevator in full working order. The steamer had many more passengers than she expected, and a good freight, among which was 1,000 barrels apples, 4,300 boxes cheese, 1,000 boxes smoked herring, 1,000 cases eggs, and a large quantity bacon, butter and lumber.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Henry C. Boomer, of Warren Bros. & Boomer, Toronto, returned this week from England, where he has been for some months.

The many friends of Mr. John Hagey, one of W. H. Gillard & Co.'s Knights of the Road, will be pleased to learn of his recovery from a severe attack of pneumonia and that he will soon resume his trip.

Frank H. Robinson, of Elliott & Robinson, general merchants, Roseneath, was in Toronto Monday sorting up for Christmas trade.

Mr. Hugh Wilson, one of Cannington's leading merchants, is in Toronto this week looking up bargains; and he is the man who gets them, too.

ORANGES FOR CHRISTMAS.

It is at Christmas time that the failure of the Florida orange crop is most felt. The demand for this finest of fruit during the holiday season is always large, and this year there is no supply whatever.

To add to the shortness of the orange stocks, the two vessels laden with Mediterranean fruit for Canada have been delayed some days by storms, and, as a consequence, the Valencias are late in arriving.

Meantime Jamaica oranges, reinforced by a few California navels, are filling the requirements of the market.

A few Mexican oranges are being offered here. These are said to be very choice, and, next to Floridas, about the sweetest orange grown.

TAN BARK.

A good trade has always been done in this commodity in New Brunswick, large quantities being from time to time shipped to the American markets.

As is known, it is the bark of the hemlock which is used, it being peeled in June and July. The prosperity of the province depends largely, as it has always done, on the lumber market, and this is one branch.

At present, owing to the United States leather trusts deciding to put no hides in vats for two months from November 1st, this branch of the trade has had a set back. The bark is, however, out of first hands, and any loss there is will not be made there, and operators look for better prices before another season's output can come to hand.

The extent of the business can be seen when it is stated that one of the three largest operators is now shipping twelve cars per week, and has stock enough of last season's cut to keep this up till February.

Hemlock boards are also now being largely shipped to New England, taking the place of the lumber from Pennsylvania. It is expected should the duty be left off of lumber by the United States, that very large shipments will be made next season.

DOMINION TRAVELERS MEET.

THE annual meeting of the Dominion Commercial Travelers' Association of Montreal was held in the Temple on Dorchester street Saturday evening, and Max Murdock, of the firm of James Coristine & Co., was elected vice-president, and Mr. E. Garneau, of Quebec, headed the list of the new members elected to the Board of Directors. Lieut.-Col. Massey, who was re-elected president by acclamation, occupied the chair, and there was a large attendance of members of the association.

The annual report of the directors was submitted. It contained the following: For the year now closed we find the sum of $7,064.84 added to our capital account; while the increased membership brings the number of names on the roll to 2,630, the increase for the year being one hundred and sixteen. The death-rate among the members is smaller than last year, it being 24 against 26 in 1894.

Your committee on investments has viewed with approval all outstanding risks represented by real estate mortgages to the amount of $116,500, and bonds, $21,500, bringing the total up to $137,650, as the amount of funds invested. Owing to the insufficient maintenance of our benevolent fund by voluntary subscriptions of members, it is proposed that an annual grant from the general funds of the association be appropriated for the purpose of relieving deserving applications, and the directors further recommend that the sum of $500 be placed at their disposal annually for above purposes.

It is pleasing to note that the effort to amend the law, which was referred to in last annual report, exempting commercial travelers from serving as jurors, has been partially successful, the law being amended so that travelers will be legally notified only when the summons shall have been served personally. The trustees of the Educational Fund report only two pupils at present enjoying the benefits of this fund. It should be generally known among the members that this fund was created for the education of children of deceased members who have left their families in destitute circumstances. The dinner this year will be given at the Windsor Hotel on Monday evening, December 23rd. The railways have kindly consented to issue to commercial travelers from December 20th to 25th, inclusive, return tickets at single fare, good to return up to the 7th January, thus offering to many an opportunity to attend the dinner and reach home for the holidays.

The treasurer's statement showed the total receipts on revenue account to be $33,706.95, and the expenditure on revenue account $26,522.84.

The adoption of the report was moved by Wm. Brewster, seconded by Mr. Morin, and in the discussion which ensued John Woods emphasized the importance of the insurance liabilities of the association being included in the annual reports, and Robert Wilkins wanted to know why the commercial travelers were not treated with more consideration by the railway corporations, and especially as regarded excess baggage. Why, even the cattle dealer from the backwoods was looked upon, comparatively speaking, with a lenient eye. And then what about the tax on commercial travelers going into Prince Edward Island, which he (Mr. Wilkins) considered as opposed to the inherent principle of inter-provincial trade and altogether ultra vires. The president pointed out that the Prince Edward Island law was perfectly within the jurisdiction of that Provincial Legislature. The sanitary condition of hotels was also alluded to by some of the members, and after some further discussion the motion to adopt the report was carried.

The secretary, H. W. Wadsworth, then submitted the annual report of the trustees of the Educational Fund, which was adopted, and the following were elected trustees of the fund for the ensuing year: Messrs. George Sumner, R. Henderson, George Boulton, D. Watson and Chas. Gurd.

The following amendments to the by-laws were adopted:

To amend article 6, clause 5, by "placing the voting paper in a sealed envelope addressed to the scrutineers instead of to the secretary."—N. Tucker.

To amend article 12, clause 7, re Educational Fund, by taking candidates not under eight years of age, instead of "not under nine years of age."—David Watson.

To amend article 1, clause 5, by adding, "Holders of conditional certificates shall not be entitled to accident insurance."—Max Murdock.

To provide that five out of the ten directors shall be elected at each annual meeting, and that the retiring president shall be a director on the Board during his successor's term of office.—G. Piche.

T. L. Paton also introduced a new by-law regarding a benevolent fund to provide assistance to members sick or in misfortune who have no other means of support, a sum to be voted at each annual meeting to support the fund.—This was also adopted.

Mr. Piche moved that $500 be voted to the relief of members during the present year.—Carried.

J. Woods moved, seconded by S. J. Carter, "that the directors of the association be instructed to furnish in their next annual report a statement of our insurance liabilities, such report to be ascertained by insurance experts."—Carried.

The president then announced the report of the scrutineers on the election of vice-presidents and directors:

Vice-President—Max Murdock, 875 votes; R. G. Stokes, 466.

Directors—E. B. Garneau, Quebec, 683;

T. L. Paton, 617; Wm. Brewster, 593; David Watson, jr., 565. The next on the list, J. T. Le Sueur, who had 493 votes, will be appointed later by the Board of Directors, in accordance with the amended by-law.

Mr. Garneau expressed sincere thanks that, for the first time, a representative had been elected on the Board outside of Montreal, and he had been chosen to represent the good old city of Quebec. The other newly elected members of the Board also briefly returned thanks for the honor conferred upon them, and after "Auctioneer" Moore, had disposed of the usual papers and magazines put under the hammer, a most successful meeting was brought to a close.

During the meeting the president read the list of members who had died during the past year, the members present all standing in reverence to the memory of the departed. The names were: Jas. S. Bullock, A. Faranback, D. H. Pike, D. W. Macdonald, W. J. Farmer, E. Davis, C. M. Tourville, J. S. Mayo, C. K. Adams, David Armstrong, Claude Bertrand, C. F. Stewart, L. T. Whitehead, N. Turcot, J. R. Bayne, H. Fitzsimmons, Albert Stone, Ralph Bolton, Jas. Douglas, Wm. Robertson, N. A. Hurteau, Jos. Heathcote, Jas. MacLean, R. L. Gault.

J. McLAUCHLAN & SONS.

THE firm of J. McLauchlan & Sons are one of the largest manufacturers and traders in Grey County. They are manufacturers for the wholesale trade of confectionery and biscuits, wholesale grocers, importers of cigars. The business was first established in 1869, and has kept gradually increasing till now the firm occupies the whole of a three-storey brick building, 210 x 22, on Poulett street, Owen Sound, and have recently constructed an additional three-storey brick 100 x 32½. They have three travelers constantly on the road. They make a specialty of the biscuit and fine confectionery trade, in which their operations extend all over the northern and western portions of Ontario. Their establishment is fitted up with all the latest and most approved appliances for the carrying on of their trade and none but the finest classes of material are used. Mr. James McLauchlan, the senior member of the firm, is a native of Scotland, but he has spent a great many years in Canada, coming to Hamilton in 1854. Prior to locating in Owen Sound he was for some years engaged in the same line of business, of which he has a thorough knowledge, at Hamilton and Brantford. He is a shrewd and energetic business man, a fact which his fellow-citizens have recognized by electing him to various positions in the Town Council, having filled the position of Mayor for the year 1894. He has also been a school trustee for sixteen years, and is a past master of the Masonic body. This is surely a record of which any person, howsoever ambitious, might well be proud. The sons, W. G. McLauchlan and J. M. McLauchlan, have long been residents of Owen Sound, and they are worthy sons of a worthy sire. They are universally respected and esteemed.

(The Poetry of it)

Every man upon this earth,
Be he a saint or sinner,
Should have upon his Christmas board
Some Ceylon tea for dinner.
Then all ye grocers through the land,
Be thoughtful, wise, and prudent,
And if you do not know these teas—
'Tis time to be a student.

MYOPIA OR SHORT-SIGHTEDNESS.

Dr. G. Sterling Ryerson, the well-known eye specialist and professor in Trinity Medical College, had an article in The Lancet, which has been reproduced in the leading papers and magazines in the States. It is specially interesting to business men and commercial travelers. He says:

"Myopia being essentially a condition due to abuse of the eye, one is constantly obliged to say 'don't' to patients. It occurs, to me that it might be useful to put these prohibitory rules in aphoristic form:

(1) Don't read in railway trains or in vehicles in motion. (2) Don't read lying down or in a constrained position. (3) Don't read by firelight, moonlight or twilight. (4) Don't read by a flickering gaslight or candlelight. (5) Don't read books printed on thin paper. (6) Don't read books which have no space between the lines. (7) Don't read for more than fifty minutes without stopping, whether the eyes are tired or not. (8) Don't hold the reading close to the eyes. (9) Don't study at night, but in the morning when you are fresh. (10) Don't select your own glasses at the outset.

"It would almost seem as though some of these rules were too obvious to require mention, but practical experience shows that myopes abuse their eyes just in the ways stated. Reading by firelight or by moonlight are favorite sins. Reading lying down tends to increase the strain on the accommodation, and reading while traveling tires the ciliary muscle because of the too frequent adjustment of focus. In short, anything which tends to increase the quantity of blood in the organ favors the increase of the defect, leading in extreme cases to detachment of the retina and blindness."

A COCOA HOUSE WITH MEDALS.

Walter Baker & Co., Ltd., Dorchester, Mass., the well-known manufacturers of breakfast cocoa and other cocoa and chocolate preparations, have an extraordinary collection of medals and diplomas awarded at the great international and other exhibitions in Europe and America. The house has had uninterrupted prosperity for nearly a century and a quarter, and is now not only the oldest but the largest establishment of the kind on this continent. The high degree of perfection which the company has attained in its manufactured products is the result of long experience combined with an intelligent use of the new forces which are constantly being introduced to increase the power and improve the quality of production, and cheapen the cost to the consumer.

The full strength and the exquisite natural flavor of the raw material are preserved unimpaired in all of Walter Baker's preparations; so that their products may truly be said to form the standard for purity and excellence.

In view of the many imitations of the name, labels and wrappers on their goods, consumers should ask for and be sure that they get the genuine articles made at Dorchester, Mass.

CLASSIFICATION OF GROCERIES.

Mr. Eby, of the Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, and Mr. H. Beckett, of W. H. Gillard & Co., Hamilton, attended a meeting of the Canadian Joint Classification Committee of Railways held in Toronto on Friday, 13th inst. with a view to securing the changes in the classification of groceries as proposed by Mr. Beckett and endorsed by the wholesale grocers. The Classification Committee see many advantages which will result to both the railways and wholesale grocers, and are so favorably impressed with the suggestions that they promise to do their best to adopt them at an early date. The changes when consummated will be a great boon to the wholesale grocers, and will be a distinct saving to the railway companies in facilitating the billing of groceries.

The Dominion Government is considering a plan to open up an export trade to Great Britain in dressed meats.

This time it is starch—Edwardsburg Starch. Anything we didn't know about making starch when we commenced business in 1858, we have since learned, and as we manufacture from nothing but purest selected corn we feel justified in calling our preparations "the best."

What a trial will do.

It will transform incredulity into enthusiasm. It will turn cautious samplers into liberal buyers. Hundreds of dealers who "shied" at B.F.P. ($2.00 per Year) No. 52

DROPS FROM THE EDITOR'S PEN.

When lemons get too high people sour on them.

The great merchant is the fruit of the great boy.

Business is a race. What speed did you develop during the year?

An advertisement is to the business what breath is to the body—life giving.

May your new year be fraught with enlarged business, good profits and a healthy body.

He who is careless about the little things in the store cannot be careful about the big things.

It is not so much education as energy and common sense that makes men successful in business.

Smiles for customers and frowns for clerks is a mixture that debilitates instead of tones business.

Stores that have not a holiday appearance can scarcely expect to get much of the holiday trade.

The measure of your happiness during the New Year will greatly depend on your own exertion.

There is one thing about the average traveler: When orders are small it is not usually his fault.

The "drummer" may be a traveler, but the average one is a "stayer" when he is after business.

The trade paper is a text book to the young man who aims to make himself proficient in business.

If we could only get some of our bright commercial travelers into our municipal councils and halls of Parliament, many of the old fogies that are now in these representative institutions would be compelled to go on the road to obscurity.

When a merchant gets down to bed rock he has sometimes started the foundation of a towering business.

The hen is not an aggressive bird, but it has for some weeks been driving cattle out of the English market.

He who has push, pluck and purpose, need have no fear that he will be shaken down among the small potatoes.

When you turn over a new leaf at midnight on Tuesday fasten down the old page so that it cannot be turned back again.

Merchants who undertake to help other people up hill should ascertain first whether they are able to undertake the task.

If some men had looked as earnestly for work as they did for liquor they would now be rolling in affluence instead of in the gutter.

Many less bankrupts would there be every year were the ambition of those launching into business seasoned with a little more foresight.

Clerks who shirk their duty because their efforts are not appreciated by unreasonable employers fail to recognize what they owe to themselves.

There is one great difference between an advertiser and his advertisement: the one is no more after a few years, while the other lives forever.

There are plenty of people sighing for municipal honors, but many of the men for whom the people are sighing respond not to their importunity.

What a lot of work the politicians are doing for their respective parties these days, and what a lot of work for the business interests of the country they are leaving undone!

It is possible that ideas too large for one store will be too small to keep alive another place of business into which the possessor of the ideas has moved.

Cleveland's doctrine is more likely to cleave the land of the Stars and Stripes in twain than to sever the British lion from its purpose in Venezuela.

Merchants or clerks who gamble may win money, but they are as sure to lose all chances of success in life as is the maple to lose its foliage in November.

Nearly every community of merchants believe in business men's associations, but, like religion, they will never get the desideratum until they reach out to possess it.

The grocers of Allegheny have organized against dead beats. If the membership is composed of live members, some at least of the beats will be dead before long.

The baking business has become so hot in London that the price of bread has been dropped to four cents per loaf, and instead of decreasing it has rather increased the heat.

If the late President Monroe could be interviewed it is quite likely he would repudiate President Cleveland's interpretation of the doctrine that bears his (Monroe's) name.

He who avers that advertising draws money out of instead of into the pocket is in the same boat with he who could not see the logic of baiting his hook with a minnow to catch a mackerel.

The ice fortress that is being built at Quebec is not for the purpose of freezing out the Yankees. It is rather an outward sign of an inward desire that our quarrelsome cousins should come and enjoy the carnival.

J. A. CHIPMAN, OF HALIFAX.

J. A. CHIPMAN, of the firm of J. A. Chipman & Co., millers' agents and commission merchants, Halifax, whose portrait accompanies this sketch, began business in Halifax in 1868, under the auspices of that celebrated prophetic boom, that Halifax would soon become "the Liverpool of America." For a greater portion of that time he has been identified with the flour and produce commission trade of the city and province, having considerable business connections with all parts of the Dominion of Canada and some portions of the United States. He has been associated with the Halifax Board of Trade all these years, and has ever sought to the best of his ability to promote the interests of the city in which he lives. He has taken a somewhat active part in encouraging the development of the West India trade, by advocating the establishing of a direct line of steamers; in fact, a warm advocate of the expending of public moneys in subsidies, believing that public moneys judiciously expended for the purpose of exporting the products of Canada was the best kind of protection that could be given the people. He was an earnest advocate for the extension and better terminal facilities of the railway system at Halifax, working for that purpose on a committee for 8 or 10 years, and is now about to see the object for which he has striven accomplished. He has been identified with the various committees of the Board of Trade and a warm advocate of a fast line of steamships, the probability of which is looked forward to at the present moment with a great degree of satisfaction by a large portion of the people of Canada.

HOW MONEY IS LOST.

John R. Ransom, writing, upon this subject in Implement Age, blames a person for lending his friend money to aid him in some task which he acknowledges, by his desire to borrow, surpasses his ability to accomplish, thereby overstraining his talents and precipitating ruination upon him. If one will lend, he advises in all cases taking security. Applying this view to mercantile credit, he says:

"If the merchant will look at his goods as so much money, why will he part with them on any less security than the banker or financier who is generally successful? Until the operator can ground this principle in his credits, failures are almost certain; if not hopeless failure, loss of profits and money follows, to a dead certainty.

"The reason why merchants give long credit is that they are allured by the profit and lose sight of the absolute money engaged; for, let anyone investigate the matter, and he will see that if no profit was in the transaction, or very little, the credit would not be so readily given, if given at all. Then the principle results that money is lost in an overstrained desire for profit, as a general rule, though it may be lost occasionally when this principle does not enter. Nor need the merchant say that business cannot be done without excessive crediting.

"If the purchaser cannot give, or will not give, endorsed paper or security, if he is worthy of credit let him give what he would be compelled to give to a bank—thirty, sixty or ninety day notes. Nor should these be taken without the utmost scrutiny, for if such merchant will realize that the acceptance of such notes might be the cause of his failure he would be very cautious. Experience has shown, too, that there is not as much danger in loss on small as on large transactions. Men generally lose on big amounts, and such would be the philosophical reasoning if experience had not taught the fact. No one will be likely to go wrong in taking paper who will adopt the banking principle of time and responsibility. That some losses will occur, even under such a severe rule of credit, no one will deny, but such is the most perfect plan in the giving of credits for merchandise or other valuables."

WELL DONE, EDMONTON!

The Edmonton correspondent of The Winnipeg Free Press says:

Edmonton now contains two wholesale grocery stores, two banks, two printing offices, two hardware stores, six general stores, one grocery and feed, one flour and feed, two bakeries, three confectioneries, two gents' furnishings, two tailors, two saddlers, three grain-ware houses, four fur dealers, two millinery and fancy goods, two dry and fancy goods, three stationery, two drugs, one sewing machine, one furniture, sewing machine and musical instruments, two watchmakers and jewelers, three agricultural implement dealers, two wholesale liquor stores, three large hotels, four livery stables, three blacksmiths, one brewery, one carriage builder, four butchers, three pork-packing houses, one photographer, post office, telephone system, telegraph, electrical lighting and power company, two tobacconists, one second-hand store, two auctioneers, one dentist, two entertainment halls, one saw and grist mill, with wood-working machinery, one sash and door factory, three brick yards, ten coal mines supply coal at from $1.75 to $1.80 per ton delivered. The professions are represented by eight lawyers, six doctors, four professional nurses, and music teachers.

Edmonton is also the great fur emporium of the continent; here are gathered the furs from within the Arctic circle, North Pacific coast, on the west, and as far east as Lake Winnipeg, and south to the international boundary. Last season $250,000 worth of furs were marketed here, besides all that the Hudson's Bay Co. brought in on their own account.

Edmonton has more than doubled its population since incorporation.

DUTY ON DRIED FRUITS.

Produce Markets' Review, London, Eng.: The duty payments of the three principal kinds of dried fruit for the three months of the season, and also for the first eleven months of the year, are given below. It will be seen that there is a slight increase in each of the figures, with the exception of Valencias, during the last three months, which show a small falling off:

Three Months, viz., September, October and November.

	1894.	1895.
Currants.....	12,417	12,639
Valencias.....	6,077	5,814
Sultanas.....	3,148	3,799

Eleven Months from January 1.

	1894.	1895.
Currants.....	24,722	26,215
Valencias.....	7,246	7,569
Sultanas.....	7,226	7,368

Considering the many articles which directly compete with dried fruit, it is satisfactory to see that the trade is holding its own.

The man who reads a trade paper may not be wise, but I never knew a fool to read a trade paper.

To the Trade:

We beg to thank our friends who have given us all, or such a large share, of their trade for the year now closing. We feel we have done well for them in every way—bringing all our goods from country of production, and buying everything from first hands. Handling our business economically, we have laid down our goods to our friends on a low basis of cost. Those that favor us with their trade for 1896 can rely on the same fair treatment heretofore extended to the trade.

We wish all our friends a happy and prosperous New Year.

GROCERS' COLLECTING BUREAU.

EDITOR GROCER, — In answer to "Grocer," I would say it is surprising what small things perplex some people. The only cloud I can see in "Grocer's" eye which can be perplexing him and obscuring his vision is the thought of the secretary getting the large amount of twelve hundred dollars a year for his entire services.

If "Grocer" had to pay the whole amount himself it would not be surprising, but as he would only have to pay three dollars a year more than he does now for all that extra service, I fail to see what he can be perplexed about, unless it is that he would be receiving so much for so little.

If "Grocer" had $200 worth of accounts to collect, and he had a man trotting about every day in the year collecting these accounts, and he only got half of them, would that be any benefit to him? The article was generated by a strong desire to try and make the association a valuable institution to its members, and was simply a suggestion thrown out for the members of the association, or any other grocers' association in the Dominion or in the world, to think over and decide whether they thought it advisable or not to adopt it.

If "Grocer" thinks it would be a picnic to collect for three hundred grocers, and give them satisfaction, I don't. It has always been the object of my life to try and serve my fellowmen to the best of my ability, and that alone is the motive which prompted me to make that suggestion. I have always been anxious to make the association one of value to its members, and one which every grocer in the city would like to belong to, and that I feel can only be accomplished by giving them value for their money. The principal reason why the present system is not a success is, I believe, because there is a lack of unity and support; imagine the few grocers who send in their accounts for collection to solicitors—from fifteen to twenty out of about two hundred. They are really out of pocket; at least, they have shown me where they were. Such support is enough to discourage any man, if he has the heart of a lion, and if my suggestion materialized it would be as much a failure, and perhaps more so, if it did not get better support than the present system does. The solicitors for the Grocers' Association are gentlemen and deserve credit for the way they have stuck to the work, considering the poor support they have had.

I have no doubt about the new scheme being a success if it should be supported.

"PURE GOLD" AT HOME.

I DO not dance, and for one good reason: I can't. But I nevertheless enjoy the annual At Home of the employees of the

A. JARDINE, senior partner.

Pure Gold Mfg Co. of Toronto. This annual event is due to the munificence of the firm. But this mere entertainment is not the only evidence of the attitude of Pure Gold's employers towards its employees. Any one who had attended the At Home held in Webb's parlors on Friday night last would have come to this conclusion. At least, that was my conclusion, at any rate. Mr. A. Jardine, the senior member of the firm, quietly moved about here and there with a benign smile, placing his hand on the shoulder of this and that employee, or bandying pleasantries with each in turn, male or female. Mr. J. D. Roberts, the manager and junior partner, J. D. Roberts, manager and junior partner, with a programme card dangling at the end of one finger, a skip in his feet and a smile in his face, seemed to me to be omnipresent in pursuance of his desire to look after the welfare of his guests. Mr. G. F. Anderson, the cashier of the firm, also expended much energy, not in dancing, but in looking after the dancers. I understand he is as great an expert in creating fun as in raising cash. The Scotch reel is his favorite. This highly exciting dance was not on the programme. Now Mr. Anderson thought it should be. Shortly after the dancing began I noticed him canvassing this and that gentleman and this and that lady. Thinking he was perhaps running for Mayor I made enquiries: "Oh, no," replied the portly Mr. Monro, one of their travellers, "it is a Scotch reel he is looking after. He wants to see it danced." And when it was near the midnight hour, amid a furore of excitement, the Scotch reel came off. Those who took part in it were Capt. J. F. Ramsay, Col.-Sergeant Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Logie, Mrs. M. Quinn, Miss Myers, Miss Cowan, Mr. John McLean. Mr. Anderson wore a big smile the rest of the evening.

But I would not say that the Scotch reel was the event of the ballroom. To my mind there was as much interest taken in the set of lancers which Mr. Jardine consented to figure in. His employees, or in fact anyone else in Toronto for that matter, had never seen him dance before. After the dance, I with others, elbowed my way in to congratulate him. "Well," he rejoined as he wiped his brow, "the last dance I had was in St. John, and as I left there in 1863, you can see it was a long time ago since I stood up to go through a dance."

The clock now indicated 11.45 p.m. and supper was announced. Mr. Geo. Anderson took the chair, while seated to his right were Mrs. J. D. Roberts, Dr. Stark, Miss Jardine, Mr. T. H. L. Litster, poet laureate to the firm. On the chairman's left were Mr. J. D. Roberts, Mrs. (Dr.) Stark, Mr. Jardine, Miss Jardine.

At 12.30 Chairman Anderson arose, with the smile induced by the Scotch reel still on his face, and said: "Ladies and gentlemen, I could talk by the hour, but I do not think you want me to, so I will not."

After "The Queen" had been honored, the toast, "The Pure Gold Manufacturing Co.," was proposed, the names of Messrs. Jardine and Roberts being coupled therewith. In order, I presume, to give these gentlemen opportunity to collect their thoughts, the chairman called up Poet Laureate Litster to render the "Pure Gold" song, which he had, under orders extraordinary, composed for the occasion. Mr. Litster complied, the guests joining in the chorus. The first verse and chorus ran as follows:

"PURE GOLD" SONG.

Tune: "Love's Golden Dream."

Since we met round this festive board,
A year has passed away—
While other firms are losing ground,
We still work night and day.
Success hath all our efforts crowned,
And we have lived to see
Each line we make, wide world renowned
For strength and purity.

CHORUS—"Pure Gold" shall last for aye,
Echo the glad refrain;
Ever by night and day,
Shout it with might and main.

Mr. Jardine, on rising, was loudly applauded. He facetiously remarked that he could talk for an hour, but he would not. "A year," he added, "does not seem to me to be as long as it used to be. When I was a boy I thought it would be a long time before I became a man, but to look back it does not seem long since I was a boy. It does not seem long since we had our last annual gathering. I am exceedingly pleased to see so many around this table. I was pleased to see so many in the ballroom. I think it is pleasant for so many of us, employers and employees, to meet together on occasions like this away from the duties and cares of everyday business." After indulging in a few pleasantries and wishing those present the compliments of the season, Mr. Jardine took his seat amid applause.

Mr. Roberts declared that speech-making was not in his line. "As I left the house to-night my wife said: 'Now, Jack, don't you attempt to make a speech, for you know you cannot.'" He did not, however, sit down before expressing his pleasure at seeing so many present and wishing all a merry Christmas.

"The Ladies" brought Capt. Ramsay, of J. F. Ramsay & Co., to his feet. Although a bachelor, he expressed great admiration for the ladies, and ventured the remark that some day he might be a happy married man. (Allow me to venture, parenthetically, that I do not think the gallant captain is a very miserable-looking single man.) Before taking his seat he hit upon the novel idea of asking all the ladies to arise. When they did so he thanked them, and a thought ran through my mind that, perhaps, he wanted to see if there was anything that would suit him among the ladies present.

During the evening Miss Thompson gave a recitation, and Messrs. James Litster and A. Rubbra solos.

It was 2.30 o'clock when the guests, some hundred and fifty, filed out of the dining hall back to the dance hall, to finish their devotions to Terpsichore.

A NEW BRAND OF SALMON.

"Ice Castle" salmon is a new brand on the Canadian market. For years past it has held the English market, which took the whole output. Monday last I was shown a sample by the Hamilton agents, W. H. Gillard & Co., and cannot but pronounce it excellent. The packers claim superiority from the fact that the salmon are caught by a method that obviates the danger of bruising and discoloring them. The packers are Malcolm & Windsor, Vancouver, B.C., and Montreal, who are also the packers of the "Ice Castle" brand of canned fruit and vegetables.

The Greatest Discovery of the Nineteenth Century

KNOX'S EGG PRESERVER

FRESH EGGS THE WHOLE YEAR
AT THE LOWEST COST

WHAT WE CLAIM FOR EGG PRESERVER—It is harmless; no poison; does not discolor the shells; costs less than $\frac{1}{4}$ c. per dozen to lay down eggs; a child can use it; eggs do not need any turning or other attention after once treating; lay them away in a box or basket in a cool, dry place; you can lay down your winter supply when eggs are cheap; a merchant when overstocked can preserve his eggs and hold for a rise instead of being forced to sell for fear they would spoil on his hands; the farmer and egg raiser need not sell their eggs until prices suit them.

Heretofore eggs bought in the warm weather have to be used AT ONCE, or they are lost. With the aid of the Egg Preserver you can not only save this loss, but lay down in summer all the eggs you will want in the fall and winter, which will make a nice sum on your investment. This new compound was discovered last year, and before trying to put it on the market it was thoroughly tested so that we might know if we dare put OUR OWN GUARANTEE on it. This we now stand ready to do, and our guarantee is: Egg Preserver, when PROPERLY USED ON STRICTLY FRESH EGGS, will keep them as good as the day they were laid down for ONE YEAR, or MONEY REFUNDED.

We have tests that have been made over 13 months. Twenty dozen of eggs were purchased and laid down October 1st, 1894; these were broken from time to time to see how they would stand. The last lot were broken November 9th, 1895, 13 months and 9 days from the time of laying them down. These were tested by good judges, and their opinion was that they were fresh laid eggs.

HELPS TO YOUNG MEN.

REV. J. R. MILLER, writing on "Mistakes Young Men Make," says: I have abundant material for this article in the record of twenty-five years' work among men. A great many young men fail. Moral failures are not the only ones. There are many who are not destroyed by their vices, who yet make very little of their life. They are good, but good for little or nothing. The possibilities within them are never developed.

A young man ought to make the most of his life in all ways—in mental culture, in moral character, in work, business or profession, in social influence and in religious activity. Whatever mars this full-rounded manhood at any point is a mistake.

Men fail of their best because they did not prepare well for life in the days when preparation was their only duty. The boy cannot afford to miss one lesson. That one may contain the very bit of knowledge for want of which he will some day stand confused at the door of a great opportunity, unable to enter. Young men make a serious mistake when they fail to improve their early opportunities for preparation.

Another mistake many young men make is the forming of a distaste for work. They like as many hours as possible for rest, for social pleasure, for amusements. Their aim really is, not to make the most of life, but to have a good time. They dislike work. They chafe under rules and discipline. They keep their eyes on the clock, eager to get away the moment the hand touches the hour.

When such habits have been formed in early life there is little hope for a young man's future. The only sure saving of manhood is an enthusiasm for work, and a capacity for a measureless amount of it. Work knits thews of strength in body and soul, disciplines the life into nobleness and power, and develops the talents to their best. The young man makes an irreparable mistake who forms easy-going habits. He will never be able to take the best prizes in life, to win the success that would have been possible if he had learned to use all his capabilities.

Get leave to work
In this world: 'tis the best you get at all:
For God, in cursing, gives us better gifts
Than man in benediction. God says "Sweat For foreheads;" men say "Crowns;" and so we are crowned,
Ay, gashed by some tormenting circle of steel Which snaps with a secret spring. Get work! Get work!
Be sure 'tis better than what you work to get.

Another mistake made by many young men is the failure to grasp life's true meaning and purpose. We are put into this world not merely to get through it in any sort of way, and to get a reasonable share of comforts as we go along. It would not be worth while for God to make a man, putting into him such marvellous capacities, if that were all he meant him to do with himself. Life is given us, first, that we may develop its every faculty and power to its utmost possibility; and then, that we may use its every energy in doing our full part in the world's work.

With many, however, there seems never to be one serious thought about life. It is all play. There is no sense of responsibility to God, no conception of obligation to others. Self is the centre of all. We are put in this world to grow into the noblest possible manhood, and then to serve our generation in the way that will do the greatest good.

Not to realize this divine purpose is to live largely in vain. No graver mistake could be made.

Many young men make a mistake in the choosing of their friends. The influence of companionship is simply immeasurable. It does more than almost anything else in shaping the character.

Then, it gives one his place in the world among other men. A man is known by the company he keeps. If his associates are unworthy, with doubtful reputation, he cannot have the respect and confidence of better people. Hence a young man fixes his rank and place among his fellows, unalterably, by his selection of companionships.

It needs no argument, therefore, to prove that he who permits himself to take into his life unworthy persons as his friends, commits an irreparable mistake.

A rabbit's foot was caught in the hunter's steel trap. The little creature seemed to realize that unless it could get free it would soon die. So, with an admirable bravery, it knawed off its leg with its own teeth, thus freeing itself, though leaving its foot in the jaws of the trap. If a young man discovers that he is in the snare of evil companions, whatever it may cost him, he should tear himself away from it.

Another mistake which many young men make is leaving God out of their life. We are made for God, and when men break away from Him, they cut themselves off from the one source of all true blessing and good. All the terrible moral failures, which strew life's course with so sad wrecks, are consequences of this fatal error.

It goes without saying that the young man makes a mistake who begins to drink, or who does not keep himself pure, or who lies or uses profane language, or who is dishonest in even the smallest things. These are sure ways to ruin. To save the life from these and all like perils one must recognize God's right to his love, worship and obedience. He who is true to God is true to his soul, and will live nobly among men.

WESTERN TRAVELERS.

President Dillon was in the chair at the annual meeting of the Western Ontario Travelers' Association, held in London on Saturday afternoon, and other members present were Messrs. Alf. Robinson, secretary; P. J. Conroy, R. C. Struthers, W. E. R. Eardley, Robt. Tait, W. H. Escott, R. R. Golding, W. S. Case, H. B. Callander, A. S. Tassie, Dan. MacKenzie, J. M. Logan,

A notice of motion by Mr. Crabb to raise the mortuary benefits of members of eight years' standing and over from $700 to $800 was lost.

A motion by Mr. Tassie, seconded by Mr. Logan, to do away with proxy voting, except at elections, was discussed at length, and finally was dropped by the mover, who promised to bring the matter up at a later date.

Mr. Tait moved, seconded by Mr. Conroy, that $150 be placed to the credit of the board for benevolent purposes. Agreed.

THE CUSTOMS CONTROLLERSHIP.

THE Dominion Government appears to have again made one of its periodical unbusinesslike blunders: It has appointed Hon. J. F. Wood to the Controllershship of Customs.

Against Mr. Wood personally THE CANADIAN GROCER has not a word to say beyond the fact that he is not the man for the position. As far as we are aware, he has made an acceptable Controller of Inland Revenue, and his name has been free from political scandal.

But the Controllershship of Inland Revenue and the Controllershship of Customs are two different things: the one is a sinecure compared with the other. In the Department of Inland Revenue the practical head and generalissimo is Commissioner Miall; in the Customs Department the Controller is the head de facto. But, granted that equal ability is demanded at the heads of the two departments, that does not alter the fact that the Government has made a blunder in this, its latest appointment.

The Customs Department is a strictly commercial branch of the governmental system, and the exigencies of the case demand, and the business interests of the country have demanded, that its head shall be a practical business man. But right in the face of this the Cabinet has placed in charge a lawyer. Verily, how doth the partisan ignore business material, either in constructing or reconstructing Cabinets!

Scarcely would the Government appoint a counter-jumper as the commandant of a revenue cutter or a business man to the Chief Justiceship of the Supreme Court. But it is certainly putting a round peg into a square hole when a lawyer is deputed to do the work that can only be performed satisfactorily by a business man pure and simple.

It is quite clear that the mercantile interests of the country can receive no recognition from the present Cabinet. And not only from the present, but probably from all others, until the merchants of this country present a more united front than they now do.

Let by all means lawyers be appointed to Government positions both in and out of the Cabinet, where proficiency in legal lore is essential, but the business interests demand that practical business men, and not lawyers, shall be appointed to offices purely commercial in their character. But the present Cabinet appears to be so lacking in common sense that we even despair of a solid phalanx of business men being able to knock sense into it. A surgeon at any rate would first need to perform an operation before sense could be injected into their official craniums.

WHY CHEESE IS DULL.

EXPORT business in our great dairy product, cheese, has been absolutely lifeless since the close of navigation, and the fact is attracting more or less attention throughout the country.

It is evident, in fact, that the matter has resolved itself into a trial of endurance between the English buyer, on the one hand, and the Canadian holder, on the other.

With the exception of possibly 50,000 boxes, all the cheese in Canada is controlled by shippers, and they express great confidence in the future. Their chief reliance is placed on the admittedly large shortage in the exports to Great Britain from this continent during the current season.

Since the first of May to date the Canadian exports are fully 30,000 boxes less than those for the preceding year, while the shortage this season in exports from New York has steadily increased, until it now stands at considerably over 300,000 boxes. In fact, approximately almost 400,000 boxes less have been sent across the Atlantic from the whole of North America than last year.

With this great decrease in mind, and the lower prices this year, which are fully $2\frac{1}{2}$ c. per lb., or \$1.75 per box, less than last year, it is not surprising that sellers in Canada should be disinclined at present to rush sales. Of course, they may gain nothing by holding, but they argue that the cost of carrying past the turn of the year is a bagatelle, while the statistical position is strongly in their favor.

No activity is expected therefore—unless the Britishers advance their bids before the middle of January.

It will be interesting, therefore, to see which party will be successful, the English buyers in their efforts to get fine Canadian fall cheese for 9c. per lb. and less, or the Canadian owners, who firmly believe that it is worth $9\frac{1}{2}$ to $9\frac{3}{4}$ c. per lb.

PEPPER AND OUR SPICE IMPORTS

NOT for a long time has the pepper market been in such a demoralized condition as it now is. The unsatisfactory conditions, of which the present appears to be the climax, began about a year or more ago, and is largely the result of over-production.

In New York some 50,000 bags of pepper were recently damaged by fire, 16,000 bags being rendered worthless. But, in spite of this, the market is still unsettled and demoralized, and prices are down to a point which they have not roused for years.

The chief market for pepper, as far as Western Canada at any rate is concerned, is New York, and since this became so it has somewhat revolutionized the methods of doing business.

When England was the chief purchasing market the orders were for much larger lots than is now the case with purchases made in New York. A spice manufacturer that purchased say two hundred bags at a time when he bought in the former country, now only takes in the neighborhood of twenty bags. And importers declare that the results are better, from at least a profit point of view.

The Trade and Navigation Returns furnish no information regarding this particular commodity, it coming in under the clause, "Ginger and spices of all kinds (except nutmegs and mace)." And it may be interesting to note that the imports of unground spices under this head have declined nearly 20 per cent. from Great Britain for the four years ending June 31st, 1894, and 3 per cent. from the United States. Ground spices during the same period have declined 65 per cent. from Great Britain and nearly 82 per cent. from the United States. Taking all countries into consideration, imports of unground spices have declined nearly 13 per cent. for the four years, while ground has declined 79 per cent. During the same four years the imports of nutmegs and mace have declined about $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. from Great Britain, while those from the United States show a fractional increase. Taking the imports from all countries there was, however, an increase of $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. The increases are from the British East Indies, British West Indies, Germany and Spain, none of which, except the first-named, figured in the imports of 1890.

SOME SUGAR FEATURES.

The sugar market is an interesting one at present, for prices, despite the recent advance in yellows, the firmness outside, and the new duties imposed last spring, are low, compared with former years.

In fact, as we have noted frequently before, the Canadian market ever since the beginning of February, 1894, has been one of the, if not the, cheapest market for refined sugar.

In 1894 the lowest price in New York was 4 1-16c. for granulated sugar, while it went as high as 5 3/4c., but the Canadian price never went over 4 3/4c. at the refineries. This feature is worthy of attention in view of the position of raw in New York.

In former years Canadian refiners drew most of their supplies of raw cane stock from the East Indies, but during the past two years they have taken more Cuban sugar from New York.

Advices from Cuba are decidedly bullish in their nature, and if they are borne out by the course of events, the cost of raw will be affected to a certain extent, and, of course, refined will feel the influence.

In this event Canadian prices are apt to be ruled to a material extent by the position and price of the raw article at New York.

TURKEYS IN THE HOLIDAYS.

THERE has been a shortage of turkeys so far this holiday season, and as a result prices are firm.

The smallness of the receipts has been probably due to the warm weather, dealers being afraid to send on their fowl.

It is expected that the market will be easier hereafter.

Now, as this bird of luscious flesh plays such an important part in the festivities of this season, a brief paragraph on its origin may not be inappropriate at this time.

The turkey is a native of North America and made its first bow to civilization when European explorers set foot upon American shores.

The early voyagers, Cortez or Pizarro, probably carried some good specimens of the turkey home with them to Europe.

The introduction of the American fowl was followed by some attempts at domesticating it, and in the early part of the eighteenth century the Royal Park of Richmond, near London, contained about 2,000 turkeys, but in consequence of the frequent fights between poachers and keepers, it was thought best to destroy them. In the other European countries the fowl is almost unknown.

ON A CASH BASIS.

We have to compliment G. A. Bingham, of Aylmer, Ont., on the brightness of a circular he has just gotten out.

Mr. Bingham calls his place of business "The Lively Dollar," and in his announcement he states that on Saturday, Jan. 4, 1896, he will give up the credit system and start to do business on a purely cash basis.

He gives his reasons for the departure, making out a good case, and informs his customers that under the new system they, as well as he, can save money.

WHAT THE UNITED STATES WOULD LOSE BY WAR.

A WAR between the United States and Great Britain would be a most calamitous thing: calamitous both for the world at large and the contending parties.

While it is difficult to persuade one's self that such a thing as war between the two great English-speaking nations of the world is probable, yet, in view of the present strained relations between the two countries over the Venezuela affair, such an undesired event is possible. It is to be hoped that wiser counsels will prevail, and that an open rupture between people so closely allied to each other by blood relationship, and, in many respects, interests in common may be obviated.

At the same time, however, England cannot recede from the position she has taken. She is obviously in the right, and to withdraw from the ground she has taken would be tantamount to confessing that in the first instance she was wrong.

As Lord Salisbury points out in his communications with the Government of the United States, the Monroe doctrine is not in the code of international law. But granted that it was, no just tribunal in the world would assert that it applied to the dispute now pending between Great Britain and Venezuela. England is not seeking to extend its territory on the American continent. It is merely claiming what was its own before Venezuela had a being. And for the United States to arrogate to itself the divine right to dictate to Great Britain in the premises is presumption of the most pronounced type.

But, Monroe doctrine or no Monroe doctrine, when did the Creator of the universe allocate to the people of the United States the prior claim of decreeing what should or should not be done on the continent outside its own domain? Great Britain was a power on this continent nearly two centuries before the republic of the United States was ever dreamed of, while the British Empire in America to-day is quite a few acres larger than the United States.

Nations, like individuals, should possess some sense of decorum, but the United States is often possessed of the bullying characteristics of the western cowboy rather than those of a dignified nation with a sense that other nations besides itself have some rights in the world.

A war with Great Britain would be the most unfortunate thing that could possibly happen for the United States commercially. Every seaport in the United States would be blockaded by the British navy so effectually that not one ounce of merchandise would either have ingress or egress.

To be cut off from her trade with the British Empire alone would be a calamity more dire than British shot and shell could directly inflict on her great seaboard cities. This is evident from the trade returns of the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30th.

These returns show that during the period in question the United States exported to the different parts of the British Empire merchandise to the value of $474,273,032, or 59 per cent. of her total export trade. Her imports from the British Empire aggregated about $238,000,000 or 31 per cent. of the whole. The aggregate trade (imports and exports) with the British Empire is valued at over $712,000,000.

This is a sum whose import is greater than the human mind can grasp. But it would by no means represent the total loss that a war with Great Britain would entail. Every vessel carrying the United States flag would be driven off the high seas or drop into England's pocket. Then, besides this, there is the loss of traffic that the railways and the internal system of navigation would incur through no goods being carried to the seaboard for export. Furthermore, a loss incalculable would be entailed through the large amount of British capital that would necessarily be withdrawn from the United States by British capitalists in the event of hostilities.

Great Britain holds $1,500,000,000 of United States securities. This, says no less an authority than The New York Journal of Commerce, gives Great Britain the power to precipitate the United States into "virtual bankruptcy at its pleasure." "Suppose then," adds this same journal, "that one-fifth of our English creditors should send home our obligations for liquidation," where would the required $300,000,000 of gold, the only money of international settlements, come from? Not a shot has yet been fired, but the President's unstatesmanlike and foolish message has already wrought tremendous injury to the people of the United States. No less a personage than Chauncey Depew estimates that the losses of the first three days of the panic amounted to over one billion dollars to the American people: English holders of securities sold out, wheat and cotton declined, and many firms were made bankrupt, while, as a natural concomitant of these things, gold to the extent of $6,580,000 last week went to Europe.

Of course, all the losses from actual war would be by no means on the part of the United States. Great Britain would suffer, and suffer heavily. But Great Britain's trade would only be crippled as far as that with the United States is concerned. With the rest of the world her communication would remain intact, and the United States could not lift a finger to prevent it.

The more one considers the frightful loss commercially that a war with Great Britain would entail, the less probable does war appear to be, for Uncle Sam is, at least, guided as much by dollars as by patriotism, Providence or anything else.

THE WINES OF BORDEAUX.

INASMUCH as under the new Franco-Canadian treaty the wines of France are obtainable in Canada at moderate prices, an article on wines from a Paris journal is interesting.

The Figaro divides the wines of Bordeaux into four groups, to be found on the banks of the Garonne, Gironde and Dordogne rivers, and goes on to talk especially of St. Emilion and its vineyards, which were planted by monks and over-run during the ages in many successive wars.

The Figaro continues: "Probably nowhere in the world is the vine better cultivated than in Saint Emilion. The processes are perhaps a little old-fashioned and the new agricultural machines have not yet arrived; but the vine growers of the country make their boast that they raise their wines by hand. And how do they do it?"

"In January the vine still possesses intact its branches of last year covered with dry leaves. Then begins the pruning. On each plant, according to the vigor and force of the stock, are left one, two or three branches, with a number of eyes never exceeding eight. From these are to spring the fruit of the new year. Scarcely is this work over when February has come, and now the frames must be fixed in the ground and the frail branches which have been spared by the pruner of January must be tied up to them. March and April succeed and the sun begins to warm the vines. The plow is driven through the earth between the rows of vines, letting heat, air and life penetrate into the soil. Between times the women strip carefully the useless branches and leaves. The 'mannes,' or baby grapes, looking like bits of lichen, now appear, and if the nights do not turn frosty and kill them they will develop into succulent grapes.

"In May and June the work reaches a second stage, exactly like the first, only different. In April the study was to uncover the roots of the vine and condense on them the warm rays of the sun; now the second labor heaps up the earth around the stock to protect it against the heat of summer. In July a third labor begins, less arduous than those which have preceded it. Now, the earth, which begins to swelter under the sun, must have air, so it is loosened and watered. In August and September the fourth and last task is entered upon. From this time forward each stock will have its warm foot covering of earth; the furrows will be artistically rounded so that the rain may run off into the trenches. During all these summer months the weak wines have been carefully lopped, exuberant branches have been solidly tied up, sulphur has been dusted over the sour grapes and a mixture of evergreens and lime water has been vaporized over the leaves to preserve them from mildew. In short, all is ready for the great day of the grape harvest.

"This is rarely earlier than September 15, or later than October 10. As soon as the proprietor sees his grapes ripening, he hastens to mobilize his army of pickers, which he recruits from among the neighboring country people and the tramp pickers, who come partly from the city of Bordeaux and partly from the country side of the Dordogne. This army is armed, the women with scissors and wooden baskets, the men with big-eared buckets, carried on a pole across the shoulders. These are the foot soldiers. The baggage wagons are represented by large ox carts—but there is neither cavalry nor artillery. When the crop is heavy, the young ladies of the Chateau do not disdain to join this army themselves—so they may be called the reserve. And fine sport it is for these elegant young girls to put on short skirts of fine calico and pretty little wooden sabots, to wear the peasant head-dress of striped Madras and to work among the vines.

"All these workers march in procession to the fields; each cutter takes possession of a vine and work begins. The women cut the grapes into the wooden baskets, the men empty the baskets into the large buckets, and the buckets when full are loaded on the ox carts. Each ox cart, having received its load, is driven to the great tub; but at Saint Emilion, where the old traditions are scrupulously preserved, the fruit is often carried to the tub on the men's heads. But one way or another the grapes all go to the tub and thence to the press, while the gay vintage songs resound and the men and girls frolic together as they work.

"In the press the first treading separates the seeds from the grapes, and when these seeds have been thrown to the chickens and turkeys, who are very fond of them, the pulp and the mush are borne to the vat, which mighty tun will hold anywhere from 1,500 to 2,500 gallons. When this is full the trap is closed and all is ready for fermentation. And while the first bubblings of the mush go on inside, the harvesters are cutting grapes for the next vat. And so it goes on.

"At night the pickers sleep on straw beds, after a supper of thick soup and potatoes. This life will continue for ten weeks, when the season will be closed by the inevitable solemn visit of the pickers to the proprietor of the chateau in the court-yard. They present him with a bouquet and a speech; he replies in feeling words, and distributes silver dollars among them."

A PROGRESSIVE LONDON GROCER.

W. D. Thomas, grocer, London, has moved into his new store on the corner of Piccadilly and Colborne street, just in time to reap the Christmas trade harvest. Mr. Thomas is one of the most successful grocery men in London, and for some time past has felt that the building he occupied did not give him sufficient room to conduct his ever-increasing business to advantage. He therefore purchased a lot and erected one of the most complete and best arranged grocery stores in the "Forest City," if not in the Dominion. It is built of white brick, and the interior is finished in hard wood, with oil finish, and has very neat shelving on one side and glass case shelving on the other. Mr. Thomas has in every way considered the convenience of his customers as well as himself and employes. He has a model and well stocked store, and THE CANADIAN GROCER has no hesitation in predicting that further success will be the reward.

PRESERVING EGGS.

EDITOR GROCER.—Can you, or some of your readers, give me a receipt for liming and pickling eggs for winter use; also which is the best month for pickling?
C. P. F.

[REMARKS: We have several enquiries from subscribers from different parts of Canada asking for a receipt for pickling eggs. In reply to these inquiries we would refer our readers to the advertisement on page 12 of this week's issue. "Knox's Egg Preserver" comes on the Canadian market well recommended, and it is certainly well worth an honest and thorough trial. A letter to your wholesale grocer or to A. E. Richards & Co., Caledonia, Ont., will, no doubt, receive prompt attention. As far as a recipe for pickling or liming eggs is concerned, we have made several efforts to secure one for our readers, but as it is a carefully guarded secret we have not yet succeeded in our efforts. We have, however, another possible source in sight, and if we get the recipe we will publish it.—THE EDITOR.]

THIRTY CARLOADS OF FRUIT.

Canada is a large consumer of foreign dried fruit, and it has merchants who handle enormous quantities, when the population is taken into account. One of the largest dealers in this respect is W. H. Gillard & Co., of Hamilton, and we are assured that during this fall they handled over 30 carloads of Mediterranean fruits. W. H. Gillard & Co. certainly deserve to be congratulated.

TO OUR FRIENDS---THE RETAIL TRADE,-

We have to thank you for your valued patronage in the past and wish you prosperity and happiness during 1896-

The New Year suggests to us a host of new friends and the more closely cementing of old business relations- We recognize the fact that our own interests are best served by carefully guarding those of our friends, and our constant aim has been - and will be - to give them the best goods at the lowest possible prices.

You are not in business for your health - we know that - neither are we - You want money, and we desire to make it as easy as possible for you to secure the elusive and mighty dollar. Our largely increasing business is evidence that our efforts have been appreciated by keen buyers and judges of value-

Just a word about our Tea Department. Our sales for 1895 are the largest in the history of our business. There must be a reason for this, and we believe it is because the requirements of our customers have been carefully studied and no pains spared on our part to make that branch of their business a remunerative one. We don't buy an old thing just because it is cheap; rich liquoring goods are what the consumer wants and that's what we sell our customers.

Watch our tea advts during the coming year. We have values and it will pay you to know where to buy to the best advantage.

Again thanking you for your kind patronage in the past, and in anticipation of your future commands,

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

GROCERIES.

THE market is characterised by the usual Christmas week conditions: all the retailers have got their holiday supplies, the travelers are all in the warehouses, and business is enjoying a nap. But after the New Year it is expected to wake up and a nice trade is anticipated. The condition of the country roads is wretched, and as a consequence business in the country towns has not been as good as desired. In the large cities the Christmas trade appears to have been good. The demand for foreign dried fruits has practically ceased for the time being, but the market has been pretty well cleaned up, particularly in selected raisins and Malaga fruits. There is not much demand at the moment for anything, although sugar is moving better than a week ago, several carload lots having gone out during the past few days. In spices, the feature is a declining pepper market. Such staple lines as canned goods, teas, fruits, etc., are all quiet and steady in price.

CANNED GOODS.

The situation is unchanged, the demand being light and prices steady to firm. We quote: Tomatoes, 77½ to 85c.; corn, 75 to 85c.; peas, 90 to 95c. for ordinary; sifted, $1.05 to $1.10; extra sifted, $1.50 to $1.55; peaches, $2.90 to $3 for 3's, $1.90 to $2 for 2's; raspberries, $1.40 to $2.00; strawberries, $1.80 to $2.45, according to brand and quality; blackberries, $1.90 to $2.20; cherries, $2.40 to $2.45; apples, 3's, 85 to 90c.; gallons, $1.90 to 2.25; salmon, "Horseshoe," $1.35 to $1.40; "Maple Leaf," $1.35; "Lion," $1.35; Lowe Inlet, $1.27 to $1.30, in tall tins; cohoes, $1.10 to $1.20; canned mackerel, $1.10 to $1.20; lobsters, $1.80 to $2.10, for tall tins; flats, $2.35 to $2.65; half tins, $1.45 to $1.50; Canadian canned beef, 1's, $1.40 to $1.50; 2's, $2.40 to $2.55; 6's, $7.75 to $8.25; 14's, $16 to $18.

COFFEE.

A scarcity is still to be noted in good green Rio coffees, while poor grades are plentiful and cheaper. Local manufacturers report a good demand for ground coffees. We quote green in bags: Rio, 19 to 21c.; East Indian, 27 to 30c.; South American, 21 to 23c.; Santos, 20 to 22½c.; Java, 28 to 33c.; Mocha, 30 to 35c.; Maracaibo, 21 to 23c.; Jamaica, 21 to 25c.

SUGAR.

The market continues steady. Locally there is no change to note beyond the fact that the demand is rather better than it was, wholesalers reporting the sale of several carloads. Quotations rule as before. We quote: Granulated, No. 1, 4¾ to 4½c.; yellows, 3¾c. up.

SYRUPS.

Prices are higher in the United States by about 1 to 1½c. per gallon. Locally trade is quiet and featureless. We quote: Dark, 30 to 32c.; medium, 33 to 35c.; bright, 40 to 42c.

MOLASSES.

In molasses business is practically at a standstill. We quote: New Orleans, barrels, 25 to 32c.; half-barrels, 33½ to 35c.; Barbadoes, barrels, 31 to 35c.; half-barrels, 33 to 37c.

SPICES.

There is not much doing, and the only thing of interest to note is the weakness in pepper in the primary market. We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.; all-spice, 14 to 18c.

NUTS.

The holiday trade has been good in this line, but there has not been much done during the past week. Shipments of Bordeaux, Marbot and Grenoble walnuts are near at hand. We quote as follows: Brazil nuts, 14 to 15c.; Sicily shelled almonds, 25 to 26c.; Taragona almonds, 14 to 14½c.; peanuts, 10 to 12c. for roasted, and 7 to 10c. for green; cocoanuts, $4.50 to $5 per sack; Grenoble walnuts, 11½ to 12½c. Marbot walnuts, 12½c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 9c.; Sicily filberts, 8 to 10c. for sacks and 10½ to 11c. for small lots; pecans, 10½ to 11c.

TEAS.

Nothing new has developed. The position continues strong, but there is not much business doing in any description of tea. We quote ruling prices to retailers as follows: Young Hysons, 12 to 18c. for low grades, 24 to 27c. for mediums, and 30 to 45c. for high grades; China Congous, 14 to 18c. for mediums, and 25 to 55c. for high grades; Japans, 15 to 20c. for mediums, 28 to 35c. for high grades; Indians and Ceylons, 18 to 22c. for mediums, and 30 to 65c. for high grades.

The home consumption of tea in the United Kingdom, according to the Customs returns, is 6,000,000 pounds above the corresponding period last year. The re-export of British grown tea also materially increased. The quantity of India tea imported into the United Kingdom since the season began is two and one-fourth million pounds ahead of same period last season. The exports of Ceylon tea to the United Kingdom from January 1 to November 30 were 77,738,114 pounds.

DRIED FRUITS.

Valencia raisins are comparatively quiet, as is naturally the case with all kinds of foreign dried fruit. Selected fruit appears to be practically cleaned out of the market. One Toronto house, which had sold out, wanted to get some on the street, but failed to do so. There are a few layers, but off-stalk is plentiful. We quote: Off-stalk, 4½ to 4¾c.; fine off-stalk, 5 to 5½c.; selected, 6 to 6¾c.; layers, 6½c.

Currants are, if anything, a little firmer, and cable advices encourage buying. We quote: Fine Filhatras, in barrels, 4¼ to 4½c.; ditto, half-barrels, 4¼ to 4¾c.; ditto, half-cases, 4¾ to 5c.; Casalinas, cases, 5 to 5¼c.; Vostizzas, cases, 6 to 6½c.; ditto, half-cases, 6½ to 6¾c.; ditto, extra fine, 6¾ to 7¼c.; ditto, half-cases, 7¼ to 7½c.

Malaga raisins have been pretty well cleaned up. We quote: London layers, $1.85 to $1.90; black baskets, $2.50 to $2.75; blue baskets, $3.25; choice clusters, $3.25; Dehesa clusters, $3.75; Royal clusters, $4.25 to $4.50; Royal Buckingham clusters, $4.25; Non-Plus-Ultra and Royal Windsor, $6.

Bosnia prunes are 6d. higher on a cable offer. The smaller sized prunes are scarce in the primary market. The local market is pretty well supplied with "Sphinx" brand, new season's goods. There are only a few French prunes on the market, and on account of their high price it is not likely that many will be brought on. We quote prunes: Bosnias "Sphinx" brand, "A," 70-75 to lb., 9c.; "B," 80-85 to lb., 7¾c.; "U," 110-115 to lb., 6¾c.; California prunes, 40-50, 10 to 10½c. per lb.; 50-60 to box, 9½c. per lb.; 60-70 to box, 9c.; 70-80 to box, 8½c. per lb.; French, 5 to 6c.

There is nothing new to note in California fruit, business in them being quiet. We quote: Apricots, 13½ to 15c.; peaches, 10½ to 12½c.; pears, 10½ to 12½c.; plums, 6½c. for unpitted, and 12½c. for pitted; nectarines, 11 to 13c.; loose muscatels, 5½ to 6½c. per lb.

Sultana raisins are quiet and firm at 5 to 6½c., according to quality.

Figs are quiet. We quote: Eleme, 14 oz., 9 to 10½c.; 10 lb., 9½ to 12½c.; 18 lb., 13 to 15c.; 28 lb. 16 to 18c.

GREEN FRUIT.

Although the soft weather has interfered considerably with trade a big demand for oranges has been experienced, with the result that the market was cleared out early in the week. Some shipments have arrived, however, but stocks are still short and prices firm. We quote: Lemons—Messina, $3 to $4 per box; Malaga, in half-chests, $5 to $6; boxes, $2.50 to $3. Oranges—Jamaicas, fancy, in boxes, $5 to $5.50; choice, $4.75 to $5; in bbls., $9 to $9.50; Valencias, 420's, $5 to $5.50; 420's, Jumbo's, $7 to $7.50;

POULTRY—Poultry during the last few days has been decidedly firm, owing to the warm weather and the short supplies. But prices are expected to pick up after the holiday season. We quote: Geese, 5 to 6½c. per lb.; turkeys, 6 to 8½c. per lb.;

chickens, 25 to 40c. per pair; ducks, 40 to 75c. per pair.

HONEY—Strained brings 8 to 10c. per lb.; while combs go at $1.50 to $2 per doz. Honey seems scarce.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

Owing to the mild weather packers are not anxious buyers. For selected weights (100 to 240 lbs.) $4.50 is paid, and for under or over weights 25 to 50c. less. Products run thus:

DRY SALTED MEATS—Long clear bacon, 6½c. for carload lots, and 6¼ to 7c. for small lots; backs, 7½c.

BARREL PORK—Canadian heavy mess, $14; Canadian short-cut, $14.50; clear shoulder mess, $12; shoulder mess, $11.50.

FISH.

Dealers are much disappointed with the weather, which is spoiling their Christmas trade. The oyster market is overstocked. We quote standards at $1.15 to $1.25, and selects at $1.45 to $1.65. Fish are quoted as follows: Skinned and boned codfish, 6½c.; boneless fish, 3½ to 4c.; haddock, 5 to 6c.; Labrador herring, $3.25 to $3.50 per half barrel and $5.50 to $5.75 per barrel; Newfoundland herring, $2.50 per half barrel, and $4.50 to $4.75 per barrel; fresh water salt herring, $3 per barrel; blue-back herring, 3c.; pike, 6 to 7c. per lb.; flitched cod, 5c.; finnan haddies, 6½c.; Digby herring, in bundles of 5 boxes, 11c.; ditto, lengthwise, 10c.; large halibut, 12 to 15c.; Restigouche salmon, 20 to 25c.; British Columbia salmon, 13 to 14c.; mackerel, 20 to 25c.; steak cod, 6½ to 7c.; haddock, 5c.; black bass, 9 to 10½c. This firm has a complete assortment of fine drawing Moyunes and the value they are offering is much better than last year.

Clemes Bros. have to hand 2 cars of lemons, 1 car of fancy California navel oranges, and 1 car of evaporated peaches.

Perkins, Ince & Co. are in receipt of another shipment of Rio coffee ex. ss. Leibnitz. They also have to hand another shipment of Grenoble walnuts.

Smith & Keighley announce that notwithstanding their large Christmas trade they have still nicely assorted stocks of prunes, currants, dates, figs and raisins of all kinds.

Another invoice of "Hillwattee" tea is to hand with Lucas, Steele & Bristol. They find, they say, the red label the best seller, but some customers, will, however, have the blue.

W. H. Gillard & Co. have arriving some 300 odd chests of Assam and Ceylon teas. The shipment comprises several varieties of teas purchased for their superior liquoring qualities.

"We will start the year," say Lucas, Steele & Bristol, "with the cleanest tea stock we ever had. We have not a pound in our warehouse it is necessary to sell at cost. Very many of our purchases we cannot now duplicate."

QUEBEC MARKETS

MONTREAL, Dec. 26, 1895.
GROCERIES.

THE volume of trade in grocery staples and specialties has not been as active during the past eight days. Retailers, having supplied their wants pretty well, were doing less buying and the holiday and election excitement in the business division of the city have all contributed to restrict business. No changes of importance are to note and prices generally are steady to firm. This is notably the case with sugar, while dried fruits are very firmly held under light stocks. In this connection some good contracts for future delivery of Valencia raisins have been closed with western jobbers, shipment end of January and beginning of February. No special feature has been furnished by other lines.

SUGAR.

There has been no important change in the sugar market during the week. The tone is firm in sympathy with primary markets, and values are maintained. Some round lots have left refiners' hands, but as a general rule business is quiet. Granulated in 250 bbl. lots changed hands at 4½c. and 100 and 200 bbls. at 4 3-16c., and yellows 3¼ to 3½c. In a jobbing way we quote: Granulated, 4¾c., and yellows, 3¾ to 4c. as to grade.

SYRUPS.

Demand for syrup is slow and the market quiet and steady at 1½ to 2½c., as to brand.

MOLASSES.

Business in molasses is very dull, and values are unchanged. We quote: Barbadoes, 36 to 37c., and Port Rico, 35c.

RICE.

A fair trade is doing in rice for the season, and prices are steady.

SPICES.

These are unchanged as to value, and the volume of business is not as brisk as it was last week, retailers having supplied wants pretty freely. We quote: Pure black pepper, 10 to 12c.; pure white, 18 to 25c.; pure Jamaica ginger, 23 to 25c.; cloves, 15 to 20c.; pure mixed spice, 25 to 30c.; cream of tartar, French, 25 to 27c.; ditto, best, 28 to 30c. per lb.

COFFEE.

Demand for coffee has been slow and business small since our last. Prices are unchanged. We quote green in bags: Maracaibo, 20 to 21c.; Rio, 19 to 20c.; Java, 28c.; Jamaica, 20 to 21c., and Mocha, 32c.

TEAS.

There has been a fair distributing trade, but at this writing the volume of business is diminishing. Between jobbers few transactions of importance are noted except some Japans at 14 to 15c. Lower offers on Ceylons and Indian were noted during the week, but we did not hear of business resulting from them. We quote Japans: Low grades, 14c.; medium, 15 to 18c.; fine, 20 to 22c., and choice, 25 to 32c.

DRIED FRUIT.

Enquiry from western jobbers for Valencia fruit has been noted during the week, but the distributing business has been smaller. These enquiries on western account have resulted in commission men placing some good-sized contracts for future delivery. In the recent jobbing movement of the past six days, which is now decreasing, layers have been most enquired for, and are held firm. We quote: Ordinary off-stalk, 4¼ to 4½c.; fine off-stalk, 4¼ to 5c.; selected, 5½ to 5¾c., and layers, 6¼ to 6½c.

California raisins have been in fair enquiry, and prices are firmly held at 7c. for 4-crown and 5½c. for 3-crown fruit.

Table raisins are quiet and steady. We quote Malagas as follows: Extra loose muscatels, $1.40; Imperial London layers, $1.75; Imperial cabinets, $1.90; Connoisseur clusters, $2.20; extra dessert clusters, $3; Royal Buckingham clusters, $3.50.

There has been a moderate enquiry for sultanias at 6 to 6½c.

Currants rule firm and quiet, with supplies generally light in jobbers' hands. We quote: 3¾c. in barrels, 4 to 4¼c. in half-barrels, and 4½ to 4¾c. in half-cases.

Prunes continue firm, but business was rather quiet. We quote: Bosnia, 6 to 6½c.; ordinary French, 4½ to 5c., and French plums, 8 to 14c.

California prunes are moving moderately at steady prices, 8 to 9c.

Figs enquired for in a small way. We quote in boxes: 10-lb., 9 to 10c.; 20-lb., 14 to 15c.; and 50-lb., 16 to 17c.

Dates unchanged at 4½ to 5c.

NUTS.

Nuts were fairly active in a jobbing way until almost the close of the week. We quote: Grenoble walnuts, 12 to 13c.; filberts, 7½ to 8c.; Tarragona almonds, 11 to 11½c.; pecans, 9 to 14c., and shelled walnuts 27 to 30c.

CANNED GOODS.

The canned goods market was featureless and unchanged. We quote: Lobsters, talls, $8 per case; flats, $9 to $9.50; sardines, ordinary brands, $7 to $8.50; best brands, $9.50 to $10.50; salmon, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; tomatoes, 75 to 80c.; peaches, $2 to $2.25; corn, 85 to 90c.; marrowfat peas, 95c. to $1; strawberries, $2 to $2.25; raspberries, $1.75 to $2; green gages, $1.75 to $2; blue plums or damsons, $1.50 to $1.75; pineapples, $2 to $2.25 and 3-lb. apples, 80 to 85c.

WINES AND SPIRITS.

Business in wines and spirits is exceedingly quiet and there are no features to note, though of course the retailers are very busy now.

GREEN FRUIT.

The green fruit market has been quite active, especially for oranges, lemons and grapes on holiday account.

APPLES—Moderately active and firm at $2 to $5, as to quality.

GRAPES—The local jobbing demand for grapes has been noticeably good. Spanish, in kegs, move steadily at $5 to $6, as to grade.

ORANGES—The firm feeling noted last week is maintained and the market lightly supplied. Local enquiry has been active and prices steady at $9 per bbl. for Jamaica and $5.25 per box for Valencias.

LEMONS—Steady to firm with a fair enquiry at $3 to $3.50 per box.

CRANBERRIES—There has been a good local turnover of these, and prices have ruled very firm at $10 to $10.50, as to grade.

SPANISH ONIONS—No change, and business moderate at 30 to 35c. per crate.

FISH.

The fish market is much as it was a week ago, the chief enquiry being for fresh fish, haddock and cod at 3½ and 4c. furnishing most of the business.

Pickled are quiet, No. 1 Labrador herrings selling at $5.25, No. 1 N.S. at $4.50, and ordinary grades at $3 to $4 per bbl.; No. 2 Labrador salmon have sold at $13 per bbl.; B.C. salmon at $11; No. 1 lake trout at $4.25 to $4.50 per keg; No. 1 green cod at $4.50 to $4.75; No. 2 at $3 to $3.10; No. 2 mackerel at $17.50, and No. 1 pickled sardines at $4.50 per bbl.

Dried and boneless fish move only in a small way. Prices are unchanged at $4.25 to $4.50 per 100 lbs. for dried; 5½ to 6c. per lb. for boneless; 5c. per lb. for boneless haddock; 3¼c. per lb. for fish, and 11c. per lb. for shredded.

Demand for smoked fish continues good, and as there is no over supply values are maintained. Haddies are selling at 6½ to 7c. per lb., kippered herrings at $1.40 to $1.50 per box, Yarmouth and bay bloaters at 90c. per box, and smoked herrings at 8 to 10c. per box.

The stock of shell oysters on spot is large, and sales are slow at $3.50 to $4.50 per barrel, as to quality.

PROVISIONS AND DRESSED HOGS.

There was no improvement in the local provision market to-day, business being quiet and prices nominally unchanged. We quote: Canadian short cut, clear, $13.50; Canadian short cut, mess, $14; hams, city cured, per lb., 9 to 10c.; lard, Canadian, in pails, 8¼ to 8½c.; bacon, per lb., 9 to 10c.; lard, com. refined, per lb., 6¼ to 6½c.

Owing to the continued mild weather, the demand for dressed hogs, to-day, was slow, and trade, on the whole, was dull, sales being principally in small lots to fill actual wants, at $4.65 to $5, and car lots are offering at $4.50 per 100 lbs.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS—There was a fair demand for small lots of eggs to-day, and the market was moderately active and steady. We quote: Choice candled at 14 to 15c., and ordinary stock at 11½ to 12c. per dozen.

BEANS—The demand for beans was slow, and values were unchanged. We quote: Car lots of choice hand-picked at $1 to $1.05, and small quantities at $1.10 to $1.20.

POTATOES—In potatoes trade was quiet, the demand being only for small lots. Car lots of choice Early Rose are offering at 40 to 45c. per bag.

POULTRY—The continued mild weather has had a depressing effect on the poultry trade, and the market to-day was weak and prices for turkeys and chickens were lower. The receipts were large, and in order not to carry much stock over dealers in most cases showed a disposition to meet buyers' views. The demand was fair, and sales were effected freely. Choice turkeys sold at 7 to 7½c.; medium at 6c. to 6½c.; chickens at 5½ to 6c.; geese at 5 to 5½c., and ducks at 7½ to 8c. per lb.

FLOUR, MEAL AND FEED.

A fair local trade was reported in Manitoba grades of flour to-day, but the demand for Ontario grades was limited. The tone of the market was steady and values unchanged. We quote: Winter wheat, $3.65 to $4.00; spring wheat patents, $3.75 to $3.85; straight roller, $3.40 to $3.50; straight roller, bags, $1.60 to $1.70; extra bags, $1.45 to $1.55; Manitoba strong bakers', $3.40 to $3.65.

The market for oatmeal was quiet and prices rule steady. We quote: Standard, bbls., $3 to $3.10; granulated, bbls., $3 to $3.15; rolled oats, bbls., $3 to $3.15.

The demand for bran was good, but shorts and mouillie are moving slow. We quote: Bran, $14 to $15; shorts, $15 to $16; mouillie, $19 to $20.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The butter market is quiet and unchanged. Creamery is jobbing at 19½c., and some Kamouraska has been selling here at 14c. at the shipping point. Western dairy is only worth 13 to 14c., and slow at that.

The cheese market is dull, and if a holder wanted to sell he would have to shade. This there is no desire to do at present, and prices are nominal at 8½ to 9¼c.

HAY.

The hay market is firm at $13 for No. 1 and $12 to $12.50 for No. 2.

ASHES.

The ashes market is without change. We quote: Firsts, $3.70; seconds, $3.50, and pearls, $4.65.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 26, 1895.

THIS, our last report of the year, is one of a successful fall and holiday business. The week has not been, or at least the latter part of it has not been, active. The wholesale trade, however, kept up well to Christmas, and for the last two weeks the retail trade has been large. And though the weather has been too soft to have best results it is reported rather better than last season. The week has been a busy one at the wharfs, the Lake Ontario, of the Beaver Line, the Concordia, of the Donaldson Line, and the West India steamer being all in. The lumber market is good, there being good demand both in England and South America. Large quantities are being shipped by our dealers at good prices.

GUELPH, ONT.

Values during the past week show little change. Merchants are buying very lightly, and for at least a month there will be a quiet time. There is some inquiry among our butchers for Ontario beef.

SALT—There is little doing at this season. A small quantity arrived from Liverpool by steamer. The market is well supplied, and with the steamers arriving every two weeks there is no fear of shortage. We quote: Coarse, 50 to 55c.; fine factory-filled, $1.10; 5-lb. bags, $3.25 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $3 per bbl.; 20-lb. boxes, 20c.; 10-lb. boxes, 12c.; cartoons, $2 per doz.; salt, bulk, $2.70 to $2.80 per bbl.

OIL—The market is not steady, but no change is noted in prices here. The large contracts are filled and the heaviest months' business is over. There is a fair movement in lubricating. We quote: American burning oil, 23¼c.; best Canadian, 21½ to 21¾c.; prime, 19c.; no charge for barrel.

CANNED GOODS—At this season, when all business is quiet and merchants are looking forward to stock-taking, there is no branch which feels the state of trade more than this. Stocks held here are fairly large, larger rather than holders expected, retailers not having bought as freely as formerly. Bulk of stocks now on hand will have to be held some months. In canned oysters a rather firmer feeling is noted. The sale of canned fish here is limited, we being so near the coast, with fresh fish so plentiful. There is, however, outside of local packed goods, a small quantity of English canned fish sold. We quote: Corn, 85 to 90c.; peas, 90 to 95c.; tomatoes, 90 to 95c.; gallon apples, $2.15 to $2.25; corned beef, 2-lb. tins, $2.65 to $2.75; 1-lb. tins, $1.60 to $1.65; oysters, 2's, $2 to $2.25; 1's, $1.60 to $1.65; peaches, 3's, $2.75 to $2.85; 2's, $1.90 to $2; pineapple, Canadian pack, $2.35; salmon, $1.45 to $1.50; lobsters, $1.75 to $2; haddies, $1.30; clams, $5 for 4 doz.; chowder, $2.75 for 2 doz.; scallops, $5.50 for 4 doz.; Digby chickens, $1; kippered herring, $1.10.

GREEN FRUIT—After a good Christmas business the market is quiet. A quantity of West India oranges arrived by direct steamer this week; also some Valencias direct from Liverpool. Prices show little change, but both oranges and lemons tend easier. Keg grapes are firm, with light stocks. In apples there is also a firmer feeling, and best grades are held higher. Stocks are not large. We quote: Apples, $1.50 to $3; oranges, $6.25 to $6.50 per bbl., $3.50 to $4 per box; Lemons, $4 to $4.50; keg grapes, $6 to $6.50; Valencia oranges, $5 to $5.50.

DRIED FRUIT—The interest which has attached itself to this branch is about over. Stocks of Valencias are much smaller than usual, while that of California is much larger. Malaga lemons are marked lower, fair stocks being on hand. They are offered about the same price as Californias, though boxes contain two pounds more. As remarked by THE GROCER, the demand for cleaned currants has been very large. They are this season almost altogether put up by the wholesale grocery trade here. One dealer has cleaned some fifteen tons, and has found it difficult to keep up to the demand, though he employed five hands packing. In Nova Scotia the dried apples market is off and sales are reported as low as 4c. Evaporated tend firmer. There are no new prunes here and but few to arrive. So far Californias have not proved good sellers here, but it is expected they will have a better chance this year owing to light stocks of French. Trade in nuts is largely over. Prices show no change, though peanuts are higher about ½c. in Virginia. We quote: Valencias, 4½ to 5c.; layers, 6 to 6¼c.; half-boxes, 6½c.; quarter-boxes, 6¾c.; California L. M. 4-crown, 6 to 7c.; 3-crown, 5 to 6c.; London layers, $1.65 to $1.75. Currants, bbls., 3½ to 4c.; cases, 4 to 5c.; cartoons, cleaned, 7½c.; bulk, cleaned, 6½c.; prunes, kegs, 4c.; boxes, 4½ to 5c.; half-boxes, 6 to 8c.; citron, 15 to 16c., orange and lemon, 13c.; dates, 4½ to 5c.; dried apples, 5 to 5c.; evaporated apples, 7½ to 7¾c.; California evaporated peaches, 12 to 13c.; apricots, 12 to 14c.; pears, 12 to 14c. Canadian onions, $2.25 to $2.30; cocoanuts, $3 to $4 per 100 lbs.; figs, 10 to 12c.; washed currants, 6-crown, 1-lb. cartoons, 8 to 8½c.; Sultanias, 10c.; Sultana raisins, 7 to 8c.; Grenoble walnuts, 13 to 14c.; Chili, 12 to 13c.; Brazil, 12 to 13c.; filberts, 9½ to 10c.; almonds, 13 to 14c.; roasted peanuts, 9 to 10c.

DAIRY PRODUCE—Stocks of cheese in first hands are pretty well cleaned up, and the supply in the city is not large, so that there is rather better feeling in the market. There is no change in price. Butter is slow and there is still a quantity reported through the country, holders there asking a price above the market, but not holding as firm as last season. Its lesson, however, does not seem to have been learned by all. The worst feature is the quality is not first-class. Creamery at a fair price would sell, but is not to be had. Poor creamery is not in it. Some Manitoba creamery received here has given good satisfaction. Eggs are again high. Some preserved, which have been sold here, have given good satisfaction. For strictly fresh high prices are paid. We quote: Common dairy butter, 15 to 16c.; dairy, 17 to 18c.; new creamery prints, 23 to 24c.; cheese, 8½ to 9c.; creamery, tubs, 20 to 21c.; eggs, 16 to 17c. by case.

MOLASSES—By last steamer one hundred casks of Barbadoes arrived, which is most unusual at this season. Prices tend in Barbadoes rather easier; in many cases quality is below the average. A small quantity of extra quality Porto Rico is still here and is held firm, while New Orleans in barrels is very firm at advance of two cents spoken of, and unless there is an easier feeling at place of production a further advance is looked for. These goods are filling a long felt want, being in good barrels of about forty gallons. Flavors and colors being good there is a very steady demand. Syrup is also selling freely, demand holding better than usual. Some two-pound tins are in the market, but principal sale is in bulk. We quote: Barbadoes, 30 to 33c.; Trinidad, 32 to 34c.; Porto Rico, 34 to 36c., bbls.; New Orleans, 34 to 35c.; St. Croix, 31 to 32c.; syrup, 36 to 38c.

SUGAR—There is lighter movement during the week, and though there is no advance, there is a firmer feeling. There are good stocks held by some dealers. We quote: Granulated, 4¾ to 4½c.; yellow, 3½ to 4c.; Paris lump, 5¼ to 5½c.; powdered, 5¼ to 5½c.

FISH—There is not a large movement. There would have been a quantity of frozen fish shipped but for soft weather. Stocks of pickled are not large. In smoked the market is still very dull, with price ex vessel 4c. in large lots. Dried are firm, with few arriving. In boneless cod there is a good, steady demand. We quote as follows: Fresh haddock, 2¼ to 2½c. per lb.; dry, $1.50; large cod, $3.60 to $3.75; medium, $3.35 to $3.50; pollock, $1.50; bay herring, $1.25 to $1.30 per half-bbl.; Rippings, $1.65; Wolves, $1.85 to $2; PROVISIONS—Market still rules very low, with fairly large stocks of barrelled pork and beef held here. In lard low prices continue as in all pork products. The demand is not large. We quote: Clear pork, $15 to $15.50; mess, $14 to $14.50; P. E. I. prime, $11 to $12; beef, $13 to $14; pure lard, 9 to 9½c.; compound, 7¾ to 8c.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL—We mark Manitoba rather lower again this week, with all grades of Ontario easy. There is rather an easier feeling in Ontario oats, though oatmeal shows no change. Cornmeal is still at the low figure quoted, which tends to lessen the sale of feed and low grade flour. Hay is firm at quotations, with light business here. Yellow eye beans are easier, while other grades show a rather firmer feeling. We quote as follows: Manitoba, $4.40 to $4.50; best Ontario, $4 to $4.10; medium, $3.70 to $3.80; oatmeal, $3.50 to $3.65; cornmeal, $2.30 to $2.35; middlings, $19 to $20 on track; bran, $18 to $19; hand-picked beans, $1.25; prime, $1.20; oats, 33 to 35c.; hay, $12 to $12.50; pot barley, $4; round peas, $3.65 to $3.75; split peas, $3.70 to $3.80; yellow eye beans, $1.85; buckwheat meal, $1.30 to $1.35.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Hugh Stevens is settling with his creditors at 25c.

Sussex shipped a car of live turkeys to the American market, some 700 in all.

A flour mill is being built at New Glasgow. It is to be first-class in every way.

This is pancake season, and C. & E. Mac-michael are finding an increased demand for "Aunt Emily" pancake flour.

John Sealy shipped a quantity of frozen fish west during the week. He is particularly well situated to do this business.

The steamer Ontario, in discharging salt into a scow, had the misfortune to have it fill and sink, losing some three hundred bags.

The creditors of George Babcock, formerly Babcock & Short, have decided to accept a compromise. Liabilities about $1,500; assets about $900.

It is very satisfactory to our people to note that goods for Montreal by the Lake Superior, via St. John, arrived there at the same time as goods from other steamers at other ports, which arrived some days before. Let Canadian business build up Canadian cities.

Mr. Jardine, the representative of the Pure Gold Co. here, is particularly well pleased with his year's business. The newest thing in the way of a package seen in this market, and one of the most useful, is the lamp chimney, in which they are offering a brand of their baking powder.

Many more of G. J. Hamilton & Son's biscuits and candies are noticed among our retailers this holiday season than ever before. Quality is one reason, and the fact that they are now represented by a permanent representative is another. It is reported they will put a team on in the spring.

The steamer Duart Castle, from the West Indies, landed this week 50 bags cocoanuts, 700 casks Barbadoes molasses, 200 barrels oranges; also a quantity of limes and lime juice. The Concordia, from Glasgow, had 80,000 brick, 146 bags fire clay, 400 tons coal and a quantity of goods. The Lake Ontario had 150 cases oranges, 700 sacks salt, 200 boxes Sunlight soap, together with a large quantity of sundries for here and west.

Another example that THE GROCER is alive was noted last week. The paper comes to hand on Saturdays, and the other Saturday morning a merchant said THE CANADIAN GROCER should take up the matter of the unfair duty on transhipped goods, and spoke of figs. When this paper came to hand a few hours later the leading article was on the very subject, and our merchants are very much pleased to see it taken up. They are much opposed to the regulation. Speaking of figs, however, I understand that those bought in Liverpool, and which paid the extra duty, were, this year, landed cheaper than the direct shipments.

HALIFAX TRADE GOSSIP.

TRADE during the last two weeks has been what may be called slow. We are not having holiday weather. We want snow and cold, but we are having open weather—warm and with rain, and not a sign of snow or frost. This week, being Christmas week, we expect snow and frost, but both are tardy about putting in an appearance. A visit to the different leading firms shows that while there are many purchasers none of them appear to want to buy anything of an expensive nature, in fact sales in the city are all on a small line.

Commercial travelers report business dull throughout the province, and in the city trade is not up to the average of former years.

POULTRY—The market is well supplied with poultry, most of which came from Ontario. J. A. Leaman & Co. received a couple of carloads, most of which was exhibited at the live stock show at Guelph. The open weather has proved bad for this line, and on Christmas eve the best line of turkeys could be had at 14 cents retail. Geese and chickens sold in proportion.

PROVISIONS—The demand for beef has not been heavy. First-class Ontario stocks were offered this week at $5.50, with few purchasers.

EGGS—It was expected there would be a good demand for eggs at this season, but this expectation did not materialize. On Christmas eve, the best fresh stocks only brought 22c., while lime stocks sold as low as 14c.

BUTTER—Local butter factories, as well as those of P. E. I., in the absence of a market in Newfoundland, are sending their output to this market; nevertheless, prices seem to hold their own. Good dairy and creamery rolls and prints sold this week at from 22 to 25c., and dealers report business good.

FRUITS—Both green and dried fruits have been in good demand, although prices remain unchanged.

BREADSTUFFS—The markets are steady, with a fair demand for all the flour offering, as the stocks here still continue comparatively light. Everyone, however, looks for easier prices a little later on, but from millers' reports west we doubt if much, if any, lower prices will obtain, as millers claim that the stocks of wheat on hand are small, and that farmers' deliveries are slow and light.

Oatmeals are quiet and very cheap. We have heard of some offerings by the carload as low as $3.20, but we think that first-class stock is worth a little more. For choice rolled oats jobbing prices would be 15 to 25c. higher.

Corn meals are steady, with an active demand. Prices quoted, about $2.20 for car lots. Jobbing prices are not very much higher.

Oats are steady; western a trifle easier.

Beans are low, probably never cheaper in the history of the bean market.

Hay is firm.

FISHSTUFFS—We are deeply disappointed at the result of the year's fishing operations, more particularly in mackerel and cod fish. The total catch of these two articles is fully one-third less than last season, and that was not up to the average. Good quality herring are also very scarce. The catch of West India grades is fully up to all requirements, but real fat, well cured herrings sell readily at an advance. Smoked herrings still keep low; the quantity cured is large.

PRODUCE—Most of the P. E. Island produce laden vessels have disposed of their cargoes, and we can now look for an advance. Prices range at present at from 22 to 25c. for potatoes and 18 to 20c. for turnips. Large lots sold at lower rates.

Robert G. Lindsay, grocer, Maynard street, died last week. Several weeks ago he stepped on a nail and blood poison set in, resulting in his death.

Says a local Charlottetown paper: By a telegram received by Supt. Dillon, yesterday from Harvey & Co., St. John's, Newfoundland, they purchased 5,000 lbs. of butter from the Central Creamery at a paying price. This firm had taken from 15,000 to 18,000 pounds this season before this purchase. The shipment was made by the Stanley this morning. This shows how much more profitable it is for our farmers to make butter than have the raw material wasting on their premises.

The firm of James Scott & Co., previous to selling out to Captain Allen, finally settled with their creditors. The liabilities amounted to about $54,000, some $16,000 of which were preferential claims. The $16,000 was paid in full, including $12,000 to the Merchants' Bank and $2,000 to John Duffus. The remaining $38,000 liabilities were settled on a basis of 25c. on the dollar. In order to complete the settlement it was necessary to use $6,000 of insurance effected on the life of the late James Scott. Alex. Scott withdrew from the establishment at the time the purchase was made by Capt. Allen. The remainder of the staff will be retained, including Mr. Grant, bookkeeper for many years for the late firm.

Ephraim Leard, grocer, Charlottetown, is receiving the congratulations of his friends. The happy woman in the case is (or was) Annie G. McLean, of Lower Bedeque.

The Halifax and Porto Rico Steamship Company, of which Pickford & Black are the agents here, intend running a service between Halifax and Porto Rico ports. The first steamer will be the "Kitty," about 7th January, 1896, to be followed by steamers at regular intervals. H. T. Knowlton, of Messrs. Miller, Bull & Knowlton, was here last week looking over the ground, and the above is the result.

WOODSTOCK MARKETS.

WOODSTOCK, Dec. 24.—There has been a good holiday trade. But the produce trade is, after all, that which tells for success, and that is not very satisfactory. Cheese has been so low that farmers have received much less for milk than in former years. There is, however, but little stock now held. In butter, prices continue low with a good deal yet in firm hands. Quality is but fair. If it were good, there would be little trouble. The soft weather was disappointing to those having poultry to sell for Christmas, and meant quite a loss. Oats are in fair demand only, and the poor quality keeps price down. Nothing more can be expected until the farmers clean their oats. Hay is a brighter spot, and prices are firm with upward tendency, the principal demand being from the American buyers. Eggs are also good sale at higher prices. Preserved eggs, where the work is well done, are finding better demand than formerly, they giving good satisfaction. Pork is plentiful and very low, with no encouraging feature. We quote: Hay in barn, $8; pork, 4½c.; butter, 15 to 16c.; oats, 26c.; beef, 5c.; potatoes, 60c.

CHARLOTTETOWN MARKETS.

The week has shown little change; the close of regular navigation tends to lessen activity. Butter is plentiful, and pork remains low, being easy at quotations. Potatoes show no advance. Hay, eggs and oats are firm. Poultry has been a feature of the market for the past week, and good prices have ruled. We quote: Hay, 30 to 40c. per cwt.; oats, 28c. per bush.; eggs, 18 to 20c.; pork, 4½ to 4¾c.; butter, 17 to 18c.; potatoes, 16c.

The trade paper reaches into general trade, and absorbs that line of business which is pertinent to the class it illustrates.

TRADE CHAT.

Sam Dodge has charge of the grocery department at Ramsay & Co.'s store, Plattsville, Ont.

The by-law, to aid by way of a loan of $5,000, Theo. Zoellner & Co., furniture company, of Mount Forest, was carried on Thursday by a good majority.

The Ridgetown Diamond Roller Mills closed down Saturday for three months. During that time the old machinery will be taken out and replaced by the latest and best.

Next year is leap year, and another leap year will not come around until 1906. This condition has not occurred since 1696, and will not occur again until 2060. So say the "figger" heads.

The liquidators of the Commercial Bank, Winnipeg, have applied for and obtained a summons for a call on the shareholders of that institution on account of the double liability they are under.

The past year has brought out a novelty in the canned goods line in the way of canned molasses. The first grade of Louisiana open kettle molasses is used. It is put up in gallon tins, with no reboiling, and is guaranteed to keep in any climate.

Messrs. Gilbert and Duntin, of Salford, Ont., and A. W. Nagle, of Ingersoll, intend taking a trip to the southern states for the winter. Should business prove satisfactory they will move there in the spring.

The wholesale grocery trade of the United States is making a lower net percentage of profit on their gross sales than for 30 years past. It is the low percentage of profit which the trade is working on that disheartens the wholesale grocer as well as the retailer.—Retail Grocers' Advocate.

John Mulvey, grain merchant, Toronto, is dead, aged 62.

W. Turriff, a merchant of Alameda, died at the general hospital, Winnipeg, last week, where he had been for treatment for an internal disorder. He was 36 years of age.

John Baldwin, formerly a resident of Woodstock, has purchased the business of John Gillam, butcher, Norwich, and removed into the house owned by Mrs. Paulina Mott, north of the old school building.

The farmers' deliveries to Manitoba elevators are large, and wheat is being sent forward to Fort William from these points at the rate of 100 cars a day. The amount in store at Fort William is now over 2,000,000 bushels.

The Canadian Pacific Railway announces a heated car service from Winnipeg to Portage la Prairie, Brandon and intermediate points for the conveyance of perishable freight during the winter months. No extra charge beyond the ordinary freight rates is made for this service, which means an express service at freight train rates. The cars leave Winnipeg every Tuesday and Friday; freight should be delivered at their freight shed on the previous day.

A. and A. Davis have returned to Brockville from their trip to London, Ingersoll, Woodstock and other cheese centres in Western Ontario. They found that large quantities of cheese are still held by buyers who are unwilling to sell at the current prices, as that would mean considerable loss. These western buyers made the mistake of not unloading at the time of the last advance in the English demand, which is now low.

"Do you love me?" said the paper bag to the sugar.

"I'm wrapped up in you," replied the sugar.

"You sweet thing!" murmured the paper bag.

The Manitoba Free Press comes out with a very fine illustrated Christmas number. Several pages of the edition are devoted to Manitoba's prosperity this winter, and to the crops and improvement in trade upon which this prosperity is based.

PERSONAL MENTION.

W. O. Macpherson, of Hamilton, is spending the holidays in Philadelphia. Mac. had on so many good clothes when he went away that some of his friends wonder will he return—alone?

Mr. W. J. Solomon, representing J. M. Fortier in the west, has left Montreal for Toronto with a fresh line of samples for the coming year and reports that the new cigar, "Dina-myte," is in great demand in Ontario.

The brothers James and Robert Gowanlock, with Perkins, Ince & Co., left for New York on Tuesday, where they are spending their Christmas holidays. A number of the "boys" went down to the station to see them off. New York's 400 now number 402.

CROCKERY

If you want to buy china, crockery or glassware, go to the store of JOHN SMITH.

Lamps, and all kinds of lamp goods.

JOHN SMITH,
656 Blank Street.

The above advertisement is above the average. It has the effectiveness of brevity, and the headline is large enough to be readily seen by would-be crockery buyers. I criticize it because it advertises four classes of goods, and does not present any specialty or any one article in particular. Half the possible crockery buyers don't realize they need crockery until their attention is called to some particular crockery article they are short of. If the housewife is out of tumblers, she is not impressed with an advertisement speaking of crockery, china, glassware, and lamps. To sell her tumblers, it is necessary to bring tumblers vividly before her. The advertisement of teacups, and nothing else, will make her look at the teacups to see if she is short, and if she is, she is liable to buy some of the man who was kind enough to call her attention to the deficiency. The advertiser need have no fear that if he advertises one particular article folks desiring other articles will ignore his store. The principal object of advertising is to get people into the store. The goods and salesmen must make the sale. Advertising of one thing at a time will bring people into the store, as well as to sell the article advertised, and other articles. Advertise lamps one day, some particular class of crockery the next, china teacups the next, the next day speak of tumblers, and so on, one thing at a time, and a new advertisement every time. I rewrite the advertisement, illustrating the one-idea method of successful publicity.

DID YOU HEAR IT?

THE CHRISTMAS
BELL

I am a bell, a Christmas bell, and when that day is here, with joy do I begin to swell;
my voice gets loud and clear.
I can't keep still because I feel that Christmas feel, you know, and so with laughter do I peal, and thrill from top to toe, I vibrate with pulsations keen from early morn till night, and not a thought that's low or mean can wing its crooked flight through air that's penetrated by the sounds of my rich voice. And that is just one reason why on Christmas you rejoice, and feel so good towards everyone; because you see, just when your petty troubles have begun to pierce your mortal ken, my voice comes ringing through your ears. "Heigho! it's Christmas time," you say, "Away all doubts and fears! I keep your hearts in chime.
And so let Christmas reign o'er all,
and with your hearts quite free, come gather near my silver call and have a chime with me."

A GREAT DISCOVERY.

Mr. Chas. B. Knox, of gelatine fame, has purchased the entire outfit of the Egg Preserver Co., and will put this article on the market. Price not known; but it is a large one, for it is the greatest discovery of the nineteenth century, says a contemporary. The eggs shown at the last test had been kept 13 months and 9 days, and at no trouble. October 1, 1894, 20 dozen of fresh laid eggs were purchased and treated by the new Preserver and laid away in boxes and baskets in a dry cool room: January 1, 1895, and every month after, some were taken out, broken and cooked by experts, and all pronounced them fresh laid.

As it will only cost 1/2c. per dozen to lay down the eggs, it is a big profit on the investment for everyone. Also the ease with which it is done; simply treat the eggs while they are fresh and lay away in a basket or box, no turning or looking at them until you want them; nor can you tell an egg has ever been treated from its appearance.

"OBSERVER" BURIES THE HATCHET.

EDITOR GROCER,—Pardon me for again trespassing on your valuable space, in stating that "Rambler" is right in one particular, and that is, I have no time to waste in answering his ramblings. He alone is answerable for the mud and in strewing the dirt, as he terms it. He asks for charity. I grant it him freely, as he appears to be serious, but he should in future enquire more carefully into "tales" which may be told to him before rushing into print without proving them.

He admits in his letter that he has been misunderstood to the injury of others. This then should be a lesson for him to do unto others as he would be done unto, which means, let other people's business alone and attend to your own.

I took his letter personally merely as a joke, and intended mine to be such in return, relating an accident which he knows happened for the basis of my story. However, in future I shall regard him as being serious even in his ramblings, and I am glad to know that he has ill-feelings towards none. He should be thankful for that and act accordingly. I am more than thankful that I cherish no ill-will toward any man, and I most heartily wish all a happy and prosperous New Year.

PICTOU, N.S.

There is always a "best" in everything.

This time it is starch—Edwardsburg Starch. Anything we didn't know about making starch when we commenced business in 1858, we have since learned, and as we manufacture from nothing but purest selected corn we feel justified in calling our preparations "the best."

What a trial will do.

It will transform incredulity into enthusiasm. It will turn cautious samplers into liberal buyers. Hundreds of dealers who "shied" at B.F.P.
